Engineered Disaster In Flu's Clothing Happy New Year From Our Controllers

12/28/95 #1 HATONN

DISASTER IN FLU'S CLOTHING

OK, readers, "IT" is under way. The "flu" that turns into meningitis is on the prowl. It is so contagious that the patients with the diagnosed illness are being denied hospital stay or are being discharged (not shifted) as quickly as it is identified.

This was an intentional "invasion" set up for the Christmas Holiday season when people would be frantically running about to visit, share, infect, cross-infect, etc. The disease is particularly severe in the newly delivered mothers and pregnant. Physicians are finding a lack of response of the illness to antibiotics and even now to Vancomycin which was the LAST antibiotic HOPE. The organisms are now global in distribution and you can expect "colds" to become severe and disabling.

I have no patience for any of our people who become sick with this bastardized disease because you should have been taking your "stuff". Further, I would suppose that all our people have a reserve supply of colloids to counter the invaders at the doorway. If, however, you are sick and are treated without positive results, get onto colloids in heavy intake immediately. This organism is sent forth to sensitize the public in general and if you make it through THIS assault—the next one will be worse.

Engineered Disaster

Onset is rapid, symptoms become severe with high fevers and SEVERE headaches. DO NOT PLAY WITH THIS AS IT IS A COCCUS CROSSED WITH A GENETICALLY ALTERED VIRUS AND WILL BE TOTALLY DEVASTATING. This will be a type of RETRO-virus which will move within other cells to preserve itself much like the HIV so it is imperative to rid the body early on or the person becomes a "carrier" and the illness will pop up when it pleases ever after. It is extremely contagious and, if you have been exposed to ANYONE with acute symptoms or who, after being close to you, has come down with acute symptoms—take a heavy course of colloids and plenty of Gaiaandriana to insure the viability of your IMMUNE SYSTEM. People, the antibiotics are in their final stages of phasing out as any help at all in controlling the combinant microbes involved here.

This is an ALERT and WARNING—THAT THIS IS SERIOUS TROUBLE ON THE MOVE. [See Rick Martin's timely article pgs. 17-23.]

I ask that we get a goodly supply of backup colloids and Gaias ready because I fear that most of the regularly prepared silver colloid will quickly be of no more value than the antibiotics. We will offer what we have but obviously we cannot supply the world in need. We won't even make an effort to do so. This is why the regular people who support us will have first run on the products—for we are not out to SAVE anything.

HOLIDAY SYNDROME

This particular microbe HYBRID is made to flourish in the compromised environment of alcohol users and smokers as the virus utilizes both the by-products of alcohol breakdown in the liver and tobacco processing ingredients in body break-down of those products. This of course is why the series of symptoms will become known as the "Holiday Syndrome". It was set for and released to coincide with the "Holiday Season" to insure its ability to spread widely and take hold and mutate in order to hold on and incubate or become an indwelling viral-TYPE microbe.

Most people will get through this initial assault but will be subsequently at serious risk. This microbe will also seek out and become lugged within parasites to avoid the direct assault of any treatment modality. Again, I cannot know what all is at stake here or even exactly what is introduced into the larger populations—but this is the beginning of the END for antibiotic-treatable disease. Each break-out will be greater and deadlier than its antecedent. The microbe WILL MUTATE with each HOST.

ENLIGHTENED PANIC ATTACK

If you consider that I bring and teach FEAR—now is the time to assume that I certainly MEAN TO OFFER EXACTLY THAT. If you are not scared to near-death and are lacking all forms of panic—YOU DO NOT UNDERSTAND YOUR CIRCUMSTANCES!! Even in this early form the symptoms will linger for a very long time and recur at random. Use your head and treat yourself WELL with rest and good fluid intake and TAKE YOUR AVAILABLE TOOLS FOR GOOD HEALTH. DO NOT PLAY GAMES WITH THE BABIES—GET THEIR COLLOIDS AND OTHER GAIAS INTO THEM WHETHER THEY LIKE IT OR NOT—THEIR VERY LIVES DEPEND ON PARENTAL INTELLIGENCE NOW. I DON'T CARE IF YOU LIKE ME OR HATE ME—YOU ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THEIR LIVES, PARENTS, AND NOW IS THE TIME TO ATTEND THEM FOR THEY ARE AT THE GREATEST RISK WHEN OUT AMONG INFECTORS.

Now is the time to get a spray bottle of silver colloid [GaiaCol] and USE IT UP THE NOSE AND FREQUENTLY WASH OUT THE MOUTH WITH IT AND ALWAYS BEFORE BEING IN A CROWD OR MEETING SOMEONE YOU KNOW TO BE, OR HAS BEEN, ILL. KEEP THOSE HANDS CLEAN WITH A GERMICIDAL SOAP OR CLEANSER, AND THEN APPLY COLLOIDS AND/OR OXYSOL AND LET DRY.

The good part is that with THIS spread the microbe does not remain viable on surfaces exposed to air for a very long period of time. I suggest a wipe-off of drinking glasses rims and, if you can do so, use disposable cups and simply burn in the fireplace. Wipe off areas of contamination frequently with a bit of spray-on colloid or dampen a paper-towel and wipe.

Other cleansing procedures are to simply apply commercial grade hydrogen peroxide as a decontaminant—and add [35%] food-grade hydrogen peroxide to drinking water. I also suggest that dishes, and foods which are washed and especially uncooked, be immersed in a hydrogen peroxide bath. The microbes might not last long but they are made to adhere tenaciously to surfaces and since they come with flu and cold symptoms—the hands are always contaminated from the mouth, nose, etc.

Supply your family members with items, give them a written outline and then, so be it, for I can't have Dharma, E.J., etc., out treating or mingling with the sick lest we have no contact with me. It is time for parents and people to get RESPONSIBLE. I am not interested in your "druthers" or your lazy habits—take care of your children for God is not going to do so FOR YOU. We offer the "way"—you will do it or it will not be done!

I ask that Brent please put the above onto the Telephone Hotline. I am not in the product business—but I am into the responsibility of telling you how it IS. What YOU do is none of my business!

We are NOT in the business of medicine. We may offer you a "treat" but we will NOT GIVE YOU A TREATMENT! You do whatever you want about yourselves but it most certainly is NOW TIME TO ATTEND THE POSSIBILITIES OF RIGHT NOW! THE FULL "PLAN" IS FOR YOU TO AGAIN CROSS-CONTAMINATE ON NEW YEAR'S AS YOU PARTY AND MINGLE since, for most, the thought of staying home and attending yourselves quietly and in protection is unacceptable—so, good luck.

LIMITED RESOURCES

All of you must also understand that there is no way we can just give the "stuff" away for it is expensive to make and funds are simply not available to cover it and stay open at all. Now it comes back to cause us to face the damaging FACTS from those who used, abused and thieved from us for we are LIMITED in ability to produce in quantity large enough to serve the needs of the "whole" but we will pour back into product all that we receive in purchases.

No, other places DO NOT have what we have and, in addition, I must have you understand the ongoing need of Gaiaandriana to get the other things, i.e. colloids, into those cells within your bodies.

I realize that a lot of you assume that because you know me and I know you that protection will somehow just rub off onto you. NO IT WILL NOT! I CAN ONLY SUGGEST AND OFFER, NO LESS AND CERTAINLY I HAVE NO WISH OR RIGHT TO DO MORE.

THERE IS NO WAY IN YOUR LANGUAGE TO EVEN BEGIN TO TELL YOU HOW SERIOUS A THING IS COME UPON YOU! Moreover, it is structured to not cause early panic and be buried in distractions while it takes a firm hold on you. YOU ARE WARNED—AGAIN—WHICH IS ALL THAT I CAN DO.

I WILL NOT ALLOW MY PEOPLE TO CONFRONT REGULATORS FOR YOUR FOOLISH ACTIONS SHOULD YOU CHOOSE TO UNWISELY ADVERTISE OR TOUT ANYTHING WE OFFER. SO, I REPEAT: WE ARE NOT IN THE BUSINESS OF MEDICINES, DRUGS, CURES, TREATMENTS OR LEGAL QUESTIONABILITY ON ANY OF THE ABOVE. We have some products available which may help you have a better feeling of well-being and provide some enhancement of better health. We do not "advertise" anything other than this. These products have been researched and found by others to be a positive addition and are totally natural in every way and totally harmonious and compatible with any and all "medications" as medically prescribed. Silver colloid was the medical treatment of choice for infections prior to the presentation of the modern antibiotics. It does not build allowance for "resistance" EXCEPT THAT THE CURRENT VIRUSES AND BACTERIA ARE UPGRADED IN STRENGTH DUE TO THEIR GENETIC STRUCTURING WHICH REQUIRES A HIGHER "FREQUENCY" THAN IS FOUND IN THE ORDINARY PRODUCTION PROCEDURES OF COLLOIDALIZING SILVER.

Readers and listeners: Please, we are not interested in serving even the greater "masses". We would wish we could do that but we cannot so please take care in your own advertising. We will try to serve any who ask but we do have some limitations until we can upscale (which is a rather measured capability for us). By this caution, I mean that we have no intention of high-profile advertising in major med. or press. Nobody else has what we offer or ability to make what we have and we intend it to remain exactly that way. Salu.

HAPPY NEW YEAR FROM PLANET EARTH

(One year closer to Global Agenda 2000?)

The December 28 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS paired up two stories with these headlines: WORLD POPULATION UP 100 MILLION DURING 1995 and FLU SICKENS MILLIONS IN RUSSIA, UKRAINE. The connection is obvious if you are familiar with the material lately presented by Rick Martin in his series of articles on Depopulation (see page 17). The first is put out by the Associated Press, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—The world's population grew this year by 100 million people, to 5.75 billion, the largest increase ever, a population research group said Wednesday. Ninety percent of the growth is in poor countries "already terribly torn by civil strife and social unrest and where all too many people live in brutal poverty," said Werner Fornos of the Population Institute. [According to the article, this organization receives no U.S. government money, but is funded by the United Nations, foundations and individuals.]

The second article is reprinted from THE NEW YORK TIMES, [quoting:]

MOSCOW—The most severe flu epidemic in decades is sweeping Russia and Ukraine, with as many as 200,000 people falling ill each day, according to health officials. Nearly 1 million people have been infected in Moscow alone, and it is nearly impossible to find a family that has been spared. In Ukraine, at least 2 million people already have gotten sick and health officials there said the number could triple in the next two weeks. So far, only a few deaths have been reported officially...but the experience of past flu epidemics makes it likely that the number of fatalities is actually much higher than reported. Doctors here also say that respiratory complications from the illness can persist for weeks.

Many schools in both countries have been shut, hospitals are under quarantine and federal health officials have warned that every tram, subway and bus has become the perfect vessel for transmitting the virus. In both countries, officials were quick to point out that the flu virus, while unusually virulent this year, was not the only reason for the rapid spread of the epidemic. The health systems of virtually all former republics of the Soviet Union have fared badly in the past several years. "Social changes and the deterioration of living conditions have lowered the general resistance of the nation," Yuri Solodovnikov, a researcher at Moscow's epidemiological center, told the weekly newspaper Moscow News. [Keep in mind that the Russians—as opposed to the Soviets—are number one on the Khazarian hit list.]

U.N. SANCTIONS KILL IRAQI KIDS

From the December 1 issue of TORONTO STAR, [quoting:]

LONDON (Reuters)—A United Nations agency said yesterday the U.N. economic sanctions against Iraq have been responsible for the death of more than 560,000 children since the Persian Gulf War ended in 1991. [Sounds like one of Janet Reno's child-welfare schemes, a la Waco.] A study by the Food and Agriculture Organization found that severe malnutrition is widespread among children in Baghdad. It blamed the sanctions imposed against Iraq as punishment for its 1990 invasion of Kuwait [You probably recall that the area of Kuwait was part of Iraq until Great Britain saw fit to create a separate country under its own puppet ruler—and that the "invasion" was sanctioned by the U.S. in advance, in a private communique from Ambassador April Glaspie to Saddam Hussein.]

"In the present study, the under-5 mortality increased fivefold," Dr. Mary Smith Fawzi of the Harvard School of Public Health wrote in the Lancet medical journal. In addition, she said, infant deaths doubled during the Gulf War and this high rate remained, even though the war ended four years ago. [The massive immunization programs reported recently in China and India also target young children. Makes sense, doesn't it, if the goal is depopulation.]

CDC WARNS AGAINST... KOMBUCHA!?

There is NO place for effective, natural health practitioners, products, or techniques in the NWO depopulation program. The tactics are ruthless: confiscation, arrest, harassment, and slander. Here's an example of the latter, from the December 17 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Kombucha mushroom

tea, a drink reputed to prevent cancer, relieve arthritis, cure insomnia and make hair grow, could [COULD?!] pose a serious health risk, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention warns. [Oooh! better not take a chance—see how the mind is conditioned!] The CDC of Atlanta said an Iowa woman died earlier this year and another woman became seriously ill after they drank the tea every day for two months. The beverage is made by fermenting yeasts and bacteria in black tea and sugar. Even though it is not made from mushrooms, the drink is also called Kargasok tea, tea fungus, and Manchurian mushroom tea. The two women developed severe lactic acidosis, in which their blood had excessive levels of the acid found in sour milk. Proponents of the tea say its use dates as far back as China's Tsung Dynasty in 221 B.C.

HIV TEST USES ORAL SPECIMEN

The "official" story is that "you can't get AIDS from kissing", yet the latest test for HIV uses saliva?! This Associated Press article appeared in the December 27 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—A confirming test for HIV that uses saliva and other oral fluids instead of blood is nearing approval by the Food and Drug Administration, a company that makes the test announced Tuesday. The company, Epitope Inc., said that it had received a letter from the FDA announcing that the firm's application to market the HIV test was "approvable". An FDA spokesman declined to verify that such a letter had been sent to Epitope, but explained that in the normal process of agency action, such a letter was "tantamount to approval, provided the company meets the requests contained in the approvable letter."

Epitope last year received approval to market an oral-specimen HIV test through health-care providers. That test uses a treated cotton pad placed between the gum and cheek to collect oral fluid. The pad is then placed into a container with a preservative and sent to a laboratory for an enzyme-linked immunosorbent assay, or ELISA test, with can detect antibodies to HIV. The test detects antibodies, not the virus itself. HIV usually is not found in saliva. [USUALLY? That sounds a little flimsy! Dr. William Haseltine, Chief of the Division of Retrovirology, Harvard University had this to say: "Anyone who tells you categorically that AIDS is not contracted by saliva is not telling you the truth. AIDS may, in fact, be transmissible by saliva, tears, bodily fluids, and mosquito bites." (New Dimensions magazine, April, 1990) Dr. Helen Singer Kaplan, Professor, Cornell University Medical School, reported: "In fact, the HIV count is larger in saliva than in the blood of an HIV-positive person. Saliva is an ideal environment for the AIDS virus." Why would the FDA and the Associated Press lie? Find out in CONTACT's ongoing series of articles on Depopulation (page 17)] Positive results from the ELISA test are confirmed with the more sensitive Western blot blood test.

Now Epitope is seeking permission to market a Western blot test that also uses oral fluids instead of blood. In its announcement, Epitope said the FDA was asking for additional information and a facilities inspection. [A saliva test for the AIDS virus—Orasure—has been available in Mexico since 1992.]

DRAGEE MELEE: FDA NIXES SILVER FOR HOLIDAYS

Those of you who are familiar with colloidal silver will find this article a bit amusing. From the December 21 issue of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

The holidays are a worrisome time for the health-conscious, what with all those calories and fat grams hidden in seasonal goodies. Not to mention heavy metal. That's heavy metal, as in dragees (pronounced “drahj-ay”), those little silver balls that put the gleam in the eye of gingerbread and the sparkle on the sugar-cookie star. As it turns out, those little silver balls contain, well, silver. And the Food and Drug Administration says don’t eat them. [Yeah. They just MIGHT knock out the flu the CDC just gave you!] Not that anyone has actually gotten sick from downing dragees. If eaten in small quantities, FDA policy analyst Catherine Bailey pronounces “we do not anticipate toxicity.” Indeed, dragees are listed as nontoxic on Poisindex, a computer program used by state poison-control centers nationwide. But the FDA won’t budge in its disapproval, because it hasn’t run its own tests: No one has yet petitioned the agency for the approval of silver as a color additive. With good reason. FDA approval would involve animal studies using large doses of the silver additive for long periods. Joseph Charnowski, vice president of sales at QA Products in Elk Grove, Ill., the country’s only dragee manufacturer, said the cost of the studies would be prohibitive given the small amount of dragees sold. Dragees, Mr. Charnowski said, contain “minuscule” amounts of silver: about .0003 parts of silver per million, or 310-billionths of each dragee.

Bah! Humbug! say the FDA Scrooges. They also refuse to give their (gold?) seal of approval to other forms of precious silver leaf used to decorate cakes, the flecks of gold sparkling in the liqueur called Goldwasser, and the metallic foil traditional on many Indian pastries. In most states, dragees are still sold in grocery stores, but not as food. Mario S.K. Rinaldi, an importer of French dragees for the glamorous Manhattan catering company Glorious Foods, laughs at the notion that silver- or gold-coated dragees pose a health threat. “In Europe, we have eaten them for centuries, and no one is getting sick from the dragee,” he said.

Mr. Charnowski noted that dragees were popular decorations on silver anniversary cakes, but the divorce rate has cut into those sales. Soon, he said, “Dragees will be as scarce as couples who are married for 25 years.”

PULLING THE PLUG

Recently the News Desk featured an article about how patients’ wishes were ignored by their doctors, even when documented in a Living Will. This article, from the December 17 issue of the Los Angeles DAILY NEWS may be the other side of the coin, [quoting:]

After 16 months in a coma caused by injuries received in an auto accident, Robert woke up and, until recently, was receiving physical and speech therapy to rehabilitate him. Robert appeared to be slowly improving. Indeed, he progressed so far in less than a year that he can maneuver himself in a motorized wheelchair through hospital corridors. Robert is the subject of a bitter controversy. His wife, Rose Wendland, wants to cut off the “medical treatment” of food and fluids provided through a tube. Despite the fact that Robert is conscious and interactive, Rose’s decision to cause Robert’s death is supported unanimously by the Lodi Memorial Hospital ethics committee. However, a close look at the committee’s approval reveals some disturbing facts. As far as is known, no one argued on behalf of saving Robert’s life. The nurses and therapists, the very people who spend the most time with Robert, were never asked to appear before the committee. Indeed, the ombudsman, whose specific job is to advocate on Robert’s behalf, wasn’t even aware that Robert was able to manipulate a motorized wheel chair when she, too, decided to support Rose’s plans. [Before castigating Rose into oblivion, please reflect that you have not walked a mile in her moccasins, nor have we been given all the relevant facts by this mainstream-media article. We are daily faced with the responsibility of making our OWN choices, but we become FOOLS when we cast our judgments upon another—fooling ourselves into believing we are possessors of the all-encompassing, valid and true perspective from which to do so. Most of us are limited by our own third-dimensional constraints to see clearly into another’s soul and covenant with God. Judgmentalness has a way of coming back on us like a boomerang via the Law of sowing and reaping—those judgments are, after all, our own projections!]

Robert’s case is not unique. In Florida, the brother of 83-year-old stroke patient Marjorie Nighbert decided to cut off her tube feeding, allegedly because of the terms contained in her advanced directive [Presumably, this is like a living will or limited power of attorney, in which a person spells out his or her wishes in the event he should become incapacitated.] Marjorie was not unconscious. During her starvation, she specifically asked nurses for food. This was so upsetting to one nurse that she blew the whistle. Enter the court, where, after a hurried investigation, it was determined that Marjorie was not medically competent to retract her advanced directive (in other words, to ask for the “treatment” of food). Thus, even though she had asked to be fed, the starvation was allowed to continue. Ms. Nighbert died on April 5, 1995.

All over the country, in hospitals, nursing homes and other facilities, conscious but cognitively disabled and aged people are being denied adequate care and/or are being starved and dehydrated to death in the name of patient autonomy, “quality of life” and “best interests of the patient” determinations. But what is really going on is the creation of a disposable caste of people, whom we, the healthy, find too emotionally painful, too expensive or too inconvenient to care for, and whose intentional killing we increasingly find all too easy to rationalize. [End of quoting.]

Actually, I am MORE appalled by the frequency with which so many of us are finding ourselves in this position—of being incapacitated by degenerative diseases. Medical-school theology has trained us to look to the doctor-deity who will provide us with a sacramental fix-it drug—which can NEVER create health! We need to put aside that mentality if we expect to survive (and flourish) during this new and ever more challenging year ahead. Health is created and maintained by adhering to certain natural laws. Pure food and water, pure thoughts and lifestyle habits! It’s no easy task to find the former, so careful supplementation is in order. Hydrogen peroxide, colloidal silver, Gaiaandriana, and other products are a God-send, but they are NOT an ALTERNATIVE to responsible behavior. These products cannot protect you from yourself! It’s THAT time of the year. How about making some self-affirming resolutions—ones that are truly in your best interest—and ones that you will keep! (Yeah, I made mine!)

Happy New Year and best wishes from me, Phyllis.

Nooses Tighten Around Several Games-Players

12/23/95 #1 HATONN

IN OUR WRITINGS

In our writings we write of many things from mice and men to churches and brothels. Why? Because, hidden within the unstable makeup by greedy men, the terms become almost interchangeable. Men have become as foolish as laboratory mice and rats and PROSTITUTION of self and souls is more prevalent in most churches than in the brothels. This is indeed a sad state of affairs. Is the acceptance of this state of affairs the prevailing wish of mankind? NO! NO INDEED! Only a tiny few set the controlling factors upon the masses and, because you as a species are NOT base, crude, or soul-less energy forms—you have let the adversary take the day. You can take it back—when you want to.

Words and meanings are twisted to suit the Puppet-Master's plan and you forget what to call a given feeling, i.e., what means pity or friendship or compassion and on and on? When you can sort these feelings from the reality of LIFE expression as cast upon you, you CAN gain control of both you as the puppets AND the Puppet-Masters FOR THEY ONLY HAVE DEFENSE OF "THINGS" AND MIND-CONTROL. IF YOUR HEART INTENT AND MIND-SET IS WITHIN GOD—THE ENEMY CANNOT TOUCH YOU. Oh, the old bad boy will try to "getcha" at every turn—but he cannot do so. THAT is the PROMISE of GOD!

Compassion is that which allows feelings to make allowances so that wisdom can be introduced into all actions and thoughts. Then, in taking up the potential of pity and friendship, you must also shift gears in thought recognition. Pity and friendship are passions incompatible with each other—exactly like military-intelligence or Judeo-Christian. These are meanings of total opposite definition. Friendship is made up of esteem and pleasure; pity is composed of sorrow and contempt. Make sure YOU know that which you are expressing for if you pretend to unconditionally love those who wrong others, you JOIN with those adversaries. There must be CONDITIONS placed on those with whom you share your intended JOURNEY. If YOU have no "conditions" which are unacceptable to your total love response—you have JOINED your enemy and he will "eat your lunch"! You, above all, MUST realize the enemy of LIFE will twist word meanings and, unless you look beyond the words into the TRUTH, you shall surely perish with the enemy. When you HIDE from TRUTH you are denying LIFE.

May you walk your way each day as if there is new snow and every act, every step, will form the patterns SEEN. You can clearly see in the new snow wherein a puppy romped or a bloody body has been dragged. Check carefully to see what imprints you leave in the new snow of God's landscape.

As we speak of churches you must simply retain your objective outlook and KNOW that there is good, bad and total indifference in all things. Select that which is positive and put the other aside and do not be a part of that which is negative or truthless. You do not have to become the object to experience the object—any object, thought, action or idea. However, if you run with the pack and act with the pack—you will, right or wrong, be accepted as being "one of the pack". Actions determine the discernment AND THE JUDGMENT for words from a liar's mouth mean only misperceivable intentions.

I am both amused and saddened as rumors are strewn about that Rod Ence/Enz is saying that E.J. (Ekker) is being irrational, making terrible mistakes and has totally emotionally "lost it". Any one who knows E.J. KNOWS the lie at expression for E.J. is not even impressed by the likes of a Rod Ence/Enz. As Rod's eyes bug out and he blows and grows red with hate—E.J. just looks at him straight in the eye and there is no mistaking the point being made. What silly and foolish games a cornered mouse makes as he roars and screeches, pretending to be a man—which, until he matures, can never be for, as long as the child prevails, the MAN is quite hidden and squashed.

The most remarkable thing we witness in these days of holiday is the absolute and total desire by Rod Ence/Enz for someone to put him in jail so he can squawk, and wail and act the martyr in his foolish and deceitful mind. But the ones being hurt are the family and himself—for nobody else gives a hoot about his silly games except to be embarrassed for having represented or pleaded for his lies to be heard. Once the realization is "lies" then the focus is even more dreadful as the newly deceived are more hurt than the ones originally hurt.

We don't even want these painful people to leave our valley—for we need the constant reminder of how hard it is to keep in truth and integrity with the gamesmen of our journey. If these will deceive YOU, they WILL DECEIVE all who come their way and, finally, NO ONE will either befriend or accept them.

I would note here that Ed and Marilyn M. have made it possible to get a tractor which is top-of-the-line through a friend in Hemet attached to the fabrication research program of the Institute into MOLDED cement and fabrication products for housing. E.J., Charles, Dave, etc., were able to close that "operation" down and retrieve a big "lift", bonding equipment, presses for forming metal and thus and so as the person in charge is no longer a part of our work. We are grateful to Tom H. who made this acquisition possible and for bringing his price for the tractor and disk arrangement into a totally ridiculously low price so it could be available. The disk alone is worth more than the cost of the entire package. The disk is so large and heavy that it has to be blowtorch cut into at least three pieces simply to get it moved. This 'nother tractor is, as of yesterday, at the farm and the rest will be forthcoming. Almost all of the other equipment is relocated also so our hearts are grateful this day. Our gratitude to the ones who made this possible is beyond our ability to express in any kind of language.

Rod took and then shipped off our plows and other planting equipment but we can work one step at a time and the neighbors have offered to do the plowing and planting as necessary until we can get on our feet and replace some of the items. With this new disk we can, if necessary, give up the separate plowing for the disk is so heavy as to have to be run with the hydraulic lift in operation or it buries to its axles. This gives us option of depth of our land-mulching and will allow for dry ground disking. The tractor is "four wheel drive" with two huge round feet on all four corners allowing HEAVY duty use—anywhere. It is for SERIOUS farm tilling and, finally, we ARE SERIOUS.

Rod also sold or got rid of the landowner's disk so it is up to Mr. Turner what he wants to do about THAT. Rod Ence/Enz would have you believe he is the aggrieved party which only includes his indiscretions with the farm and Ekker-Ekker Phoenix, according to instructions from Green and "crew". No, he took the landowner's property also, and that, readers, is totally beyond reference to the local hated "catchers" of his acts. Perhaps Mr. Turner can "reason" with the angry man on a more objective basis.

I also recommend to you local participants in the escapades at hand that you not believe a word Rod's cohorts say—they are deceivers and it appears, likewise, liars from onset. They will plant lies to glean information. Who needs the games? We will supply all the information FREE. We don't need games and tricks to find the rotten apples—they project their rot in every direction from the central core. By the way, the LAST thing desired in a community of apple-growers are rotten apples! Ponder it.

Why don't they go away? They can't, for they have made too many outlandish promises and big-talk. They perceive that they will stay and be TOP DOGS. Will they? Who cares? They will never be more than tiny annoying pups in whatever position they hope to attain. Evil intent cannot remain long in the presence of the Light of Truth. You can, as suggested, see them put Rod in charge of all the farming in the valley—but they will simply have worse results than the PROVEN failure shown. NONE OF THEM WANT TO WORK AND THEREIN LIES THE SECRET OF THE FAILURE'S SURETY—“everyone” can’t be THE supervisor, for somebody has to do the job! And, ones who don’t WORK, don’t get successful jobs accomplished except through deviant and immoral means. TALK IS JUST AN EXPENSIVE COMMODITY WAITING TO EXPLODE AGAINST THE TALKERS. ACTIONS IN SUCCESSFUL REPRESENTATION AND PRESENTATION ARE THE REFLECTIONS OF SUCCESS. IT IS QUITE EASY TO “CHECK IT OUT”.

There is no joy above that of joy in the heart—so let the deceivers continue in their misery of “getcha” and hold to that joy in TRUTH within our hearts and souls. This is the greatest punishment a Man can be offered—for his enemy to be able to rejoice in truth and flick his silly prattlings and threats away like the chaff from the gleaning floor. Don’t play into their stupid games and let them rot within their own comrades and kind. If those attached to such energies can see no further than the moment in the lies—then let them go their way—YOU DO NOT NEED GO WITH THEM. Neither GOD, nor I, will forsake you or turn from you but we cannot help it if you turn from us for it is your right and your choice. We go nowhere “else” so if one is to go—consider your trip plans carefully!

As you move through the holiday season, rejoice in that which is beautiful, fun and joyful. You do not need become the adversary to live in the world and hold truth in the LIGHT of living. You do not need to become the drunken slob in the gutter to partake of the wine. Those choices are YOURS. You do not need to become the trash can in order to toss your trash into it. Ponder it!

Now as we turn to other subjects please be aware of the night-time movement of heavy military equipment about your nations. There is MASSIVE movement of HEAVY DUTY equipment in every direction—AND NO, it is not, E.J., a “shortcut to Bosnia”. You simply do not go through the Mojave Desert to get military equipment overseas—so, it is coming from “somewhere” with its new color-coding. You have to, also, understand the U.N. white-and-blue against the NATO military paint jobs. When you move military “drab” about—you are in combat readiness and seizure mode. Check out the HOLDING FACILITIES for new action. Why would guard towers be readied at facilities with computer capability and “seeing eyes” of incredible accuracy right now as security fences, razor wire and other concentration camp preparations are being made? Also for your consideration: With prison overcrowding and needs growing for more facilities—are FACILITIES being updated and revamped with NO INTENTION OF HOUSING PRISONERS FROM THE OTHER OVERCROWDED PRISON FACILITIES? There is a prime example right outside Lancaster, CA. It is near an airport and next door to a NASA-type industrial complex. How many of you right under the shadow of it, noticed? The least visible facilities of THAT FACILITY are underground and it is fully intentional that YOU NOT SEE OR KNOW.

Friends, if YOU want to be on the “domestic terrorist” listing—go right ahead—but leave us out of your games. WE DO NOT FOR WE DO NOT IN ANY WAY PLAY IN SUCH TRICKS AND COY GAMES WHICH SET US UP FOR A TENURE IN YOUR CONCENTRATION CAMPS. We have no intent nor wish to participate in any kind of armed rebellion, revolution, subversion or overthrow of ANYTHING. If you can’t change your direction by changing your direction and building—I can promise you that destruction will simply merit you greater destruction.

In the line of using “parables” to point out possibilities, I want to offer you a bit of a story from Spotlight dealing with “Swiss bank accounts” and Cray computer operators. Just when you think things are hopeless, or safe, whichever grabs you, SURPRISE!

Why do I choose excerpts from THIS particular article? If the shoes fit—I suggest you get on with wearing them and start running in the right direction immediately. If it is to simply protect any investments you might have, so be it. If it is enlightening, so be it. If it is simply boring to you, so be it.

The tale is supposedly about the Vince Foster Swiss accounts—but I have no interest in that. I note the application of Super-computers, intrigue and management through networks. It does seem that some $2.73 million—was wire-transferred out of Foster’s accounts, by skilled computer hackers just prior to Foster’s death.

“...According to James R. Norman: ‘For months, a small cadre of CIA computer hackers known as the Fifth Column, armed with a Cray super computer, had been monitoring....accounts.’” It seems they are able to locate accounts and track the flow of money from and to various locations and then remove it by computer to their own special locations. In Foster’s case, as in most cases, the tracking finds the flow from Israeli government accounts as regards political figures and it was that Foster’s name showed up on the Mossad files. The trackers could then snoop through any system and find out all they needed, or need, to know. Does it strike anyone as odd that all the conferences regarding Israel with ANYONE take place in the U.S.A.?

Many high-level U.S. political figures have had their accounts raided and since the money is illegitimate and feloniously gained, it is hardly ever reported. Just from political figures alone there has been a “loss” (or gain if you will) of well over $3 BILLION within just a recent short period of “hacking”.

Indeed, it seems to be time that commitments made to ME are kept, good buddies. I run low on patience—Mr. Jackson. You are not indispensable to EITHER SIDE! I would guess that when and if you get the “pecking order” in full-view and acceptance, you will have more success. I sincerely hope someone on the other side calls to explain this to you—carefully. It is unwise to make commitments and promises to either the Devil or the Angels which you do not keep!

By the way, it is noted that Mr. Newby runs your rowboat? How interesting. Whatever is your intent and whoever “you” might be—I hope you understand that loss of credibility is loss of help. Oh, it is sure that I will get out of Mr. Newby’s way—but no thank you as to moving out of Mr. Jackson’s FACE. You do not send your trained lackeys to do your dirty work, no matter WHO YOU ARE! You want to get militias on stand-by for immediate action? You go right ahead but this time our people won’t be visiting or even writing to you. Wisdom or foolishness is in the intent of the “doer” and within the perception of the beholder; remember it most carefully. Salu.

The Seven Seals Prophecies And Other Signs Of The Times

12/24/95 #1 HATONN

IN THE YEAR OF...

AS THE SEALS ARE OPENED AND THE TRUTH OF THESE DAYS ARE LAID FORTH UPON THE ALTARS OF MANKIND, THE SOULS BEAR FORTH THE BEAUTY OF THE LIGHT WHILE THE ONES WHO HAVE CHOSEN THEIR PATHWAY INTO THE SHADOWS WEEP AND WAIL. THERE SHALL COME A SILENCE UPON THE LANDS AND THEN SHALL THE TRUMPET SOUND AND ALL SHALL KNOW THAT IT IS THE TIME OF THE COMING OF THE FATHER AND THE SON AND THE MOTHER, IN PERFECTION.

What mean I of the opened seals upon the altars of mankind? Ah, indeed, it means that the truth shall be spread open before man and across those things which man has worshipped; yea, even unto the evil places and deeds shall the truth of man's journey be laid bare for ALL to see and hear—and know.

Man seeks his way among the thistles and obstacles strewn along his paths and roadways while he has become blind and deaf to that which is truth, goodly, moral and just. He has turned to join with and within the entrapments of his distractions and has fallen as he has become crushed by those things of human physical sensing until he has no way to see or hear truth, except as a lonely, screaming need for peace and joy within his broken being. But soul waits in impatience, longing for benediction of God that it might find rest within its oneness within the perfection of its birthing. No PHYSICAL "thing" fills the need, the void, of that which IS Man for man is not of the physical but of the essence of etheric coalescence wherein naught but the body is physical. If a body be broken and lost, the soul has no need to bind itself to the broken body, but to rise with the Angels unto the heights of the eagles and on into the universal Cosmos with its own.

Sometimes, precious lambs, it comes that there is a need of the body to be suppressed that the soul can find its freedom and that it might assume its rightful place as a leader of mankind, a torch of hope to others who wallow in distraction and perception of being crippled rather than handicapped in a binding of flesh and broken things physical. Sometimes the body has be stilled that the soul can hear GOD our Creator, calling out to us to "get up from thine cot and FOLLOW ME!" If you are NOT stilled enough to listen, how can ye hope to hear YOUR call? Will YOU miss your purpose in journey because you could not silence self—AND HEAR? Can you who do not walk, but could do so, fail to heed the summons? Can you not hold high your lamp, rise to your feet (never mind if there are none) and light the way for your brother that he might see that "handicapped" is not "crippled"? To be "crippled" is a perception of the mind for a totally infirmed person can be quite whole and certainly "UNcrippled" by whatever might be his circumstances. I would ask you about the definition of "paralyzed", as a for instance. We have no etheric meaning to the word for we have no need of functioning OR non-functioning BODIES, and yet we are whole and valid—why can you not rise beyond that which is PERCEPTION and into the reality of LIVING? There are none so DEAD as those who walk and breathe and live in a state of brain-dead existence while there is not even "handicap" to consider. Mankind is the limitation of CRIPPLED. Mankind is a species at the brink of "mind"-loss and when the mind is so enslaved as to find no alternative—the soul withers and passes.

How do you know when the time is upon a civilization and its days are numbered as the sheets of the calendars? By the SIGNS which are always present. Revelation is not a tale of prophesy—it is a tale of MEMORY. The signs are always the same, the sequence identical, for Evil never has to change the play.

"How do you know when the time is upon a civilization and its days are numbered as the sheets of the calendars? By the SIGNS which are always present. Revelation is not a tale of prophesy—it is a tale of MEMORY. The signs are always the same, the sequence identical, for Evil never has to change the play. For the evil works every time without change. YOU MUST CHANGE THE PLAY SCRIPT OR IT SHALL NOT BE CHANGED. And indeed, YOU ARE THE ONE WHO CAN AND MUST DO IT!"

For the evil works every time without change. YOU MUST CHANGE THE PLAY SCRIPT OR IT SHALL NOT BE CHANGED. And indeed, YOU ARE THE ONE WHO CAN AND MUST DO IT!

As we write and the visions flow past like the flickering of a motion picture film, a great sadness overflows the scribe for, indeed, WE SEE that which shall come and hiding the eyes helps not for the vision and truth is burned into the very soul of infinite being. The SOUL sees beyond that which is the moment and into the very soul of living matter as it is transmuted and translated and all things known upon the lands are changed and hardly any living thing remains in that which WAS. Ah, but beyond this vision is the wonder of rebirth on the other and distant side of the curtain which has blocked the view of our experiencing physical beings.

You of LIFE shall be given the ability to look back and see the journey into the infinite passages, but the dead and dying will lay before your eyes as the terrible thing it became before its own passing. From out of the very bowels of the Earth shall the weeping rise to blight the very last breaths of death of that which WAS. And our people will turn and move ever upward into the LIGHTED passage-ways of our Guardians sent to see us through this passage of death into LIFE.

This day is Christmas Eve and this, by definition, means the eve before Christ Day. Is it? Will the morrow be a day of Christ or a day of Satan (Santa)? Or, may we look ever forward and recognize that we are truly on the EVE of CHRIST's DAY? I take no note of religion or named messengers or teachers, masters or students—I speak of the LAW OF GOD which MAN HAS FORGOTTEN or refused as he sought his own recreation in the things of passing physical presence.

You take your so-called Holy Books, and then, in lack of understanding, you search for a seer to opinion his edicts upon you for you do not comprehend meaning—but then, neither does he understand and babbles his speakings as a sentence upon you.

Have you, actually, any real understanding of your "timing of sequence" in your own play? Are you entering the era of the seals? The bowls of Angels? The four horsemen? Or, have you bound Satan once and now he is loosed for his final thrust and rule over the Earth Shan? Are you to the end or the beginning of your tribulation? Will the millennium bring a return of and to God or do you move into the PLAN of the Beast? Well, everything else the beast tells you is false and a total lie—so it would appear to me that perhaps we should consider alternatives along about now.

If your assumption is according to the PLAN of the Beast, you would be given to assume the Beast will come into total power according to his own Plan 2000. HOWEVER, think again, for if he is reaching the end of his 1000 years of total rule upon the planet, having been allowed a "second" chance out of the pit—perchance can there be HOPE for a movement beyond the next

"migration" and into a time of healing and rebirthing within the Light of Creator/Creation? The last century in your counting has been about as out-of-control and negative as you can get without totally destroying your very life-structures. Did the trumpet sound heard about the world in your year of counting, 1987, be the first or the LAST? If you are "prepared", does it matter which it was or would be? If you responded to the call you are now prepared of SOUL for that recognition and have only to serve and await the interesting things which shall come to pass around you. There will be some pretty sensational things going on to write home about, chelas—IF, you don't miss the boat.

There is no "race" or "people of any group" who are culprits which have brought a planet to her knees—it is out of the very bowels of evil that usurpers and so-called illumined ones have risen in conspiracy against God's people. These puppet-masters have come from every "so-called" race and formed a creed which negates GOD CREATOR and thus is Anti-CHRIST for the term "Christ" is not a label for A man—but a state of being within the knowing and being of God (goodness).

I have been petitioned to share some spiritual "hope" with you who read our speakings and writings but what I find is that I must have something from your own species to share with you or you fail to trust enough to HEAR and SEE.

I can, and have done so, go through the Book of Revelation and question and answer for hours upon end only to have the SAME inquiries raised again from the same inquiring minds. Therefore, as I see presentations with which I concur, I like to share THEM so that it does not appear I am a psychic nit-wit or some other dastardly ghost running around scaring your pants off you.

I am constantly accused of being nothing but a "fear-monger" and that I fail to give positive motivation and on and on as ones chastise me for my indiscretions and incapacities ACCORDING TO THEIR OWN LEARNED WISDOM. I am amused to note that these "teachers" and would-be "instructors" have not solved the problems of your world or your species but can most certainly redirect their "druthers" onto me for utilization AFTER I have failed to act upon some idiot foolishness of someone who claims some type of leadership position to which no one save self appointed him/her. If you simply replace one slave-master with another of the same ilk (which is obviously going to happen by the definition of the term) you have worsened your position. There are no MORAL wars and there are no HOLY wars—WARS ARE OF EVIL INTENT AND CONTENT. Therefore the "offended" lash out in excuses and explanations when in actuality I have no cause to be offended nor do I heed "excuses" when the real reason (lack of understanding) would be sufficient to explain foolish outcry. I see a world in downhill snowballing, sliding into destruction and you would have me attend somebody's injured ego-trap? No thank you. I am not in the business of selling papers or books or anything. I AM SENT TO TELL YOU THE TRUTH, BLOW THOSE HORNS AND SOUND THOSE ALARMS, AND THEN OFFER SOME HELPFUL DIRECTIONS—NO MORE AND NO LESS. AND IF WE NEVER ACQUIRE EVEN ONE MORE READER, SO BE IT. I always respect and revere your opinions, perceptions and gladly accept all input—but the "wishes" of the unknowing are not my responsibility to tag along behind. My responsibility is to BRING YOU TRUTH. I have the credentials and the qualifications to KNOW and therefore, since you have made a nasty mess of a perfect place—I shall not honor your prattlings for I KNOW MY MISSION, MY STATUS AND STAT-URE AND WHO I AM. I NOTE THAT YOU DO NOT KNOW ANY OF THESE.

What interests me? YOU. You in truth consumes me. You as MAN have been the target of great conspiracies to "gather" souls, friends, and through the conspiracies of men who have been able to fool you and manipulate you, you have fallen into their traps wherein you now become so entangled you cannot free selves without Divine intervention and direction. Those who first thought themselves so illumined as to run the world called themselves exactly that, Illuminati.

Thousands of historical and valid information papers have been handed down to you of the NOW, but still the argument goes on and the demands for your death as souled beings is demanded on the altar of the Evil Cartel. Worse yet, the very religions which were claimed to offer truth and freedom feed you on lies and false teachings. So you seep deeper into the mire of the bog-pits.

CONSPIRACIES

How can you deny a global conspiracy of evil conspirators when these have been the historical facts of all time on your planet? Saying a thing is not so does not make it not so—it only reflects the prattlings of a fool when it exists and is covered by lies and false shams infested with the parasites and bloodsuckers of life itself. I suggest you heed the LAST TRUMPET and take a look at possibilities on this Christmastime experience. We ALL know you are in the final changes of something pretty big and every which way you turn on your dangling string you are told what to do, how to do it, who really owns it, and thus and so. If there are TAXES attached to ANYTHING—you own it not—you are but a renter of it. THAT, readers, IS THROUGH CONSPIRACY of the controllers against YOU-THE-

PEOPLE.

I believe we can probably agree that you are somewhere about the time of the prophecy regarding the seals and their meaningful experiences so let us take up

"What interests me? YOU. You in truth consumes me. along about that sixth seal and focus on the possibilities of meanings.

I am asked to NOT offer information about this next resource so I will offer this directly as written as that is the request of the writers. I don't believe I will need make much commentary for I find a pretty good picture having emerged from the puzzle as put together herein.

[QUOTING:]

"For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?" 1 Cor. 14:8.

BREAKING THE CHOKE HOLD OF ILLUMINISM

"And I beheld when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood; And the stars of heaven fell unto the Earth, even as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind. And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places. And the kings of the Earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free man, hid themselves in the dens and in the rocks of the mountains; And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of Him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb: For the great day of HIS wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?" Revelation 6:12-17.

We will focus on and examine the current strangle or choke-hold that the Masterminds of the Great Conspiracy of the Illuminati have on the people of the United States and the rest of the world. We are nearing the end of 1995 and approaching the election year of 1996. We are only four years from the turn of the decade, century and millennium. (Do not confuse this with the millennial doctrine.) Thus, the odometer of time will be turning over a one, ten, one-hundred and one-thousand. The occultic conspirators, new agers and one world advocates believe that the "Age of Aquarius" will then begin and will take until the year 2004 to be firmly in place. I have come to believe that we who are now alive are the last generation, and that the coming of our Saviour is at hand. [H: I must interject here that there is no "Saviour" coming to SAVE you as such. Your "rescuers" might well be coming but only SELF can SAVE SELF as assumed by this terminology. The observation about the "last generation" is valid consideration and so too is the return of HIGHER beings, including the perfection of God's Hosts and the return of HIMSELF. I am going to use the words of the author here but I assure you that such terms as Saviour as in "Jesus" are not correct. "Christ" is the consciousness here in meaning. And remember that, before Saul named Emmanuel "Jesus", his name was Esu Emmanuel so all the use of the label does not make it so in actuality. My reason for using this material is its written observations about the "times" at hand. Whether you believe in Podunk or Jesus or Emmanuel or Buddha or whoever, THE recognized energy of Christed God shall again be coming among you so, please, let us let go of such bindings as creeds, colors and races.]

This 20th century has been one that has twice seen the entire world at war. Earthquakes are increasing with intensity and frequency. Government and society have been universally debauched, and all organized "Christianity" has become or is rapidly becoming Antichrist. Violence and immorality has filled our streets and our cities have become war zones. The Justice Department has become the "Just-us" Department with total disregard for what is right. Yes, something has a deadly choke-hold on this nation of the United States, and yet there is no cry for help to the only one who CAN HELP. As we now examine this strangle-hold by the force of the Illuminati, we must always bear in mind that the choke hold will soon be broken by the Lord Christ. Our Christ has a divine schedule, and soon He will arrive precisely on schedule, and that will be a day of weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth.

THE CHOKE HOLD OF THE NEW WORLD ORDER

...I am highly sensitive to what the conspirators are doing because I WAS so much a part of their world. We must attack the enemy with the full power of prayer and then shine the floodlight on what is being done in the dark conspiratorial chambers of the Illuminati!

There are many Illuminati-controlled front men in our country today on radio talk shows and in other forms of media that are knocking themselves out trying to convince people that there is no conspiracy. Here let it be noted that Rush Limbaugh is one such man. Limbaugh insinuates that only the "kooks" believe there is a conspiracy. Limbaugh mentions many of the problems in our nation but never exposes who or what is doing the choking as our strangling nation gasps for breath. [H: It would be good for you to remember that Rush Limbaugh "sounds" real good but he was a paid prattler for the Republicans to the tune of $8 million dollars to push Gingrich et al. He also has traveled and gained instruction from his handlers in Israel so, please, listen with discernment. That however, must be done in and with all information spouters—including this one we feature and myself. You must JUDGE actions and words—never mind the source. The best teachers are the most Evil of those among you for they are so very good at what they do! Ponder it.]

Is there a conspiracy? Consider the following quotes: "There is a power somewhere so organized, so subtle, so watchful, so interlocked, so complete, so pervasive, that they better not speak above their breath when they speak in condemnation of it" (The late President Woodrow Wilson). [H: And boy, he, if anyone, SHOULD know!] "The Individual is handicapped by coming face to face with a conspiracy so monstrous he cannot believe it exists" (The late FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, whom the media later branded as a sex pervert, because he dared expose the conspiracy.) [H: No, this is not accurate—he WAS a sex-pervert! And he was a PART OF the conspiracy.] “Every effort has been made by the Federal Reserve Board to conceal its powers, but the truth is... the Federal Reserve System has usurped the government. It controls everything here (Congress) and it controls all our foreign relations. It makes and breaks governments at will.” (The late and murdered Congressman Louis T. McFadden, ex-Chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency). “And the Lord said unto me, A conspiracy is found among the men of Judah, and among the inhabitants of Jerusalem” (Almighty God in Jeremiah 11:9).

[H: How is that for pinpointing the problem and the problem-makers? Interestingly enough, however, it doesn’t take Almighty God to recognize the situation.]

Yes! There is a conspiracy and the agenda of this cabal is intensely evil. The Illuminati-controlled government has numerous covens of witches and astrologers advising them, just as the kings and emperors of Babylon, Greece and Rome, as had all of the ancient empires. A simple examination of the timing of planned events reveals that the whole scheduled agenda runs on astrology. A current example is the threat by President Clinton of shutting down the government and sending 800,000 workers on furlough, because the government will run out of money on the 13th day of November, which is also exactly 39 days (three 13s) before the witches’ high sabat of the winter solstice. Whenever this happens, the interest rate rises. Again, this is perfect satanic timing on the part of the Clinton Administration.

[H: Please pay attention to the above. It would seem that these things came to pass but I would note that there is one thing to throw you for a loss—a tiny, tiny break in the interest rate. It was a signal—not a good news tid-bit. You have to realize that the ones who KNOW and write about these things put the adversarial conspirators at a great loss as to what to do to avoid being caught in TRUTH. You are witnessing the stupidity of government in idiot-actions as we write here this minute. I cannot see how anyone can miss it for it is glaring as the script written across the very sky.]

THE CHOKE-HOLD OF UN ONE-WORLDISM

While our nation is floundering in bankruptcy, the Clinton Administration continues to force the UN One-World plan upon an uninformed public. The UN plan (which is the Zionist Plan 2000) is one of divide and conquer, which is why they are pushing the “diversity” doctrine. Our “public” schools have become brain laundering facilities, where indoctrination has replaced education, and the zeal to succeed has been replaced with energy for rebellion against law and order. Schools throughout our nation are graduating students who cannot read their own diploma. It reminds me of the movie classic THE WIZARD OF OZ [H: Please read Cathy O’Brien’s Trance Formation of America {see this page to find out how to order this great book} to understand just HOW MUCH LIKE THE WIZARD OF OZ

THIS REALLY IS!], when the wizard said to the scarecrow, “I can’t give you a brain, but I can give you a diploma.” It was the Communist Vladimir Lenin who said, “Give me your four-year-olds and in a generation I will build a socialist state.” Here let it be noted that the Federal Government runs a program called Operation Head Start, which was originally intended for four-year-olds. Lenin also said, “Destroy the family and society will collapse.” The governmental schools are very craftily accomplishing Lenin’s plan under the umbrella of the UN “Right of the Child Program”.

Children are being taught the proper use of the condom, and of course, they cannot apply what they have learned without having sex. At this point, I must note that a number of years ago I pointed out and warned about the dangers of condoms. When I published that newsletter, I stated that the pores found in latex condoms are large enough for the AIDS virus to get through. Some thought this to be incredible, but now, the University of Wisconsin has handed out fliers to its students which read, “A 5 micron hole, found in some latex condoms, is 50 times larger than the HIV virus. The virus can easily get through." (1) The false safety of these sex devices is spreading the plague of AIDS, creating an epidemic of astounding proportions.

Another UN plot is the governmental requirement in some areas for sensitivity training, or, as it is sometimes called, "Diversity Class". According to a March 31st, 1995, New York Times article, Representative Frank R. Wolf, a Republican from Virginia, held a hearing to investigate charges that the Department of Transportation had sponsored training programs in which "men were groped, women sobbed for hours, and Blacks and Whites were urged to exchange epithets." The article went on to say, "Among the many bizarre instances documented by staff doing the investigation were requirements that employees stare at lighted candles for hours, be physically tied to co-workers for hours, be required to strip down to their underwear in front of co-workers and reveal deep-seated problems, and list vulgar terms for women and minorities." (2) This is a classic example of how the Clinton Administration thinks and operates. We must remember that such idiocy comes from the evil chambers of the United Nations Beast which is a many-headed hydra monster that is now flexing its muscles on the East River in the city of "forbidden fruit" known as the "Big Apple".

A WORLD TAX? GOD FORBID!

Recently I was in New York City as the United Nations was preparing to celebrate its 50th anniversary. The spirit of evil there was stifling, and the reason why is becoming more obvious every passing day. At the anniversary celebration, President Clinton said, "We need to say yes to a brave, ambitious new agenda... most of all, yes to the dream of the United Nations." What Clinton was referring to by the words "ambitious new agenda" is the plan issued by the U.N. Commission on Global Governance to impose Global taxes on American citizens and citizens throughout the world. The title of the U.N. report outlining this big new tax is, Our Global Neighborhood. The taxes would be imposed on all multinational corporations, which would raise the prices of everything purchased. Other things that would be taxed would be fishing and airline tickets. (3) The Clinton Administration wants to go even further by imposing global taxes on energy and currency transactions. (4) How heinously evil is this plan? If currency transactions are globally taxed, it will raid the pension funds and mutual funds and will especially hit the elderly very, very hard. (5) It is a sad fact that in 1995, 4 billion dollars of U.S. taxpayer money flowed into the U.N. Furthermore, Clinton is using our own U.S. defense budget to pay for the U.N. peacekeeping missions. These so-called missions require that U.S. military personnel change into the U.N. uniform and subordinate themselves to foreign military leaders. Here let it be noted that Spec. Michael New, a U.S. Army medic, is scheduled for a court-martial and is being threatened with a dishonorable discharge and jail time, because he has refused to put on the U.N. uniform. (6) Spec. New said that putting on that uniform would be violation of his oath to uphold the Constitution of the United States, and for that he is now threatened.

Referring back to the document mentioned before, Our Global Neighborhood, we find the following written on page 344. "A start must be made in establishing schemes of global financing of global purposes, including charges for the use of global resources such as flight lanes, sea lanes, and ocean fishing areas and the collection of global revenues agreed globally and implemented by treaty. An international tax on foreign currency transactions should be explored as one option, as should the creation of an international corporate tax base among multinational companies. It is time for the evolution of a consensus on the concept of global taxation for servicing the needs of the global neighborhood." (7) Here let it be noted that the projected income from such a global tax is estimated to be 1.5 trillion dollars per year, which is slightly more than the annual budget of the entire U.S. Government. One can only wonder if someday the Internal Revenue Service will give way to a Global Revenue Service. People everywhere should write to their Congressmen and demand that the U.S. get out of the U.N. and the U.N. be hurled out of the U.S. The U.S. should not be paying the salaries of U.N. officials, who receive 40% more in salary than U.S. officials.

The question remains, why don't people come fully awake and take action against such heinous activities by the masterminds of the Illuminati's Great Conspiracy? Perhaps we can find the answer in the words of well-known but deceased head of state. Consider the following: "The people gaze fascinated at one or two superficialities, such as possessions and income and rank and other outworn conceptions. As long as these are kept intact, they are quite satisfied. But in the meantime they have entered a new relation; a powerful social force has caught them up." These were the words of Adolf Hitler. We know that through prayer and faithful service to the Almighty, we can make a difference and cause havoc with the Illuminati plans....

[END OF QUOTING]

May I suggest we close this writing now as it is time to participate with family in the festivities of the day. Please, readers, as you think on these things may you always realize that GOD is as near as your intact MIND. This means, by its very statement, that if you allow your mind to warp or fragment—so too shall you lose your attachment to that foundation of all Creation, our Creator. May my gift to you at this time of remembering goodness and sharing, be that of lighting just one little brain-cell into understanding and recognition of the beast at your door.

Salu. God blesses you in your journey unto truth and in the hollow of HIS hand shall He hold us unto HIM. I bow unto HIS wisdom and seek always, HIS GRACE and He rewards me with the Universe without limitation and without hesitation in His giving and regiving THAT I MAY BE. And in the realization of that miracle of LIFE—so too can you become!

"...ON CHRISTMAS DAY IN THE MORNING..."

On this memorial day celebration throughout the world there is more intense joy, and/or pain, than on any other day of the calendar year. Not even the celebration of the crucifixion, and ascension of an accepted Christ (or a Jesus) accompanying the even earlier celebration of Easter, fills the cup of sweet wine or bitterness that accompanies Christmas.

IT IS AN IDEA

All in one package Christmas recognizes hope, remorse, happiness, agony, ecstasy, disappointment, a few moments of satisfaction and fulfillment, a loss, a gain.... Every "feeling" of emotion is intensified and, within that area of "hope" in the listing of expectation, people even paddle off to churches and synagogues (there is no difference) and give some attention to that which is higher than themselves in either hope of growth or in the Satanic ritual, a prayer for further control and affliction.

In WHICH rests truth? Neither and both. For again the PROOF is in the individual intent of EACH—not each religion, but rather, each individual.

CLEARING DARK ENERGIES

Could "I" go within a Satanic church and clear out all the "dark energies"? Indeed, and so can you—but what have you gained? The individuals in attendance will only hate you and form revenge parties against you. Your own worshipped Master-Teacher did as much and after 2000 years YOU ARE STILL CRUCIFYING HIM—ON THE CROSS OF PAIN. In the Catholic Church you will ALWAYS FIND THE MAN ON THE CROSS IN DEATH AND BLEEDING TO BE THE CENTERPIECE. THIS SHOULD BE YOUR CLUE TO TRUTH. In every religion the "CROSS" is the major symbolic ritual tool.

Does it never occur to you as a species that UNTIL YOU REMOVE THE HOPE OF THE WORLD FROM THAT CROSS YOU CAN HAVE NO FREEDOM OR LIFE?

WHY HAVE THE HOSTS COME?

Why have, indeed, the Hosts come? TO TAKE OUR BROTHER OFF THE CROSS IN YOUR RITUALISTIC SLAUGHTER RITUALS. When you see a crucifix—you see the death and detention of GOODNESS affixed to a cross of agony and pain WHICH REPRESENTS YOU-THE-PEOPLE!! It is not your salvation represented there but your sure march to DEATH.

So what is the gift-giving all about? It, the gifts, represent the tokens and coffin offerings to the DEAD! It is the exchange of THINGS which cement you to the physical and disallow you to attain that which is Spiritually beyond the moment of physical expression.

Do I expect you to GIVE UP these ideals of sharing (which undoubtedly YOU bear) and ideas of a Christ birthing into a world of evil? No, because YOU DON'T KNOW THE TRUTH! Until you know truth, why should you, or why COULD you, change that which has been taught for millions of ages?

You try to bring light and hope through strings of Christmas lights and tinsels, glitter and blitz of drink and feasting. You share TOYS instead of TRUTH—but the soul feels better for the moment of giving and receiving. It is a human enjoyment in expression within family and friends and for a brief moment, even between enemies. For just a little while you can PRETEND that wishes are good and hope abides. In war there is often a Christmas truce. Are you kidding me or yourself? What that says is, "I won't kill you today for that would be ugly! I shall wait and kill you tomorrow." Is THAT not even more ugly? In other words, I shall give you a toy today, feed you and lull you to sleep, and kill you later when you don't expect it. (Or perhaps you do expect it; it matters not.)

ONES EXPECT OF ME

So what? And so, what...? What do ones want and expect from me? Well, at a wondrous holiday season, certainly NOT the TRUTH. You want me to somehow bounty-up your motivation to share some order of bettering your own circumstances, falling in behind that which is not excellence to give the builders of the non-excellent presentation good fuzzy and warm feelings of tidings of great joy. No thank you—those may be YOUR wishes, not mine! TO DO SOMETHING WRONG IS MOST CERTAINLY NOT BETTER THAN DOING NOTHING! Further, to ask ME to sanction and bless the incorrect attitude is not going to happen, readers. I will bless your intent of goodness—I will NOT bless your foolish presentations and actions. My job is to bring life and light in Truth—not to bless your incorrect presumptions and assumptions.

I am not a little E.T. hopping about touching finger-tips and healing your scratches. I am head of the Hosts of God Creator come to set the stage for the return of GOD TO HIS PEOPLE! IF YOU DON'T LIKE IT, READERS, I CANNOT HELP IT FOR IT IS YOUR PROBLEM AND NOT MY OWN.

"Oh, but I don't like Ekker-Ekker Dharma Phoenix, rattle, prattle, fiddle and faddle...!" you say? Well, that is none of their, or MY, business either. YOU will not be counted in the body of God, I would assume, or you would not separate yourself OUT and away from TRUTH while moving into your world of cover-up and hidden actions. Don't you just wish those actions would remain hidden? Well, the time is upon your lands when the SEVENTH SEAL IS BROKEN, people, and TRUTH IS GOING TO BECOME KNOWN! YOU will be in the ACCOUNTING and that which YOU DO UNTO MY PEOPLE WILL BE PLACED ON THE GIANT SCREENS FOR ALL TO SEE AND KNOW.

Even the corrupted courts of (sic) sick law may very well RULE against truth and justice but the act will not make a whit of difference in the STANDING OF TRUTH. So, are you in big trouble? YES INDEED—BIG TROUBLE. GOD HAS MADE HIS PROMISES UNTO HIS PEOPLE—AND GOD KEEPS HIS PROMISES—EVERY ONE!

SEVENS (7777777)
VS. SIXES (666)

What means all the seven "things" as in Revelation visions? Simply that there is Godliness in the "7s" of meaningful signs and clues to "timing", seasons and HOMELAND! You numerologists are hung up on "9" being Godly and "6" being Ungodly. So be it, but seven is the number which means the most in knowing circumstances. "8" is the sign of infinity or it simply means that 7 + 1 = 8. I don't have a lot of patience with your counting or your interpretations but there are great truths in the correct use of such "ac-countings".

There is, however, even greater meaning in the fact that the six is beneath the seven and all things higher. No matter how the "chips fall" or the "cookie crumbles" GOD CREATOR SOURCE WILL PREVAIL OVER THE LESSER ENERGIES OF EVIL (whose ritualistic symbol is ^^^, or, 666). ^^^ is a symbol of Sananda's alpha and omega. You have no way on your typesetter to present the pattern correctly—but this suffices. CHRIST IS THE "ROOF" AND THE "FOUNDATION". THREE (6s) may very well ADD UP TO "NINE"—BUT NEVER WILL IT ADD UP TO GOD.

Now, you who are going to tinker with this further—you better check "out-there" wherever, and look for something which represents SEVEN and get with the program and stop prattling about "little gray aliens" and turn unto the TRUTH of lineage of GOD'S troopers on duty. If YOU are found within the tribes of God's enemy troops in participation and intention—we will consider you to be AMONG THEM—LITERALLY!

BY THE WAY, ABOUT THOSE "INDIANS"

First let us have a clear meaning for I DO NOT mean Indians from India. I speak of the lineage of the ANCIENT ONES! OUR ANCESTORS, now presented as aboriginal PEOPLE. THEY are the PEOPLE, literally. They are the basis of HUman people! They always were and shall always be and your "druthers" will make not one iota of difference in that FACT.

They have borne the truth in their oral traditional teachings since the BEGINNING. And, good buddies, it will sustain in the ENDING of that which you recognize as the ongoing cycle changes. YOU ARE TO THE BIG MIGRATION, CHILDREN, AND I WONDER HOW MANY OF YOU HAVE YOUR BAGS PACKED?

The "indians" are not about hugging trees and kissing frogs; they are degraded and distracted EXACTLY LIKE EVERYONE ELSE. THE BURDEN, THEREFORE, OF TRUTH—FALLS UPON THE BACKS OF THE WILLING TRUTHBRINGERS. Please don't give me garbage about "Paganism" and worshiping of MANY false idols among the Indians. WHAT DO YOU CHRISTIANS (OR ATHEISTS) WORSHIP? NO, IT IS NOT CREATOR. YOU WOR-SHIP THAT WHICH IS "CREATED" AND TRY YOUR BEST TO GET A CORNER ON THE MARKET OF THOSE CREATED ITEMS WHICH HOLD YOUR PERCEPTION OF VALUE.

While Dharma sighs in resignation of one more wall of flak to be strewn in her path after this message, Little Crow flaps his big white Eagle wings and smiles and recites to himself that "we are finally getting somewhere"! So, soon now, he will polish up his feather quill (pen) and sign his book and offer you truth in his type of presentation about LIFE—THE SACRED HILL WITHIN.

When US&P banned Dharma's writings called THE SACRED SPIRIT WITHIN, dedicated to Little Crow—IT WAS THE SIGN—OF THE SEVENTH BOOK (SEAL), AND HAS FAR GREATER MEANING THAN ANY OF YOU "OTHER" READERS WILL EVER COME TO KNOW! The banning of the books on LIGHT were the final physical important sign of the end of the play and the velvet curtain falling shortly upon this con of experience. So, is Dharma hurt? Only her feelings!! She can rest in the acknowledgement that she has filled one of the most IMPORTANT roles on the face of your STAGE at any time—ANYWHERE. But she doesn't for she has absolutely NO way to relate to such things. DOES LITTLE CROW KNOW? YES! Little Crow White Eagle HAS ALWAYS KNOWN! He is my son, my father, my brother and, above all, HE IS MY FRIEND. I can give no higher honor to any MAN OR SOUL. He has attended my scribe and my hands, my speaker and my love, he is the wind that blows her sails when the masts are broken and the rents are gaping. There needs to be no call except through the thoughts, and when all of you come to KNOW this truth, you shall be FREE! Remember that "freedom" is but a thought as is every "thing" manifest or etheric. We are the blessed THOUGHT of our CREATOR to whom I offer reverence and RESPECT—I do not worship.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

I am always amused at the tiny little things which intrigue you as in "numbers", "words", star signs, etc. So what might mean "dharma"? You pull a lady named "Doris" to a frazzled and tattered being by your slings and arrows while others mend the rents and rips and keep the sails billowed. But I wonder, what is in a word? Well, "dharma" simply means something to the effect of "bringer of life truth"—so it is but an identification of her task as our scribe. Her name, alone, has meaning far beyond that which parents attached to a tiny babe who was never secure or rooted. Doris Eloise was her penned birth name, given to simply identify. But let us consider the "THOUGHT" behind the presentation. Doris is "Dorian female" all tangled up with the SEVEN sea children of the Universal Sea. Eloise is a name which represents Ella which is "come in", "come forth", welcome, etc., in Greek. There is also a term used for a life-boat, dory, which is also a "clue" which means the bringing forth of that which will "save your life"—or your everloving ass-ettes. So you end up with "welcome aboard the life-boat". Interesting? I suppose so. I can assure you of one thing: "Dharma" doesn't think it interesting because she has NO wish AT ALL to be anybody's life-boat as she claims her own is quite sunk and riddled with holes. So we, with our great long hands, encircle her and pull her from the mist over and over again, breathe truth and, literally, life again into the body that we might move on into the LIGHT of realization. She does not have to deal with your perceptions—only her own. You have long ago lost the truth in meaning of your teachers. We don't come forth to light stages for entertainment of "readings" for individuals who refuse to accept their own responsibility. Ah, but there is personal recognition and attachment?? YES INDEED!! WE ARE ALL IN THIS LIFE-BOAT PRAYING TO MAKE SHORE AND SAFETY.

The more seals opened and broken, the more Angel-bowls emptied upon the lands, and the louder the trumpet blasts become—the more we have to patch the dory-holes. But, once TRUTH IS LOOSED UPON THE LANDS—THE WAR IS WON—AND ONLY THE DYING IS LEFT TO DO FOR THE LIVING ARE ALREADY AT PEACE AND IN SAFETY. (You just don't know what "safety" represents.)

DO YOU WANT MORE GAME
PLAYING AND COUNTING?

Alright, let us look at recent events and consider prophecy and calculations. Whether or not you can ACTUALLY consider these "real" signs is not at issue for the EVIL EMPIRE ALWAYS BUILDS ON THEIR OWN NOTIONS OF SIGNS SO THAT THEIR GUARDS AND TROOPS WILL KNOW WHAT IS HAPPENING AND WHEN IT MUST HAPPEN.

So, let us first consider the prophecy and the bowls of "God's Anger".

[Quoting, Revelation 16:]

From the temple I heard a voice shout to the seven angels, "Go and empty the seven bowls of God's anger on the Earth."

The first angel emptied his bowl on the Earth. At once ugly and painful sores broke out on everyone who had the mark of the beast and worshiped the idol.

The second angel emptied his bowl on the sea. Right away the sea turned into blood like that of a dead person, and every living thing in the sea died.

The third angel emptied his bowl into the rivers and streams. At once they turned to blood. Then I heard the angel, who has power over water, say,

"You have always been,
and you always will be the holy God.
You had the right to judge in this way.
They poured out the blood of your people and your prophets.
So you gave them blood to drink,
as they deserve!"

After this, I heard the altar shout,
"Yes, Lord God All-Powerful,
your judgments are honest and fair."

The fourth angel emptied his bowl on the Sun, and it began to scorch people like fire. Everyone was scorched by its great heat, and all of them cursed the name of God who had power over these terrible troubles. But no one turned to God and praised him.

The fifth angel emptied his bowl on the throne of the beast. At once darkness covered its kingdom, and its people began biting their tongues in pain. And because of their painful sores, they cursed the God who rules in heaven. But still they did not stop doing evil things.

The sixth angel emptied his bowl on the great Euphrates River, and it completely dried up to make a road for the kings from the east. An evil spirit that looked like a frog came out of the mouth of the dragon. One also came out of the mouth of the beast, and another out of the mouth of the false prophet. These evil spirits had the power to work miracles. They went to every king on Earth, to bring them together for a war against God All-Powerful. But that will be the day of God's great victory.

Remember that Christ [H: Note the use of the word Christ—not "Jesus".] says, "When I come, it will surprise you like a thief! But God will bless you, IF YOU ARE AWAKE AND READY. Then you won't have to walk around naked and be ashamed."

Those armies came together in a place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon.

As soon as the seventh angel emptied his bowl in the air, a loud voice from the throne in the temple shouted, "It's done!" There were flashes of lightning, roars of thunder and the worst earthquake in all history. The great city of Babylon split into three parts, and the cities of other nations fell. So God made Babylon drink from the wine cup that was filled with his anger. Every island ran away, and the mountains disappeared. Hailstones, weighing about a hundred pounds each, fell from the sky on people. Finally, the people cursed God, because the hail was so terrible.

Then, one of the seven angels who had emptied the bowls came over and said to me, "Come on! I will show you how God will punish that shameless prostitute who sits on many oceans. Every king on Earth has slept with her, and her shameless ways are like wine that has made everyone on Earth drunk."

With the help of the Spirit, the angel took me into the desert, where I saw a woman sitting on a red beast. The beast was covered with names that were an insult to God, and it had seven heads and ten horns. The woman was dressed in purple and scarlet robes, and she wore jewelry made of gold, precious stones, and pearls. In her hand she held a gold cup filled with the filthy and nasty things she had done. On her forehead a mysterious name was written:

I AM THE GREAT CITY OF BABYLON,
THE MOTHER OF EVERY IMMORAL AND FILTHY THING ON EARTH

I could tell that the woman was drunk on the blood of God's people WHO HAD GIVEN THEIR LIVES FOR "JESUS". [H: Right here is where to PAY ATTENTION FOR THIS DID NOT SAY "CHRIST". IT SAYS "JESUS" AND THEREIN IS THE GREATEST LESSON IN TRUTH THAT YOU WILL EVER KNOW.] This surprising sight amazed me, and the angel said:

Why are you so amazed? I will explain the mystery about this woman and about the beast she is sitting on, with its seven heads and ten horns. The beast you saw is one that used to be and no longer is. It will come back from the deep pit, but only to be destroyed. Everyone on Earth whose names were not written in the book of LIFE before the time of creation will be amazed! They will see this beast that used to be and no longer is, but will be once more.

Anyone with wisdom can figure this out. The seven heads that the woman is sitting on stand for seven hills. These heads are also seven kings. Five of the kings are dead. One is ruling now, and the other one has not yet come. But when he does, he will rule for only a little while.

You also saw a beast that used to be and no longer is. The beast is one of the seven kings who will return as the eighth king, but only to be destroyed.

The ten horns that you saw are ten more kings, who have not yet come into power, and they will rule with the beast for only a short time. They all think alike and will give their power and authority to the beast. These kings will go to war against the "Lamb". But He will defeat them, because he is Lord over all lords and King over all kings. His followers are chosen and special and faithful.

The oceans that you saw the prostitute sitting on are crowds of people from all races and languages. The ten horns and the beast will start hating the shameless woman. They will strip off her clothes and leave her naked. Then they will eat her flesh and throw the rest of her body into a fire. God is the one who made these kings all think alike and decide to give their power over to the beast. And they will do this UNTIL WHAT GOD HAS SAID COMES TRUE.

THE WOMAN YOU SAW IS THE GREAT CITY THAT RULES OVER ALL KINGS ON EARTH.

[END OF QUOTING]

I would suggest that you readers go read Chapter 18 of Revelation, in addition to what we have shared here for I don't want to take the time to write, HERE this morning, further on this focus.

I would, in fact, like to pull your attention back to yesterday's writing and continue with the topic of:

INTRIGUE IN THE MIDDLE EAST!

[QUOTING:]

[H: Never mind from "where", just realize it is very good observation on the part of the author.]

On November 4th, 1995 Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin was shot three times and killed as the gunman fired from only 5 feet away. The news media everywhere stated that the killer was acting alone, but from the time of the event, Mrs. Rabin said it was a conspiracy. The conspirators wanted this man out of the way, because his plans were interfering with activities that are planned for the Middle East in the near future. There is no doubt that the execution was planned with occult timing, because it took place exactly 13 days from the October eclipse of the Sun and 33 days prior to the December full Moon. In ancient occult teaching, an eclipse of the Sun indicates the death of a world leader. Since the number 33 is the number most sacred to Freemasonry, it is obvious that the Council of 33 or Grand Masters, issued the directives of the plot. Here let it be noted that Freemasonry is based on TALMUDIC JUDAISM, and the essence of Masonic doctrine is the building of the Temple at Jerusalem.

Another interesting fact about this assassination is that no one seems to know how the killer passed the extremely tight security. As questions were asked about the security problems, the Israeli Security Chief suddenly resigned. On Thursday, November 9th, U.S. Attorney General JANET RENO offered the full cooperation and services of the FBI [H: PAY ATTENTION!!] to help with the case. Aside from the fact that this is none of the FBI's business, it is certain that if "General Reno", as she likes to be called, gets into the picture, the truth will certainly be on the scaffold. There are big plans for the Middle East, for it is over that land that the staged and false second coming of Christ is planned. Here let it be noted that there have been many Space Shuttle flights recently, and the most recent one at the writing of this letter (Nov. 11th) left Earth on the day before the October eclipse of the Sun and returned the day AFTER the assassination of Rabin. Now, another Shuttle was scheduled originally to depart on November 10th, exactly 33 days after the October full Moon. This flight was, however, delayed. Suffice it to say that there are strange goings-on in space, and I do not know how far the Almighty will let them go. If these stellar activities continue, this Earth is in for the greatest deception of all time.

[H: Let us consider what is EXPECTED and what might be THE SIGN OFFERED IN THE SKY AS A RETURN OF (???)? It is accepted that the sign for Christians will most certainly be the IMAGE of JESUS. Other accepted "Christs" will also be depicted according to religions. THIS IS HOW YOU KNOW THE MESSAGES ARE FALSE—FOR THE IMAGE WILL BE SUITABLE TO "PEOPLE", NOT TRUTH. BY THE WAY, GOD WILL LET THIS GO ON UNTIL THE PROPHECIES ARE FULFILLED—PERIOD. THE SORTING IS NOT OVER UNTIL IT IS OVER. BY THE WAY, IT WILL BE EXACTLY AS IT WILL BE (GREAT WORDS FROM LITTLE CROW!).]

BIG BROTHER IS WATCHING YOU!

The words "Big Brother is watching you" were taken from George Orwell's book 1984. We should also listen to another profound statement by Orwell as follows, "The people could be made to accept the most flagrant violations of reality, because they never fully grasped the enormity of what was demanded of them, and were not sufficiently interested in public events to notice what was happening." We are living in a time when privacy is almost non-existent, and this condition is part of the choke-hold that Illuminism maintains on the unsuspecting and apathetic people. Here let it be noted that the symbol of the Illuminati has always been the single eye at the top of a pyramid. This eye was called the "Eye of Horus" by the ancient Egyptians, because Horus was supposed to be the all-seeing son of the Sun God. The eye was also called the "Utchat" and was used to symbolize wealth and prosperity in ancient Egypt. We know that this same symbol has appeared on the United States dollar bill since the administration of Franklin Roosevelt. The "all seeing eye" was intended to intimidate people and leave the impression that there was no place to hide from the power of the eye. The evidence that the technologies and recent innovations of the Illuminati scientists are now watching us is everywhere. I have in front of me an article from the Milwaukee Journal-Sentinel newspaper with headlines that say, "Big Bus Driver is Watching". The article tells how the 7.9-million-dollar Smart-Track system watches every city bus from space and pinpoints the locations of all units at ALL times. In addition to being able to monitor people, buses, and cars for that matter, the conspirators also seem to have the capability to control the functioning of some vehicles. Numerous reports have been made of incidents where automobiles suddenly stopped running. One such incident was on Monday, July 18th, 1994, on Interstate 15 in Utah. Cars along the highway suddenly stopped running and would not start. The only cars that would run were models made PRIOR TO 1984. After about one hour, all the vehicles started to run again.

In addition to watching us as we travel, the conspirators are also watching our spending and other money transactions. The latest credit and debit cards being tested in certain locations project the image of the users' face on the monitor screen at the point-of-purchase terminals. Thus, your photograph is in the magnetic strip on the back of your card, and your image is projected through the computer system. More of such things are happening all of the time, and without a doubt we are at the end of the world—AS WE KNOW IT.

[END OF QUOTING]

Yes indeed I know that you of GOD want to hear more and more and more truth but the fingers are weary. Too much to chew at one period of feeding is hard on the total DIGESTION. Therefore, we must always remember that our wish is not our DEMAND to cram anything down another's throat. GOD IS SORTING AND PERCHANCE GOD DOES NOT SEE UNCLE "JOE" AS YOU MAY "WISH" HIM TO BE. WE OFFER; WE EXTEND OUR LOVE AND OUR HANDS; WE SHALL DO NO MORE THAN THAT WHICH GOD PRESENTS AS OUR ASSIGNMENT, RESPONSIBILITY AND ACCOUNTABILITY. WE JUDGE NOT BUT WE LAY FORTH GOD'S "CONDITIONS" ACCORDING TO OUR OBLIGATION.

May you have a truthful "CHRIST" mas and not just a Merry X-mas! The "mysteries" are being opened before you—and you will find no "mystical mysticism or magic" within our presentations for we come OF LIFE and not of the walking DEAD. The way will be made known to you if you choose to see and hear—AS ACCORDING TO THE PROMISE OF GOD. Nobody is going to DRAG YOU ALONG TO ANYWHERE—SAFETY OR OTHERWISE. We are the WAYSHOWERS—not the bonded burden-bearers.

YOU may go on any pathway you prefer—but if you expect to go on OURS, you are going to MEET THE CONDITIONS as we set them. The avenues to heaven or hell are yours to choose so I suggest you carefully ponder (maybe even THINK) on these words and thoughts offered here. Physical perception of TIME is running out!

Salu, and may CHRIST rest HIS hand upon your being this Christmas season instead of the sticky fingers of Satan Claws!

And who might I be? I AM CALLED 'ATON'! Who are you?

The C.I.A. Pipeline

by Michael Maholy

Part XX: "Operation Odessa"

Editor's note: The last time we presented Michael Maholy's "inside" story about The C.I.A. Pipeline was in our 12/12/95 CONTACT on p. 17, where he called that installment: "Drop Zone".

It is widely known throughout the entire world, that oil and natural gas are both the lifeline and bloodline of any country or nation on the Planet Earth. Without these very precious high-priced commodities nations would come to a halt; they would stall. Over the past few decades the quest for oil and natural gas has been a worldwide effort. Vast deposits have been found in places so remote that even certain animal subspecies cannot exist, yet modern man with his futuristic technology, computers, and satellite laser functioning has found deposits so large that it's truly hard to comprehend.

It was decided way back toward the early part of the 1930s, that the most powerful Elite families of the world would take it upon themselves to rule over the distribution of these highly prized substances, and control a worldwide monopoly on them. These families included the Bushes, the Rockefellers, Kennedys, Hunts and Gettys. Not to mention the sultans and kings throughout the Middle-Eastern countries. As time advanced, so did the technology and physical aspects as well as the understanding of how to go about harnessing Mother Nature's black gold. The wealthy families had foreseen a huge, profitable industry that was yet to ripen and showed promise of untold fortunes. They knew that the golden rule applied here, that being: he who controlled the gold—the black, liquid gold—would control the world.

As many of you who have been reading my personal true story of the C.I.A. PIPELINE have come to learn, the people that I was working for, the C.I.A., and also the U.S. NAVAL INTELLIGENCE SERVICE, George Bush and Oliver North, would stop at nothing to achieve their ultimate goal which is total domination, power, wealth and fame. I have told you about massive amounts of both weapons and illegal drugs that were smuggled into this country and exported to other countries. You have seen the pattern that is a common denominator in lust, greed, misfortune and death. There is no honor among thieves, there never has been and there never will be. What you are about to read within this chapter is by far the most destructive, most unforgiving episode that I have ever had personal knowledge of. Not only did this operation, which was the doings and brainwork of George Bush and his henchman of the C.I.A. and Israeli "MOSSAD", end in the deaths of some 46 men, mostly Americans, but it also had lasting effects on both the future life of hundreds of thousands, if not millions of generations to come and also an entire ecosystem of marine plant and animal life. The overall catastrophic outcome of this single event should call for the men who were behind this act to be put to death themselves. I now will begin the true story of OPERATION ODESSA.

I was sleeping in my berth on ZAPATA-7, the offshore oil rig that was involved in this massive smuggling operation. The drill pipe had recently been stuck deep within the hole as a result of too much torque being applied to the nine-inch steel bit. Now that the pipe had been freed I had time, or so I thought, to catch up on some badly needed rest. I remember lying in my bunk, as I do to this very day, recanting past missions, relationships, experiences. I knew then that what I was involved in was terribly wrong, that Satan controlled much if not all of my life, as well as my fellow shipmates and operatives. Visions would often be blurred, as the marijuana and booze that I ingested seemed to numb my brain to a degree that I just didn't care who or what was really making this strange sensation that overwhelmed me, that controlled me.

The oil rig's belly holds were full, bulging with the mystic white powder that was manufactured deep in the Peruvian and Colombian jungles. It was this cocaine that the people in other countries, especially America, craved. By now, regular almost-daily trips from the smaller shrimp trawler and oil field supply boats would be coming to ZAPATA-7 to load their own hulls with the poison destined for various ports through the Gulf coastal region of the United States. Things were going smoothly. If any foreign government inspectors would board the ZAPATA-7, they would suspect nothing out of the ordinary, just one of the hundreds of offshore drilling operations that was at a peak throughout Central and South America during this period of time.

It is important to realize that the southern operations of the C.I.A. and the Bush Administration were, in fact, not the only outlet for illegal drugs and weapons. Another very important logistical region was also the North Sea, off the coasts of Newfoundland and Labrador, even Ireland. It was through this region that many weapons from the Middle East and Europe would be funnelled, along with money and drugs that supplied the I.R.A. movement in Northern Ireland. This area has some of the most hostile, unforgiving seas on this planet and also was a breeding ground for corruption at high government levels. The C.I.A. knew that in order to have total control of the U.S. and its coastal operations, they would have to have operational directives as well as personnel in all regions that afford access to the U.S. The North Atlantic has been a staging area ever since WWII for intrigue and military as well as paramilitary operations and covert missions.

Thus, the Bush family had invested in several offshore business ventures, which would give them access to these regions throughout the world. The Bush family also owns significant oil production throughout Kuwait. Did you people think that the war in Kuwait, "Operation DESERT STORM", was a humanitarian effort? Well think again, it was deployed to protect Bush's family investments over there. Things like his own ZAPATA OIL futures and even his two railroads. Oh, I'm sorry, perhaps you did not know about this. It's quite true, though. The war was not deployed to protect the poor innocent Middle-Eastern people from the evil Saddam—it was solely to protect Elite future and retirement monies, period. Don't you think that our troops could have taken out Saddam at any time? We know right where he is at this very moment, but in steps warped world politics! Look at the thwarted mission to Somalia. Again, a very important strategical global position near the world's largest oil and gas fields. A better way to monitor and control movement about this region. The Haiti mission—well let's just assume that the rich and Elite just like their own good-tasting marijuana with their cocktails!

Not to stray from the warm waters of the Caribbean here, but I felt I had to point out these northern operations to you in order to get the full picture of what led up to this business with the ODESSA rig. As I walked about my duties on ZAPATA-7, a call came over the com-sac radio, via space satellite dish, or commonly called our E.A.M., which stood for Emergency Action Message recorder.

Upon receiving this coded message, it was clear that I had my orders to fly by helicopter north into Mexican waters and board the offshore drilling rig named ODESSA. The ODESSA had just been sailed up to the state of Yucatan in southeastern Mexico just months prior to the message. The ODESSA was an older drilling rig with a history somewhat similar to that to the ghost ship MADRID. A sister rig to the ODESSA, was a rig called the RANGER-I. The RANGER-I was drilling in the North Atlantic and was owned by the C.I.A. sub-company called Shamrock Drilling, whose home base was in Ireland and also had headquarters here in America.

Another investment business that the Bush family, along with the Getty Oil company, was involved in was the disposal of highly toxic, radioactive nuclear waste of both solid and liquid form. There were at that time, only a few licensed corporations in the U.S. that had government contracts to dispose legally of this toxic material. It was fed to the public that the strict government controls over the regulations that governed the projects was constantly monitored, just like the supposed melting of the weapons that were diverted and funnelled south of the border. The Bush and Getty oil companies had the "luck of the draw" to win these contracts, though some were also dispensed through other corporations as well. Between the two major holders of these awarded contracts, untold millions-and-millions of dollars were made by the illegal dumpings of the toxic waste in a method called: DEEPWELL DOWN-HOLE INJECTION. To the average person who is so busy scratching out a living only to pay the corrupt government 50% of their earnings, such talk about toxic waste and deep-well down-hole injection sounds crazy, but let me assure you, this practice continues to this very day, people.

You see, after all the oil and gas is pumped out of an underground oil and gas field, all that is left is one huge cavity of porosity, sometimes as big as a city! Normally, the cavities are sealed shut with tons of concrete poured over and into the hole, but in this case, the greed and lust for yet more money to be made was fulfilled by another brainchild of George Bush and his engineers. They had devised a way to pump the liquid radioactive nuclear waste back down into the seemingly bottomless pits that had only held oil and gas, and then at the very top of the remaining space within the subterranean cavity, they would top this off with tens of thousands of barrels of prime crude oil once again, and then resell the lease! Practices like this had netted the two families billions of dollars. At the time, the Mexican government officials who were in charge of their countries' environmental projects were paid off and bribed with large sums of money and whatever it would take for them to look the other way. The Bush and Getty families used their evil cunning to defraud and deceive the friendly people of our neighboring country to further their own power and wealth.

I was to fly to the ODESSA and review all cable transmissions and to shred any and all data pertaining to the operation. Upon landing on the dirty old rig, it was plain to see that this rig was in fact a "scum bucket" and had weathered many a storm at sea. Unlike the ZAPATA-7, who's bulkheads were spit-shined and kept so well, it was obvious that this rig had seen better times and was in a state of neglect. After walking to the bridge to meet the commander and tool pushers, I once again sensed hatred in the air. Call it intuition if you must, but I did not like the feeling. It's one of those feelings you might get from a sixth sense; whatever, I couldn't wait until my duties were done on that floating garbage heap. The two officers had given me the regular tour and rundown of the situation and just what was taking place. Most of the crew was American, with a few Mexicans and even a couple of Israelis aboard, some 46 men in all. They had informed me that they, as well, had received a warning message that something big was going to take place concerning a visit for Mexican government environmental officials in the weeks to follow—perhaps a breach in the security and secret of the toxic waste pumping but nothing was for certain. There were all types of ship scuttle-butt talk in the air. On one deck, one might hear that everyone was going to be placed under arrest, yet on another deck, one might hear that ol' George Bush himself sold the rig and so on. Rumors were everywhere, but nothing was final or true, at least as far as I knew. All I knew for fact was that I was ordered to go to the rig and perform the job that I was sent to do. In the line of work that I was involved in, you didn't ask too many questions, you just did what you were told. Perhaps a grave mistake on my part in the end.

I sensed a mutinous, unhappy crew. A crew that perhaps had been out to sea too long or even a crew that knew very well what the outcome, the long range effects that this practice of dumping highly toxic waste into the oceans of the world would ultimately have not only on them, but on future generations, including the marine plant and animal life. The situation was not a cheerful one, but one of gloom, definitely a dark-sided aura.

The trick with deep-well down-hole injections is to run the pumping day and night, night and day around the clock so as to get it in the hole, top it off with high grade crude, and seal the cavity then get the hell out of that lease area. Even if that meant moving the rig a thousand miles to another country, "get out of Dodge!" But in the ODESSA's case, it was too late. Something somewhere had gone very wrong. Something already had triggered a decision to seal not only the hole that the poisons were pumped into, but also to seal the fates of the entire crew as well.

After two days aboard the ODESSA, the rig was boarded by a team of French and U.S. Naval personnel. These commandos were there under the guise of the ongoing missions throughout neighboring Nicaragua and the mining with explosives of the ports down there. They claimed that they had orders to lay low and use the ODESSA at the executive order of the then president, Ronald Reagan, another close friend of George Bush and family. It was then that I had recognized an old Naval acquaintance of mine, one Lt. Commander Robert Hunt, U.S. Navy Executive Officer-Seal Team Six. Hunt and I did time in the Navy together up in Greenland in the '70s at a D.E.W. station, which stands for Distant Early Warning tracking unit. This was the unit that I first learned my cable communications monitoring at, and was code named Zebra Station. This remote outpost in the barren ice fields of northern Greenland on the 82nd parallel was one of America's first line of defense systems that would monitor and intercept incoming inter-continental ballistic missiles from Russia. Hunt and I shared many a frozen night together up there in the past talking about everything from our high-school lovers, to the latest war game tactics. Needless to say, Hunt was a welcome sight and a great break in the gloomy boredom that overwhelmed the ODESSA.

Hunt was a dedicated Navy Seal, who was as fit as a fiddle and sharp as a tack. This man, unlike Adams or his younger companion Pena, had control of everything he came into contact with. He was stealth if there ever stealth. When Hunt and his team took on a mission, one could bet they would see it through, one way or the other. By the way, a very good background of Lt. Commander Robert Hunt can be read in the book by author Rodney Stich, titled DEFRAUDING AMERICA. Hunt, along with myself, is featured in this book. A "must" reading for those who demand the truth.

Hunt took the time to see that his team got the rest that they needed very much. They all looked tired and weary, as they had just come off of a mission deep behind hostile lines down in Colombia doing some recon work and infiltration of the drug laboratories deep within the jungles. After Hunt settled his men down, he requested that he meet with me in total privacy, as the information that he had to relay to me was of the top secret status. I agreed to talk, but only after we drank some good Mexican Tequila and I smoked my potent marijuana. Hunt was a non-drug user; however, he could bend a hefty elbow when it came to the booze. Hunt then got that old familiar, very serious type of look in his eyes, then he turned to me and said, "Mike, old friend, it's not pretty; you must leave this junk pile by 0800 hours. No 'ifs', 'ands', or 'buts' about it. Leave!" I then asked him just what the hell is really going on here. I told him that I was ordered to shred all the documents in the safe and radio room and retrieve the ship's log. I asked him if the crew was in danger of an uprising due to Mexican politics. He told me that it was far beyond anything like that, but much more serious. He then told me that I and two others were to be flown off of the rig that very night, back to Houston, Texas. Hunt then went on to tell me that this operation involved a severe breach in security on a national alert status, meaning that someone up in Washington gave the ultimate order to terminate the operation. The leak in whatever was really going on, had ties to the North Atlantic RANGER-I operation and Shamrock Drilling. He also stated that the I.R.A. was involved, thus the French divers that were with him all had their orders as well. The more I questioned Hunt, the blanker Hunt's eyes grew. His only reply was, "Mike, leave this damn rig now, before it is too late!"

With the serious look in Hunt's eyes and knowing the man, I knew, I felt my face get beet-red and flush, full of excitement, but yet full of fear. He warned me not to talk to any of the others, that I should return to my cabin and remain there until he alone came to put me on the boat that would take me to yet another rig, then on a helicopter that would take me to Houston, Texas. With these orders coming from a very military type person, one could very well forget that we ever even met. I obeyed his command and surrendered to the comfort of my berth.

0800 hours, Friday morning. The hot tropical sun was already on its way to making the day seemingly hostile. The waters were as blue as the sky. I had been awakened by Hunt himself and requested by him to join him for coffee up on the bridge. Hunt was in a good mood, or so it seemed. He did, however, have that determined look in his eyes. He had asked me if I had spoken to anyone about anything he had mentioned to me the night before; my reply was no, that I had retired to my stateroom and fallen into a deep sleep. I asked him what was going on that morning. He stated that two of his divers had to make an emergency inspection of the pipe, deep below the water line. I asked him just what the Navy had to do with a civilian operation, but then assumed that it was ordered by George Bush and some of his C.I.A. buddies, and billed to the U.S. Government, like so many other things we often did throughout my career. Hunt told me that the driller had monitored a pressure leak during the night while pumping the toxic wastes down the hole, injecting them. He said his divers, a Frenchman and an American would photograph any cracks or leads, then report the damage to damage control mainside for proper fabrication. I, knowing nothing more, assumed that this was what was actually taking place, not knowing that in less than six more hours, the offshore drilling rig would cease to exist and never be seen again by anyone, ever!

Hunt gave his goodbyes to me and told me where I could reach him in the future. His career was sky-rocketing as he and Dick Marcinko, another Navy Seal Commander had their work cut out for them. These were the men that would later go into Grenada and even to the Middle East, into Baghdad and plant the highly sensitive radio laser-guided beacon transmitters that our pilots used during Desert Storm, when the air strikes began. Hunt was also the first along with his strike force to enter Panama during the invasion. Yes, people, Hunt was also an assassin, but unlike Adams and Pena, Hunt did not turn mercenary or ever kill for money, at least to my knowledge. Now, if he was under orders such as with the ODESSA operation, then he knew no better, as it is like the things that I was involved in doing, were deemed in the best interests of our government.

The boat arrived just as scheduled. A newer version of the attack-torpedo style boats that the military now use. This boat was fully manned and armed, and ready to evacuate the area. I remember the look on the faces of the workers of the ODESSA. It was as though they sensed sudden death waiting, lurking in the shadows. But who was to say—not I, for I could then only assume, or guess at what was to come. Hunt told me that he would get in touch with me later down the line. With these final words, I departed the ODESSA, and would never see her again until the news media across the world broadcasted a new brief that read: "Off shore oil rig in Yucatan waters explodes, all 46 aboard are believed to be dead or missing"! I was stunned, people. The rig that I had just left that morning had been blown sky high and in the aftermath, a roaring hot oil and gas, mixed with only-God-knows what type of poisonous toxic chemicals, burned out of control. In fact, the fire was so intense, that it burned for fourteen days thereafter, and the rig was finally burned and melted away to the water's edge. Then in a last ditch attempt to snuff the stump of a rig out, six Hercules work-type helicopters introduced a massive cone made out of concrete that would be placed over the remaining flames and suffocate them out. It was a modern engineering feat, never attempted before.

In the days to follow, George Bush took to the air and TV waves, stating just how tragic all of this was and how the American government would launch a full investigation into any possible terrorist activity—only later to be termed a drilling accident due to a faulty blow-out-prevention system. I was shocked, to say the least; however, very thankful for Hunt warning me and the two others to evacuate the rig. This one single event in my life had left me with very deep emotional scars, perhaps more than the average person can comprehend. The thought of all those poisons going into the ecosystem and oceans of the world, then the mass murders of everyone aboard the rig is at times, still to this day, hard for me to swallow. Why have I never spoken about these events in the past? Probably because I'm only human, and I have fears, day in and day out. It is like a lot of people have told me, I'm very lucky that I did not meet my maker, God, early in life. In a way, a very special way, God must have wanted me to live to tell all of you about this. There will always be non-believers. People and human nature are often funny, yet unforgiving. I have noticed people that I have come to know—yes, even some of you that are reading this today—change. What makes a person do the things they do, or what makes them say the things that they say. I have not the answers. I, like a lot of you, am still searching for the truth. Is there such a thing? Yes, I believe in my heart that there is, and together we shall do our best to expose all of this madness.

I'll leave you today with the legacy of the ODESSA and the peril of the men who died that day. I'll also leave you with the thought that the people you elect to the high command offices may one day even deploy men such as Hunt and their strike teams to terminate you or someone you may know. We who are reading this are a rare breed of supreme animal. We must understand that if we demand the ultimate out of what life has to offer, then we must be willing and prepared to pay the ultimate price. Remember that fear will cause one to hesitate, and hesitation will cause one's fears to come true.

I'm not one to go around and make promises that I cannot keep, therefore the only promise I will make to those who will accept me and the truth I deliver to them is that I will continue to do my best at exposing the truth, and that's the best that I can do. Mother always told me that life was indeed, like a box of chocolates, that you never know what you are going to get, and you know what, she was right! And that's all I have to say about that!

In the next chapter we go back to the U.S., back to the Mena, Arkansas area, then off to Newfoundland and Labrador. By the way, has anyone seen Malibu Bear????

"TWAS THE DAY AFTER CHRISTMAS AND ALL THROUGH..."

Now we have one more example worthy of "parable" use. Perhaps it becomes more and more apparent why parables are so acceptable—for they present examples of "points" in story-telling format.

What do YOU do on the day after Christmas? You have had the warm-fuzzies, hugs and gifts and it has lately become that most who can do so go forth into the shops and get those "marked-down" items which are and were actually "sometimes" needed. Please, readers, this is observation and not in any way discipline or disagreement. I enjoy your celebrations of light and joy, giving and regiving, feasting and gathering—for this is what abundant expression is all about. I can't say that I particularly enjoy even the, "I told you it was like this," of my own attitude as the PRICES are juggled, the gains and losses calculated to the last farthing and thus and so. However, some merchants have only the holidays, and especially Christmas, to foundation a living. Regardless of what will be told to you, this year will have been a bad year and thousands of small merchants will leave business in loss while the monster-absorbers will merge and go on monopolizing the rest of the market. No, again, I do not, certainly, pick on the wholesale stores for therein lies the secret to merchandizing and allowing the MOST people to "have". These are simply the way things ARE and in that realization we stop fighting and see what WE CAN DO to both survive and prosper within such an environment—and remain in total integrity. Then, in the mergings and the closures, MORE and MORE people will be without jobs and next year's expectations will be greater loss.

What of the hearth circle in your own immediate homes? Is there joy as you now witness and hold the things which before Christmas you poked, shook and guessed about? Certainly TODAY it is easier to fill your own wishes if wise gifters gave you what you really wanted—a bit of funds to find that "thing" you wanted. Again, herein lies every bit as wondrous a gift as the before sampling of "I don't know what to get". For children who already "get everything" I consider it good backup sense to have that little "extra" to get batteries, parts, cologne for the beautiful container and on and on. So, readers, do not put me into a category of being a wet-blanket on your holiday spirit for I am in no-wise such.

It may well be that the credit cards are most useful as we move along for even though they get too stuffed and "loaded" and explode on you in backfire, EACH YEAR THAT PASSES PUTS THE BANKERS AT GREATER RISK OF HAVING ALL THAT INVESTMENT FALL APART LIKE AN ATOM BOMB. They know as much and suck you in a bit deeper for every loss they have later is a write-off and the seemingly big losses will in actuality not amount to anything—except more CONTROL BY THEM OVER YOU. However, when there is a judgement against you in any way—the loaner can capture your very bank-account assets just as did the lawyers against Ekkers last Thursday and everything you had for LIVING EXPENSES is gone in one WHOOSH and scribble of a pen. The ADVERSARY of life is out to get ALL PROPERTY. ALL PROPERTY!! THIS INCLUDES YOU ALONG WITH YOUR SOUL.

The point I would like to make here is that we go right on going on—the day after as well as the day before, and use it to our best advantage. Regardless of what you have been told—God doesn't take a "seventh" day OFF. Neither does the opposing Satan. If, however, Satan can get YOU to consider taking days "off" and call it God's wishes that you do so—look at what he can bundle, of yours, in those days you are "taking off"!

And perhaps a bigger point to share is in the humor corner. Let us say you take your credit-card (CC) skis, go in your CC car with family, take your new CC snuggies and go to a wondrous CC resort. Fine so far? Ah indeed, and you swoosh and swish down the beautiful mountains with the boulders buried on smooth and icy slopes and STILL SO FAR SO GOOD. It is a "good life" you will say and, "God is wonderful," you will shout to the trees and the wind. And BANG!!, into a tree and bust your body. Ah, but this time perchance it is not a broken nose—it is a broken neck! "Why did God do this to me?" the next wailing screech and moan will be. Now you have to consider HOW to get disability covered, "Workman's Compensation" from an employer to cover your vacation sports (usually a paid vacation or a CC few days off) and the cycle spins wildly out of control—AGAIN.

I am not even "picking" at you about these "things"; I just wonder when, if ever, you will look upon GOD correctly? GOD IS ABUNDANCE AND IT SHOULD BE THAT YOU HAVE ABUNDANCE—but be most careful how you TREAT that abundance or those losses—for YOU HAVE PHYSICAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR BOTH. A good rule of thumb is that GOD OFFERS AND GIVES ABUNDANCE—SATAN TAKES IT. YOU MAKE THE CHOICES! In a split second of "time" all can be taken or lives changed or snuffed-out and then NOTHING is present but sorrow. It is especially painful when a family is burned alive/dead(?) because a Christmas tree in the living room explodes into flame, which represented the joy of a wondrous Season. (If, in addition to saving live trees, is it not reason enough to save lives, to get an artificial tree?) For this above carelessness we also ask God how HE "could allow such a thing"?! GOD ALLOWS EVERYTHING—YOU DO THE CHOOSING! And here I repeat:

GOD ALLOWS EVERYTHING!! — SATAN TEMPTS AND TAKES

With whom (which) do you take your stand and place?

I am ready, willing and able to carry you if necessary—IF YOU SIMPLY "CATCH UP".

PROPHECY

Since prophecy only SEEMS to have to do with the Churches of your land I want you to note that the topics of Biblical outlay are NOT mostly about God and/or the churches but about things happening, things which will happen and a scribed hand-me-down of what to expect. All topics are greatly misunderstood and mistranslated: some by accident, most by intentional change.

There is a book which I have asked Mr. Moorhead to please make available through Phoenix Source Distributors to you readers. It is not because of more "accuracy" that I ask it be available but because it is one more volume representative of your so-called Holy Bible. The book itself bears a lot of comment regarding content but I believe it has the best outlay of REVELATION of any version that I have noted. Is IT correct? It is "as correct" as any other "version" and certainly it is far easier to interpret. No versions of prophecy are "correct" or are they "incorrect" for they are representative of a person's (one man's) VISION of that which would come to pass in a time beyond his experience. To literalize the Bible is proven, right here, to be a gross error. For a Church Doctrine to demand that you believe EVERY WORD of "a book" (any book) is fraud upon your mind and requires that you, to become a "member", must also become a non-thinking liar. YOU cannot have John's vision—ONLY JOHN CAN HAVE HIS VISION.

THE PROMISE is offered as a copyrighted book, 1995, as a Contemporary English Version "of God's words in your words." I assume that from what I have read it is more "in your words" than in truth and understanding but it suffices for my needs as we speak of Church and CHANGE and the cycle ending times.

I believe we can offer you a copy of this book, shortly, at as good a price as you can get elsewhere so please be patient a few days until arrangements can be made. I have a way of dropping little land-mines along my writing path which cause the people trying to arrange for my requests some amount of anxiety and stress as everything to do must be attempted at the same instant in most cases. I apologize to them and beg patience of you readers. You can, of course, go get the book but I would appreciate it if you would wait and get it from Phoenix Source because every bit of help gleaned allows printing of journals. Thank you.

HOPI PROPHECY

A little short version of a Hopi prophecy for 1996 is offered here to remind you that somebody in white robes didn't just dump a load on the back of John in Revelation.

Even this is mistranslated and colored up to suit the "White-eyes" who rewrote it to fit the New Age concept and beat the old unconscious to death. There is NO UNconscious! There is sub-conscious and supra-conscious and SLEEP. If the term "unconscious" appears it does not mean "unconscious" so right off we have errors and omissions but "Oh....well!"

"The second migration to the new world will occur leaving behind on Grandmother (Lakota: "uncikunshi") Earth (maka sitomni) those who are choosing to continue to hold the power on this planet within the space of all the Sacred Twelve. (And just guess, please, who those "holders" might be?!)"

"All of these people who choose to remain after the second migration will begin to establish this planet & use the collective unconscious (THOUGHT FORM) to hold the power of this space in harmony with the Great Circle of Twelve, all the planets, and there is a whole lot I don't even know. There is more that I am not supposed to talk about yet."

The PROMISE is that if you hold the unci kunshi together we will help you rebuild in respect and ORDER of LIFE, not the political "New World Order". If you choose to allow the blowing-up and dissolution of the form of Earth into gas-form, we will encapsulate you so that the order of your solar system is maintained and impact is minimal upon the rest of the Galactic systems. But, you don't like this? Salu, for this is how it will be and your likes or dislikes will have NOTHING to do with it beyond "how" it will take shape or end the age.

DEPOPULATION

I know that you would "rather not" read so much about "depopulation" as is being presented by Mr. Martin—but this is offered only "through" this routing for YOUR information. It is known and RECOGNIZED that if the predominant THOUGHT-FORM of a "remaining" population is that of enslavement and total Puppet-Master control, then the remaining days are totally limited and numbered as to a realization of a physical capability of survival. It has happened to every other planet in your orbiting circle. It behooves you to keep enough souled and THINKING beings alive on your planet to maintain strength of thought-form high enough to sustain LIFE. However, IT IS UP TO YOU! We can take our people off the orb and in that recognition you also have ultimate "say" in your own personal predicament—for we take into security of our placement only those who MEET THE CONDITIONS LAID FORTH AS THE LAWS OF GOD CREATOR FOR ALL OTHERS ARE CATEGORIZED AS DESTROYERS—OF TRUTH. Why? If you abide in the lie, foster the lie, further the lie then you shall be left IN THE LIE. Since God does not abide in or within THE LIE, HE shall take leave to return to the places of TRUTH. HE WILL LEAVE THE LIE AND LIARS TO THEIR REWARD—WHICH IS THE ABSENCE OF GOD OF LIGHT. THAT MEANS IN DARKNESS WITHOUT THE PRESENCE OF GOD WHICH IS THE DEFINITION OF HELL!

The old concept of Hell-fire and brimstone comes from the recognition of the FACT that, if left out of control, the evil-mongers will set the world afire and those who "miss the boat" will surely be left landlocked!

I know that you "sometimes" readers or new readers don't like my method of presentation and have questions upon questions. I'm sorry, readers, I will not take time to go back and entertain arguments or to restructure, for you, the contents of thousands of pages of information. YOU will have to do your own homework and pick up the past issues, journals, etc. We can't even afford to print the last 50 journals which wait on the shelf—and those are your tickets to information HOME. So be it for if mankind wants his instructions and his routings, he will see to it that we can get these volumes before you. Our people are weary and buried in work while funds are stolen, sidetracked and legal plagues are pushed off on us. And still, they manage to get the words to print. If you don't want the truth badly enough to get it to press and out, we can't help it further.

The support of the faithful few is so incredible as to sustain us through every step of our work and way—but they are not even SUPPOSED to do it all for YOU. These faithful truth-sharers have already PROVEN their connections with us in these days and that is quite sufficient FOR THEM—for what YOU DO IS UP TO YOU ALONE.

A NOTE ABOUT FOCUS

I will comment here about something that is an example so don't read more into it than belongs there, but I daily receive input from ones who have read three or four papers, or three months of papers and want personal instructions and personal input. This is natural, normal and expected. However, what we could do when we had twenty readers and now that we have a world audience are two different things. We cannot walk each individual through the maze of questions and answers which have to be experienced at best—left unanswered at least. There is so little information left unanswered if you have read all our presentation as to amaze you. As we now write on topics and gather from other authors we find that four or five years ago we covered the topic in point. Therefore, we CANNOT take time and space to go over and over and over already presented information.

We do try to get to spending some writing just responding to inquiries but it has to be where we can cover many questions and offer, to all, the responses. If you want PERSONAL, one to one responses, then YOU must learn to listen and HEAR. Dharma has the limitation, not me and yet I, too, have to attend my Father's business and cannot attend each individual's ponderings and wonderings or even the wanderings. You would not expect this from a University Professor so, please, do not demand it from us simply because we serve God.

I already have complaints about our presentation of ONE WORLD CHURCH ORDER along with objections about wasting time going back to (all the way back) to 1991 to lay foundations for information today. Readers, stop and look what you do! This particular person gives me lessons on how to present EVERYTHING and then ends up saying we simply plagiarize everything anyway. I make no effort to give you fantasies and la-la-land revelation—THERE IS NOTHING NEW AS YOU DEMAND. TRUTH LIES IN THAT WHICH IS ALREADY PRESENT AND KNOWN—ALL YOU NEED IS TO GATHER IT TOGETHER AND GET INFORMED. What does please me is that this person must be our most attentive reader for he seems to know everything, know better how to handle the information, and is always almost 180 degrees from whatever we offer. I suggest that if he just keeps up his study of what we offer he will become very informed and begin to share instead of tear down everything we do.

SWAMPED WITH HOW TO DOERS

We are also swamped with "how to's". We are told every way in order to sell more papers, more journals, more, more, and more. And, it usually entails softening the message, motivation of people through easier language, less forthrightness and tugging instead of pushing. No thank you. You either want truth or you WANT more lies. I may push you—I will not drag you—anywhere. Neither will I sanction (bless) someone's work JUST BECAUSE there are good INTENTIONS. I do NOT feel that to do something WRONG is better than doing nothing at all. And, further, you who get in a big snit because I simply say a thing will not work as offered, may do that which you will. I note that the usual reaction is to "cut us off"—as if somehow your sole ideas made us or will break us. I suggest that you simply KNOW you are incorrect in the first place and don't wish to have any further input about the matters you cover. I also note that only ONE in a group has to decide same and ALL THE OTHERS INVOLVED also cut the lines—even if they were OUR LINES IN THE FIRST PLACE. WHEN PEOPLE PUT PLUGS IN THEIR EARS TO PREVENT SOUND FROM ENTERING—SO BE IT FOR IT BECOMES SIMPLY ONE LESS THING FOR OUR TEAM TO ATTEND. I FIND FOR ONES WHO HAVE RECEIVED, BEEN ACTUALLY GIVEN FREEDOM THROUGH OUR READERS AND THUS, OUR TEAM, TO BE TOLD TO "STICK IT WHERE THE SUN DON'T SHINE" IS BOTH DEGRADING AND UNFORTUNATE, FOR THOSE WHO OFFER THE EPITHETS IN SUCH MANNER ARE QUITE POSSIBLY UNWORTHY OF ANY ATTENTION AT ALL. IT DOES NOT, HOWEVER, RELIEVE THEM OF THE RESPONSIBILITY OF MEETING THEIR AGREEMENTS AND COMMITMENTS. THE BIG "KISS-OFF" IS NOT USUALLY THE WISEST THING OR ACTION A PEOPLE CAN DO TO ANYONE WITH WHOM THEY DISAGREE—IF THEY OFFER THE KISS-OFF TO AVOID PAYMENT OF COMMITMENTS! IT ACTUALLY IRRITATES THE CONTRACTEE QUITE CONSIDERABLY. TO FOLLOW THE WRONG "PIPER" JUST BECAUSE HE BLOWS HIS HORN THE LOUDEST IS NOT USUALLY THE WISEST TUNE TO WHICH TO MARCH!

Depopulation Of A Planet

Environmental Issues Become Key

To Imposing NWO Agenda

Part V: U.N. Rings The Alarm

Editor's note: Part I of Rick's well-researched series on the depopulation of our planet by the crooks in power appeared in the 11/28/95 issue of CONTACT on the Front Page. Part II was on the Front Page of the 12/5/95 issue; Part III was on page 10 of the 12/12/95 issue of CONTACT. Part IV was on the Front Page of the 12/26/95 issue. We continue with this shocking discussion here.

12/26/95 RICK MARTIN

In their book The Healing Planet—Strategies For Resolving The Environmental Crisis, Paul and Anne Ehrlich write:

"In this century, humanity has become a truly planetary ecological force, its effects going far beyond the transformation of the landscape to include altering the composition of the atmosphere globally, interfering with planetary nutrient cycles, modifying climate, and exterminating other life forms. In historical perspective, the switch—from a modest to an overwhelming scale of impact, and from a positive to a negative impact on carrying capacity—was almost instantaneous and monumental: human activities now appear to be lowering the long-term carrying capacity and incurring risks on a scale unimaginable less than a lifetime ago."

And, also, later in the book: "Controlling population growth is critical. We cannot emphasize too strongly that significant resources must be directed into programs that limit population growth both in the United States and abroad. Because of the built-in time lags, unless the surge in human numbers is halted soon and a gradual population shrinkage begun, there is no hope of solving the problems discussed in this volume."

From the environmental impact side of the discussion, the Ehrlichs write, [quoting:]

Measured by commercial energy use, each American, on average, causes some 70 times as much environmental damage as a Ugandan or Laotian, 20 times that of an Indian, 10 times that of a Chinese, and roughly twice that of citizens of Japan, the United Kingdom, France, Sweden, or Australia. Americans use about 30 percent more commercial energy than Soviet citizens, (who nonetheless have caused even more havoc by using it with minimum efficiency and virtually no effort to prevent environmental damage). In terms of per-capita energy use, only Canada, Luxembourg, and a few oil producers are really in our league.

Viewed in this light, the United States is the world's most overpopulated nation. It is the world's fourth largest nation in population, now numbering more than a quarter-billion people, and the average American consumes more of Earth's riches than an average citizen of any of the other "big ten" nations...Because of this combination of a huge population, great affluence, and damaging technologies, the United States has the largest impact of any nation on Earth's fragile environment and limited resources. ECO-92 EARTH CHARTER (SEPT. 20, 1991)

In September 1991, as a preliminary to the United Nations "Earth Summit" Conference held in Brazil in 1992, the United Nations Associations of the United States, Canada, and Iowa sponsored a Midwest Public Hearing in Des Moines, Iowa. At the Iowa Hearing, held in co-operation with the Secretariat of the U.N. Conference in Brazil, a rather startling document was circulated privately to some of the officials. It reveals U.N. thinking on world population. [Quoting:]

A. The time is pressing. The Club of Rome was founded in 1968, Limited To Growth was written in 1979, but insufficient progress has been made in population reduction.

B. Given global instabilities, including those in the former Soviet bloc, the need for firm control of world technology, weaponry, and natural resources is now absolutely mandatory. The immediate reduction of world population, according to the mid-1970s recommendations of the Draper Fund, must be immediately effected.

C. The present vast overpopulation, now far beyond the world-carrying capacity, cannot be answered by future reductions in the birth rate due to contraception, sterilization, abortion, but must be met in the present by the reduction in the numbers presently existing. This must be done by whatever means necessary.

D. The issue is falsely debated between a political and a cultural approach to population and resources, when in fact, faced with stubborn obstruction and day-to-day political expediency which make most of the leaders of the most populous poor countries unreliable, the issue is compulsory cooperation.

E. Compulsory cooperation is not debatable with 166 nations, most of whose leaders are irresolute, conditioned by localist cultures, and lacking appropriate notions of the New World Order. Debate means delay and forfeiture of our goals and purpose.

This same document directs that the following policy must be implemented:

A. The Security Council of the United Nations, led by the Anglo-Saxon Major Nation powers, will decree that hence forth the Security Council will inform all nations that its sufferance on population has ended, that all nations have quotas for reduction on a yearly basis, which will be enforced by the Security Council by selective or total embargo of credit, items of trade including food and medicine, or by military force, when required.

B. The Security Council of the U.N. will inform all nations that outmoded notions of all national sovereignty will be discarded and that the Security Council has complete legal, military, and economic jurisdiction in any region in the world and that this will be enforced by the Major Nations of the Security Council.

C. The Security Council of the U.N. will take possession of all natural resources, including the watersheds and great forests, to be used and preserved for the good of the Major Nations of the Security Council.

D. The Security Council of the U.N. will explain that not all races and peoples are equal, nor should they be. [Sounds remarkably similar to George Orwell's Animal Farm.] Those races proven superior by superior achievements ought to rule the lesser races, caring for them on sufferance that they cooperate with the Security Council. Decision making, including banking, trade, currency rates, and economic development plans, will be made in stewardship by the Major Nations.

E. All of the above constitute the New World Order, in which Order, all nations, regions and races will cooperate with the decisions of the Major Nations of the Security Council.

The purpose of this document is to demonstrate that action delayed could well be fatal. All could be lost if mere opposition by minor races is tolerated and the unfortunate vacillations of our closest comrades is cause for our hesitations. Open declaration of intent followed by decisive force is the final solution. This must be done before any shock hits our financial markets, tarnishing our credibility and perhaps diminishing our force. [End quoting.]

UNITED NATIONS CONFERENCE ON ENVIRONMENT & DEVELOPMENT

On December 22, 1989, Resolution 44/228 titled United Nations Conference On Environment and Development, was adopted without a vote. This resolution called for the Earth Summit which was held in Brazil in 1992, and called for Earth Day on June 5, 1992.

Let's look at the contents of this tremendously important, yet little known, U.N. resolution. [Note to our readers—I realize that most "resolutions" are pretty dry reading. Not so in this case—well, maybe a little. Read along and be surprised at the broad, sweeping impact this has on everyone. Due to the importance and scope of the resolution, I've decided to include most of the document here.] [Quoting:]

Recalling its resolution 43/196 of 20 Dec. 1988 on a United Nations conference on environment and development,

Taking note of decision 15/3 of 25 May 1989 of the Governing Council of the United Nations Environment Program 161/[A/44/25] on a United Nations conference on environment and development,

Taking note also of Economic and Social Council resolution 1989/87 of 26 July 1989 on the convening of a United Nations conference on environment and development,

Taking note of Economic and Social Council resolution 1989/101 July 1989 entitled "Strengthening international co-operation on environment: provision of additional financial resources to developing countries",

Recalling also General Assembly resolution 42/186 of 11 Dec. 1987 on the Environmental Perspective of the Year 2000 and Beyond, and resolution 42/187 of 11 Dec. 1987 on the report of the World Commission on Environment and Development, 162/[A/42/427],

Taking note of the report of the Secretary-General on the question of the convening of a United Nations conference on environment and development, 163/[A/44/256/1989/66],

Mindful of the views expressed by Governments in the plenary debate held at its forty-fourth session on the convening of a United Nations conference on environment and development,

Recalling the Declaration of the United Nations Conference on the Human Environment, 164/

Deeply concerned by the continuing deterioration of the state of the environment and the serious degradation of the global life-support systems, as well as by trends that, if allowed to continue, could disrupt the global ecological balance, jeopardize the life-sustaining qualities of the Earth and lead to an ecological catastrophe, and recognizing that decisive, urgent and global action is vital to protecting the ecological balance of the Earth,

Recognizing the importance for all countries of the protection and enhancement of the environment,

Recognizing also that the global character of environmental problems, including climate change, depletion of the ozone layer, transboundary air and water pollution, the contamination of the oceans and seas and degradation of land resources, including drought and desertification requires actions at all levels, including the global, regional and national levels and involving the commitment and participation of all countries,

Gravely concerned that the major cause of the continuing deterioration of the global environment is the unsustainable pattern of production and consumption, particularly in industrialized countries,

Stressing that poverty and environmental degradation are closely interrelated and that environmental protection in developing countries must, in this context, be viewed as an integral part of the development process and cannot be considered in isolation from it,

Recognizing that measures to be undertaken at the international level for the protection and enhancement of the environment must take fully into account the current imbalances in global patterns of production and consumption,

Affirming that the responsibility for containing, reducing and eliminating global environmental damage must be borne by the countries causing such damage, must be in relation to the damage caused and must be in accordance with their respective capabilities and responsibilities, [based on Ehrlich's statement above, this sounds a lot like America will pay for it]

Recognizing the environmental impact of material remnants of war and the need for further international co-operation for their removal,

Stressing the importance for all countries to take effective measures for the protection, restoration and enhancement of the environment in accordance, inter alia, with their respective capabilities, while at the same time acknowledging the efforts being made in all countries in this regard, including international co-operation between developed and developing countries,

Stressing the need for effective international co-operation in the area of research, development and application of environmentally sound technologies,

Conscious of the crucial role of science and technology in the field of environmental protection and of the need of developing countries, in particular, concerning favorable access to environmentally sound technologies, processes, equipment and related research and expertise through international co-operation designed to further global efforts for environmental protection, including the use of innovative and effective means,

Recognizing that new and additional financial resources will have to be channelled to developing countries in order to ensure their full participation in global efforts for environmental protection, [still quoting:]

I

1. Decides to convene a United Nations Conference on Environment and Development of two weeks' duration and at the highest possible level of participation to coincide with World Environment Day, 5 June 1992;

2. Accepts with deep appreciation the generous offer of the Government of Brazil to host the Conference;

3. Affirms that the Conference should elaborate strategies and measures to halt and reverse the effects of environmental degradation in the context of strengthened national and international efforts to promote sustainable and environmentally sound development in all countries;

4. Affirms that the protection and enhancement of the environment are major issues that affect the well-being of peoples and economic development throughout the world;

5. Also affirms that the promotion of economic growth in developing countries is essential to address problems of environmental degradation;

6. Further affirms the importance of a supportive international economic environment that would result in sustained economic growth and development in all countries for protection and sound management of the environment;

7. Reaffirms that States have, in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations and the applicable principles of international law, the sovereign right to exploit their own resources pursuant to their environmental policies, and also reaffirms their responsibility to ensure that activities within their jurisdiction or control do not cause damage to the environment of other States or of areas beyond the limits of national jurisdiction and the need for States to play their due role in preserving and protecting the global and regional environment in accordance with their capacities and specific responsibilities;

8. Affirms the responsibility of States for the damage to the environment and natural resources caused by activities within their jurisdiction or control through transboundary interference, in accordance with national legislation and applicable international law;

9. Notes that the largest part of the current emission of pollutants into the environment, including toxic and hazardous wastes, originates in developed countries, and therefore recognizes that those countries have the main responsibility for combating such pollution;

10. Stresses that large industrial enterprises, including transnational corporations, are frequently the repositories of scarce technical skills for the preservation and enhancement of the environment, conduct activities in sectors that have an impact on the environment and, to that extent, have specific responsibilities and that, in this context, efforts need to be encouraged and mobilized to protect and enhance the environment in all countries;

11. Reaffirms that the serious external indebtedness of developing countries, and other countries with serious debt-servicing problems, has to be addressed efficiently and urgently in order to enable those countries to contribute fully and in accordance with their capacities and responsibilities to global efforts to protect and enhance the environment;

12. Affirms that in the light of the above, the following environmental issues, which are not listed in any particular order of priority, are among those of major concern in maintaining the quality of the Earth's environment and especially in achieving environmentally sound and sustainable development in all countries:

(a) Protection of the atmosphere by combating climate change, depletion of the ozone layer and transboundary air pollution;

(b) Protection of the quality and supply of freshwater resources;

(c) Protection of the oceans and all kinds of seas, including enclosed and semi-enclosed seas, and of coastal areas and the protection, rational use and development of their living resources;

(d) Protection and management of land resources by, inter alia, combating deforestation, desertification and drought;

(e) Conservation of biological diversity;

(f) Environmentally sound management of biotechnology;

(g) Environmentally sound management of wastes, particularly hazardous wastes, and of toxic chemicals, as well as prevention of illegal international traffic in toxic and dangerous products and wastes;

(h) Improvement of the living and working environment of the poor in urban slums and rural areas, through eradicating poverty, inter alia, by implementing integrated rural and urban development programs, as well as taking other appropriate measures at all levels necessary to stem the degradation of the environment;

(i) Protection of human health conditions and improvement of the quality of life;

13. Emphasizes the need for strengthening international co-operation for the management of the environment to ensure its protection and enhancement and the need to explore the issue of benefits derived from activities, including research and development, related to the protection and development of biological diversity;

14. Reaffirms the need to strengthen international co-operation, particularly between developed and developing countries, in research and development and the utilization of environmentally sound technologies;

15. Decides that the Conference, in addressing environmental issues in the development context, should have the following objectives:

(a) To examine the state of the environment and changes that have occurred since the 1972 United Nations Conference on the Human Environment and since the adoption of such international agreements as the Plan of Action to Combat Desertification, 165/[1977—A/Conf.74/36] the Vienna Convention for the Protection of the Ozone Layer, adopted on 22 March 1985, and the Montreal Protocol on Substances that Deplete the Ozone Layer, adopted on 16 September 1987, taking into account the actions taken by all countries and intergovernmental organizations to protect and enhance the environment;

(b) To identify strategies to be coordinated regionally and globally, as appropriate, for concerted action to deal with major environmental issues in the socioeconomic development processes of all countries within a particular time-frame;

(c) To recommend measures to be taken at the national and international levels to protect and enhance the environment, taking into account the specific needs of developing countries, through the development and implementation of policies for sustainable and environmentally sound development with special emphasis on incorporating environmental concerns in the economic and social development process, and of various sectorial policies and through, inter alia, preventive action at the sources of environmental degradation, clearly identifying the sources of such degradation and appropriate remedial measures, in all countries;

(d) To promote the further development of international environmental law, taking into account the Declaration of the United Nations Conference on Human Environment, 166/[U.N. pub. sales no. E.73.II.A.14] as well as the special needs and concerns of the developing countries, and to examine, in this context, the feasibility of elaborating general rights and obligations of States, as appropriate, in the field of the environment, also taking into account relevant existing international legal instruments;

(e) To examine ways and means further to improve co-operation in the field of protection and enhancement of the environment between neighboring countries with a view to eliminating adverse environmental effects;

(f) To examine strategies for national and international action with a view to arriving at specific agreements and commitments by Governments for defined activities to deal with major environmental issues, in order to restore the global ecological balance and to prevent further deterioration of the environment, taking into account the fact that the largest part of the current emission of pollutants into the environment, including toxic and hazardous wastes, originates in developed countries, and therefore recognizing that those countries have the main responsibility for combating such pollution;

(g) To accord high priority to drought and desertification control and to consider all means necessary, including financial, scientific and technological resources, to halt and reverse the process of desertification with a view to preserving the ecological balance of the planet;

(h) To examine the relationship between environmental degradation and the structure of the international economic environment, with a view to ensuring a more integrated approach to environment-and-development problems in relevant international forums without introducing new forms of conditionality;

(i) To examine strategies for national and international action with a view to arriving at specific agreements and commitments by Governments and by intergovernmental organizations for defined activities to promote a supportive international economic environment that would result in sustained and environmentally sound development in all countries, with a view to combating poverty and improving the quality of life, and bearing in mind that the incorporation of environmental concerns and considerations in development planning and policies should not be used to introduce new forms of conditionality in aid or in development financing and should not serve as a pretext for creating unjustified barriers to trade;

(j) To identify ways and means to provide new and additional financial resources, particularly to developing countries, for environmentally sound development programs and projects in accordance with national development objectives, priorities and plans and to consider ways of establishing effective monitoring of the implementation of the provision of such new and additional financial resources, particularly to developing countries, so as to enable the international community to take further appropriate action on the basis of accurate and reliable data;

(k) To identify ways and means to provide additional financial resources for measures directed towards solving major environmental problems of global concern and especially to support those countries, in particular developing countries, for whom the implementation of such measures would entail a special or abnormal burden, in particular owing to their lack of financial resources, expertise or technical capacity;

(l) To consider various funding mechanisms, including voluntary ones, and to examine the possibility of a special international fund and other innovative approaches, with a view to ensuring the carrying out, on a favorable basis, of the most effective and expeditious transfer of environmentally sound technologies to developing countries;

(m) To examine with the view to recommending effective modalities for favorable access to, and transfer of, environmentally sound technologies, in particular to the developing countries, including on concessional and preferential terms, and for supporting all countries in their efforts to create and develop their endogenous technological capacities in scientific research and development, as well as in the acquisition of relevant information, and, in this context, to explore the concept of assured access for developing countries to environmentally sound technologies in its relation to proprietary rights with a view to developing effective responses to the needs of developing countries in this area;

(n) To promote the development of human resources, particularly in developing countries, for the protection and enhancement of the environment;

(o) To recommend measures to Governments and the relevant bodies of the United Nations system, with a view to strengthening technical co-operation with the developing countries to enable them to develop and strengthen their capacity for identifying, analyzing, monitoring, managing or preventing environmental problems in accordance with their national development plans, objectives and priorities;

(p) To promote open and timely exchange of information on national environmental policies, situations and accidents;

(q) To review and examine the role of the United Nations system in dealing with the environment and possible ways of improving it;

(r) To promote the development or strengthening of appropriate institutions at the national, regional and global levels to address environmental matters in the context of the socioeconomic development processes of all countries;

(s) To promote environmental education, especially of the younger generation, as well as other measures to increase awareness of the value of the environment;

(t) To promote international co-operation within the United Nations system in monitoring, assessing and anticipating environmental threats and in rendering assistance in cases of environmental emergency;

(u) To specify the respective responsibilities of and support to be given by the organs, organizations and programs of the United Nations system for the implementation of the conclusion of the Conference;

(v) To quantify the financial requirements for the successful implementation of Conference decisions and recommendations and to identify possible sources, including innovative ones, of additional resources;

(w) To assess the capacity of the United Nations system to assist in the prevention and settlement of disputes in the environmental sphere and to recommend measures in this field, while respecting existing bilateral and international agreements that provide for the settlement of such disputes. [End quoting.]

Section II, the final section of the resolution, goes on to outline the specific logistics from Committees to participants and ways to co-ordinate the Conference and future actions.

AGENDA 21—THE EARTH SUMMIT

In the book Agenda 21: The Earth Summit Strategy To Save Our Planet, edited by Daniel Sitarz, we find [quoting:]

Agenda 21 is, first and foremost, a document of hope. Adopted at the Earth Summit in Brazil [1992] by nations representing over 98% of the Earth's population, it is the principal global plan to confront and overcome the economic and ecological problems of the late 20th century. It provides a comprehensive blueprint for humanity to use to forge its way into the next century by proceeding more gently upon the Earth. As its sweeping programs are implemented world-wide, it will eventually impact on every human activity on our planet. Deep and dramatic changes in human society are proposed by this monumental historic agreement. Understanding those changes is essential to guide us all into the future on our fragile planet.

Humanity is at a crossroads of enormous consequence. Never before has civilization faced an array of problems as critical as the ones now faced. As forbidding and portentous as it may sound, what is at stake is nothing less than the global survival of human-kind.

The effects of human impact upon the Earth have been accelerating at a rate unforeseen even a handful of decades ago. Where once nature seemed forever the dominant force on Earth, evidence is rapidly accumulating that human influence over nature has reached a point where natural forces may soon be overwhelmed. Only very recently have the citizens of Earth begun to appreciate the depth of the potential danger of human impact on our planet. The equilibrium of the planet is in jeopardy, as judged by forces as profound as the global climate and the atmospheric protection from the Sun's damaging rays. Major changes in the ecological balance of the world are occurring very rapidly, more rapidly in many cases than humanity's ability to assess the dangers.

Despite perceived feelings of superiority over nature, humanity remains fully and totally dependent upon the natural world. We need the bounty of nature to survive on this planet. We need the fresh air to breathe, the clean water to drink, the fertile soil to provide our sustenance. Human impact upon these vital substances has reached the point of causing potentially irreversible damage. Scientists around the world, in every country on Earth, are documenting the hazards of ignoring our dependence upon the natural world.

There is strong evidence from the world's scientific community that humanity is very, very close to crossing certain ecological thresholds for the support of life on Earth. The Earth's ozone layer, our only protection from the harmful rays of the Sun is being depleted. Massive erosion is causing a rapid loss in the fertile soil of our planet and with it a potentially drastic drop in the ability to produce food for the world's people. Vast destruction of the world's forests is contributing to the spread of the world's deserts, increasing the loss of biodiversity and hampering the ability of the Earth's atmosphere to cleanse itself. The planet's vast oceans are losing their animal life at a staggering rate and are fast reaching the limit of their ability to absorb humanity's waste. The land animals and plants of our planet are experiencing a rate of extinction unseen on Earth since the time of the dinosaurs; extinctions brought on not by cataclysmic events of nature but by the impact of a single species: homo sapiens. The increasing pollution of air, water and land by hazardous and toxic waste is causing widespread health problems that are only now beginning to be understood. All of these problems are being intensified by the explosive growth in the sheer numbers of human beings in the last half of the 20th century.

For the first time in history, humanity must face the risk of unintentionally destroying the foundation of life on Earth. The global scientific consensus is that if the current levels of environmental deterioration continue, the delicate life-sustaining qualities of this planet will collapse. It is a stark and frightening potential. To prevent such a collapse is an awesome challenge for the global community. [Continuing to quote portions of Agenda 21:]

In December of 1989, the General Assembly of the United Nations confronted this daunting task. The urgency of the problems of development and environment prompted the nations of the world to call for an unprecedented meeting—a meeting of all of the nations on Earth—an Earth summit. The United Nations Conference on Environment and Development was set for June of 1992 in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

The scope of attendance at this historic meeting clearly defines the importance of its task. It was, very simply, the largest gathering of heads of state in the history of life on Earth. On June 13, 1992, nearly 100 world leaders met around a single table in Rio de Janeiro in the largest face-to-face meeting of national leaders in the history of international diplomacy.

Agenda 21 is not a static document. It is a plan of action. It is meant to be a hands-on instrument to guide the development of the Earth in a sustainable manner. Recognizing the global nature of the environmental problems that face humanity, it is based on the premise that sustainable development of the Earth is not simply an option: it is a requirement—a requirement increasingly imposed by the limits of nature to absorb the punishment which humanity has inflicted upon it. Agenda 21 is also based on the premise that sustainable development of the Earth is entirely feasible. The transition to a global civilization in balance with nature will be an exceedingly difficult task, but Agenda 21 is the collective global alert that there is no alternative. We must align human civilization with the natural equilibrium of our planet and we must do so very rapidly if we are to prevent an irreversible decline in the quality of life on Earth.

The bold goal of Agenda 21 is to halt and reverse the environmental damage to our planet and to promote environmentally sound and sustainable development in all countries on Earth. It is a blueprint for action in all areas relating to the sustainable development of our planet into the 21st century. It calls for specific changes in the activities of all people. It includes concrete measures and incentives to reduce the environmental impact of the industrialized nations, revitalize development in developing nations, eliminate poverty world-wide and stabilize the level of human population.

Effective execution of Agenda 21 will require a profound reorientation of all human society, unlike anything the world has ever experienced—a major shift in the priorities of both governments and individuals and an unprecedented redeployment of human and financial resources. This shift will demand that a concern for the environmental consequences of every human action be integrated into individual and collective decision-making at every level.

The successful implementation of the far-ranging actions proposed by Agenda 21 will require active participation by people throughout the world, at the local, national and global levels. There are measures that are directed at all levels of society—from international bodies such as the United Nations and the World Bank to local groups and individuals. There are specific actions which are intended to be undertaken by multinational corporations and entrepreneurs, by financial institutions and individual investors, by high-tech companies and indigenous people, by workers and labor unions, by farmers and consumers, by students and schools, by governments and legislators, by scientists, by women, by children—in short, by every person on Earth.

The overall levels and patterns of human consumption and production must be compatible with the finite capacities of the Earth. As the human population on Earth increases, there will be ever greater pressure for people throughout the world to attain a higher standard of living. If the model lifestyle for this increasing populace is based on the current excessive consumption levels and inefficient production methods of the industrialized countries, the thresholds of economic and environmental disaster will soon be reached. Sustainable patterns of consumption and efficient methods of production must be developed and encouraged in all societies.

One of the most important root causes of the intensifying human impact on our planet is the unprecedented growth in the sheer numbers of human beings in the last 50 years. The world's population is now growing by nearly 100 million people every year. Population pressures are placing increasing stress on the ecological systems of the planet. All countries must improve their ability to assess the environmental impact of their population growth rates and develop and implement appropriate policies to stabilize populations.

[Still quoting from Agenda 21, under the heading Controlling Population Growth, we read:]

The spiraling growth of world population fuels the growth of global production and consumption. Rapidly increasing demands for natural resources, employment, education and social services make any attempts to protect natural resources and improve living standards very difficult. There is an immediate need to develop strategies aimed at controlling world population growth. There is an urgent demand to increase awareness among decision-makers of the critical role that population plays in environmental protection and development issues.

[Then, under National Population Policies, we find:]

Existing plans for sustainable development have generally recognized that population is a vital factor which influences consumption patterns, production, lifestyles and long-term sustainability. Far more attention, however, must be given to the issue of population in general policy formulation and the design of global development plans. All nations of the world have to improve their capacities to assess the implications of their population patterns. The long term consequences of human population growth must be fully grasped by all nations. They must rapidly formulate and implement appropriate programs to cope with the inevitable increase in population numbers. At the same time, measures must be incorporated to bring about the stabilization of human population. The full consequences of population growth must be understood and taken into account at all levels of decision-making.

[Agenda 21 ends with:]

In the next few years, the basic tenets of Agenda 21 will begin to influence decision-making at every level of society. A deep understanding of the rationale behind the drive for sustainable global development will enable every person to contribute to the success of Agenda 21 programs. For the far-ranging programs of Agenda 21 to be successful, a concern for the environment must begin to be integrated into every human action and every personal decision. What we manufacture, what we buy, what we wear, how we travel, what we eat, who we choose as leaders: these and a myriad of other daily questions must begin to be answered with a recognition that every single human action has an impact upon both the environment and upon all other people. Humanity has reached the point in its history when it must begin the difficult and demanding task of taking responsibility for each and every one of its actions. The sheer numbers of human beings are now causing our collective actions to have an unprecedented effect upon the planet.

As humanity approaches the end of this century, it is poised at a crossroads of unmatched magnitude. The very existence of human life on Earth may well depend upon the direction which is taken in the next few years. Without question, the character and quality of human life on this planet is at stake. The potential for catastrophe is huge. However, the possibilities for success are encouraging. Agenda 21 is itself a monument to the ability of humanity to join together in a global effort to solve the major problems of civilization. We each now have the opportunity and responsibility to help shape the future of life on our fragile planet. The consequences of our collective decisions will be our heritage. [End quoting.]

VACCINES

In his book Vaccines: Are They Really Safe And Effective?, Neil Miller (National Vaccine Information Center) writes [quoting:]

A brief review of the data presented in this book indicates that:

1) Many of the vaccines were not the true cause of a decline in the incidence of the disease. Increased nutritional and sanitary measures probably deserve credit. Some diseases may also have their own evolutionary cycles; the virulent nature of the virgin disease is transformed into a tame illness as members of the population are exposed to it and gain "herd" immunity.

2) None of the vaccines can confer genuine immunity. Often the opposite is true; the vaccine increases the chance of contracting the disease. (Published "vaccine efficacy rates" are misleading. They are often evaluated by measuring blood antibody levels—not by comparing infection rates in vaccinated and unvaccinated persons.)

3) All of the vaccines can produce side-effects. Reactions range from soreness at the injection site to brain damage and death.

4) The long-term effects of all vaccines are unknown. Particularly distressing are the implications that vaccines can be devastating to the young child's immature immune system. Studies were presented showing impaired health protection following injections. Lowered physical defenses may be responsible for a new breed of autoimmune diseases. Other studies showed damage to the brain and nervous system following shots—post-vaccinal encephalitis. This, in turn, causes large numbers of children to grow up with physical, mental and emotional disabilities of varying degrees. All of these conditions affect the individual, his or her family, and society as well.

5) Several of the vaccines can be especially dangerous. Nevertheless, the Medical-Industrial Complex continues to maintain its deceptive practice of disregarding vaccine reactions. In fact, medical officials recently suggested that they were justified in administering new and unproven vaccines by claiming it is unethical to withhold them! Meanwhile, creative propaganda on the merits of vaccinations remains a lucrative ploy. For example, the AMA admits that "adult vaccines need a gimmick." CDC physicians suggest a catchy slogan, like "Vaccines are not just kid stuff." Our policy-makers have lobbied for laws against freedom of choice. Their patterns of coercion and denial are notorious among the enlightened members of the population (parents who question vaccines), though sadly their awakenings may have cost them dearly—

often the life or health of their own child. [End quoting.]

MURDER BY INJECTION

In his book Murder By Injection—The Story Of The Medical Conspiracy Against America, Eustace Mullins writes [quoting:]

One of the few doctors who has dared to speak out against the Medical Monopoly, Dr. Robert S. Mendelsohn, dramatized his stand against Modern Medicine by defining it as a Church which has Four Holy Waters. The first of these, he listed as Vaccination. Dr. Mendelsohn termed vaccination "of questionable safety." However, other doctors have been more explicit. It is notable that the Rockefeller interests have fought throughout the nineteenth century to make these Four Holy Waters compulsory throughout the United States, ignoring all the protests and warnings of their dangers.

Of these four items, which might well be termed the Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse, because they too are known to bring death and destruction in their wake, the most pernicious in its long-term effects may well be the practice of immunization. This practice goes directly against the discovery of modern holistic medical experts that the body has a natural immune defense against illness. The Church of Modern Medicine claims that we can only be absolved from the peril of infection by the Holy Water of vaccination, injecting into the system a foreign body of infection, which will then perform a Medical Miracle, and will confer life-long immunity, hence the term, "immunization." The greatest heresy any physician can commit is to voice publicly any doubt of any one of the Four Holy Waters, but the most deeply entrenched in modern medical practice is undoubtedly the numerous vaccination programs. They are also the most consistently profitable operations of the Medical Monopoly. Yet one physician, Dr. Henry R. Bybee, of Norfolk, Virginia, has publicly stated, "My honest opinion is that vaccine is the cause of more disease and suffering than anything I could name. I believe that such diseases as cancer, syphilis, cold sores and many other disease conditions are the direct results of vaccination. Yet, in the state of Virginia, and in many other states, parents are compelled to submit their children to this procedure while the medical profession not only receives its pay for this service, but also makes splendid and prospective patients for the future."

From London comes an alarming observation from a practitioner of excellent reputation and long experience. Dr. Herbert Snow, senior surgeon at the Cancer Hospital of London, voiced his concern, "In recent years many men and women in the prime of life have dropped dead suddenly, often after attending a feast or a banquet. I am convinced that some eighty percent of these deaths are caused by the inoculation or vaccination they have undergone. They are well known to cause grave and permanent disease of the heart. The coroner always hushes it up as "natural causes".

You cannot find any such warning in any medical textbook or popular book on health. In fact, this writer was able to locate it in a small volume buried deep in the stacks in the Library of Congress. Yet such an ominous observation from an established medical practitioner should be as widely circulated as possible, if only to be attacked by those who can refute its premise. At least it cannot be attacked by the Establishment as quackery, because Dr. Snow is not attempting to sell some substitute for vaccination, but merely warning of its dangers.

Another practitioner, Dr. W. B. Clarke of Indiana, finds that "Cancer was practically unknown until compulsory vaccination with cowpox vaccine began to be introduced. I have had to deal with at least two hundred cases of cancer, and I never saw a case of cancer in an unvaccinated person."

At last, we have the breakthrough for which the American Cancer Society has been searching, at such great expense, and for so many years. Dr. Clarke has never seen a case of cancer in an unvaccinated person. Is not this a lead which should be explored?

In the land where freedom rings, or is supposed to ring, it is even more surprising to find that every citizen is compelled to submit to a compulsory vaccination ritual. Here again, we are speaking of a civilization which is now being visited by two plagues, the plague of cancer and the plague of AIDS, yet compulsory vaccination offers no protection against the plagues which threaten us. It is goodbye whooping cough, goodbye diphtheria and hello AIDS. The Medical Monopoly is searching desperately for some type of "immunization" against these plagues, and no doubt will eventually come up with some type of "vaccine" which will be more dreadful than the disease. From the outset, our most distinguished medical experts have proudly informed us that AIDS is incurable, which is hardly the approach we expect from those who demand that we accept their infallibility in all things to do with medicine.

Another well known medical practitioner, Dr. J. M. Peebles of San Francisco, has written a book on vaccine, in which he says, "The vaccination practice, pushed to the front on all occasions by the medical profession through political connivance made compulsory by the state, has not only become the chief menace and the greatest danger to the health of the rising generation, but likewise the crowning outrage upon the personal liberties of the American citizen; compulsory vaccination, poisoning the crimson currents of the human system with brute-extracted lymph under the strange infatuation that it would prevent smallpox, was one of the darkest blots that disfigured the last century."

Dr. Peebles refers to the fact that cowpox vaccine was one of the more peculiar "inventions or discoveries of the Age of Enlightenment." However, as I have pointed out in The Curse Of Canaan, the Age of Enlightenment was merely the latest program of the Cult of Baal and its rituals of child sacrifice, which, in one guise or another, has now been with us for some five thousand years. Because of this goal, the Medical Monopoly is also known as "The Society for Crippling Children."

Perhaps the most telling comment of Dr. Peebles' criticism is his reference to "brute-extracted lymph." Could there be some connection between the injection of this substance and the spread of a hitherto unknown form of cancer, cancer of the lymph glands? This type of cancer is not only one of the most commonly encountered versions of this disease; it is also one of the most difficult to treat, because it rapidly spreads throughout the entire system. A diagnosis of cancer of the lymph glands now means a virtual death sentence.

In an article in Science, March 4, 1977, Jonas and Darrell Salk warn that, "Live virus vaccines against influenza or poliomyelitis may in each instance produce the disease it intended to prevent...the live virus against measles and mumps may produce such side effects as encephalitis (brain damage)."

If vaccines present such a clear and present danger to children who are forced to submit to them, we must examine the forces which demand that they submit. In the United States, vaccines are actively and incessantly promoted as the solution for all infectious diseases by such government agencies as the Centers for Disease Control in Georgia, by HEW, USPHS, FDA, AMA and WHO. It is of more than passing interest that the federal agencies should be such passionate supporters of compulsory use of vaccines, and that they also should go through the "revolving door" to the big drug firms whose products they have so assiduously promoted, throughout their years of service to the public. It is these federal agents who have drafted the procedures which forced the states to enact compulsory vaccination legislation which had been drafted by the attorneys for the Medical Monopoly, to become "the law of the land."

Medical historians have finally come to the reluctant conclusion that the great flu "epidemic" of 1918 was solely attributable to the widespread use of vaccines. It was the first war in which vaccination was compulsory for all servicemen. The Boston Herald reported that forty-seven soldiers had been killed by vaccination in one month. As a result, the military hospitals were filled, not with wounded combat casualties, but with casualties of the vaccine. The epidemic was called "the Spanish Influenza," a deliberately misleading appellation, which was intended to conceal its origin. This flu epidemic claimed twenty million victims; those who survived it were the ones who had refused the vaccine. In recent years, annual recurring epidemics of flu recalled "the Russian Flu." For some reason, the Russians never protest, perhaps because the Rockefellers make regular trips to Moscow to lay down the party line.

The perils of vaccination were already known. Plain Talk magazine notes that "during the Franco-Prussian War, every German soldier was vaccinated. The result was that 53,288 otherwise healthy men developed smallpox. The death rate was high."

In what is now known as "the Great Swine Flu Massacre," the President of the United States, Gerald Ford, was enlisted to persuade the public to undergo a national vaccination campaign. The moving force behind the scheme was a $135 million windfall profit for the major drug manufacturers. They had a "swine flu" vaccine which suspicious pig raisers had refused to touch, fearful it might wipe out their crop. The manufacturers had only tried to get $80 million from the swine breeders; balked in this sale, they turned to the other market, humans. The impetus for the national swine flu vaccine came directly from the Disease Control Center in Atlanta, Georgia. Perhaps coincidentally, Jimmy Carter, a member of the Trilateral Commission, was then planning his presidential campaign in Georgia. The incumbent President, Gerald Ford, had all the advantages of a massive bureaucracy to aid him in his election campaign, while the ineffectual and little known Jimmy Carter offered no serious threat to the election. Suddenly, out of Atlanta, came the Centers for Disease Control plan for a national immunization campaign against "swine flu." The fact that there was not a single known case of this flu in the United States did not deter the Medical Monopoly from their scheme. The swine breeders had been shocked by the demonstrations of the vaccine on a few pigs, which had collapsed and died. One can imagine the anxious conferences in the headquarters of the great drug firms, until one bright young man remarked, "Well, if the swine breeders won't inject it into their animals, our only other market is to inject it into people."

The Ford-sponsored swine flu campaign almost died an early death, when a conscientious public servant, Dr. Anthony Morris, formerly of HEW and then active as director of the Virus Bureau of the Food and Drug Administration, declared that there could be no authentic swine flu vaccine, because there had never been any cases of swine flu on which they could test it. Dr. Morris then went public with his statement that "at no point were the swine flu vaccines effective." He was promptly fired, but the damage had been done. The damage control consisted of that great humanitarian, Walter Cronkite, and the President of the United States, combining their forces to come to the rescue of the Medical Monopoly. Walter Cronkite had President Ford appear on his news program to urge the American people to submit to the inoculation with the swine flu vaccine. CBS then or later could never find any reason to air any analysis or scientific critique of the swine flu vaccine, which was identified as containing many toxic poisons, including alien viral protein particles, formaldehyde, theimorosal (a derivative of poisonous mercury), polysorbate and some eighty other substances.

Meanwhile, back at the virus laboratories, after Dr. Anthony Morris has been summarily fired, a special team of workers was rushed in to clean out the four rooms in which he had conducted his scientific tests. The laboratory was filled with animals whose records verified his claims, representing some three years of constant research. All of the animals were immediately destroyed, and Morris' records were burned. They did not go so far as to sow salt throughout the area, because they believed their job was done.

On April 15, 1976, Congress passed Public Law 94-266, which provided $135 million of taxpayers' funds to pay for a national swine flu inoculation campaign. HEW was to distribute the vaccine to state and local health agencies on a national basis for inoculation, at no charge. Insurance agencies then went public with their warning that they would not insure drug firms against possible studies from the results of swine flu inoculation, because no studies had been carried out which could predict its effects. It was to foil the insurance companies that CBS had Gerald Ford make his impassioned appeal to 215,000,000 Americans to save themselves while there was still time, and to rush down to the friendly local health department and get the swine flu vaccination, at absolutely no charge. This may have been CBS' finest hour in its distinguished career of "public service."

Hardly had the swine flu campaign been completed than the reports of the casualties began to pour in. Within a few months, claims totaling $1.3 billion had been filed by victims who had suffered paralysis from the swine flu vaccine. The medical authorities proved equal to the challenge; they leaped to the defense of the Medical Monopoly by labeling the new epidemic, "Guillain-Barre Syndrome." There have since been increasing speculations that the ensuing epidemic of AIDS which began shortly after Gerald Ford's public assurances, were merely a viral variation of the swine flu vaccine. And what of the perpetrator of the Great Swine Flu Massacre, President Gerald Ford? As the logical person to blame for the catastrophe, Ford had to endure a torrent of public criticism, which quite naturally resulted in his defeat for election (he had previously been appointed when the agents of the international drug operations had ushered Richard Nixon out of office). The unknown Jimmy Carter, familiar only to the supersecret fellow members of the Trilateral Commission, was swept into office by the outpouring of rage against Gerald Ford. Carter proved to be almost as serious a national disaster as the swine flu epidemic, while Gerald Ford was retired from politics to life. Not only did he lose the election, he was also sentenced to spend his remaining years trudging wearily up and down the hot sandy stretches of the Palm Springs Golf course.

At the annual ACS Science Writers Seminar, Dr. Robert W. Simpson, of Rutgers University, warned that "immunization programs against flu, measles, mumps and polio may actually be seeding humans with RNA to form proviruses which will then become latent cells throughout the body...they can then become activated as a variety of diseases including lupus, cancer, rheumatism and arthritis."

This was a remarkable verification of the earlier warning delivered by Dr. Herbert Snow of London more than fifty years earlier. He had observed that the long-term effects of the vaccine, lodging in the heart or other parts of the body, would eventually result in fatal damage to the heart. The vaccine becomes a time bomb in the system, festering as what are known as "slow viruses", which may take ten to thirty years to become virulent. When that time arrives, the victim is felled by a fatal onslaught, often with no prior warning, whether it is a heart attack or some other disease.

Herbert M. Shelton wrote in 1938 in his book, Exploitation Of Human Suffering that "Vaccine is pus—either septic or inert—if inert it will not take—if septic it produces infection." This explains why some children have to go back and receive a second inoculation, because the first one did not "take"—it was not sufficiently poisonous, and did not infect the body. Shelton says that the inoculations cause sleeping sickness, infantile paralysis, haemophagia or tetanus.

The Surgeon General of the United States, Leonard Scheele, pointed out to the annual AMA convention in 1955 that "No batch of vaccine can be proven safe before it is given to children." James R. Shannon of the National Institute of Health declared that, "The only safe vaccine is a vaccine that is never used."

With the advent of Dr. Jonas Salk's polio vaccine in the 1950s American parents were assured that the problem had been solved, and that their children were now safe. The ensuing suits against the drug manufacturers received little publicity. David v. Wyeth Labs, a suit involving Type 3 Sabin Polio Vaccine, was judged in favor of the plaintiff, David. A suit against Lederle Lab involving Orimune Vaccine was settled in 1962 for $10,000. In two cases involving Parke-Davis' Quadrigen, the product was found to be defective. In 1962, Parke-Davis halted all production of Quadrigen. The medical loner, Dr. William Koch, declared that "The injection of any serum, vaccine, or even penicillin has shown a very marked increase in the incidence of polio, at least by 400%."

The Centers for Disease Control stayed out of sight for some time after the Great Swine Flu Massacre, only to emerge more stridently than ever with a new national scare program on the dangers of another plague, which was named "Legionnaires' Disease" after an outbreak at the Bellevue Stratford Hotel in Philadelphia. SWINE VIRUS ALERT***

In a headline from the Dec. 18, 1995 edition of the San Francisco Examiner we read the following AP story. [Quoting:]

Swine Viruses Pose Ongoing Threat Of Global Flu Epidemic
Pig and human bugs joining DNA may spawn new strain.

WASHINGTON—It may start with a pig on a remote farm in Asia.

A human influenza virus and a swine virus somehow lodge near each other in the throat of a porker. The two viruses exchange DNA, forming a unique genetic combination. Suddenly a brand new form of influenza is born.

With a simple snort by the pig, the new flu is airborne and introduced into the world. Inhaled by the farmer, it quickly reproduces by the millions and is transported to town, passed around to other humans and then hitches a ride to the city in the bronchial passages of a traveler.

Within days, thousands of humans are hacking, coughing and feverish from the new virus. The bug continues to spread, to train stations, airports and ships. In only a few weeks, a virus created by chance in that remote pig pen is felling people on six continents around the world.

That, many experts say, is how the next pandemic—or worldwide epidemic—of killer flu could happen. Time after time, going back hundreds of years, new forms of the flu bug have broken loose and killed millions. Now, say the experts, the world may be overdue for that to happen yet again.

In an age of antibiotics and vaccines, most people regard flu as dangerous only to the elderly, the very young and those already ill. But, to experts, it lurks as a constant threat to all.

"Flu in the last decade has assumed something of a secondary status," said Dr. John LaMontagne of the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases. "But we who have dealt with the infection recognize its power." The flu virus, he said, "is constantly changing and dynamic and very resourceful." [End quoting.]

MORE ON VIRUSES

In Dr. Eva Snead's Some Call It AIDS—I Call It Murder, we read [quoting portions from several chapters:]

Vaccines, Friend or Foe?

Under the title of "Bad Vaccines?", a journal as conservative as Newsweek expounds on the subject of vaccine contamination with retroviral microbes. "Could any of the world's stock of vaccine be contaminated by animal retroviruses similar to AIDS?", it asks. It tells of Jeremy Rifkin's request that the World Health Organization test its smallpox vaccines for such contaminants.

In the case of Rifkin's concern about the smallpox vaccination, the main concern was to find possible "BIV" closely related to the human AIDS virus—and people at high risk of exposure, such as meatpackers, for BIV antibodies.

Type "A" blood substance and
"some other proteins" are unexpected materials present in cultures used to manufacture vaccines

Humans have diverse blood groups, the most well known are "A", "B" and "O". Blood groups determine compatibility or lack thereof, in blood transfusions. Animal blood and tissues contain a substance that is very similar to blood substance "A".

Substances with a proteic structure, promote the production of antibodies when injected. Some aspects of this subject were discussed at the 1967 NCI meeting by Dr. J. P. Fox, who was intrigued about certain myxoviruses which had surface antigens on them. He wondered if they provoked antibody responses in recipients.

"The crude influenza vaccines we have been using in the past do contain group "A" blood substance... This substance also is found in chick embryo. So either the influenza virus has group "A" substance in it...or else the vaccine carries some of the chick embryo with it."

"And I pointed out there is a lot of chick embryo protein in finished influenza vaccine, and the group A substance probably comes from the chick embryo tissues; this can be eliminated as a significant problem IF the influenza virus is grown in a cleaner substrate or is purified. Certainly, the myxoviruses do carry over some of the host protein."

Again, the total lack of control of procedure, and scientific accuracy is appalling. I think that a butcher places more emphasis in properly dissecting a side of beef, than a cell culture lab in supervising the accuracy of such a dangerous undertaking.

Adenovirus and SV-40, A Dangerous Combination

A favorite cop-out used by virologists and other "scientists" who wish to conceal their closet-skeletons, is that inter-species infection with viruses is difficult. They usually refer to single-virus tests, not the use of viral systems. For instance, although human adenoviruses infect monkey kidneys rather poorly, if SV-40 is added, the human adenovirus infection becomes strong and lytic (destructive) of the cells. According to Fox and Baum, "The ability of SV-40 genetic material to increase the yield of adenovirus by 100 or 1,000 fold has been termed enhancement."

On the other hand, stocks E46 and SP2 of a certain strain of adenovirus (type 7) can induce the information of papovavirus SV40 tumor antigen (T antigen) in African Green Monkey Kidney cells (GMK). What actually happens is that a new virus may form when an adenovirus acquires new genetic material from the SV-40 virus. These viral combinations were called hybrids in 1965, whereas today they are referred to as recombinants. Since we have established this equivalence, we must become aware, at this moment, that genetic engineering was alive and well long before anyone had used that term, and in total absence of any containment precautions or regulations. The impact this may have had on the environment is probably just manifesting with the plagues of the eighties and nineties.

Since SV-40 has such an enhancing effect on adenovirus, and hybrids (combinations, or what today we would call recombinants) of SV-40 and adenovirus are found in monkey kidneys used in the process of vaccine manufacturing, many virologists have researched other such SV-40 and other virus combinations. They found several, including measles + SV-40, foamy virus + SV-40 reovirus + SV-40. SV-40 is like good rum, a great mixer! [And last, but certainly not least, from Dr. Snead:]

The African Swine Fever Virus (ASFV) Connection

Some "AIDS" patients harbor swine fever viruses similar to those found in certain specialized research centers.

A scientist who worked in Uganda in 1985, reported to Senator Ted Kennedy about a civil war in that country, which was accompanied by an epidemic of African Swine Fever Virus. At the same time, AIDS cases were being reported in alarming numbers. The researcher noticed that swine were roaming freely in people's yards. This information was released in the New York Native of Sept. 30, 1985.

These facts were not particularly appreciated by the medical establishment, and those who dared pursue this line of thinking were chided in more than one way.

Dr. C.L.V. Martins, who researched phenomena occurring in swine, studied the behavior of one of the cellular elements that protects the body: the macrophage. "Loss of macrophage function during infection may be important in determining resistance or susceptibility of a host." In all the studies performed by this author, the macrophages not only had reduced function, but they also often kept the virus in a latent state. These studies were done on swine, not humans. Since one must be exposed to raw, living pig tissue and fluids to acquire these viruses, most people assume they could not be infected with these organisms in the daily course of their lives. But the truth lies elsewhere. With the usual hypocrisy so characteristic of bureaucracies, humans are, on the one hand, frequently warned of the dangers inherent to the improper cooking of pork, and, on the other, fed raw swine-juice ever since their birth, by direct command of health authorities. Impossible? All vaccines are treated with trypsin, raw stomach extracts of swine. Insulin and other biologicals of porcine origin are other sources. Those who dared to suggest that AIDS could have some connection with swine flu were violently chided by the powers of the "health and illness monopoly". The violent reaction of the establishment against those who first found porcine viruses in AIDS patients and then informed the public is highly suspicious and may suggest that some cover-up is under way. [End quoting.]

BLACK PLAGUE NEEDED

In a newspaper clipping with the above headline, source unknown, sent to CONTACT, which reads "excerpted from Dr. Aurelio Peccei of the Club of Rome's NewsWatch magazine from Jan. 2, 1995," we see the following, [quoting:]

Sir Julian Huxley said, "Overpopulation is, in my opinion, the most serious threat to the whole future of our species." The project, called MK-NAOMI, was carried out at Fort Detrick, Maryland. AIDS was made to reduce the population.

Specifically targeted were the black, Hispanic, and homosexual populations.

The incurable disease AIDS has been spread with the willful aid of international agencies whose policies call for a drastic reduction of the population, using any means necessary. Already, medical experts say as many as 30 million people in Africa have been infected with the AIDS virus.

WHO, World Health Organization, was established in 1948 with the help of Dr. John Rawlings Rees, the psychological warfare expert whose notorious Tavistock Institute and Clinic in London used brainwashing techniques as a means to carry out racial policies of genocide.

Since its inception, the WHO membership and policies have overlapped those of the WFMH and UNESCO, established in 1946 by British racist Julian Huxley, as a vehicle for wiping out 3rd World populations with a new "Dark Ages" of famine and pestilence.

Each of the organizations named were set up as a project of the British "liberal" networks of Bertrand Russell and company whose explicit, stated policies of population control included Russell's published call for the "creation of a Black Death every 50 years" to curb the black and yellow population.

The Club of Rome's raison d'être is to wipe out half the human race in this century.

Several top Secret recommendations were made by Dr. Aurelio Peccei of the Club of Rome. He advocated that a plague be introduced that would have the same effect as the famous Black Death of history. The chief recommendation was to develop a microbe which would attack the auto-immune system and thus render the development of a vaccine impossible. [End quoting.]

PAST PLAGUES

In Michael Tobias' book World War III—Population And The Biosphere At The End Of The Millennium, he writes [quoting:]

Until recently, human beings were very much a part of this biological system of checks and balances, which

ANNOUNCING THE FORMATION OF THE INTERNATIONAL GULF WAR ILLNESS COALITION

Peter Kawaja proudly announces the formation of the "International Gulf War Illness Coalition", dedicated to finding the causes and cures of Gulf War Syndrome. We maintain a database on diseases and deaths associated with the Persian Gulf War. This includes all soldiers (worldwide) of the Gulf War "era", family members, civilians, and indigenous peoples in the former war zone. Please send any information you may have concerning deaths and illnesses you think are associated with or may be caused by the Persian Gulf War. This group is being run (operated) by Gulf War Veterans and civilian volunteers. We are soliciting the help of everyone globally, to participate. You do not have to be a veteran. Gulf War Veterans themselves will answer your phone calls and tell you in their own words, what happened to them. Help will be available in every state across the nation so that someone in your local calling area will be there to answer your questions and provide comfort and intelligent answers that mean something to you. Those suffering from AIDS and CFIDS are encouraged to call and/or participate in disseminating information. Your generous donations will go to help sick Gulf War Veterans and support this group, so that it can continue to function and help everyone is at risk. It is time for you to understand that no one is immune, no one is secure. There are precautions you can take, but even if you live and you are the only person left alive and everyone else is dead, what have you to live for? "We" must educate the public, that is our mission. Become involved now, before we have to face something worse than the deaths of millions such as was caused by the Bubonic Plague of the First World War. PLEASE become involved now. seem to hold firm for all organisms. Four primary inclemencies kept Homo sapiens in relative population calm: high infant mortality, war, famine, and disease, all contributing to a meager life expectancy. The Black Plague (Pasteurella pestis) was transmitted from the Tibetan Silk Route to a harbor at Sicily in 1347. Rodents account for 50 percent of all mammals, and it was the friendly rat, carrier of the rat flea (Xenopsylla cheopis), that caused such demolition. At least 30 percent of the human population died out—50 percent between Iceland and India. Boom and bust need operate according to food scarcities and resulting famine. Disease, acting upon a host, or dense network of hosts, plays a similar role in the maintenance of populations. Not unlike the moths and the lemmings, Europeans witnessed a spectacular revival of their populations within a century of the Plague, exceeding their pre-Plague numbers.

A climatic change in eighteenth century Scandinavia allegedly compelled the Norwegian gray rat (which does not carry the plague) to find passage into western Europe, where it successfully ousted the indigenous flea-carrying black rat, thus eliminating the most incisive threat to human population.

"More than any single carrier, it is human encroachment that ultimately precipitates the emergence of killer viruses," writes Stephen S. Morse. In Japan (Japanese encephalitis), Argentina (hemorrhagic fever), U.S. (Seoul virus in Baltimore), Panama (Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis), and in nearly every other country, the connection between increasing ecological destruction and the sudden exposure of humans to long isolated or dormant bacteria, protozoans, fungi and viruses, has been identified.

Never before has there been such an avid exchange of "information" between large species (Homo sapiens) and microbes. Of the more than 100 zoonoses (animal infections transmittable to humans) and over 520 known arthropod-born "arboviruses", at least 100 have been shown to cause diseases in people. Some are among the deadliest diseases ever encountered. In 1976 in Zaire and Sudan, as many as 90 percent of those infected with Ebola virus died horribly within weeks.

The most recent incident of plague, caused by the bacterium Yersinia pestis, occurred in India at the turn of the twentieth century and killed more than 10 million people. At the same time, a small outbreak among Chinese occurred in San Francisco. Another outbreak of the magnitude of that in India has been postulated for the United States.

In 1918 influenza A pandemic claimed 20 million lives worldwide in less than a year. It is believed to have originated in the United States, went to France, then returned to the U.S. where it spread rapidly from New York to California. Since then there have been serious global influenza outbreaks on at least five occasions. [End quoting.]

While I was working on this portion of the depopulation story, Hatonn wrote "Disaster In Flu's Clothing". [see Front Page story]. Hatonn's timely warning further emphasizes the immediate importance of this subject currently at hand. It is for this reason that I have chosen to somewhat expand Part V to include many current alarming headlines on the very subject of viruses and current disease.

AND NOW A LOOK AT SOME CURRENT HEADLINES:

Global diseases close to "crisis", blood probe told

In a story from the Dec. 2, 1995 edition of The Toronto Star, written by Nick Pron, we read [quoting:] The spread of infectious diseases worldwide is reaching "crisis" levels, and no country is immune to the problem, a federal commission was told yesterday. Canadians have to "stop thinking of ourselves in terms of isolation from the rest of the world" and get "tuned in to what's happening around the planet," Dr. Kevin

Kain told the inquiry conducted by Mr. Justice Horace Krever, who is probing the safety of Canada's blood system. [End quoting.]

Officials Warn of a Virus Deadly to Children

In the Dec. 8, 1995 edition of the New York Times, we read [quoting:]

A winter respiratory virus that kills about 4,500 children a year in the United States has appeared once again, with cases already being reported across the country, federal health officials said today.

The officials of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention here, said respiratory syncytial virus, or R.S.V., caused 90,000 infants and young children to be hospitalized each year with lower respiratory tract disease.

Dr. Tom Torok, a medical epidemiologist at the agency's National Center for Infectious Disease, said the virus could also cause serious respiratory disease in the elderly and in people with weakened immune systems.

"R.S.V. is underappreciated as a cause of respiratory disease in adults," he said. "The actual magnitude has not been well studied."

During the last month, the virus has been found in all 44 states that report the results of tests for it. Activity usually begins in early November, peaks between late January and mid-February and continues until April or early May.

Dr. Torok said the virus was most difficult to distinguish from influenza when it occurred in adults. "We don't really know whether or not there are good clinical indicators of R.S.V. versus influenza," he said.

Researchers are working on vaccines to protect against the respiratory virus and are studying the effect of giving infants a serum laden with antibodies against it. [End quoting.]

13,000 a day infected by HIV—One out of five carriers of deadly virus lives in southeast Asia

In the Dec. 1, 1995 edition of the Calgary Herald, we read [quoting:]

About 13,000 people a day worldwide are infected by the virus that causes AIDS, and southeast Asia is fast becoming a main casualty zone for the disease, a leading U.S. expert said Thursday.

Jonathan Mann, director of the Global AIDS Policy Coalition, an independent international research group based at the Harvard School of Public Health, said one out of five carriers of HIV lives in southeast Asia.

"We estimate that during 1995, about 4.7 million people became newly infected with HIV around the world.

"If it continues to go as it is, it may well be in the 70-80 million range by the year 2000." [End quoting.]

Plagues scourge Latin America as experts despair

In an article from the Nov. 29, 1995 edition of The Montreal Gazette, written by Laurie Goering, we read [quoting:]

Manaus, Brazil—It starts with a fever, like a hundred less deadly plagues. Then comes a growing weakness. The skin turns yellow. In the abdomen, internal bleeding begins. Soon blood pours from the body, through the eyes and in the endless black vomit. In nine out of ten cases, the liver dissolves and the victim dies.

It's not Ebola. It's Labrea black fever, just one of a half-dozen deadly and little understood viral diseases, emerging from the rain forest of Latin America.

"People all the time are going to the jungle and coming back with strange fevers no one knows about," said Betsy Dutary Thatcher, a malaria specialist at Brazil's National Institute for Amazon Research in Manaus. "If we started looking for them we could isolate a new variety every week."

Perhaps never has the battle against disease looked so bleak as it does right now in Latin America and in much of the Third World. Across the planet, new diseases are appearing at a frightening pace, researchers say. Even more disturbing: old scourges once thought relegated to history are making a comeback, particularly in Latin America.

Tuberculosis, thought conquered after the introduction of new drugs in the 1940s, has roared back and is spreading out of control. Malaria, one of the world's oldest plagues, also is making a comeback. Latin America reported more than a million new cases last year, half of them in Brazil.

In Nicaragua and Honduras, a mystery illness characterized by chills, fever and severe bleeding in the lungs has been tentatively identified as leptospirosis, an animal disease contracted through contact with animal waste. The outbreak has killed 16 people and sickened more than 2,000 in the two countries over the last two months. A similar outbreak in Brazil killed more than 40 people in February.

In Columbia, what appears to have been an outbreak of mosquito-borne equine encephalitis killed at least 26 people and drove 13,000 others to seek treatment in September.

In Mexico and across much of Latin America dengue fever, characterized by high fever and intense body pain, has struck nearly 200,000 people this year and is threatening to move into the United States. A deadly variant of the disease, dengue hemorrhagic fever, has stricken another 3,500 people.

In Guyana, an unidentified illness characterized by high fever, vomiting and convulsions killed five toddlers and threatened eight others at an eastern Guyana hospital this month.

"Communicable diseases are resurging," said Dan Epstein, a spokesman for the Pan American Health Organization, based in Washington, D.C. "We've had a whole series of hemorrhagic fevers, including dengue, and the problems continue to increase." [End quoting.]

Deadly Virus— Second outbreak of Ebola checked

In a newspaper clipping faxed to CONTACT this week, we read the following AP story [quoting:]

Experts trying to contain an outbreak of the deadly Ebola virus in Liberia are investigating reports of deaths in a second location, a World Health Organization spokesman said.

Ebola Tamed—for Now

In the Jan. 1996 edition of Discover appears an article of the above title. This article opens with, "Last Spring's plague movie, Outbreak, had to compete with a real-life cliff-hanger: an appearance, in Zaire, of the dread Ebola virus."

Contained within this article on Ebola, is another article written by Sarah Richardson titled "Breakbone Outbreak", which opens with: "While Zaire's deadly Ebola virus was flaring up briefly, a far more widespread viral scourge was threatening the Americas. In 1995 dengue fever, nicknamed breakbone fever for the terrible joint pain it causes, reached epidemic proportions in Latin America and Caribbean countries, sickening more than 140,000 and killing 38."

Have you noticed that CNN, within the last two or three months, has run several half-hour specials on Ebola Zaire? Coincidence? They said in one program that it isn't a question of if, it is a question of when Ebola will strike in the United States. Also keep in mind what Peter Kawaja has said about the Gulf War Illness—being a form of Ebola Reston, a slow acting form of Ebola. More on that later.

HEPATITIS

In a one-page ad appearing in the Jan. 11, 1996 edition of Rolling Stone magazine, we read:

"Five million Americans have hepatitis. Do you?"

In another headline from the Nov. 29, 1995 edition of The Montreal Gazette [quoting:]

Aussies exult as deadly virus hits rabbits

Broken Hill, Australia—It sounds like a script for a horror film: a deadly virus escapes from a biohazard lab. Corpses litter the landscape as a plague spreads across a continent.

But rather than flee in terror, Australians are cheering a virus that is wiping out rabbits across the outback. The real plague, people say, is the rabbit population.

"It's history, and we'll look back on this month and say what a wonderful thing it was," said sheep-rancher David Lord. [End quoting]

In a faxed newspaper article appearing in the Dec. 24, 1995 edition of the Chicago Tribune, written by Kenan Heise, sent to CONTACT on Dec. 26, 1995, with a note written across the top which says, "This is how they silence...", we read [quoting:]

Obituaries—George B. Craig, Jr., 65; expert on disease-carrying mosquitoes

George B. Craig, Jr., 65, an entomologist and professor of biology at the University of Notre Dame, was a world-renowned expert on mosquitoes, particularly those that transmit such diseases as yellow and dengue fevers and encephalitis.

A resident of South Bend, Ind., he died Thursday at a meeting of the American Society of Entomologists in Las Vegas.

Professor Craig has been outspoken in his criticism of this country's failure to control the spread of the Aedes albopictus, or Asian tiger mosquito. This species, named for the stripes on the mosquitoes' legs and bodies, probably invaded the United States in a shipment of used tires sent to Houston from Japan in 1985. Although rare in the North, the mosquitoes have been seen in the Chicago area. They carry sometimes-fatal diseases such as dengue and several forms of encephalitis.

Professor Craig co-wrote a report in a 1992 issue of the journal Science that established that the species had carried a serious illness into this country—Eastern equine encephalitis. In a 1992 Tribune interview, he reported that half of those who recover from the disease "have destroyed brains" and that "of all kinds of encephalitis, this is by far the worst."

Most recently, he had been directing research of the dengue hemorrhagic fever epidemic that began in Mexico and has crossed into the U.S., as well as of an encephalitis epidemic in Michigan and an outbreak of LaCrosse encephalitis in West Virginia. [End quoting.]

Horses, Handlers Killed by Mystery Virus

In an article from the Dec. 5, 1995 edition of the Daily Times of Harrison, Arkansas, written by AP writer Peter James Spielmann, [quoting:]

Sydney, Australia—First the horses lost their appetite, then they began to twitch. That turned into convulsions, the animals flailing against their stalls. Within two weeks, their lungs hemorrhaged and they drowned in their own blood, which gushed from their mouths and nostrils.

Then the disease struck the horses' handlers, eating holes in their lungs until they choked to death.

It was the first time in medical history that a virus previously unknown to science suddenly appeared in one mammal and then jumped to another with such deadly effect, killing two horse handlers.

The culprit: a type of morbillivirus, from the family of viruses that include measles, canine distemper and cattle plague.

But it is unclear why it suddenly became so virulent, why it has adapted to killing humans and when it will strike again. [End quoting.]

More on Ebola

In John Coleman's new book titled, Socialism: The Road To Slavery, we read [quoting:]

The "surplus to requirements" population of the world—and this includes the United States—is already being decimated by laboratory made mutant viruses that are killing hundreds of thousands of people. This process will be speeded up in terms of the Club of Rome's Global 2000 genocidal blueprint—after the mobs have served their purpose. The experiments begun in Sierre Leone with Lassa fever and media visna mutant viruses is being brought to perfection in the laboratories of Harvard University in August of 1994.

A new, even more deadly virus than AIDS is about to be released.

Already released and working with deadly efficiency are the new flu viruses. These mutant flu viruses are believed a 100 percent more effective than the "Spanish flu" viruses tested on French Moroccan troops in the fading days of WWI. Like the Lassa fever viruses, the "Spanish flu" virus got out of control, and in 1919, swept the world and killed more people than the total military casualties of both sides in WWI. There was no stopping it. Casualties in the United States were horrendous. One out of every seven people in big cities in America were swept away by "Spanish flu". People fell ill in the morning from fever and a debilitating tiredness. Within one or two days, they died—by the millions.

Who knows when the new flu mutant viruses will strike? In 1995 or perhaps the summer of 1996? Nobody knows. Also waiting in the wings is Ebola fever, its proper title, "Ebola Zaire" named after the African country of Zaire, where it first surfaced. Ebola fever cannot be stopped; it is a merciless killer, which acts fast and leaves its victims horribly contorted and bleeding from every opening in the body. Recently, Ebola Zaire has surfaced in the United States, but the news media and the Centers for Disease Control are saying little about it. Research experiments have been going on with Ebola viruses at the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute involving this and other highly dangerous viruses.

What is the purpose behind unleashing these dreadful killer viruses? Population control is given as the reason, and if we read the statements made by Lord Bertrand Russell, Robert S. McNamara and H.G. Wells, the new killer viruses are merely what these men said was coming. In the eyes of the Committee of 300 and the Socialist camarilla, there are just too many unwanted people on the Earth.

But that is not the whole story. The real reason behind the planned global mass genocide is to create a climate of instability. Destabilize nations, set people's hearts fluttering with fear. War is part of that plan, and in 1994, war is everywhere. There is no peace on Earth. [End quoting.]

New Gaia Products Offer Help

GaiaCol

GaiaCol is a combination of Colloidal Silver and Trace Colloidal Gold. This combination of ingredients has produced a product that is so high frequency and potent that it could quite possibly be the solution to our ongoing fight against the new antibiotic-resistant diseases that we face today. Colloidal Silver was used extensively and very successfully against bacteria, virus, fungi and the like before the advent of the first antibiotic, penicillin. The uses of Colloidal Gold were also significantly used in the restoration of health as early as 1885 and was noted for its ability to calm and harmonize the emotional body. Once the chemical companies began manufacturing the myriad of antibiotics, silver and gold were no longer looked to for treatment. The antibiotics they were producing, however, produced no effect on the more resistant viruses, fungi and parasites. Now we face a new generation of bacteria that are completely resistant to any antibiotics merely due to antibiotic over-prescribing and resultant survival of the fittest bacteria.

Research has demonstrated that Colloidal Silver is nontoxic to humans and allows no presently known disease-causing organism to live in its proximity. With the addition of Trace Colloidal Gold the frequency of GaiaCol is remarkably enhanced to allow these newer, more powerful viruses and bacteria to be eliminated. GaiaCol is gentle enough to use topically on just about any skin, hair or mouth condition without fear of toxicity and is outstanding for burns.

For internal use during any type of infectious process, start with one teaspoon the first day and then 10-12 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue until the infection clears. Then maintain with 3-4 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue. Important: Due to the powerful nature of this product, friendly bacteria can be affected so it is advisable to replace the natural intestinal flora with some type of acidophilus/lactobacillus supplement daily or at least when symptoms are noted such as cramps, bloating, diarrhea/constipation and a general feeling of malaise.

GaiaCol is said to be safe for children and pets and can be taken with other medications without incident. This product is not addictive and does not build up a tolerance to it in the body. 2 oz. $10.00

GaiaGold

GaiaGold is a solution of 100% Colloidal Gold which is one of the oldest used substances for medicinal purposes and has no equal in affecting the physical body positively. Around 1885, colloidal gold was commonly used in the United States as the basis for the cure of alcoholism with additional uses including treatment of Arteriosclerosis, skin ulcers, burns and certain nerve damages. Colloidal gold does not have the same Germicidal/Antibiotic action of Colloidal Silver when topically applied, but it does have tremendous effect if taken internally for such as Syphilis and other diseases.

Colloidal Gold has been noted for its tremendous ability to balance and harmonize the emotional body, particularly in regards to unstable mental and emotional states such as "depression", "autism", "Alzheimer's", etc. Gold has further been found to aid in the healing of heart muscle and is highly beneficial in rejuvenating sluggish organs—especially the brain—as gold is the best electrical conductor yet recognized for nerve action. Another use for Gold is in cases of glandular and nervous incoordination because Colloidal Gold is said to rejuvenate the glands and stimulate the nerves which releases the pressure and allows the signals for function to reach through to the various organs and glands.

GaiaGold intake can benefit self-control in diet and quit-smoking programs because it helps to balance the brain's craving or need for such overindulgence or addiction. Taken in conjunction with GaiaCol, overall renewed vitality and longevity may be achieved. 2 oz. $20.00

THEIR OWN WORDS

If you are trying to make points about a given topic it is not sufficient to simply talk ABOUT the issues in focus. It is better to offer the very words, explanations, signs of action, intent, and presentation of those INVOLVED in any given set of circumstances. In this context we will, every time possible, offer a sect's, group's, own outlay of information FOR YOU to study. If we write on the topic of Jews, for instance, the best understanding should come from their own papers and selected rabbis and speakers. With this in mind I ask that the computer be cleared of this writing so Editors are not delayed and then we will move directly into the subject, Discovering the Torah, from articles written in the Chicago Jewish Star. INEQUALITY AND EQUALITY IN JUDAISM

By Rabbi Shloime Gestetner. (Rabbi Gestetner is the Director of Chabad of the Old City, Jerusalem.)

A distraught young man came to a rabbi with a strange request.

"Rabbi, I want to become a kohen!" he announced.

"I'm sorry," came the reply, "but that is not in my jurisdiction."

"Rabbi, please," the man pleaded. "I'll make a $1,000 donation to the synagogue!"

But the rabbi could only answer, once again, that he could not do so.

In desperation, the man asked: "How about a $10,000 donation?"

"Tell me, young man," the rabbi finally said, "Why exactly do you want to become a kohen?"

"It's simple," he answered. "My grandfather was a kohen. My father was a kohen. And I want to be a kohen, too!"

Who is a kohen? From a genealogical viewpoint, Kohanim are descendants of Aaron. This week's Torah portion opens with a detailed account of the law pertaining to the kohanim. It is their duty to "separate themselves" and consecrate their lives to the service in the Temple in Jerusalem (Maimonides, Klei Hamikdash 4:1).

All other Jews are Levites or Israelites, and have different roles within Jewish societies. In today's egalitarian mood, any concept of a hierarchy—such as this one in Judaism, in which the kohen occupies the pinnacle spiritual position—would be deemed elitist.

Why, after all, cannot all Jews occupy an equal place in the service of Ha-Shem?

Surely in the eyes of G-d [H: Don't change this spelling for this IS the way of referring to the entity in point, i.e., "G-d".] all people are equal because they are created in the image of G-d.

Surely people are equally endowed with a divine soul. The mystic sees that whatever surface differences we may possess, on the inside people share a common gift.

It is, however, the unique spiritual qualities of the kohen which differentiate him from the Levite or Israelite.

The ancient texts talk of the kohen having a predominantly chesed-motivated soul (one in which kindness plays a major role). The Levite, these sources say, is more of the gevura-type, characterized by a severe nature.

It is not that a kohen is superior to a Levite, but that each has a different mission related to the soul's disposition.

Judaism does not believe in castes. But it does respect different functions and destinies.

Men and women are different, Jews and Christians and Moslems are different.

The point is that one does not become another. Judaism, for example, does not say that in order for the Christian or the Moslem to gain eternal salvation they must convert to Judaism.

No, we must recognize differences, tolerate and respect them, and glory in the qualities that make us what we are.

What was the mission of the kohen? Through their service to G-d they were able to attain a high holiness level. And because of that, they had to go from the Temple and teach the ways of G-d to the general populace (see e.g. Tosefta Sota 7:8).

In other words, in a microcosm, the kohen assumed the responsibility of all Jews in the world.

Every human—Jew and non-Jew—yearns for the messianic time when "there will be no war". Each of us needs to work to bring society closer to the realization of that dream.

Elie Wiesel, the Pulitzer prize winning author, describes this mission statement.

He relates that once, while conversing with the president of an African nation, he heard how Jews supposedly control the world, the banking system, and the media.

"We do not, and have not, controlled the world at all," Mr. Wiesel said.

"We've played quite a small role in the world up TO NOW. But this is something that I wish the world WOULD allow us to do.

"I don't want to control the whole world," he continued. "What I ask is that you give us the world for just one generation, and let us show you what we can teach it and its children.

"I promise," he concluded, "we will give the world back in a better condition than when we received it."

[H: And so it came to pass in the land of the Shan that the world was delivered into the hands of the ones who asked for but one generation—and they took more, and more and more. Now that it is time to return the world to G_{OD}, the promises, as usual when made falsely, are broken. And so it goes!]

REMEMBERING AMALEK: WHEN INJUSTICE IS FORGOTTEN

This week's parsha continues with Moses' final words of rebuke and advice as he passes the mantle of leadership of the Jewish people to Joshua.

The Israelites, poised to enter the Land of Israel, are readying themselves for the impending challenges which lie ahead for any nation-building people: economic development, social welfare, national defense.

With so many enemy nations surrounding the Land, it was very possible that a devastating war was not far in the offing. Thus Moses highlights the commandments dealing with "when you go out" to war (Hebrew, kitetze).

These laws pay special heed to wartime behavior and motivations. Perhaps in part because of these laws, Jews have never been known as a warrior nation.

Though each of three Jewish sovereign states, including the present State of Israel, has been forged with the blood of soldiers and civilians, the Jews developed not a culture of war but one of learning and moral pursuit.

In fact, even the great Jewish leader King David, who successfully defeated many of Israel's enemies in legitimate wars, [H: "Legitimate" "wars" (???) was not permitted by G-d to build the First Temple "because his hands were covered in blood." [H: Now you have added a second CONTRADICTION.]

Ki Tetze. "When you go out" to war.

The Torah acknowledges that there are times when war is necessary. In contrast to the comparatively idyllic sojourn in the wilderness, Moses understands that sovereignty means that the Jews must now live within the natural order: evil exists, and those enemies who seek to destroy you must be repelled.

The theme of war continues in the closing portion of the parsha.

"Remember what Amalek did to you on the way, how he encountered you on the way and cut down weaklings trailing behind you while you were faint and exhausted... you are to erase the memory of Amalek from beneath the heavens. Do not forget." (Deut. 25:17-19)

What exactly does this mitzvah mean?

Is the Torah telling us to be vengeful, to hold a grudge? Just because a former generation harmed the Jewish people in the desert, does that mean we must wipe out the descendants of these evil-doers today?

(Today the mitzvah is not applicable because it is incumbent on the King. In addition, there is no discernible nation of Amalek since the time that "Sennacherib came and dispersed all the nations of the world" [Talmud Berachot, 28a]). [H: How is this for getting AROUND a moral issue?]

In fact, what the mitzvah to remember Amalek means is that there is no statute of limitations on justice. Of all people throughout history, the Jews have put the highest premium on collective memory—who we are, where we've been, and where we're going.

In addition, the Jews understand that their role in the world is vital—namely, to stand witness that absolute truth exists, and that good and evil are concepts which cannot be altered by fiat or hand-vote. [H: And thus the birthing of the Kol Nidre.]

Therefore, when we remember Amalek and take action against Amalek, we are not behaving like uncivilized brutes. On the contrary: to remember that evil exists and to fight against evil when it is unpopular to do so, is a Biblical injunction, which is the root difference between humans and the rest of the animal kingdom.

The Torah tells us that it does not matter how long ago the injustice was done. If it happened, we are responsible to eradicate it.

Today, especially in light of the Demjanjuk debacle, we see that nearly all Western governments—including Israel's—are reluctant to pursue known Nazi war criminals. There is a "let bygones be bygones" attitude which has seized public opinion, as if it is almost immoral to prosecute these old men who "are no threat to anybody". [H: Never mind that they had the WRONG MAN!]

This lack of commitment to prosecute crimes and destroy evil, when it is not politically expedient, is the foundation for corruption and the unraveling of the moral fabric of society.

"Do not forget" is a moral injunction. [H: Truly, even if there was nothing to remember.]

"Go out to war" may be a moral imperative. [H: Moral? Oh my...!]

[H: And now let us move to:]

"Discovering Torah"

By Rabbi Shloime Gestetner:

JACOB'S LIFE: A PARADIGM OF THE JEW IN EXILE

As the congregation prayed on one solemn Yom Kippur, a sigh and painful cry escaped the mouth of one of the worshippers.

"What is it about these prayers that make you cry?" asked a fellow worshipper.

"Why, don't you see?" the man responded. "The whole tragedy of human life is described here. As it says, 'What is man? His origin is dust and he returns to dust.'"

"You call that a tragedy?" the other man responded. "If it had said that man was made out of gold and turns into dust, that would indeed be a tragedy."

"But if a person's origin is dust and one returns to dust—and in the interim one has the opportunity to make a L'chayim—why, that is not a tragedy. I see that as PURE PROFIT!"

Existential angst is part of the fabric of the human experience. Amidst friends, luxury and unprecedented entertainment opportunities, it is still possible today to experience loneliness and spiritual disillusionment.

Ya'yetze Ya'akov: "And Jacob departed from Beersheva and went towards Hebron" (Genesis 28:10).

Jacob flees his revengeful brother who threatens to kill him. He leaves Israel (Beer Sheva) to survive and journeys to Haran to find a wife.

Jacob stands as a paradigm of the Jew in exile. He is geographically, emotionally and spiritually alone. Furthermore, Jacob suffers. Tragedies continue to challenge him at every turn: Esau's threats, Laban's deceit, the untimely death of his beloved wife Rachel, and the devastating kidnapping of Joseph.

Yet with faith and tenacity Jacob survives and flourishes, building a spiritual fortress which can stand up to the adverse spiritual conditions. Within an amoral society and Laban's world of fast talk and quick deals, Jacob raises righteous children, the beginnings of a holy nation.

Va-yifga b'makom (v. 11). "He encountered the place, and spent the night there because the sun had set."

This encounter, according to the Talmud, denotes prayer

(Berachot 26b). In fact, the Talmud continues, Abraham instituted the morning prayer and Jacob instituted the evening prayer.

"Because the sun had set" refers to the darkness and loneliness that a person encounters in life. There was darkness in Jacob's life. He was in danger, he was alone, the future was uncertain. He cried out to G-d, it was the "evening service," the prayers of the afflicted. (Psalms 102:1).

Even when one is in spiritual turmoil and lonely in spirit, there is prayer. The evening prayer is one of hope, faith and trust in G-d.

Furthermore, Jacob perceived a future of trauma. He saw the "sun setting", the destruction of the Temple that will be built in that very place and the subsequent exile (Bereshit Rabbah 68:9). Prayer is vital—but not enough.

He took from the stones of the place (v. 11). In kabbalistic literature this means that he gathered the sparks of G-dliness that were latent within the mundane and ordinary. He began the process of creating a temple, a place of holiness.

Suddenly Jacob realizes that "This is none other than the abode of G-d and this is the gate of Heaven" (v. 17). The efforts of an individual can effect a dramatic change, for in fact Heaven and Earth are close (see Bereshit Rabbah 69), for we don't seek the nullification of matter but rather the sublimation of matter. It is not cessation of society, but its betterment.

What is required is a new arrangement (the symbolism of the stones), changes that transform a disorderly world into an orderly one. Like the magnetization of iron, all an individual does is place a particular substance in a certain position and induce motion. The innate force in the substance—the atoms and the molecular structure of its reality—arrange themselves in a new order (magnetization).

"And he took the stone" (v. 18), that is, a singular stone. The stones he had collected earlier (v. 11) had coalesced into one stone (see Talmud Hulin 91b). The new arrangement is one of unity, holiness and peace.

The struggling soul finds peace, a temple is being formed. It is for this reason that Jews are obsessed with the Messiah (as one can see from the traditional daily prayer book). The purpose of Judaism is to bring about A NEW WORLD ORDER where unity and holiness will be once again apparent.

[H: Please, just one more from Discovering Torah.]

August 5, 1994, Rabbi Shloime Gestetner, Torah Columnist.

JERUSALEM AND THE NATURE OF HOLINESS

"THE WORLD IS LIKE A HUMAN EYE. The white of the eye is the ocean surrounding the world. The iris is this continent, the pupil is Jerusalem, and the image in the pupil is the Holy Temple." (Derech Eretz Zutah 9)

The "image in the pupil" burns deeply in the Jewish heart and soul. Indeed, there is a long historical/religious connection to Jerusalem and the Holy Temple.

Various Midrashic texts connect this auspicious site to historic biblical events: the place from which earth was gathered to create Adam; the dramatic events of the akedah, where Abraham was prepared to sacrifice his beloved son Isaac; the very place where Jacob experienced the prophetic dream of angels ascending and descending the ladder.

The "image in the pupil" describes a relationship: between G-d and the individual, between the celestial and the corporeal; a place where "Heaven and Earth" meet.

The Temple (and all Jerusalem) is described not as good or beautiful, but as holy. What is the nature of holiness? What makes a particular place holy?

Let us search for an answer in the original text.

In this week's Torah portion Moses refers to the site of the Temple: "There will be a place in which G-d your L-rd will choose to cause His name to dwell. It is there that you will bring... your offerings" (Deut. 12:11; see also 12:5-6).

Why is the "place" not referred to by a name, such as Mount Moriah, Talpiot, or even Jerusalem? Why does the verse highlight the fact that "G-d will choose"?

Perhaps the key to the elusive nature of our holy city can be found in the unique process of "choice".

On the human level when we make a choice, it is influenced by a great variety of factors, like choosing an entrée from a menu. The qualities of the chosen thing (taste, price, etc.) together with various elements of your "external" self (your upbringing, your personality, your past experiences) all conspire to compel the outcome of your choice. Although a choice was made, it cannot be defined as true free choice.

However there is a "choice" where there are no identifiable factors, conscious or otherwise, that influence your totally arbitrary decision. The two objects or factors are equal, the choice is super-rational—the uninhibited expression of one's quintessential self.

This type of "choice" is what the above verse emphasizes.

That particular mountain was not chosen because of its unique spiritual qualities or its rich religious history; rather it is described as any old "place". It was simply "chosen", period.

Beyond any rationale, the choice was an expression of the free, uninhibited Divine Will. A relationship was created; the "place" was imbued with holiness.

This metaphysical concept has halachic (legal) ramifications, as Maimonides notes in his Yad HaChazakah.

"Why do I say that the original consecration sanctified the Bet Hamikdash and Jerusalem for all future times? Because the sanctity of the Bet Hamikdash and of Jerusalem stems from the Divine Presence and the Divine Presence can never be nullified" (Hilchot Bet HaBechir'ah 6:16).

The word "holy" (kodesh) comes from the root word "to be separate". It implies apartness, an entity which is beyond our grasp.

Only G-d, who is infinite, immeasurably remote and transcendent, can be called "holy". By Choosing a "place", a relationship with the Infinite Essence is created, disseminating holiness in the world.

The holiness is manifested in a series of concentric circles, extending farther into space and becoming fainter as they recede—from the Holy of Holies to the Temple itself, to the Holy City of Jerusalem to all of the Holy Land, and then beyond.

When living in the "palace of the King", there are greater expectations and also privileges. However, wherever Jews pray it is towards the site of the Holy of Holies, the "place which the L-rd your G-d has chosen".

Every single one of us, wherever we may live, carry the obligation of Jerusalem. "If I will not remember thee, O Jerusalem..." No! We surely will.

[END QUOTING OF PART 4]

Please, as we move along with ONE WORLD CHURCH ORDER, note that some of the dates, names and places are not CURRENT. That is because with the assembly of information you can only have "current reference" to the date of the compilation of the original material for all else becomes "forecast" or "fortune telling". Please remember that this material came only in February, 1995 so some information will seem old and out of date. Please don't ask me to change anything for if Mr. Buehrer wishes to "update" his writings to include all of 1995, that is HIS PREROGATIVE, not ours.

As an outlay of activities are brought into a volume you will find the material will span several to many years. All show a pattern of involvement and action. I am a bit picky-upon for offering this material during the Christmas Season. Readers, it is first the time of celebration of the Jews with the several days of tradition which to suit needs is now recognized as Chanukah. It is never tradition or customs with which I take exception—it is the MISUSE of these things which bring negative aspect to otherwise goodly intentions. As with all religions, readers, EACH HAS BEEN CASTRATED OF TRUTH TO SUIT THE NEEDS OF THOSE IN POWER.

It is, however, quite remarkable that there should be need to MAKE LAWS AGAINST RESEARCH AND SPEECH TO COVER THE DARK SECRETS AND ANY TEACHING. When a law is made that an "observation" or factual research revealing "differences" in what is projected against what is historical and valid truth, it becomes indeed suspect as to propriety or validity of that which is demanded to be used, and yet is quite false. Why is there need to fabricate history? Ah indeed! There is always shame and lies in a "fabricated" story—especially HIS-STORY. Be very careful lest you become so dumbfounded, confounded and unfounded as to miss the point of the “changes” to control you. If a man declares the sky to be purple and makes a LAW that restricts you in calling it “blue”, then you may understand the importance, for after a while of enforcement of that man’s law, you will forget and the lie of “purple” will prevail in the minds of all but the oral traditions. Three generations later all will have forgotten that the sky was blue as it is accepted as being purple. Perhaps a move vivid example would be to make the sky green but the change would not be so subtle as to fool you slowly into acceptance. You can do anything you want to do with “language” and “words” while wiping out all truth in the processing.

Please note that, as in the above writings, when you remove the “circle” or “whole” which is “+” (plus) in, for instance the spelling of G-d or L-rd, you have only remaining the absence of the whole and have produced the “-” (minus), or absence of the Divinity of the Whole. Translations mean EVERYTHING. Go forth and hide in the arguments, but note the TEACHINGS and then look at the words and see what is present. If your eyes be brown, for me to call them blue is merely stupid or it means I am quite blind as to color. I restrict neither stupidity or blindness as each will move according to his own direction—just please do not expect ME to follow the foolish leader off the cliff’s edge—especially if the cliff is some greater than two-feet in depth. You can soundly break your neck in a 6-inch stumble. Or, try “one word” which is misused, misstated or MISUNDERSTOOD.

People must respond to “meaning” in TRUTH and stop the gagging over language in concept and interpretation for “actions speak far louder than words”. It is quite amusing, in fact, to stand next to a man and watch him moving out your equipment while he tells you he “isn’t” and shouts such as “cult” at any present. Even “I” was under the impression that by definition a “cult” must have two or more participants (???). If indeed we constitute a “cult” it is surely the most tiny little group on the face of the Earth, with no members at all! And, further, if the name-caller claims to have been a member of the cult, so be it—for surely it was a cult of only ONE—HIM. Here there was rumored a cult started with followers of George Green and much has been written about same. Perhaps there is still that cult as we keep running into members. Calling a man whose name is Joe, “Tom”, does not a “Tom” make! When you people LEARN as much you will not have nearly so much heart-burn over the name-calling. If, however, Tom introduces himself to me as “Joe”, I shall surely call him Joe—and still FACTS are not changed one iota. GOD, HOSTS OR ANGELS NEVER, EVER CHANGE ONE IOTA REGARDLESS OF WHAT YOU CHOOSE TO CALL THEM—AND NEITHER DO THE EVIL ENERGIES WHO CALL THEMSELVES BY THE SACRED NAMES. IF YOU CALL YOURSELF “CHRISTIAN” AND THEN LIE—YOU DEGRADE THE SELF-USE OF THE TERM—NOT EITHER CHRIST OR THE LABEL, for YOU have chosen the terms, not the facts.

It is sad that you must come in need to RE-learn the lessons of TRUTH as offered by the great messengers, for it is so difficult to catch up to the thieves and liars and move past them into valid presence. If you walk a crooked line for too long you become more crooked and confused than the line itself. When this happens, all of the gold, silver and diamonds in the Universe cannot set you to straight—only TRUTH can accomplish the task. How do you walk today? How do “I” walk today? I don’t—I soar with Eagles and Angels! And, my wish? That you too gain your wings. Salu.

12/26-27/95 #1 HATONN

I need to now move back to the ongoing “Saggy” of conspiracy in the world which marches you right off the cliff and into a New World Church Order. It may seem less than relevant at first glimpse but that is only because we are unable to carry the thoughts through without interruptions. I can’t even begin to try to catch up or leave off with explanation of status other than to say, for instance, the following will be:

[QUOTING, PART 5:]

[H: The following article(s) regards Robert Maxwell and at first glance may seem to have no connection with the topic in title. It does, so please read along as it is a part of the coalescence of the New World Order.]

MAXWELL ONLY TIP OF ICEBERG

Questions Raised At UN Headquarters

Spotlight, Nov. 18, 1991, by: Martin Mann and Lawrence Wilmot.

The mysterious “termination” of international media magnate Robert Maxwell a week after he was identified to the world as an Israeli secret agent in a new book by investigative reporter Seymour Hersh is only the first of several blockbuster scandals expected to erupt from a closer examination into his origins and activities, diplomatic and intelligence sources say.

Hersh did not just cite Maxwell, a billionaire jet-set celebrity, as a deep-cover asset of the Mossad, Israel’s secret service. In his book, The Samson Option, Hersh charges Maxwell used his position as owner of major British and U.S. news organizations to set up the terrorist kidnapping of Mordechai Vanunu, an Israeli nuclear whistle-blower.

Maxwell denied the accusations, but despite a brewing financial crisis he left his London office a day later and set out to sea, the lone passenger aboard his princely personal yacht. On the night of November 5, Maxwell vanished from his ship; next morning, his nude body was found by Spanish fishermen, floating in the Atlantic surf.

On the evening of November 6, the coroner at Las Palmas, in the Canary Islands, announced a “preliminary finding” after examining the press lord’s corpse. Maxwell had apparently died from “natural causes”—that is, a “massive heart attack”.

If so, how did he plunge into the ocean? Maxwell’s family and close associates “doubt, in fact they dismiss the conclusions of the Spanish official”, reported Spotlight’s special correspondent Alistair Faulkner by telephone from Las Palmas. “An extensive investigation has been launched to find out just exactly what—or who—killed the controversial megapublisher, whose properties included the New York Daily News.”

In the consensus of senior diplomatic observers at UN headquarters in New York, the Maxwell scandal also raises a new round of questions about Maxwell’s origins and singular rise to power and influence.

Far from being solidly structured, the media empire controlled by Maxwell foundered in a sea of debt, according to reports, of $3.8 billion worth of bank loans and promissory notes.

“Hersh’s book charges this global media mogul ended up as an Israeli informer,” said Anthony Thayer, a London bond trader who monitors the finances of publishing corporations. “But the real question may be: How did this mystery financier begin his career?”

“After World War II, he was just another European exile, with deeper ethnic and emotional ties to Israel than to the London business world, in which he soon became a rising star. Who set him up in business? Who launched him on his road to power? These are the real questions. [H: These same questions should be asked about Rupert Murdoch!]

At least one senior UN diplomat with expert knowledge of Middle Eastern intelligence operations voiced a similar view.

HIDDEN SPONSORS

“Hersh may be [scrutinizing] Maxwell through the wrong end of this telescope. We must look into the possibility that Maxwell was launched in bigtime publishing by hidden sponsors loyal to Israel, and that he came to the end of his road—to a sudden and mysterious death—when he found his relationship with the Mossad too burdensome and attempted to break loose from Israel’s secret service.”

What is known about Maxwell’s origins lends credence to the view that he was an Israeli partisan from the beginning. Maxwell, whose real name is HOCH, was born in a small village in Czecho-Slovakia. He served with British forces in World War II during the occupation of Germany. He reportedly gained favor with his officers by looting German houses and bestowing his loot upon his superiors.

He was decorated by the British for “bravery”, but the act for which he was commended was to gun down an unarmed mayor of a German town who was trying to arrange a surrender, according to a British source who knew Maxwell during this period.

At the end of the war, the Irgun Zvi Leumi—to which Maxwell was attached and which was to later become the Mossad after the founding of Israel—followed Allied combat troops into Germany, seizing German scientific research into physics, chemistry, aeronautics, astronomy and other technical areas. They also scooped up German research into more arcane areas such as archeology, history, anthropology and other inquiries into human origins, especially those related to race and ethnicity.

The former information was converted into cash, the latter was buried, never to be seen again.

AN ISRAELI “FIRST”

Interestingly, Israel is the first nation in history to have an intelligence service before it had an actual country. Its military and intelligence units were active worldwide years before the founding of Israel as part of the international Zionist movement.

Hoch, later Maxwell, founded Oxford Pergamon Press, which translated and published the stolen German scientific data. This was the basis of Maxwell’s fortune and the beginning of his publishing empire.

Similar questions have been raised privately about other controversial media moguls, among them Rupert Murdoch, one of Maxwell’s principal rivals, rumored to have linked—perhaps even initiated—his career with Israeli interests.

Moreover, just before his death, Maxwell made a startling move that signaled a rebuff to Israeli intelligence: He fired foreign editor Nicholas Davies, a senior associate, after evidence emerged linking this veteran British journalist to covert Mossad arms deals. Maxwell, a brash and arrogant man, was becoming increasingly hard to handle by his Mossad controllers, as this action evidences.

“Maxwell’s death may turn out to be just another episode demonstrating Israel’s willingness to take what Hersh calls the Samson option—to turn to murder and destruction, singly or genocidally, when it feels challenged,” warned the seasoned UN diplomat who, like other highly placed sources, asked not to be named. “This scandal has barely begun. There is more to come.”

[END QUOTING OF PART 5]

And certainly there IS a lot more to come. Thank you and good morning.

Since it is through press and media that the world receives the information desired for consumption—it is worthy of every minute spent showing you the STRUCTURING of this CONTROLLED STATE OF INFORMATION PRESENTATION. It is through the control of information that all things are brought about into new concepts and “order”. It all goes right back to the Protocols as laid forth by the Elders of the New World Order Zionists.

On The Tuned Circuits Of Nikola Tesla

12/29/95 #2 HATONN

JUST WHEN YOU THOUGHT....

I know that just when you thought I was off on one tangent, here I go back onto another "old" one. Why? Because I have some "scientists" who are moving in the wrong direction and I don't want to just snatch them back nor do I wish to relate the "how to" because I make a lot of effort to protect my secretary. I can share most openly by simply reminding you that you have information in great supply and, if you take what is offered and LISTEN to instructions, you will have no problem working out the most dreary or magnificent things.

I note that you are tinkering with and pondering about some of Tesla's circuits and pondering how to capture frequencies of potentially unlimited structure and move them into controlled and useful tools.

Since we have written so much on the man, Tesla, I think I shall just start in the middle of what may seem, to most, as being unnoteworthy, but it IS. We know all about his alternating currents, etc., so let us just move on and talk about "Tuned Circuits".

I would like to again thank Bob James for offering information in the form of a book by Philip S. Callahan called Tuning In To Nature.

As I found when dealing with subjects such as cells, we were as babes in the woods so I gave you a sort-of "glossary" so that you could become a bit informed as we offered input to our already educated engineers and scientific personnel. I am going to bypass that very important detail here because of Dharma's time constraints and I need this information put to writing. If we can find time to offer definitions we will try to do so later.

ABOUT TUNED CIRCUITS MORE ON NIKOLA TESLA

[QUOTING Excerpts From TUNING INTO NATURE, By Philip S. Callahan, 1975, The Devin-Adair Company, Connecticut:]

[H: You who are "hung-up" on some aspects of your work will find some key issues covered here in what will seem to be substantially more simplicity than you have grown to complicate the systems.]

Why is the invention of the tuned circuit by this fascinating man, Nikola Tesla, so important? Let us take a quick look at what a tuned circuit really is. Resonant waves have been known ever since man invented the first stringed musical instrument. Most people seem to understand how sound resonance works, but many apparently draw a complete blank when the subject of electrical resonance is approached. From this standpoint, electrical resonance seems to have suffered the same fate as Tesla himself—obscurity!

A wave, as you know, is made up of a series of crests and troughs; this holds true for liquid waves, sound waves, and electromagnetic waves—regardless of how long or short they are. If, by some means, mechanical or otherwise, waves are put in "phase", then the crest of one meets the crest of the other, and waves march in unison and thus add together. If they are 180 degrees out of phase—so that waves and troughs are opposite each other—then they cancel out, and the result is no wave or 0. In the region of light (electromagnetic radiation) this is called constructive (addition) or destructive (cancellation) interference. Waves in phase are said to resonate, or to be coherent. The electromagnetic wave is called a sine wave in electronic terminology. One wavelength is equal to the length of one whole crest and one whole dip.

A traveling train of waves has a frequency that equals the number of its crests that pass a given point per second. Thus, for my 300-kilocycle station (1 kilocycle = 1,000 cycles) in Ireland, 300,000 cycles, or sine waves, passed over a point on the surface of the earth each second. Obviously, if wavelength = the speed of light divided by the frequency, then the velocity (speed) of the wave equals wavelength times frequency; or in the case of my radio range station in Ireland, mentioned in the last chapter, velocity = 300 kilocycles x 1,000 meters = 300,000 kilometers per second, or the speed of light. Now we see why it is so important to have accurate measurements of the speed of light. In 1907, Albert Michelson was the first American to receive a Nobel Prize in Science. He received it for measuring very accurately the speed of light with his Michelson interferometer. Today, scientists utilizing a hydrogen-cyanide laser are calculating a light-speed constant that is 100-fold more accurate than previous values. They are looking at a reproducibility of one part in 10,000 billion (1 in 10^{13}).

In the spectral region of the long waves of my radio range station, or of Tesla's earth waves, great accuracy is not necessary; but, at the present time, we are working at the other end of the spectrum where light and IR [Infra Red] wavelengths are micrometers or less long. If we are going to look at "tuned" or resonant circuits in these regions, we need to know the speed of light to a much greater degree of accuracy.

If you look at a regular light bulb, the electrons that make up the rays reaching your eyes are not marching together in phase. They are all going out in different directions, and at different times. The emitted electrons do not oscillate together in harmony. Waves that do not march together are called incoherent waves, as shown in the top of Figure 5. Waves that do march together are called coherent waves (bottom of Figure 5).

[E.Y. editor's note: For you more technically aware readers, I have to jump in here and correct the sentiment of the above paragraph because electrons are not going anywhere. Agitated electrons in the filament of the bulb give off photons of light and these photons interact with the eye and are perceived as light.]

In basic terms, we know what waves and frequency are, but how does one get waves to march together like soldiers? How does one put them in phase so that they resonate? This problem was solved by Tesla for long waves in 1897 with his "tuned circuit". C.H. Townes solved it for very short light waves in 1953 with his gas laser.

There are some admirers of Tesla, and I am one, who suspect that he invented the laser years ago and destroyed it for fear it would become a tool of war. [H: No, he didn't destroy it but did share it with "others" who have used it and become the world leaders in such technology and NO, IT IS NOT THE U.S.A.!] Modern researchers may protest that Tesla never patented a laser. They might maintain that he could not have done so because Einstein hadn't invented quantum mechanics at that period of science. [H: Pooh, Einstein was a distractor with inaccurate information and information taken from Tesla's property which contained some of the information of which we speak here, but the reason there is no patent is that Tesla finally realized that what was patented was STOLEN IMMEDIATELY and knew the patent office and department were only conduits to take and use his work. This is something that if ALL OF YOU REALIZED, you would quit giving your enemy your technology.] The argument isn't valid, however, for Thomson discovered the electron before the theory of quantum mechanics was developed. Thomson looked on electrons as raisins buried in a big cake—the atom! He did not have the concept of little packets of energy orbiting around a nucleus, as we view electrons today. There are many who believe however, that Tesla did invent what he termed a "death ray". [H: Well, what is a "laser"?] Half of any great discovery is hypothesis based on asking the right question. He was known to have had a good grasp of gas discharge phenomena and told of a death ray he invented that could cut through solids! Let me quote from a lecture, "On Light and Other High Frequency Phenomena", delivered at Franklin Institute, Philadelphia (February 1893). [H: I felt the full presentation was so valid as to have offered this to you readers some years ago. If it can be located and extracted from our writings, please run it when space is available.]

It is very likely that resonant vibration plays a most important part in all manifestations of energy in nature. Throughout space, all matter is vibrating, and all rates of vibration are represented from the lowest musical note to the highest pitch of the chemical rays; hence an atom, or complex of atoms, no matter what its period, must find a vibration with which it is in resonance. When we consider the enormous rapidity of the light vibrations, we realize the impossibility of producing such vibrations directly with any apparatus of measurable dimensions, and we are driven to the only possible means of attaining the object of setting up waves of light by electrical means and economically, that is, to affect the molecules or atoms of a gas to cause them to collide and vibrate. We then must ask ourselves: how can free molecules or atoms be affected? [Italics added.]

[H: Now we are approaching the very subjects which were the focus of our work on Light and with Walter Russell's input. I would, therefore, since we now have ample input from totally separate resources as to diagrams that we will get around to offering Tom Astley's "receivings" which are far more accurate in presentation and unclouded by people who have usurped his work as has been Walter Russell's. I would acknowledge that ones from claimed Russell resources are working on energy devices, etc., which are direct take-off of Tesla's work. And the minute they override Tesla's patents—they can expect legal repercussions. If they hold Russell's work hostage—then too shall we-the-people HOLD THEM LIABLE FOR ANY UTILIZATION OF TESLA'S WORK! It shall be called Patent and Copyright violations. Those people in point can giggle and waggle and discount MY PRESENCE AND POSITION AND POSSIBILITIES—IT MATTERS NOT A WHIT. I AM EXACTLY WHO I SAY I AM AND SO ARE THE AUTHORS OF THE PLEIADES CONNECTION SERIES OF JOURNALS.]

The quotation is irrefutable proof that in 1893 Tesla asked the right question about resonating short light waves. He knew that molecular "in-phase" waves could not be attained with "apparatus of measurable dimensions"; that is, with coils and condensers as used in the radio region of the spectrum. One would have to put the atoms in resonance to obtain what today we call coherence.

The helium-neon laser, which puts out a coherent in-phase red beam, works on the principle of what laser physicists call "collisions of the second kind" between two dissimilar gases. At any finite pressure, the lifetime of any radiation emission will be significantly lengthened by light emitted from atoms being absorbed and re-emitted by other atoms. This is a sort of chain reaction system where re-emittance and reabsorption occur in cycles until, after a number of such cycles, the light escapes as radiation. The stimulus for the radiation from the gas is an electrical discharge, just as Tesla suggested.

It is absolutely inconceivable that a man who knew what Tesla did about gas discharges, light rays, and resonating systems, would not attempt to resonate the output of his gas tubes by some method such as is used in present-day laser research. One would have to be of an extremely selfish nature not to admit the possibility that his "death ray" was a laser. [H: Well, readers, there are A LOT of such selfish people running around claiming to want to "help society". No, I don't buy it either, for when you want to help—you don't sue the truth-bringers.]

Tesla never published in scientific journals, and since he considered himself a practical inventor working for humanity, most of his writings are in the form of verbose Victorian essays that were presented before scientific societies. A careful reading of these essays will prove conclusively that he did work on the concept of a laser. John O'Neill, in his biography, says, "Tesla never gave the slightest hint concerning the principles under which the device [death ray] operated." O'Neill, however, was not a scientist, and besides, C.H. Townes had not invented the laser when O'Neill wrote his biography of Tesla in 1944.

One cannot read Tesla's lengthy essays in a critical manner and not admit that, as early as 1893, he had the concept of the laser. Just as resonant circuits of coils and condensers put oscillations of long radio waves in phase and produce coherence, so also do resonating molecules produce coherent light waves. We will never know if, in his later years, Tesla produced a real laser (death ray). He claimed that he did. Whether or not we prefer to believe that Tesla designed a laser, in no way detracts from the genius of Townes, who accomplished the same objective in 1953. [H: Of course it was from Tesla's working instructions. Great scientists work with others at every opportunity when there is respect and purpose while living in proximity of time—or through that which is quietly handed down from the elder to the seeking student.] There are some who believe that the greatness of one scientist detracts from that of another. This is foolish thinking. Because we show that Tesla was an electrical genius, does not make Townes, or Edison, any less so.

It is interesting that Tesla was experimenting with resonating light waves in gas tubes in 1893, but more to the point that he did patent the first resonant "tuned" circuit in the radio portion of the spectrum.

In 1900, Tesla predicted radio as we know it today. In an essay entitled, "The Problems of Increasing Human Energy", he wrote the following:

That communication without wires to any point of the globe is practical with such apparatus would need no demonstration, but through a discovery which I made I obtained absolute certitude. Popularly explained it is exactly this: When we raise the voice and hear an echo in reply, we know that the sound of the voice must have reached a distant wall, or boundary, and must have been reflected from the same. Exactly as the sound, so an electrical wave is reflected, and the same evidence which is afforded by an echo is offered by an electrical phenomenon known as a "stationary" wave—that is, a wave with fixed nodal and ventral regions. Instead of sending sound vibrations toward a distant wall, I have sent electrical vibrations toward the remote boundaries of the earth, and instead of the wall the earth has replied. In place of an echo I have obtained a stationary electrical wave, a wave reflected from afar. [Italics added.]

Tesla was not talking about the "make-and-break" telegraphy of Marconi, but rather about the principle of coherent waves in resonance or, as we say today, standing waves on an antenna. As he states, it was a discovery that he made, and it was the single most important concept of what today we call the science of electronics or radio. Of course Hertz, before 1891, knew about standing waves as is evident in his treatise, "Annalen der Physik und Chemi". His resonator transmitter, however, was a cut in lengths to match the same wave-length of oscillations being generated or received.

A resonant, or tuned, circuit may be a series or a parallel circuit, and is used to electrically shorten or lengthen the antenna. Parallel-tuned circuits (a condenser across a coil instead of at the end of the coil) are used in radio to couple resonant energy from one circuit to another in the transmitter or receiver. For the sake of keeping things simple, however, we will discuss a series-tuned circuit. Series-tuned circuits are often used to electrically "stretch" or "shorten" an antenna or waveguide (transmission lines) so that the length of the antenna or waveguide will match the length of the incoming wave. One would not want to cut or lengthen the antenna every time a different frequency station was tuned to. To accomplish the electrical shortening or lengthening, one places a coil and adjustable condenser in series with the antenna. The antenna then becomes a series-tuned circuit. It might be necessary with a receiver, for instance, to "tune" the antenna electrically to fit waves from 4-inches to 33-feet-long, as shown in Figure 6, or even, as in the case of my radio range, from point-to-point frequencies a few feet long small coil, loop antenna, and spark gap. Hertz never believed his system would be useful for long-distance communication! As shown in Figure 6, antennas are to radio range signals half a mile long. Most antennas are cut to half or quarter wavelengths, for the simple reason that it takes less wire and still works for resonance.

If we look at Tesla's 1897 patent (No. 649,621) we see what looks like nothing more than a couple of coils across an electric generator. Actually, his drawings represent a transmitter. For an oscillator (wave producer), Tesla used the AC generator that he invented. This, of course, sends out alternating current in the form of a sine wave. His transmitter consists of a generator across a huge double-loop primary coil. The secondary coil is made of many turns and is grounded at one end. The other end extends upward as a loop antenna. The receiver on the right was a light bulb. [see box above]

The drawing actually filed in the patent does not convey the enormity of this transmitter. Reading the patent does, however, because the loop antenna is of tremendous size, and according to the patent is to be wrapped around a large balloon in the sky. In section 85 of his patent, Tesla tells us that his secondary coil is wound with 50 miles of wire. This includes the loop antenna around the balloon. Since the speed of light is equal to 300,000 kilometers per second, or approximately 186,000 miles per second (we do not have to be very accurate with such long waves), and since Tesla tells us his waves were 200 miles long, then we see his motor was putting out an AC sine wave at:

$$\frac{186,000}{200} = 930 \text{ cycles per second}$$

or a frequency of 930 (200 mile-long) waves per second. This means, in essence, that Tesla was maintaining 930 stationary waves, or sine waves, in his secondary coil. Since his waves are 200 miles long, and his coil only 50, he has in effect a "tuned" quarter-wave transmitting antenna.

At this point, Tesla still is not able to vary wavelengths with his tuned transmitter. Although it is a resonant system, it is fixed to wavelengths 200 miles long, because his 50-mile-long coil and antenna wire are cut to that fixed one-quarter length. His next patent, No. 685,953 (filed June 24, 1899), is entitled, "Method of Intensifying and Utilizing Effects Transmitted Through Natural Media". [H: Please never allow the idea "transistor" to leave your minds.] By natural media, Tesla meant air. This second patent is essentially a variable plate condenser utilized to tune the coil and antenna of his transmitter. When Tesla placed this condenser circuit in series with his coil in the transmitter, he had produced a variable tuned circuit, and could resonate quite accurately to many wavelengths by varying the condenser in the circuit.

In electronics, the term reactance means opposition to flow of current (the symbol is X). Capacitive reactance (X_C) is opposition to current flow offered by capacitors and inductive reactance (X_L) by coils. In a tuned circuit, the inductive and capacitive reactance are oppositely affected by frequency. In any series combination of capacitors and coils, there is one particular frequency where capacitive reactance equals inductive reactance ($X_C = X_L$). The two factors cancel each other out and, at that frequency, for those values the only resistance to the flow of current is that of the wire itself (Figure 7). [H: I would pay careful heed to this information for remember what happened in Lawrence Livermore labs in about 1989 or so was that the accelerators and circuits started a build-up chain reaction and almost blew out the western coastline of, at the least, California. We had to intervene and even then the chain reaction blew out every capacitor as if they weren't there. It is the out-of-control aspects which are so dangerous to your entire society—with this information.]

We see, then, that by making an adjustable coil or condenser, one can change the values of $X_C = X_L$ to fit any frequency and can thus tune the antenna to different wavelengths. This is the basic circuit for antennas, and for coupling from circuit to circuit in a transmitter or a receiver. All that tubes or transistors do is control the current from these tuned coupling circuits. [H: IF YOU'RE LUCKY!]

As we shall see later, antennas that resonate to short wave-lengths, below radio in the infrared and visible regions of the spectrum, may be constructed from insulative substances such as Plexiglass, instead of metal. Such a substance is called a dielectric material. They are cut to exact wavelengths, as our figure shows.

Hertz produced the first long radio waves, and Marconi sent them across distances with his antenna, but it was Tesla who made the whole system work by demonstrating the method by which any wave could be controlled at various frequencies. Of course, Tesla was attempting to transmit AC power across space, not to transmit radio signals. He succeeded, for he turned on light bulbs twenty-five miles away! The principles are the same for short or long waves in either case. Tesla should share with Hertz and Marconi the credit for modern electronics—this apart from the fact that he is the real father of our AC power system. It would not seem to me to diminish the genius of Hertz or Marconi to give Tesla his due credit. In my opinion, Tesla's tuned circuit was the most elegant of the three basic concepts of electronics.

What does the invention of the tuned circuit have to do with insect antennae? At first, the connection may seem quite remote, but now that we know what a tuned circuit is, let us take a closer look at how a laser works. Just as Tesla's tuned circuit puts out gigantic 200-mile-long waves in phase from an AC generator, so a laser puts out tiny short waves in the visible and infrared region from molecular oscillators. Insects are small, so any waves they might detect would have to be very short waves.

The word "laser" comes from the first initials of the words LIGHT AMPLIFICATION BY STIMULATED EMISSION OF RADIATION. [H: How many of you knew that?] Since lasers work by stimulating molecules to oscillate, and can be made to put out both visible or IR radiation, I prefer for my infrared work the term "maser", which means Micrometer (IR) Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation. That is why I use that term in this book: insects utilize micrometer radiation.

As I pointed out before, an electrical discharge is utilized to stimulate emission from a gas laser. Of course, the stimulated emission is nothing more than a form of fluorescence, and the light radiation from the glowing tube is not in phase, and thus not coherent. To attain coherent light from the end of a long glass tube filled with gas, two reflecting mirrors have to be spaced exactly right so that the waves of light, or infrared, will bounce back and forth between them and finally all "get together" in resonance before shooting out the end as a coherent "in-phase" beam. We can later look at fluorescence, but for now, suffice it to say that it takes a lot of experimentation to figure out what mixture of gases to use to produce the fluorescence. It also takes rather complex mathematics to arrive at the correct spacing of the reflecting mirrors. Designing lasers is both an art and a science.

The distance between the mirrors is like the distance along the length of the wire antenna: it must be made to match the wave-length that you expect to transmit. There is one main difference, however. Whereas radio antennas are usually half or quarter wavelengths long, laser mirrors may be separated by many wave-lengths of distance. Since there is a long space filled with gas between the mirrors, a laser resonating system is called an open resonator or waveguide. We may still consider it a tuned circuit, however, since all the waves are put in phase by "tuning" or spacing the mirrors correctly for the desired frequency, just as the metal antenna is "tuned" by setting the coil and condenser for the correct reactance ($X_C = X_L$) values to electrically match the wavelength of the radio frequency.

The red coherent beam of a "tuned" helium-neon laser is so intense that it would severely injure your eye if you looked directly at it. You could, of course, see the beam as it gradually burned out your sensitive retina. Since coherent radiation is in phase, it is highly amplified. [H: Still think there aren't such things as blinding lasers?] It may be likened to flipping three jump ropes at another person holding the ropes at the other end. If you flip them one at a time so that a wave moves along each rope, the crests and dips will all arrive at the person at different times, and so the force (mass) of the three ropes will be distributed over a certain time interval at the opposite end. If, however, you flip all three together at one time, the force (mass) of the undulating wave will arrive at the other person's hand simultaneously, and the person holding the end will feel three times the force. That is exactly what tuned radio antennas and lasers do: they "flip" the generated oscillations, from gases in the case of the laser, or from the radio transmitter so that they all leave the transmitter at the exact same time, and arrive at the receiver at the same time.

In case of the radio transmitter, the detector of the coherent radiation is your radio receiver or TV set; in the case of the helium-neon laser it is a photocell, or your eye—if one is so foolish! Of course, if you get too close to a high-powered radar or TV antenna, it could damage the tissue of your body as severely as the laser would your eye. The simple fact that your body would not detect the damage done from high-energy radio as quickly, since you have no built-in receiver for the long radio or radar frequencies, but do for the short light frequencies.

[H: Speak for yourself, sir, for I know quite a few who have this built-in receiving system! Makes this communication problem quite simply explained, does it not?]

The question we must ask ourselves is: Since man over the last few decades has learned to produce tuned circuits that put out coherent radio, infrared, and visible light, and to detect the frequencies with receivers which also incorporate tuned antennas to resonate to the wavelengths, can such a system already exist in nature? If so, how does such a natural system work, and in which part of the spectrum? I am now certain that such a natural system does exist, and that those most-successful-of-all living organisms, the insects, have evolved the organ for detecting these mysterious frequencies! [H: Indeed, right down to the microbes!] The paradox of this statement is that I should have spent twenty or so years proving that the insect antenna really is an antenna.

[END OF QUOTING]

I think if you are still wondering about a "conspiracy" as to your not being allowed freedom and knowledge—you must have your antennae on backwards. This is such old technology as to make me faint with concern over your state of affairs. You are people of the hidden agendas and LIES.

Thank you for these extra hours of work but it is time we get focused and stop dallying about. I refuse to allow you to develop anything that you think you need to take PUBLIC. It is the current downfall of FREE MEN AND WOMEN IN A TOTALLY CONTROLLED WORLD. Let us use caution and consideration of all things, please. Salu and good evening.
