Exponentially Increasing Levels of Awareness

When enough people become aware, something really good is going to happen.

The 911 Truth movement has really taken off this year, attracting a whole new crop of academics and even movie stars to the cause.

As Gandhi said with reference to those who oppose the truth: “First they ignore you. Then they ridicule you. Then they fight you. And then you win.” The terrorism of 911, Israel’s vicious assault and battery of a prone nation and everything in between—all of these desperate actions provide proof that the Beast is in its death throes. It is OVER except for the manifestation, which should be wondrous indeed.

In this issue we conclude John Kaminski’s Mindlock series, which appropriately ends with a focus on the moneychangers. Continuing with Part 3 of Gold and Other Interesting Things, we pick up the trail of the so-called Yamashita gold. Final Warning Part 5 delves into the Rockefeller clan’s grip on the energy and economy of the USA.

With the passing of the fifth anniversary of 9-11 we present an article written by Jerry Mazza documenting the amazing involvement of Rabbi Dov Zakheim (the man who somehow “lost” a trillion dollars of taxpayers’ money). Truth, anyone?

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OF INCREASING AWARENESS

What follows is drawn from my own individual understanding of information assimilated from the Phoenix Journals and the once-frequent meetings with Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn. If it doesn’t match up with something you are predisposed to believe, please don’t allow that to distract from the larger point being made, which is: We are undergoing a period of exponentially increasing awareness.

The Cosmic Calendar (also known as the Mayan Calendar) ended on August 16, 1987. God breathes out and breathes back in again. Owing to the scale of the great cycle which ended at that point, there is a PAUSE period of some twenty-five years between the out-breath and the in-breath. It is during this pause that we create the Age to come by what we choose to think and do.

This pause period is symbolized in the CONTACT logo on the masthead of this paper. It is the small horizontal “jog” in the “lightning-bolt” line which pierces the inner ring of the larger circle (which marks the boundary between this “plane” and the next).

A lot of people believe the Mayan Calendar does not end until December 2012 and that fits neatly with this analysis because 1987 plus the twenty-five year period referenced above comes to 2012. The fact that many people are focused on “the end of the world” in 2012 is significant, too, because it means they are confronted with their own attitudes concerning that event. They are, in fact, as stated above, creating the Age to come by what they choose to think and do. So, there’s no real argument here but simply a different perspective.

Anytime we talk about TIME we must confront the fact that time is an ILLUSION: All we ever have, time-wise, is NOW; everything that has been or ever will be—exists right now, in this moment. Time is simply a function of AWARENESS and amounts to nothing more than a change of PERCEPTION.

If every manifest human on the planet was aware of the reality of the situation—that a tiny handful of adversarial elite have subjugated mankind with the illusion of “money”, or perceived lack thereof—the illusion would evaporate in an instant and all of mankind would experience God’s abundance immediately. In Truth, then, the ONLY thing preventing the new Golden Age is a lack of awareness.

“Are people EVER going to wake up?” Every day more and more voices are added to this chorus. It’s difficult to quantify that statement, however, because we do not have access to a single data series which we could directly correlate with the number of people who have “woken up”. Moreover, there are obviously many “shades” or levels of awareness. We can, however, hypothesize a data series based on the observation of growth progressions in Nature.

Have a look at the graph on this page and you just might get a glimpse of what the “future” holds in store as mankind awakens.

The data for the graph is based on the work of an Italian mathematician named Fibonacci, who came up with a simple numerical sequence to define growth progressions in Nature. The numerical sequence begins with 0 and 1. Each new number in the sequence is simply the sum of the two numbers which precede it. So, 0+1=1; 1+1=2; 1+2=3; 2+3=5; 3+5=8—and so on, providing the sequence: 1, 2, 3, 5, 8, 13, 21, 34, 55, 89, 144, etc. Graphing these numbers over time produces the picture of a NATURAL growth sequence.

As a bit of a side-note: If you substitute 1,000 for the starting number in the sequence, saying there were 1,000 sufficiently aware individuals in 1987, you get to 144,000 in 1998, just before the midpoint. And if you assume we have “made it”—then perhaps the much-vaunted “144,000” were aware ENOUGH by 1998? NEVER UNDERESTIMATE “THE WORD” AND THE IMPACT MADE BY THOSE LITTLE WHITE BOOKS, THE PHOENIX JOURNALS. Indeed, thank you, Dharma for your immeasurable contribution.

If awareness is increasing, and it surely seems that is the case based on recent World events (consider the 911 Truth Movement or the people of the World’s nearly unanimous and INSTANT negative reaction to Israel’s aggression against Lebanon) then this graphical representation is perhaps as close as we can come to painting a picture of Increasing Awareness.

It is highly noteworthy that the Global Alliance Certificate of Debt against the United States Treasury, guaranteed by the Federal Reserve System, was perfected in 1999, just before the MIDPOINT in this twenty-five year pause period. More noteworthy still was GCH’s 1999 statement: “This time you made it.”

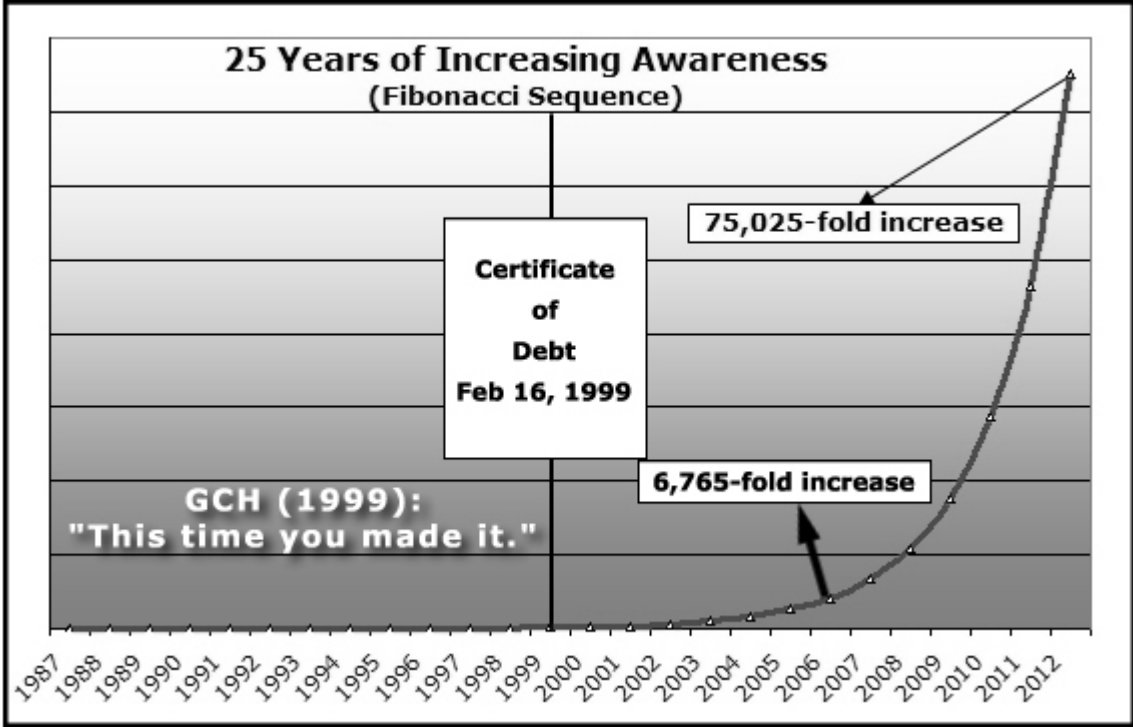

This time, this Age, we made it: For the first time in man’s long history the end of an Age has not been followed by a return to the Stone Age. This time the spark of awareness was strong enough to ensure persistence of its ongoing exponential increase. Global Plan 2000, the adversary’s plan, was prevented. We have seen the stage set for the “usual” Armageddon script to play itself out—but it has not.

Based on the natural Fibonacci growth progression, here in 2006 (with 19 years completed in the Fibonacci sequence) there has already been a 6,765-fold increase in awareness since 1987. Everything the Bad Boyz do in evil intent is being exposed almost instantly now. Too many plausibly-deniable agents were left out in the cold and too many people took exception to the adversary’s plans too early. There simply was too much awareness of what was PLANNED to happen.

The Divine Gift of Bonus 3392-181, the basis of the Global Alliance asset, was only made possible through George H.W. Bush’s agent, Russell Herman, who decided that enough was enough. And wouldn’t you know: God arranged things so Russell Herman’s intentions in goodness could, would and did persist.

We had to chuckle a little bit recently when from “out of Africa” came the “rumor” (from very well-placed sources, apparently) that the United States Treasury and Federal Reserve are BANKRUPT. It is, of course, no rumor, but we must yet await perceptions catching up with reality.

Looking ahead in time on the graph, assuming that increasing awareness will continue to follow a natural rate of growth, the level of awareness in 2012 will amount to more than a 75,000-fold increase from 1987 levels, approximately ELEVEN TIMES as great by 2012 as it is today. Somewhere between now and then it is going to be exceedingly difficult for the tiny handful of dedicated elite adversarial players to maintain subjugation of the HUMANS (those with a conscience) on this planet. And that, friends, is very GOOD NEWS.

M&M MADNESS

Move over, Monjoronson, Maitreya, Melchizedek, Mammon and other members of the “M=13” misfit miscreants. Make room for MOLOCH! We are reviewing a new book by daring Canadian author R. Duane Willing entitled, The 12th and Final Religion: God Moloch, Money, Israel and Cult 273. If the book is half as good as the title suggests, this author is going to need our support and we’ll be sure to obtain a quantity in order to make it available at a reasonable cost.

Moloch is, of course, the god of the Bohemians, as in those degenerates who meet annually at the Bohemian Grove to “sacrifice care” (conscience) in pursuit of the subjugation of their fellow men. Symbolically, of course (?) what they sacrifice is a BABY. It is hard to believe these weirdos have been allowed to just “do their thing” for this long.

Feel free to share your Franklin Cover-Up books with friends, who just might be ready and more able to handle the truth now.

These are the same “laugh up their sleeve” guys who put the symbols on the American currency, including that tiny little owl at the top-left of the number 1, on the top-right corner of the one-dollar bills. And let’s not forget the symbol of Moloch embedded in the Washington, DC street layout.

Moloch’s minion VK Durham (self-admitted agent for the U.S. Treasury), possibly aided and abetted by her friend and ally “Mammonator”, continues to thrash about in her wine-fogged stupor making more meaningless mush-mouthed statements like this masterpiece: “August 23, 2006 the PHILIPPINE Al Qaeda associated with LEO WANTA and VICE PRESIDENT CHENEY..which also involves THE WHITE HOUSE..make public and send out through the U.S. Mail...” blah-blah, to the effect that Global Alliance Deeds of Assignment are somehow “counterfeit”.

No, there is no possibility of counterfeit with the Global Alliance Program, VK: Our Deeds of Assignment are quite original, as you KNOW. And no matter how much you allege a “link” of some kind to nefarious persons there is NONE: We have ZERO to do with Al Qaeda, Dick Cheney or Leo Wanta and his trillions of “dollars”. Our program is based on HARD STUFF, the real thing: GOLD. It is hard to imagine the SHAME you have brought and are bringing upon yourself, VK. Have a look at the graph on this page again and please, for your own sake, think about what you are doing—and for whom. You really ought to know better.

OTHER INTERESTING THINGS

Life is getting more and more interesting all the time here in the Philippines but we’ll leave it to Jerry Schnoebelen to keep you up-to-date with the political situation in the World News Desk section. What is very interesting for EJ and myself to observe is the tremendous impact the latest Tallano Foundation Powerpoint presentation has on the average Filipino. If you haven’t seen it yet, you can download it from the all-new Tallano Foundation website: <TallanoFdn.com>.

As you can see in the Public Notice section, the Tallano Foundation has served notice on the President of the Philippines with regard to termination of the 55-year lease of 400,000 metric tons of gold, which is private (not government) property and the legacy of the Filipino people. This should explain why we are re-running the Gold and Other Interesting Things series.

Finally, it is worth mentioning that an attorney here in the Philippines told us that the “CONTACT in Manila!” UFO picture has become the subject of some interest with the Discovery Channel people. Please let us know if you see it on TV in your part of the world!

That’s all for now but “stay tuned” because the acceleration into Goodness promises to be very exhilarating. Just look at the graph!

Gold and Other Interesting Things Part 3

In the full telling of the tale, the purported “Marcos” gold and the fabled “Yamashita Treasure” are intimately tied in with the Tagean-Tallano gold (the legacy of the Filipino people) which is the subject of a very important Public Notice on page 14 in this issue.

CHAPTER 7 YAMASHITA OR NOT

After the death of Lieutenant-General Tomoyuki Yamashita, stories about his secretly possessing one of the greatest treasures of all time quickly spread like wildfire. In 1953, President Elpidio Quirino announced that he would release some Japanese soldiers who were still imprisoned in the Philippines for war crimes, in exchange for Tokyo’s cooperation in an official probe to determine once and for all whether [or not] Yamashita had, indeed, left behind billions of dollars worth of treasure. The inquiry was to be headed by an American of Japanese descent, Minori Fukumitsu, who worked as one of the investigators of the Allied War Crime Tribunal. Nine months later, all that was unearthed, according to Fukumitsu, was a few old coins. Before leaving the Philippines, he said that no evidence was found to show that the treasure ever existed.

In 1955, another joint operation by the Philippine and Japanese governments was started. The maritime project called for the salvaging of about 269 Japanese vessels sunk during the war. About 124 vessels were located in Manila Bay, while the rest were spotted in other parts of the country. As soon as the salvaging operations began, rumors began to spread that the vessels were filled with gold bullion and then deliberately scuttled for future retrieval. None of the rumors were ever substantiated. Undoubtedly, the rumormongers were inspired by the little-known story of the ill-fated Japanese ship Awa Maru. This could also have been the reason why Fukumitsu, whenever the question of the treasure’s existence came up, would refute the possibility with “messianic zeal”. The less people knew about the treasure’s existence, the better for Fukumitsu’s bosses.

On April 1, 1945, around ten o’clock in the evening, U.S. Commander Charles Loughlin of the submarine Queenfish sighted a Japanese destroyer, the Awa Maru, and immediately ordered his crew to fire on the enemy ship. Four torpedoes found their mark. According to the ill-fated ship’s lone survivor, a steward, the vessel that sank was a hospital ship painted with huge white crosses, which had been guaranteed safe passage by the United States. Its mission was to “deliver Red Cross packages to Allied prisoners of war in Hong Kong, Saigon, Singapore and other areas, and then pick up wounded Japanese soldiers and bring them back to Japan. The vessel, which sank 14 miles off the Chinese mainland, was on a return trip to Japan when blasted by Loughlin’s men.”

Later, it was discovered that the ship carried with it an inventory of “forty tons of gold, twelve tons of platinum, 2000 tons of tungsten, 3000 tons of tin, 3000 tons of rubber in bales, 2000 tons of lead, 800 tons of titanium, 500 tons of brass and bronze, two tons of quicksilver, about 150,000 karats of diamonds, forty cases of jewelry and numerous crates of art, all plundered by the Japanese occupation forces.” Again, Fukumitsu denied that the Awa Maru was a treasure ship.

Charles McDougald, the man tasked by the Aquino Administration to find out the truth, both about the legendary treasure of Yamashita and the Marcos gold, disagrees with Fukumitsu. In his best-seller, Asian Loot, McDougald writes:

“There are stories that a relative of the Emperor devised this grand scheme (like the Awa Maru case), along with Field Marshall Hisaichi Terauchi, commander of the Southern Command in the Pacific. The Fourteenth Army in the Philippines was a part of this command.... Supposedly the gold, silver, coins and jewels were sorted and crated at the country of origin before being shipped. This visible cargo was either destined for the Philippines or for Japan via the Philippines, since the route usually included a stop there. Most of the treasure was transported there first, and for whatever reason most of it never left there.”

In 1970, interest in the fabled Yamashita Treasure was renewed with the discovery of a golden Buddha by Rogelio Roxas, from the mountains surrounding Baguio. This time, Fukumitsu did not come out with a denial.

Rogelio Roxas, a locksmith from Baguio, started treasure hunting in 1962. He went around the provinces of Nueva Vizcaya, Nueva Ecija, Cagayan and the Pinatubo area but never found more than a few old coins and some Japanese weapons and ammunition. In May 1970, a Japanese named Fushugami gave Roger a map showing a treasure site. Fushugami claimed to have been part of a war corps of engineers who had buried some treasure at the height of Yamashita’s retreat.

Aside from this rare discovery by Roxas, no other evidence indicating that the treasure of Yamashita really existed was ever found. Clearly, the Japanese succeeded in shipping everything that was looted to Japan. It was to be Tokyo’s solid investment and contribution to the all-powerful rulers of the world, the Illuminati, which helped transform Japan into a superpower despite its humiliating defeat in the hands of the Allied Forces.

Others, however, insisted that the bulk of the missing treasure was still in the Philippines. Some linked the fabled wealth to the equally famous Marcos Gold Haul. One of those who showed exceptional interest in the search for the elusive gold bullion was Charles McDougald, who stumbled upon the story of a treasure hunt headed by Marcos while working on a book about the Filipino strongman.

“After the revolution, twenty-two Louis Vuitton suitcases were found at a home in the exclusive suburb of Dasmariñas Village. The suitcases were secured with locks and tape and appeared ready to be shipped somewhere. An inventory placed their value at P236 million ($11.5 million). In addition, a Greek jeweler was stopped at the airport before he could leave with several suitcases of jewelry, which he admitted belonged to Imelda. They were valued at P15 million ($732,000). More pieces were found stored in the vault at the Central Bank.”

Other expensive items like jars of perfumes, dresses and shoes were also included in the inventory. Today, however, no one can say whether [or not] the items are still intact. Talk has it that certain influential relatives of Cory Aquino borrowed some [pieces] of the jewelry and never returned them. [H: Wow, it begins to have some rather sinister aspects, does it not?]

McDougald was involved in quite a number of diggings overseen by the Aquino Administration, although no official admission of a gold discovery was ever issued by him or by any of those involved in the operation. Thus, no one could ascertain how much of the Marcos gold bullion still remained untouched. The Napindan Channel digging was one of the more successful operations to date.

In June 1992, industrialist Enrique “EZ” Zobel called for a press conference in Manila and revealed that Marcos had shown him a thick sheaf of gold certificates in 1988, the value of which was estimated at $35 billion, for which Marcos expressed his desire to give most of the gold back to the Filipino people. Marcos and Zobel worked closely to set up a foundation for this purpose. Unfortunately, Marcos died in September 1989, even before the papers could be signed.

The truth of the matter is, Marcos had since been certain about the rich Zobel’s close association with the Americans. So in his deep desire to make known to a few credible witnesses his intentions to give back the majority of his earthly possessions to the Filipino people, he personally hand-picked Zobel to opportunely confide his wishes to, while at the same time putting out in the open exactly how much his wealth was truly worth. In fact, he deliberately altered his own signature to mislead any possible forgers or impostors after having duly updated and rearranged all his existing accounts in 1987. The document in Zobel’s possession is just one of those with his deliberately altered signature.

Marcos’ new accounts cannot be touched without four required factors being met: Imee Marcos or General Fabian Ver for FM’s side; the Philippine Government; the new trustees and the bank concerned, with the entire palm imprint of the assigned trustees accompanying the certificate legibly signed by Marcos himself—FERDINAND EMMANUEL EDRALIN MARCOS. The Philippine government’s participation in the claim, as required by the Marcos will, will warrant the fulfillment of his will and testament: to give to the Filipino people that which is now rightfully due them.

Apart from the Zobel declaration, there were also the Hirschfield tapes, wherein Marcos clearly admitted that he still had gold buried in the Philippines valued at $14 billion. With these findings, McDougald could only comment, “Most stories about the golden treasure are fairy tales, but this one isn’t.”

CHAPTER 8 OPERATION TUNA HIGHWAY

“How could anybody have 600 metric tons of World War II gold tucked away in his basement? And 1,000 tons more in his beach cottage, and 500 tons more in the basement of a warehouse down the street? Plus still some more on four levels beneath a nearby bank?”

With these questions in mind, it is obvious that Sterling Seagrave, author of The Marcos Dynasty, is convinced that the fabled Yamashita Treasure and the Marcos Gold Haul are one and the same thing. But how could this be possible when, according to this same investigative author, “Ferdinand went into partnership with various Yakuza bosses and the CIA, helping them finance intrigues from Australia to Iran, in return for CIA help, airlifting out the contents of his vaults?” If this were so, why was there no leakage of information to the U.S. and Japanese governments or the powerful Trilateral Commission, knowing how these groups operate? The world’s financial oligarchy has been searching for Yamashita’s treasure since 1945. Wouldn’t it have been proper for them to be informed of its discovery?

“Operation Tuna Highway”, the secret hauling operation, involved huge shipments “with total sums so large that they strain credibility to the breaking point”. Why did the CIA do nothing to intercept such “Cassandra Crossings”, when they were in a good position to do so? The gold hoard was soon gradually, and in trickles, moved after Martial Law, before the strongman’s ouster from power.

At this point, we reiterate what we earlier said: The Japanese Imperial Forces successfully shipped out all of the alleged Yamashita Treasure from Singapore to Tokyo prior to America bombing Hiroshima and Nagasaki. So where did Marcos get his fabulous wealth? From the Central Bank?

“Massive secret gold shipments did take place from the Philippines during the twenty years Ferdinand was President. This gold did not originate in the Central Bank or from mines like Benguet, although it was often presented as such,” Seagrave admits. “To be sure, gold was stolen regularly from Benguet by its own employees. The original mines, situated in the crater of an extinct volcano, were plagued by theft. Miners called ‘high graders’ smuggled out the best ore, pilfering 16 percent of gold production each year and selling it to a Chinese syndicate.”

It was an entirely different ballgame in the case of the Marcos shipments, “since the quantities involved were far in excess of the Philippine government’s known bullion reserves.” According to Seagrave’s informants, “Most of the Marcos gold seems to have been sold through Australian, American, Japanese and European intermediaries to oil-rich Middle Eastern syndicates, using devious methods designed to avoid agitating world gold prices. Other secret deals were made directly to the gold pools in Zurich and London, where they were referred to as the ‘Marcos Black Eagle’ deals. Still other contracts appear to have been arranged through the scandal-ridden Vatican Bank, headed by American Bishop Paul Marcinkus.” Marcinkus was one of those especially assigned to secure Pope John Paul II during his visit to the Philippines in 1995.

It is no secret that prices of gold are set by the London gold cartel, operating as “The London Five”. These are: (1) Moccata & Goldsmid; (2) Sharps Pixley; (3) Johnson Matthey; (4) Rothschild’s; and (5) Samuel Montagu. It would have been natural for Marcos to have coursed part of his gold haul through the international gold pools. But what is puzzling is the Vatican’s involvement in purely secular matters like gold shipments—unless, the papal State has interests to protect.

During his valedictory dinner with billionaire-industrialist Enrique Zobel, Marcos spoke about giving the Roman Catholic Church 10 percent of the gold for use in its foreign missions.

Why the Church of Rome, in particular? Why not his native Aglipay Church or, better yet, the Iglesia ni Kristo (INK) which had always supported him politically? Could it be true, after all, that a bigger chunk of Marcos’ hidden wealth originally belonged to the Vatican?

This is no idle speculation, particularly in the light of Seagrave’s findings that the Marcos gold shipments, which involved thousands of metric tons, were “mostly in bars of exotic sizes marked with peculiar symbols not normally used in the international gold trade... with the recurring ‘AAA’ markings.”

A great deal of gold coming from Australia in the past had been poured into ingots, many of which were stamped “AAA”—a trademark familiar to expert traders in London and Australia. Also commonplace Down Under were ingots transferred there for safekeeping from the Dutch East Indies at the outbreak of World War II, stamped “Sumatra Lloyd”, later sold to moneyed Australians. But Yamashita’s forces never reached the Land of the Kangaroos!

Unable to hide inconsistencies in his arguments that Yamashita’s treasure and Marcos’ Gold Haul are one and the same thing, Seagrave tells of an encounter with an American executive who revealed to him that “the gold bullion did not belong to Ferdinand Marcos, although he controlled it.” The gold bullion belonged to “twelve other countries that were trying to get it back”. If this is true, Marcos was entitled to the usual finder’s fee of 50 percent.

Couldn’t this be the same principle being applied by the Ramos Administration in its dealings with the banking Mafia and other claimant countries in the appropriation of the proverbial pie, where every claimant can be happy once accorded its slice of the whole, thus auspiciously averting the global banking collapse and, at the same time, domestically, saving the Philippine economy?

[END OF QUOTING PART 3]

So, this “once upon a time...” story begins to take some shape, doesn’t it? Well, if you don’t see it yet, hold your breath, for you—if you know us—will begin to see a picture forming here.

And no, that gold did not and does not belong to any “12 different countries”—it belongs to US who left it against this day in the hour of change for a world in torment. And how is your day?

CHAPTER 9 TIME TO BUILD A REAL NATION

President Marcos’ new society was “a period marked by unprecedented graft and corruption”, wrote William Rempel of the Los Angeles Times. “Unrestrained by an independent legislature or a free press, Marcos and his wife looted billions of dollars from the impoverished nation’s treasury. The Marcoses’ own financial records, many of which were seized by agents of the U.S. Customs Service in 1986, showed that the President held secret ownership in virtually every industry in that nation—from mining operations and insurance agencies to pineapple plantations and automobile distributorships.”

Just like historian Stanley Karnow, Rempel is of the opinion that the much talked-about Marcos wealth was acquired through kickbacks and other fraudulent means. For example, Karnow sensationalizes the indictment on October 22, 1988 by a New York grand jury, of the Marcoses and eight others, including Adnan Khashoggi, who were accused of embezzling more than $100 million from the Philippine government to acquire three Manhattan buildings, allegedly defrauding American banks to finance the deal. “The investigation,” Karnow adds, “also revealed twenty secret Marcos accounts in a Swiss bank and other clandestine deposits elsewhere.”

So far, none of those accusations have produced positive results for the Philippine government. As of this writing, the Philippine government has yet to receive $500 million from the Union Bank of Switzerland, the first ever to admit that Marcos did, indeed, hold an account with them.

In fact, Karnow admits that the regime which took over from Marcos was a big letdown. “Particularly dramatic were the skepticism, disappointment and apprehension of the groups that had vaulted Cory into power: the intellectuals, businessmen, clergy and Army.” The Army’s five coup attempts during her first 500 days in office were enough to frustrate whatever socio-economic plans her advisers had drawn up for the country.

Instead of leading the newly restored “democratic” government to peace and prosperity as she vowed during the last days of the Marcos regime, Cory Aquino, assisted by her sanctimonious spiritual adviser, Cardinal Jaime Sin, concentrated on passing the blame to her dead predecessor for her failure to improve the country’s condition. Many were simply reminded of her husband’s prophetic words in the summer of 1983. Lamenting the fact that after Marcos would come the deluge, Ninoy stated, “If you made me President of the Philippines today... in six months I would be smelling like horseshit. Because there’s nothing I can do. I cannot provide employment. I cannot bring prices down; I cannot stop the criminality spawned by economic difficulties.”

Not even Rempel’s insulting description of Ferdinand Marcos in his book, Delusions of a Dictator, will help alleviate the plight of millions of Filipinos whose economic state has gone from bad to worse since 1986. Only the Marcos Gold Haul, wisely used, will transform the Philippines into a vibrant economic tiger. And no less than industrialist Enrique Zobel echoes this observation: “It is not yet too late... Perhaps if the next President of the Philippines and the Marcos heirs can come to an amicable settlement of the issue, we can all benefit from it. Otherwise, our people stand to lose all of the wealth that Mr. Marcos apparently had deposited in various parts of the world, with his bankers being all the richer for it and us all the poorer.”

It is said that, “History is nothing but a recorded lie.” Unfortunately, Karnow and Rempel have not changed all that. Prejudice rides herd over historical writing.

The new breed of revolutionary Filipinos, the self-styled liberals of today’s secret societies, are seeing a marvelous opportunity for themselves in this. Just like their grandfathers, they know that the only American policy toward the Philippines and other former Spanish colonies has been, consistently, to help fan the fires of revolution. U.S. Presidents Polk and Buchanan easily distinguished themselves the most by carrying out this imperialist policy, which until today is pursued by America’s leaders.

There are many insights in Philippine history which have been suppressed by the U.S. Government through State Department carpetbaggers and spooks from the CIA and other related agencies, all of which are making things hard for contending political factions in the Philippines to “get their act together” for the good of the country and its people.

Americans will always stick their fingers into our political, educational and cultural institutions, always attempting to carve us “in their image”. But for as long as genuine patriotism prevails in these 7,100 islands, their dream of installing a permanent empire in the Philippines will never succeed.

President Ferdinand Marcos has bequeathed to us eighty percent of his wealth. It’s time we recover it and build for ourselves a truly great nation.

It has been assessed that the total worth of the earthly possessions of the late President Marcos runs to a trillion dollars, inclusive of interest earnings from the gold bullion certificates, precious metal certificates, bonds, securities and real estate holdings.

CHAPTER 10 THE BATTERING RAM

Since the search for the so-called Marcos Fortune began, the nation has been treated to all sorts of reports about cash being stashed in the banks of Switzerland, and gold bullion at Fort Knox, the Bank of England and many places in the Philippines. The diggings at Fort Santiago, sanctioned by no less than President Aquino’s National Security Adviser, showed how much the government put its faith in the story of the hidden gold treasure.

The diggings have stopped but, unknown to the public, a small group of men continues to operate at People’s Television 4 station under the tutelage of Conrado Limcaoco Jr., for no higher purpose than to pursue leads about the Yamashita Treasure with the assistance of Noel Soriano, the National Security Adviser of Cory Aquino.

In the last failed coup, military rebels claimed to have carted away from PTV-4, documents pertaining to this gold search. On the basis of these papers, the Rebolusyonaryong Alyansang Makabayan—Soldiers of the Filipino People Young Officers Union—claimed that the Limcaoco group had recovered some gold and had gathered facts that lead them to believe the Yamashita Treasure exists but they appeared determined to hide this from the Filipino people.

Limcaoco denies the charges. But he does not deny the existence of his work and what he has been doing. He says that the group’s task is to evaluate every bit of information that comes along, without prejudging it. Most of what comes along is mind-boggling, but Limcaoco says he is not prepared to reject anything.

Based on the group’s work, on October 10, 1989, Limcaoco’s staff prepared the draft of a report to President Aquino, which proposes to tell all. Limcaoco says he never signed the letter, and that it was not sent at all. But even without the final signature, and without it having been sent, the letter reads better than a story, whether factual or fictional.

The following is Limcaoco’s letter to Mrs. Aquino:

FOR YOUR EYES ONLY

10 October 1989

CORAZON C. AQUINO
President of the Philippines
Malacanang, Manila

Dear Mrs. President,

I have never wavered in my commitment to serve you and our people over the past few years. Even in our bleakest moments, I was confident we would triumph—and thus far, we have.

In the course of tracking down the right-wing military adventurists, a task which is continuing, we have unearthed a story—parts of which you may have heard before—but which we feel deserves a serious second glance at this particular historical conjuncture.

I ask you to please read through this report personally and not show or pass it on to other officials of this government until we have had the chance to meet, should you feel such a meeting is necessary after going through this.

Please suspend your judgment and disbelief and know that this report was written after much in-depth intelligence work and soul-searching on my part.

I. Background/Premises

Our work thus far supports the contention that the Yamashita Treasure does exist and appears to be the basis for the Marcos’ hidden wealth. What has been recovered and sequestered to date is not even the tip of the proverbial iceberg.

Over 90% of the world’s legal and illegal gold production were in Asia at the outbreak of World War II. Why? History will tell us why. From the galleon trade where spices and silk were traded for gold and other precious metals to the days before World War II when the Europeans, fearing a war in the West, moved their gold to their Asian colonies and former colonies for safekeeping. Thus, England moved their gold to Malaysia, Singapore, Hong Kong and Australia—France to Vietnam, and so forth. The rest you know. The Japanese brought the gold here and had to leave it here as they retreated in defeat.

From 1967 to 1973, Cipirino Garcia Sta. Romana found some of this gold and began shipping it out of the country, mostly to the PROC (Peoples Republic of China). In 1973/4, Sta. Romana signed a power of attorney over the gold to Marcos. More of the treasure was found with the help of treasure maps, foreign treasure hunters and the AFP (many of the retired generals now in Hawaii) in subsequent years. It was either (1) shipped out as is, (2) laundered via the Central Bank reminting facilities and through other means and then shipped out, or (3) reburied under the custodianship of trusted subalterns or heirs. Further, there reportedly is still 35-37% of the treasure still to be discovered—which the likes of Noel Soriano and company have set their eyes on.

II. The Global Implications

There is a forty (40) year period within which another country may claim treasure/property taken from it with another country. This period lapsed in November 1985.

An interesting question is—who owns the gold? Or better still—who wants the gold? Technically, now the people of the Philippines can lay some claim to the gold, assuming Marcos was not an innocent “finder” or “treasure hunter” entitled to a share, but instead used his position and influence to find it, ship it out and even sell some of it. To answer the questions—

The countries of Europe want the gold! They believe much of it was theirs to begin with. They want or need it so much they are even willing to buy some of it back. A 1983/84 sale we are reconstructing indicates that the 11 monarchs of Europe syndicated a deal involving over 120 banks with the Bank of England as the lead bank to buy back some of the gold. This transaction is known by the code JOB/HK/25, which I will detail later.

The 12 Asian countries conquered and plundered by Japan in World War II want the gold! They believe they have a stake in this as it was from their countries that the Japanese took it from. Marcos struck deals with many of these Asian countries. He shipped back some of the gold to them in return for the share in the booty. For example, the gold shipped back to Singapore, Malaysia, Indonesia and India are reportedly split now at 70% for the particular country and 30% for Marcos. Japan allegedly has been promised 50% of Marcos’ 30% in these Asian settlements. Mrs. Yamashita has alleged shares in some of the gold stock in Asia. I will also detail this later in this report.

The United States of America wants some of the gold! The U.S. had virtually no gold of its own to begin with. They need it to back their currency and to stave off economic difficulties. Marcos shipped large stocks of gold to the U.S.A. Marcos allegedly committed to sell 300,000 metric tons of the gold to the U.S. Obviously, the Asian countries and the Europeans would look with displeasure at this—if they knew about it or could prove it. We have evidence that at least 2 major sales were negotiated with CIA and U.S. Treasury front organizations in 1983/4 and 1984/5. One of these transactions in 1984/5, code-named YAB42, was apparently aborted because of a difference in payment terms. The U.S. offered 20% in cash and 80% in U.S. Government securities.

Marcos wanted 80% in cash and 20% in securities. The amount involved is staggering. A taped conversation with one of the buyer negotiators indicates that senior executive officials of the U.S. Government during the period had to get Congressional approval to increase the U.S. foreign debt to accommodate this deal. As late as mid-1986, U.S. officials were trying to convince Marcos to conclude the deal in Hawaii. In 1987, feelers from their front organizations—e.g., Navegacion Global’s Mr. Bullock—were sent to this Government. (A letter from Mr. Bullock was received by Malacanang Records Office last October 8, 1987 and is enclosed as Annex A.) I believe some of our people may have even sat with Mr. Bullock. I do not think they knew what Bullock was really up to—or understood or believed him if he told them. We allegedly have gold sitting in U.S. depositories—which the U.S. Government wants badly. They reportedly cannot release their new “rainbow dollars” (multicolored dollar bills) that are already printed without this gold to back it up.

III. The Marcos Scheme of Things

Marcos compartmentalized this whole operation so that very few could piece it all together. We have managed to assemble quite a number of Marcos’ real operating people—those that shipped the gold out, found the buyers, negotiated the transactions. We are slowly piecing the puzzle together.

For each Marcos account, whether in cash or in bullion, there are assigned trustees and signatories—some of whom do not even know each other. There are secret bank/depository arrangements such as access code and security countersigns.

Before his death, Marcos organized what is called THE UMBRELLA, a network of 54 people whose task is to manage these assets in the event of his death. In theory, The Umbrella, not Mrs. Marcos or his children, would execute his will. At least two members of The Umbrella’s inner core of about one dozen are already working with us. The Umbrella has never been tested in action before. Marcos has never died before. Those who now work with me, tell me that the Chairman of The Umbrella is a very decent man who can be talked to on behalf of our nation. Apparently, there is no sharp cleavage between this group (family, heirs, followers, etc.) and Imelda’s. Most of what we know is FM’s, not Imelda’s. It is doubtful that even she would know all of FM’s holdings. The destabilization efforts will most probably come from Imelda’s camp—not surprisingly. Marcos is reported to have revised his will a few months before he died, asking former Solicitor General Estelito Mendoza to Hawaii for this purpose. Imelda was reported vehemently against the revision. We are trying, through The Umbrella, to get a copy of this will.

Exactly how much gold is involved? The estimates vary, and understandably so because of the complex shipping procedures and the compartmentalized nature of the operation.

I have seen documents saying that the gold under the control of The Umbrella (there are smaller stocks not reported to or controlled by The Umbrella) is in the neighborhood of 1.33 million metric tons (MT). Whether one believes this figure or a lesser figure is not material, given the magnitude of the entire scenario. One metric ton of gold is worth about $11 million. The Philippines’ annual gold production is estimated at between 40-60 metric tons. The world’s “legal” annual gold production, which is regulated by the London gold cartel so as not to upset gold prices as well as the value of currencies of the world, is estimated at between 1,200 to 1,400 metric tons.

So, where is the gold? How much of it have we traced thus far?

IV. Where is it?

Our sources left out the volume figures for countries other than the United States, which are relevant for understanding points raised in other sections of the report. We do have the detailed breakdown of these other accounts in the other countries but thought it best to omit these for now. The volume/amounts involved are staggering and may be subject to misinterpretation. There is admittedly a possibility in some instances of double-counting an entry because of the process of shipping and laundering the gold from one country to another. We can present the figures per country and per bank should you wish to see them.

Whatever volume figures are ultimately believed or proven, the magnitude remains astounding. The gold was shipped out in a span of more than a decade from the late sixties to the mid-eighties. In the later frenzied stages, from 1983-85, all forms of transport were used, from commercial and/or chartered ocean vessels and aircraft to the military aircraft of the Philippines.

A. Asia

1. PROC—in various depositories in Southern China & Switzerland; joint IRM/FM stock—an amount allegedly given to Mao Tse Tung by IRM, 1973, now with Madam Mao
  2. Singapore—in three banks in Singapore; banks and signatories identified—an amount reportedly given to Lee Kuan Yew by IRM in 1975, now in Tatlee Bank, Singapore
  3. Malaysia—in Bank Negara (Central Bank), shipped 1973
  4. Indonesia—in at least 4 banks in Jakarta, 9,600 MT sold in 1987 for FM to Union Bank of Switzerland
  5. India—in various depositories; one 94-year-old trustee identified
  6. Hong Kong—in 10 Hong Kong banks; banks, signatories, account numbers, etc. identified
  7. Marianas—in private storage, IRM’s stock; trustee identified
  8. Palau—in private storage, IRM’s stock, trustee identified
  9. Philippines—4,600 pieces, 75 kgs. in 18 identified banks in Metro Manila—more in private storage, some identified—more still to be dug up estimated at 400,000 MT

Remembrance of Trillions Lost

EJE Status Report

This well researched article reaches back in time to investigate the career and meteoric rise to power of Rabbi Dov Zakheim. This elite minion simply “lost track of” $2.3 TRILLION. Oh, well? Events like 9-11 are the result of long-term diabolical planning and looking at Mr. Zakheim’s credentials leaves little room to doubt his part. We thank Jerry Mazza for permission to reprint this piece.
[QUOTING:]

RECHERCHE DU TRILLIONS PERDU
By Jerry Mazza, Online Journal, 7/20/06

Pardon my bebop French, paraphrasing Marcel Proust’s famous novel, Recherché Du Temps Perdu, which is about his childhood memories flashed to life by a piece of tea-soaked toast whose taste reminds him of a childhood cookie. In my case, Recherché du trillions perdu (Remembrance of trillions lost) was triggered by seeing that tidbit Donald Rumsfeld gave us on September 10, 2001: that the Pentagon could not account for $2.3 trillion dollars. It had vanished in the rabbit hole and the story was buried the next day under the rubble of 911. Merde.

And in fact Rummy lamented that was $8,000 for every man, woman and child in America. One Jim Minnery, a former marine turned whistle-blower, risked his job at the Defense Finance And Accounting Service when he asked about the millions missing from one defense agency’s balance sheets. Minnery attempted to follow the money, criss-crossing the country looking for clues, only to have his boss look at him and say, “Why do you care about this stuff.” He was reassigned and the booboo written off.

And the memory flashes forward to January 31, 2005, and the Pentagon announces that Rabbi Dov Zakheim, the Pentagon Comptroller, has Misplaced a Trillion Dollars. In fact, al Jazeera (of all news outlets) reported a “General Accounting Office report found Defence inventory systems so lax that the U.S. Army lost track of 56 airplanes, 32 tanks and 36 Javelin missile command launch-units.” How could all this have been lost in my memory? Of course, Rabbi Zackheim resigned, complaining that the pressure of keeping track of all that loot was too much trouble.

Yet this conflicts with other reports saying Dov was the Mastermind Behind 911. In fact, the Stephen St. John Article tells us that Dov Zakheim was chief executive officer of System Planning Corporation’s International Division, that is, yes it’s all coming back now, till President George W. Bush made him undersecretary of defense and comptroller of the Pentagon. In fact, he rose like a star over the Pentagon’s labyrinth of marble hallways, boardrooms, inner and innermost offices.

And if memory serves, before that, from 1985 to 1987, he was under secretary of defense for planning and resources, and held various senior Pentagon posts in the Reagan madhouse. Before that with the Congressional Budget Office. Then on to Corporate VP of Systems Planning Corporation, a high-tech research, analysis, and manufacturing firm, then Chief Executive Officer and President of SPC International, Inc. In 1998, Zakheim, expert in ballistic missiles, worked with the Rumsfeld Commission. And more, yes, he is a long-time Bush crony, policy advisor to Governor Bush in the 2000 campaign theft. Yes, it all comes back.

In fact, in addition to his System Planning Corporation stewardship, he co-authored the now infamous article, “Rebuilding America’s Defenses: Strategy, forces and Resources for a New Century”, published, yes, by The Project for a New American Century (PNAC) in September 2000, exactly a year before 9/11. In his piece, he gave us that now infamous page 51 on which he wrote that “the process of transformation, even if it brings revolutionary change, is likely to be a long one, absent some catastrophic and catalyzing event, like a new Pearl Harbor.” Merde.

I’m aware this is old history but it’s flashing back, saying look at me, don’t forget. SPC produced remote control airborne vehicle technologies, and Zakheim had the Pentagon means to pay for them. Also, System Planning Corporation markets the technology to take over the controls of an airborne vehicle already in flight. For example the Flight Termination System technology could literally hijack the hijackers and land the plane safely wherever it wanted.

The Flight Termination System can be used with the CTS technology that can actually control up to eight vehicles at the same time. Just go to SPC’s site. It’s all there, better than United Flight 93 or Oliver Stone’s sleepy World Trade Center. It all comes back now: the technology developed in the late ’70s after the first terror hijackings that then got into the wrong hands. And Zakheim’s proximity to what Stephen St. John calls the Command Control Communications Network in DC interwoven with a cousin network of Zionics if not bionic neo-cons. Merde. Je ne suis pas fou. I am not crazy. They are.

And so one is left with that aftertaste of acrid smoke, lingering for months, a huge gray cloud hovering over the WTC ruin, the sharp blue sky of September, the white gold sun ennobling it with an eerie beauty even in catastrophe. One remembers, even when one wishes to forget. But remember we must, over and over, and learn the lesson, or be doomed to live it again. Merde.

RE: FOUNDATION, GAIA ET AL.
MANILA, PHILIPPINES

My last status report was 8/12/06, just yesterday. I surely cannot complain about time dragging; more like whooshing.

FOUNDATION

Progress? Maybe I should attempt to define progress, the objectives we have, and then it will be easier to track progress. First a little background. The Peruvian bond called Bonus 3392 was payable in gold but we could not collect that much gold from the U.S. Treasury or the FED. Even if they had agreed to pay it, it would have to be in more “valueless” fiat paper because they didn’t have enough gold and would not give up what they had. Russell Munk, the Chief Legal Officer of the UST, said that we could use the UST debt as banking reserves to buy gold offshore if we could find a cooperative bank, preferably a Central Bank that would issue the money to buy the gold. That led to the invention of the GAIA Program wherein we offer two-and-one-half times as much collateral (in the form of the GAIA DEED) so that there is enough gold purchased for a Joint Venture Partner Project Proponent to get the funds he needs for his project and leave half for GAIA in the form of gold.

We were already aware that there was a lot of gold in the Philippines due to the adventures of Mike Blinston/Rose, Father Ed Cleary, and Gunther Russbacher so when Commander Hatonn suggested that we could help Imelda Marcos reclaim some of her wealth that had been wrongly claimed by the Philippine government and that government had just been turned into a friendly government by the election of Joseph Estrada, a friend of Imelda, off we flew to Manila, expecting to have it set up and operational in a couple of weeks. When we failed to break through the screen to Imelda we were advised to back off and try another route directly to the government. It turned out that the screen around Estrada was just as impenetrable as the one around Imelda.

The World Gold Council was reporting that the Philippines had 200 plus metric tons of gold as reserves worth some $2 billion in its Central Bank so we proceeded to issue a few DEEDs on the theory that as soon as we got started more gold would come in. After a few months we learned that there was no, or very little, gold left in the CB, that it had been shipped to London where it could be “leased out” to provide some income, meaning that there was no gold left in the CB. In retrospect, we have to suspect that the gold was put into a “high yield trading program” and lost like so much other money going into that financial “black hole”. The International Bankers are perfectly happy fleecing nations as well as corporations, counties (remember Orange County, California—$3 billion), cities and pension plans all around the world. Finding no gold here in the CB and being told that there was other treasure-type gold, we changed our program to require that the Project Proponent locate and assure GAIA of sufficient gold to fully fund his DEED. We soon had a whole cadre of Marcos minions fetching Project Proponents to get DEEDs to use up all of the gold they had “rights” to. What we didn’t know was that some of them were getting front money from the Project Proponents, which is not legal and when we learned about that we terminated our relationship with most of them and cancelled most of the DEEDs issued to their Joint Venture Partners

We still needed a supply of gold, however, and so we kept the door open to people who wanted to furnish the real gold first and then get their DEED. We have sorted through more than 100 and still no real gold. They have been abused by the CB, the police and military to the point that they don’t dare bring forth any gold for fear that they will be tortured to tell where the treasure is hidden so we really need a friendly government that will provide protection and amnesty to those who can supply the gold. That is a long introduction to why we got involved with the Foundation but locating 400,000 metric tons of gold having been leased to the government with the lease ready to expire was, and is, attractive, especially as it is backed up by many court cases and documents. It is all on the GAIA website under Tallano Foundation, Documents. It is illustrated beautifully by Ron’s Power Point Presentation plus movie that only takes a click of the mouse on the movie button under the main menu on the home page of the website: www.globalallianceassn.com. He has changed it a bit to be more graphic so you might want to play it again.

With that background, discussing goals and objectives should be more meaningful. Many of you will recall that we were supposed to plan and execute a “model city” at Tehachapi, complete with Futuronic Studio, premanufactured Dome Homes, and so forth. We had estimated the cost of that model to be about $2 billion. Of course that was 15 years ago and prices have gone up. Are we still supposed to do that? I don’t know; I do know that we are supposed to do this and maybe it took that to get us to do this.

We came to Manila to raise money for a lot of projects, including Sipapu and the movie set at the Robbers Roost and it was only after we got here and could see the desperate conditions that the financial depredations of the International Banking Cartel (IBC) had caused in this part of the world that we began to see the bigger picture. When we started trying to figure out how they did it and what could be done to “fix” it, it finally dawned on us that the GAIA Program could be used to put a gold base under currencies worldwide and unwind the strings of money control that had been used by the IBC and their fiat currency coupled with debt and usury to enslave whole nations. When Doris used to say, “It just grows bigger and bigger—it is too big for us,” that is what she referred to, not the amount of money involved. To think of unenslaving 6 plus billion people in the face of the most powerful forces on the planet was more than she could manage most of the time. When God/Aton/Allah reassured us that it could be done she could go back to the keyboard to keep us moving in the right direction.

When the worldly financial wizards pontificate that the gold market will drop out of sight if more than a few hundred tons are put up for sale, one wonders how the value of the gold and any currencies based thereon will be maintained in the face of the knowledge that there are suddenly a known 400,000 tons all mined, refined, and in bullion bar form. We soon figured out that that is what the GAIA 50% is for: to act as a “Gold Price Stabilization Fund”. With the cooperation of its participating Central Banks, GAIA can stand ready to buy or sell virtually any amount of gold that comes to market, or that someone else wants to buy, at a price that maintains all gold-based currencies at a par with each other.

The effect is to remove the profit from “currency trading” and remove the control of currency values from the IBC and its daily “London Fix” via the IMF. This permits every nation to control the amount and value of its currency so that it can develop and pay for its infrastructure without any outside funding or the payment of any interest to foreign lenders or investors. Just being able to keep its money at home will make a huge difference and when the participating nations realize that they do not need to tax their people and they do not need to sell their natural resources to get “foreign exchange” with which to buy needed commodities from other nations, they will have regained their sovereignty.

There are additional objectives, some of which fit with the Foundation. For instance, President Marcos and President Ronald Reagan are alleged to have jointly planned and partially implemented a program called Ang Bagong Lipunan (ABL), which was a gold-based currency printed in the Philippines. It is said that they exported thousands of tons of gold to some 50-60 nations to serve as the basis for the ABL and were stopped by the IBC-orchestrated kidnapping of Marcos and his continuing detention in Hawaii. Some or all of that gold may have been taken from the 400,000 tons leased by the government and, if so, that gold still belongs to the Foundation. GAIA has a plan that will allow the receiving nation to take possession of the gold in exchange for debt to the Foundation with no disruption of the international financial structure.

The back pages of this issue and the previous issue of CONTACT show actions that are being taken to gain control of the formerly leased gold and the information under the Tallano FDN button on the website quite adequately fleshes out the basis for those actions. There are many more that are not disclosed yet. Yes, we are making progress in the context of our objectives even though the political situation here is not yet conducive to fast action. About that we are doing what we can to make people aware of the available alternatives because it is a matter of self-determination.

The Bacolod attorney is getting some favorable response from the newspapers in his area and the man who was here for several days and who introduced us to Tonga has returned to San Francisco. He is working on getting some publicity there where there are some 6 Filipino newspapers.

TONGA

The KING has died! Long live the King! (The new King, that is—the son of the old King.) Up to now we have no idea what to expect from the Crown Prince-turned-King so we will have to wait awhile to see what will happen there.

PAPUA NEW GUINEA

No progress (that we know about). The Filipino ABL signatory for a gold deposit in Port Moresby seems to have disappeared.

SUDAN

The main news there is that the UNITED NATIONS Nobel Peace Prize recipient Elie Wiesel (EL’-ee vee-ZEHL’) and actor George Clooney are taking the struggle over human rights in Sudan’s Darfur region to the United Nations. That looks like a Zionist ploy to get its surrogate in control there. The U.S. wants in there, too, as does China so it a long way from settled.

PAKISTAN/KASHMIR

Our Pakistani friend who lives here and is visiting in Pakistan and is related to the new Prime Minister of Kashmir has fallen off our radar scope. Haven’t heard from him for 3 weeks.

SOUTH AFRICA

Carol and her husband are traveling, semi vacation. She can stay in touch via email so she can track what we are doing and also keep in touch with her contacts in SA.

OIC

Mrs. Arroyo stubbed her toe badly when she opted not to sign the OIC chastisement of Israel over the Lebanon and Gaza matters. Our southern friend has been quiet although we have spent considerable time with a group the leader of which is running for Mayor of Zamboanga City.

PHILIPPINE POLITICS

Most of the Overseas Workers “trapped” in Lebanon are settled back down there. As predicted the Impeachment Complaint was killed by the bribed Administration Representatives since they outnumber the ones in favor of impeachment and the rules here allow only one impeachment per year. Maybe the masa will find another way. Mount Mayon has settled down some and a few of the people are being allowed back in. The next crisis is an overloaded single-hulled (they are required to have a double hull) oil tanker sank in the middle of a lot of nice islands where the people make their meager living as fisherfolk and are now out of a livelihood. Mrs. Arroyo is not having it easy these days.

PERSONAL STUFF

Ludy finished her accounting program and is looking for and English class. She can read and speak English but not as easily as desired. She works a full-time hotel maid’s job 6 days per week so she doesn’t have much time—has to do her school at night. She is so dependable and trustworthy that with a few more skills and training she can be a crackerjack secretary. She has a knack for anticipating what is needed and moves to have it handled in advance. That is not a common male Filipino trait.

We now have three pigeons to feed. Fortunately for the rice supply they don’t come regularly.

I reported that the passport finally arrived and that Tom Taylor was able to get a 2-month extension on my Philippine Visa so that all ended well. Bad for the blood pressure while it was going on, however.

Yesterday I made the rounds of the laboratories to get all of the blood tests, echo cardiogram and stress test again to check progress. I have been off the blood pressure meds for two weeks which seems to elevate the bp about 10 points, not a danger at all. I will take the last GHR tablets for the first 3 weeks tonight. You take 4 at bedtime for 5 consecutive nights and then miss two so I am taking them only on weeknights to make it easier to keep track. I did not flunk stress test this time; I did 5 of the maximum possible 9 minutes and recovered nicely so no panic stop this time because the bp stayed within bounds. I’ll get the results of all the tests next week. I am really enthusiastic about the GHR as a replacement for the HGH injections described in the RESETTING book. It is still expensive at about $50 per month but I am going to stay with it for several months and give it a good trial.

SUMMARY

Ron is writing his update as a first article in the next issue so I won’t usurp his subject. I know you will all find it very interesting. Our best to all.

EJ & Ron

Ellen at IESC, who pays many of our bills for us, is running low on funds. May we ask those of you who can to send her some help? We thank you and assure you that she keeps track so that it can be returned. EJ & Ron

Final Warning: Part 6

In this part of Final Warning the history of the Rockefeller clan and their attainment of power in the U.S. is covered. Specific details are given regarding the power of the purse and control of oil and transportation. Follow the evolvement of this clan and you reach an understanding of the Illuminati formula as applied to any of these families of Satanic power. [QUOTING, emphasis added:]

THE ROCKEFELLER FOUNDATION
The Rockefeller Family:

- John Davison Rockefeller, Sr. (1839-1937)
- John Davison Rockefeller, Jr. (1874-1960)
- John Davison Rockefeller, III (1906-78)
- Nelson Rockefeller (1908-79)
- Laurance Rockefeller (1910- )
- Winthrop Rockefeller (1912-73)
- David Rockefeller (1915- )

John Davison Rockefeller (1839-1937), grandfather of former Vice-President Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, and David Rockefeller (head of the Chase Manhattan Bank) was the richest man of his time. He started out in 1859 as a produce merchant, turning to oil in 1865, at the age of 26. In 1870, when Standard Oil of Ohio was incorporated, Rockefeller controlled 21 out of 26 refineries in Cleveland. By 1871, Standard Oil was the largest refining company in the world. In 1879, he controlled over 90% of all refined oil sold in the country, with 20,000 producing wells and 100,000 employees. In 1884, he moved his main office to New York City; and by 1885, Standard Oil virtually controlled the entire oil industry in the United States, and had set up branches in Western Europe and China.

The Rockefellers and Rothschilds have been partners ever since the 1880s, when Rockefeller was able to get a rebate on each barrel of oil he shipped over the Pennsylvania, Baltimore and Ohio railroads, which were owned by Kuhn, Loeb and Co.

In 1888, details concerning the Rockefeller Oil Trust began to leak out in the newspapers. In Ohio, at the time, a company within the state could not own stock in a company in another state, which occurred when Rockefeller bought out smaller companies. Using the secret Trust, which was established in 1879, the trustees for the companies that had been taken over, the 37 Standard Oil stockholders and Standard Oil of Ohio, relayed all out-of-state subsidiary stock to three clerks from Standard Oil. In 1882, the three “dummy” trustees, 42 Standard Oil stockholders and Standard Oil of Ohio transferred all its stock to nine trustees, who were controlled by Rockefeller. In March 1892, the Ohio Supreme Court ordered Standard Oil to withdraw from the Trust, after Ohio and other states outlawed trusts. Rockefeller countered by moving Standard Oil to New Jersey, who allowed their corporations to hold stock in out-of-state companies, thus, Standard Oil of New Jersey became that holding Company.

In 1889, Rockefeller helped establish, with a grant of $600,000, the University of Chicago. He promised to support the school for ten years, which he did, donating $34,708,375. In 1901, he incorporated the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research (now Rockefeller University), with a grant of $200,000. In 1903, he established the Rockefeller General Education Board, which he donated $42 million to, within a two year period (and $129 million in total). The Board was organized by Fred Gates, the front man for the Pillsbury flour company. In 1909, the Rockefeller Sanitation Commission was established, to which he gave $1 million.

Rockefeller’s goal was for Standard Oil to be the world’s only refining company, and to that end, it was alleged that he blew up a competitor’s refinery in Buffalo, New York. He owned large blocks of stock in quite a few newspapers, including the Buffalo People’s Journal, the Oil City Derrick (in Pennsylvania), the Cleveland Herald, and the Cleveland News Leader. He had contracts with over 100 newspapers in Ohio to print news releases and editorials furnished by a Standard Oil-controlled agency in return for advertisement. He “owned” several New Jersey and Ohio state legislators. Rep. Joseph Sibley, of Pennsylvania, was President of the Rockefeller-controlled Galena Signal Oil Co.; and in 1898, Rep. John P. Elkins, also of Pennsylvania, accepted a $5,000 bribe from Standard Oil. In 1904, Sen. Bois Penrose of Pennsylvania received a $25,000 bribe from Rockefeller, and Sen. Cornelius Bliss received $100,000. Others who received Standard Oil bribes: Sen. Matthew Quay (PA), Sen. Joseph B. Foraker (OH), Sen. Joseph Bailey (TX), Sen. Nathan B. Scott, Sen. Mark Hanna( OH), Sen. Stephen B. Elkins (WV), Rep. W. C. Stone (PA), and Sen. McLaurin (SC). President William McKinley, through Sen. Mark Hanna, was a pawn of Standard Oil and the bankers.

The “rebates” Rockefeller received from various railroads were actually kickbacks. These rebates made it possible for him to keep his prices lower so he could bankrupt his competition. He said: “Competition is a sin.” Standard Oil also made kickbacks , in the form of stock, to railroad people, such as William H. Vanderbilt, who received stock without contributing any capital, as did various bankers who lent money freely to Standard Oil.

Willie Winkfield, a Rockefeller messenger, sold evidence of Rockefeller’s bribery to William Randolph Hearst’s New York American for $20,500 and Hearst revealed the information at election time, in an attempt to get the Rockefeller stooges out of office. In 1905, an expose’ by Ida M. Tarbell, called The History of Standard Oil Co., which came on the heels of an 1894 book by Henry Demarest Lloyd, called Wealth Against Commonwealth, began to turn public opinion against Standard Oil.

Robert M. LaFollette, Sr., in a speech to the Senate in March, 1908, said that fewer than 100 men controlled the business interests of the country. However, a few years later, through an analysis of the Directory of Directors, it was discovered that through interlocking directorates, less than a dozen men controlled the country’s business interests. Most notable were Rockefeller and Morgan. On December 13, 1911, George M. Reynolds of the Continental and Commercial Bank of Chicago, said to a group of other bankers: “I believe the money power now lies in the hands of a dozen men.”

In March 1910, Sen. Nelson Aldrich of Rhode Island, introduced a Bill of Incorporation for the Rockefeller Foundation, but it came at a time when there was an antitrust suit against Standard Oil, and the Bill was withdrawn. On May 15, 1911, Standard Oil was found to be in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act of 1890, and the U. S. Supreme Court ordered, in a 20,000 word decision, the breakup of Standard Oil of New Jersey. The Court said that Standard Oil wanted to establish a monopoly in order “to drive others from the field and exclude them from their right to trade”, and that “seven men and a corporate machine have conspired against their fellow citizens. For the safety of the Republic, we now decree that the dangerous conspiracy must be ended...” Standard Oil was forced to dissolve into 38 separate companies, including Standard Oil of Indiana (Amoco), Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio), Standard Oil of Louisiana, Standard Oil of New Jersey (Exxon, which is one of the largest corporations in the world, controlling 321 other companies, including Humble Oil and Venezuela’s Creole Oil), Standard Oil of New York (Socony or Mobil); and others such as Continental Oil (Conoco), Atlantic-Richfield (Arco) , Gulf, Phillips 66, Texaco, and Marathon Oil, which were also Rockefeller-controlled companies. Rockefeller owned 25% of Standard Oil of New Jersey, which meant that he now owned 25% of all 38 Standard Oil subsidiaries. In 1914, the Congressional Record referred to Standard Oil as the “shadow government” and as the extent of its holdings became known, its value tripled.

In May 1913, after three years of Congressional opposition, the New York States Legislature voted to establish the Rockefeller Foundation (now located in the Time-Life Building), “to promote the well-being of mankind throughout the world”. However, a 1946 report stated that the “challenge of the future is to make this one world”. The endowment to establish the Foundation totaled $182,851,000, and was given in securities, enabling the foundation to disperse over $1 billion, even though it is only third in total assets compared to the Ford and Johnson Foundations.

In 1899, with an estimated wealth of $200,000,000, Rockefeller “retired”. But only in regard to being involved in the day-to-day operation of the company. He didn’t officially retire until 1911, when he resigned as President of Standard Oil. He had become America’s first billionaire, yet when he died, he only left a taxable estate of $26,410,837.10, which after Federal and State taxes were levied, left about $16 million. The remainder of his fortune had been left to surviving relatives ($240 million), his sons($465 million), and his foundations.

Rockefeller, said to own 20% of American industry, between 1855 and his death in 1937, gave away nearly $550 million. In 1855, when he was 16, he gave $2.77 of his meager earnings to charity, 1856 ($19.31), 1857 ($28.37), 1858 ($43.85), 1859 ($72.22), 1860 ($107.35), 1861 ($259.97), 1865 ($1,012), 1869 ($5,000), 1871 ($6,860), 1879 ($29,000), 1880 ($32,865), 1884 ($119,000), 1891 ($500,000), 1892 ($1,500,000), 1893 ($1,472,122), 1907 ($39,170,480), 1909 ($71,453,231), 1913 ($45,499,367), 1914 ($67,627,095), and 1919 ($138,624,574 ). He gave $182,851,480 to the Rockefeller Foundation, $129,209,167 to the General Education Board, $73,985,313 to the Laura Spelman and Rockefeller Memorial Fund, and $60,673,409 to the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr.(1874-1960), who was married to Abby Aldrich, daughter of Sen. Nelson Aldrich, according to a February, 1905 McClure’s magazine article, was part of a corrupt political machine. He continued the charitable tradition of his father. He spent over $40 million to buy up land and convert it to National Parks, donating it to the public. The most prominent of these parks is the Jackson Hole Preserve at the Grand Teton National Park in northeastern Wyoming. In 1926, he reconstructed the colonial town of Williamsburg, Virginia, spending $52.6 million to restore 81 colonial buildings, and rebuild 404 others from original plans, on their original foundations. Over 700 modern homes were torn down in the 83 acre area to bring the 18th century town back to life. He also built 45 other buildings, including three hotels to serve the public, and planted gardens.

In 1929, he began building the Rockefeller Center in New York City, a complex of 14 buildings, at a cost of $125 million, which was to surpass the stature of the Dupont’s Empire State Building. The Rockefeller empire is run from the 55th and 56th floors of the RCA building, at 30 Rockefeller Plaza.

Rockefeller was quoted to have said: “So it may come to pass that someday ... no one will speak of ‘my country’, but all will speak of ‘our world’.”

He pushed his sons into five different areas of influence: John III, into philanthropy; Nelson, into government (4-term Governor of New York, and Vice-President under Ford); Laurence, into business; Winthrop, into oil (also 2- term Governor of Arkansas); and David, into banking (Chairman of the Chase Manhattan Bank and Director of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York).

The Rockefellers, undeniably the richest family in America, increased their fortune by marrying into other wealthy and influential families. By 1937, there existed “an almost unbroken line of biological relationships from the Rockefellers through one-half of the wealthiest sixty families in the nation.”

Percy Rockefeller (John, Jr’s cousin), married Isabel Stillman, daughter of James A. Stillman, President of National City Bank. William G. Rockefeller (another cousin), married S. Elsie Stillman.

Ethel Geraldine Rockefeller married Marcellus Hartley Dodge, which linked Standard Oil and National City Bank, to the $50,000,000 fortune of the Remington Arms Company and the Phelps Dodge Corp.

J. Stillman Rockefeller (grand nephew of John, Sr.) married Nancy C. S. Carnegie, the grand niece of Andrew Carnegie. Their son was named Andrew Carnegie Rockefeller.

Edith Rockefeller (John, Jr’s sister), married Harold F. McCormick, an heir to the International Harvester Co. fortune. Their son, Fowler, grandson to John, Sr. and Cyrus McCormick (who invented the Reaper), married Fifi Stillman, the divorced wife of James Stillman.

Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller was married to Mary Todhunter Clark, the granddaughter of the President of the Pennsylvania Railroad. They were later divorced.

Winthrop Rockefeller married Jeanette Edris, a hotel and theater heiress; and John (Jay) D. Rockefeller IV (one of John, Jr.’s grandsons), the family’s only Democrat (2-term Governor, and later U.S. Senator, of West Virginia), married Sharon Percy, the daughter of Sen. Charles Percy, who had been one of the Senate’s most influential members.

All together, the Rockefeller family had been joined in marriage to the Stillman, Dodge, McAlpin, McCormick, Carnegie and Aldrich family fortunes, and its wealth has been estimated to be well over $2 billion. Some estimates even claim it to be as high as $20 billion. To compare, John Paul Getty, Howard Hughes, and H. L. Hunt, had fortunes between $2-$4 billion; and the Duponts and Mellons had fortunes between $3-$5 billion.

Ever since the TNEC hearings in 1937, which convened for the purpose of finding out who was controlling the American economy, the Rockefellers had been able to avoid any sort of accounting in regard to their vast assets and holdings. That ended in December 1974, when Nelson Rockefeller was nominated to be Vice-President. Two University of California professors, Charles Schwartz and William Domhoff, circulated a report called “Probing the Rockefeller Fortune” which indicated that 15 employees working out of room 5600 of the RCA building had positions on the boards of almost 100 corporations, that had total assets of $70 billion. This was denied by the family, and in an unprecedented event, a family spokesman, J. Richardson Dilworth, appeared before the U.S. House of Representatives’ Judiciary Committee during the 1975 “Hearings into the Nomination of Nelson Rockefeller to be Vice-President of the United States” to document the family’s wealth, which he said only amounted to $1.3 billion.

Part of the Rockefellers’ financial holdings consists of real estate, foremost being the 4,180 acre family estate at Pocantico Hills, north of New York City, which has 70 miles of private roads, 75 buildings, an underground archives, and close to 500 servants, guards, gardeners and chauffeurs. They also maintain over 100 residences in all parts of the world. Besides investments held in personal trusts, the family holds stock in numerous companies. Some of their major holdings: Chase Manhattan Bank, American Telephone & Telegraph (AT & T), Eastman Kodak, IBM, General Electric, Texas Instruments, Xerox, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, Monsanto Chemical, Aluminum Co. of America (Alcoa), Armour, Bethlehem Steel, Chrysler, DuPont, General Motors, International Paper, Polaroid, Sears and Roebuck, Standard Oil of California (Chevron), Standard Oil of New York (Mobil), Standard Oil of Indiana, U.S. Steel, International Basic Economy Corp., International Harvester, Quaker Oats, Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel, Itek, Federated Department Stores, Walgreen Stores, Transcontinental Gas Pipeline, Consolidated Edison, Anaconda Copper Co., General Foods, Pan American World Airways, Colgate-Palmolive, E.I. du Pont de Nemours, W. R. Grace, Inc., Corning Glass Works, Owens Corning Fiberglass, Cummins Engine, Hewlett-Packard, R. R. Donnelly and Son, Dow Chemical, Teledyne, Inc., Warner-Lambert, Westinghouse, International Telephone and Telegraph (IT & T), Motorola, S. S. Kresge, Texaco, National Cash Register, Avon, American Home Products, Delta Airlines, Braniff Airlines , Northwest Airlines, United Airlines and Burlington Industries.

The financial core of the family fortune includes the Chase Manhattan Bank, Citicorp (which grew out of the Rockefeller-controlled First National City Bank), the Chemical Bank of New York, First National Bank of Chicago, Metropolitan Equitable, and New York Mutual Life Insurance. By the 1970s, Rockefeller-controlled banks accounted for about 25% of all assets of the 50 largest commercial banks in the country, and about 30% of all assets of the 50 largest life insurance companies.

The Chase Manhattan Bank, however, remains the supreme symbol of Rockefeller domination. Founded in 1877 by John Thompson, the Chase National Bank was named after Salomon P. Chase (Lincoln’s Secretary of Treasury). It was taken over by the Rockefellers in a merger with their Equitable Trust Co., whose President was Winthrop Aldrich, son of Sen. Nelson Aldrich. In 1955, it merged with the Bank of Manhattan (which had been controlled by Warburg; and Kuhn, Loeb and Co), the oldest banking operation in America (founded in 1799 by Alexander Hamilton and Aaron Burr), which had 67 branches in New York, and $1.6 billion in assets. Although it is only the sixth largest bank (over $98,000,000 in assets), it is the most powerful.

In 1961, the Chase Manhattan Bank Plaza was built in downtown Manhattan, at a cost of $125,000,000. It is 64 stories high, with five basement floors, the lowest of which contains the largest bank vault in the world.

They have 28 foreign branches, and over 50,000 banking offices in more than 50 countries, and have a controlling interest in many of the largest corporations in America. Some of those that were listed in the Patman Report: American National Bank and Trust, Safeway Stores, Reynolds Metals, White Cross Stores, J. C. Penney, Northwest Airlines, Eastern Airlines, TWA, Pan American World Airways, Western Airlines, Consolidated Freightways, Roadway Express, Ryder, Wyandotte Chemicals, Armstrong Rubber, A. H. Robins, G. D. Searle, Sunbeam, Beckman Instruments, Texas Instruments, Sperry Rand, Boeing, Diebold, Cummins Engine, Bausch and Lomb, CBS-TV, International Basic Economy Corp., Addressograph-Multigraph, Aetna Life, American General Insurance Co., Allegheny-Ludlum Steel, National Steel.

Men from the Chase Manhattan’s Board of Directors have also sat on the Boards of many of the largest corporations, which have created a system of interlocking directorates. Some of these have been: Allegheny-Ludlum Steel, U.S. Steel, Metropolitan Life, Travelers Insurance, Continental Insurance, Equitable Life Assurance, General Foods, Chrysler Corp., Standard Oil of Indiana, New York Times, Cummins Engine, Burlington Industries, ABC-TV, Standard Oil of New Jersey, R. J. Reynolds Tobacco, Scott Paper, International Paper, International Basic Economy Corp., International Telephone & Telegraph, Goodyear Tire & Rubber, Anaconda Copper, Allied Stores, Federated Department Stores, R. H. Macy, Colgate-Palmolive, Bell Telephone of Pennsylvania, Consolidated Edison of New York, DuPont, Monsanto, Borden, Shell Oil, Gulf Oil, Union Oil, Dow Chemical, Continental Oil, Union Carbide, and S. S. Kresge.

Chase also owned or controlled the Banco del Commerce (with over 100 branches in Columbia and Peru), Banco Continental (with about 40 branches in Peru), Banco Atlantida (with 20 branches in the Honduras), Nederlandsche Crediet (with over 60 branches in the Netherlands) and Standard Bank Group (with over 1,200 branches in 17 African countries).

Through a subsidiary, the Chase Investment Corp., they own a sheep and cattle raising operation in Australia, hotels in Puerto Rico and Liberia, a ready-mix concrete facility in Brazil, a cotton textile mill in Nigeria, a paint factory in Venezuela, a steel mill in Turkey, a petrochemical plant in Argentina, a bus line in the Virgin Islands, and bowling alleys in England.

Our tax dollars, through the Export-Import Bank, International Monetary Fund, Cooperation for Overseas Investment, and the International Stabilization Fund, are used to give aid to other countries, some who were communist. Millions of dollars were given to Yugoslavia, including hundreds of jets, many of which ended up being given to Castro in Cuba.

Chase and the Export-Import Bank financed 90% of the $2 billion loan to build the Kama River truck complex in Russia, which was equipped with the world’s largest industrial computer system, with the capability of producing up to 200,000 ten-ton trucks a year. A U.S. Government official who toured the facility reported that V-12 diesel engines were being produced there, and said: “There is only one vehicle in Russia that uses that type of engine, and that’s a Russian battle tank.” Besides the production of trucks, they also have the capability of producing jeeps, military transports and rocket launchers. The repayment period for the loan was twelve years, with a 4-1/2 year grace period. The loan repayment was guaranteed by the U.S. taxpayers through government agencies like the Overseas Private Investment Corp., and the Foreign Credit Insurance Association.

Chase Manhattan and the Bank of America lent about $36 million for the Bechtel Corp. to build and equip an international Trade Center in Moscow, which had been arranged by Armand Hammer of Occidental Petroleum, a personal friend of Lenin, and son of one of the founders of the U.S. Communist Party.

The Export-Import Bank, and other private American banks also put up all but $40 million for a $400 million fertilizer plant in Russia.

In 1967, the International Basic Economy Corp. (with 140 subsidiaries and affiliates), owned by all five Rockefeller Brothers, run by Richard Aldrich (grandson of Sen. Nelson Aldrich) and Rodman Rockefeller (son of Nelson Rockefeller, and a CFR member); and Tower International, Inc., headed by Cyrus S. Eaton, Jr., a Cleveland financier (who was the son of a man who started his career as secretary to John D. Rockefeller, later making his own fortune), joined to promote trade among the Iron Curtain countries. In 1969 the IBEC announced that N. M. Rothschild and Sons of London had become a partner. This partnership built a $50 million aluminum production center in Russia, and announced a multi-million plan for Russia and other Eastern European countries, which included the building of large hotels in Bucharest, Sofia, Budapest, Belgrade, Prague, and Warsaw; rubber plants, and a glass plant in Romania. In addition, Tower International made an agreement with the Soviet patent and licensing organization, Licensintorg, to promote Soviet-American trade, which up to that time, was done by Amtorg Trading Corp., the official Soviet agency in America. This gave the Rockefellers and Eatens complete control over what technology was sent to Russia.

David Rockefeller, the head of the Chase Manhattan, and the family patriarch, controls many secondary interlocks which contribute to the family’s power and influence. Some of these have been: Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., Honeywell, Inc., Northwest Airlines, Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co., Allied Chemical Corp., General Motors, Chrysler Corp., International Basic Economy Corp., R. H. Macy and Co., Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co. of New York, American Express Co., Hewlett- Packard, Exxon, Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U.S., Federated Department Stores, General Electric, Scott Paper, AT & T, Burlington Industries, Wachovia Corp., R. J. Reynolds Industries, U.S. Steel Corp., Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., May Department Stores, Sperry Rand Corp. and Standard Oil of Indiana.

On July 9, 1968, the New York Times reported on a study by a House Banking Subcommittee, headed by Rep. Wright Patman of Texas, which said: “A few banking institutions are in a position to exercise significant influence, and perhaps even control, over some of the largest business enterprises in the nation.” Just as the Rockefellers have these extensive interlocking connections, other leading bankers, the other 107 directors of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks, and members of the Council on Foreign Relations, Trilateral Commission, and Bilderbergers, also have similar connections to these and hundreds of other major corporations. Now you can see how these like-minded individuals have been able to control American industry and business.

Though the Rockefeller Foundation is the primary foundation of the family, there are many others operated by them, such as the Rockefeller Family Fund, Rockefeller Brothers Fund, Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund for Music, Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial Fund, John D. Rockefeller III Fund, Rockefeller Institute, Standard Oil (Indiana) Foundation, Esso Education Foundation, American International Foundation for Economic and Social Development, China Medical Board, Agricultural Development Council, Government Affairs Foundation, Sealantic Fund (oversees contributions to religious charities “to strengthen and develop Protestant education” to which John Rockefeller, Jr. contributed $23 million), Jackson Preserve, Inc., Council on Economic and Cultural Development, and the Chase Manhattan Bank Foundation. There are some who believe that the Rockefellers may run close to 200 trusts and foundations.

Prior to their appointments, Cyrus Vance (Secretary of State under Carter) and Dean Rusk (Secretary of State under Kennedy), were both Presidents of the Rockefeller Foundation.

You have seen how powerful the Rockefeller family is, now let’s look at how the Rockefeller Foundation uses its money.

Through interlocking directorates, the Foundation controls the Carnegie Endowment and the Ford Foundation. While the Carnegie Endowment deals with education, as it relates to international matters; the Rockefeller Foundation concentrates on education, as it relates to domestic issues. It financed and influenced seven major policy-making agencies: Social Science Research Council (who explored the means of controlling people through scientific methods, such as mass media), Russian Institute of Columbia University (who developed methods of conditioning Americans into accepting a merging of the Soviet Union and America under a one-world government), Council on Foreign Relations, National Bureau of Economic Research (who worked closely with the Federal Reserve Board), Public Administration Clearing House (in Chicago), Brookings Institution, and the Institute of Pacific Relations (who was responsible for planning the communist subversion of America).

The Rockefeller Foundation provided over $50,000 to fund the Building America textbook series, which played up Marxism and sought to destroy “traditional concepts of American government.” Over 100 communist organizations contributed material, including the writings of over 50 communist writers. The California Legislature said that the books contained “purposely distorted references favoring Communism...”. The Foundation contributed money to the pro-communist New School for Social Research in New York City, and funded projects for the communist-staffed Southern Christian Leadership Conference, led by Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr. Rep. Cox said that the Rockefeller Foundation has “been used to finance individuals and organizations whose business it has been to get communism into private and public schools of the country, to talk down to America, and play up Russia...”. The Foundation also funded the Kinsey Report, which heralded a new era of sexual immorality.

The purpose of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, is the “support of efforts in the U.S. and abroad that contribute ideas, develop leaders, and encourage institutions in the transition to global interdependence”. In 1974, the Rockefeller Brothers Fund gave grants to: A.C.L.U. Foundation ($45,000); Atlantic Institute for International Affairs, in Paris ($10,000); Carnegie Endowment for International Peace ($60,000); Columbia University ($9,500); Council on Foreign Relations ($125,000), Foreign Policy Association ($20,000); International Institute for Strategic Studies, in London ($5000); NAACP ($145,000); National Council of Churches of Christ in the USA ($10,000); National Urban League ($100,000); Trilateral Commission ($50,000 ); UN Association of the USA, Inc. ($25,000); United Negro College Fund, Inc. ($10,000); and the U.S. Conference for the World Council of Churches, Inc. ($2,500).

[QUOTING, emphasis added:]

INTRODUCTION BY JOHN KAMINSKI

...As one who had kept himself outside of the consensus mainstream for my entire life, I have very recently learned something new, something I hadn't previously understood. Unless you understand what's really going on inside yourself, you can't hope to get a truly accurate picture of what's happening in the world...
...The Spin cycle has taken over reality. Have you realized it yet? But how about that thing that spins inside you? Inside us? Inside me? I can only speak for myself. What is the purpose of our efforts? To inform? Or to profit? How am I spun, and how do I spin myself? Do you understand the joy of speaking to someone where you can comfortably acknowledge that you both share a higher purpose, no matter what name you put on it?

THE MINDLOCK PART 7
By John Kaminski, <JohnKaminski.com>, 9/1/06

A nightmare of our own design
What if the thing we want most is the very thing that destroys us?

“Beware of what you crave for you will get it.”—Ralph Waldo Emerson

It's not “Your money OR your life!” It's “Your money IS your life.”
In the mental difference between the two thoughts hangs the fate of humankind. Or, as my good friend Mike would say, “The most important event in human history occurred when Jesus threw the moneychangers out of the temple.”
Too bad that didn't happen in the real world. If it had, we wouldn't have what we have now.
So how to achieve a genuine, institutionalized peace that lasts is the goal. And the first step must necessarily be adequately understanding the influences that control our own minds. The worst mistake is to rely on the infallibility of dogma. As Thomas Jefferson said, God put us here to use our reason.
The information you have taken in throughout your life is badly flawed, you already know that. Your own history is not as you see it, either. And, as Emerson observed, what you think you want is likely the thing that will prove your undoing.
You see, we've been fed things .... ideas that have actually made us more docile and less aware of our own capabilities. We've been regimented by society to perform in the social categories that have been created for us. And we wonder why, when our category is eliminated, we are left feeling so abandoned. As if we didn't really belong here in the first place. Who gets to determine why our lives turn out the way they are, and why does that happen?

We are what we believe. We do what we believe. The world's eleven major religions have all been superseded and revealed as facile agents for the 12th and final religion that has always ruled the world.
True believers have been exploited by very fallible holy men down through time, and the result has been the mindlock, the predetermined predisposition of the human mind to cultural preferences that benefit the social engineers who created them.
Get it?
And Yahweh, who serves as the basis for all the Western religions, has been fingered as Molock, the terrible faced god of money.
This is the terrifying conclusion of Montreal philosopher R. Duane Willing, who in his new book weaves the mystery of the Federal Reserve around the necks of sanhedrin rabbis and their agenturs, and unerringly identifies the deity at the center of the Judaic religions as the Old Testament god named Molock, who took over the world through a structure called central banking.
Think about it.
Here's another Willing observation: “... the popular Semitic notion of one god can have the effect of a tourniquet on thought.”
He elaborates:

The idea of one God prevents much learning in economics and understanding in the higher dimensions that come from understanding the origin of the word Israel. Without the mental tourniquet of the idea of one god, and the mistaken notion of the word Israel as a place name, the mind can more easily master how god Molock, through the powers of money, known in Orwellian terms as “doublethink”, dominates the planet. “Doublethink is the power to hold two contradictory beliefs in one's mind simultaneously, and accepting both of them.”
... it is argued that “psychotronics” is so advanced in mind control that it overrides the basic instinct for self-preservation.

But did it all begin with religion? A supernatural sanction for slaughter. Can you say money? The new religion. Can you say “Molock?” The god of perpetual debt. Flash quickly to the slaughter in Gaza. It is your future.
So many people are now on target about the murderous pretense that was 9/11, it's thrilling. There is truly hope for restoration of a sane society. But not without completely understanding the forces that control us and deform us into creatures that either we don't recognize or are ashamed to be.
Duane Willing seems on target about 9/11, particularly about the new revelations that it was a tritium explosion that pulverized so much of the World Trade Center into microscopic particles.

“It remains a wonder of wonders as to how an energy field was created and focused to de-manufacture the glass of the trade center towers back into silica sand .... as if by magic speaks to focused and controlled energy waves of great power and precision.”
Willing is also solid on world history.
“The two primary rules for the human condition since earliest times are: 1. Do not soil the water. 2. Do not attempt to regulate life by usury.”
But the point of his book is this.
The Old Testament of the Bible, Willing says, “conveys in cipher the story of the discovery of money”.
He describes the phenomenon of how money-decision protocols began to subvert religious thought, and also noted ....
“There is no mention of chosen people or a place called Israel or a preferential dogma in this deal with God. The ideal of the universal covenant obligation of stewardship is ... a call from the cosmos. The expectation in the stewardship contract is for commercial enterprise to prosper in harmony with nature.”
Willing concludes with a call from Jesus: “Let us forgive our debts as we forgive our debtors.” This was a blatant attack on the practice of usury that is seldom mentioned by most modern preachers too interested in their own bank accounts.
Religions have failed in their stewardship obligations, Willing insists. He cites this astonishing example:

According to high profile TV preacher Rev. Hagee, on 12 November 2005, “Israel is now superior to the Christian Church.” In his regurgitation of a medieval world view, Rev. Hagee broadcasts to the world that “Christians must have Jews to explain their origins.”
The proof of the dominance of the economic spirit of god Molock is modern culture, especially among Protestant Christianity and sympathetic Jews is traceable in the Zionist-Christian movement that mobilizes economic and political support under the guise of Bible tradition.

Willing also elaborates on the legend of the Holy Grail:
“The role of the Holy Grail in conjunction with god Molock is like an infection in the race memory that stop critical inquiry and thought. The suppression of the race memory by the over excitement that comes from the ‘psychic fire’ of money effectively obscures the purpose of the usury prohibition. This condition results in the popular submission first reported in Genesis 47, when Joseph was able to buy the Egyptians with their own money. The bureaucratic brilliance of biblical Joseph, now most closely approximated in the modern chambers of central banks, provided the myth of the Holy Grail as a psychological vehicle to carry humanity into materialism and spiritual darkness.”

NEOCONS NEED NEW PLAYBOOK

In a parallel situation of four years ago when the U.S. propaganda machine was running full tilt in its bid to justify the occupation of Iraq so it is today with the Iranian nuclear “crisis”. However, this time the American citizens and the world have the benefit of foreknowledge that the propaganda war machine is being fueled by the Bush administration using the same disinformation tactics that got us into the Iraqi quagmire.

Consider the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA), established as an autonomous organization on July 29, 1957, which seeks to promote the peaceful use of nuclear energy and to inhibit its use for military purposes. The organization and its Director General, Egyptian Mohamed ElBaradei, were jointly awarded the Nobel Peace Prize on October 7, 2005. In a letter dated September 12, 2006 that was sent to Rep. Peter Hoekstra, the Michigan Republican who is chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, the IAEA has complained about a staff report, saying that it “contains erroneous, misleading and unsubstantiated information” about Iran’s nuclear program.

According to David E. Sanger of the New York Times the staff report immediately came under criticism, especially from Democrats on the committee, who said it overstated aspects of the threat posed by Iran’s nuclear program. The committee’s vice chairman, Representative Jane Harman of California, accused the staff of taking shortcuts that inflated the Iranian threat. The report was overseen by Fredrick Fleitz, a former CIA officer who worked for John R. Bolton, the ambassador to the United Nations, when he was the State Department’s leading hawk on Iran.

The IAEA dismissed the committee’s suggestions that Tehran’s nuclear program was much more advanced than numerous IAEA reports and the U.S.’s own intelligence assessments have determined. The congressional report also falsely stated that Iran had enriched uranium at its pilot centrifuge plant to weapons-grade level in April, while IAEA inspectors made clear that Tehran had enriched only to a low level useable for nuclear power reactor fuel, the letter said. “We felt obliged to put the record straight with regard to the facts on what we have reported on Iran. It’s a matter of the integrity of the IAEA,” said IAEA spokeswoman Melissa Fleming.

Will Americans once again fall prey to the worn-out cry-wolf tactics of the Bush bunch?

A STEP BEYOND REFUSENIK

The Refuseniks, those daring Israeli Defense Forces members who refuse to serve in the occupied territories, in protest against Israel’s actions in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, have a former comrade who has taken their agenda to the next level.

Reuven Schossen, a former captain in the Israeli Defense Forces is a political refugee that has been harassed by security services across several continents since he chose to leave his home country in 2002 in disgust at the corrupt practices of Israel’s leaders. He urges men of conscience to lay down their weapons, take off the uniform, and walk away from the chaos and has written a book called Holygarchy and other writings about life in Israel.

HEZBOLLAH USES EYE FOR AN EYE TACTIC

In response to an Amnesty International report dated September 14, 2006 that accused the Hezbollah guerrillas of “serious violations of international humanitarian law, amounting to war crimes” Lebanese legislator Hassan Fadlallah of Hezbollah said his group targeted civilians in Israeli cities in response to Israeli attacks that killed Lebanese civilians but yet rejected the Amnesty International findings.

“We do not deny that we have bombarded Israeli cities, settlements and infrastructure. But this was always a reaction,” he told Al-Jazeera television. “It was a natural reaction. When a state is invaded, it must defend itself.” Fadlallah said Amnesty International probably came under American and Israeli pressure to issue a report critical of Hezbollah’s actions during the 34-day war, after issuing a similar report against Israel last month.

During the conflict, Hezbollah fired nearly 4,000 rockets into northern Israel, killing 43 civilians, seriously injuring 33 others and forcing hundreds of thousands of civilians to take refuge in shelters or flee.

According to an Israeli paper, Haaretz, an Israeli Defense Forces commander of a rocket unit in Lebanon said that “what we did was insane and monstrous, we covered entire towns in cluster bombs.” Quoting his battalion commander, the rocket unit head stated that the IDF fired around 1,800 cluster bombs, containing over 1.2 million cluster bomblets. In addition, soldiers in IDF artillery units testified that the army used phosphorous shells during the war, widely forbidden by international law. The rocket unit commander stated that Multiple Launch Rocket System (MLRS) platforms were heavily used in spite of the fact that they were known to be highly inaccurate.

While it is abundantly evident that the Israelis drew first blood and committed war crimes how can the barbaric in-kind response of the Hezbollah help their cause?

AMERICANS TO BE USED AS WEAPONS TEST DUMMIES

The shift from covert testing on unwitting Americans to overt acts moved a step closer to reality on September 12, 2006 when Air Force Secretary Michael Wynne stated that non-lethal weapons such as high-power microwave devices should be used on American citizens in crowd-control situations before being used on the battlefield.

According to Wynne the idea is intended to garner positive public relations with the world community. Domestic use would make it easier to avoid questions from others about possible safety considerations. “If we’re not willing to use it here against our fellow citizens, then we should not be willing to use it in a wartime situation,” said Wynne. “(Because) if I hit somebody with a non-lethal weapon and they claim that it injured them in a way that was not intended, I think that I would be vilified in the world press.” It is unclear why the Secretary did not mention the possibility of being vilified in the domestic press.

Defense Industry Daily in a February 1, 2006 article described one of these weapons nicknamed the “riot breaker”. It is “a microwave transmitter whose focused beams create burning sensations that force targets to flee in order to escape”. It allegedly does not cause any permanent damage but in tests the volunteers were not allowed to wear contacts, glasses, or have any metal objects on their persons. How can that be a “real world” test? Will they announce to protesters that they are about to be blasted and that they should remove contacts, glasses or a metal objects? How absurd!

Kenneth J. Theisen, an organizer with “The World Can’t Wait!” movement asks, “Why is the regime floating this idea now? Could it be because of the anticipated protest against their possible invasion of Iran? Do they fear massive protests in the street such as those called for by “World Can’t Wait! Drive Out The Bush Regime!” on October 5th? Is this part of a public relations campaign to prepare the American people for more oppressive measures to suppress dissent, particularly street protests?

According to Amnesty International political killings in the Philippines have been on the increase since 2003 with at least 51 killings in the first six months of 2006 compared to 66 collated by Amnesty International in the whole of 2005. This is more evidence of a GMA administration in a downward spiral.

PHILIPPINES: PRESIDENT ARROYO MUST ENSURE CREDIBILITY OF POLITICAL KILLINGS COMMISSION

Amnesty International, 9/14/06

LONDON—In a meeting with President Gloria Arroyo today, Amnesty International Secretary General Irene Khan urged her to ensure the Melo Commission’s inquiry into political killings is transparent, independently conducted, and leads to accountability and justice for the victims. This meeting follows the publication in August of Amnesty International’s report into political killings.

In a frank and constructive dialogue, Ms. Khan welcomed President Arroyo’s decision to establish the Melo Commission to investigate patterns of political killings. She called on the President to exercise the same determined leadership that saw the Philippines abolish the death penalty in June this year, to put an end to the political killings and to strengthen the administration of justice.

Ms. Khan presented the President with a memorandum setting out international guidelines on commissions of inquiries. She stated the need for the Melo Commission to adhere to these standards in order to gain the credibility and support of all sides, and carry out its work effectively and independently.

“The Melo Commission must be independent and seen to be independent of the government. For this to happen, it should deploy its own independent investigators where necessary,” said Ms Khan.

“The Commission should take a victim-centred approach, with justice for the victims as paramount.”

“Intimidation and violence is still a very real problem and witnesses will not come forward if they are scared for their lives. The government needs to provide effective witness protection: victims’ families, witnesses and all others involved must be protected,” said Ms. Khan.

She concluded: “The ultimate measure of a commission of inquiry is whether its recommendations lead to long-term change. The Melo Commission should propose reforms which would prevent the repetition of past human rights violations, whether that means reforming laws and institutional practices or strengthening the justice system.”

“The Melo Commission must not shy away from making hard-hitting recommendations to end political killings once and for all, which would help restore conditions for the peace process between the government and the communists to be restarted, based on respect for human rights by all sides.”

IRAN IN NON-NUCLEAR SPOTLIGHT

To an uninformed casual observer the announcement by Iran that they will sponsor a conference to examine the scientific evidence supporting the Holocaust would lend one to believe that Iran is isolating itself even more so. To the informed observer the outcome may be a foregone conclusion and they will see this as a right of any individual or organization to seek the truth of any matter.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamid Reza Asefi said that because the Holocaust is a scientific issue, both opponents and proponents of the existence of the Holocaust could participate. “God willing, a conference on the Holocaust will be held in the autumn. The Holocaust is not a sacred issue that one can’t touch,” he told reporters. “I have visited the Nazi camps in Eastern Europe. I think it is exaggerated,” Asefi said.

Time and again is shown that whenever the sacred cash cow of the Zionists come into question the hair on their neck stands up like a rabid dog. If you have truth on your side what is there to fear when placed under a microscope?

The Bush regime continues its dictatorial thrashing of our Constitution.

FIRST TIME RELEASED DOCUMENTS EXPOSE SUBSERVIENT CONGRESS—“NATIONAL SECURITY” CONVERTS THE UNITED STATES
INTO A MONARCHY

By Sibel Edmonds, <nswbc.org>, 9/03/06

National Security Whistleblowers Coalition (NSWBC) has obtained documents revealing that to date the Executive Branch has refused congressional requests to be briefed on illegal black operations conducted by the NSA, and has denied these representatives access to relevant witnesses and documents. To view these documents see <nswbc.org/Reports%20-%20Documents/RussTice.pdf>.

The term “national security” has become talismanic, conferring extraordinary powers on the President whenever it is uttered. It insulates the executive branch from congressional oversight and reduces the Constitution to advisory status. The circularity of the term’s operation is frequently overlooked. Information and programs are classified according to presidential orders and when Congress or the judiciary seeks such information they are told that because the information is classified, national security forbids disclosure. Even the Code of Federal Regulations identifies national security information as information that is classified pursuant to executive orders. In other words, the material is classified and unavailable because the President says so; no reasons need to be supplied. This prevents Congress from having access to the material, for even the two select committees for oversight of intelligence activities are shunned when they request documents.

In this link you see various letters from members of Congress and the executive branch, with bureaucrats refusing information to the two intelligence oversight committees because the committee members do not have appropriate clearances. Of course, clearances, like classified information, are exclusively controlled by the President. So if he does not want oversight of anything he has made secret he simply refuses Congress clearance to see the material. This is the modern version of Royal Prerogative that was argued by Parliament against Charles I in 17th century England and was finally, so we thought, put to rest in the United States by the Constitution. “National security” has converted the presidency into a limited monarchy with the power to deny the people, through their elected representatives, accountability for executive actions.

These letters show that oversight of Special Access Programs (SAPs) at the Department of Defense is nonexistent because no one in congress has a high enough security clearance. It highlights the nightmare that Russ Tice, former National Security Agency (NSA) intelligence analyst and a member of NSWBC, went through to find someone in congress to whom he could address illegal and unconstitutional activity involving the super secret realm of “black world” programs and operations. Mr. Tice attempted to bring these concerns to the House and Senate Intelligence Committees. Those attempts were rebuffed by the NSA and the chairmen of the intelligence committees themselves. To date, Russell Tice has not been allowed to address a full committee in closed session, or even a single member of congress, about the abuses in these SAP programs.

National Security Whistleblowers Coalition, founded in August 2004, is an independent and nonpartisan alliance of whistleblowers who have come forward to address our nation’s security weaknesses; to inform authorities of security vulnerabilities in our intelligence agencies, at nuclear power plants and weapon facilities, in airports, and at our nation’s borders and ports; to uncover government waste, fraud, abuse, and in some cases criminal conduct. The NSWBC is dedicated to aiding national security whistleblowers through a variety of methods, including advocacy of governmental and legal reform, educating the public concerning whistleblowing activity, provision of comfort and fellowship to national security whistleblowers suffering retaliation and other harms, and working with other public interest organizations to affect goals defined in the NSWBC mission statement.

How ironic that a bio-documentary is given an “X” rating. It appears that exposing the machinations of GMA and her cronies is considered to be “political pornography”.

[QUOTING:]

CENSORING THE TRUTH

Editorial, The Daily Tribune—RP, 9/14/06

Under the rules, an X rating given by the Movie Television Review and Classification Board (MTRCB) can be appealed to Malacañang. This is what the camp of detained leader, Joseph Estrada, is now seeking for his bio-pic documentary on his life and times.

This now presents a problem to Gloria Arroyo, even if aides earlier claimed they had nothing to do with the MRCB judgment in banning the Erap bio-pic, since it is now Malacañang that will have to issue a ruling.

It is almost a certainty that Gloria will have the Erap video banned, because it shows only too clearly that she had grabbed power from him, as evidenced by a video clip of her in that bio-pic admitting before her then supporters how she and at least five sets of military officers plotted to oust Estrada as early as January 2000, or a full year before the actual ouster. In that video clip, she even proudly gave recognition to these military officers who, in turn, proudly accepted the accolade of having mounted a mutiny against their constitutional Commander-in-Chief, embracing the rule of force and completely discarding the Constitution, which they claim to abide by.

There were other video clips proving that Gloria ascended to power illegally, and also prove that even the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Hilario Davide Jr. and his clique of justices participated in that coup d’etat, thus establishing without doubt that they, who are mandated to defend and uphold the rule of law and the Constitution they are tasked to protect, discarded that very rule of law and the Constitution.

All these are documented, in print and video tape. These are events that had taken place which have been filmed, such as truthful accounts of what has occurred, what Gloria has stated, how the Constitution and democratic institutions were discarded by their chiefs and how Estrada was illegally thrown out of office.

This is the reason the MTRCB banned Erap’s bio-pic, and the reason Gloria will not allow this video to be shown in cinemas and television, even if this was already shown before the Sandiganbayan court in defense of Estrada and proof that a conspiracy existed among Gloria and her civil society groups to depose him.

And this is why the reason given by the MTRCB to explain its decision to ban the Erap video was that the bio-pic had objectionable scenes that “discredit the political stability of the state” and “undermine the faith and confidence of the people in the government”, apart from stating that these scenes are “libelous and defamatory”.

Is truth now being seen by this bogus government as discrediting the political stability of the state and that such truth undermines the faith and confidence of the people in government which is clearly illegal and unconstitutional?

Are Gloria and her cohorts now saying lies must replace truth and that truth must be banned to ensure that the bogus Gloria government is not discredited and that the Filipino people should have faith and confidence in a government that has not only grabbed power illegally, but has also thrown the Constitution out the window while embracing the rule of law? Is that not saying a power grab is the proper way to ascend to the presidency and should be emulated; that the rule of force is superior to the rule of law and that an illegitimate president and government must be supported by banning the truth?

And just who were those in the censors board who issued that ruling? Why these were the same people, such as Edmund Sicam, a holier than thou type and an anti-Marcos writer who claimed to have principles and claimed to be against censorship, now saying in effect that truth must never be told to protect a bogus President; that the truth must be suppressed and censored to keep the public in the dark. There was too, another censor, a Ros Olgado who, not too long ago, complained that he was being censored and claimed freedom of the press and of speech, and yet he too, was into censoring the truth. What hypocrites they are.

In the end, Malacañang will have to make a decision to either ban the Erap bio-pic or allow its showing, but as Gloria wants it banned and still appears blameless, she now says the appeals board has been abolished through an Executive Order.

In the end, Gloria will have to make the choice presented to her father with the film Iginuhit ng Tadhana, a story of Ferdinand Marcos.

She can, as Diosdado Macapagal did, ban the film or allow the bio-pic’s showing.

Either move will be politically bad for her. But then, truth was always bad for her.

TIN: 237-114-038

YOUR EXCELLENCY GLORIA M. ARROYO
President, Republic of the Philippines
Malacanang Palace, Mendiola St., MANILA

August 22, 2006

YOUR EXCELLENCY: Greetings:

By way of introduction, though none should be necessary: The DON ESTEBAN BENITEZ TALLANO AND DON GREGORIO MADRIGAL ACOP FOUNDATION (the "Tallano Foundation") was formed pursuant to and in compliance with the orders of Judge Enrique A. Agana in LRC/Civil Case No. 3597-P in order to function as the "successor in interest" of the Taguean-Tallano estate and to "...preserve the estate for and in the interest of Filipino farmers, poor families and their children..."

NOTICE OF TERMINATION OF LEASE

You are hereby given notice that the fifty-five year lease of the gold assets of the Taguean-Tallano estate ended in December 2005 and we are asserting our court-ordered mandate to administer these assets "for the interest of the Filipino people".

Although there may be a tendency on your part to want to view these gold holdings as the property of the Republic of the Philippines, we hasten to point out that they are part of the PRIVATE property of the Taguean-Tallano estate, which must be administered by the Tallano Foundation for the benefit of the people. Now that the lease has expired and you have been duly notified, any misapplication of these assets can only properly be construed as plunder.

Accordingly, we are entitled to an inventory of the gold assets and we expect your cooperation in arranging for same through the Bangko Sentral Pilipinas which has acted as the storage facility for these assets. Your reply to this Notice of Termination of Lease should include proposed arrangements for payment to the Foundation of the "five percent (5%) of the one percent (1%) of the appraised value of the commodities as Royalty fee" in compliance with the 1976 Clarificatory Decision of Judge Agana, along with an accounting of any such Royalty fees paid throughout the period of the lease. Until final arrangements can be made for the return of the leased property, we expect that you will render payment for and properly account for storage fees since December 31, 2005, which no doubt will be assessed by the storage facility (BSP).

If we do not hear from you within FIFTEEN (15) days, it is presumed that you take no exception to the foregoing facts and that you accept full personal responsibility for compliance.

Very respectfully yours,

SUBJECT: YOUR LACK OF RESPONSE AND APPROPRIATE ACTION

Dear Sir:

In our letters of May 15 and May 28, 2006, we advised you of Supreme Court decisions declaring numerous land titles null and void. We also provided you with an endorsement of our efforts to address this issue from the Department of Justice dated May 31, 2006 requesting your appropriate action.

As the Administrator of the Land Registration Authority you have direct responsibility for maintaining the integrity of the Torrens System of land titling per the Land Registration Act (Act No. 496) and the Property Registration Decree (P.D. 1592). You have been informed of a very serious problem but after more than three months you have neither responded to our letters nor taken appropriate action as directed by the Department of Justice at our request. Every day employees under your direction are issuing more spurious titles, compounding the problem. In accordance with the foregoing facts and in fulfillment of our charge to conserve, protect and administer all lands which should remain titled under OCT 01-4, we must provide you with the following Notice.

10-DAY NOTICE TO CEASE AND DESIST

Immediately, within 10 days, you must direct all Registers of Deeds to cease and desist from issuing spurious titles derived from those titles which the Supreme Court has previously declared null and void.

Dear Mr. Tallano:

Despite your termination from the Board of Trustees of the DON ESTEBAN BENITEZ TALLANO AND DON GREGORIO MADRIGAL ACOP FOUNDATION INC. at a duly noticed meeting held April 7, 2005, it has come to our attention that you are falsely holding yourself out as "Administrator" of properties which fall under the purvey of the Foundation pursuant to the Clarificatory Order of the Agana Court (LRC/Civil Case #3597-P, January 19, 1976) cited below:

Ordering the Administrator, Mr. Julian M. Tallano to do the following acts and function for and in behalf of the Land owners, here to wit:

1) Organize and establish Foundation in the name of Don Esteban Benitez Tallano and Don Gregorio Madrigal Acop to pursue the objectives of the Land owners to preserve the estate for and in the interest of Filipino farmers, poor families and their children either Christian or Muslim especially those who became a victims of martial law, and to uplift economic, social and health condition of those families living under poverty line by providing employment with the use of the proceeds of the sale of the estate ...

You are in possession of documents and records to which the Foundation is entitled and which are required by the Foundation for it to straighten out the problems caused by your many years of inaction and erroneous actions with regard to this matter, which have involved thousands of prime properties, tied up the courts and apparently enriched yourself by disposing real estate properties which had neither court approval nor reportorial accounting to the court. You have put the Foundation in disrepute and worked against the orders of the court to benefit the people, thus hurting the Filipino people broadly, generally and grievously.

In accordance with the foregoing facts, we hereby provide you with Notice of Termination and Denial of Association which shall be published in a newspaper of broad circulation to notify the public that you are in no way associated with the activities of this Foundation.

NEVADA CORPORATIONS:

What They Don't Say Can Really Help You

Budget's "Tip of the Week" #5:

Key provisions NOT included in Nevada's corporate statutes

In the first four installments of "Tip of the Week" we took a close look at several very interesting provisions of Nevada's corporate statutes. Sometimes, however, what is NOT mentioned in the statutes is just as important.

In Nevada, as many readers may be aware, there is no statute mandating the issuance of stock. (Nevada is not unique in this regard; several other states' corporate statutes similarly ignore this key issue. What makes Nevada unique is the combination of statutory provisions, non-addressed key issues and actual practices, all of which add up to make Nevada the ONLY state that allows for privacy of ownership and control of a corporation.)

As if to underscore the non-necessity of stock issuance, there is no requirement to hold an annual meeting of stockholders. Yes, there are many references to the stockholders' meeting but nowhere is it stated that any such meeting must be held.

Similarly, Nevada is one of a few states that does not nullify the use of "bearer" shares. It is not that there is a statutory provision endorsing the use of bearer shares or even addressing the issue; it is that the issue goes entirely unmentioned, whereas in most other states the use of bearer shares is statutorily denied.

A major, major issue that is not addressed anywhere in the Nevada Revised Statutes is that of nominee officers and directors. The use of nominee officers and directors has been common in practice in Nevada for more than 75 years and yet this issue, which is the key to privacy of control of a Nevada corporation, is simply not mentioned. Doesn't that make you wonder why not?

Other states (Wyoming comes to mind) have directly addressed the issue of nominee stockholders. In Nevada, however, there seems to be more power granted by not restricting the use of this technique even by defining it.

Nevada only requires a corporation's primary officers to be listed annually but does not abridge the key roles that can be afforded to secondary officers, such as a vice president, who may exercise all of the powers of the president in the president's absence; an assistant treasurer, who may be empowered to sign checks and otherwise fulfill the role of treasurer; or an assistant secretary, who may perform all of the duties of the secretary. When nominee service is used, the primary officers are assuredly absent, empowering these secondary officers, who are never listed in the public records with the Secretary of State.

Finally, since only an annual list of officers needs to be filed, a corporation may change its officers and directors at any time through a proper resolution (a PROTECTED "internal" record of the corporation) without notifying the state to modify the public record.

This listing is, of course, by no means all-inclusive. We trust, however, that it provides the reader with a lot of serious "food for thought" as to possibilities for private control and ownership of Nevada corporations.

THE RAZOR'S EDGE
IT'S ALL IN THE GAME

As we approach the closing of this issue of the journal we are near that period of time of Independence Day, July 4, 1994 relative to the United States of America. You, readers, PROTECT YOUR OWN FREEDOM—AMERICA ON SLIP-STREAM. As information flows and appears regarding the marketplace—remember, readers, YOU MUST KNOW THE PLAYERS—OR YOU CANNOT CHANGE A THING FOR YOU ARE TRAPPED IN IGNORANCE OF THAT WHICH CONTROLS YOU. You CAN know TRUTH—and in action within that knowing—you CAN achieve, again, FREEDOM!
