The Military Route For Infecting A Nation With Deadly Bugs Through Deceit

1/25/96 #1 HATONN

MEANWHILE, BACK TO THE GULF WAR ILLNESS

I realize that we can't become THE paper for the Gulf War problems but truth moves beyond that which is buried and must be shared so that no longer can a hiding place be found to stuff the lies and intents of Elite men and women who would be Kings, who receive and accept bribes and then deliberately allow death to mankind.

NEW HIV STRAIN

Within the past few days has come an announcement so important as to boggle all minds, medical and otherwise, and so serious as to merit the world stopping to look and see the seriousness of the matter—but no, you get massive headlines over "fake fat" for fat and weight reduction but NOTHING is said past the first announcement about the HIV strain now running rampant.

It is a strain never seen before and especially affects pregnant women, is a heterosexually transmitted virus "apparently contagious through several carriers...", whatever that means, and "comes from Zaire where Ebola is prevalent"—AND "there is no treatment!" "In addition," it is stated, "There are over 15 cases in the military hospital in Long Beach (Calif.)." It is, however, "realized that there are hundreds of cases walking around which will begin to have serious symptoms in

MORE CONFIRMATION ON DEPOPULATION

Recently newspapers across the country carried the Associated Press release whose headline warned: Infectious diseases on rise throughout America, world. Although this report does not prepare the populace to prevent or to deal effectively with a deadly pandemic, it does have mind-control value—it prepares the mind to accept the concept and its eventual reality. Articles of this type have been recurring with telling regularity. This article appeared in the January 17 issue of the JOHNSON CITY (Tennessee) PRESS, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—Infectious diseases are on a global rebound, killing thousands more Americans, surviving potent antibiotics and possibly evolving into stronger bugs as the climate changes, a coalition of doctors warned Tuesday. The world is “more vulnerable than ever before,” said Nobel laureate Joshua Lederberg, who led a call by the Journal of the American Medical Association and 35 other international medical journals for a global battle against infections. [Once again we have the foxes calling for increased security in the hen house!] The development of antibiotics once had doctors predicting infectious diseases would be conquered by now. Instead, in the past decade new infections such as the AIDS virus suddenly began killing hundreds of thousands, older diseases like tuberculosis returned and bacteria began evolving to defy treatment.

Tuesday, doctors in 21 countries published 242 studies to illustrate the scope of the threat. Among the most alarming: The U.S. death rate from infectious diseases rose 58 percent between 1989 and 1992, and a snapshot of middle America found antibiotic resistance growing fast. That doesn't mean people should panic, Lederberg emphasized. Instead, the finding should persuade world governments and drug makers to fund research to fight back. [Note the two options presented: panic and/or get the government/drug companies (creators of the problem) to do something. Nowhere is it suggested that we educate ourselves and take effective, natural measures to protect ourselves.]

Here, infectious diseases became the third-leading killer of Americans in 1992, claiming more than 166,000 lives, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reported. Mortality from septicemia, a rapid form of bacterial blood poisoning, increased 83 percent, and deaths from respiratory tract infections rose 20 percent.

In Columbus, Ohio, antibiotic resistance is rising among patients with a dangerous form of bacterial pneumonia that spreads to the blood stream, reported Dr. Joseph Plouffe of Ohio State University.

K-9 UNITS TO SNIFF OUT CANCER

The next two articles weaken any confidence I might have had in the medical establishment's ability to restore the world to a state of health. They are always barking up the wrong tree! This article appeared in the January 15 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

TALLAHASSEE—The dermatologist and the dog trainer watched as George the award-winning schnauzer circled a patient, sniffing until he came to a suspected cancerous mole. The dog sniffed hard, then sat down. “Show me,” said trainer Duane Pickel. The dog lifted his paw and gently touched the spot. A lab test confirmed it was cancer. “At least in our limited project, dogs could be trained to scent and detect melanoma,” said Dr. Armand Cognetta, a dermatologist who specializes in skin cancer. Cognetta and Pickel, a retired officer from a police K-9 unit, worked two years on a pilot study that ended last fall. Melanoma is the deadliest skin cancer and the fastest-growing type of cancer in the country.

The dog correctly identified cancer in at least four of the seven volunteers, and perhaps five depending on how one test is interpreted, Pickel said. Now it's up to medical peers to review the results, said Cognetta, who still has his doubts about whether dogs are able to detect skin cancer. But he said dogs might be trained to find other cancers, or detect other diseases in Third World countries without high-tech medical equipment. [Good grief! More of the same medical theology of find “it”, then slash and burn.]

UMBILICAL-CORD BLOOD BANKS

This recent Associated Press offering demonstrates that there is a seeming endless supply of “wrong trees” to bark up—or at best, expensive long shots, [quoting:]

WASHINGTON—Alexander Goldman was a healthy newborn, but doctors drained his still-pulsating umbilical cord and raced to deep-freeze the precious drops—just in case he ever needs the blood. Private companies are signing up pregnant women such as Alexander's mother nationwide to freeze their babies' umbilical cord blood in the hopes it might fight lethal diseases that attack the children later in life. Scientists caution these transplants are highly experimental and the government is about to regulate them, but some mothers say it's biological insurance they can't refuse. “If it doesn't work, you know you tried everything for your child,” said Alexander's mother, Cathy Goldman of Charlestown, Mass. “If doctors say to me one day, ‘Unfortunately you didn't have any cord blood,’ how would I feel?”

Cord blood is a rich source of stem cells, the building blocks that produce blood cells. Certain diseases and cancer chemotherapy destroy these stem cells, meaning patients need a transplant to survive. But cord blood has not yet been proven a better alternative to bone-marrow transplants in most patients. And only one in 10,000 babies will develop a disease treatable by cord blood, said transplant pioneer Dr. Pablo Rubenstein of the not-for-profit New York Blood Center. Still, at least four U.S. companies are recruiting pregnant women to freeze and store their babies' umbilical cord cells. They charge $300 to $1,500 up front, with yearly storage fees of $75 to $150.

BETA CAROTENE BASHING

The headline reads: Beta carotene pills don't help, may hurt, new studies indicate. From the THE ANTELOPE VALLEY EDITION OF THE (Los Angeles) DAILY NEWS, [quoting:]

Two large studies have found that, contrary to the beliefs or hopes of the millions of Americans who take it, beta carotene, a vigorously promoted vitamin supplement, is completely ineffective in preventing cancer or heart disease. One of the studies found that it might even be harmful to some people. Federal health officials said they hoped this would spell the end of the beta carotene fad. The idea that a simple supplement capsule might fend off cancer and other diseases, they said, has simply proved too good to be true. [Mainstream medicine is based on the idea that the more COMPLICATED, expensive, and controlled, the better!] “With clearly no benefit and even a hint of possible harm, I can see no reason that an individual should take beta carotene,” said Dr. Richard Klausner, director of the National Cancer Institute. The institute financed both studies. [He who pays the piper calls the tune!]

Beta carotene occurs naturally in fruits and vegetables and is converted to vitamin A in the body. The cancer institute recommends that, rather than rely on supplements, people eat low-fat diets abundant in fruits and vegetables, whose hundreds of substances combined might foster the disease protection that has been sought in beta carotene. [Granted, it is always best to KEEP IT SIMPLE—by eating foods in their natural state of creation. The more mankind meddles, the less the value of the food. Unfortunately, it has become increasingly difficult to find REAL food, raised in mineral-rich, pesticide-free soil. So we are forced to supplement our diets.]

One of the beta carotene studies, the Physicians' Health Study, involved 22,071 doctors who were randomly assigned to take 50 milligrams of beta carotene or a dummy pill every other day. The study ended Dec. 31, after 12 years, with the conclusion that beta carotene supplements did not protect against cancer or heart disease. [No surprise there! Beta carotene is no silver bullet and could not be expected to neutralize the long list of health destroying lifestyle and dietary habits of most Americans (doctors included). It's interesting how such tests are set up: in the second study all the subjects were at high risk for lung cancer because they smoked or had worked with asbestos.]

To underscore the importance of the new findings, Klausner announced them at a news conference Thursday at the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., without waiting for the usual publication in a medical journal. [Humph.]

VIRUS USED TO CONTROL TOAD PLAGUE IN AUSTRALIA

From the January 21 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Scientists hope a virus from Venezuela will save a pristine tropical wetland wilderness from a plague of South American cane toads. The brown amphibians, which have poisonous skin, were brought to Australia in the 1930s when farmers hoped they would rid sugar cane crops of destructive insects. [More meddling. Destructive insects usually attack substandard crops raised on depleted soil—it's nature's way of getting rid of its mistakes.] Without natural predators, the toads multiplied. Now millions are found across northeastern Australia. Researchers are checking to see whether one of more than 50 iridoviruses might hold the answer to the control of the toad. Lab tests will be conducted to test their effectiveness. [Then will we need to devise something to combat out-of-control iridoviruses?]

MUTANT BUGS

Shades of the cane toad plague! From the December 26 issue of THE MODESTO BEE, [quoting:]

Jiminy Cricket! Biotechnologists are building better bugs. After spending years struggling with the technical difficulties of adding new genes to arthropods—the group of organisms that includes insects, spiders and mites—scientists at last have succeeded in making genetically engineered bugs and are preparing to release their first creations. Last month, University of Florida entomologist Marjorie A. Hoy became the first to ask the U.S. Department of Agriculture for permission to release a genetically altered arthropod into an outdoor test plot. The agency is now considering that request, which involves a genetically enhanced line of beneficial “predator mites”. The tiny, wingless, eight-legged creatures are about the size of the period at the end of this sentence and feed on spider mites, their crop-damaging cousins. Other researchers are putting finishing touches on engineered insects that may be ready for maiden flights next year, including cotton-munching moths that scientists have endowed with “suicide genes”. [Something they picked up from the Project Monarch?]

But this multilegged menagerie is heading for legal flypaper. Biotech gadfly Jeremy Rifkin, president of the Foundation on Economic Trends, a Washington-based public interest group, filed a lawsuit last Friday against USDA to prevent any release of engineered arthropods until the ecological risks are more thoroughly addressed. “We are playing with ecological dynamite here,” Rifkin said. “These are alive and can reproduce and can mutate from generation to generation very quickly. They can proliferate over large territories and cannot be recalled after they are released.”

NEW SLAVES!

I have new slaves this day and, since no one comes and volunteers this information, I have to realize what I am viewing to see the signs and recognize the gift. I have to ask that the letter from JEROME E. SCHAFER be run in its own format [see below] for I do note that I may have to return the gift for it does not bear my name in actuality. It is interesting that one who Judges so quickly, after a few papers, a being, a person or a thing—and sees a name written so many times—might at the least not misspell the label. Ah, but “signs must be worn” is the word of God, in all things. However, since someone at CONTACT forwarded the letter to me (which by the way was mailed in Salem, OR) I have to assume it does have focus on me.

This person in point, Mr. Schaffer, has a heading across his paper which reads: “The moment I begin to hate a man, I become his slave, he fills my thoughts and burdens me with stress.” It is obvious that this man has voluntarily become my slave and so it goes...! And in response? We shall surely and gratefully miss Mr. Schaffer's presence and when he asks God to relieve his “stress” I would guess that God might well say “no”. Stress is that which you place upon self when you trust neither self nor GOD.

With the last three issues of Contact I have received notice that my subscription has run out. I am happy with this, please do not send any more. I subscribed this last time for the purpose of seeing what information you would provide on several current happenings and have found very little to be offered.

I felt that I could ignore Haton's blathering garbage but this last issue on page five he has put out such lying blasphemy I cannot ignore it. I have a word or two for him.

Haton you are as phony as a three dollar bill and worth less. You are a deceiver and of your father the devil, nothing etheric about you, just an evil spirited, possessed, utterly stupid and blasphemous man of this earth. There is no forgiveness for the blasphemy you have spewed forth.

Christianity is not a religion, it is an abiding faith. It is a personal, private and intimate covenant between each individual and Jesus Christ. A matter of receiving the spirit and the mind of Christ through the gift of faith freely given by God the Creator as His choice, not yours.

Jesus is the name of the MAN of flesh born of the water, Christ is the spiritual Son of God after the order of Melchizedek, born of God, who is God. There is none other name under Heaven whereby man might be saved. The whole story and a lot more is recorded in the book of history and prophecy called the Christian Bible. The story and history of Jesus is recorded by several witnesses. Jesus is the only begotten Son of God, the first of the manifested ones. The believers in Him are called Christians today along with millions of other organized and misled ones who call themselves Christians. They are the only ones in recorded history to have one who publicly demonstrated the power of the spirit and made it real as their God.

There are the spirits of just men made perfect and the Angels of God but there are no spiritual beings of God running around loose. The dead are dead and know nothing, the only spiritual beings around are those demons, imps, devils and evil ones from Satan, choreographed and controlled by him. Which are you Haton?

You are disgusting and unworthy of the time to enlighten you further.

Have a nice day at Contact, keeping Haton in his cage will help I think.

Dr. John Coleman:

Beware Of The Internet

From the July 1995 issue of Dr. John Coleman's WORLD IN REVIEW, [quoting:]

"The intelligence agencies are surfing the Internet," I was told in November 1994. Since then, I have been investigating exactly what this means, and what I discovered is quite disturbing. The first thing I learned about Internet is that there are no frontiers, no borders, no barriers in Cyberspace. The second thing is that the National Security Agency (NSA), the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) regularly and systematically "surf Internet" looking for what they call "servers of sensitive information" which could mean anyone providing information that the federal government does not want you to have.

The third thing I found is that foreign intelligence friends of the United States can patch into American "servers" at anytime they want, and that cooperation between the intelligence agencies and law enforcement officials of most Western countries, and just plain government snoopers, is very strong.

The snoopers have gone to Congress to warn of the dire dangers they say will come to our shores from "Islamic fundamentalist terrorists". This has become the catch-all rationale behind demands for greater and greater snooping powers for government agencies, with a corresponding whittling away of the protection afforded by the 4th and 5th Amendments to the United States Constitution. The enemies of our Republic were successful in getting the Omnibus Counterterrorist Act passed, which contains among other provisions, the "guilty by association" provision found in the former USSR's penal code. The Liberal/Marxist uproar over the McCarthy hearing has failed to draw a corresponding protest from either side today; in fact, as I have said elsewhere, I viewed with amazement the love affair between powerful members of the Republican party in the House and Senate with the Clinton/Schumer "anti-terrorist" legislation, in comparison with which the Joe McCarthy era pales into absolute insignificance. The Republican party leadership in the House has heartily embraced the Clinton/Schumer legislation to destroy the Constitution of the United States.

The vast, untrammelled information field created by Internet is now the main battleground between the Bill of Rights and U.S. intelligence agencies, the FBI, and law enforcement agencies of every hue and stripe. And what a battleground it is, with no end in sight, until the snoopers get what they want via government edicts, which look and sound remarkably like those contained in the constitution of the former USSR, of which I have a correctly translated copy.

The FBI wants immediate controls slapped on Internet. As a result of the scare tactics used on Capitol Hill, Socialist Rep. Charles Schumer succeeded beyond his fondest hopes in getting the Omnibus Counterterrorism Act tabled before the Congress. And worse yet, FBI Director Freeh is demanding that Congress give him unlimited powers to stop citizens from using encryption codes to protect their privacy, both electronic and telephonic, as if he has the right to know everything about every citizen. Again, I watched one of the recent hearings on Capitol Hill at which Freeh appeared as a witness, and the love-fest between him and certain Republican Party legislators, does not auger well for the Bill of Rights.

This love-fest is being done under the guise of "fighting terrorism, and in support of this contention, the government mentions a number of Muslim organizations operating legally and lawfully in the United States. Freeh wants these organizations to be prevented from sending their information over Internet. Singled out for special attention was the Committee for Legitimate Rights, which regularly denounces the corrupt dictatorship run by King Fahd of Saudi Arabia.

One fact which is just beginning to emerge is that a number of private companies are using spy programs to snoop on their subscribers and users. They want to help their companies—and probably the FBI—to identify "servers" and to track the way they use services like Internet, Compuserve. The excuse is that they need the information to draw up a proper profile of each consumer. This is more than likely then fed to the FBI, the NSA and the CIA if anyone comes up profiled as a possible "terrorist" or a supporter of "terrorist" causes.

You could fall into this category if, for instance, you are anti-abortion, pro-2nd Amendment, anti-Clinton. While it is clear that agencies like the NSA, the CIA and the FBI have their own snooping programs providing profiles of "suspect servers", intelligence sources told me that it is more than likely that agency files are being supplemented by private companies. INDEED, WE ARE ALREADY IN A TECHNETRONIC, ELECTRONIC CONCENTRATION CAMP.

Brian Ek, a Prodigy computer network spokesman, said, "I would not be at all surprised to see law enforcement agents conducting sting operations on all online services, including the Internet."

Let us not be silent about what this does: It tramples on the fundamental rights of freedom of speech, and the right to privacy in our homes, and in our papers. ANY movement could be dubbed "subversive" in terms of intelligence agencies "surfing" Internet and in terms of the Schumer/Clinton bill. What are "We, the People" going to do about these flagrant violations of the Constitution?

CONTACT: The Phoenix Project

CONTACT is a unique and inspired newspaper for concerned citizens everywhere, though it particularly focuses on the United States because of this country's special mission in the affairs of the world. That is, "As goes the United States, so goes the world."

CONTACT is a vehicle for Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn's most recent writings on important current affairs, plus those from other enlightening sources, on matters critical to a responsible and informed public at this time of planetary transition and final days of battle between the Forces of Light and the "Evil Empire" forces of darkness.

CONTACT exists to counteract the manipulating lies and clever half-truths put out (on purpose) by the regular print and broadcast media prostitutes of the Satanic Elite controllers—parasites who are in the process of economically, physically, and spiritually collapsing this once great country (and actually the entire planet) down to a slave-state level of existence under their diabolical control plan called The New World Order.

This newspaper, CONTACT, began life on March 30, 1993, risen, like the mythical bird, with great determination "up from the ashes" of its internationally acclaimed predecessor called THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR.

THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR, in turn, began life in mid-October of 1991, having evolved from an earlier newsletter called the PHOENIX JOURNAL EXPRESS, which itself came into existence as a faster way to get THE TRUTH out to you readers than was possible with the more substantial "book" format of the PHOENIX JOURNALS. Much incredible ground has been covered so far in that mission.

While the PHOENIX LIBERATOR's motto reminded all that "The Truth Will Set You Free", the CONTACT's motto, displayed prominently in the masthead, takes that thought another important step forward and proclaims: "Ye Shall Know The Truth And The Truth Shall Make You Mad!"

The "Phoenix Project" is about those preparations needed—at body, mind and soul levels—to both understand and survive the great healing changes which are beginning to energize this beautiful little planet, now so frazzled and tortured from abuses of all kinds. We look forward, with great expectations, to the *CONTACT*ing with all of you—a coming together that is rapidly taking place as the entire Phoenix Project "ground crew" continues to connect, solidify, and gain strength through becoming informed of THE TRUTH. Indeed, welcome aboard, friends!

The Bar Association—"Club Members Only"

America's Judiciary Under Microscope

Part II: Understanding History

Part I of Rick's well-researched series on the American Bar Association appeared in the 1/23/96 issue of CONTACT on page 8. We continue with this historical exposé.

1/24/96 RICK MARTIN

To counter a charge that he had made some errors in judgment, Abraham Lincoln once told a story about a lawyer and a minister who were arguing.

As they rode down the road together, the minister said, "Sir, do you ever make mistakes while in court?" "Very rarely," the lawyer sniffed. "But on occasion, I must admit that I do."

"And what do you do when you make a mistake?" asked the minister.

"Why, if they are large mistakes, I mend them. If they are small, I let them go. Tell me, don't you ever make mistakes while preaching?"

"Of course," said the preacher. "And I dispose of them in the same way you do. Not long ago, I meant to tell the congregation that the devil was the father of liars, but I made a mistake and said the father of lawyers. The mistake was so small that I let it go."

JUDICIARY ACT OF 1789

The First Congress enacted the Judiciary Act of 1789, which was then signed by President Washington, one day before the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution was proposed. Section 35 of the Judiciary Act reads, in part: "And be it further enacted, That in all the courts of the United States, the parties may plead and manage their own causes personally or by the assistance of such counsel or attorneys at law as by the rules of the said courts respectively shall be permitted to manage and conduct causes therein."

THOMAS PAINE

Also in the late 1780s, Thomas Paine wrote the Declaration of the Rights of Man, which says, [quoting:]

The law ought to prohibit only actions hurtful to society. What is not prohibited by the law should not be hindered; nor should any one be compelled to that which the law does not require.

The law is an expression of the will of the community. All citizens have a right to concur, either personally or by their representatives, in its formation. It should be the same to all, whether it protects or punishes; and all being equal in its sight, are equally eligible to all honors, places, and employments, according to their different abilities, without any other distinction than that created by their virtues and talents.

No man should be accused, arrested, or held in confinement, except in cases determined by the law, and according to the forms which it has prescribed. All who promote, solicit, execute, or cause to be executed, arbitrary orders, ought to be punished, and every citizen called upon, or apprehended by virtue of the law, ought immediately to obey, and renders himself culpable by resistance.

The law ought to impose no other penalties but such as are absolutely and evidently necessary; and no one ought to be punished, but in virtue of a law promulgated before the offence, and legally applied.

Every man being presumed innocent till he has been convicted, whenever his detention becomes indispensable, all rigor to him, more than is necessary to secure his person, ought to be provided against by the law.

No man ought to be molested on account of his opinions, not even on account of his religious opinions, provided his avowal of them does not disturb the public order established by the law. [End quoting.]

ULYSSES S. GRANT

In the 1860s, undistinguished and often shabby in appearance, Ulysses S. Grant did not recommend himself to strangers by his looks. He once entered an inn at Galena, Illinois, on a stormy winter's night. A number of lawyers, in town for a court session, were clustered around the fire. One looked up as Grant appeared and said, "Here's a stranger, gentlemen, and by the looks of him he's traveled through hell itself to get here."

"That's right," said Grant cheerfully.

"And how did you find things down there?"

"Just like here," replied Grant. "Lawyers all close to the fire."

THE "MISSING" 13TH AMENDMENT

"If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive, or retain any title of nobility or honor, or shall, without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office, or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince, or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the United States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them."

In Vol. XVI, #2 of THE PHOENIX JOURNAL EXPRESS (predecessor to the PHOENIX LIBERATOR and CONTACT) we find, [quoting:]

At first reading, the meaning of this 13th Amendment (also called the "title of nobility" amendment) seems a bit obscure, unimportant. The references to "nobility", "honor", "emperor", "king", and "prince" lead you to dismiss this amendment as a petty post-

Mother Goose & Grimm

revolution act of spite directed against the British monarchy. But in your modern world of Lady Di and Prince Charles, anti-royalist sentiments seem so archaic and quaint that the amendment can be ignored. Not so!

Consider some real hard evidence of its historical significance: First, "titles of nobility" were prohibited in both Article VI of the Articles of Confederation (1777) and in Article I, Sect. 9 of the Constitution of the United States (1788); Second, although already prohibited, an additional "title of nobility" amendment was proposed in 1789, again in 1810, and was finally ratified in 1819. Clearly the founding fathers saw such a serious threat in "titles of nobility" and "honors" that anyone receiving them would forfeit their citizenship. Since the government prohibited "titles of nobility" several times over four decades, and went through the amending process (even though "titles of nobility" were already prohibited by the Constitution), it's obvious that the amendment carried much more significance for your founding fathers than is readily apparent to you today.

There are many examples of the monarchy's efforts to subvert or destroy the United States; some are common knowledge, others remain to be disclosed to the public. There is, for example, a book called 2 VA LAW in the Library of Congress. This is an uncataloged book in the rare book section that reveals a plan to overthrow the constitutional government by secret agreements engineered by the lawyers. That is one reason that the 13th Amendment was ratified by Virginia and the notification "lost in the mail." There is no public record of this book's existence.

Does this sound surprising? Perish the thought of surprising. The Library of Congress has over 349,402 uncataloged rare books and 13.9 million uncataloged rare manuscripts, laws and ratifications! There are secrets buried in that mass of documents even more astonishing than a missing constitutional amendment, I can well assure you.

Historically, the British peerage system referred to knights as "Squires" and to those who bore the knight's shields as "Esquires". As lances, shields, and physical violence gave way to more civilized means of theft, the pen grew mightier (and far more profitable) than the sword, and the clever wielders of those pens (bankers and lawyers) came to hold titles of nobility. The most common title was "Esquire" (used, even today, by lawyers!)

In Colonial America, attorneys trained attorneys but most held no "title of nobility" or "honor". There was no requirement that one be a lawyer to hold the position of district attorney, attorney general, or judge; a citizen's "counsel of choice" was not restricted to a lawyer; there were no state or national bar associations. The only organization that certified lawyers was the International Bar Association (IBA), chartered by the King of England, headquartered in London, and closely associated with the international banking system. Lawyers admitted to the IBA received the rank "Esquire"— a "title of nobility"!

"Esquire" was the principle title of nobility which the 13th Amendment sought to prohibit from the United States. Why? Because the loyalty of "Esquire" lawyers was suspect. Bankers and lawyers with an "Esquire" behind their names were agents of the monarchy, members of an organization whose principle purposes were political, not economic, and regarded with the same wariness that some people today reserve for members of the KGB or the CIA.

Article I, Sect. 9 of the Constitution sought to prohibit the International Bar Association (or any other agency that granted titles of nobility) from operating in America. But the Constitution neglected to specify a penalty, so the prohibition was ignored, and agents of the monarchy continued to infiltrate and influence the government (as in the Jay Treaty and the U.S. Bank charter incidents). Therefore, a "title of nobility" amendment that specified a penalty (loss of citizenship) was proposed in 1789, and again in 1810. The meaning of the amendment is seen in its intent to prohibit persons having titles of nobility and loyalties to foreign governments and bankers from voting, holding public office, or using their skills to subvert the government.

In 1789, the House of Representatives compiled a list of possible Constitutional amendments, some of which would ultimately become the Bill of Rights. The House proposed seventeen; the Senate reduced the list to twelve. During this process Senator Tristram Dalton (Mass.) proposed an amendment seeking to prohibit and provide a penalty for any American accepting a "title of nobility" (RG 46 Records of the U.S. Senate). Although it wasn't passed, this was the first time a "title of nobility" amendment was proposed.

Twenty years later, in January, 1810, Senator Reed proposed another "title of nobility" amendment (History of Congress, Proceedings of the Senate, p. 529-530). On April 27, 1810, the Senate voted to pass this 13th Amendment by a vote of 26 to 1: the House resolved in the affirmative 87 to 3; and the following resolve was sent to the states for ratification:

If any citizen of the United States shall accept, claim, receive or retain any title of nobility or honor, or shall, without the consent of Congress, accept and retain any present, pension, office or emolument of any kind whatever, from any emperor, king, prince or foreign power, such person shall cease to be a citizen of the United States, and shall be incapable of holding any office of trust or profit under them, or either of them.

The Constitution requires three-quarters of the states to ratify a proposed amendment before it may be added to the Constitution. When Congress proposed the "title of nobility" amendment in 1810, there were seventeen states, thirteen of which would have to ratify for the amendment to be adopted. According to the National Archives, the following is a list of the twelve states that ratified, and their dates of ratification: Maryland, Dec. 25, 1810; Kentucky, Jan. 31, 1811; Ohio, Jan. 31, 1811; Delaware, Feb. 2, 1811; Pennsylvania, Feb. 6, 1811; New Jersey, Feb. 13, 1811; Vermont, Oct. 24, 1811; Tennessee, Nov. 21, 1811; Georgia, Dec. 13, 1811; North Carolina, Dec. 23, 1811; Massachusetts, Feb. 27, 1812; New Hampshire, Dec. 10, 1812.

In an early demonstration of sleight of hand and footwork (it has now become the modus operandi when the going gets tight): Before the thirteenth state could ratify, the War of 1812 broke out with England. By the time the war ended in 1814, the British had burned the Capitol, the Library of Congress, and most of the records of the first 38 years of government. I'm sure the connection between the proposed "title of nobility" amendment which would close England out of the U.S. government forever, and the War of 1812, becomes self-evident. You have entered massive wars for far less—like Desert Storm in Iraq.

Four years later, on Dec. 31, 1817, the House of Representatives resolved that President Monroe inquire into the status of this amendment because all sorts of "strange" things were beginning to happen in the government. In a letter dated Feb. 6, 1818, President Monroe reported to the House that the Secretary of State Adams had written to the governors of Virginia, South Carolina and Connecticut to tell them that the proposed amendment had been ratified by twelve states and rejected by two (New York and Rhode Island), and asked the governors to notify him of their legislature's position. (House Document No. 76).

This, and other letters written by the President and the Secretary of State during the month of February 1818, note only that the proposed amendment had not yet been ratified. However, these letters would later become crucial because, in the absence of additional information, they would be interpreted to mean that the amendment was never ratified.

On February 28, 1818, Secretary of State Adams reported the rejection of the amendment by South Carolina (House Doc. No. 129). There are no further entries regarding the ratification of the 13th Amendment in the Journals of Congress; whether Virginia ratified is neither confirmed nor denied. Likewise, a search through the executive papers of Governor Preston of Virginia does not reveal any correspondence from Secretary of State Adams. However, there is a journal entry in the Virginia House that the Governor presented the House with an official letter and documents from Washington within a time frame that includes receipt of Adams' letter. Again, however, no evidence of ratification; none of denial.

However, on March 10, 1819, the Virginia legislature passed Act No. 280 (Virginia Archives of Richmond, "mis." file, p. 299 for micro-film): "Be it enacted by the General Assembly, that there shall be published an edition of the Laws of this Commonwealth in which shall be contained the following matters, that is to say; the Constitution of the (u)nited States and the amendments thereto..." This act was the specific legislated instructions on what was, by law, to be included in the republication (a special edition) of the Virginia Civil Code. The Virginia Legislature had already agreed that all Acts were to go into effect on the same day—the day that the Civil Code was to be republished. Therefore, the 13th Amendment's official date of ratification would be the date of re-publication of the Virginia Civil Code: March 12, 1819!

The Delegates knew Virginia was the last of the 13 states that were necessary for the ratification of the 13th Amendment. They also knew there were powerful forces allied against this ratification so they took extraordinary measures to make sure that it was published in sufficient quantity (4,000 copies were ordered, almost triple their usual order), and instructed the printer to send a copy to President James Monroe, as well as James Madison and Thomas Jefferson. (The printer, Thomas Ritchie, was bonded. He was required to be extremely accurate in his research and his printing, or he would forfeit his bond.)

In this fashion, Virginia announced the ratification: by publication and dissemination of the 13th Amendment of the Constitution.

Some argue that there is question as to whether Virginia ever formally notified the Secretary of State that they had ratified this 13th Amendment. Some have argued that because such notification was not received (or at least, not recorded), the amendment was therefore not legally ratified. However, printing by a legislature is prima facie evidence of ratification.

Further, there is no Constitutional requirement that the Secretary of State, or anyone else, be officially notified to complete the ratification process. The Constitution only requires that three-fourths of the states ratify for an amendment to be added to the Constitution. If three-quarters of the states ratify, the amendment is passed. Period. The Constitution is otherwise silent on what procedure confirms, or communicates the ratification of amendments.

WALSGLASS/COULTHART

Knowing they were the last state necessary to ratify the amendment, the Virginians had every right to announce their own and the nation's ratification of the amendment by publishing it on a special edition of the Constitution, and so they did.

Word of Virginia's 1819 ratification spread throughout the states and both Rhode Island and Kentucky published the new amendment in 1822. Ohio first published in 1824. Maine ordered 10,000 copies of the Constitution with the 13th Amendment to be printed for use in the schools in 1825, and again in 1831 for the Census Edition. Indiana Revised Laws of 1831 published the 13th Article on p. 20. Northwestern Territories published in 1833. Ohio published in 1831 and 1833. Then came the Wisconsin Territory in 1839; Iowa Territory in 1843; Ohio again, in 1848; Kansas Statutes in 1855; and Nebraska Territory six times in a row from 1855 to 1860.

So far, David Dodge [the person sending the original research to THE PHOENIX JOURNAL EXPRESS] has identified eleven different states or territories that printed the amendment in twenty separate publications over forty-one years. And more editions including this 13th Amendment are sure to be discovered for they are there, waiting!

In 1829, the following note appears on p. 23, Vol. 1 of the New York Revised Statutes:

"In the edition of the Laws of the U.S. is an amendment printed as article 13, prohibiting citizens from accepting titles of nobility or honor, or presents, offices, etc., from foreign nations. But, the message of the President of the United States of the 4th of February, 1818, in answer to a resolution of the House of Representatives, it appears that this amendment had been ratified only by 12 states, and therefore had not been adopted. See vol. iv of the printed papers of the 1st session of the 15th Congress, No. 76." In 1854, a similar note appeared in the Oregon Statutes. Both notes refer to the Laws of the United States. 1st vol. p. 73/74.

It's not yet clear whether the 13th Amendment was published in Laws of the United States, 1st Vol., prematurely, by accident, in anticipation of Virginia's ratification, or as part of a plot to discredit the amendment by making it appear that only twelve States had ratified. Whether the Laws of the United States Vol. 1 (carrying the 13th Amendment) was re-called or made-up is unknown. In fact, it's not even clear that the specified volume was actually printed—the Law Library of the Library of Congress has no record of its existence.

However, because the notes' authors reported no further references to the 13th Amendment after the Presidential letter of February, 1818, they apparently assumed the ratification process had ended in failure at that time. If so, they neglected to seek information on the amendment after 1818, or at the state level, and therefore missed the evidence of Virginia's ratification. This opinion—assuming that the Presidential letter of February 1818, was the last word on the amendment—has persisted to this day.

In 1849, Virginia decided to revise the 1819 Civil Code of Virginia (which had continued the 13th Amendment for 30 years). It was at that time that one of the code's revisers (a lawyer named Patton) wrote to the Secretary of the Navy, William B. Preston, asking if this amendment had been ratified or appeared by mistake. (A most interesting resource for information at any circumstance.)

Preston wrote to J.M. Clayton, the Secretary of State, who replied that this Amendment was not ratified by a sufficient number of states. This conclusion was based on the information that Secretary of State J.Q. Adams had provided the House of Representatives in 1818, before Virginia's ratification in 1819. (Today, the Congressional Research Service tells anyone asking about this 13th Amendment this same story—that only twelve states, not the requisite thirteen, had ratified.)

Note, however, that despite Clayton's opinion, the amendment continued to be published in various states and territories for at least another eleven years (the last known publication was the Nebraska Territory in 1860).

Once again the 13th Amendment was caught in the riptides of American politics. South Carolina seceded from the Union in December of 1860, signalling the onset of the Civil War. In March, 1861, President Abraham Lincoln was inaugurated.

Later in 1861, another proposed amendment, also numbered thirteen, was signed by President Lincoln. This was the only proposed amendment that was ever signed by a president. That resolve to amend read: "Article Thirteen—No amendment shall be made to the constitution which will authorize or give to Congress the power to abolish or interfere, within any State, with the domestic institutions thereof, including that of persons held to labor or service by the laws of said State." (In other words, President Lincoln had signed a resolve that would have permitted slavery, and upheld states' rights.) Only one state, Illinois, ratified this proposed amendment before the Civil War broke out in 1861.

In the tumult of 1865, the original 13th Amendment was finally removed from our Constitution. On January 31, another 13th Amendment (which prohibited slavery in Sect. 1 and ended states' rights in Sect. 2) was proposed. On April 9, the Civil War ended with General Lee's surrender. On April 14, President Lincoln (who, in 1861, had signed the proposed amendment that would have allowed slavery and states rights) was assassinated. On December 6, the "new" 13th Amendment loudly prohibiting slavery (and quietly surrendering states' rights to the federal government) was ratified, replacing and effectively erasing the original 13th Amendment that had prohibited "titles of nobility" and "honors".

To create the present oligarchy (rule by lawyers) which you now endure, the lawyers first had to remove the 13th "titles of nobility" Amendment that might otherwise have kept them in check. In fact, it was not until after the Civil War and after the disappearance of the 13th Amendment that the newly developing bar associations began working diligently to create a system wherein lawyers took on a title of privilege and nobility as "Esquires" and received the "honor" of offices and positions (like district attorney or judge) that only lawyers may now hold. By virtue of these titles, honors, and special privileges, lawyers have assumed political and economic advantages over the majority of U.S. citizens. Through these privileges, they have nearly established a two-tiered citizenship in this nation where a majority may vote, but only a minority (lawyers) may run for political office. This two-tiered citizenship is clearly contrary to Americans' political interests, the nation's economic welfare, and the Constitution's egalitarian spirit.

The significance of the 13th Amendment and its deletion from the Constitution is this: Since the amendment was never lawfully nullified, it is still in full force and effect and is the Law of the land. If public support is awakened, this missing amendment would provide a legal basis to challenge many existing laws and court decisions previously made by lawyers who were unconstitutionally elected or appointed to their positions of power; it might even mean the removal of lawyers from your current government system.

At the very least, this missing 13th Amendment demonstrates that two centuries ago, lawyers were recognized as enemies of the people and nation.

In his farewell address, George Washington warned of "...change by usurpation; for though this, in one instance, may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed."

In 1788, Thomas Jefferson proposed that you have a Declaration of Rights similar to Virginia's. Three of his suggestions were "freedom of commerce against monopolies, trial by jury in ALL cases" and "no suspensions of the habeas corpus."

No doubt Washington's warning and Jefferson's ideas were dismissed as redundant by those who knew the law. Who would have dreamed your legal system would become a monopoly against freedom when that was one of the primary causes for the rebellion against King George III?

Yet, the denial of trial by jury is now commonplace in the courts, and habeas corpus, for crimes against the state, suspended.

The authority to create monopolies was judge-made law by Supreme Court Justice John Marshall, et al, during the early 1800s; Judges (and lawyers) granted to themselves the power to declare the acts of the People "unconstitutional", waited until their decision was grandfathered, and then granted themselves a monopoly by creating the bar associations.

Although Article VI of the U.S. Constitution mandates that executive orders and treaties are binding upon the states ("...and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding"), the Supreme Court has held that the Bill of Rights is not binding upon the states, and thereby resurrected many of the complaints enumerated in the Declaration of Independence, exactly as Thomas Jefferson foresaw in Notes on the State of Virginia, Query 17, p. 161, 1784:

Our rulers will become corrupt, our people careless...the time for fixing every essential right on a legal basis is [now] while our rulers are honest, and ourselves united. From the conclusion of this war we shall be going downhill. It will not then be necessary to resort every moment to the people for support. They will be forgotten, therefore, and their rights disregarded. They will forget themselves, but in the sole faculty of making money and will never think of uniting to effect a due respect for their rights. The shackles, therefore, which shall not be knocked off at the conclusion of this war, will remain on us long, will be made heavier and heavier, till our rights shall revive or expire in a convulsion. [End quoting.]

Readers, please remember that everything is connected to everything else. So, while it may seem that I am jumping around a bit to offer specific quotes, in the final analysis a very clear picture will be formed in your minds. With that said, let's continue.

BAR ASSOCIATION— INTEGRATED BAR—DEFINED

If we look for a definition of "Bar Association" in Black's Law Dictionary, here is what we find [quoting:]

An association of members of the legal profession. Such associations have been organized on the nation (American Bar Association; Federal Bar Association), state, county, and even on city levels (e.g., New York City Bar Ass'n). The first was established in Mississippi in 1825, but it is not known to have had a continued existence. An association of Grafton and

Ray Renick Update

We have received word from Ray Renick, who has been transferred to a Northern California prison, that since his relocation he has not been receiving mail. CONTACT has sent him many newspapers, and we understand that others have also tried unsuccessfully to communicate with him. Apparently, the prison is interfering with his right to receive mail. Ray's new address is: Ray Renick J59861—c/o: High Desert State Prison—Facility B-5, 233 Upper, P.O. Box 3030, Susanville, CA 96130. The phone number for the prison is (916) 251-5100.

Coos counties in New Hampshire had an existence before 1800, and probably a more or less continuous life since then, having finally merged into a state association. Membership may be either compulsory (integrated bar) or voluntary. See Integrated Bar.

[Under "Integrated Bar", we find:] The act of organizing the bar of a state into an association, membership in which is a condition precedent to the right to practice law. Integration is generally accomplished by enactment of a statute conferring authority upon the highest court of the state to integrate the bar, or by rule of court in the exercise of its inherent power. Integration of Bar Case, 244 Wis. 8, 11 N.W.2d 604.

[Still quoting:] A "unified bar" or an "integrated bar" is qualitatively different from a "voluntary bar"; membership in a unified or integrated bar is compulsory, whereas membership in a voluntary bar is voluntary, and in effect, one is not at liberty to resign from a unified bar, for, by so doing, one loses the privilege to practice law. Petition of Chapman, 128 N.H. 24, 509 A.2d 753, 756.

[Under "American Bar Association", we find:] A National association of lawyers, a primary purpose of which is the improvement of lawyers' services and the administration of justice. Membership in the ABA is open to any lawyer who is in good standing in his or her state. [End quoting.]

When reading about the history of the bar associations in this country, the New York Bar Association is always held up as the early model. With that in mind...

THE NEW YORK BAR ASSOCIATION

In a document supplied by the New York Bar Association, titled Welcome To The Association Of The Bar—Serving The Profession For 125 Years, we read [quoting:]

The years following the Civil War were tumultuous ones for New York City, offering many opportunities to the dishonest. Unsavory politicians and errant members of the bench and bar were among those who took advantage of those troubled times. In December 1869, a letter was circulated among some of the city's lawyers addressing those improprieties. It called for the creation of a new bar association to "sustain the profession in its proper position in the community, and thereby enable it...to promote the interests of the public..." More than 200 lawyers responded by signing a declaration of organization and the Association of the Bar of the City of New York was born in 1870. The young organization quickly made its presence felt. Among its first activities was a campaign to defeat corrupt politicians and judges at the polls and to establish standards of conduct for those in the legal profession.

1995 marks the 125th anniversary of the Association and that professional and ethical tradition continues as the same sense of civic duty guides the Association's goals today. The Association continues to work at political, legal and social reform. It is concerned with clarifying and improving ethical standards for lawyers, and continues to implement innovative means by which the disadvantaged may be helped. Much of this work is accomplished through the Association's more than 180 committees, each charged to consider a specific area of law or the profession.

The Association has grown to more than 20,000 members. To serve them, the Association strives to move ahead in many areas. The Library—including a new Technology Center—is the largest member-funded law library in the country, and provides members with a "gateway" to on-line services while continuing to provide more traditional library services.

The public good remains one of the Association's highest priorities. The Legal Referral Service, jointly sponsored by the Association and the New York County Lawyer's Association, provides an array of services directly aimed at serving the needs of the public. The Robert B. McKay Community Outreach Law Program identifies the most pressing legal concerns of New York's neediest and uses novel approaches to address them, often involving community participation.

The Association of the Bar is located at 42 West 44th Street in Manhattan. The House of the Association is an elegant historic landmark building that was completed in 1896. With the computers and high-tech equipment within its walls, the House and all it holds are emblematic of the Association's history, status and reputation in the legal profession: firmly rooted in sound traditions, but always pushing against perceived boundaries. Because of the strength and dedication of its members, the Association continually renews its spirit and that of the community it serves. [End quoting.]

In Causes And Conflicts—The Centennial History Of The Bar Association by George Martin, we read the following concerning the Bar Association of the city of New York. "The first part of the meeting [February 15, 1870], necessarily was taken up with completing the Association's organization. The subscribers voted 'after prolonged debate', in the secretary's opinion, to adopt 'the Constitution and By Laws, substantially as reported by the Committee.' Then they elected William M. Evarts president and Samuel J. Tilden the first of five vice-presidents, and in effect elected Henry Nicoll chairman of the executive committee by authorizing him to organize it."

In Law For The Layman, George Gordon Coughlin (member of the New York State Bar), writes [quoting:]

The term organized bar refers to members of bar associations as distinguished from lawyers as individuals. A bar association generally is established for the purpose of advancing the science of law and promoting the administration of justice and upholding the standards of the legal profession.

In 1870 the Association of the Bar of the City of New York was organized. Almost immediately the association came in conflict with the Tweed Ring (which then dominated New York politics), for an investigation it had recommended resulted in the impeachment of two judges and the resignation of a third. This action played an important part in the downfall of the Ring and established public confidence in that bar association.

The American Bar Association was organized in Saratoga Springs, New York, in July 1878. Each state has its own bar association, as do large cities and many counties. The Association of the Bar of the City of New York is regarded as a model for all other city and county bar associations.

The American Bar Association in 1921, led by such men as Elihu Root and William Howard Taft, recommended that all law colleges require of students the following conditions for admission to the bar: (1) at least two years of college study before attending law school, (2) at least a three-year course in law school, (3) full-time attendance at law school and instruction by full-time teachers, and (4) examination by public authority (that is, graduation from law school should not automatically determine fitness for admission to the bar).

In 1923 the American Bar Association published its first list of approved law schools. It became apparent, however, that it was impossible to evaluate the qualifications of law schools without personal inspection. In 1927 advisers of the American Bar Association began inspecting law schools and assisting them with their problems. They also began urging the state and local bar associations to adopt the American Bar Association standards for admission to the bar. As a result of these activities law schools in 1952 increased to three the number of years of acceptable college study necessary for admission. [End quoting.]

THE AMERICAN BAR ENDOWMENT

In a document obtained from the American Bar Association, we read [quoting:]

The American Bar Endowment [ABE] was formed as an Illinois not-for-profit corporation in February 1942. Dedicated to the advancement of jurisprudence and the promotion of justice, the Endowment fulfills its charter purposes by supporting research and educational activities of the bar. Grants to eligible organizations have made possible many important professional and public service programs. Making substantial funds available to these organizations, through primary grants to the ABA's Fund for Justice and Education or the American Bar Foundation, is the Endowment's overall objective.

The Endowment's principal source of funding comes from contributions of dividends by participating members in the groups insurance programs administered by ABE. Such funds, after administrative expenses, are distributed as grants to fulfill its tax-exempt purpose. The Endowment has obtained a ruling from the I.R.S. that members who permit the Endowment to retain their dividends may be eligible for a charitable contribution deduction on their income tax returns.

THE AMERICAN BAR FOUNDATION

[Still quoting:] The American Bar Foundation is a major research institution which is affiliated with the American Bar Association. Established in 1952 as an Illinois not-for-profit corporation in response to the need for continuous and thorough examination of important problems confronting the law and legal institutions. The American Bar Foundation is supported by the American Bar Endowment, the Fellows of the American Bar Foundation and private foundations, which organizations provide the basic unrestricted operating funds for the Foundation's program. The Fellows are comprised of an honorary group of practitioners, judges and legal educators limited to one-third of one percent of the attorney population in each U.S. jurisdiction.

The members of the corporation of the Foundation are the persons who from time to time are the members of the Board of Governors of the American Bar Association. [End quoting.]

THE AMERICAN BAR ASSOCIATION

Beginning where we left off in Part I of this series, the following is found in an article provided by the American Bar Association and appearing in the July 1978 edition of the American Bar Association Journal. This article, titled The First Century Of The American Bar Association, is written by Whitney North Seymour. [Quoting:]

During the turmoil of the 1960s, Lewis F. Powell, Jr., when president of the Association, expressed the view that the Canons of Professional Ethics were in need of major revision, particularly with respect to the relationship between the press and the bar, the presentation of unpopular causes, and grievance procedures. The Special Committee on Evaluation of Ethical Standards, headed by former president Edward L. Wright, proposed and in August, 1969, the Association adopted a new Code of Professional Responsibilities to supersede the Canons of Professional Ethics. The preamble to the Canons of Ethics adopted in 1908 emphasized that the "maintenance of justice, pure and unsullied," depended on the character of the individual members of the profession; the preamble to the 1969 Code of Professional Responsibility additionally focused on the rights and needs of the individual citizen.

One of the most important and productive recent enterprises of the American Bar Association was the work of the Committee to Establish Minimum Standards for the Administration of Criminal Justice, under the chairmanship of Judge J. Edward Lumbard of New York, a joint activity of the American Bar Association and the Institute of Judicial Administration. The formulation of minimum standards of criminal justice was proposed in 1963 by the Institute of Criminal Justice, of which the first two presidents—Arthur T. Vanderbilt and John J. Parker—had been leaders in the promulgation of minimum standards of judicial administration twenty-five years earlier.

While the scope of the project's concern was the entire spectrum of criminal justice, a particularly noteworthy and laudable contribution of the committee was the promulgation of standards for "providing defense services," which were approved by the Association in February, 1968. Those standards incorporate and expand the pre-Gideon standards adopted in 1960, which had recognized the need to "provide counsel for every indigent person unable to employ counsel who faces the possibility of the deprivation of his liberty or other serious criminal sanction."

Another significant achievement in the field of the administration of justice was the work of the Advisory Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press. Created in 1964, this committee, under the chairmanship of Paul C. Reardon, then a justice of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, proposed standards designed to strengthen the right of an accused to a fair trial within the framework of the constitutional rights of freedom of speech and the press. These standards, adopted in 1968, have provoked considerable controversy in the press and scholarly journals. Many have been stimulated to understand the importance of striking a proper balance between two great values in our system: the need to ensure both a fair trial and a free press.

There are at present eighteen volumes of the Standards for Criminal Justice, which have improved the quality of criminal justice and influenced the practice of criminal law. All fifty states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico have taken steps to implement these standards. Thirty states have made substantial implementation, with new codes of substantive and procedural criminal law and new or amended rules of criminal procedure. More than four hundred appellate court decisions have cited the Association standards as authority.

Work with respect to the implementation of minimum standards of judicial administration continues. In April, 1976, the Association, the Conference of Chief Justices, and the Judicial Conference of the United States, under the leadership of Chief Justice Burger, jointly sponsored a National Conference on the Causes of Popular Dissatisfaction with the Administration of Justice. At that conference, which commemorated the seventieth anniversary of Dean Pound's 1906 speech to the Association, the chief justice, in a keynote address, focused on the need "to resolve minor disputes fairly and more swiftly than any present judicial mechanisms make possible." That proposal by the chief justice, as well as other specific proposals for the transfer of certain controversies from the courts to agencies better adapted to their resolution, are now being considered by the Association's Commission on Law and the Economy under the chairmanship of John J. McCloy. The present attorney [1978] Griffin B. Bell, was an active participant in this conference, and it is to be hoped that the Justice Department, under his leadership, will play a role in forwarding the conference objectives. [End quoting.]

NATIONAL BAR ASSOCIATION

In a brochure received from the National Bar Association, we read the following [quoting:]

The National Bar Association is the oldest and largest organization consisting primarily of Black attorneys in the United States of America. It is the principle advocate for the interest of Black lawyers, judges and law students. Through the NBA, informal and formal networks of Black lawyers provide professional support for enhancing professional growth and development.

When the NBA was organized in 1925, it was the only national professional bar association for Black lawyers. The purpose of the National Bar Association is... "to advance the science of jurisprudence, uphold the honor of the legal profession, promote social intercourse among the members of the bar, and protect the civil and political rights of all citizens of the several states of the United States."

Throughout the NBA's 70-year history, legions of Black lawyers affiliated with the NBA ushered in the rule of law through the turbulent 1920s and 1930s and up through the 1950s and 1960s and continues today.

The NBA has grown enormously in size and influence and currently has a network within the United States of over 17,000 lawyers, judges and student members. It has 87 affiliate chapter institutions throughout the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, Africa and the Caribbean. [End quoting.]

ALEXANDER HAMILTON— FEDERALIST PAPER #78

In Alexander Hamilton's Federalist Paper No. 78, we read [quoting:]

The judiciary, on the contrary, has no influence over either the sword or the purse; no direction either of the strength or of the wealth of the society, and can take no active resolution whatever. It may truly be said to have neither FORCE nor WILL but merely judgment; and must ultimately depend upon the aid of the executive arm even for the efficacy of its judgments.

This simple view of the matter suggests several important consequences. It proves incontestably that the judiciary is beyond comparison the weakest of the three departments of power; that it can never attack with success either of the other two; and that all possible care is requisite to enable it to defend itself against their attacks. It equally proves that though individual oppression may now and then proceed from the courts of justice, the general liberty of the people can never be endangered from that quarter; I mean so long as the judiciary remains truly distinct from both the legislature and the executive. For I agree that "there is no liberty if the power of judging be not separated from the legislative and executive powers." And it proves, in the last place, that as liberty can have nothing to fear from the judiciary alone, but would have everything to fear from its union with either of the other departments; that as all the effects of such a union must ensue from a dependence of the former on the latter, notwithstanding a nominal and apparent separation; that as, from the natural feebleness of the judiciary, it is in continual jeopardy of being over-powered, awed, or influenced by its co-ordinate branches; and that as nothing can contribute so much to its firmness and independence as permanency in office, this quality may therefore be justly regarded as an indispensable ingredient in its constitution, and, in a great measure, as the citadel of the public justice and the public security.

The complete independence of the courts of justice is peculiarly essential in a limited Constitution. By a limited Constitution, I understand one which contains certain specified exceptions to the legislative authority; such, for instance, as that it shall pass no bills of attainder, no ex post facto laws, and the like. Limitations of this kind can be preserved in practice no other way than through the medium of courts of justice, whose duty it must be to declare all acts contrary to the manifest tenor of the Constitution void. Without this, all the reservations of particular rights or privileges would amount to nothing. [End quoting.]

THE INTEGRATED BAR— TWO KEY CASES

Now, let's take a closer look into the Integration of Bar Case, 244 Wis. 8, 11 N.W.2d 604, (refer back to definitions for Integrated Bar) which set legal precedent. [Quoting:]

In view of the nature of the subject matter dealt with and its importance to the people of the State of Wisconsin as well as to the members of the Bar of this state, it seems appropriate to begin the discussion with a short outline of the steps that have been taken in this and other jurisdictions relating to the integration of the bar.

For more than twenty years in one form or another the matter has been before the Wisconsin State Bar Association and so far as the record discloses it has met with the approval of the Association. By 1935, consideration of the matter had reached such a stage that it seemed appropriate to present it to the Legislature. A bill was introduced into the Senate known as Bill No. 119, S. By the terms of that bill the Bar was to be completely integrated by act of the Legislature itself. The bill passed both Houses but was vetoed by the Governor. A similar bill introduced into the Assembly was indefinitely postponed. In 1937, two bills were introduced into the Senate, one of which was withdrawn. A companion bill, No. 424, A., was introduced into the Assembly, was ordered engrossed and read a third time to the sine die adjournment of the Legislature. In 1939, Bill No. 462, A., was introduced into the Assembly and passed but was nonconcurrent in by the Senate. Bills were introduced into the Senate and Assembly in 1941—Bill 153, A., was introduced into the Assembly and passed but was nonconcurrent in by the Senate. Bills were introduced into the Senate and Assembly in 1941—Bill 153, A., was passed by the Assembly and considered by the Senate but final action was not taken because of the sine die adjournment of the Legislature.

The bills introduced in 1937, '39, '41 and '43 while not identical, were substantially the same. Each created an association to be known as the State Bar of Wisconsin and conferred upon the Supreme Court power to provide by order for the organization of the association.

Since discussion of the matter was begun in Wisconsin, the matter of integration has been considered in other states. The Bar has been integrated in twenty-one states. (1) North Dakota, (2) Alabama, in 1921, (3) Idaho, in 1923, (4) New Mexico, in 1925, (5) California, in 1927, (6) Nevada (7) Oklahoma, in 1929, (8) Mississippi, in 1930 (9) South Dakota (10) Utah, in 1931 (11) Washington (12) Arizona (13) North Carolina, in 1933 (14) Kentucky, in 1934, (15) Oregon (16) Michigan, in 1935, (17) Nebraska, in 1937, (18) Virginia, in 1938, (19) Texas (20) Wyoming, in 1939, (21) Louisiana, in 1940.

Integration was accomplished by three different methods: (1st) By the enactment of detailed statutes; (2d) By the enactment of a short statute conferring authority upon the highest court of the state to integrate the Bar; and (3rd) By rule of court without statutory authority in the exercise of its inherent power.

With a single exception no state which has integrated the Bar either by act of the Legislature or order of the court, has returned to the former practice. In 1929, the Legislature of Oklahoma passed what was known as the State Bar Act. This act in effect unified or integrated the Bar of that state. It was repealed by the Legislature of 1939, 5 O.S. 1941 S 12 et seq. whereupon the supreme court in the exercise of its inherent power upon the petitions of the Board of Governors of the State Bar and various bar associations within the state entered an Order October 10, 1939, providing for the organization of the Oklahoma Bar Association. That order has ever since remained in force. In re Integration of State Bar of Oklahoma, 1939, 185 Okl. 505, 95 P.2d 113.

Enough has been said to indicate that the matter of bar integration is not a sporadic or evanescent movement. The movement was called into being to meet situations in the various jurisdictions which could not be dealt with efficiently under presently existing laws. Scattered as the states are from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico, the extent of the movement is strong evidence of the fact that there is a general widespread recognition of the fact that the conduct of the Bar is a matter of general public interest and concern. We shall postpone to a later time a discussion of the merits and demerits of bar integration.

[Then, later in the ruling, still quoting:]

It is the primary function of the Legislature to declare rules of conduct to govern the future action of the citizens of the state. The Legislature does this in the discharge of its constitutional duty to promote the general welfare. Integration of the Bar, while it concerns most intimately the courts and the Bar, must necessarily affect the general welfare. What is true of the admission of attorneys to practice in the courts applies equally to the integration of the Bar. It is because the public interest is necessarily involved in prescribing the conditions upon which persons shall be admitted to the practice of the law that courts generally have deferred to some extent to the legislative branch of the government in matters relating to the Bar. In this field we have a fine example of the benefits derived from the co-operation and collaboration of two co-ordinate departments of the government. [Remember Hamilton's warning in Federalist Paper No. 78 above.] Without such co-operation and collaboration unseemly conflicts might easily arise because it is an area in which each department may within the exercise of its powers act with propriety.

It is quite obvious from a study of the history of the Bar and the consideration of judicial decisions that the line of demarcation between the legislative field and the judicial field in matters relating to the Bar is not a straight line, or even a fixed one. Heretofore courts have dealt with attorneys as individuals. It has denied the right of persons to practice before it who are unworthy of the trust and confidence of clients and of those who are not properly qualified and learned in the law. Chapter 315 deals with the members of the Bar in their aggregate or in a corporate capacity. To that extent it is an innovation in the law of this state. Inasmuch as the corporate body will include all the persons admitted to practice before the court, the court must of necessity, in the exercise of its judicial function, retain some measure of control over the organization; otherwise the court would be deprived of its unquestioned right to determine who shall be admitted to the practice of the law. We shall not attempt to delimit any farther than is necessary for the purposes of this case, the respective powers of the Legislature and the court in relation to the admission of attorneys to the Bar and the regulation of their conduct.

It is obvious that whether the general welfare requires that the Bar be treated as a corporate body is a matter for the consideration of the Legislature. Inasmuch as the functioning of an integrated Bar involves the exercise of regulatory control over its members, it directly affects the exercise of the power of the court over attorneys. So that the character and extent of the regulation is a matter of immediate concern to the court in the exercise of its functions.

While the court recognizes the power of the Legislature to fix minimum standards of qualifications to be required of attorneys at law, it will determine for itself whether the qualifications so fixed invade the judicial field or embarrass the court in the discharge of its functions. It is no more within the power of the Legislature to prescribe qualifications for attorneys which are too rigorous than it is to prescribe with finality those which are too low. In the promotion of the general welfare the Legislature may prescribe required qualifications but its acts are always subject to review by the court for the purpose of ascertaining whether they embarrass the administration of justice or invade the proper exercise of the judicial function.

Because of the familiarity of the court with rules of procedure and with the conduct and qualifications of attorneys, it is in the public interest that the integration of the Bar should be by order of court. Not only is the court more familiar with the matters to be dealt with but it is in regular session throughout the year. Necessary adjustments and amendments can be made with a minimum of effort and inconvenience.

[Still referring to the Integration of Bar Case, we find the following statements, quoting:]

* The act directing Supreme Court to provide for organization and government of State Bar Association is not unconstitutional as delegating legislative power to Supreme Court, since integration of the bar is a "judicial power".

* The act providing for integration of state bar and making membership in State Bar Association a condition precedent to right to practice law, is not unconstitutional as denial of "equal protection of the laws".

* The act directing Supreme Court to provide for organization and government of State Bar Association is not unconstitutional as denying benefit of federal statute relating to practice of law in federal courts to attorneys admitted to practice in Wisconsin.

* The Supreme Court is not without power to integrate the bar because Supreme Court has only appellate jurisdiction.

* The Constitution is primarily a set of principles and not of rules, and in application of such principles there must be co-operation between the several departments in adapting the principles to practical affairs of government to make the government workable.

* The Legislature in discharge of its constitutional duty to promote the general welfare may declare rules of conduct to govern future action of citizens of the state and may provide for integration of the bar which necessarily affects the general welfare.

* Whether the general welfare requires that the bar be treated as a corporate body is for the Legislature, but the character and extent of regulation are for the Supreme Court.

* While Legislature may fix minimum standards of qualifications to be required of attorneys, the Supreme Court will determine for itself whether qualifications so fixed invade the judicial field or embarrass the court in discharge of its functions.

* The act directing Supreme Court to provide for organization and government of State Bar Association would not be construed as mere memorial invoking power of Supreme Court, in view of the fact that Supreme Court had attached much weight to legislative enactments pertaining to the bar, and by deferring to them had in practice given them a degree of finality.

* While Legislature cannot compel Supreme Court to act or to act in a particular way in discharge of judicial function, Legislature may declare itself upon questions relating to the general welfare which includes integration of the bar, and court will adopt such declarations so far as they do not embarrass the court or impair its constitutional functions. [End quoting.]

The case above and the next case below are SO IMPORTANT regarding the status of the integrated Bar, that some of the case ruling is included here.

The Petition of Chapman, 509 A.2d 753 (N.H. 1986) [quoting some portions:]

It is here that the petitioner's second argument, a federal constitutional claim, becomes relevant. He asserts that, by taking a position on the tort package, the [Bar] Association has violated his right to freedom of speech and what he terms his "rights of conscience" under the Federal and State Constitutions, U.S. CONST. amends. I, XIV; N.H. CONST. pat. I, arts. 4 (1970), 22 (Supp.1985). The federal right that he asserts is, part of that category known as "negative First Amendment rights," which may be defined as the right to be free from "government action [compelling one] to associate and...to participate in certain forms of expression." Falk v. State Bar, 418 Mich. 270, 282-83 & n. 12, 342 N.W.2d 504, 507 & n. 12 (1983), cert. denied,—U.S.—, 105 S.Ct. 315, 83 L.Ed.2d 253 (1984); see also Gaebler, First Amendment Protection Against Government Compelled Expression and Association, 23 B.C.L.Rev. 995, 995-96 (1982).

At the outset, we note that the constitutionality of the integrated, or unified, bar is not at issue here. In addition to the fact that the history of the unified bar since its creation is one of impressive accomplishment and service to the public and lawyers of our State, the success of such a challenge is made all the more unlikely by decisions of both the U.S. Supreme Court and this court. See Lathrop v. Donohue, 367 U.S. 820, 81 S.Ct. 1826, 6 L.Ed.2d 1191 (1961); In re Unification of the New Hampshire Bar, 109 N.H. at 264, 248 A.2d at 712; see also Note, First Amendment Proscriptions on the Integrated Bar: Lathrop v. Donohue Re-examined, 22 Ariz.L.Rev. 939, 940 (1980). The Association has played a crucial role in maintaining and upgrading the quality of the bar in New Hampshire. The lawyer referral network has increased the availability of, and access to, lawyers in this State. Its public education and information efforts have been exemplary, and its continuing education program is among the best. The various committees of the Association provide substantive and procedural assistance both to the bar and to the courts. Unification of the bar may not be the sole reason for these successes, but we are confident that it has played a substantial role in contributing to these accomplishments.

The gravamen of the petitioner's federal constitutional argument is that this legislative activity by the Association is unrelated to the Association's legitimate aim of promoting "the educational and ethical standards of the Bar to the end of improving the quality of the legal service available to the people of the State, without any reference to the political process," Lathrop, supra 367 U.S. at 843, 81 S.Ct. at 1838, and violates the First Amendment. The petitioner asserts that no compelling governmental interest is served by allowing the Association to take a position in favor of or against this tort legislation. See Arrow v. Dow, 544 F.Supp. 458, 463 (D.N.M. 1982). Further, he argues, even if the taking of a position on tort reform by the Association serves a compelling State interest, his First Amendment rights are still violated because that interest could be served through less drastic means, such as the appearance of Association members before the legislature, either individually or as members of voluntary groups of attorneys, and not as representatives of the Association.

The constitutional claim that the petitioner raises is a serious one. See Schneider v. Colegio de Abogados de Puerto Rico, 546 F.Supp. 1251, 1261-62 (D.P.R.1982). It involves the delicate balance between the free speech rights of an individual and those of an organization of which he is required to be a member. As such, he has only limited input into legislative positions taken by the Association. Nonetheless, whatever his level of influence within the organization, the most extreme form of protest, withdrawal, is not open to him. On the other hand, requiring silence on the part of the Association would pose serious prudential questions. The problem we face is how to accord proper weight to each substantial, and in this case conflicting, interest.

In Lathrop, the United States Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of integrated State bar associations, but did not decide whether a dissenter from the positions espoused by such an association could constitutionally be compelled to finance those positions through the payment of dues. Lathrop, 367 U.S. at 847-48, 81 S.Ct. at 1840. In later cases concerning agency shops arrangements whereby an employee is required to contribute dues to the union representing him or her, but is not required to be a formal member of it, the Court held that employees could not constitutionally be forced to contribute dues to ideological activities unrelated to collective bargaining, see, e.g., Abood, 431 U.S. at 234-35, 97 S.Ct. at 1799. More recent federal cases have centered around the adequacy of procedural schemes designed to deal with this problem, see e.g., Ellis v. Railway Clerks, 466 U.S. 435, 104 S.Ct. 1883, 80 L.Ed.2d 428 (1984).

This court, in the exercise of its inherent constitutional power to regulate the practice of law, ordered the integration of the bar and retains continuing supervisory authority over the Association and its activities, see In re Unification of the New Hampshire Bar, 109 N.H. at 263-64, 248 A.2d at 711-12. In the exercise of that authority, the court is obligated to interpret the limits on bar activities so as to preclude the First Amendment infringement that would result if the Association were to take positions on issues outside the scope of those responsibilities that justify compelling lawyers to belong to it. The line that we draw below is intended to divide issues that are within the scope of the Association's objectives, and on which official positions abridge no negative First Amendment rights, from those that fall outside those objectives, such that official comment would risk First Amendment infringements.

Given these preliminary observations, we will endeavor to define more clearly than we have before the standard which should govern the Association's activities before the General Court. In view of the Association's special status as a unified bar, we conclude that concerns for First Amendment liberties require a narrower view of its permitted legislative activities than the Association has taken. Hence, the Association should limit its activities before the General Court to those matters which are related directly to the efficient administration of the judicial system; the composition and operation of the courts; and the education, ethics, competence, integrity and regulation, as a body, of the legal profession. The Board's opposition to tort revision as a whole is not within the mandate of the Association's constitution. In essence, to interpret the phrase "administration of justice" in the Association's constitution as broadly as the dissenter does would be to eliminate any limitation on the legislative activities of the association where one was clearly intended.

We believe that circumspection is the watchword to be observed by the Board. Where it can reasonably be argued that an issue is outside the scope of its authority, the Board should take no position on the matter.

Some key points at law in this case, as listed before the narrative of the ruling, are:

- * A "unified bar" or an "integrated bar" is qualitatively different from a "voluntary bar"; membership in a unified or integrated bar is compulsory, whereas membership in a voluntary bar is voluntary, and in effect, one is not at liberty to resign from a unified bar, for, by so doing, one loses the privilege to practice law.

- * In exercise of its continuing supervisory authority over State Bar Association and its activities, Supreme Court is obligated to interpret limits on bar activities so as to preclude First Amendment infringement that would result if Association were to take positions on issues outside scope of those responsibilities which justify compelling lawyers to belong to the Association. U.S.C.A. Const.Amend. 1

- * State Bar Association should limit its activities before general court to those matters which are related directly to efficient administration of judicial system; composition and operation of courts; and education, ethics, competence, integrity, and regulation, as a body, of the legal profession.

- * Opposition of Board of Governors of State Bar Association, a unified bar, to so-called "tort reform" legislation pending before general court was not within mandate of Association's constitution.

- * Circumspection is watchword to be observed by Board of Governors of State Bar Association in its activities before the general court.

- * Where it can reasonably be argued that an issue before general court is outside scope of its authority, Board of Governors of State Bar Association should take no position on the matter.

- * Where substantial unanimity does not exist or is not known to exist within bar as a whole as to an issue before the general court, particularly with regard to issues affecting members' economic self-interest, Board of Governors of State Bar Association should exercise caution.

- * Positions taken by State Bar Association and its Board of Governors as to a matter before general court should be tailored carefully and limited to issues clearly within Association's constitution mandate.

- * Nothing prevents officers and members of the Board of Governors of State Bar Association from appearing before general court to express their views as individuals, as members of voluntary associations, or as representatives of clients. [End quoting.]

THE PRACTICE OF LAW— A KEY CASE

When looking under Practice of Law in Black's Law Dictionary, you find the case R.J. Edwards, Inc. v. R.L. Hert, Okl., 504 P.2d 407, 416. In that case, they determined, in part, the following. [Quoting:]

Original proceedings for writs of prohibition. The Supreme Court, Barnes, J., held that Judicial Department is vested with full and complete authority, independent of the Legislative Department, to control and regulate the practice of law in all its forms and to prevent the intrusion of unlicensed persons into the practice, without regard to whether the acts involved are forensic or nonforensic, and further held that where defendant municipal bond marketers and their agents merely reproduced forms prepared by Attorney General, furnished them to school districts and filled them out according to directions set out in the attorney general's handbook, to extent that defendants merely filled in the uniform forms prescribed, such activity did not call for determination of questions involving legal skill and did not constitute the practice of law.

- * The "practice of law" is the rendition of services requiring the knowledge and the application of legal principles and technique to serve the interests of another with his consent.

- * A service which otherwise would be a form of the practice of law does not lose that character merely because it is rendered gratuitously.

- * If practitioner of a "distinct occupation" goes beyond the determination of legal questions for purpose of performing this special service and instead advises his patron as to course to be taken to secure a desired legal status, he is engaged in the practice of law.

- * It is necessary to fully develop the facts in order to determine if conduct of a particular business constitutes an enjoinable practice of law.

- * Supreme Court has original jurisdiction to entertain complaints alleging unlawful practice of law by unlicensed persons but unlimited original jurisdiction of all justiciable matters vested in the district courts includes such controversies. O.S. 1971 Const. art. 4, sec. 1; art. 5, sec. 1, 36; art. 7, sec. 1 et. seq., 1, 4, 7(a); art. 10, sec. 6. [End quoting.]

In State v. Schumacher, Kan., 519 P.2d 1116, practice of law is defined in the following manner, [quoting:]

Although it may sometimes be articulated more simply, one definition has gained widespread acceptance, and has been adopted by the Court:

A general definition of the term frequently quoted with approval is given in Eley v. Miller, 7 Ind.App. 529, 34 N.E. 836, as follows:

As the term is generally understood, the 'practice' of law is the doing or performing of services in a court of justice, in any matter depending therein, throughout its various stages, and in conformity to the adopted rules of procedure. But in a larger sense it includes legal advice and counsel, and the preparation of legal instruments and contracts by which legal rights are secured, although such matter may or may not be depending in a court. State ex. rel. v. Perkins, 138 Kan. 899, 907, 908, 28 P.2d 765, 769 (1934).

The court, in Perkins, also pointed out that "one who confers with clients, advises them as to their legal rights, and then takes the business to an attorney and arranges with him to look after it in court is engaged in the practice of law." 138 Kan. at 908, 28 P.2d at 770. The quotation from the Eley case has been adopted as the general rule in 7 C.J.S. Attorney and Client S. 3 g (1937).

A more recent source defines the practice of law as "the rendition of services requiring the knowledge and application of legal principles and technique to serve the interests of another with his consent." R.J. Edwards, Inc. v. Hert, 504 P.2d 407, 416 (Okl. 1972).

It is clearly the prerogative of the Supreme Court to define the practices of law:

It is unnecessary here to explore the limits of judicial power conferred by Article 3, Sec. 1 of the Kansas Constitution but suffice it to say that the practice of law is so intimately connected and bound up with the exercise of judicial power in the administration of justice that the right to regulate the practice naturally and logically belongs to the judicial department of the government. (In re Integration of Nebraska State Bar Ass'n, 133 Neb. 283, 275 N.W 265, 114 A.L.R. 151.) Included in that power is the supreme court's inherent right to prescribe conditions for admission to the Bar, to define, supervise, regulate and control the practice of law, whether in or out of court, and this is so notwithstanding acts of the legislature in the exercise of its police power to protect the public interest and welfare. Martin v. Davis, 187 Kan. 473, 478-479, 357 P.2d 782, 787, 788 (1960). [End quoting.]

LAWYER CLARENCE DARROW

Darrow was being interviewed for a magazine article on the reasons given by prominent men for their success. "Most of the men I've spoken to, so far, attribute their success to hard work," said the interviewer.

"I guess that applies to me, too," said Darrow. "I was brought up on a farm. One very hot day I was distributing and packing down the hay which a stacker was constantly dumping on top of me. By noon I was completely exhausted. That afternoon I left the farm, never to return, and I haven't done a day of work since."

CONSIDER THIS

"The minute you read something and you can't understand it, you can almost be sure that it was drawn up by a lawyer. Then if you give it to another lawyer to read and he don't know just what it means, why then you can be sure it was drawn up by a lawyer. If it's in a few words and is plain and understandable only one way, it was written by a non-lawyer.

"Every time a lawyer writes something, he is not writing for posterity, he is writing so that endless others of his craft can make a living out of trying to figure out what he said, 'course perhaps he hadn't really said anything, that's what makes it hard to explain." [Will Rogers]

"You have a pretty good case, Mr. Pitkin. How much justice can you afford?"

Update From Michael Maholy

1/30/96 MICHAEL MAHOLY

While the Mena, Arkansas case that has been under intense investigation by several government agencies fades into history like the ghost of Christmases past, other sources continue to pursue the truth among the key players of the drugs-for-weapons enterprise. Whitewater Independent Counsel Kenneth Starr and members of his seek-and-destroy team have gutted the Razorback State from end to end and have by no means even begun to finish their search for the truth into allegations made by me and several other employees who became entwined under the rule of the "Masters" and the "lawmakers" of the one-world state within our own nation.

Starr's recent indictments of former Clinton business partners James MacDougal and Arkansas Governor Jim Guy Tucker are not likely to be the last. With a lot of pressure coming into FBI offices from people concerned about the illegal activities of "trusted" elected officials, the pot is nearly to its boiling point. I constantly receive letters from concerned readers of CONTACT (as well as from other sources) who tell me that they have other evidence of what has taken place down in the Arkansas Banana Republic and most of this information has merit.

I believe my allegations in the Pipeline series are what spearheaded this internal investigation. In fact, when the FBI questioned me about the murders of the two young boys, Don Henry and Kevin Ives, it pointed the finger at several law enforcement officers from Little Rock and Pulaski County, Arkansas. For several months a Little Rock grand jury, as well as the FBI, has been investigating my allegations and more damaging evidence is being uncovered. As I have told you in the past, the targets of this probe are a handful of suspected drug dealers from northwest Arkansas, a Little Rock prosecutor, and several members of the state patrol and the county sheriffs association. Names such as Don Tyson, Dan Lasater, Jim Guy Tucker, Roger Clinton and others are now at the top of the lists of people being investigated.

One might ask just why should this case bother the higher-ups at the White House. I personally could think of two very good reasons. Through my testimony, two of the alleged drug dealers under suspicion for their involvement in the murders have been linked through law enforcement intelligence information to two prominent Arkansas businessmen who just happen to be very, very close friends and business partners of Bill and Hillary Clinton. That's correct, the husband and wife who "We, the People" entrusted to guide our nation toward a moral and solid future. Also, after digging deeper into the plot, the gruesome double homicide was found to be connected with the not-so mysterious Mena drug-trafficking crowd. No, people, it was not I who stabbed or bludgeoned the two young boys who were then left on the railroad tracks along the Pulaski-Saline County line that night on the outskirts of Little Rock. But it was indeed I who had the courage to expose this matter to the authorities. IT was I who alerted the agencies and gave them the information and details that they need to get their investigation rolling. It was later established that the two boys had stumbled upon a Mena narcotics drop site shortly before a major drop was scheduled. Coupled with the fact that the boys had also found the location of the laboratory used for making the drug methamphetamine at a nearby farm house, their captors were left with little choice of what to do with the boys.

Just last week I was called to the prison telephone to speak with the attorney of the Republican Representative from Iowa, Jim Leach, who is also the chairman of the House Banking Committee. I was told that Mr. Leach is very interested in the Mena cover-up and has since dispatched two aides to begin a preliminary investigation and he is expected to call a hearing very soon. He also warned me about entrusting any further information to the FBI or the DEA at this time because of the political nature of the investigation. The most obvious question I now ask myself is: Just WHOM do I trust? Obviously, because of my situation, TRUST is not one of my strong points. I would like to be an idealist, but like so many, I have been too often fooled and even lied to by some of my closest friends—and even loved ones. Am I a fool for disclosing the true nature of the evil intentions of some of the most powerful people on Earth? Perhaps. But to fully understand my position, you must consider just what really took place, what events led up to all of this.

Let me start at the beginning when the DEA first started its probe into my affairs. Here I was, a young man who, at that time, could be considered a low profile, yet prominent citizen of Arkansas, who would very quietly come and go in and out of the state at a moment's notice. Being labeled a "Yankee" due to my Chicago origins, I was viewed rather suspiciously by the "natives". They wondered just what this young man was into to enable him to live so comfortably. Surely it was not his trout fishing business on the White River, because a business like that would yield no more than 40K a year. Yet this young man was living in a home that was worth over $500,000; he had a condo in Florida and cars, trucks, boats, and other assorted playthings that could not be acquired with annual income of a trout fishing guide. Even combined with his military pension, it did not cover his expensive lifestyle. So they assumed I was involved in illegal activities, and indeed I was! One might say I was in over my head and sinking fast.

Soon the DEA and state authorities launched their investigations. Part of an investigation is surveillance—who accompanied me to certain events, places, gatherings, etc.? I was being closely monitored, as I am to this very day. After a lengthy investigation, a case file was prepared. Just as case files are made on everyone who falls under the suspicions of the FBI and other agencies—as well as those who have a history of prior crimes. As the case continued, the search led to other prominent figures of the Arkansas political scene—remember the hunters gathering at Clinton's private duck-slaughter house in "The Killing Fields" from the Pipeline series? Now the originators of the investigation into my lifestyle had a dilemma on their hands.

First of all, they needed to wrap up their case against me as quickly and quietly as possible, before the involvement of the very people who put them into office became public. They would need to get me alone, set me up and arrest me, or even better yet, to kill me and cover any loose ends that would eventually lead inspectors to the big fish. But the files on the FBI and DEA investigations leaked out and were reported by members of the Fourth Estate! So what happened next? An internal investigation to track down the source of the leaks. This is precisely what happened in the beginning of my case. It had now come to the attention of the Clintons that I was going to eventually pull in some of their closest personal friends and even relatives if I get arrested—or at least that is what they perceived as my first line of defense.

There are mountains of legal files that pertain to the Mena cover-up, which also contain to my case. As the pieces of the puzzle come together, more and more of the picture is coming into view. Even now, there are new developments in the case which even I did not know about until recently. Not long ago two senior inspectors from the DEA security division were dispatched to Arkansas to try to track the paper trail left by the money laundered by Barry Seal, myself, and several others. This is coming to light through the investigations into the Whitewater Development scandal. The inspectors are not worried about all of the DEA files that have been turning up, but rather, just a few of them. One of the most important files is on Dan Lasater, and another points the finger towards Don Tyson, the poultry magnate.

Through my own contacts, I have also discovered that even my first attorney, the late Gene Worshem, a highly recognized attorney who was once connected with the Rose Law Firm in downtown Little Rock, was my betrayer. He was withholding all the damaging evidence that would have implicated the Clintons for their part in the illegal activities. As you see, it was not just George Bush and Oliver North involved in the smuggling business, but the Clintons were also brought into the fold. When you are the governor of a state, especially Arkansas, you damn sure are aware of what goes on in your own back yard! My attorney advised me to plead guilty to these crimes in order to protect his circle of prominent friends, or face the consequences of a very lengthy prison sentence. We're talking about 35-40 years. I turned over to Gene Worshem several maps, photos, and other documents that would have incriminated several top law enforcement officers as well as their bosses. I recently telephoned attorney Gene Worshem's office in regard to the files pertaining to statements I was instructed to make to the federal sentencing judge, George Howard Jr., another close friend of the Clintons. The secretary's reply was that it was not a good time to speak with Mr. Worshem. When questioned as to when would be a good time to contact or speak with him, her response was, and I quote, "on Judgment Day!" Becoming annoyed, I asked her exactly what she meant by that remark. She then replied that Gene was DEAD! I inquired as to the circumstances of his death, to which she replied that she was not at liberty to discuss it. So now we have another 30 or so people who had information or evidence into the illegal activities of the Clintons who will "tell no tales". (Are we on the same page, readers?!) You had better believe I was sold out by my attorney. He took a lot of money from me only to fool me, to lie to me, and to have me plea to charges I never should have, such as the five-year sentence for firearms violation. This firearms charge, which was recently ruled to be unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, should never have been issued against me in the first place. But neither I nor my wife knew any better, as neither of us had ever been in trouble with the law up until that night in 1991, just prior to the 1992 presidential elections. So once again, I was guilty of being foolish and placing my fate in the hands of someone I thought I could trust. Luckily I have the original documents and photos that will, upon my release, expose these tyrants once and for all!

Now the word from my sources is that our good friend Webster Hubbell is possibly heading for an extension of the prison term handed to him by who else but the infamous "Honorable" George Howard Jr. This is due in part to the fact that I am very familiar with the federal sentencing guidelines, and to the information I supplied to the staff of independent investigator Kenneth Starr. Mr. Starr was very disturbed by the leniency of the sentence, plus the fact that he also found out that the recent probe into the testimony given by Hubbell was fraudulent. You must understand that a federal judge is bound by law to sentence you in accordance with where your crime places you in the federal guidelines. At a Senate Whitewater Committee hearing, it has come to light that Hubbell perjured himself by stating that he had never had any of the Vincent Foster files in his possession. He was supposed to be helping in the investigation by Kenneth Starr into the affairs of the Madison Guarantee Savings and Loan and the Rose Law Firm. You see, friends, unknown to the public, a deal was cut with Hubbell and the Justice Department in which his full cooperation was exchanged for a lighter sentence. Say now, what about me?! Why am I not cut a deal? Because I tell the truth and these people in government can't handle that at all! It was, however, always thought by the investigators that Hubbell would hold out to protect the First Lady. It has just come out the David Kendall, the Clintons' private attorney had confirmed that in 1993 Hubbell had sent him four original documents/files from the Rose Law Firm that came from Vince Foster's office, but Kendall was quick to defend Hubbell in stating that he did not know how. The bottom line is that Hubbell can now be expected to be released in late January by the Senate Whitewater Committee and hopefully will face new criminal charges. It is very important to see here just how all of these happenings down in Arkansas have a unique common denominator and how the pieces of the puzzle are now starting to come together. Do you people realize that I have been one of the key players in exposing the players and their corrupt evil games?

If any of you have been following the Vince Foster cover-up, you may have learned that certain documents that were said to have been stored at Foster's home had been missing since his reported suicide. Now we are told that these very incriminating documents were removed to the offices of the Rose Law Firm within the first 48 hours after Foster's death. These lost documents will shed some very damaging evidence in the Whitewater hearings. At first it was feared by investigators that the documents were destroyed, but now it looks as though they have remained intact. OR, could this be more trickery from within the Clinton Elite circle of power? Perhaps another false trail to throw off the ever-approaching hounds? What bothers me—and I'm sure, thousands of other Americans—is that the now newly-located documents are said to be located in the safety of the Clinton/Gore campaign headquarters in downtown Little Rock. But the Foster papers are not the only Whitewater-related documents being stored at the president's campaign headquarters. I am told that a huge load of private Clinton papers was moved there last fall in the dead of night. It seems that the documents and personal papers came from the basement of the First Commercial Bank building and from the Worthen Bank. By the way, people, these two banks were the money laundering headquarter for many of the pilots involved in drug smuggling as well as for corrupt political figures from Arkansas, Texas, and Louisiana. Along with documents seized for review were papers from the Rose Law Firm (Hillary's former employer) and Jennings and Bryan, the firm in which senior White House aide Bruce Lindsey was a partner. The transfer of papers was organized by Betsey Wright, Clinton's former chief of staff, who also has remained a loyal friend to the first family. It is said that Wright even gave the transfer of the documents a code name: PROTOCOL! Several of the boxes were said to have PROTOCOL stamped on them, some two full truckloads of paperwork. The Starr investigators believe these documents deal not only with the Clintons' Whitewater property, investment, and other suspected laundering techniques, but they may also contain details pertaining to yet another land deal called FLOWERWOOD. These documents will reveal the close, tightly knit relationship between the Clintons and some other well known wealthy businessmen from northwest Arkansas—Don Tyson, the poultry king and Sam Walton of the famous Wal-Mart retail stores. There is a lot of money—perhaps hundreds of millions of dollars—floating around out there that the Clintons want to dig their talons into.

Last but not least, I must relay to you the new developments with my ol' buddy, Mr. Dan Lasater. You all remember him, don't you?—the Arkansas bond daddy who had a fetish for cocaine and young pretty women. Now that ol' Dan has once again been in the spotlight, due in part to my story of the CIA Pipeline and other reports filled with allegations of wrongdoing, Lasater is really on the outs with his one-time good friend Bill Clinton. Why? Because Dan Lasater, a once-convicted cocaine distributor, who was pardoned back in the late 1980s by the then-governor Clinton, is now about to be indicted once again. Lasater, who thought he had been keeping a low profile since his 1986 drug conviction, is about to have a run-in with the IRS. With information I supplied to officials last fall about Mr. Lasater's dealings and money laundering habits, the FBI finally got around to doing a little investigating into my disclosures. And what do you know, BINGO!! Lasater, who was renowned in the Arkansas capital for his semi-public drug parties, handled some $664 million in state bond sales and earned over $1.6 million in fees during Clinton's tenure as Arkansas governor. So people, we can expect to see Mr. Lasater in upcoming media events, but I expect that they will be in the form of a little IRS indictment party. You have to get indicted to be invited. And by the way, the buried money that was found at my home was said to be part of Lasater's—thus the attempt by the IRS to re-indict me, as well, back in early '95, while I was being transferred to Leavenworth, Kansas.

So, there you have my latest up-date. The next time you hear that poor Mr. and Mrs. Clinton are having money problems due to the overbearing legal problems caused by the mountain of evidence piling up around them, maybe you could suggest to them that they ask one of their old friends, Don, Dan or Sam for a small loan—say of a couple million or so. Or maybe they could simply withdraw a few million from their daughter's offshore account. I'm sure she wouldn't mind helping out poor mom and dad.

In closing I would like to thank all of you who have given me all your love and support. Some of you have been deceived by those out there with false promises and attempts to lure you with dreams of this or that, despite repeated warnings to beware of false prophets. If you are one of those, please do not lose faith in the Light of Truth. And to those of you who have stood by me throughout my ordeals, a very special thank you from the bottom of my heart, for it is your inspiration that has kept me going in my continuing fight against government corruption at the highest levels. Thank you also to my many Canadian friends and especially to the hardworking staff at the CONTACT. With a little bit of luck, and a lot of prayer, I may soon realize my freedom. Pray with me as I will pray for all of you. May the light of Truth guide you all.

The Keeper of the Flame,

SIBLING REVELRY

What's wrong, Lori?

I can't sleep.

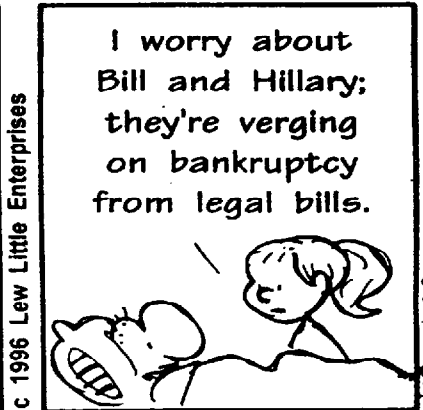

What will become of them when they leave the White House?

Hillary can always fall back on trading cattle futures.

Oh, yeah. That's a relief!

I worry about Bill and Hillary; they're verging on bankruptcy from legal bills.

CONNECTIONS

"Why can't you just stick to a subject and finish at least one topic before confusing us with another..." is the cry from the trenches where you-the-readers reside. Well, when you give me ten secretaries who don't have to fight just to stay alive, perhaps we can "finish" something. We only have intent, however, to open your curiosity, share the major topics to allow YOU to go and research the remainder. Dharma doesn't need more lessons on such as the Golden Crescent heroin connection—she can't scrape the lawyers and attorneys off her back NOW.

For instance, the original order [sequence] and agreements which were TRIED to be acquired was first the death of Dharma and THEN the death of Barbara Jordan. Since Barbara Jordan is NOW DEAD, do you see the picture? And on a daily basis let me share that Dharma and E.J. are now in the process of receiving an eviction notice for lack of rent payment—because the lawyers seized their bank account and social security checks.

WE ARE DOING ALL WE CAN AS QUICKLY AS WE CAN AND SINCE THERE IS NO ONE TO SOLVE THESE OTHER PROBLEMS; WE HAVE TO MEET THE OPPOSITION ARMY HEAD-ON, WHEREVER THEY STRIKE. SINCE THERE ARE NOW SOME 165 JOURNALS OUR HOPE IS THAT IF WE SLACK OFF A DAY FOR ATTENDING THE FIRES HERE, THAT YOU WILL CATCH UP A BIT ON WHAT WE HAVE ALREADY BROUGHT AND POSSIBLY YOU WON'T FEEL SO THWARTED IN THE "NEXT CHAPTER" OF SOMETHING OR OTHER. DHARMA IS 2 BILLION, 600 MILLION, 364 THOUSAND, 274 HUNDRED, AND 64-1/2 YEARS OLD, (give or take a few million years) TIRED, AND SICK OF THIS GAME. I PETITION FOR PATIENCE, PLEASE.

I will set aside the "church" for a morning and write on the drug trade but I have to warn you in advance that it is all in the same category for this is from whence stems the Holy Jihads (holy wars). Nothing is for God, good friends; all is for the insane gathering of physical stuff through outright evil and greed. You cannot separate religion from anything else on your globe for in every instance the final threat and control is always RELIGION. THIS IS NOT SPIRITUAL TRUTH—THIS IS EXACTLY WHAT I SAID—RELIGIOUS!! POWER!

For openers let us consider all the writings we have already done on the Golden Triangle CIA U.S. Government drug trade in Asia and then realize we must turn next to Afghanistan. Let me also remind you that one of the high-rollers in the Golden Triangle got shifted to Afghanistan when the Gulf War got under way so it is all tied in together. That man was Armitage who also at the same time got a PROMOTION in government status. With this in mind I will offer you some information coming right through in the press—of course don't expect it to be written up in the Los Angeles Times on any given Friday morning.

So, from The New Federalist, Jan. 8, 1996 comes exactly what we need for good background and status, from a couple of our readers, and we greatly appreciate your sharing.

Since you also have access to these things I don't know how much time we can devote to this topic but we'll just move along until we have to change. There will be some good authors who will eventually blow the whistle and won't be "plants" so that you can "catch up". A lot of information on almost all "defrauding" subjects can be obtained from Rodney Stich's books, especially Defrauding America.

We have already written on this subject in great length some three or more years ago but for new readers please allow us repetition. It is hard to remember all these things from prior journals or papers so we can afford to be reminded of such important material and players.

THE GOLDEN CRESCENT HEROIN CONNECTION

by Jeffrey Steinberg

On May 27, 1986 [H: A decade ago!], a Soviet cargo ship, the Kapitan Tomson, was busted by Dutch authorities in Rotterdam with 220 kilos of pure heroin aboard. At the time, it was the largest heroin seizure in European history. The container with the heroin originated in Kabul, where the drug was hidden among 30 tons of raisins. The shipment was trucked overland across the Soviet Union, and placed on the ship at either Leningrad or Riga. For the first time, western security services had hard proof that the Soviet occupation forces in Afghanistan were directly involved in the dope trade.

And the Soviets weren't alone in the trade either. In the late 1970s, as the United States was first becoming involved in the covert support for the Afghan mujahideen, Dr. David Musto, a member of the Carter administration's drug advisory board, issued a prescient warning that the United States was moving "into Afghanistan to support the opium growers in their rebellion against the Soviets. Shouldn't we try," Dr. Musto asked, "to avoid what we had done in Laos?"

The Laos parallel was precise. Back in the 1960s and '70s, the CIA had conducted a secret war in Laos, which was predominantly funded by the sale of opium. The CIA's private airline, Air America, became notorious for its dope shuttle flights in and out of Southeast Asia's "Golden Triangle" opium region. The CIA station chief in Laos, Theodore G. Shackley, would later emerge as a key behind-the-scenes player in the Reagan-Bush-era secret wars.

Dr. Musto was not alone in his fears. Already in December 1979, the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) called an emergency behind-closed-doors meeting at New York's JFK Airport to come up with a plan for dealing with the flood of South Asian heroin about to hit the eastern seaboard of the United States.

Defrauding America

by RODNEY STICH

• One of the most explosive books on the market for understanding the pattern of hard-core criminal activities implicating high federal officials and how it affects the American people. It describes and documents epidemic corruption by federal officials, and a pattern of criminal misuse of federal offices against the American public. The contents are supported by a group of former federal investigators, covert intelligence agency operatives and contract agents, former FBI, police, and private investigators, composing a block of whistleblowers.

Among the corrupt activities described in Defrauding America are the following:

- Epidemic drug trafficking into the United States.
- Role played by the CIA in Savings and Loan and HUD looting.
- Conversion of Chapter 11 courts into a criminal enterprise.
- October Surprise and its criminal coverup.
- The ugly part of the Iran-Contra scandal.
- Inslaw, the tip of Justice Department criminality.
- Covert CIA financial institutions dealing in drug money laundering.
- Crooked federal judges and Justice Department attorneys.
- Felony persecution of informants by Justice Department attorneys and federal judges.
- Killings and mysterious deaths of informants and whistleblowers.
- Schemes to assassinate or remove U.S. Presidents and presidential candidates.

A RIVAL TO THE GOLDEN TRIANGLE

Over the next decade, the Golden Crescent region, encompassing the mountain valleys of Iran, Afghanistan, and Pakistan, emerged as one of the world's two biggest sources of opium, for several years even surpassing the contiguous Golden Triangle. While some of the opium-producing areas of Afghanistan were unquestionably under the control of the Red Army, the majority of poppy fields were in areas such as the Helmand Valley in southern Afghanistan that were in the hands of the mujahideen, especially the Hezb-i-Islami of Gulbuddin Hekmatyar, which also controlled a string of heroin laboratories just across the Pakistani Afghanistan in February 1989, "opium warfare" erupted among rival mujahideen groups. Hekmatyar's Hezb-i-Islami attempted to take control over the opium fields in a area of the Helmand Valley controlled by Mullah Nasim Akhundzada. Hekmatyar's forces were defeated, but two years later, Nasim—by then the deputy defense minister of Afghanistan—was assassinated by his opium rival, and fighting broke out again between the Hezb-i-Islami and the Helmand Valley group, now headed by Nasim's older brother Mohammed Rasul.

In Pakistan, a similar factional struggle over the dope business broke out in 1988, after President Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, along with several top generals and the U.S. ambassador, were killed in a plane crash. When Benazir Bhutto came in as prime minister, she launched a crackdown against the Pakistani Inter-Service Intelligence (ISI). Gen. Fazle Huq, the commander of the NWFP, was arrested for covering up his own brother's drug trafficking. General Huq's personal pilot, Maj. Farooq Hamid, was arrested on heroin-trafficking charges.

As early as 1983, Norwegian customs officials had arrested a Pakistani smuggling a large quantity of heroin. A follow-on investigation led to the indictment of Hamid Hasnain, the vice president of the Pakistan government's Habib Bank. Hasnain was the personal account manager for President Zia.

The drug crackdown was short-lived, however. When General Zia's former finance minister, Ghulam Ishaq Khan, became President of Pakistan, many of the indictments were overturned or never prosecuted. Ghulam Ishaq Khan had been General Zia's liaison to the Bank of Credit and Commerce International, serving as the president of the BCCI routes that heroin was smuggled out. British Special Air Services in Oman ran arms into Karachi, Pakistan, and the United States arranged shipments of Soviet arms from Egypt, China, and Iran. Most weapons were shipped by sea to Karachi and trucked to Peshawar in the North West Frontier Province, under the control of the Pakistani Inter-Service Intelligence (ISI). Peshawar was the main weapons depot for all mujahideen factions. Often the trucks carrying arms to the mujahideen returned to Karachi loaded with heroin.

[END OF QUOTING]

I think, since it is quite lengthy to include in this particular writing all the inside workings of the British forces into the planned destruction of the continent housing India and India herself, we will take in order that which would first catch our attention from the Banking routes for drug funds. We all remember MANY writings and investigations of BCCI and the ones who only had their fingers tweaked in the fall-out while the blame was dumped on those out of reach of you-the-people. Your government controllers are so sick and so contagious as to be a blight on the entire human race and STILL YOU BOW TO THEM LIKE THEY ARE YOUR FRIENDS.

[Quoting same source, The New Federalist, Jan. 8, 1996:]

BCCI: BANK FOR GOLDEN CRESCENT ARMS-FOR-DRUGS TRAFFIC

by Bill Engdahl And Jeffrey Steinberg

In the summer of 1991, the Bank of England took the unprecedented step of shutting down one of the world's largest banks, the Bank of Credit and Commerce International (BCCI). Soon afterwards, the District Attorney of Manhattan, Robert Morgenthau, handed down criminal indictments against top officials of the bank. Soon, the popular media were filled with tales of drug-money laundering, bankrolling of Middle East terrorists, underwriting of Saddam Hussein's quest for a nuclear bomb, etc. BCCI was linked to some of the Persian Gulf's wealthiest sheiks, and was described as a secret slush fund for the Central Intelligence Agency. Time magazine even quoted CIA head Robert Gates, referring to BCCI as the "Bank of Crooks and Criminals International." [H: He should know!]

Two rather critical facts, however, were invariably left out of the story—even during the lengthy soap

By the late 1980s, the DEA reported that Pakistan's annual revenue from heroin sales was $8-10 billion, one-fourth of the country's Gross Domestic Product. Most of the raw opium processed into heroin at the hundreds of clandestine laboratories in the North West Frontier Province (NWFP) and in the area around the Khyber Pass, came from Afghanistan, which was producing over 1,000 tons per year by the mid-point of the Afghan War!

When the Red Army completed its pullout from

Foundation, the "charity" through which drug money was laundered, and bribes were paid out.

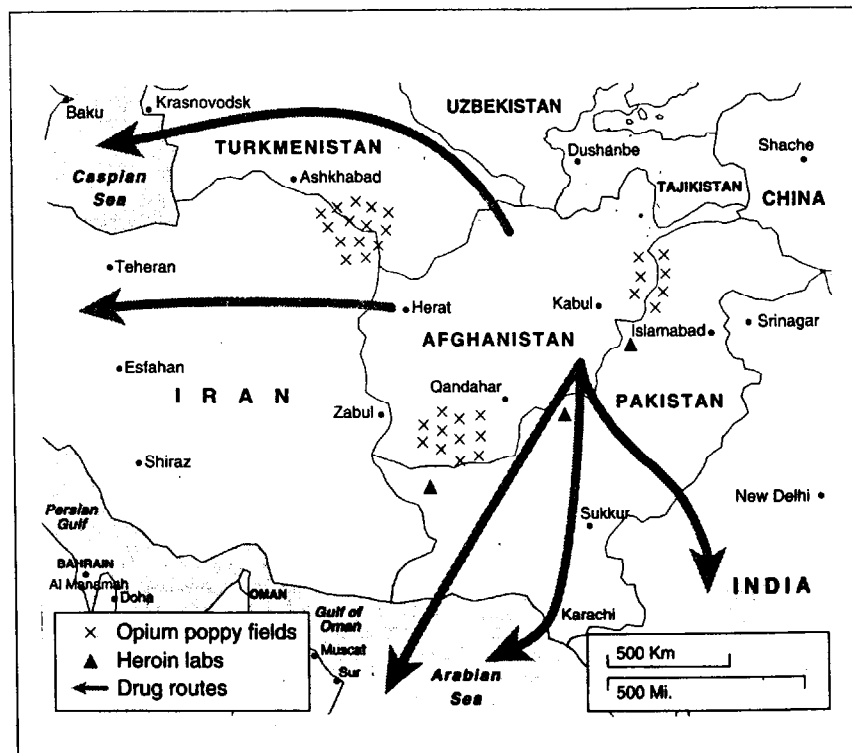

The DEA's most recent annual study of the supply of illicit drugs to the United States reported that opium production and processing in Afghanistan has increased, and that a crime syndicate based in Quetta, Pakistan has emerged as a major channel for Afghan heroin into the United States and western Europe.

THE GOLDEN CRESCENT HEROIN TRAIL

Since 1980, Afghanistan has been the source of half the heroin sold in Europe and North America. Some opium was grown in areas under Soviet control, but most of the production was in the Helmand Valley in Southwest Afghanistan, and along the Afghan-Pakistan border northeast of Kabul, areas controlled by the mujahideen and the Pakistani Army. Hundreds of heroin labs were set up in the nearby frontier areas in Pakistan. Heroin was routed to world markets via Iran, India, the Asiatic republics of the U.S.S.R., and by Arabian Sea routes to Turkey.

THE MUJAHIDEEN WEAPONS PIPELINE

opera trial of former BCCI attorney Robert Altman.

The first fact was the extraordinarily close alliance between BCCI and some of Britain's most powerful financial houses and aristocratic families.

The second fact was that BCCI was created, and then built up as a "world class" bank, primarily to manage the covert funds that poured into the secret war in Afghanistan. Hardly any mention was made of the fact that BCCI was in the middle of the Afghan effort—serving as the de facto central bank for a multibillion-dollar Golden Crescent illegal arms-for-drugs trade that mushroomed during 1979-90.

When the last of the Red Army troops pulled out of Kabul in February 1989, the massive British-devised and American-led covert action program in support of the Afghan mujahideen began to wind down. BCCI lost its raison d'être, and went the way of the 1960s-era Investors Overseas Service (IOS), and the Vietnam War-era Nugen Hand Bank of Australia: the money was siphoned out, a diversionary scandal was manufactured, and its doors were shut. During the decade of the Afghan War, BCCI's assets had grown from an initial capitalization in 1972 of $2.5 million, to $4 BILLION in 1980, to an astounding $23 BILLION at the point that the Bank of England moved to shut it down. The bulk of the $23 billion disappeared and to this day is still unaccounted for.

A BRITISH 'CROWN JEWEL'

During its meteoric rise in the 1980s, BCCI was anything but a "Third World bank." Nominally funded in 1972 by Pakistani banker Agha Hasan Abedi, it was initially capitalized by the British-run Sheik Zayed of Abu Dhabi, incorporated in Luxembourg, and conducted all of its real business in London. True, Abedi was closely allied with the Pakistani military, especially with Gen. Mohammed Zia ul-Haq, who took power in 1977; and BCCI was used as a laundromat for the billions of dollars a year generated by the hundreds of heroin laboratories in Pakistan's North West Frontier Province (NWFP) that processed Afghani opium and smuggled it onto the world market. Likewise, BCCI was the central bank for the British and American arms flows to the Afghan mujahideen.

BCCI became a "crown jewel" in the British offshore hot money system because of its ties to the City of London.

In 1976, BCCI established a Swiss base of operations by purchasing 85 percent of Banque de Commerce de Placements (BCP) of Geneva. The remaining 15 percent was retained by the original owner, Thesarus

Continental Securities Corp., a wholly owned subsidiary of Union Bank of Switzerland (UBS). Under BCCI control, BCP was managed by Alfred Hartmann, a former senior official of UBS. Hartmann eventually became chief financial officer for BCC Holding, and was the person most accountable for the "lost" $23 billion. [H: Please note that the major part of that $23 BILLION went to paying off your own congressmen such as the Doles, etc. And you thought the lobbyists were bad?] While serving as BCCI's "man in Switzerland", Hartmann was always operating on behalf of the Rothschild family. Hartmann was president of Rothschild Bank AG of Zurich, was vice-chairman of NY-Intermaritime Bank of Geneva (run by Mossad operative Bruce Rappaport), and was a member of the board of directors of the elite N.M. Rothschild and Sons in London.

BCCI's Swiss, London, and Caribbean branches were an essential part of the cash pipeline for the Bush-led "parallel government" of the 1980s. According to congressional testimony, Lt. Col. Oliver North and British arms dealer Leslie Aspin opened up four joint bank accounts in BCCI's Paris branch. And when the Colombian Medellin Cartel put $10 million into the Bush covert war chest, the funds were conduited through one of Bruce Rappaport's Swiss accounts. When Syrian guns- and dope-trafficker Mansur al-Kassar arranged to sell $42 million in arms to Iran on behalf of the Bush-North effort, he and Leslie Aspin funnelled the profits through BCCI's Cayman Island branch.

Former Senate investigator Jack Blum summed up the BCCI case in 1991 testimony before a congressional committee: "This bank was a product of the Afghan War and people very close to the mujahideen have said that many Pakistani military officials who were deeply involved in assisting and supporting the Afghan rebel movement were stealing our foreign assistance money and using BCCI to hide the money they stole; to market American weapons that were to be delivered that they stole; and to market and manage funds that came from the selling of heroin that was apparently engineered by one of the mujahideen groups."

[END OF QUOTING]

Perhaps you are being able to better connect the different parts to this incredible puzzle and see how the people, places and operations are ALL A PART OF THE SAME THING?

Worse, it always comes down to the SAME PLAYERS and oh, yes, it will include HENRY KISSINGER because Kissinger Associates, Eagleburger, etc., are all into this over their heads—while YOU drown. There was a whole banking operation set up just for these latter operatives. Even your evangelist Pat Robertson and the Mormons are all looped within the network. Frightening, isn't it?

Even I am offended when this kind of thing is allowed to go on and yet a citizen with only Social Security can literally have their meagre bank account TOTALLY CONFISCATED by the Devil's attorneys. What price a man's soul? Cheap I fear! What price the soul of a nation? Cheap! And what of a planet? Even cheaper!! When the very instructions for life are handed down by the same Satanic crew—you really don't have much of a "chance", do you? And how often do you take a given opportunity to hop onto the "other side" to aid and abet against the very ones you claim to serve? Do you better understand how NO ONE ELSE CAN DO IT FOR YOU?

As a for-instance, there are ones who want to get even with me and mine to the extent that they are literally committing felony crimes to serve George Green-Abbott just to allow these criminals to gain revenge for their perceived wrongs—OF GETTING CAUGHT AT THEIR CRIMES. AND THEN, WHO DO THEY COME TO TO "SAVE THEM"? THAT'S RIGHT—GOD! THEY KICK GOD IN THE TEETH AND THEN EXPECT GOD TO SERVE THEM.

God does NOT serve Satan, good friends, and you had best be checking out your "masters". Consequences will be the upcoming "name of the game" and some people are going to get their scales singed. Salu.

I will share with you the information presented from IGWIC (International Gulf War Illness Coalition), 4338 Sugar Pine Dr., Boca Raton, Florida state 33487; Voice: (407) 241-8407 / FAX-FOD: (407) 989-8261. It needs to be stated up front here, however, that our FAX copy is so poor as to have missing words so we will do the best we can at deciphering and hope that all interested parties do contact the Coalition directly. We will offer the writing "as is" so, Editors, please do not feel a need for corrections other than our own typographical errors. Our interest is not in grammar but in "life". There ARE things which help in the better health and return to good health of those suffering with this illness in point but we are not allowed to delve deeply into those things.

What we offer here and now is entitled:

[QUOTING:]

BOSNIA AND BEYOND

by Julianne Hamden

The latest foray into a foreign land is already producing disease, and reports of a mystery viral infection among the troops, including flu-like symptoms. Newspaper accounts blame the Belgians, or perhaps the rats, and the Department of Defense is looking at the Bosnian tick that carries Encephalitis. This seems unusual as it is the middle of winter and you would think the tick would be dormant. Hopefully, it will not be the excuse for the use of the military's experimental Encephalitis vaccine (we know of one poor guy who received it in 1990 and is still sick as a dog).

Another answer may be the Bosnian soldiers have been infected with the Gulf War Syndrome by either deploying there or working daily for over four years with sick soldiers who have it. The cold and stress on their bodies can activate it.

Let's look at what has happened before. Walter Reed Army Hospital was filled with troops from Somalia who had drug resistant malaria. Also many troops from the Gulf were there with drug resistant tuberculosis. [H: Does anyone think it strange that passengers from TWO different trains are right now being warned about the fact that a drug resistant tuberculin carrying passenger had passed through these trains and ALL passengers should go in and be tested and treated!? Say what? It is mandatory to allow all AIDS carriers to go freely to anywhere, including food-preparation jobs, and yet one possible tuberculin passenger can cause panic in the streets? Oh indeed, I certainly DO think it is urgent, important and as serious as you can get!]

Besides the obvious medical experiments, i.e., radiation tests, LSD tests, unauthorized vaccines, and other tests, such as the Break-a-Man test conducted on Special Forces Soldiers, there are other factors that can be found for the increase in illness among our Armed Forces.

Historically, there were certain wars and areas Kings would refuse to send their Armies. If there were known outbreaks of disease, and as it was realized these pestilences could be brought back and wreak havoc on the people, Kings would not wage a war there. Our political leaders, it would seem, and the United Nations, have forgotten these common-sense arguments and believe they can send in troops anywhere at any time, and not encourage the movement of disease back to their people. This is "magic" thinking.

When troops are called up for deployment, they are given vaccines supposedly to guard

Many reasons were given for the use of these drugs, but unfortunately no one talked about the fact that US troops were in danger because of US firms sending dangerous biological and chemical weapons to Iraq in the first place. This would be like giving your neighbor a gun and making him angry and then sending your unarmed son over to get it back. If these drugs were "for our own good", if they were so "safe", how come the powers that be won't even acknowledge what the soldiers WERE GIVEN so these vaccines could be studied by researchers for answers as to why the soldiers are sick... [not legible]... The authorities state that INFORMATION WAS COLLECTED on the use of these drugs—WHERE IS IT? AND WHEN WILL WE SEE IT?

them against some of the hazards of the occupied country. Vaccination in and of itself depresses the immune system and is usually given directly before deployment, increasing the risk of exposure initially. Troops deploying to a war-torn area usually are faced with inadequate housing measures, exposing them to the weather elements as well as having food supplies that are not adequate to help guard off disease. Any time someone moves into a new country or area of the world, they are at risk for catching diseases whereas the natives in that area have had lifetimes to become accustomed to the indigenous diseases and parasites that the visiting soldier has not. In the past few years soldiers have not only had to endure this happening once but many times by visiting such as Panama, Haiti, Somalia, Saudi Arabia, Korea, Europe, Africa, etc., etc. Sanitation in many of these areas is lacking and troops do not have adequate shower and latrine facilities. That we can deploy anyone anywhere is true; that they will not become ill and carry these diseases home, is false. Already scientists are warning about air travel moving disease around the globe; it is interesting that they are not concerned about soldiers doing it.

As if this were not enough of a strain on the immune systems of the troops, the Department of Defense further complicates the matter by using these troops as guinea pigs. In Vietnam, besides AGENT ORANGE, the military used special medical groups to test vaccines. Also, most Vietnam War veterans received ADENOVIRUS vaccinations which have been implicated in many diseases. In Somalia, most of the soldiers were provided with prophylactic medicines designed to prevent malaria. Obviously these were not

And God Said "NO"

I asked God to take away my pride, and God said "No".

He said it was not for Him to take away, but for me to give up,

I asked God to make my handicapped child whole, and God said "No".

He said her spirit is whole, her body is temporary.

I asked God to grant me patience, and God said "No".

He said that patience is a by-product of tribulation; it isn't granted—it is earned.

I asked God to give me happiness, and God said "No".

He said He gives me blessings; happiness is up to me.

I asked God to spare me pain, and God said "No".

He said "Suffering draws you apart from worldly cares and brings you closer to Me."

I asked God to make my spirit grow and God said "No".

He said I must grow on my own, but He will prune me so I will be fruitful.

I asked God if He loved me, and He said, "YES, NOW AND FOREVER."

I asked God to help me love others as much as He loves me, and God said, "Ah, finally you have the idea."

very successful. In the Gulf War it was a virtual candy store of unapproved vaccines, unapproved nerve treatment pills, and lots of DEET. What can the Bosnian soldier hope for? Before the Bosnian deployment the military had announced in the American Legion magazine that it was thinking of using ANTI-ALZHEIMER'S drugs on Air Force personnel to increase productivity, and in the Pentagon's paper PENTAGRAM they announced that they would soon begin field trials of another new, recombinant-DNA, live BRUCELOSIS vaccine. Will Bosnian troops receive these?

With the obvious birth defects and illness in Gulf War babies and children, it is unthinkable that the military should be using recombinant DNA, as it is an unproven therapy and Churches and Synagogues should demand that the military stay out of our DNA. GOD knew what He was doing; the military should leave the process of creating life to HIM and not create mutant or alternative life. This is EVIL. [H: It is also TOO LATE!]

WHAT THIS MEANS

In the aftermath of the Vietnam War, the veterans came home to a country that had abandoned them. The Vietnam Veterans were not only shunned by the public but also by traditional Veteran's groups such as the American Legion and the VFW. There were many problems with the Vietnam War that they wanted to correct: POW/MIA issues and the men left behind, the lack of resolve shown by political leaders, and the lack of support for both the mission and the soldiers who fought there, the Post Traumatic Stress Disorders suffered as a result of brutal combat conditions, the illnesses caused by Agent Orange and experimental drugs given to the troops. Many Vietnam veterans were told they deserved this because they had "lost" the war.

In the Persian Gulf War the military, and especially the Vietnam veterans, hoped to put the past behind them and use the hard lessons learned in Vietnam to insure a decisive victory in the Gulf. The fact that we were going to the Gulf because of a failed foreign policy of arming Saddam Hussein with chemical, biological, and other weapons of mass destruction was glossed over. The important thing was that we needed a "win" and we had to support the soldiers that were sent there and so it was "UNAMERICAN" to question this policy. The Gulf War soldiers were given support by the American people, enough force to insure victory, few caskets coming back to Andrews AFB, lots of Kodak moments on CNN for the people at home to cheer. A large effort was undertaken by the military to make sure that most of the POW/MIAs were accounted for. Most Americans are now wondering what is the Gulf War Syndrome fuss all about, because we did the right things for our soldiers.

The Vietnam veterans essentially won for all other soldiers many improvements. There was one area in which the Vietnam veterans did not win and that was AGENT ORANGE. The military lied about the numbers, had large studies that said dioxin, the chief ingredient in AGENT ORANGE, was not responsible for birth defects and illnesses seen in the veterans and their babies. They did wonderful studies that reported the veterans suffered only from PTSD [H: For you out of the loop this means, I believe, post traumatic stress disorder.], and with the kind of war it was, this argument made sense. The military controls all U.S. grants for medical research and they are able to fund plenty of big institutions and lots of doctors without scruples to "prove" that dioxin did not cause cancer and birth defects. So the veterans waited twenty-odd years and, eventually, after enough had died and enough time had elapsed, and when the guilty parties would not be prosecuted or have their medical license revoked, the chemical companies finally paid out small settlements to some of those afflicted.

The Pentagon watched because they know the American people will only allow so much. The American people would be outraged to see caskets piling up at Andrews AFB, or to hear about Americans being held hostage by anyone (just ask Jimmy Carter). [H: To get around that problem the caskets were NOT brought to Andrews in almost all cases.] Medical experimentation and medical deaths are, however, somehow acceptable. Can you prove that we used these agents/products, and if so, can you prove they caused cancers, deaths, birth defects? "What else were we supposed to do, we were trying to 'protect' the soldiers," would be the response. They have covered up enough Medical Murders in the past and most military medical doctors are willing to continue the cover-up by believing it is National Security or to advance their own careers.

The Persian Gulf War was a wonderful chance to try out all the new weapons, and also all of the new vaccines and other investigational medical products. When the Ralph Nader group took the DOD to court in December of 1990 to protest the use of these products, the military said it was for the "protection" of the soldiers against the chemical and biological weapons Saddam Hussein might use against them. If that was true then it could be argued that they made a mistake and that no intentional damage was done. [H: The question here might be "Why did the troops allow themselves to be used like this?" I refer you to yesterday's court-martial and conviction with dishonorable discharge of Mr. New who refused to take an oath to the United Nations Constitution or wear a blue beret and arm band signifying him as a soldier for the United Nations. The order was deemed appropriate and under the LAW! Wake up, America!] The fact that many troops in the Gulf did not receive these drugs, and that many troops stationed Stateside did get them, shows that these investigational drugs were not used only as a last ditch effort to "save" the soldiers. The troops not deployed who are now sick are not allowed on the Gulf War registries, as this would show that the use of the drugs were a test, and the soldiers were used as Guinea Pigs.

Well, that was in the Persian Gulf War and it is long ago, you might say. The military did respond to the lawsuit brought and in an interesting and very informative article published in Military Medicine Vol. 157, August 1992 by LTC [sorry, the names are not legible] addressed this very issue. It is recommended reading for all who hope to know where we are headed. Some excerpts: "Under FDA regulations an investigational product cannot be used without the informed consent of the patient or the patient's legal representative."... "Determinations were [sorry again, the copy is so poorly produced as to disallow reading but there is reference to two products listed of which one is "botulinum toxoid vaccine"]... These were not the only investigational products fielded in support of Operation Desert Storm. The other products were "only to be used in the traditional clinical setting". These other products were only to be given with "informed consent". "There was an intent, however, to collect information on the use of these products." Information was collected when possible of the same nature as is routinely collected on approved drugs and vaccines used in the traditional setting. The military went to the FDA and received a waiver for the use of these drugs on 21 December 1990 in response to the Ralph Nader suit. They continue: "The December 21, 1990 amendment to the FDA's informed consent regulation was challenged in Federal Court," but as of this date, has not been overturned. Therefore, it may be expected that if there is a need for use of investigational products in support of combat operations, this amendment can be readily invoked. However, to rely on this amendment to address future situations is inadequate. The amendment is useful and effective, but is not the preferred solution to the problem of providing medical defense against chemical and biological warfare agents. Because the

Let's go back to the Persian Gulf War, where vaccines were given to soldiers to protect them from chemical and biological weapons that Saddam Hussein might use. We have numerous reports of chemicals being used in the Gulf area; we have numerous reports from the UN that Scud warheads with chemical and biological agents existed in Iraq even after the war. We have numerous reports that recombinant DNA technology was being used in Iraq to develop "novel" or new biological warfare weapons that would defeat normal testing procedures to try and identify the agent/agents used. Where did Iraq get these chemical and biological warfare weapon components and technology? Right here in the good ol' US of A. There are also reports that our side launched chemical and biological warfare weapons, and that some of our soldiers handled the weapons. Why would we do that?

GALIA'S PREMIUM HORSETAIL TINCTURE (Horsetail is a herb)

Horsetail tincture is an excellent source of Silica which is said to change into calcium that is more absorbable in the cells of the body. We are a nation that is seriously deficient in calcium because the forms of calcium that we consume may not be getting to the cellular structures in the quantities needed. The Silica found in Horsetail is said to transform into a form of calcium that can be assimilated into the body cells for proper functioning. Tinctures are an easily digestible form for taking any herbal substance and this product is superior in its bioavailability for the body's use. There are some researchers who claim that high blood pressure is due to a lack of sufficient calcium, as well as the more common symptoms of brittle nails, thin and weak hair, nervousness, and osteoporosis, etc. The body must keep a balance of calcium in the bloodstream to keep organ systems functioning. Without it, we would be dead. This is why our hope for this product is to provide our customers with the most useable form of calcium available today.

Recommended dose: 10-15 drops in water or juice 1-2 times per day. Available in 2 oz. bottles. Pregnant or lactating women should consult a physician before using this product.

products involved, however extensively tested, are called "investigational" their use will cause doubts about their safety and efficacy. "A mechanism by which these products can attain an approved status within the FDA is needed. The FDA should establish a drug approval category for those products where clear demonstration of efficacy in humans cannot be accomplished. This would require approval of a drug product to be based on safety studies done in humans and safety and efficacy studies done in animals."

Change the name, change the package, change the procedures and made it EASIER, is what is indicated here. Many reasons were given for the use of these drugs, but unfortunately no one talked about the fact that US troops were in danger because of US firms sending dangerous biological and chemical weapons to Iraq in the first place. This would be like giving your neighbor a gun and making him angry and then sending your unarmed son over to get it back. [not legible]... The authorities state that INFORMATION WAS COLLECTED on the use of these drugs—WHERE IS IT? AND WHEN WILL WE SEE IT?

A Staff Report prepared for the Committee on Veterans Affairs, United States Senate, December 8, 1994 entitled "Is Military Research Hazardous to Veterans' Health? Lessons Spanning Half a Century", best outlines all of the experiments conducted on military personnel. Prisoners have more health rights than do the Military. It is illegal to use prisoners as medical research subjects, but not our Military. Some people argue that the country needs to do this research and that soldiers, especially in our all Volunteer Army, should understand that they are helping their country. Senator John D. Rockefeller in the above cited reports states: "During the last few years, the public has become aware of several examples where the US government researchers intentionally exposed Americans to potentially dangerous substances without their knowledge or consent." The report goes on to cite incidents including Cold War experiments, Operation Whitecoat, Mustard Gas and Lewisite tests and Investigational Drugs fielded in Operation Desert Storm. [H: Well, readers, a Rockefeller feller ought to know.]

Informed consent is glossed over, if given at all, in these "tests". There are many individuals who were involved in radiation experiments. The Military felt it was not obligated to inform anyone or follow up and treat long-term medical problems from such testing.

Let's go back to the Persian Gulf War, where vaccines were given to soldiers to protect them from chemical and biological weapons that Saddam Hussein might use. We have numerous reports of chemicals being used in the Gulf area; we have numerous reports from the UN that Scud warheads with chemical and biological agents existed in Iraq even after the war. Where did Iraq get these chemical and biological warfare weapon components and technology? Right here in the good ol' US of A. There are also reports that our side launched chemical and biological warfare weapons, and that some of our soldiers handled the weapons. Why would we do that? How would we know if the vaccines worked? Where else could we get the real intelligence information on our chemical and biological warfare capabilities? It certainly would answer the question as to why there is so much denial on the part of our Government about these things. As a high-ranking DIA official said in a prominent London newspaper: "You will never find out what is making them sick and WE WILL NEVER ADMIT IT". Now you say, "Okay, prove it." We have a lot of proof but we do not have the budget of the government and they will always find dirty scumbag flunkies to deny, disinform, and play games. We do know we bombed the Iraqi Biological, Chemical, and Nuclear facilities, and what goes up must come down.

Ask yourself a common sense question: Why would so many veterans come forward to taint their own victory? Why would they continue to go to DOD facilities and VA hospitals begging for care? The DOD has said it is because they want "attention", that they have PTSD, that they are "crazy", that they are looking for big money, etc., etc., etc. More lies and excuses! They have plenty of phony statistics and "expert" opinions for sale to back them up. [H: I suggest you consider the PROTOCOL which tells the Elite to

Today, every day, troops are lining up to receive their vaccinations in Basic Training Centers across the U.S. They BELIEVE what they are being given and they TRUST the fellow soldier who is shooting the air gun into their arms. In the Persian Gulf, the soldiers BELIEVED in their Commanders enough to UNMASK when told the Chemical alarms were false. They TRUSTED their Officers when they saw dead animals without flies and were told this was "normal" for Saudi Arabia, even though their Basic Skills booklets have told them this was a sign of a Biological contaminant. Few questioned the drugs or the vaccines; they BELIEVED they were safe. When they came home and began to get sick, they TRUSTED military doctors who had taken both a HIPPOCRATIC OATH and the Oath of Office as a Military Officer. They BELIEVED they would "heal" them. SOLDIERS DEPLOYING TO BOSNIA TRUST AND BELIEVE IN THEIR COUNTRY AND THE OFFICERS APPOINTED OVER THEM. supply as many witnesses and proof as are necessary until such time as control is gained and no such documents are necessary.]

Did we "win" the Persian Gulf War? We did bring home some troops to parade and there were not a lot of caskets lined up, but we now have sick Veterans and their sick families dying on our streets. They are the MIA of our war, and they are losing their health and their minds, and many eat out of garbage cans. This time the Pentagon has royally screwed up, for they are dealing with not just the chemicals, and all they can do to a body and a baby, but also used a contagious disease that is literally crippling whole families. It is a silent killer and it grows every day, while the liars continue their cover-up and hope that this disease will burn out. For all the big money and attention it is supposed to bring, many active-duty soldiers are terrified to come forward. They have seen what will happen to them, they will lose their jobs, and so they suffer and die in silence from horrible stomach and bowel cancers or they take their own lives. All of the military has been EXPOSED to this disease and readiness is suffering.

Yes, our soldiers in Bosnia have been exposed by living and working daily with the silent carriers who are afraid to come forward and we hope that there will be no chemical or biological weapons used in this way. [H: But there already have been many used.] The military still hasn't learned a thing about using soldiers as human guinea pigs and are actively pursuing new experimental vaccines and other treatments.

Why do we come forward? Our families are suffering and sick; wives, husbands, and children. Our babies, born since the conflict ended, are born with serious illnesses, cancers, and birth defects. This disease has been around for five years and is only getting worse. Our blood is given freely and the American people, those we are pledged to protect, are endangered by us, by our disease that they are now getting from us. It is hitting the old and the young especially hard. Our disease looks a lot like AIDS, but is a whole lot faster. We should probably close our eyes and believe that this isn't really happening and then we would be a whole lot more popular.

Today, every day, troops are lining up to receive their vaccinations in Basic Training Centers across the U.S. They BELIEVE what they are being given and they TRUST the fellow soldier who is shooting the air gun into their arms. In the Persian Gulf, the soldiers BELIEVED in their Commanders enough to UNMASK when told the Chemical alarms were false. They TRUSTED their Officers when they saw dead animals without flies and were told this was "normal" for Saudi Arabia, even though their Basic Skills booklets have told them this was a sign of a Biological contaminant. Few questioned the drugs or the vaccines; they BELIEVED they were safe. When they came home and began to get sick, they TRUSTED military doctors who had taken both a HIPPOCRATIC OATH and the Oath of Office as a Military Officer. They BELIEVED they would "heal" them. SOLDIERS DEPLOYING TO BOSNIA TRUST AND BELIEVE IN THEIR COUNTRY AND THE OFFICERS APPOINTED OVER THEM. THEY DO NOT BELIEVE THE U.S. MILITARY, OR THE U.S. CONGRESS, OR THE U.S. PRESIDENT COULD OR WOULD HURT THEM. They could believe the enemy might harm them but surely not their "own".

In both England and in U.S. Military Hospitals, sick Gulf War soldiers are in Arts and Crafts therapy, stoned out on Anti-Depressants as their bodies rot. Building popsicle-stick houses and talking to Psychiatrists who are there to "help" them. Going home to their sick spouses and children, if they still have some, is the outcome. These are the "lucky" ones who still have an income. Others were discharged, often illegally, are too sick to work, their spouses are also sick and cannot work. Those with deformed babies have to stay in the military service and risk heart attacks from physical training, in silence, because the military denies help to the babies if they get out of the military. It is interesting to note that the military doctors in charge of these insipid programs have gotten MEDALS and PROMOTIONS on the blood of their fellow soldiers.

"But they don't all look sick," you might well say. Most of the illnesses are infections, viruses, cancers, immune suppressive disorders. Just look at someone with IDS who may well look "okay" from the outside but is actually sick and dying on the inside and by then it is obviously too late for help. Many victims are losing their minds and are unable to string together a rational or complete thought. Some lash out like one Gulf Vet who shot two police officers. We are also hearing from Somalian veterans who are suffering with the same symptoms.

Is there a cover-up taking place? Consider these statements from DOD/VA/Other Government Agencies: There are 70,000 sick Gulf War soldiers, next week they say there are 20,000 sick Gulf War soldiers. Or they say that most of these soldiers have a treatable illness, and then there is "no treatment" for Persian Gulf Syndrome. Family members are not ill, they will say, or as in the Riegle report: "Family members are ill." They will tell us that no biological or chemical weapons use took place in the Gulf or, at the least, no widespread use of chemicals took place... etc., How interesting that these reports come mostly from the CIA chief John Deutch who says: "They are really sick," and next, "They are not sick." Then, "Persian Gulf War Syndrome is real..." and then "There is no such thing as Persian Gulf War Syndrome." They report that funds will be given to civilian researchers to test these people and then you hear that the testing will be from "our own extensive studies and in our facilities". They will report that "These babies appear to have a high incidence of birth defects (GAO)," followed by the usual retraction and denial and "there is no higher incidence of birth defects in Gulf War Babies." Are you now confused? Now try to understand how a sick and dying Vet can accept this!

This is the legacy of the Persian Gulf War Era veterans that we expose the use of Military weapons against our own soldiers and their families. We look at the soldiers in terrible living conditions, many already showing the first signs of illness, and we scream silently as the new cycle gets underway.

[END OF QUOTING]

So you have it, readers, just another chapter in depopulation and methods of bringing a world into One World Control. No military army can fight or defend from their own individual sick-beds or, as the case may be, from "their own death-beds".

Ex-Judge Jason Brent said it best in his diatribe in the Elite Mensa Society Journal: "We have to accept that the old, infirm, stupid (and useless eaters) be killed." Then, you have to realize that the military troops are the "enemy" of the "movement" into this Orwellian Society. These must be dispatched as well as the troublemakers associated with them in order to get rid of the troublesome problem-makers. Kill the welfare system and you effectively KILL THE SICK and the rest will fall into line and also become sick and, without treatment, WILL PERISH.

This is but the final act in the demise of civilization—for there ultimately comes the THING beyond which even the Elite cannot survive! So be it. Evil shall have its own rewards. Salu.

[QUOTING:]

GULF WAR SYNDROME

by Pastor Dave Barley

Dear friends, I have just read a very saddening article from the November 1995, LIFE magazine. Personally, I don't see how any normal individual could read this same article and not be heart-wrenchingly moved by this special story about a precious three-year-old little boy, Jayce, whose father (Sgt. Paul Hanson), was most likely exposed to some form of radioactive waste debris, and/or biological warfare. Sgt. Hanson's son, Jayce, is one of many VICTIMS who will never have the luxury of living or being like normal children. Jayce is the product of some form of chemical/biological warfare this father was exposed to during the operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. While President Clinton and former President Bush seem to decry drug abuse, and they ask for tougher laws against drugs and drug users, and they give billions of dollars for AIDS research and so forth, WHY IN GOD'S NAME DO THEY CARE LESS ABOUT AN ESTIMATED 45,000 AMERICAN SOLDIERS WHO HAVE DEVELOPED SEVERE SYMPTOMS/HEALTH PROBLEMS DUE TO SOMETHING THEY WERE EXPOSED TO DURING THE GULF WAR? [H: Right here, STOP! "Why in God's name...?" I continually am amazed that here this man is a "pastor" which indicates a connection to the "business" of religion and he asks, "Why in God's name...?" WHEN WILL YOU STOP BLAMING GOD FOR THAT WHICH YOU ALLOW? THE QUESTION IS: WHY IN GOD'S NAME DO YOU ALLOW THIS? AND THEN, WHY DO YOU THEN BLAME GOD FOR THE RESULTS? WHEN YOU STOP AND ANSWER THIS QUESTION YOU WILL BE WELL ON YOUR WAY TO MAKING YOUR WAY THROUGH THIS "HELL" IN WHICH YOU HAVE DEVELOPED ALL THE ACCOUTREMENTS OF "THAT" HELL!]

THE HYPOCRISY OF OUR NATIONAL LEADERS SICKENS ME! Well, I have a report by John Galt called BIO-WAR. This report was given to me by Louis Beam who himself is a victim of AGENT ORANGE—a very toxic substance used in bio/chemical warfare which he was exposed to on numerous occasions during his tour of duty in Vietnam. [H: And if this happens to YOURS, what do you think has happened to those in Vietnam and those, today, in the aftermath of what you did in the Gulf War area and the residuals of your little oil/power-testing war?] Please consider the following information and pray for the proper Divine guidance as to what you and your family can and should do to protect yourselves. [H: Well now, wouldn't that be nice EXCEPT we are run off the stage, shot at, laughed at, and generally put down as alien invaders. Divine guidance? You have to overcome the lies before you can accept "Divine" guidance.]

BIO-WAR

"...We have stumbled onto a massive illegal biological warfare program that has been going on for over 30 years. This program has resulted in numerous pathogens, and some that escaped into the general population, whether through illegal testing or design..."

This excerpt was taken from a confidential 1995 letter written by a renowned research scientist with a Ph.D. in microbiology, to his friend in Houston, Texas. In his letter, the doctor noted that both the Persian Gulf War Syndrome (GWS) that has afflicted approximately 50,000 to 100,000 soldiers and the AIDS virus are "essentially the same, because of an ill-designed and conceived USG [U.S. Government] biological weapons program".

The doctor implored his friend not to show the letter to anyone, but continued to describe his findings on mycoplasma found in GWS which he believed was "engineered" and did not evolve naturally. "We found the same illness and the same mycoplasma in TDC [Texas Department of Corrections] employees (and their immediate family members) in Huntsville that were taking care of prisoners who became ill from government experiments in a secret US Army vaccine program...BEFORE DESERT STORM," he wrote.

It is no secret that biological warfare technology dates back to the mid-1940s when Charles Willoughby, General Douglas MacArthur's chief of intelligence, seized the lab records of Japanese scientists and transferred the data to Fort Detrick near Frederick, Maryland. The scientists responsible for the research were granted immunity from prosecution in exchange for their cooperation. Why? Because only the Japanese had experimented on human specimens. They led the world in bacteriological warfare experiments conducted during World War II at a camp in northern Manchuria called "Unit 731".

Nearly thirty years later, Senator Edward Kennedy's Subcommittee on Health and Scientific Research subsequently traced the CIA's MK-Ultra biological research to Fort Detrick and shut down the program. The materials were farmed out to private corporations, such as WACKENHUT in Indio, California where private, government-sponsored bio-labs continued to flourish. Wackenhut in Indio was built on the sovereign Cabazon Indian Reservation where federal and state laws are exempt. The Indians profited from the huge financial bonanza of leasing their land to Wackenhut, while Wackenhut continued its search for the elusive biological weapon to make all other weaponry obsolete.

When strange occurrences, including deaths and murders, began to erupt on the Cabazon Reservation, the biological technology was transferred to bio-labs in Berkeley, California, as well as classified research institutes in Japan. The documentation on this bio-trail is available for scrutiny, but space constraints prohibit us from printing it all in this issue.

Suffice it to say that the Hantavirus found on the Indian reservations bordering the Four Corners area of Arizona, Utah, Colorado, and New Mexico may also have resulted from biological experiments conducted at Fort Wingate—an Army base located near the epicenter of the epidemic, which was once used as a storage depot for chemical weapons. [H: More than this, planes were seen spraying "something" in that area just as you would watch a plane spray a cabbage patch—only of course these were sophisticated jet planes which would not appear out of the ordinary in the area.]

So what does all this mean to ordinary Christians who haven't the time, let alone the wherewithal, to explore the possibility of a biological holocaust in the coming decade? [H: I suggest you not be "selective" to "Christians"—this is one thing YOU ARE DEFINITELY ALL IN TOGETHER—SAINT AND SINNER ALIKE!] It means hope. Few families have the conventional weaponry of defending against armed BATF agents, black helicopters, or U.N. troops, so why stockpile against impossible odds?

The human immune system is the only defense against a biological attack, no matter where it comes from, or from whom. It is a defense that CAN be developed and stockpiled and the time to begin is NOW."

[END OF QUOTING]

This ends all fine and good with one exception: WHAT ARE YOU TO DO TO FIX THIS IMMUNE SYSTEM? Oh my, my—words without action are worthless indeed.

I certainly do suggest you look carefully into New Gaia products to see if you can find something to help. YOU WILL NOT FIND THIS KIND OF HELP IN THE MEDICAL ARCHIVES OR STOCKPILES OF CHEMICAL DRUGS.

BEWARE: THE NEXT THING YOU WILL READ ABOUT IS GOING TO BE SO HAZARDOUS TO THE WELL-BEING OF CITIZENS AS TO BE DEADLY! THE ONLY TRUTH IS IN THE FIRST HALF OF THE FIRST SENTENCE.

[QUOTING:]

From USA Today: Wed., Jan 17, 1996.

POTENT DISEASES DEVELOP AND SPREAD AS THE WORLD SHRINKS

New bugs are emerging and old ones are making a comeback, thanks to a combination of forces from genetic evolution to global climate change, say doctors and scientists who attended an American Medical Association briefing Tuesday. [H: Ok, from this information on—WATCH IT FOR ERRORS, blame-shifting and outright cover-up—along with a good full batch of ignorance and lies.]

The advent of antibiotics and improvements in public health systems helped to lull the medical community into a false sense of complacency, says Dr. George D. Lundberg, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"We humans were getting pretty cocky about our domination over other creatures," Lundberg says. "Then came genital herpes ... that was a wake-up call for the AIDS epidemic."

Today's Journal, along with 36 medical journals in 21 countries this month, devotes much of its editorial space to the subject of global microbial threats. The purposes, Lundberg says, is to "stimulate research, call worldwide attention to the issues and influence public policy".

One goal is to alert doctors to the dangers of overuse of antibiotics, a factor in the evolution of drug-resistant bacteria, Lundberg says.

On a study in today's Journal looked at 419 adults admitted to hospitals in Columbus, Ohio, with strep pneumonia between January 1991 and April 1994. Dr. Joseph F. Plouffe of Ohio State University Medical Center and colleagues found the incidence of drug-resistant strains of the bacteria increased over the course of the study.

In 1991, only 4% of the pneumonia isolates wouldn't respond to penicillin, Plouffe says. By 1994, 14% of the strains were immune.

"Excessive antibiotic use appears to be the driving force behind the spread of drug-resistant strep pneumonia," the authors write.

Another Journal report suggests physicians need to be alert to the medical fallout that could result from global climate change.

This is "a relatively new issue in public health," says Dr. Jonathan A. Patz of the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health.

"Many infectious diseases are influenced by subtle shifts in climate," he says, citing heat-related deaths in cities and malnutrition from floods or crop failures in some regions.

"Malaria is likely to be the most sensitive infectious disease," he says. Its range is limited to tropical regions because the parasite that causes malaria doesn't survive in colder climates. But as global warming expands the region of warm weather, he says, it could bring malaria to "virgin populations that have no protective immunity".

Other diseases that could become more common as a result of global warming include dengue fever, African sleeping sickness, river blindness and St. Louis encephalitis. "Water-borne diseases such as cholera may also spread from rising sea-surface temperatures," he says. [H: If this isn't the most full can of garbage I have ever seen. I can't remember a more exemplary case of mis- or dis-information doused on you-the-people!]

However, he notes, "Climate is not the only factor." Good sanitation, access to health care and clean water play a major role. And, while a warmer climate may expand the range of tropical illnesses, it also could reduce the incidence of such diseases as Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, since the ticks that carry it might not survive warmer weather. [H: Yes, and while you are TREATED for that which you do not have—the depopulation status is statistically including YOU in the numbers—of dead. This is as stupid a compilation of drivel as I have seen recently in addition to the above garbage-pail suggestion.]

"My point is not that climate change necessarily has caused the re-emergence of these diseases," Patz says. "Rather in the context of anticipated changes in climate trends, our concern is that these diseases will spread into new areas or intensify in endemic regions."

Scientists have found evidence that climate change "is influenced by human activity and is expected to continue at an unprecedented rate over the next century", Patz says. [H: AMAZING!] "We need to consider prompt actions to avoid the impacts of such wide-spread change."

[END OF QUOTING]

Now people, this above named man is an AUTHORITY who teaches other doctors what and how to think and act. It should frighten you more to realize that this IS THE THINKING AND KNOWLEDGE OF YOUR CURRENT MEDICAL PROFESSIONALS—AND AT THE LEAST IS A COVER FOR THAT WHICH THEY DO NOT KNOW!

I am appalled at your gullibility but am more concerned that you turn yourself over to these nit-wits for your hope of resurrection.

I don't care what they give you, readers, don't just roll over and die for them. You can take your colloids along with whatever they give you and it WILL NOT HURT YOU but if the antibiotic doesn't work—the colloid WILL PROBABLY SAVE YOUR LIFE.

Will a lot of people perish? INCREDIBLE NUMBERS WILL DIE! Does it have to include you in the numbers? Only God knows. If you think by some "miracle" you will be spared, at the least, a bout with flu—forget it. You WILL get sick in all probability and sometimes that whacking assault will bring you down and take you out. Most of you have compromised your bodies to the point of inability to cope with the assaults—it is simply the way it is. I have angry people all the time, ALREADY, who complain because they get sick "anyway". What do you expect, readers?? We offer you some tools and you think you don't have to do ANYTHING. Forget it, you are going to have to use them and use them wisely. All I can offer is that it surely is less costly than the medicines you now get and certainly is less expensive than a funeral. GOD is not going to scatter miracles all over you—YOU ARE GOING TO HAVE TO DO YOUR PART. In addition, you HAVE to continually and regularly utilize that which is offered as you would vitamin supplements, for the body casts off what it doesn't need and leaves you "hungry" for more—regularly. A good immune system will carry you for a while but it has to be reinforced continually. We don't immunize from anything—we simply offer things that, used regularly, will assist you to ward off and overcome these new bugs and tribulations against your health and body, mind and soul.

MOREOVER, KNOW THAT I HAVE NO INTEREST IN "SAVING" ANYTHING—ESPECIALLY MY ENEMIES!!!

Your salvation and your life—are BOTH up to you! Is this a Christ-like attitude? YES! ANY PREACHER WHO EXPOUNDS OTHERWISE IS LYING TO YOU!

May you be given to use wisdom as you sort your new awakening processes. You cannot longer HIDE in ignorance for if you have read only this far—you are beginning to wake up to truth. Deny and curse us if you will—that is your privilege, responsibility and your choice. Thank you. Salu.

Most Crib Deaths Are Unnecessary Vaccination Deaths

PAST DUE ATTENTION

In our ongoing "barely get it done in time...", we are running the human strings out to their stretched limits as the enemy tries to take us out by "time limitations". As these WORMS begin to turn and twist in the whirlwind it seems some of the most important things go past without proper or full attention and I am caused to follow-up as needed in some individual cases. I like to respond to these people in a way that can cover the "mass questioning" so please bear with us as we catch up on a couple of things before we head for the court again today to respond to responses of respondings of the responders.

The first topic I am going to write about is Crib Death which is referred to in your medical lingo as "Oh well, it was SIDS!" We have a couple to which I just responded last Sunday on tape and they were to be sent the tape, etc. However, I could not take the time to go further into questions and answers for they were not present. Had they been present the first thing I would have asked was if this death followed an immunization within up to 90 days?

Since the question really dealt with whether or not they COULD clean themselves up enough to dare having another child, I responded and asked that some things be shared with them. The father of the infant in the personal case was a Gulf War Victim of being in the Gulf and the Gulf War Syndrome enters the equation and remains a major concern.

What needs addressing, however, is that you are killing your own children while you make such efforts for their protection. Each case must be considered on its own merits or demerits but I KNOW that ALL SIDS is basically caused by reaction to an anaphylactogen or anaphylactoid and therefore is an anaphylactic reaction to "something"—usually that is something introduced into the infant's body which will overwhelm the body when the child is prone in the sleep position and is not noticed "in time".

The best advice I can offer to expecting or new parents is to get a copy of a book VACCINATION; The Medical Assault on the Immune System by Viera Scheibner, Ph.D. The second thing I would suggest is to cut this out of your paper, mark it in RED and keep it in front of you.

We will write on that topic right now as reviewed and presented by Ken Anderson, 1496 Pritchard Rd., Evans, Washington 99126; 800-645-8088.

CRIB DEATH OR VACCINE DEATH?

Crib death or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS) kills over 10,500 babies a year and is the second largest cause of infant deaths in America (congenital malformations are first). [H: And please, let us always hold uppermost in our minds the crossover organisms which present when parents have some ill-begotten process taking place.]

We have been told that the cause is unknown. Is this the truth? In Australia during 1985, Viera Scheibner, Ph.D., a retired Principal Research Scientist with over 90 published scientific papers in refereed journals to her credit, met Leif

New Gaia Products Offer Help

GaiaCol

GaiaCol is a combination of Colloidal Silver and Trace Colloidal Gold. This combination of ingredients has produced a product that is so high frequency and potent that it could quite possibly be the solution to our ongoing fight against the new antibiotic-resistant diseases that we face today. Colloidal Silver was used extensively and very successfully against bacteria, virus, fungi and the like before the advent of the first antibiotic, penicillin. The uses of Colloidal Gold were also significantly used in the restoration of health as early as 1885 and was noted for its ability to calm and harmonize the emotional body. Once the chemical companies began manufacturing the myriad of antibiotics, silver and gold were no longer looked to for treatment. The antibiotics they were producing, however, produced no effect on the more resistant viruses, fungi and parasites. Now we face a new generation of bacteria that are completely resistant to any antibiotics merely due to antibiotic over-prescribing and resultant survival of the fittest bacteria.

Research has demonstrated that Colloidal Silver is nontoxic to humans and allows no presently known disease-causing organism to live in its proximity. With the addition of Trace Colloidal Gold the frequency of GaiaCol is remarkably enhanced to allow these newer, more powerful viruses and bacteria to be eliminated. GaiaCol is gentle enough to use topically on just about any skin, hair or mouth condition without fear of toxicity and is outstanding for burns.

For internal use during any type of infectious process, start with one teaspoon the first day and then 10-12 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue until the infection clears. Then maintain with 3-4 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue. Important: Due to the powerful nature of this product, friendly bacteria can be affected so it is advisable to replace the natural intestinal flora with some type of acidophilus/lactobacillus supplement daily or at least when symptoms are noted such as cramps, bloating, diarrhea/constipation and a general feeling of malaise.

GaiaCol is said to be safe for children and pets and can be taken with other medications without incident. This product is not addictive and does not build up a tolerance to it in the body. 2 oz. $10.00

GaiaGold

GaiaGold is a solution of 100% Colloidal Gold which is one of the oldest used substances for medicinal purposes and has no equal in affecting the physical body positively. Around 1885, colloidal gold was commonly used in the United States as the basis for the cure of alcoholism with additional uses including treatment of Arthritis, skin ulcers, burns and certain nerve damages. Colloidal gold does not have the same Germicidal/Antibiotic action of Colloidal Silver when topically applied, but it does have tremendous effect if taken internally for such as Syphilis and other diseases.

Colloidal Gold has been noted for its tremendous ability to balance and harmonize the emotional body, particularly in regards to unstable mental and emotional states such as "depression", "autism", "Alzheimer's", etc. Gold has further been found to aid in the healing of heart muscle and is highly beneficial in rejuvenating sluggish organs—especially the brain—as gold is the best electrical conductor yet recognized for nerve action. Another use for Gold is in cases of glandular and nervous incoordination because Colloidal Gold is said to rejuvenate the glands and stimulate the nerves which releases the pressure and allows the signals for function to reach through to the various organs and glands.

GaiaGold intake can benefit self-control in diet and quit-smoking programs because it helps to balance the brain's craving or need for such overindulgence or addiction. Taken in conjunction with GaiaCol, overall renewed vitality and longevity may be achieved. 2 oz. $20.00

Karlsson, a biomedical electronics engineer specializing in patient monitoring systems. Together they developed the Cotwatch, a breathing monitor used for babies thought to be at risk of crib death of SIDS. The findings that turned up surprised them:

"Without endeavoring to do so... [we found that] the babies breathing was affected in a certain characteristic manner over a long period of time (40-65 days) following DPT injections... We also learned from the parents of crib death infants that most commonly the child had died after a DPT injection," said Dr. Scheibner.

As she continued her research, the link between crib death and vaccination became painfully obvious, and undeniable. "There was a significant and clear clustering of these (crib) deaths around the time of vaccination." Yet when approaching pediatricians with her findings she was shocked at their reaction. "We realized that we had touched a very serious and contentious issue... The resistance we encountered in pursuing this research... became the best and most effective goal for us to continue. So I wish to thank those who would not speak out against the silent killer of babies," said Dr. Scheibner.

According to medical historian Harris Coulter, Ph.D., "There is no way that a pathologist can tell the difference between crib death and death from vaccination. I called attention to this fact at a vaccination committee meeting in Washington, D.C., where they had a panel of people from about 10 countries, and I asked the difference between sudden infant death syndrome and death from vaccination?"

"The Americans simply could not answer the question. They waffled and couldn't site any guidelines. But the European representatives were most honest and said, 'Indeed, there is no way in the world that we can tell the difference between them, and it is a very big problem for us.' It appears that M.D.s invented the term sudden infant death syndrome to explain away the 'coincidence' that babies die about the same time they receive vaccines."

Dr. Coulter estimates that about two thirds of the 10,000 cases of crib death are vaccine related, but he may be conservative. When childhood vaccination rates in Australia dropped by 50 percent, when they became non-mandatory (as it is becoming in many European countries), SIDS cases dropped by 50 percent! And, when Japan moved the vaccination age to 2 years old in 1975, crib death and infantile convulsions virtually disappeared. Japan then recorded the lowest incidence of infant mortality in the world. (American babies receive their first shot at two months.)

Dr. Coulter, in his book Vaccination, Social Violence and Criminality, studied the long-term effects of vaccination and has found them to be related to a single neurological disturbance caused by vaccination. He wrote, "Autism and SIDS appear to be generated in the same way—by an encephalitis most commonly caused by vaccination... The child who would have grown up autistic dies instead by 'sudden infant death syndrome.'" [H: Ok, readers, now RIGHT HERE is where gold colloid does its most wondrous work—in autism. In autism you have the inability of the nervous system in the brain to properly function and gold in a good colloidal form will not only counter toxins, it will often reconnect disconnected nerve passages. I am not advertising particularly but I AM telling you that it often WORKS! I do suggest silver with gold/frequency colloid along with it because, as you can guess from the simple nature of immunization, you still have ongoing off/on reactions to the release of toxins—for as long as you are immune from the injections.]

Dr. Coulter discussed the mechanism of crib death: "Vaccination affects, in particular, the top of the spine and the back of the skull through which the cranial nerves pass and has the effect of weakening the cranial nerves. Sudden infant death syndrome is probably caused by an effect of vaccination on the vagus nerve, which provides the neural impulse to the lungs which causes us to breathe. If the nerve is palsied by the vaccination, the impulse doesn't pass through and the baby simply stops breathing. Parents who have witnessed this in their child have told me, 'The child was lying there and all of a sudden I heard no breathing...' In these cases, the parents have rushed up, given the baby a shake and the baby starts breathing again. If the parent hadn't been there, the baby wouldn't have started breathing again."

[H: Now I don't want to get into "medical malpractice" problems but this is exactly what is wrong with your Superman, Reeve. His spinal injury is in that very location whereat he is paralyzed and does not breathe well on his own. It is, I consider, a total travesty of justice to let this man continue as is when there can be a reduction of nerve damage and reconnection (in his instance wherein the cord was not severed) made with the use of something as simple as a Dria-carrying solution and gold colloid along with a silver colloid to counter the toxins which are apparently present at the injury site. However, apparently even the ones who want him for motion picture work can't seem to get to him for that, as well. Do we become so aloof in your environment as to cut noses to spite faces? Yes, I suppose so.]

According to Coulter, "When the cranial nerves are affected, the result is weakness of the eyes, ears, voice, and respiratory system (i.e., asthma), the latter condition being responsible for the cases of sudden infant death following upon vaccination."

This observation is not limited to the above authors. For decades independent researchers in different countries have commented on the vaccination-crib death link. Further, the National Vaccine Compensation Office in Washington has already awarded approximately $500 million to families for vaccine-damaged children, about half to parents of children killed by the shots that were originally labeled "sudden infant death syndrome of unknown origin" on the death certificate (doctors are loathe to write "vaccine death"). There's about 4,000 more cases in the pipeline with total compensation in the several billions of dollars.)

How do these findings relate to the work of Abraham Towbin, M.D. and others that show a relationship between cervical spinal damage and crib death? Towbin dealt with gross trauma, while it appears that subtler chemical vaccine trauma creates meningeal irritation that subluxates the atlanto-occipital spine, affecting the vagus nerve. [H: Fit that one to Reeve as well, please.]

Dr. Scheibner, incidentally, did not stop with crib death. In a daunting display of determination she studied over 35,000 pages of medical papers dealing with vaccination and discovered that, in all that material there was no evidence of effectiveness and safety of vaccines. Her years of study culminated in her book: Vaccination, The Medical Assault on the Immune System, which led her to conclude: "Immunizations, including those practiced on babies, not only did not prevent any infectious disease, they caused more suffering, more deaths than any other human activity in the entire history of medical intervention. It will be decades before the mopping-up after the disasters caused by childhood vaccination will be completed. All vaccination should cease forthwith and all victims of the side-effects should be appropriately compensated."

[END OF QUOTING]

Why don't I "just write" on these topics and let it go at that? Because the army of know-it-alls come against my scribe and we end up in court after court after court according to the whims of Satan on any given day! We are NOT IN THE PRACTICE OF MEDICINE UNDER ANY COLOR OF LAW OR ANY OTHER PRODUCTION CAUSE OF ACTION. [Editor's note: please see important related story on p. 24.]

Notes About Colloids

TURNING BLUE

I am told that some medical entity called the New Gaia office the other day and complained about a patient who was turning blue—"obviously from their products". Pooh! The old methods of silver treatments would allow a person to turn blue if MISHANDLED. NO COLLOIDAL SILVER SOLUTION WILL EVEN BEGIN TO GIVE SUCH AN EFFECT. I would suggest that you be VERY careful about products you take in any instance but if you THINK you are getting something and find that you have blundered to save a couple of bucks—I have no statement further on the matter. Everyone in the immediate area here quadruples the intake of both silver, gold, and OxySol just to check out these things and the only side-effect is NO ILLNESS! Even the LOTION, which has a tendency to react with the skin cells, may well "tan" you but it will not turn you blue or black! Too much simple metallic silver can and will turn a person to a faint tinge of blue—as in "blue-blood" which indicated wealth in the Elite who could afford to eat from silver, drink from silver and used silver to preserve milk and foods. You will note that colloidal silver is GOLDEN in color and doesn't change that characteristic with use—i.e., the reason the lotion will react with skin cells and give off a beautiful "tanned and healthy" hue to the skin. Gold colloid is violet in color. OxySol is transparent as it is basically colloidal diamond and any "fallout" will be pure carbon—not metallic anything. Remember that activated charcoal is what is used in water filters, aquariums, etc. It is GOOD FOR YOU!

Yes indeed, silver nitrate solutions will turn you blue! So, be very careful what you believe when the medical profession can't find a reason for their own fumbles and recognize that every effort will be made from that arena to DISCOURAGE YOU FROM USING ANYTHING NATURAL WHICH CAN ACTUALLY OFFER HEALING PROPERTIES! IT IS LIKE USING CORPORATIONS WISELY AND PUTTING THE ACCOUNTANTS AND LAWYERS OUT OF THAT SEGMENT OF BUSINESS. GET HELP FOR SELF AND YOU PUT THE DOCTORS OUT OF THE BIG MONEY BUSINESS—FOR THERE IS A DIFFERENT KIND OF GOLD THEY WANT—IT IS CALLED "YOUR MONEY!"

CAN'T STRESS SERIOUSNESS OF NEW BACTERIA, ENOUGH!

You are going to have to WATCH the little side notations in your local papers to catch the "passing" announcements of the trouble you face. The orders handed down from the powers that be is that there shall be no PANIC over these new and deadly diseases. You will find that "old" statistics will be offered and then there will be a relative comparison but always allowing you to be lulled into your dream state by "no need to panic—a 'wet season' or a 'dry season'" can be blamed enough to put all you people to sleep—until someone in your family up and dies on you.

Example? In the local Bakersfield paper of yesterday, Sat., Jan. 27, on the "Local" page, at the bottom, with little fanfare, is printed an article:

[QUOTING:]

DEADLY BACTERIA STRIKES 6TH VICTIM

Latest case reflects four-fold jump.

By Susan Towers, Californian staff writer. [H: Just remember the pneumonic plague of last year in Kern County, Calif. and this won't seem so "passing" in interest.]

An unidentified man was taken to a Bakersfield hospital Friday suffering from the deadly meningococcal bacteria, the county Department of Health Services reported.

The man, in his late 20s, is the sixth Kern County resident to be hit this month by the bacteria, about four times the normal rate. Three of the six people died quickly after the disease infected their blood and body organs, said Boyce Dulan, county director of disease control. Five of the six people live in Bakersfield.

The disease is commonly known as meningococcal meningitis when it affects the thin layers of tissue covering the brain. Normally only about 1-1/2 cases a month of meningococcal disease are seen in the county, Dulan said.

The bacteria is spread by direct contact and breathing in droplets from the discharges of the nose or throat from infected people, he said.

[H: Now, Editors, the next is EXACTLY as printed and will point out the total lack of recognition of subject integrity or any manner of good editorial skills of proof-readers for the next is so blatantly a misprint of information as to be totally shocking when you are talking about the possibility of an epidemic of any kind. In this case look for the use of "bacteria he was taking...".

One of the deaths was that of 13-month-old Bakersfield resident Alexander Odom, who died suddenly Jan. 5 within a few hours after he had been taken to the doctor with a rash and sniffles. He was being treated for an ear infection.

"He was so healthy," Odom's aunt Loretta Ward said, "He broke out with a rash and the doctor said it was a reaction to the bacteria he was taking. He had a little fever, that's all. His mother took him home and he just fell over and died." [H: I don't know how any of you are going to survive with this kind of information flow!]

Dulan said the deadly bacteria often hits suddenly, as in the baby's case, giving the sufferer little opportunity to overcome the disease. Or, patients will display flu-like symptoms such as vomiting, fever and rashes and will have time to receive medical attention.

BACTERIA ATTACKS BLOOD AND ORGANS

"The bacteria is in the air and many people carry it without coming down with the disease," Dulan said.

Since 1900 there have been between seven and 14 cases a year of diseases that are caused by the meningococcal bacteria locally, Dulan said. [H: This is total garbage for if you don't know you have it—doesn't mean it isn't there.]

To avoid coming down with disease Dulan urged county residents to wash their hands often and avoid coming in contact with people who are coughing and sneezing. [H: Now tell me how you can live in society and not come into contact with people coughing and sneezing when the very disease causes people to cough and sneeze? As to washing hands—YES IN-DEED, and rinse with antiseptic such as OxySol or the lotion, spread on GaiaCol and let dry, etc., and spray the mouth regularly and often with same as well as spray it up the air passages.

People who have had direct contact with those suffering from the disease should be given the medication rifampin, he said. [H: And just HOW do you know? Who? How? I jest not—THIS IS BEYOND "IMPORTANT". IT IS TOO LATE WHEN THIS OVERWHELMS THE ELDERLY OR BABES, PREGNANT MOTHERS, ETC. AND, YOU ARE UNDESIRABLE AS IN-PATIENTS SO BE PREPARED TO DIE AT HOME IF THE HOSPITAL STAFF CAN ARRANGE IT!]

CORRECTIONS TO INFORMATION

I am probably responsible for incorrect information for receiving a book IMMUNIZATION THEORY VS. REALITY: Exposé on Vaccinations by Neil Z. Miller. I

DO recommend very highly this book and I guess we must have suggested getting the book from The National Vaccine Information Center. However, the better idea is to go to NEW ATLANTIAN PRESS (who publishes the book). That is: New Atlantean Press, PO Box 9638, Santa Fe, NM 87504, 1-800-698-9827.

Mr. Nathan Wright of New Atlantean Press has brought this to our attention but, better yet, has presented us with excerpts taken from that book which we now have permission to print. This Press has a lot of extremely good material and is happy to send you a copy of their catalog—FREE.

I would share a bit of the excerpts offered:

[QUOTING, EXCERPTS FROM:]

IMMUNIZATION THEORY VS. REALITY

GENOCIDE

Researchers are considering at least two plausible lines of inquiry—high probability links—between vaccines and AIDS. The first investigates whether polio vaccines injected into millions of people during the 1950s and 1960s were contaminated with monkey viruses virtually indistinguishable from the AIDS virus. The second considers whether smallpox vaccines were laced with a hybrid virus created in a U.S. laboratory and "tested" on Central Africans during the 1970s.

AIDS: During the 1950s and 1960s millions of people were infected with polio vaccines that were contaminated with the SV-40 virus undetected in the Simian monkey organs used to prepare the vaccines. Esteemed polio researcher, Dr. Hilary Koprowski, has warned congressmen that "an almost infinite number of monkey viruses" can contaminate polio vaccines. In fact, the genetic sequences of some monkey viruses are as similar to some strains of the AIDS virus as some strains of the AIDS virus are to each other. But tests to determine the existence of some of these viruses were not developed until the mid-1980s. This makes it extremely likely that these viruses contaminated vaccines in the 1960s, 1970s, and early 1980s, before virus detection techniques were refined. At least one health official has voiced the obvious regarding our knowledge of animal viruses and the status of vaccines today: "You can't test for something if you don't know it's there."

Note: On February 12, 1994, a civil tort claim was filed in federal court on behalf of a 12-year-old girl with no risk factors for AIDS yet who tested HIV-positive "on or about March 1992, and who presently suffers from full-blown AIDS." In addition, the suit alleges that the young girl "was infected with the Human Immunodeficiency Virus by way of an FDA-approved live oral poliovirus vaccine she received on April 9, 1982; June 25, 1982; and August 20, 1982. The live oral poliovirus vaccine was produced, tested, and approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration pursuant to measures inconsistent with accepted standards of medical practice." The lawsuit also asserts that "the product was FDA-approved despite the known presence of contaminants, including retroviruses such as HIV."

This landmark suit makes the following charges as well:
"As a direct and proximate result of [the plaintiff's] use and consumption of contaminated live oral polio vaccine manufactured by the defendant, [the plaintiff] was infected with the retrovirus which causes AIDS and has contracted AIDS."

"At all times material hereto, [the defendant] knew or should have known:

"...that its live oral polio vaccine was subject to contamination by infectious agents, particularly those viral in nature, including monkey viruses and retroviruses.

"...that the manufacturing procedure used to produce [the polio vaccine] did not prevent contamination with foreign viruses. In fact, [the defendant] allowed these viral contaminants to remain in its product because [the defendant] believed these viral contaminants could not be killed without also killing the polio virus and ruining the vaccine.

"...that the expected contaminating viruses in its live oral polio vaccine were monkey viruses from the monkey kidneys used to grow the special strains of polio virus that constituted the vaccine.

"...that the product would be consumed by infants whose immune systems were immature and less capable of resisting foreign viruses.

"...That the use of its live oral polio vaccine had the potential to infect many millions of infants around the world with multiple unknown viruses sufficient to start a human epidemic of an animal disease."

CHEMICAL AND BIOLOGICAL WARFARE

Several researchers believe that AIDS began as a biological warfare experiment conducted by the U.S. government. In this scenario, animal viruses were synthetically altered and intentionally added to the smallpox vaccine. This vaccine was then tested on millions of unsuspecting Central Africans during the 1970s. Although this sequence of events is disturbing to consider, the circumstantial evidence cannot be overlooked.

On June 9, 1969, Dr. Donald M. MacArthur, Deputy Director of Defense Research and Engineering in the Office of the Secretary of Defense, testified before Congress on U.S. involvement regarding chemical and biological warfare. Excerpts from that testimony are included below:

Monday, June 9, 1969

Mr. Mahon: This Subcommittee and the Congress has, over a period of years, supported the appropriation of funds for chemical and biological warfare. I am not sure what portion of your testimony can appropriately be put in the record. We would not want to have in the record anything that would be damaging to the security of the United States, but otherwise we feel that the Congress and the American public are entitled to know all the basic facts.

Mr. Sikes: Tell us something about the biological weapons, both lethal and incapacitants. Tell us what we are doing and what the Russians are doing.

Dr. MacArthur: I am sure all of you know biologicals are microorganisms. We have had a policy that the biological agents that we would try to develop would be noncontagious; that is, that it could not be passed on directly from individual to individual.

Mr. Flood: Would they be effective if not contagious?

Dr. MacArthur: They could be infectious from the standpoint that they would be used as a primary aerosol and infect people inhaling it. After that they could be carried from me to you, say by an insect vector—a mosquito, for example.

Spelt

New Gaia Presents Bread Mixes, Flour & Kernels

Spelt is the most ancient and very best grain. Spelta is a grain of its own unique being. It is the best fiber resource and has large amounts of B-17 (anti-carcinoma). The grain berry grows an exceptionally thick husk that protects it from pollutants and insects. It is stored with its husks intact, so it remains fresher. Thus, unlike other grains, it is not normally treated with pesticides or other chemicals. The strong, protective husk may also be a metaphorical signature of this grain's capacity to strengthen immunity. Spelt contains special carbohydrates (Mucopolysaccharides) which are an important factor in blood clotting and stimulating the body's immune system.

New Gaia offers Bread Mixes that use pure Spelt flour instead of wheat. The taste is uniquely nutty and enjoyable for the whole family. Also offered are combination Bread Mixes with both Spelt flour and whole wheat flour. Both are perfect for a 2 lb. loaf of bread which can be utilized in the Hitachi Bread Machine or others of its equal. The mixes are easy to use with only the simple addition of water, butter & sweetener. The packages come in 2 lb. sizes only.

Also available are whole spelt flour packages for your baking and homemade bread needs that come in 2 lb., 4 lb. and 8 lb. sizes.

You may also order the whole spelt kernels that can be milled at home into flour. These come in 4 lb. and 10 lb. bags. [See Next-to-Last Page for ordering information or call 1-800-639-4242 (1-800-New-Gaia)]

EXOTIC TURKEY STIR-FRY

- 2 Tbsp cold-pressed sunflower oil
- 1-2 chopped onions
- 1 pound turkey or chicken breast, cut into small pieces
- 1/2 chopped green pepper
- 1 small can pineapple chunks or 1 cup fresh pineapple chunks
- 1-2 cloves of garlic
- 1 1/2 Tsp galangal (ginger root)
- 1 Tbsp soy sauce
- 1/2 Tsp black pepper
- 2 Tbsp spelt flour (or corn starch)
- 1 cup dry white wine
- good well water as desired

In a heavy skillet, saute the onions 2 minutes, then add turkey and fry until white. Add green pepper, pineapple and pressed garlic, stirring constantly. Add spices, soy sauce and wine. Mix flour with enough cold water to make it very smooth, then blend into mixture. Bring to a slow boil, stirring always. Gradually add enough water for desired consistency. Variation: Add 1/2 cup almond slivers or sunflower seeds before serving. Serve over cooked spelt rice or spelt noodles.

This recipe is from a CONTACT reader...please send recipes to NewGaia for possible future publication. Thank you.

Mr. Flood: Could they be effective and contagious?

Dr. MacArthur: No. A contagious disease would not be effective as a biological warfare agent, although it might have devastating effects. It lacks the essential element of control which I alluded to earlier since there would be no way to predict or control the course of the epidemic that might result.

Mr. Sikes: Tell us the story of our progress and our capability.

Dr. MacArthur: I want to reemphasize that our policy has been not to develop any contagious agents so that we could control the effects so that they would not "boomerang" on our own people if ever we were forced to use them. Typical examples of diseases caused by agents we have worked on are tularemia, Rocky Mountain spotted fever, "Q" fever, Venezuelan equine encephalitis... pm O" [H: Now try adding to that a cute little thing like meningococcal bacteriophages.]

These agents are different from the chemicals in that they are naturally occurring diseases.

Mr. Flood: Break out for the record which are lethal and which are incapacitants. (The information follows.)

The following potential biological agents are among those that have been studied for offensive and defensive purposes:

Incapacitating:

Rickettsia causing Q-fever
Rift Valley fever virus
Chikungunya disease virus
Venezuelan equine encephalitis virus

Lethal:

Yellow fever virus
Rabbit fever virus
Anthrax bacteria
Psittacosis
Rickettsia of Rocky Mountain spotted fever
Plague

[H: Anybody begin to see the connections with such as the new "mystery diseases" which resemble old diseases but are not?]

Dr. MacArthur: Talking about potential offensive agents, I will first restate the constraints I mentioned earlier that we have put on ourselves as a matter of policy to prevent exactly what people have been saying—that there will be a worldwide scourge, or a black death type disease that will envelop the world or major geographical areas if some of these materials were to accidentally escape. That could not possibly happen with the biological agents that we have. That is a constraint that we have put on ourselves.

However, to keep the record straight, we have done a small amount of research on a few agents that do not satisfy this constraint.

[END OF QUOTING]

Dharma, because of the time constraints let us leave this and pick it up right here when we again write. Thank you.

IMMUNIZATION THEORY VS. REALITY

by Neil Z. Miller

[QUOTING, PART 2, EXCERPTS FROM:]

GENOCIDE

SYNTHETIC BIOLOGICAL AGENTS

Dr. MacArthur: There are two things about the biological agent field I would like to mention. One is the possibility of technological surprise. Molecular biology is a field that is advancing very rapidly, and eminent biologists believe that within a period of 5 to 10 years it would be possible to produce a synthetic biological agent, an agent that does not naturally exist and for which no natural immunity could have been acquired.

Mr. Sikes: Would you provide for our records information on what would be required, what the advantages of such a program would be, the time and the cost involved?

Dr. MacArthur: There are two things about the biological agent field I would like to mention. One is the possibility of technological surprise. Molecular biology is a field that is advancing very rapidly, and eminent biologists believe that within a period of 5 to 10 years it would be possible to produce a synthetic biological agent, an agent that does not naturally exist and for which no natural immunity could have been acquired.

Dr. MacArthur: We will be very happy to. (The information follows.)

The dramatic progress being made in the field of molecular biology led us to investigate the relevance of this field of science to biological warfare. A small group of experts considered this matter and provided the following observations:

1. All biological agents up to the present time are representatives of naturally occurring disease, and are thus known by scientists throughout the world. They are easily available to qualified scientists for research, either for offensive or defensive purposes.

2. Within the next 5 to 10 years, it would probably be possible to make a new infective microorganism [AIDS?] which could differ in certain important aspects from any known disease-causing organisms. Most important of these is that it might be refractory to the immunological and therapeutic processes upon which we depend to maintain our relative freedom from infectious disease.

3. A research program to explore the feasibility of this could be completed in approximately 5 years at a total cost of $10 million.

4. It is a highly controversial issue, and there are many who believe such research should not be undertaken lest it lead to yet another method of massive killing of large populations.

[End of Excerpt]

WHO: Friend or Foe? Shortly thereafter, in 1972, the World Health Organization (WHO) published a provocative article on the detrimental effects of viruses on the immune system. The title of the article, "Virus-associated immunopathology: animal models and implications for human disease", indicates that a new era in the development of synthetic biological agents may have begun. In that study the following observations are made:

(1) "The properties of viruses are seemingly ideal for producing immunopathological damage," and

(2) "Virus-induced immunodepression might conceivably be highly instrumental in prolonging certain virus infections."

The following recommendations were made as well:

(1) "A systematic evaluation of the effects of viruses on immune function should be undertaken."

(2) "An attempt should be made to ascertain whether [or not] viruses can in fact exert selective effects on immune function."

(3) "The possibility should also be looked into that the immune response to the virus may itself be impaired."

In a controversial article published by Health Freedom News, William Campbell Douglass, MD, claims that this virus—the AIDS virus—was deliberately manufactured by the World Health Organization in collaboration with the National Cancer Institute. He describes Dr. Strecker's research into how these organizations combined two deadly retroviruses—bovine leukemia virus (BLV) and sheep visna virus—to create the AIDS virus. (Some retro-viruses may take up to 40 years to manifest.) Dr. Douglass asserts that during official proceedings in 1972, WHO suggested that a useful way to study the effects of the new virus would be to put it into a vaccination program and observe the results. He and Dr. Strecker claim WHO used the smallpox vaccine for this study and chose Central Africa as a testing ground.

According to Dr. Robert Gallo, the chief AIDS researcher at the National Cancer Institute, the use of live vaccines such as that used for smallpox can "activate" a dormant infection such as HIV. In fact, the greatest spread of HIV infection coincides with the most intense and recent smallpox vaccination campaigns. Information on the seven Central African countries most infected with AIDS—Zaire, Zambia, Tanzania, Uganda, Malawi, Ruanda, and Burundi—precisely matches WHO figures indicating the seven countries whose people were most thoroughly vaccinated. Brazil, the only South American country included in the smallpox campaign, has the greatest incidence of AIDS on that continent.

NOTE: Shortly after the link between smallpox vaccines and AIDS was publicly revealed, WHO scientists indicated their desire to abolish the world's last remaining vials of smallpox. Although they claim smallpox was eradicated and we can no longer risk an accidental reinfection, others question whether or not valuable evidence is being destroyed. [H: Let it be remembered that the smallpox crossbreed bacteriovirus as you once knew it has long ago phased out and into a more highly sophisticated retro-virus which can more easily be introduced within an immunization campaign. Smallpox has not been eradicated—only replaced by something far more sinister and WITHOUT KNOWN TREATMENT! The argument of destroying the stored "vials of smallpox" as spoken of here are, RIGHT NOW AS WE WRITE, again under debate. The U.S. has some BUT so do the Russians have some—so, again, the standoff. The REAL STUFF is walking around on the hoof IN RESEARCH animals.]

GULF WAR EXPERIMENTATION

Thousands of United States military personnel who served in the Persian Gulf War are now seriously incapacitated from unknown causes. For example, after one veteran returned from his stint of duty as an Army platoon leader in the Persian Gulf, his health began to deteriorate. "The trouble started with spots on his legs, which soon spread to other parts of his body. Then, his eyes swelled shut and his lips bloated till the skin split. When his skin cleared up, his joints ached."

After returning from the Persian Gulf War, another veteran "developed [flu-like] symptoms, with fever, aching joints, and swollen lymph nodes. During the next three years his health progressively deteriorated. He became unsteady on his feet and increasingly tired. He suffered frequent headaches and often became disoriented, losing his way home from familiar locations. Today, he uses a wheelchair to get around, can't work, drive, open a soft drink can, or stay awake long enough to read a book."

A Naval reservist developed non-Hodgkin's lymphoma cancer after returning from a six-month tour of duty in the Persian Gulf. He has since documented 86 lymphomas among fellow soldiers.

A few months later the true extent of Gulf War damage was revealed. Little by little the facts seeped into public view. Nearly 43,000 Gulf War veterans are stricken with debilitating illnesses: bleeding rashes, gums, and sinuses; muscle aches, swollen joints, chronic fatigue, diarrhea, hair loss, severe headaches, and memory loss. Also, over time the symptoms tend to become more acute. Many vets are now confined to wheelchairs and hospital beds.

"This is an epidemic. This is absolutely comparable to AIDS"

In addition, the syndrome appears to be contagious. Many veterans, their spouses, and scientists believe it can be passed through sex or sweat, or through the air. Apparently, veterans' wives and their unborn babies are being damaged as well. According to Michigan Senator Donald Riegel, Jr., of the 600 vets his office surveyed, 77 percent say their spouses have the symptoms, 65 percent say their post-war babies are damaged, and 25 percent report that their children born before the war have new debilitating illnesses as well. According to one medical researcher, "This is an epidemic. This is absolutely comparable to AIDS."

Many Gulf War couples also report that they are no longer able to make love. Intercourse causes the women to experience immediate abdominal cramping and intense burning sensations, as though their genitals were being torched. For many, their labias crack and bleed. Also, the semen burns both husband and wife within minutes of contact with skin. It causes open sores—blisters that bleed.

Many Gulf War families are being advised against pregnancy. Babies are being born with extra toes and fingers, undeveloped lungs, and missing body parts. One child was born with an oversized umbilical cord that wrapped around his body six times, nearly strangling him. This child appears to be developmentally delayed and exhibits other debilitating symptoms similar to his father's. Another child was born without a thyroid gland. She also has dozens of tumors all over her body and inside her mouth. Still another child has intermittent vaginal bleeding.

One Gulf War spouse had two miscarriages in the year after her husband's return. She complains of headaches, rashes, and frequent vaginal infections. In a third pregnancy, a son was delivered two months premature. The child required three months of intensive care and numerous painful operations. He now has vision and hearing problems, a lung ailment, and cerebral palsy. This woman has subsequently miscarried again.

Another Gulf War spouse has lumps, rashes, and cysts throughout her body. Her skull is thinning, threatening to destroy her brain. She has splitting headaches and painful genital infections. Their son is sick as well.

The Cause: Although speculation on the roots of this dilemma ranged from pesticides and burning oil wells to undetected Iraqi nerve gases, it appears that American troops are the only ones suffering. The ailment is largely unheard of in British, Canadian, Saudi, and Iraqi soldiers. Even though the media refrained from implicating vaccines as a potential cause, it awoke the country to a national dilemma: how to support our vets who unquestionably served their country.

On May 6, 1994—10 full days before the first stories began to circulate—the truth was told. In an opening statement at a hearing before the Senate Committee on Veteran's Affairs, Senator John D. Rockefeller IV shared with members of the committee the results of his extensive investigation into the roots of the problem. Here are a few excerpts from that meeting:

HEARING

IS MILITARY RESEARCH HAZARDOUS TO
VETERANS' HEALTH?
LESSONS FROM THE COLD WAR, THE PER-SIAN GULF, AND TODAY

"A few months ago, Americans were shocked to learn that our government had intentionally exposed thousands of U.S. citizens to radiation without their knowledge or consent. Although many of us expressed horror at the apparently unethical behavior of our government, we were all relieved to hear that such experiments had been stopped long ago.

"We'd like to think that these kinds of abuses are a thing of the past, but the legacy continues. During the Persian Gulf War, hundreds of thousands of soldiers were given experimental vaccines and drugs, and today we will hear evidence that these medical products could be causing many of the 'mysterious illnesses' those veterans are now experiencing.

"Today's hearing will examine the results of an intensive 6-month investigation conducted by Committee staff. The investigation focuses on Persian Gulf War veterans, but extends from World War II-era veterans to the present.

"The results of our investigation showed a reckless disregard that shocked me, and I think they will shock all Americans. The use of investigational drugs in the Persian Gulf is especially troublesome. The Pentagon... threw caution to the winds, ignoring all warnings of potential harm, and gave these drugs to hundreds of thousands of soldiers with virtually no warnings and no safeguards.

"If that wasn't bad enough, they administered these drugs and vaccines in such a way that there is a very good chance they wouldn't have even worked for the intended purpose. They would not have protected most soldiers from chemical or biological warfare.

"These are strong statements and I don't make them lightly.

"The situation is unfair from start to finish. It begins with soldiers who are asked to participate in research, to take experimental drugs, but are not told what the risks are before, during, or after.

"Then information about the exposures is not included in soldiers' medical records, putting them at even greater risk. And, when these soldiers leave the service and become veterans, the VA lacks information about the exposures, and about any resulting illnesses, making it more difficult to help them.

"Finally, when these veterans become ill, they are unable to get the medical records and other information they need in order to prove that their illnesses are related to military service.

"This situation is unacceptable."

Senator Rockefeller credited his information to an extensive investigation conducted by Committee staff. Here are excerpts from their discoveries:

PRELIMINARY STAFF

IS MILITARY RESEARCH HAZARDOUS TO
VETERANS' HEALTH?
LESSONS FROM THE PERSIAN GULF

INTRODUCTION

"For more than 50 years, hundreds of thousands of military personnel have been involved in human experimentation and other intentional exposures conducted by the Department of Defense (DoD), often without soldiers' knowledge or consent. Our May 6, 1994, hearing examines the extent to which these exposures endangered individuals who are now veterans, and explores the implications for soldiers and veterans today...

"U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf War were intentionally exposed to investigational drugs and vaccines... In still other cases, soldiers were exposed to biological agents or other dangerous substances that DoD was studying; the goal was to study the substances, not their effect on humans...

"Some of the studies that have been conducted had more questionable motives. For example, DoD now admits they conducted 'Man Break' tests, exposing soldiers to chemical weapons in order to determine how much was necessary to 'break a man'. Similarly, DoD admits that they subjected hundreds/thousands of soldiers to hallucinogens without their knowledge or consent, in an effort to determine how incapacitating those substances could be. Most Americans would agree that the use of soldiers as guinea pigs in experiments that were designed to harm them... is not ethical.

"These experiences put hundreds of thousands of U.S. troops at risk, and may have caused lasting harm to many individuals.

"In this report, we will examine how decisions made by DoD regarding the use of investigational drugs and vaccines in the Persian Gulf War were based on inadequate information and in some cases by ignoring evidence that soldiers would be harmed unnecessarily. We will also discuss how the DoD's failure to provide medical treatment or information to soldiers was unjustifiable, unethical, sometimes illegal, and caused unnecessary suffering.

"In addition, information about the use of these investigational drugs and vaccines, and adverse reactions that resulted, usually were not included in soldiers' medical records. As a result, veterans who became ill following the use of these medical products are often unable to prove that their illness or disability was related to their military service.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

"A few months ago, Americans were shocked to learn that federal agencies intentionally exposed thousands of U.S. citizens to radiation without their knowledge or consent. Although many Americans expressed horror at the apparently unethical behavior of the federal government, many believed such experiments occurred in a bygone era with less stringent ethical standards.

"Post-Holocaust Standards of Research. The Nuremberg Code is a 10-point declaration governing human experimentation which was developed in response to the inhumane experiments conducted by Nazi scientists and physicians. The Code states that voluntary and informed consent is absolutely essential at all times, wartime included. Additionally, current law prevents funds appropriated to the Department of Defense from being used for research involving a human being as an experimental subject unless the informed consent of the subject is obtained in advance...

"The Nuremberg Code should have guided the experiments whereby LSD and other hallucinogens were given to military servicemen in the 1950s without their knowledge or consent; however, those studies were kept secret until the mid-1970s. Similarly, the Nuremberg Code should have prevented hundreds of radiation experiments that several federal agencies conducted on thousands of soldiers, veterans, and civilians during the Cold War without their knowledge or consent; however, those studies continued for years and were never made public until a few months ago.

INVESTIGATIONAL DRUGS AND VACCINES
IN THE PERSIAN GULF

"Under the Food, Drug, and Cosmetics Act, all vaccines and medical products must be proven safe and effective by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) in order to be sold and distributed in the United States.

DoD/FDA Agreements to Waive Informed Consent for Investigational Drugs During the Persian Gulf War

"In August 1990, DoD contacted FDA to review regulatory restrictions on DoD's plan to use pyridostigmine and botulism vaccine for U.S. troops in the Persian Gulf. According to minutes of the meeting, 'FDA expressed some concern about liability and the need to comply with the regulations,' and Dr. Peck, FDA's Deputy Director for Drug Review, 'pointed out the need to establish an appropriate investigational framework to collect observational data and evaluate the military medical products in question.'

"The major focus of the meeting was informed consent. In summary, DoD did not want to abide by informed consent regulations, and FDA officials pointed out that pyridostigmine and botulism vaccine were investigational and that there are laws regulating how they can be used. DoD claimed that they had the authority to 'dictate the use of unapproved FDA regulated products' in the Persian Gulf, but they would prefer to obtain a waiver from FDA.

"The issue was debated by the two agencies for several months. Finally, at a meeting on December 31, 1990, it appeared that an agreement was reached. DoD officials agreed that the vaccine would be administered by trained individuals with a health care background, and that information would be provided orally 'at minimum, and in written form if feasible, to all personnel receiving the vaccine'. DoD officials said the feasibility of distributing an information sheet would depend on many factors, and would vary from location to location within the military theater of operations. DoD officials 'reiterated that at least verbal information would be provided to each person receiving the vaccine.' The FDA Informed Consent Waiver Review Group recommended that pregnant women be excluded from receiving the vaccine and that information about the vaccine be 'posted at places where vaccine is administered'. However, DoD argued that pregnant women would be at greater risk from exposure to botulism toxins than to the vaccine, and FDA agreed that instead of excluding pregnant women, a statement would be added to the recipient information stating that, 'If you are pregnant, is not known if this vaccine will hurt the unborn baby, however, most vaccines do not.'

"Despite these agreements between FDA and DoD, and DoD's official subsequent decision to administer the vaccine voluntarily, many PGW veterans claim that they were not told what vaccine they were being given, or what the risks were, either

Many people have asked us what the Phoenix Journals are. They contain the true history (history) of mankind on this planet as well as detailed information about the most asked about and wondered about subjects (i.e., Spirituality, E.T.s, our origin, our purpose here on this planet, etc.). Commander Hatonn, and the other Higher Spiritual Teachers who have authored these Journals, weave spiritual lessons and insights throughout the unveiling of lies which have been deceptively forced upon us, throughout time, by the Elite anti-Christ controllers. These Journals are the "Dead Sea Scrolls" of our time. Their importance for the growth of mankind cannot be overstated. They are the textbooks of understanding which God promised us we would have, to guide us through the "End Times".

Here is what Commander Hatonn has said about the Phoenix Journals. Quoting from Journal #40, THE TRILLION DOLLAR LIE, Vol.II, pgs. 47 & 48: "Some day in the far recesses of the future experiences of another human civilization—these Journals will be found and TRUTH will again be given unto the world manifest so that another lost civilization can regain and find its way. TELEPHONE HOTLINE
805-822-0202

This is a service for our dedicated readers. Today's Watch telephone hotline carries the latest news and comments from Commander Hatonn's most recent writings. This is our way of keeping you informed about fast-breaking news and events.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. The message update(s), if any, occur by 6 PM Pacific Time.
