China Preparing For WAR With U.S.

Editorial comment:

Welcome to the Year of the Dragon!

If the entire world were one big democracy, the People's Republic of China would represent about one-third of the total vote, while the population of the United States would entitle it to only a one-thirtieth "say" in things.

Is it any wonder, then, that China refuses to accept the concept of a "uni-polar" world, governed by the Zionists, using the Armed Forces of the United States as their policemen? And China is not alone in this stance, as the Great Bear of Russia, now headed by a hard-nosed Christian, Mr. Putin, also seeks a "multi-polar" globe.

We were told many years ago that the Chinese are the "great purifiers" whenever the Khazars (by any name) come to dominate global affairs. Well, get ready, as China and Russia (biblically, Gog and Magog) are working together, militarily and otherwise, to effect some major changes.

It bears pointing out here that the two symbols associated with this particular Year of the Dragon are GOLD and WATER, suggesting that whatever conflict might develop, it will be governed by their influence. How about a scenario whereby gold seeks its own level, as does water?

We will give additional coverage to the extremely important role of gold elsewhere in this issue, as Commander Hatonn focuses on the implications of recent changes in IMF policies toward debtor nations.

It certainly might be a lot "nicer" if this developing WAR could occur on other than a physical battlefield—but know that the Chinese are prepared to serve it up any way we ask for it, as the Pentagon is well aware!

PENTAGON STUDY FINDS CHINA PREPARING FOR WAR WITH U.S.

By Bill Gertz, Washington Times, 2/2/00

Strategic writings by China's military and party leaders show that China is making plans for war, according to a new Pentagon study. Some 600 translations of internal Chinese writings by 200 authors reveal China's strategy to defeat a superior foe, using both military and nonmilitary means, such as propaganda, deception and covert action.

They also reveal the extreme distrust of the United States by China's military and party leaders. Chinese generals state that the United States intentionally bombed the Chinese Embassy in Belgrade, Yugoslavia last May as part of a long-term strategy to prompt an arms race that will cause China's collapse.

The Chinese statements from the mid-1990s through last year discuss issues normally couched in secrecy inside China.

They appear in the book China Debates the Future Security Environment, published last month for the Pentagon's Office of Net Assessment, the unit in charge of long-range planning. The translations were edited by Michael Pillsbury, a defense policy planner in the Reagan Administration who is fluent in Chinese.

and military officials contradict other claims by the Beijing government that China poses no threat to the United States or other nations.

Chinese strategists plan to use a combination of Marxist-Leninist doctrine and ancient Chinese tactics against the United States, which is compared in Chinese military writings as a “hegemon” on a par with Nazi Germany.

Gen. Li Jijun, described as one of China’s most distinguished military authors, states that the United States engineered the collapse of the Soviet Union and the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait as a “strategic misdirection” or deception.

Other Chinese authors state the United States is working covertly to “dismember” western China, namely Tibet and Xinjiang.

The report is a public document, but the Pentagon is limiting its distribution, presumably because of its stark disclosures of Chinese military thinking. According to the book, the late Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping set the current military strategy for dealing with the world’s only superpower in the slogan “bide our time and build up our capabilities”. A key debate among Chinese military and party writers is how rapidly the United States will decline, a view based on the Marxist ideas on the collapse of capitalism.

The book quotes Gen. Xiong Guankai, the Chinese Deputy Chief of Staff for Intelligence, who finished three days of Pentagon meetings last week, as one of China’s hard-line theorists. “Any efforts for seeking hegemony and world domination can only result in accumulating contradictions and fermenting war,” Gen. Xiong was quoted as saying in a speech at Harvard University. Chinese plans also discuss means of taking out U.S. aircraft-carrier battle groups. Chinese writer Ying Nan says the groups have numerous vulnerabilities.

The United States sent two such groups to waters near Taiwan in 1996 in response to Chinese military exercises aimed at the island.

Mr. Ying stated that weaker Chinese forces could defeat the huge carriers because the groups are hard to conceal from radar, are less effective in bad weather and are hampered by shallow water or when operating close to the coast.

Carriers also are vulnerable to repeated attacks with precision weapons fired from unmanned aircraft and to electronic warfare from small ships, offshore islands and aerial balloons that can “create confusion in the electromagnetic environment,” he stated. Carrier battle groups also can be defeated by advanced submarines and by attacks on their support ships because the carriers’ anti-submarine capabilities are “relatively poor,” Mr. Ying states. Mr. Ying also cited the carriers’ elevators, catapult launchers and arrester wires as “extremely vulnerable” to precision strikes that would make the ships useless.

Chinese military strategists also draw upon the 1991 Persian Gulf War. Chinese tactics—pre-emptive attacks before allied forces had massed covert attacks inside Saudi Arabia and operations to split the U.S.-led coalition—could have won for Iraq, they wrote.

China now seeks to avoid head-on confrontation until around 2030, when the Chinese expect U.S. power to decline significantly.

However, a war between China and the United States could erupt over Taiwan, according to the Chinese authors. Strategist Gao Hen wrote a U.S.

defense of Taiwan would cause a major war of “global and historic implications”. China also plans electronic attacks on computer networks.

“We can make the enemy’s command centers not work by changing their data system,” wrote Maj. Gen. Pan Junfeng. “We can cause the enemy’s headquarters to make incorrect judgments by sending disinformation.” [END QUOTING]

Recent News Desk articles have highlighted China's recent military developments, including the ability to neutralize U.S. "stealth" technology, possibly using a method similar to the Russian "psycho-energetic range-finding", which was explained more than a decade ago by Dr. Beter. It would not be in the least bit surprising to discover that such technology has been shared with China by Russia.

The Chinese have also been busy acquiring Russian military hardware—and we know that they have both ICBM and cruise-missile technology. Ironically, Israel—always happy to make a buck on arms sales, especially of U.S.-paid-for military hardware—has been one of the major suppliers of military equipment to China. Perhaps it would be best if the Zionist planners managed to avoid a military conflict?

Note the Khazarian-controlled source of this next piece (Reuters) and know that this doesn't represent just some "mouthpiece" spouting meaningless words. The Chinese, through their alliance with Russia against the Khazars, now hold the tactical and strategic advantage in any kind of a conflict—be it all-out, bloodletting war or on the economic battlefield. CHINA ARMY TELLS U.S. “WE’RE NO YUGOSLAVIA”

Reuters, 2/4/00

BEIJING—The mouthpiece of the People’s Liberation Army, furious over U.S. legislation to boost military ties with Taiwan, warned the United States Friday not to mistake China for Yugoslavia.

“China is not Yugoslavia. And Taiwan is not Kosovo,” the Liberation Army Daily said in a commentary, referring to the U.S.-led NATO bombing of Yugoslavia last year over atrocities against ethnic Albanians in the southern province of Kosovo.

The House of Representatives voted 341-70 Tuesday in favor of the Taiwan Security Enhancement Act, which would establish direct military communications between Washington and Taipei and expand U.S. training of Taiwan military officers.

Wednesday, the Chinese Foreign Ministry summoned U.S. Ambassador Joseph Prueher to protest against the act and demanded the United States curb the sale of advanced weapons to Taiwan.

NO COMPROMISES

The newspaper commentary said China would make good its threat to invade if Taiwan, which Beijing considers a breakaway province, declared independence.

“The Chinese government has never compromised in the least on this kind of major issue of principle,” it said.

Premier Zhu Rongji pledged to step up reunification efforts in a Lunar New Year speech broadcast on national television.

“At this occasion of reunion for millions of families, we miss our Taiwan compatriots more than ever,” he said.

“We will continue to work to develop the cross-Straits relations and promote the peaceful reunification of the motherland,” he said.

President Clinton, anxious not to upset the delicate balance between China and Taiwan, has threatened to veto the act if the Senate also votes in favor.

Taiwan’s Nationalist rulers, who fled into exile after losing a civil war to the Communists on the mainland in 1949, have many friends in Congress. The United States has been the main arms supplier of wealthy and democratic Taiwan.

In Washington, Liu Xiaoming, Deputy Chief of Mission at the Chinese Embassy, said Thursday the legislation would increase the chances of war between Taiwan and the mainland, possibly dragging in the United States.

It would also encourage separatism on Taiwan, Liu said.

George Tenet, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, told a Senate hearing Wednesday he saw “a high potential for yet another military flare-up across the Taiwan Strait this year” with the Taiwan presidential election on March 18 a potential catalyst for tensions.

China menaced Taiwan with war games in the run-up to the island’s first direct presidential elections in 1996, prompting the United States to send two aircraft carriers to the Taiwan Strait, a narrow strip of water separating the rivals.

EXTREME DANGER

The Liberation Army Daily splashed pictures of China flexing its military muscle—successful tests of China’s first atomic bomb in 1964 and a submarine-launched missile in 1988—alongside the commentary.

The newspaper commentary said the legislation was an “extremely dangerous signal”.

“It exposes the ambitions of some forces in the United States to try to block China’s reunification,” the commentary said. “This is, no doubt, playing with fire.”

“Not only will it not guarantee Taiwan’s ‘security’, on the contrary, it will aggravate tension between the two sides of the Taiwan Strait,” it said.

“It will also have a serious, negative impact on China-U.S. relations,” the commentary added.

[END QUOTING]

The Khazarian Elite controllers had best be paying attention, if they want so much as a rock left under which they can crawl.

It would seem to be the better part of wisdom for them to simply work with the Divine Plan, allowing this to work itself out PEACEFULLY by simply living up to their agreements. And perhaps they are doing so, as evidenced in the article relating to “IMF Off-Market Gold Sales” further along in this issue. At least we can hope that there yet remains some reason in them.

God’s delays, we are told, are not denials. Rather, any time it seems we are blocked in moving His Plan forward, it somehow works out to His (and our) greater advantage. Hang in there, as it gets REALLY exciting from here!—CONTACT Staff

WHEN THE JOURNEY SEEMS TOO DIFFICULT

Hatonn—Agreements are made “with the Devil” every minute of every day, WHILE A MAN IS PRAYING TO GOD OF LIGHT FOR SALVATION AND ANSWERS TO HIS PROBLEMS. Of course, THE problems are caused by the little agreements (and big ones also) that he just signed away to the Devil. It has ever been thus.

SO? WHAT DO YOU DO?

You must “negate” the contracts with the Devil and—outside those agreements already set to record—you must go in the pathway of goodness, which ALLOWS realization that THERE ARE ALWAYS ALTERNATIVES TO THE “OLD EXPECTED” WAYS.

HE WHO PURSUES RIGHTEOUSNESS AND LOVE FINDS LIFE, PROSPERITY AND HONOR

I am asking that we write this day, Dharma, for Fatima and THE “Man”, that I might give some information, verifications and input that will be understood, possibly, ONLY BY THEM—and YOU. (I include here, Ekkers and others trying diligently to find “a way” to get our mission accomplished for the betterment of ALL.)

There are some things, as always, that fall within the realm of agreements made on a much higher level than within your ongoing circles of “living” consciousness and, with that in mind, as you read my suggestions and expressions, let us see where we ARE and where we might get some “Roloids”.

First, let it be realized that it is as if you are functioning “in an alien world”, and that, my dear ones, is exactly what you ARE doing.

MY, “HATONN’S”, AGREEMENT WITH THE POWERS THAT CONTROL IS TO NOT PULL ANY SUPERNATURAL TRICKS OR GAMES (AS ACTIONS AT MY LEVEL OF FUNCTION ARE DESCRIBED TO ME), ALONG WITH GIVING ALLOWANCES TO THE “ENTITIES” INVOLVED TO GET ARRANGED TO SAVE, ACTUALLY, “THEIR ASSETS”. AS THE REVELATIONS MOVE ON IN EARTH EXPRESSION OF THAT WHICH “IS”, THE TURNING OVER OF THE SEQUENCE OF EVENTS AND THE REVOLVEMENT INTO “LIGHTED WAYS” IS A DIFFICULT PROCESS AT BEST BUT A TOTALLY RECOGNIZABLE PROCESS, AS IN “IMPOSSIBLE” AT WORST.

I HAVE FURTHER AGREED TO “MANIFEST” NOTHING EXCEPT USING THAT WHICH IS ALREADY AVAILABLE, WHICH IS IN ITSELF

RIDICULOUS, FOR “EVERYTHING” IS MANIFEST IN SOME FORM OR ANOTHER, ALREADY WAITING FOR USE.

REMEMBER THAT YOU ARE IN A MANIFEST “EXPERIENCE” WHICH IS HOLOGRAPHIC, AT BEST, IN REALIZATION. HOWEVER, YOU MUST KNOW THAT AS YOU GO ALONG YOUR JOURNEY, YOU MUST WORK WITH THE MANIFEST PROJECTIONS EXISTING AND WITH ONE ANOTHER AS APPROPRIATELY EXPRESSED. “MAN” HAS TO WANT TO CHANGE AND BE WILLING TO CHANGE—AND REWARDS FOR DISSERVICE ARE NOT OF GOD.

We HOLD all the answers for the political PROBLEMS as are expressed by, for instance, Mr. Estrada, regarding the economy in the Philippines, as well as all those nasty things run amok about the nation. He thinks, however, that he is trapped because he IS TOLD THAT HE CAN’T DO THIS OR THAT OR THE OTHER—BECAUSE OF TREATIES AND CONTRACTS WITH THE IMF, WB, ETC. HE DOESN’T REALIZE THAT RIGHT IN THAT CONSTITUTION HE WANTS TO CHANGE—ARE THE ANSWERS. THE PRIOR ACTIONS AND CONTRACTS ARE AGAINST THE DIRECTIVES OF THE CONSTITUTION AND, THEREFORE, ARE INVALID.

But, we will ignore that fact for the moment in realization that this concept is too large to easily handle, and stepping off into God’s Light is too difficult to fathom in the world of insane non-realization. FIRST, YOU MUST REALLY DESIRE CHANGE! UNTIL THERE IS A DESIRE FOR CHANGE—THERE WILL BE ONLY TIGHTENING OF THE NOOSE, NOT THE TAKING FROM THE HANGMAN HIS ROPE.

E.J., it is time to have YOU carefully consult with me and put together “the package”, with even the “Sovereignty” paper included, and you consider the following—with Fatima and The Man. You do that because they will have a way, or ways, to get the information to the targets.

Have at least ten packages made up and then get them to proper news media leaders, BRO. MIKE VELARDE AND TO BANKERS (CENTRAL), AND REQUEST THAT THEY MEET WITH ESTRADA IN PRIVATE CONFERENCE WHERE YOU, E.J., CAN ANSWER QUESTIONS DIRECTLY.

Estrada has NO PROBLEMS, if he simply “gives up” those things and people who are actually destroying him as a living, viable human being. It is always very difficult to REALIZE that our very trusted friends and family ARE DESTROYING US!

I must ask that this run through local involved parties, here at first, for as I said above, I AGREED TO KEEP US OUT OF IT SO THAT WE WOULD HAVE NO INVOLVEMENT OTHER THAN AVAILABILITY OF ASSETS AND BACKUP SUPPORT—FOR WE HAVE AGREED TO DO NOTHING OTHER THAN THAT IN ANY SOVEREIGN COUNTRY. WE HAVE AGREED TO HAVE “YOU” (as in “Ekkers”) TOTALLY UNINVOLVED, EXCEPT AS TO OUR PORTION AND “HOW” THAT PORTION MUST BE HANDLED. SINCE THAT FUNCTIONING PRESERVES THE NATION IN POINT OF VENTURE, THERE IS NO PROBLEM HERE. I CAN PLAY ON BOTH SIDES BUT I HAVE AGREED TO STAY OUT OF THE HUMAN CIRCLES, OTHER THAN AS “INSTRUCTOR”. This usually takes a very long time for everyone to learn to listen AND HEAR.

Remember, all of you, the reaction of one CIA top compatriot of Geo. Bush, Al Martin: “Don’t even use that name on my telephone, for that entity is so high you can’t even access his files.” I HAVE NEVER BEEN “NOT INVOLVED” AND THESE PEOPLE KNOW “ME”, EVEN IF THEY DON’T RECOGNIZE THE “NAME”. “THEY”, further, knew it would come to pass exactly as it is coming to pass. And, therefore, DOES ANYONE REALLY THINK THAT I HAVE LEFT MY TEAM IN THE FIELD TO GO ASTRAY FROM THE DIRECTED MISSION—TO PLAY WITH THE SPECTRUM KIDLITS-OF-THE-RAINBOW NEW AGE? “LIFE” ON YOUR PLANET IS A HOLOGRAPHIC EXPERIENCE AND WE WILL EITHER CAUSE IT TO “GO DOWN” IN A BIG “WHOOOP” OR RECOVER ITSELF. THOSE THINGS ARE UP TO YOU—BUT SINCE THIS IS “MY” PLAY AND I AM THE DIRECTOR OF THIS LITTLE EXERCISE, I CHOOSE NOT TO HAVE THE FORMER THING HAPPEN. EVIL IS NOT GOING TO PREVAIL—PERIOD AND END OF DISCUSSION. AND, FURTHER, WE CAN DO IT WITH, YES, OUR HANDS TIED BEHIND US—FOR ALL WE NEED IS “CREATIVE MIND”.

I suspect that you will find that some very harassed political leaders are about to wit’s end as to what to do. When all else fails—as is the case 100% of the time—they will “sincerely” turn to God for solutions greater than even that which they THINK they ask. YOU ARE ONLY “TRAPPED” IF YOU THINK YOURSELF TO BE—OTHERWISE THERE ARE ALWAYS AT LEAST A DOZEN ALTERNATIVES.

In the case of the Philippines, for instance, so much has been dinked with and taken away for the shifting criminals that what remains is a binding of blood oaths and threats. The Philippines could simply repudiate all debts to the international cartels but that is never seen as a “political” option, for there is terror afoot that there will be such massive retaliation as to kill the nation and the people involved. Well, the retaliation might be planned, but there is not vitality in the response because what will happen is that all other nations in like circumstances WILL SIMPLY DO THE SAME.

The problem is, of course, that the FEAR of follow-on LACK and the control that goes with breaking the loop are hard to fathom—until, of necessity, the people involved confront WHAT IS! THE BIGGEST FEAR, POLITICALLY, IS “SAVING FACE” AND “WHAT DO WE DO WHEN WE DON’T HAVE THOSE WORLD BANKSTERS ON WHICH TO FURTHER DEPEND FOR OUR HANDOUTS AND PAID PROTECTION, AS IN THE ‘PROTECTION RACKET’.” So, leadership would rather kill the people than have themselves discounted and FACE FACTS.

We offer that which solves the problem, for “here”, if you solve the economic problem, you have solved the social-civil problems all the way to smallest tribal child.

The fact that is NOT WANTED AIRED is that the DOLLAR has NO VALUE whatsoever except sham representation. There is not now—and has not been for nearly a century—any value in it at all. It is an illusion, just like the whole of the world in which you experience. With that uppermost in mind—CHANGE THE SCRIPT AND THE SCRIP AND YOU INSTANTLY CHANGE YOUR NATION, AND THEN YOUR AREA AND THEN YOUR WORLD. AN ILLUSION IS PRESENTED IN THE MAGIC FACADE AND WHEN YOU MOVE BEYOND THE CURTAIN, YOU FIND THAT FAT OLD OZ SITTING THERE IN ALL HIS SHAME AND MISERY. PUT HARD VALUE BEHIND YOUR CURRENCY AND YOU HAVE NO FURTHER PROBLEM—AND YES, GOLD IS THAT RECOGNIZED COMMODITY.

WHAT IS THE WORLD GOING TO DO? WELL, THE BANKSTERS WILL GET THE MILITARY TO LAUNCH A BIG BAD ATTACK—BUT, IF YOU HAVE THE GOLD WAITING, WHERE IS THE BASIS OF WAR? YOU ARE NOT GOING AGAINST ANYTHING, BUT BE SURE TO—IF YOU PAY BACK THOSE FUNDS AND BLACKMAIL PAY-OFFS—DO IT IN THOSE WORTHLESS CURRENCIES AS WELL. YOU RECOGNIZE, OF COURSE, THAT YOU ARE PAID (LOANED) WORTHLESS DOLLARS, SO PAY OFF IN WORTHLESS DOLLARS IN RETURN AND HOLD YOUR GOLD ASSETS SECURE. WE ARE WILLING TO LEAVE OUR GOLD IN THE SOVEREIGN NATIONS' VAULTS AND LEASE IT FOR SECURITY TO THE HOLDER. BUT WE NEED FUNDS NOW, ALSO, TO CONTINUE WITH OUR WORK, AND DOLLARS ARE ACCEPTABLE, FOR WE NEED THAT CURRENCY FOR HANDLING THOSE NEEDS BACK HOME IN THE U.S.

And yes, we ask for it NOW so that we can attend our team's affairs and confrontations, and then be able to patiently wait and function until the obstacles are resolved. WE ARE READY, WILLING AND ABLE, WITH VALID DEBT INSTRUMENTS AGAINST THE FULLY VALID BASE OF GOLD BACKING. WE EXPECT SOME INTERIM FUNDING SO THAT WE DO NOT HAVE TO "STEP IN", FOR THAT IS ALSO PART OF THE AGREEMENT—THAT OUR NEEDS WOULD BE MET "OR I WOULD BECOME INVOLVED" THROUGH MEDIA OR ANY WAY NECESSARY TO GET THIS JOB DONE. THOSE WERE "THE AGREEMENTS" AND ALREADY THOSE AGREEMENTS—EVEN WITH THE IMF AND FED/FEDS—HAVE BEEN BENT AND BROKEN. WE HONOR OUR COMMITMENTS, OUR "WORD" AND OUR AGREEMENTS, BUT IT IS TIME TO CONSIDER THE BREAKING BY MAN OF ALL THE AGREEMENTS IN ONE WAY OR ANOTHER.

These instruments no longer have ANY QUESTION as to authenticity, ownership OR validity. You are tinkering with "hearsay", "stonewall games" and scam operators. If these cartel players wish to consider the alternative to keeping agreements, you might wish to realize that when this hits "good ground", it will not bounce off and it will bring the demise, as you know it, of world finances. It does not have to be that offensive, for all could reap benefits, even the cartels, if they but play with honor and unity to bring some justice instead of further illusion to God's CREATION.

Remember something very important: YOU have ability to CREATE and MANIPULATE what is IN YOUR PLAY. AH, BUT THE PLANET IS GOD'S GREATER CREATION, AS ARE "YOU", AND WHAT GOD CREATES, GOD CAN EASILY—IN LESS THAN A BLINK OF AN EYE—UNCREATE. IT PROVES LACK OF WISDOM TO CHOOSE OTHERWISE THAN TO CLEAN UP YOUR OWN CREATED MESS.

What can you expect when realization hits the "Big Boys"? Exactly what is happening now—they make a big mess of things, they try to kill off the manifest entities as to population, enslave those whom they can through force (power) and build FEAR and terror into the hearts and minds of all remaining creatures who fall for their lies and treachery. THEY ARE "NOTHING" and they further know that—when YOU REALIZE THIS FACT—THEY ARE DOOMED. They will crawl off into their hiding places, kill a bunch of themselves and regroup to go for it again, when YOU forget your selves—and yes, you will. So, depending on which outcome YOU choose, that will be the way of evolution from here.

You can be GREAT or you can be what you already think you are: helpless slaves to Satan himself. Evil has reached control of the entirety of your globe—but we are taking a stand and IF MAN WILL SEE HIS WAY, HE CAN PREVAIL IN GLORY, FOR HE IS NOT BOUND, FOR HE WILL FIND NO BONDAGE WITHIN GOD AND NO HOLDING POWER IN THE BINDINGS OF EVIL.

Therefore, hear me well: I, Gyeorgos Ceres Atom(n)/Hatonn, of LIGHT, am the appointed DIRECTOR of this job at hand, now—and always have been.

And to those miscreants who think they can continue, against my wishes, to use my "self-name" in their ongoing espousing, they shall come directly in confrontation for their lies and plagiarism with failure to identify receivers—FOR I AM LEGALLY REGISTERED "THROUGH" THIS MISSION QUARTER.

Now, I do not care what any foolish children do about that matter—but if you think I toy with you, you are incorrect, for it is time to CLEAN UP YOUR ACT(S), KIDS OF EARTH. THIS IS MY RESPONSIBILITY, ACCEPTED AND GIVEN IN THIS TASK, AND SO SHALL IT COME TO PASS AS WE LAY FORTH THE WAY.

Why the Philippines for this transition? Because the Philippines are the BLESSED and CHOSEN place of the New and Golden Age rebirth of both mankind and landmass. We placed those things of value which can change this entire globe HERE (and elsewhere), but HERE IS THE PLACE FOR THE SUN TO RISE OUT OF THE ASHES WITH ITS HUMANITY REBIRTHED AS WELL.

WE ARE OFFERING AND BRINGING FORTH "THE WAY" TO REBIRTH THIS MANIFEST THOUGHT OF GOD INTO REALITY OF RECOGNITION, AND YES, YOU CAN THEN EXPECT AT "LEAST" A THOUSAND YEARS OF WONDER. THE ILLUSION IS PERMANENT IN ITS REALIZATION—ONLY IN THE CONSCIOUSNESS OF MANKIND—IT HAS NO FURTHER REALITY. AND, JUST AS THE EVIL CONTROLLERS HAVE BUILT AND MAINTAINED THE ILLUSION OF "VALUE" THROUGH FORCE, SO CAN THE ILLUSION BE REPLACED IN FIVE MINUTES OF PAPERWORK. THE MAGICIANS WILL BE REPLACED BY WHAT YOU MIGHT WELL CONSIDER THE WIZARDS OF INFINITY.

ERAP ESTRADA AND BILLY CLINTON ARE SIMPLY ACTORS ON A STAGE ASSUMING

WHATEVER "ROLE" HAS COME TO THEM. THEY CAN MAKE A MAJOR REALITY ADJUSTMENT OR SIMPLY GO LIKE ALL OLD ACTORS GO—AWAY IN THE FALL FROM THE FLATTERING AND FICKLE AUDIENCE WITH BIGGER AND MORE GREEDY ENDS TO ACHIEVE. After all the trappings of finery and even the removal of body, YOU REMAIN—in whatever soul shape you have molded for self—but what is left is one more dead body returning to the particulate making up the universe.

You cannot "play" with Satan and his evil things and within his evil games. You will always LOSE—for that is his purpose for your use—if you sell out or succumb. It is obvious and simple in concept, and hanging onto the tag-a-longs means SURE downfall, for eventually the PEOPLE will put you down if you are in a leadership position. These evil compatriots will cut your throat to save their positions.

So, TEAM, we can DO this. And, furthermore, it can be accomplished, as I said, in one thought instant. It remains, a while longer, in your hands and choices—but it would appear that the better part of WISDOM is that with GOD THERE IS NO SPACE AND NO "TIME", and each pulse-wave in sequence moves you toward God or away from God, for it is YOU who dally—NOT GOD, for in our reality—it is DONE, FINISHED, OVER and GOD WON! Why do you insist on the negative impacts of realization to hamper and cloud your way?

So what are all those prophecies, etc.? They are to show you where you are expected to go! They are what establish the script you are expected, by the naughty director, to use to ensure your misdirected attitudes and thought patterns. THERE IS ONLY THOUGHT and, therefore, ONLY ILLUSION. This is known by the teachers but they have to point out what has been manifest by the thought-forms as recognized in your environment of participation. MAN HAS TO RE-LEARN HOW TO THINK AND MANIFEST THROUGH CREATION—CO-CREATION—WITH GOD CREATOR. There is no evil intent outside the "manifest worlds" of man and, therefore, you are left with free-will choice of what you will manifest—perceived good or perceived bad. There is no more REALITY in your world of perception than in Spielberg's world of fabricated dinosaurs and perhaps even less, because he plants seeds which you then go manifest under his direction. He presents stories that have no basis in fact UNTIL YOU ARE TOLD THEY ARE SOMEHOW REAL, AS IN SHINDLER'S LIST. He told you up front that this was just a movie script, tampered and rearranged for the motion-picture screen. NOW, THAT FAIRY TALE HAS BECOME A SCHOOL-MANDATED THING FOR VIEWING AND THIS IS HOW IT "IS". THE FABRICATION BECOMES ACCEPTED AS THE FACT; THE HISTORICAL STORY IS REWRITTEN TO SUIT THE FABRICATION; THE LESSONS ARE TAUGHT IN THE SCHOOLS ACCORDING TO THE FALSE PREMISE; AND YES, INDEED, YOU ARE STUCK IN THE LIE.

This is enough for this morning on the "to do" aspect of today. Let's please get on with this, for a world "waits" in the blowing whirlwinds of despair.

Thank you and yes, I would want to write on other topics a bit later.

GOD GOES EVER WITH YOU, CHELAS—WHY CAN YOU NOT RECOGNIZE THIS WONDROUS GIFT OF POWER WITHIN SELVES?

Salu, Cmdr. Atom(n)

For As Long As It Takes

By Doris Ekker, 1/31/00

I, Doris, need to ask your indulgence so that at least once a week I write personally. I've tried to do that anyway, in the past, to accommodate some kind of mental triggers for allowing us to remember WHEN things might have happened and, basically, even in our own little system, who might have been involved. This is to be able to reconstruct what is taking place and with whom, for reference. Ron C. said it well: In these circumstances it is hard to remember if something happened this morning or a year ago. Plus the fact there are so many things taking place but the basic routine of living is so much the same as to have nothing save the decorations across the street for recognition of an approximate date to affix to anything and NOTHING to do much to have any day vs. another stand out from the others. Even that happening seems to have no attachment to a date, place (because it will be here), and only the "who" needs particular recall.

This needs to be done as a sort of diary but, moreover, there needs to be reference as to "legal" matters to which I may well only make reference. However, PLEASE, when we write these long dissertations or rebuttals to ones like Emil of Four Winds, or the Bopsie Kids, please MAKE SURE BRAD GETS FULL COVERAGE. I suggest someone ask Brad, if he doesn't receive everything, if he would like to, simply for the record. Those contacts need to be made from there so that all of you are pretty well informed, are documenting EVERYTHING and so he doesn't get so far behind as to cause him undue "pile-on" of work. He really must have information regarding the personal or business insults and assaults noted and in his possession. Then, ask him and if there is a bit of a space in the paper, start running the information even in bits and pieces. We don't have "secret" wars and we put it right out there in public view so that we are not accused of other than "transparency".

Further, if there is anything within the business associations that might pop out to give us problems, we need to be informed, but mostly we simply have to act in such ways as to be under the microscope and welcome the attention.

This is the stance we have been caused to take here or anywhere in distant lands—AND IT WORKS. We get total respect and the very acknowledgements give security.

In addition, anyone who feels rebuked or insulted by any personal feelings of being somehow singled out for some thought of displeasure, please think it out a second time. WE DO NOT WANT ANYONE TO BE THE BRUNT OF ANY INSULT OR ACCUSATIONS FROM ANY OF THE NIT-CROWD OF ANONYMOUS PEEPER-TURKEYS.

Especially members of our actual FAMILY and those of Ekkers' relations have come under the full and nasty attacks of one Rick Martin in most personal and childish ways, but these are hurtful and E.J. and I will not longer accept it. If there is too large a set of problems relative to anyone, we will try to remove them from the direct assault—but remember, please, we can't have much impact and all but none from this distance.

We KNOW that the load, therefore, is heavy in a way that negates "personal" RIGHTS. And, further, this is WHY we have to "allow" any who can't stand the heat to feel free to remove selves from the focus. There are PLENTY of things in which to participate regularly, without being in that shattering laser light.

There is always the welcome mat out for anyone who could or would spend time helping in any effort from product to paper sending. This would come with as much or as little attention as requested. You don't need to run the gosh-awful bookkeeping to participate to the limit of your desires. We only ask that everyone remember and recognize the needs of public attention and awareness. And certainly, NO, we do not ever ask anyone to turn down a regular, full-time job to attend our things. Neither do we ask that anyone volunteer assistance if they can't "afford" to do so in this "marker" time which, by the way, really looks minimal in length this Monday morning, the last day of January. What does not "show" to us is what is taking place and, therefore, the players that can do something about things are doing it and are 31 days into amazing forward movement.

For those of you who have felt helpless in the tangle of threats, pushing, shoving and ongoing harassment—even if only a personal responsibility to ongoing operations—KNOW that whatever has been called upon to get us through this squeeze (yea, of 14 years) is WORTH IT. Those who have destroyed, put miserable lies and obstacles in our pathway and made life a pure misery at every turn will not prevail and CONSEQUENTLY I imagine that their way might be encumbered by some reverberations of their negative actions and activities. THIS because we must always make every effort to set things to RIGHT, HONOR AND INTEGRITY, AND REGAIN WHATEVER OF "OUR" (ALL OF OUR) PROPERTY—AND RECOVER FOR THE CORPORATIONS, THEIR VALUE.

Since E.J. and Doris seem to be the ones continually sued, then if E.J. and Doris have to do the response alone, so be it. However, in that attitude and consequential outcome, we will deal with what we can and the rest will have to go by the wayside, for no, we are no longer willing to, like Ron C., be arrested on trumped-up charges and indicted by the thugs and lying criminals—who just WANT WHAT WE SEEM TO HAVE AND TO DESTROY EVERYONE INVOLVED ON THE WAY TO THE SLAUGHTER HOUSE. WE WILL ATTEND THOSE THINGS, AS WELL, APPROPRIATELY.

I would suggest to those who ALSO TURNED IN NCH TO THE FEDS AND OTHER PARTIES TO "GET" US OR SOMEONE IN THE NCH ORGANIZATION—WATCH IT, FOR CORT IS GOING TO WIN HIS BATTLE OVER NOMINEES AND THEY WILL BE COMING AFTER THOSE WHO TURNED IN "FALSE" ACCUSATIONS. We have all passed inspection in this quarter and fortunately Cort retained some pretty good legal counsel from back "east" somewhere, who knows the facts and corporate laws and especially those of Nevada, U.S.A. We pray so, for upon those regulations is a chance at recovery from the hounds who eat "little citizens".

Can we, "Ekkers", create a way to sustain? Yes, indeed. Even from over here we can. The lessons of our "Director" have finally hit bottom (or top), and yes, we not only create the way but when we need something GOD SENDS THE TROOPS AND "THE" PARTIES WE ULTIMATELY NEED SO THAT, IN WORKING TOGETHER, WE MAKE SUCH GREAT AND OPEN INROADS AS TO BE LITERALLY MISSED BY THE "INTELLIGENCE" TEAMS. Those TEAMS become our own protection.

But, HOW LONG? As long as it takes; what else do we have to do? All those clutching and miserable bramble sticker-vines must be now considered exactly what they are: an annoyance and distracting irritation. And if one of those scratches gets infected, swab it down with OxySol or something and refuse the poison within. There is a columnist here—in fact there are several—calling things what they are right on the front page of the most recognized paper. He describes the activities of these "bramble bushes" and those of politicians as: "One has the pricklers on the outside to be avoided but the other has them on the inside where they are the pricklers and can really kill you." Well, good insight and guess which...

I can only say that we may well have a bunch of "road rash" and "sticker-bush" scars but we are alive and well—ON THE INSIDE. So, can everybody do this? What? Go "in-sane"? Sure! In fact, it was long past time for me to get SANE! I always had a tendency to take these dogs seriously and that insults the dogs of the world. LET US NOT BE CONFUSED BY THE THOUGHT OF SOME KIND OF FORGIVENESS OF UNCONDITIONAL IDIOCY AND CONSIDER THE NATURAL CONSEQUENCES OF RETRIBUTION. WHEN THE RATS LEARN THAT THE POISON THEY PUT FORTH FOR OUR ENTRAPMENT IS GOING TO BE DEADLY TO THEMSELVES—WHEN MET BY TRUTH AND HONOR—they will consider consequences.

So, what does "Doris" think about those who toppled off the wagon? In the words of Commander, "I don't, unless I have to." But it seems they have pretty much boxed themselves into a corner and have done 99.9% of our response work for Brad. They have made sure that no tiny detail is overlooked—even to suing by Green of the "four boxes of gold". I think "I" finally got the point of Cmdr's lessons: Never mind the obvious negative possibilities; LOOK AT THE POSITIVE TOOLS IN EVERY ENCOUNTER—AND YOU HAVE EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO TURN THE BLACKEST MOMENT INTO GLORY. WE CAN DO THAT!

We DO, however, have to be patient as the hours and days pass because that which we can't see and that which IS ANOTHER'S to do is not our prerogative to offer interference or "bungling".

For example: Just over a week ago we had someone who was seeing to our registration-file recovery. He, Mr. A., vanished AS IF FROM THE FACE OF THE EARTH. Then came the "underground" rumors that he was somehow "in trouble". We concerned over that all week but went right on with business while literally running into MORE INTRIGUE. We got a "supposedly" direct personal response from Mr. Buenaventura of Central Bank fame. He said that the Bank couldn't give us an "endorsement" of a special kind because of a couple of things which bothered him (and really bothered US AS WE READ HIS ITEMS—FOR THE FIRST DOER OF THE REGISTRATION WORK HAD SOMEHOW ADDED A BUNCH OF THINGS LIKE "LOBBY FOR..." AND OTHER MISREPRESENTATIONS). Fine, we appreciated all that input—but then he (Buenaventura) said that he had not been the one who had written the instructions to register in the first place.

Mr. A. is the second party working through the SEC screw-up. However, the first party, Mr. DG, did in fact "retire" from the follow-up ABRUPTLY and left town on business. So interesting things DO TAKE PLACE.

We can only be grateful for the oversight of our "Director", for that political (lobbying, educational) nonsense in our new Association—which would include E.J. and Doris—would have been difficult to harmonize with our Public Notice agreements. So, we have to request our application be returned. No credit probably to us humans, BUT WE SET UP OUR OTHER “ASSOCIATION” WITH PROPER (BUT SOMEWHAT DIFFERENT) BYLAWS AND ARTICLES AND THEY STAND LIKE BEACONS IN FAIR WEATHER OR FOUL—ANYWHERE. Commander told us what to do and how to do it and it covers our needs BEAUTIFULLY. We owe thanks, and GIVE THEM, to Ron K. and, yes, Cort C. (who as agent, signed them and entered them into the State records). We NOW set up all our corporations using those articles.

Well, back to the Mr. B. letter: This paper looked far less authentic than the other, so we are advising Mr. B. that we are WITHDRAWING our application, for we don’t need the headache of another business entity and certainly not at this time. Our suspicions are that NEITHER communiqué is authentic. This all works very well for us, for our G.A.I.A. articles and bylaws give us full functioning capability ANYWHERE and we can meet regulations when there IS BUSINESS to merit the bother. This new Board of Directors “THING” had me already at the end of my rope and I was turning in my resignation BEFORE THE THING EVEN GOT DONE.

Well, the “second” person, Mr. A., called last evening and he is not only, apparently, not “in trouble” but is meeting this week with the SEC, etc., to move to finalize the acquisition of a bank, which we will call “Security Bank”—which IS in trouble of loss because of too-low reserves, etc. This one move would allow for so many steps forward as to be stunning. That one step achieved will allow the very acquisition of the Islamic Bank. These “people” have the collateral to back everything and it seems if the paperwork can be accomplished, it is the most relevant step made to date. Oh, and that S. Bank is partially owned by one of the most powerful people in the Philippines, who ADVISES President J. Estrada. Small world?

So what of Ms. J? Well, they seem to have gotten their own business affairs caught up into some kind of a tidy bundle and are off on pushing bankers, especially for release of our loan. Things bog the instant the light goes off focus for ANY reason. We are told everything is in place and approved but the banks simply don’t release anything. A zillion people can attest to this trickery. We have requested that a harder focus be placed on completion of that project and then we can all better participate in getting other things and projects under way. So, with that in mind, “Mr. Man” was returned to his “live-in” care facility for a medical rest and Ms. J. immediately left to attend some straggles elsewhere. All assets of Mr. Man have—according to the finished documents we have seen—been lawfully and legally put into the corporation with Ms. J. as President. And, by the way, with whom “Global” has a separate “joint venture agreement” or “contractual and working partnership” on bunches of the larger possibilities. Simple “people” projects are in the names of the corporate association and corporations (actually, all of them must be in the name of CORPORATE structures) which will actually do the projects, and that is NOT in connection with agreements other than “regular agreements” with Ms. J.

Since that is only a facet of our attention or participations, we don’t need to spend more time on that. We have now, since restructuring of our own GAIA “caretaking”, over 1100 fully documented, signed and sealed “assignments” with recipient project corporation recognition, signed by the authority involved and witnessed by “their” person—so that E.J. can not only talk to the people, giving personal reminders about attending to the strict agreements and guidelines (or their participation is cancelled), but also simply sit and get a bit acquainted PRIOR to doing business interchange. Time consuming? Like totally, but we must learn along the way.

The ones early on who lied and used false representations are also falling to the wayside, but THAT in itself has been THE TRAINING GROUND and those ones have about played out their “time” limitations.

We have no longer any recognition of anything prior to GAIA but—as parties come up for discussion—we will review all instruments and certainly all agreements. This, however, negates any interference or co-arrangements with such as V.K.D. and HEI as to those first headache documents with her. We have no call on any such interchange—PERIOD. What she may have done with those documents, her “false at the time” trust, etc., is none of our business. It would be our wish that she could be totally successful in all her efforts for the U.S. and for herself. We are not here to JUDGE anyone or how they came to be with anything, if it does not involve us.

Russell Herman had done his work and actually did it quite well without any further follow-up—except to dig out the legal documents and directives. This is WHY we can work with anyone on the globe, including those we would otherwise choose to ignore or wish to go away. WE KNEW GOD WOULD HAVE PERFECTION OF OPPORTUNITY and we do NOT have to attend any others’ agenda. IF WE DO OURS AND DO IT WELL, WE HAVE ALL WE NEED FOR ANYTHING WE NEED.

Please, all who will receive this from us, leave personal reactions out of it. We have to share where we can. We do NOT enjoy the negative “lessons” any better than ANYONE, but we can’t get bent out of shape at being used as an example.

For instance, as I write here right now, Ms. J. called and reported that she had been deeply involved in pushing on some items about which she and E.J. had had focused conference. And, since she returned to the Manila area a day early, it is assumed she may well have made progress of some kind. We do not discuss these sorts of PERSONAL things on the phones.

Our wonderful friend “Shariah Professor” is due in this week. He has been conducting group meetings to get “his” people up and informed so that they will be ready to respond instantly with projects and literal “construction” start-up, as we get our “papers” and the “go-ahead” financing worked out a bit more clearly.

By the way, for “just sharing”, I want to give appreciation where and when due, and I don’t intend to go my lifetime having to ignore the wonderful gifts and sharing with our friends before they declared themselves our enemies. I don’t consider them “enemies” now; I consider them far worse, but less personal things than “enemies”. That aside, some of you will remember the WONDERFUL Egyptian art piece (picture) Rick got for us a couple of years ago. It was worked on papyrus fiber and was truly special and unique. That being perhaps more unique to us than otherwise being such a special artform. Well, the beautiful addition to that picture is that Mrs. Professor went “home” to Egypt and spent months there visiting and came back only as Ramadan began. She, as a gift, brought TWO of that same type of Egyptian “pictures”, which will make an incredible wall focus along with “Rick’s” picture.

These are gifts from the heart, and YES, I DO believe that Rick’s came directly from his heart. Rick has incredible talents—and what I feel for Rick is sadness but recognition of HIS RIGHT TO DO THAT WHICH HE WILL. I finally realize what this old “love” topic is about. Just as with my own children, there is right of them to do that which they will, whether or not I like or dislike it—it does not cause me to love them less or lose respect for that which was between or among us. I do not know what contracts are made with God to allow us these lessons and ENSURE SUCCESS IN SUCH A MAJOR ENDEAVOR AS WE ATTEMPT TO CREATE HERE INTO WHOLE-CLOTH PRESENTATION. WITHOUT RICK (AND YES, CHARLES) WE COULD NOT HAVE DONE IT AS WISELY OR AS GENEROUSLY. We were structured in the wrong direction of movement and flow and something had to cause the course correction. Consequences of actions, however, are not my prerogative to dismiss. That does not mean that I can’t totally enjoy and appreciate the feelings of “that moment” of giving and sharing in an Egyptian drawing for a wall.

I think back to having all this work with the gold, etc. and as we “went along”, a party came to Tehachapi and among other things with the PI she personally gave “Doris” several gold coins AS A TOTAL GIFT. Doris, however, never felt good about it and couldn’t dump it into the pot, as all other things were offered—for the lady was right there. Well, when the anger flowed back, Doris saw to it that every single gift and the gold were returned—personally delivered TO HER. I should not have done that, for the GIFT was given, I suppose, in full love and in an effort to share something on a personal level. One thing should not be considered another. However, I am still functioning in my “better part of wisdom” to have done exactly that, for today we actually find that that person has “seen the light” (as she put it) but it was basically that the final realization was that “THE GOLD WAS RETURNED”.

Perhaps this is why I find it so difficult to accept “gifts”—because when and if the feelings change within “that gifter”, I am caught not having clear vision as to what to do. For instance, we ATE Margie’s cookies so couldn’t turn them back. To the Institute, we NEVER felt people were giving TO EKKERS—and have been bewildered as to what has come to pass—for Ekkers, too, put everything and MILLIONS of dollars into debt which hangs like Damocles’ Sword over our very lives, into making “this project” work and, finally, couldn’t even use the very funds made available FOR the projects because of the assaults.

We got blamed for using funds to defend (by law), the Institute from one assault after another and the very assaulting parties insulting us in court by saying we were using Institute funds for legal things and legal counsel. THE LAW REQUIRES THAT ALL CORPORATIONS HAVE QUALIFIED (BY LAW) REPRESENTATION IN COURT. We did, yes, have help of a personal nature regarding our property struggle, but those were specifically recognized assistance and some loans which WE WILL ALSO PERSONALLY REPAY. That case is the very thing that has allowed US TO BE IN MANILA, meagerly “making it”—and yes, we WILL and SHALL repay, abundantly, every gift and every, no matter how small, loan. It no longer has anything at all to do with something called PI. We will attend that, too, but THAT is different. We WANT to attend it, however, so that our name is not further bashed and our friends and loved-ones saddled with the awful accusations cast against them and us during these miserable encounters. And YES, we are structuring it so that if anything happens to us physically, those things will be handled in full, through legal counsel. This also will give those from whom we borrowed and our families—RIGHT TO LEGAL RECOURSE, in that event. There are enough pending cases to repay everything just in litigation or potential litigation awaiting action.

Do we think the “culprits” have anything with which to pay those debts? They claimed to have had it when they started these horrendous suits and claims, thefts and even theft of the paper, where they publicly stated that they would have “sufficient” funding, etc., for keeping the paper they just STOLE. So be it. We—or anyone attached to us—MUST HAVE RIGHTS, LEGALLY, TO PURSUE THOSE PARTIES WHO HAVE COST ALL OF US SO DEARLY. I will also publicly announce the bounders hiding behind such as the wonderful Millers, who—I can't imagine why not—should pursue legal actions against the culprits themselves. We have no reason to think Millers were not worse “caught” than were we. Responsibility has it, however, that NO, we CANNOT just say “oh, well” and walk away! RESPONSIBILITY DEMANDS AND REQUIRES THAT WE CONFRONT IT HEAD-ON.

Can the miscreant “pretend legal counselors” of Bilger and Cortright afford the “malpractice” suits? That is NOT “our” problem, don't you see—whoever Millers listened to and on whose input and advice they acted—it is their problem, NOT OURS. LEGALLY, OUR CONFRONTATIONS ARE CHOSEN “FOR” US AS TO WHAT IS “UNDER RULE OF LAW”. The property case is only one thing we must attend and those scumbags set Millers up to have to be THE ONES solely responsible. But nothing stops THEM from confronting these self-appointed legal experts.

No, I don't know WHY Ekkers bear all the brunt of the assaults, including the last TV notoriety by Dominick, Tuten and Bilger (made available by Neil, et al.). Ekkers were away and we have never even seen the “SERIES” yet. NOW, it appears that the “luxurious COMPOUND” featured in the EXTRA SERIES and follow-up encounters is in total control and holding by the culprits in point. How will the NEXT TV presentations appear—and why have there been NONE? YOU were hurt, participants, family and friends, by that slander, those lies and that MISrepresentation. YOU were compared with Heaven's Gate Cult, for goodness' sakes.

According to Ed Young and the “receivers”, Doris is even “OUT” of that strange “Commander's” control—as they grabbed him off, as well, stole the paper, stole funds and actually SET UP A CULT OF RAINBOW PROPORTIONS.

To me, Doris EKKER, it looks too good to be possible. These miscreants gave me full clearance as they formed what they wanted all along—A CULT to which the innocent people seem to represent as “declared enemies”—to the point that some of the participants will not even remain in a restaurant where business people are present—if recognized as one of “their” enemies.

We, EKKERS, will struggle on through all this mess because it IS THE RIGHT THING TO DO, not because we so enjoy the miserable and corrupted system of “justice” so danged much.

Why? BECAUSE WE “KNOW” GOD IS REAL, GOD IS ALIVE AND WELL, AND WE WILL DO WHAT IS MANDATORY IN THE NAME OF TRUTH TO CLEAR THESE THINGS.

Do I love Manila as a home overlooking the cesspool? NO but, by golly, I had pretty much begun to dislike the atmosphere in Tehachapi, California. Home is where the heart is: MY HEART IS WITHIN GOD, SO EVERYWHERE IN THE UNIVERSE IS MY HOME AND MY PEACEFUL DWELLING. YES, I LOVE TEHACHAPI AND YES, I LOVE MANILA, AND SOMETIMES AT NIGHT I LOOK OUT OVER THE NEXT-DOOR “MAJOR CITY” STRUCTURES THAT ARE NOW MY FRONT (AND BACK) YARD AND WEEP IN GRATITUDE FOR THIS EXPERIENCE—LIKE NONE OTHER ON EARTH—ANYTIME, ANYWHERE! AND “YOU” ARE PART OF THAT, AND MY LOVE IS SO BOUNDLESS FOR THOSE WHO HAVE MADE IT POSSIBLE THAT I AM OFFENDED BY THE NEED TO FURTHER CONFRONT ANYTHING JUST BECAUSE IT IS THE MANDATORY “RIGHT THING” TO DO.

It IS through those seemingly negative THINGS that God requires me now to look and REALLY SEE the GRACE in his structuring of lessons. WE HAVE GAINED FREEDOM AT THE VERY HANDS OF THE “ENEMY” CRUSADER-

INQUISITION! GOD KNOWS OUR NEEDS AND AS LONG AS WE KEEP PLUGGING AWAY IN HIS CREATION, WE WILL BE OK. WE MAY NOT SEE “HOW” BUT IT WILL COME TO PASS THAT—AS THE ACTS UNFOLD—THE PLAY IS SO BRILLIANTLY LAID FORTH AS TO STAGGER THE IMAGININGS OF OUR “LITTLE” MINDS. AH, BUT STICK AROUND AND THE “MIND” BECOMES A PERFECT AND TOTAL CREATIVE MASTER “CREATOR”. KEEP THE RIGHT AND TRUTH IN FOCUS—AND EVERYTHING ELSE “IMPOSSIBLE” FALLS INTO PLACE—SMOOTHLY. AND YES, PERHAPS YOU DO HAVE TO LIVE IT TO EXPERIENCE THAT KNOWING. BUT I MADE IT AND IF I CAN DO IT—YOU CAN DO IT.

The best part of this tale is that E.J. is far better in focus of purpose than am I—we just handle it differently in some ways and he has to confront these people who want the stuff, their way! What we find is that they get redirected as to what we will NOT do, so we show them the signed agreements in directives, tell them how they might otherwise approach the circumstance if they have a valid humanitarian purpose and project—and off they go with truth and realization and not just “give me the money”. “HOPE” is no longer a point here—realization of possibilities—as in partnership with Higher Resource—IS.

There is no way longer available to STOP THIS WONDROUS ADVENTURE, with or without “us”. We do, however, intend to further create the way to continue to share and participate in this realization coming to pass before us and within us. IT IS ALSO, HOWEVER, BECOMING MORE AND MORE OBVIOUS WHY THIS HAD TO BE DONE “HERE” FIRST—BECAUSE IT “CAN” BE DONE HERE AND IT CANNOT BE DONE IN SUCH AS WASHINGTON, D.C. OR ON WALL STREET, IN NEW YORK OR LONDON. AND NO, WE DO NOT FIGHT THEM AND, IN FACT, OFFER TO WORK WITH THEM—BUT WITHIN THE GUIDELINES OF “OUR PROGRAM”. And, by the way, you who just call all this a figment of Doris' “projections of an insane mind”—as has happened in the past and really quite early on—thank you. If these be ramblings from an “in-sane” mind, I appreciate my call to greatness.

The realization that we had to go through these impacts and losses is really the most incredibly “freeing” EXPERIENCE of any so far. When you have seemingly “no choice” in such matters, you know that you only have a choice of “how to handle the physical conscience impact”. We hear YOU, RON. When the actions remove the circumstance—you can really take a close look at what IS. It doesn't mean you LIKE IT, but you know that you have power and control OVER IT in its ONLY ability to impact. There are a lot of things REALLY POSITIVE about the Millers taking our home and having everything moved out and stashed. I go days now without even thinking about that place and I feel NO LOSS. I feel responsibility that I demand it be made “right”, but no emotional bindings to the thing or the things within the walls thereof. The miscreants debased the only important things of “memory” by their destruction and nasty-games. THINGS have no longer any meaning, save a few items “created” by our babies and children—and those are the things seized and destroyed by the buggers. The gifts of friends and loved ones have meaning but would be left in “death” anyway, so what remains? FREEDOM! And you know what is even more remarkable? The kids don't even have to argue over Mom's old things—for even ten minutes—we will see to it that we help them get WHAT “THEY” WANT AND NOT A BUNCH OF JUNK FROM OUR PAST. Put your values ON GOD and realize your CREATIVE abilities—and God AND PARENTS will help you CREATE “YOUR” goals and acquire those “things” to which humans aspire in their holdings and dreams.

When loss is present, within God better is also present—if we just keep on producing God's realization. And these are things I can only share—I cannot do it FOR YOU or, as Commander often said, I WOULD DO SO. And yes, indeed, our children and loved ones don't have to do a thing—except stay with us, accept our goals in respect and recognition that we needed to DO THIS MISSION, and they shall come to see that THAT IS SUFFICIENT UNTO OUR, AND THEIR, NEEDS. Our success is directly representative of YOU allowing us to keep our way and move along—and that is enough, for that is God's promise to ME regarding YOU. Specifically and publicly known: If “you” (in this instance, Ekkers and, more specifically, Dharma) will do this JOB, I will attend the other things, including the family, the friends and that which you need to set aside during this focus of mission. I accepted, HE committed, and here we are on the threshold of unlimited reward. AND, AGAIN, WHERE EMOTION IMPACTS AT ITS MOST PUNISHING WORST—WE KNOW THAT IF WE ACT IN RESPONSIBILITY, GOD WILL KEEP HIS COMMITMENT, AS LONG AS WE KEEP OURS.

We can now count on things moving along pretty well and quite rapidly as WE GET OUT OF OUR OWN WAY!

GOD IS GOING TO STOP BEING A PREFIX FOR DAMN, people. We build up such a show and confusion and false image of God. We don't want to feel “silly”, so we apologize for using the term GOD as our support system—a plan which always works for the “dark dudes”. We “assume” some religious nit-pickin'?! NO, it is not religious—IT IS TRUTH. AND NO, I DO NOT “DECLARE” ANYONE CALLED JESUS OR JOHN OR JANE—I DECLARE GOD-CHRISTED PERFECTION—and I would give no other “name” to be sullied in the use thereof. I don't need a broker to get me distracted and I don't need any “human” to tell me how to “create”—THAT IS OF GOD, DIRECTLY, IN COALITION.

I must have finally gotten this task right today for—for the first time since New Year's Day—this computer has not offered even one miscue or faltered in any manner whatsoever.

I will tell my kids something that may well elude them as regards “wants” and perceived needs: You ask for things that you “need”, in perception. The reality is that you WANT something for whatever reason that might well be perceived a need, security, perception of self—whatever. But you have already unlimited “what you need”—even if not “what you want”. When you get your goals lined up with being more interested in the so-called observed needs of OTHERS, we find that GOD PROVIDES unlimited gifts for fulfillment. Survival is not A POINT! LIVING is THE point. If you have a project of worthy value and nature—and a DESIRE with passion beyond putting aside—YOU WILL HAVE WHAT YOU WANT AND NEED TO GET IT DONE, IF IT BE RIGHTEOUS! GOD REWARDS, HE DOES NOT DUMP ON US—JUST BECAUSE... HE REWARDS FOR THOSE THINGS SERVED AND HE GIVES IN ABUNDANCE FOR THOSE THINGS DESIRED IN UNSELFISH SOUL DESIRE. SO MAKE YOUR DREAMS GOODLY AND UNSELFISH AND THERE CAN BE “NO” FAILURE TO ACHIEVEMENT. AND IF YOU SOMEHOW ARE REWARDED THROUGH “OUR” REWARD, BLESSINGS UPON “US” AND FORTUNATE YOU, BUT THE BIG GAME IS YET TO BE YOURS.

[E.J.: She bragged too soon. That last period, even though meant to be the end, froze her computer. I was in a meeting downstairs so she was pretty frustrated until I got the file copied and checked that it was complete. Now please read the last paragraph again so you don't lose the flavor of the message.]

Gulf War Illness And Squalene Antibodies

Way back in 1991, Commander Hatonn told us that all troops involved in Operation Desert Storm were administered anthrax vaccine, which would ultimately kill many of them and unleash "The Last Great Plague" upon mankind. What follows is the PROOF of that statement and of the complicity of the Bush Administration in this most heinous crime against all of humanity.

First, from the Internet, from the site of the National Library of Medicine, Pub Med, <http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/PubMed/>, we present evidence of a special adjuvant used with the anthrax vaccine.

ANTIBODIES TO SQUALENE IN GULF WAR SYNDROME

Department of Microbiology and Immunology, Tulane Medical School, 1430 Tulane Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana, 70112

[Record supplied by publisher]

Gulf War Syndrome (GWS) is a multisystemic illness afflicting many Gulf War-era veterans. The molecular pathological basis for GWS has not been established. We sought to determine whether [or not] the presence of antibodies to squalene correlates with the presence of signs and symptoms of GWS. Participants in this blinded cohort study were individuals immunized for service in Desert Shield/Desert Storm during 1990-1991. They included 144 Gulf War-era veterans or military employees (58 in the blinded study), 48 blood donors, 40 systemic lupus erythematosus patients, 34 silicone breast-implant recipients, and 30 chronic-fatigue syndrome patients. Serum antibodies to squalene were measured. In our small cohort, the substantial majority (95%) of overtly ill, deployed GWS patients had antibodies to squalene. All (100%) GWS patients immunized for service in Desert Shield/Desert Storm who did not deploy, but had the same signs and symptoms as those who did deploy, had antibodies to squalene. In contrast, none (0%) of the deployed Persian Gulf veterans not showing signs and symptoms of GWS have antibodies to squalene. Neither patients with idiopathic auto-immune disease nor healthy controls had detectable serum antibodies to squalene. The majority of symptomatic GWS patients had serum antibodies to squalene.

The next piece comes from Rick Shuster, who corresponds with Peter Kawaja, the man who has steadfastly worked to expose the perpe-traitors of this crime, as he comments on the significance of the above study.

[QUOTING:]

SQUALENE ANTIBODIES—AN INTERESTING READ

By Rick Shuster

Squalene is a substance found naturally in the body. It is also synthetically produced by pharmaceutical companies, under government license, expressly for use in experimental vaccines as an adjuvant component. Even then, a special case-by-case license must be granted because of the danger involved—the triggering of an auto-immune disease.

Squalene has not undergone the rigorous testing required for common vaccine usage. It is, apart from the vaccine antigen itself, experimental. The vaccine adjuvant's purpose is to boost the immune system so that it will produce antibodies to the introduced antigen, build immunity to infectious agents such as anthrax, faster and more effectively.

One of the reasons squalene was selected for use in adjuvants was precisely because it is found in the body. The logic behind its choice is that if it is found in the body it would, therefore, be less likely to trigger an auto-immune response. Such a response would lead to what has been called human adjuvant disease, a disease in which the body's immune system attacks tissues and systems of the human body, mistaking them for invading agents. These kinds of diseases, like systemic lupus erythematosus, rheumatoid arthritis and multiple sclerosis, to name a few, are commonly known as auto-immune diseases.

In the history of American vaccines, only one compound has been approved for general use as the primary, active compound in adjuvants because of the very real danger of causing human adjuvant disease. Aluminum hydroxide, alum for short, is that compound.

Another reason squalene was chosen for use in experimental vaccines is because the vaccines with which it was being coupled required a far stronger adjuvant. The reason they required a high-powered adjuvant is because the infectious agents they were being aimed at were far more potent, requiring the immune system to react faster and more powerfully to the threat. The only way to make these kinds of vaccines more effective was to use the industrial-strength adjuvant squalene.

At least one of these infectious agents was HIV, the virus causing AIDS. The DoD, not to mention the Departments of Health and Human Services and VA have been very much involved in AIDS research. HIV is so pervasive and pernicious that research for a vaccine isn't much closer to fruition today than it was a decade ago. A recent Scientific American article hinted at the possibility that an AIDS vaccine was close to being called a dead-end in research! (It's interesting to note that an anthrax antigen would not necessarily be more effective with a stronger adjuvant like squalene. It might build antibodies faster, but that's not a primary issue because the body appears to need a more extended time period or a better antigen than a stronger adjuvant.)

Some of the latest trends in the intentional leaks the conspiracy is making to people who think they are in the know is that the anthrax vaccine administered in the Gulf was coupled with squalene instead of alum. It was just an honest mistake aimed at protecting the troops.

This is an interesting turn of events, still not officially admitted by anyone in the government, since all government agencies involved have gone to great lengths to avoid any investigation of the vaccines and have flat-out denied that squalene was used in any vaccines in the Gulf. But, is it the real truth this time? Why would the anthrax antigen be mixed illegally with the experimental adjuvant squalene, when research already showed that squalene had the potential to cause disease and antibiotics were even then, arguably, the most effective prophylactic?

In short, now that science has proved them to be liars, they are changing their story. The fact that government officials are not telling the truth is provable in a laboratory and has been for years. Hundreds of Gulf War-era veterans, many who never went near the Gulf, have tested positive for squalene auto-antibodies.

Antibodies are produced automatically by the auto-immune system in response to a perceived threat. What that means, without any equivocation, is that members of the military were given experimental vaccines containing squalene. The auto-immune system did not previously think squalene was a threat because squalene is found in minute quantities inside cells. No one has tested positive for squalene antibodies who wasn't vaccinated with experimental vaccines. The action of injecting squalene into the body is the only explanation for the finding of squalene antibodies. The auto-immune response is very specific. It could not have been caused any other way. Injecting more people with squalene adjuvants can easily reproduce it.

When people with squalene antibodies are tested properly they are found to be positive for many different auto-immune diseases. But it is only one disease—Gulf War Syndrome. If you happen to hear a government official or some member of the medical profession proclaim—while neglecting to mention their incompatible conflicts of interest—that GWS being a human adjuvant disease is preposterous, remember the following: Go to any major medical reference book and look up systemic lupus erythematosus. It is one of the common auto-immune diseases for which GWS sufferers are testing positive—when those tests are actually done. Somewhere in the disease description it will tell you that it can be triggered by the use of prescription drugs. If lupus can be triggered by the use of medicinal drugs, then why is it so preposterous to believe that it cannot be triggered by the injection of a vaccine adjuvant designed intentionally to affect the response of the auto-immune system? How then could it be preposterous that GWS was caused by an experimental vaccine adjuvant chosen because it had high-powered properties?

Politicians, government officials and high-ranking officers of the U.S. military have not been lying because they did not know about the experimental vaccines. They are lying because they know the finding of squalene antibodies points directly at experimental anti-HIV vaccines. If you don't think so, ask yourself a few more questions. As reported in Insight magazine, why was the blood of sick Gulf War veterans checked for the remnants of HIV? Why would the DoD suspect that Gulf veterans were suffering from kind of HIV-related ailment? Why would Republicans William Cohen and Warren Rudman become apologists for the Clinton Administration? Why would the Clinton Administration cover up for the Bush Administration?

Peter Kawaja's comments provide a little more background.

[QUOTING:]

PETER KAWAJA'S COMMENTS

FOLLOW THE TRAIL—10 years ago Peter Kawaja tried to tell America and the world.

The Reigle Report was put together by the perpetrators using Senator Reigle for the JIM TUIITE et al "story" and entered into the 103rd National Congress as a RUSE—to be used by Joyce Riley, with echo from Garth Nicolson.

THIS WAS PROMISED/THREATENED TO Peter Kawaja in 1991 (appearing on ABC's Nightline) after Kawaja's wife BLED TO DEATH. In 1994, Kawaja filed a lawsuit charging the Bush Administration/U.S. Government and Federal Agents with TREASON, WAR CRIMES AND CRIMES AGAINST America.

The Murrah Building (containing the VA Hard Files records) was BOMBED two weeks after the DEPARTMENT OF DEFENSE opened case 95-L95724 under Peter Kawaja's name (separate from Kawaja's lawsuit)—when an active-duty military member was MURDERED for tracking down veterans' records. Joyce Riley from nowhere rose out of the ashes to contact Peter Kawaja, claiming she wanted to help him EXPOSE his story on a radio show. Garth Nicolson placed a "name" on GWS. When Peter Kawaja did not go along with the Riley/Nicolson (and handlers) claims and the ruse about the Reigle Report and the supposed cause of GWS by Saddam's Scuds and those "dangerous cultures sold to Iraq", The Gulf War Syndrome COVER-UP moved into HIGH GEAR.

Kawaja and all Gulf Veterans WERE BETRAYED and raped a second time.

[END QUOTING]

In another article on his web-site, identified at the end of this next citation, Peter Kawaja shows PROOF of the complicity of the Bush Administration, which we have excerpted.

[QUOTING:]

VETERANS OF THE WORLD—
PAY ATTENTION NOW!

Peter Kawaja filed a lawsuit in 1994 charging the Bush Administration, the U.S.—federal agents and 100 John Does—with WAR CRIMES, CRIMES AGAINST America, CRIMES WHEN DEATH OCCURS.

The United States GOVERNMENT appointed special U.S. attorneys to DEFEND all the NAMED Federal Agents and U.S. attorneys AT TAXPAYER EXPENSE.

The UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT has NO OBLIGATION to pay for or to appoint U.S. attorneys to defend ANY federal DEFENDANT in a CIVIL ACTION.

THE FACT THAT THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT did, in FACT, represent their agents WAS BECAUSE THE UNITED STATES DETERMINED THEY (THE U.S.) HAD "LIABILITY" IN THE CRIMINAL ACTS ENUMERATED WITHIN THE CIVIL ACTION AS CHARGED by Peter Kawaja. PERIOD.

Did you UNDERSTAND WHAT WAS JUST WRITTEN? READ IT AGAIN!

The UNITED STATES stated that "even if they committed such misconduct, they (the defendants) are protected by IMMUNITY"...under color of law. WHY? They were acting on behalf of THE U.S.! Read it and weep!

Next: Is there ANY recognized authority that has designated anything as "evidence" charging crimes that relates DIRECTLY TO THE GULF WAR?

YES—The UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT itself—under presidential WAR POWERS ACT—at GUNPOINT seized evidence from Peter Kawaja in November of 1990 BEFORE OPERATION DESERT STORM—and the U.S. SEALED THAT EVIDENCE "in the interest of U.S. national security".

WHO WOULD BE PROSECUTED IF THAT EVIDENCE WAS MADE PUBLIC?

There are untold specific actions that solidify and PROVE the claims made by Peter Kawaja, in that the UNITED STATES itself, a recognized AUTHORITY, has stated that Peter Kawaja HAS EVIDENCE....

...The Indictment UNFOLDS at <http://www.nonwo.com/dswcc/>, DESERT STORM WAR CRIMES COMMISSION.

Truth, Love and Nirvana

OBSERVATIONS

Hatonn—Until you decide that the most important thing in your existence is your Oneness with God, you shall be tossed on the sea of all other impacts along the way.

The very most important fact of life in physical form is that you are either for God of Light or you are against Him. There is no middle line.

Come tarry with me, friend, for we walk ONLY in LIGHT, even if the way seems difficult and somewhat oppressive. Do not be tossed about by the emotions of others within the chaotic assumptions that what is taking place is reality. Every journey must pull within itself the things of "what is" so that the manifest THINGS and PERSONS presented can fill in the picture of LIFE. We must CREATE the way in the midst of that which SEEMS impossible, for otherwise it has very little meaning.

If you handle everything with only positive emotions, i.e., love, optimism, faith, courage, humor, confidence—you can have only positive response. Linger in fear, distress, anger, doubt, depression, sadness, worry and jealousy and you will bury self in negativity in the immediate emotional cement of immobility—AND THE OUTCOME WILL BE NEGATIVE.

We are underway; therefore, all we must do is continue, for to have success there are two things MANDATORY from start-up: You must "get started" and you MUST NOT "QUIT".

CRISIS

As you wander off through the experiences and necessities of journey in the physical form, you are constantly faced with what "appear" to be insurmountable obstacles. You seem to make one step forward and two back, so that you SEEM to end up behind where you thought you were going. Ah, but if you make a half-revolution, you may find your trail far more interesting and you will be "ahead". It's all in the perception.

You might well say: "But, that is going backwards!" No, not necessarily, for if you think you missed NOTHING the first time down the bunny trail, you err. THE TRAIL, JUST LIKE OTHER PEOPLE, MIRRORS "YOUR"SELF AND YOUR PERCEPTIONS. A man looking at the yellow brick road can see gold, plastic or mud, lumps instead of smooth, and cracks instead of seamless surface. YOU LEARN FROM THAT WHICH "WAS", so look at it from time to time and, if that which you did was incorrect (wrong), certainly do not repeat it—BUT LOOK AT IT AND SEE WHAT YOU NOW KNOW FROM THE EXPERIENCE THAT YOU DID NOT KNOW BEFORE. IT IS CALLED COURSE CORRECTION. The facts ARE: No matter what you DO, it is at the present moment of NOW—only a memory! And what is a memory? A thought, an "image", an intangible idea.

No matter what you "wish" about what you may have perceived doing—as to wishing you hadn't done this or that or the other—but you did—what is there to do about it? You CANNOT make it not have happened, even if it were simply a "thought". You can choose how you think about it, but the point is that "it was" and now your new set of circumstances requires that you FUNCTION IN THE NOW MOMENT. Do you compound the errors or build on right? You can remain in the errors of what WAS or you can become that which is judged to be "what you ARE". You may fool your fellow man, but the FACTS are that you don't fool self and you CAN'T FOOL GOD. Furthermore, God will accept and allow you whatever it is, for it is YOUR problem, not HIS—HOWEVER, YOU ALWAYS, WHILE IN LIVING FORM, HAVE OPPORTUNITY TO CHANGE TOWARD RIGHT AND PERFECTION AND AWAY FROM THE WAY OF ERROR AND WRONG INTENTIONS.

Wow, "WITH GOD ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE!" But just to "claim" you want to be this or that—is foolishness, for by your actions is your INTENT TRULY SEEN. PIOUSNESS IS NOT RIGHTEOUSNESS! In fact, "that pious countenance" is USUALLY A COVER FOR THE LIE. I like to present a picture in that, as observations have it: Does a marriage ceremony of an hour with a pious speaker somehow come out better than a two-minute signing of the certificates? No. The marriage is the same, only the BS is under consideration. Furthermore, a wedding (marriage) is more often the "end" than the "beginning" of joy and honest sharing of goodness. And here's a bit of humor: You who undergo these wishes always pray to God to get the girl or the man and then blame God when it collapses in a heap afterwards. Do you REALLY think God is responsible for your individual foolishness?

I have experienced so many instances where my opinion is requested and I say, "That is probably an error; I would suggest you consider NOT DOING THAT...". AND WHAT DO YOU DO? YOU GO DIRECTLY AND DO IT ANYWAY. YOU SEE, YOU "WILL" DO WHAT YOU WANT TO DO, AND IF IT DOESN'T WORK—YOU WILL SEEK OUT WHO IS TO BLAME, OTHER THAN SELF.

Another thought here, while on the topic: When you realize errors in thinking and projecting—do you quickly accept responsibility and seek to rectify the circumstances if they are untoward? NOT USUALLY, UNTIL YOU CAN'T FIND ANYTHING OR ANYONE ELSE TO LONGER BLAME, AND THEN YOU WILL USUALLY HIDE BEHIND A LIE, RATHER THAN "FIX" WHAT YOU HAVE BROKEN. Human nature? Well, perhaps—BUT, these "human nature" THINGS build and build until the building collapses, if there is no discipline or responsibility. Yes, I know—so late smart! Do it again? YOU ARE DOING IT AGAIN! Oops!??

[E.J.: The above was written January 30. Doris' computer froze up, things got busy and she just finished the writing today, February 2.]

TRUTH, LOVE AND "NIRVANA"

You people try every way you can to separate selves away from some other perception as you choose to do so. In this statement I mean that you CHOOSE RELIGIOUS "DOCTRINES" which are TOTALLY man-conjured and enforced laws and bylaws of individual clutches or gaggles of assembled individuals—nothing more. Then you set about defending to the death your right to be absolutely WRONG. So, be wrong, confound it—BUT know that the "leadership" parties are in full cahoots with some "desired" outcome. That outcome can be anything from intentional corruption to outright war to the death.

What is MAN seeking? Truth and Oneness with God, if the soul is queried. What Man physical seeks is power and wealth, power through wealth, power through force or power through any manipulation he can consciously conjure. THIS IS THE WEAKNESS IN MAN, HIS EGO—AND HE EVENTUALLY "FALLS" FROM THAT WEAKNESS IN HIS PHYSICAL ASPECT STRUCTURE. FIND THE WEAKNESS AND ANY MAN CAN BE EASILY TOPPLED FROM HIS SELF-PROCLAIMED THRONE.

Since I have now brought religion into focus, I probably should make a few comments so that I am not misunderstood. Buddhism is an interesting focus and it deals with the human aspect of "being" pretty well. There are, however, MAJOR misinterpretations in concept and certainly in participation. Let us look at the "priests" of Buddha. They are wondrously disciplined and live in some altered state of presence. HOWEVER, the first thing for a person to do—who is a misfit in society or a dropout—is to become a monk. This allows you to go off somewhere amongst your "brothers" or "sisters" and become totally NON-PRODUCTIVE. The leaders (monks) meditate while you support them, bow to them, feed them and treat them as your "brokers" to get to that Nirvana (Heaven) in the afterlife, not to mention getting along in the physical life. RELIGIONS ARE COP-OUTS OF THE HIGHEST FORM.

Human is human, and when your whole thrust is to NOT be human, you err. To simply remain in a State of Bliss (Nirvana) is the most selfish one thing to which a human can commit. You ARE human in presentation and to be "out of body and brain" is fine for a short recreation break—but it surely dumps a load on the others around you who have to do the human provisions. God provides? Not usually, as you perceive it to be. If you need and somebody, like, say, 2"x 0" responds—it is because 2-by responded in generosity to SHARE with you whom he calls family, friends and co-workers. Don't confuse these things, for when you build these guidelines to SUIT YOURSELF, you miss the most impressive "attitude" of all "time"—the ability to appreciate, and honor in that appreciation, the giver.

But back to the teachings of Buddha as presented by very HUMAN interpreters: "Gentleness, serenity and compassion through liberation from selfish craving—these are the fundamental teachings of the great Oriental religion of Buddhism." OK, what do you think of THAT? Wait, what do you REALLY think of that statement?

If you, for instance, become a monk—what is THAT? Is that "call", that passion, that fundamental need—ACTUALLY NOT A SELFISH CRAVING? Who else wants you to become a monk or holds you shackled to the role? Moving on: "According to Buddhism, suffering in human life is caused by self-centered desire. The ultimate aim of the good—or religious—person should be the elimination of such desire—which can be attained through grasping the truth about reality and following the eight-fold path that leads to Nirvana." WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT?

Suffering? Elimination of desire? Can there be any other TRUE recognition, other than centered on self? So be prepared for answers you may not appreciate but which are the basic truths of all creation, as to "free-will" reasoning mankind. LIFE WAS NOT CREATED FOR SUFFERING! LIFE IS CREATED TO LIVE IN TOTAL JOY. WITHOUT DESIRE, WHAT MOTIVATES ANYONE TO DO OR BE ANYTHING? IS THERE ANYONE ELSE THAN "YOU" WITHIN "YOUR"SELF? Yes, there is—but it is called GOD! NO OTHER.

When someone says: "I will lead; you sacrifice," aren't you prepared for the slaughter and suffering, while they manipulate and destroy your world—while taking theirs and yours? As to Buddha, this is just an example—BUT, if everyone is a monk—who grows and cooks and presents the rice for the food needs? Do YOU have a right to be a monk at the distress and starvation of the worker "slaves"? Is it right that YOU be in BLISS while others about you bear the load of the journey, and you trip along on twinkle-toes to the drum-beat of the etheric realms while being manifest in a human form in a human environment? By golly, precious, precious friends, YOU MUST NOW BE TAUGHT TO LIVE AS HUMANS! YOU ARE THE VERY MOST PRECIOUS CREATION OF GOD AND YOU MISS IT EVERY DAY OF YOUR MANIFESTATION, AS YOU SEEK TO ESCAPE INTO THE LUXURY OF SLAVERY. Yes, it IS a luxury—because you seek to have another THINK and DECIDE things FOR YOU.

In Buddhism, however, you have an ever-striving need to reach the "void". Say what? Is all your wondrous opportunity for EXISTENCE to be seeking to be NOTHING and a VOID? Is this perfection and becoming ONE WITH CREATOR? NO, it CANNOT be so, for Creator is always into "SOMETHING" and not in a "VOID". Goodness me, isn't Satan a happy camper when all of you achieve the "great and wondrous void"? HAPPINESS IS BIRTHED OUT OF YOUR PRODUCTION WITHIN GOOD INTENTIONS, NOT YOUR ABILITY TO REMAIN IN ANOTHER DIMENSION WHILE YOUR BODY MAKES DEMANDS ON THOSE OTHER BODIES AND SOULS AROUND YOU.

You, further, are centered IN SELF, for that is all YOU have and when YOU make changes for SELF, you can share with others your insight and wisdom—or lead others down that Alice in Wonderland road to Oz. The wonder of it all is that YOU HAVE THAT CHOICE. Those who think they are getting something for nothing will come to realize that the price is too high in every category—or in the taking, you have signed over freedom to the State or another. Now, if you don't like where you have ended in this silly standoff game, check the LAW. You did it to self in your "get something for nothing" thoughts and, finally, through your own actions. Almost all nations are now "Welfare" states, for with any kind of taxation—you have NO FREEDOM. When it comes that what you THOUGHT you "owned" can be seized for unpaid taxes or whatever the going robbery-style might be—you are a slave to a MASTER who tells you what you will do, or you will lose your property AND end up in jail if you object! Ask Ron C.!

Can you "fight" the system? Surely, but be prepared to end up incarcerated and out of their hair. To win, you grow up through and within the system, without war, but with equality and goodness. YOU MUST CONTROL YOUR CIRCUMSTANCES AND CREATE YOUR WAY. The only hold any manipulator can have over YOU—is what they can extrude within and from YOUR MIND. Since MIND is all there is, chelas, if you keep CONTROL OF YOUR MIND, there is nothing they can do TO YOU, only to your body—and "then" is when that state of Bliss might be useful—when you can't do anything else because of the exerted FORCE upon and against you.

PERCEPTION AND REALITY, THE TWO ELUSIVE STATES OF BEING

You MUST look at the REALITY of your state of being and clearly realize that which is "human physical". A human being cannot survive a 25-story fall if he lands on his head. Ah, but can the Angels save him from the impact of the fall? Yes, but I assure you that it doesn't often happen. You WILL function within the expected realization of whatever manifest state you find self. Your soul may well "cut-out" before you hit the ground—but that body is going to be in BAD shape. Now consider this next: IS IT A GOOD EXAMPLE FOR YOUR CHILDREN TO SEE YOU—WHO MIGHT WELL THINK THAT YOU CAN FLY—DASH OUT A 25-STORY WINDOW? AND HOW MANY "OF YOU" ACTUALLY SURVIVED TO TELL THE TALE? Ouch! BIG headache!

You may very well be able to achieve the "reality" of another dimension—but, sad to say, THAT is but another illusion!

You don't just hop off one level and onto another because you saw some colored lights and heard "voices". Growth is a spiral toward KNOWING—and it is through that continuous cycle that you achieve insight and reality. Mostly you just don't want to meet the responsibilities or the realization of SELF that causes you to TRY to get into some other state of being and copout.

Some of you get so all-fired up as to push your misconceptions off onto others as being of INSIGHT, ENLIGHTENMENT, etc.—when all you are doing is living above the tunneling operations of Northrop. How dare you? Well, yes of course: IGNORANCE!

The biggest goof of all is: "Well, Jesus Christ died to relieve me of my sins." WRONG! That is conjured to keep you babies sound asleep and manageable as idiots. THE VERY MOST FOCUS OF TEACHINGS OF THE "CHRIST" IS RESPONSIBILITY FOR YOUR TRUTH "AND YOUR ERRORS (SINS)". HE "COULD NOT" HAVE TAKEN YOUR SINS AND WRONGS "FOR" YOU. And, furthermore, he DIED because he told you as much. If man realized the truth of HIMSELF, he would put down the culprits who sit the thrones and direct the hangman and armies. So you gobble up the modern-day lies to continue the kings in power, while you-the-people are wiped off the face of the Earth to suit the kings.

Esu was simply getting truth to a lot of people and was DANGEROUS to the powerful Elite, and so he was murdered—pure and simple. Then the “church”, established as a LIE about him, set up the most deadly reign of terror the world had ever known—IN HIS NAME! My, my, it is not comforting, is it? I SINCERELY HOPE NOT!

My advice? WAKE UP AND TAKE CONTROL OF YOUR LIFE! GET MASTERSHIP OF YOUR EMOTIONS, YOUR BODY, YOUR RELATIONSHIPS, YOUR FINANCES AND YOUR LIFE.

Yes, I do hear: “Easy for you big boy, but we don’t have it so good.” Don’t you? I, myself, am quite willing, ready and able to offer you the constructs to achieve in gaining that very control over yourself IN YOUR HUMAN FORMAT. I can, yes, remind you how to deal with cross relationships and let you realize that your failures are your perceptions, for if you are “failing”—you ARE quite a success, for you are certainly succeeding at failure! What mankind needs in the human form is HOW TO MAKE IT IN THE HUMAN FORM! CHANGE YOUR MIND AND YOU CHANGE YOUR WORLD! THINK YOUR PLAN AND MOVE INTO ACTION, BUT DO NOT STEAL ANOTHER’S IDEAS AND TRY TO MAKE THEM YOUR OWN. CREATE YOUR WAY IN THE PERFECTION OF POSITIVE CREATION AND GROWTH—BUT YOU MUST BE WILLING TO DO SOMETHING—FOR SELF. MAN IS LAZY and filled with FEAR. He fears failure and is too lazy to make the effort to better his own existence. “Let somebody else...” is the hue and cry and thus, “The Government should attend this or that...” and “There should be a law...”, so there become more and more laws BECAUSE YOU DEMAND THEM WITH YOUR TOTAL LACK OF RESPONSIBILITY—FOR SELF.

CONSCIENCE

No, chelas, the REASON we lose our “buddies” is that they are too lazy, too self-egotistical, want something from others’ labors—AND they surely DO NOT WANT TRUTH. TRUTH causes you to look in the mirror at SELF—and people only want the mirror to reflect that wondrously absurd picture you conjure about yourself. I AM YOUR CONSCIENCE EVERY TIME WE SIT TO PUT THESE WORDS TO PRINT. MOST PEOPLE DO NOT LIKE A CONSCIENCE THAT WILL OFFER TRUTH. THE ACTUAL FACTS ARE THAT MAN “DOES WANT FLATTERY”, for he refuses to believe the truth. You are miracles in each individual aspect; you are perfection in the presentation of God, and you turn and deny it—while blaming another for your transgressions and refusal to LEARN TRUTH.

No, I don’t like to, nor am I impressed by someone picking up a speaking device and contacting and interviewing some “other” for words of wisdom, sensation or whatever. You need “interesting” input to keep you noticing the interviewer and, as in today, you can take the SAME presentations right off the electronic Internet and from there do we get most of our presentations. THIS is what you want from me, and yet, to survive as a paper, we have to have all that human-related OPINION, don’t we?

Let me example my attitude about “pushing for subscribers”. We are not in the “subscriber” business, readers. We want to reach OUR PEOPLE. Further, we must always look at EVERY event as to the more positive aspects thereof. Let us just take CONTACT as a larger perspective of my example, as through wrong (yea, criminal) actions the paper was literally STOLEN, then used for unlawful publications of at least three editions before stopped. Then when “stopped” by intervention of LAW, the kidlets are found to have STOLEN money from the very bank accounts, STOLEN the mailing lists of everything and everyone involved, even personal family members of associated parties. Then, contact information for many of the ongoing contributors was removed so that contacts could not be easily made with parties involved. So, agreements were made and legally bound—and THEY BROKE ALL THOSE AGREEMENTS AS WELL, WHICH IS “CONTEMPT OF COURT”.

All this looks bad and bleak? Not to you who see beyond the moment of distress. All those things they keep doing—and the breaking of the agreements—break the contract and give you recourse and time to see what ARE THE DAMAGES. Every single lost subscriber to the LIE and liars is a cause for CONTACT to present damages in the court of law. There is, further, a FIDUCIARY RESPONSIBILITY to involved parties to ATTEND IT. These were not just little personal offences to an E.J. or a Doris—this was unlawful and criminal action, theft, slander, interference of business relationships, defamation of products, property and writings as to outright denial of any truth remaining in our own presentations—and, as well, gross misrepresentations of even “myself” and my compatriots—real or imagined. EVERYTHING THEY HAVE DONE HAS BEEN TO OUR BENEFIT, so we can complain about the sad state of affairs but, if you remain in truth, you have RECOURSE. AND RESPONSIBILITY UNDER THE LAWS OF THE LAND DEMANDS THAT YOU CONFRONT THE UNLAWFUL ACTIONS AND INVOLVED PARTIES. WE DID NOT MAKE THE LAWS—BUT WE MUST ABIDE WITHIN THEM. IF EKKERS, FOR INSTANCE, FAIL TO CONFRONT THESE OPPONENTS NOW CALLING THEMSELVES “DECLARED ENEMIES”, ALL OF YOU WHO HAVE WORKED WITH OR WITHIN OUR PROJECTS AND SPACES—NOT ONLY SHOULD BUT ARE OBLIGATED TO CALL EKKERS TO TASK BEFORE THE LAW. Just as the law must be exercised for each equally, you who have been hurt by the antics of the miscreants MUST HAVE EQUAL JUSTICE under those SAME laws.

Therefore, I urge each of you to hold steady and do not simply turn and “react”. Look carefully at WHAT IS and then respond within the law, in direct authority of responsible actions, and hold steady while LOOKING AT THE FACTS AND THE POSITIVE ASPECTS AS THEY AFFECT YOU DIRECTLY, THEN INDIRECTLY—AND THEN IN THE BEST POSSIBLE MANNER. WHEN YOU ARE “RIGHT”, CHELAS, YOU “MUST” WIN, BECAUSE IF YOU ARE “RIGHT”, THEN THE OTHER IN OPPOSITION IS “WRONG” AND SHOULD STAND RESPONSIBLE FOR HIS ACTIONS. AND, IF CRIMINAL ACTIONS HAVE BEEN TAKEN—IT MUST BE CONFRONTED, PREFERABLY AT A CRIMINAL LEVEL OF CONFRONTATION. When a man takes from a bank account, it is bad enough if the person from which the funds were taken is violated—BUT

TO VIOLATE BUSINESS CORPORATIONS AND TAKE FUNDS IS EMBEZZLEMENT AND GRAND THEFT. THEN TO TRY AND TWIST THE LAWS TO MAKE YOURSELF APPEAR INNOCENT AND PIOUS—IS DASTARDLY AND TOTALLY UNACCEPTABLE TO ANY THINKING, JUST PERSON.

Remember something very interesting: IGNORANCE OF THE LAW IS NO EXCUSE—as in the laws of the land, broken. You may well find a judge or jury who will judge your “INTENT” BECAUSE THAT IS THE BALANCING FACTOR, but do not expect “ignorance” OF A LAW to serve you very often—especially against the police or laws of the road or in robbery. Once in CRIMINAL court these things become ever so much more binding than in a civil confrontation.

So, these little bunny-kids have tried every known tactic to bring criminal charges or Federal involvement against Ekkers—my, my, they just caused the ability to have all those charges brought against themselves—HAVEN’T THEY? And they did it publicly and on TV, yet. I love the excuse for taking thousands of dollars for themselves: “We just prepaid ourselves”—after the fact and long after TERMINATION. But, prior to that they have claimed “no income” to such as the IRS, and surely enough they were individually PAID through corporations, etc., etc., etc. Has anyone found the pea under the walnut shell?

It is a FACT that it is WISE to know what you are doing. Nobody in that group had time to take and “learn” how things work properly—they just “knew it all already”. Oh, well.

What does this have to do with anything? Well, Ekkers, for two, have awakened to reality and truth in fact AND ARE TAKING CONTROL OF THEIR LIVES. AND IN TAKING CONTROL OF THEIR LIVES—IT GOES A LONG WAY TO PROTECTING SOME OF “YOUR” ASSETS. HUMAN PHYSICAL EXPERIENCES ARE WHAT YOUR JOURNEY IS ABOUT AND IN THOSE EXPERIENCES YOU BEGIN TO FIND YOUR PURPOSE. OUR INTENTIONS AND PURPOSES ARE NOT TO PRODUCE A NEAT PAPER FOR SENSATIONAL SHAPE-SHIFTERS; WE HAVE A JOB TO DO, AND THE PAPER WAS STRUCTURED TO ACCOMPLISH OUR JOB THROUGH IT, AS A TOOL.

But, you say, it is really interesting to have input from Ghost Wolf, Icke and others. Well, you can buy their books or get the information from the Internet like Spectrum does, or plagiarize Dharma’s work or whatever grabs you—but entertainment is NOT OUR MOTIVATION TO HAVE A PAPER. You speak of Ghost Wolf and what they are doing and the prophecies—AH, THE PROPHECIES. What are you doing, people? While they dink with sensational stuff, tunnels and possibilities—we are paying for the digging in those tunnels and those are OUR PROJECTS. You know, the ones you contributed to and now claim through “greed of the Ekkers” have escaped you somehow. How so, when WE HAVE NEVER EVEN SLOWED UP.

If your life is unsatisfactory or “out of control”—then go look in the mirror, and THEN get yourself under control and you will be astounded at the possibilities teeming around you.

We need to leave this now, so in appreciation and unlimited love and wish for sharing, I remain,

Gold Utilization Boosted By Recent IMF Tactics

THANK YOU, IMF AND MR. CAMDESSUS

Hatonn—Dharma, I ask that the entire Reg Howe paper from Gold Eagle, 1/26/00, be put to disk so that we can use the material.

IMF'S OFF-MARKET GOLD SALES: TOWARD THE NEW ORDER?

By Reg Howe, From Gold Eagle, 1/26/00

Speaking this week in Gabon, Michel Camdessus, the retiring Managing Director of the IMF, revealed that the Fund has "almost tripled the resources of gold" that it is prepared to use in support of its plan to lower the debt burden of poor countries (www.imf.org/external/np/tr/2000/TR000112.htm).

Originally the IMF, with the support of Britain and the U.S.—but not that of several European countries, particularly Germany—proposed to sell some of its gold reserves to finance its so-called Heavily Indebted Poor Countries (HIPC) and Enhanced Structural Adjustment Facility (ESAF) initiatives. The income from investment of the proceeds of these sales was to be applied to fund these initiatives. However, given the relatively small amount of income likely to be generated, there were suspicions in many quarters that the scheme had an important ulterior purpose: namely, to help balance the growing gap between annual gold demand—in excess of 4000 metric tonnes—and new mine production—around 2500 tonnes. Gold bugs, of course, smelled manipulation aimed at capping the gold price.

The weak gold prices that followed in the wake of the Bank of England's May 1999 announcement of its own gold sales program galvanized additional strong opposition to the IMF's original plan, which also required approval of the U.S. Congress. As a result, the IMF advanced and secured approval of an alternate plan to fund its HIPC and ESAF initiatives. This plan replaced the proposed gold sales with certain off-market transactions in gold (www.imf.org/external/np/sec/nb/1999/nb9962.htm).

These transactions, which involve settlement of certain obligations coming due to the IMF by member countries, operate as follows: First, the IMF sells gold to the member at the current market price, placing the profits from the sale in a special account to be invested for the benefit of the HIPC and ESAF initiatives. The profits are the difference between the IMF's book carrying value of the gold (i.e., one ounce=35 SDRs, or approximately U.S.$48) and its market value. Second, the member purchasing the gold then satisfies its obligation to the IMF by returning the gold at the same market price. Accordingly, the amount of gold involved in any single transaction will be that amount which at the current market price equals the member's obligation. The IMF explains further:

The net effect of these transactions will be to leave the IMF's holdings of physical gold unchanged. No gold will be released to the market, and thus there will be no impact on the supply-and-demand balance in the market. The IMF's gold holdings accepted in settlement of members' obligations...will be recorded at a higher value on the IMF's balance sheet, and acceptance of this gold (instead of currencies or SDRs) in such settlements will reduce the IMF's liquidity by the amount of profits transferred for the benefit of the HIPC and ESAF initiatives...and its net income.

According to the above link, the original plan called for transactions involving in total 14 million troy ounces (about 435 metric tonnes) of gold. Taking Michel Camdessus at his word, it appears that now more than 40 million ounces are committed to the plan. The IMF's total gold stock exceeds 103 million troy ounces (3200 metric tonnes), making it one of the largest official gold holders in the world. More information on its gold holdings and policies with respect thereto can be found at www.imf.org/external/np/exr/facts/gold.htm. Subject to approval by an 85% majority vote, the IMF can sell gold at market prices and accept gold in settlement of members' obligations at agreed prices based on market prices. It cannot buy gold or engage in any other transactions in gold (e.g., loans, leases, swaps, etc.), nor can it use its gold as collateral for loans.

The IMF's second off-market gold sale, involving just over 655,000 troy ounces (20.4 metric tonnes), was completed with Mexico on December 17, 1999 (www.imf.org/external/np/sec/nb/1999.htm). The press release states in relevant part:

The IMF retained about SDR 23 million on its own account as required by the Articles of Agreement. The remainder of the proceeds—SDR 111 million (about U.S.$152 million)—was invested with the Bank for International Settlements (BIS) to generate income for the Heavily Indebted Poor Countries (HIPC) initiative.

The term SDR refers to the IMF Special Drawing Right, which is essentially an accounting convention of the Fund. SDRs are described at www.imf.org/external/pubs/ft/survey/sup0998/11.htm. The SDR is a weighted composite of the currencies of the U.S., Britain, France, Germany and Japan—which today means the dollar, euro, pound and yen. Its value is determined daily by the Fund on the basis of market rates for its components. The SDR interest rate is adjusted weekly on the basis of certain domestic short-term rates in the five specified countries. SDRs can be used in transactions among the Fund, its members and 15 other "prescribed" institutional holders, presumably including the BIS. However, while the IMF can create international liquidity by allocating SDRs to its members, it cannot allocate SDRs to itself or prescribed holders.

In essence, the IMF's off-market gold sales are a mechanism for creating SDRs for the Fund itself by revaluing a certain portion of its gold from SDR 35/troy oz. to current market prices expressed in SDRs. These new SDRs are apparently being placed with the BIS, a prescribed holder, because IMF rules prohibit its Special Disbursement Account—which includes the HIPC and ESAF initiatives, and other accounts administered by it—from holding SDRs directly.

Although I have read speculation that some IMF gold may be reaching the market through its off-market gold sales, I am unable to come up with any plausible scenario as to how this might happen. On the other hand, the apparent success of the IMF's program may have favorable longer-range implications for gold.

Certainly, until all its gold is revalued from SDR 35/troy oz. to market prices, the argument for outright gold sales by the IMF will be difficult to make. Indeed, if ever there were a situation of eating one's cake and having it too, these current off-market gold sales would seem to be it. Of course, once all the Fund's gold is revalued to market prices, only further increases in the gold price itself will support creation of additional SDRs in this manner for the Fund's own use.

A good argument can be made that the EMU's ultimate vision is not a euro fixed to gold, but a euro regularly measured against gold at market prices. Under a system of this sort, the euro could serve as the domestic currency of the EMU countries without the rigidities of the classical gold standard. It could also serve as a major currency, possibly the dominant currency, for settlement of private international transactions and for international finance. But gold would resume its role as the international standard of value—the yardstick for all currencies. It would also become the principal component of most nations' international monetary reserves and, at market prices, the standard medium for settlement among national governments (i.e., central banks) and international monetary authorities. The days of one nation's paper currency serving as the world's principal international monetary reserve would be over.

The beginnings of a system of this sort can already be glimpsed in both the EMU's practice of marking its gold reserves to market quarterly and the Washington Agreement affirming that gold will remain an important part of the Euro Area's international monetary reserves. Although starting with a proposal for gold sales much like the BOE's, the IMF ended with a system of off-market gold sales involving settlement of international obligations in gold at current market prices. In hindsight, this IMF program could well be perceived as another step, however small, toward restoring gold to a major role in the international payments system.

In any event, by dropping the fiction of gold at SDR 35/troy oz. and embracing market prices, the IMF has aligned itself with the EMU as an official sector institution in which the market price for gold has a significant and current balance-sheet impact. In the long run, institutions operating in this manner are likely to find that it is more in their interest to have an honest, free-market price for physical gold than an unrealistic price subject to manipulation in largely paper markets such as the COMEX, TOCOM and LBMA. Increasingly, these large official holders of gold should come to realize that rising gold prices are not always a harbinger of rising prices or proof of bad monetary management. Instead, they can be at times an indicator of rising general productivity relative to gold, and in that context an opportunity for a fundamentally benign upward revaluation of existing gold stocks in accordance with market dictates and to the benefit of gold holders.

Put another way, if the IMF can do a lot for poor countries with a gold price near $300/oz., it could do twice as much with a gold price near $600/oz. That is the price that even today many knowledgeable gold analysts suggest may be necessary to bring physical gold demand and new mine production back into equilibrium. Why, then, should the IMF fight it? Indeed, why should any large official holder of gold, except of course the U.S. which now enjoys “the exorbitant privilege” of printing its way out of its international deficits?—Reg Howe; row@ix.netcom.com; http://www.goldsextant.com [END QUOTING]

This additional information came from JHR:

According to the WORLD GOLD COUNCIL, TOP 10 OFFICIAL GOLD HOLDINGS AS OF JANUARY 2000:

	Tonnes
1. United States	8170
2. Germany	4369
3. IMF	3217
4. France	3024
5. Switzerland	2590
6. Italy	2452
7. Netherlands	982
8. Japan	754
9. ECB	747
10. United Kingdom	640

Perhaps an operative word here might well be “official”.

So what? Or: What good is this? Oh, I think certainly that more than only our team can see the merits of this little plan.

THIS is what you have been waiting for, E.J., so please “draw some pictures”!

Thank you.

IMF Debt Not EVER Expected To Be Repaid

2/4/00—#1

ASKING, BELIEVING—KNOWING

Hatonn—Why is the above statement true? Because if you do not believe, you will NOT even recognize that which is in response to your asking. KNOWING that your “asking” will be heard and a PROPER response will be forthcoming is the “magic” in this circumstance. All the chanting in the world does nothing except (possibly) CAUSE SELF TO COME TO SOME KIND OF PRETEND BELIEF IN THE LEARNING PROCESS.

A lot of things, for instance, that Dharma KNOWS will bring results instantly are overlooked by those that take the information and act not on the instructions or drag about for days trying to be in self-perfection, and the moment is lost—often forever.

Opportunity? Well, it sort of works like this “Knock-Knock” ditty:

A man was perfecting THE formula for youth. He had realized that the success of the product required a processing through a freezing process—but did not need more than just that cooling process. Ah, with joy he went to the refrigerator only to find it NOT WORKING and there was no ice.

In the inability to complete this necessary part of his process he was distraught and when there was a knock at the door, he grumbled and ignored the interruption. Over the following few minutes the visitor continued to knock and the inventor continued to ignore.

Finally at the knock-knock the inventor yelled: “Who is it?”

The answer from outside: “God.”

“God WHO?” shouted the irritated inventor.
“God Flammit, but never mind, the ice has melted!”
And so, how is YOUR ice supply?

USE WHAT YOU ARE GIVEN

We have a PERFECT “product”, chelas, and yes, we will answer EVERY KNOCK!

I am asking E.J. to pull together a program using the new information seeping out of the IMF, for instance. If you watch the reports, you will find the CLUES to perfection of interrelationships which win-win.

As you deal with the IMF, World Bank and such ilk, you have the very worst of positions on that totem, if you are, particularly, a nation in genuine poverty.

The inference is always, when a nation borrows money, that there will be no (snicker, wink and tongue bulge) PAYBACK expected. Oh, there will be the under-the-table suggestion that the principal will never be expected IF THE NATION SORT-OF PAYS ITS INTEREST REQUIREMENTS.

Mr. Singson, just retired Governor of the Philippine Central Bank, made an interesting speech in Los Angeles, California AT THE TIME OF HIS RETIREMENT. He said to the gathered audience that “...the IMF debt will not be paid, so go ahead and get as much in loans as possible...”

Well, the facts are that this is the way it usually IS. However, the IMF has NOW frozen those payments “due and owing” and are doing so on the basis of absurd reasoning, while making every possible effort to force the Philippine government to PAY UP “SOMETHING BIG”.

It seems to be totally missed by the Philippines, however, that the IMF—through Mr. Camdessus’ own words—has given forth THE VERY SOLUTION TO THE ENTIRE NATIONAL DEBT.

I am not going to outline the program possibilities here but I do expect the “IMF article” regarding “gold” to be run with this next information. We are laying out the program which will be accepted and—when that program is “perfected” to suit E.J.—we will run it as a PUBLIC NOTICE of some kind, so that the “agreements” are realized. What a strange world you have! Oh, well...

[QUOTING from the PHILIPPINE STAR, “Business” (B-4), Friday, February 4, 2000:]

[H: It might be noted on your calendars the importance of this particular time “OF THE DRAGON”. This is New Year’s Eve for China in the “Year of the Dragon”. And, if you think this is not important—I suggest you most certainly pay attention.]

CAMDESSUS SAYS IMF SHOULD BE RECOGNIZED AS LENDER OF LAST RESORT

[H: Yes, indeed, I did offer business “information” on this “last resort” topic a few months ago—regarding the same organizations.]

NEW YORK (AFP)—The International Monetary Fund (IMF) should be recognized as a lender of last resort similar to a national central bank and be authorized to inject money into the international financial system in times of crisis, IMF Managing Director Michel Camdessus said.

Addressing the COUNCIL ON FOREIGN RELATIONS [H: big clue], Camdessus also argued that the IMF should have the right to impose a temporary freeze on legal action by private creditors against countries that, despite good faith efforts, CANNOT avoid default. Camdessus, who will step down in mid-February after 13 years as Managing Director, said the IMF was already “the closest that the international financial system has to a lender of last resort”. [H: There it is in black and white, readers.]

“It is a function that we have been performing and adapting for over 50 years, and it wouldn’t hurt to recognize it, to confirm the Fund in this role and to invite it to continue to offer the international community this vital guarantee with enough of a judgmental basis to avoid any risk of moral hazard.”

[H: By the way, for your information, it is that the highest-level positions in the economic quarters of nations—the officers, such as the Secretary of Treasury, Attorney General, and others from the Central Bank on down—ARE PAID DIRECTLY BY THE IMF AND THAT IS WHY THOSE JOBS ARE SO EAGERLY SOUGHT! THIS IS THE PAYOFF FOR THE CORRUPTED ELITE IN THOSE PLACES OF POWER. AND THIS IS TRUE EVEN IN THE U.S.A., MY FRIENDS—NOT TO MENTION ANY OTHER POSITIONS. AND THIS IS WHY THE NATIONS ARE SHACKLED TO THE IMF AND WB LIKE WITH SUPER-GLUE—THE PEOPLE IN POWER “WORK FOR THEM”—DIRECTLY! This, however, is not “for public knowledge” or even for the recognition of the, say, President. This is just a little “supplement”, even though the sums paid are enormous. AND THIS IS WHY IT IS SO HARD TO BREAK THE ONGOING HEMORRHAGING AND THE TOTAL INABILITY TO FIRE ANY OF THESE PEOPLE IN THOSE HIGH POSITIONS. IT IS A CYCLE OF TYRANNY BEYOND ALL OTHERS.]

But it is precisely because of such a risk that Camdessus’ proposal is likely to encounter spirited opposition by members of the U.S. Congress preoccupied with “moral hazard”.

PRUDENT FINANCIAL DECISIONS

The term refers to the danger that governments as well as creditors might be encouraged to make imprudent financial decisions on the assumption the IMF will always be there to bail them out.

Once designated as a lender of last resort, according to Camdessus, the IMF should be given the authority to intervene more forcefully in times of crisis.

"It is not unreasonable to expect that, in a grave crisis, the leading countries would collaborate to inject a proper amount of international liquidity through a very simple mechanism which could decisively underpin confidence in the international system," Camdessus said.

"To this end, the IMF might be authorized to inject international liquidity and to withdraw it when the need had passed, in a manner analogous to that of a national central bank." [END OF QUOTING]

Oh my, if you have a nation in total poverty with no hopes of jobs or income for recovery—is this not a stupid assumption? If a man borrows for a crust of bread and yet has no way to repay it in bread or money, what have you? That's right, you have the IMF and WB, as currently structured. Those culprits of greed have even been able to buy gold at $35/oz while YOU pay at $300, $600 or more an ounce. They have been able to skive off enough gold to be the third largest gold holder in the world. But NOW, playing in the game with "market value" will gain them untold assets—BUT, IT WILL ALSO ALLOW NATIONS TO USE SOME OF THEIR OWN "COMMODITIES" TO PAY UP.

This IS, however, a perfect way to manage in places like the Philippines, which would have gold assets if the people could depend upon honorable transactions. Moreover, the people would put that gold wealth to work by-the-PEOPLE in projects FOR THEMSELVES. What of the politicians? What of them? It would seem the PEOPLE might have to continue to pay for the entertainment escapades of those elected officials and hangers-on parasites—but THE PEOPLE WOULD REGAIN CONTROL OF THEIR NATION. AND, BETTER YET, YOU HAVE TRAINED (BY THE IMF) BOOKKEEPERS ALREADY AVAILABLE TO HIRE TO KEEP TABS ON THE EXCHANGE AND RESERVES.

Yes, my team is "crawling" through the blockades, inch by inch. But, in the interim, THE PEOPLE are learning what a tool and asset THEY NOW HAVE to DEMAND change. We have reached beyond "critical mass" and yes, it will happen BECAUSE IT IS GOOD FOR EVERYBODY—EVEN THE CROOKS.

So, what of the antagonisms "back home in the U.S.A."? So be it, for daily our own "cases" grow in ability to prevail easily. Short-run cannot be considered as other than "getting there". As for Ekkers and recognition, they have to simply put it aside. They will find that the dwelling on Adam Dr. (the home in conflict) is simply being basically "guarded" and that is where you will find Janet B. fitting into the picture of being so frequently on site. And Ray? Oh, he doesn't work—he tends Daniel, and lives off welfare and Janet. This was Millers' choice for attending the property, and with the "connections" all in legal presentation, see, it helps us AGAIN, for we demanded "professional" attendance, not oversight by one of the DECLARED ENEMIES. So be it, and know—as often is surmised by the Spectrum team—that "I" have a good ability to KNOW a lot of things about almost everything. It comes with the job.

Dharma, since this needs to be used for other purposes and by other parties, please end this writing here. It can, for ease of sending timely, be attached to last evening's copy.

Thank you for attending this early today.

In total light, G.C. Hatonn, Director-CEO

Bellringer BS Refuted

By Doris and E.J. Ekker, 12/23/99

We were somewhat surprised to receive a copy (just this week) of what Patrick Bellringer has produced on his Internet web-site, "Four Winds", dated September 28, 1999.

While we continue to believe Patrick H. Bellringer to be Patrick Bailey, we acknowledge the immediate denial of same. Some three years ago, we sat at dinner with several of the local crew and Patrick Bailey. At THAT dinner, Patrick spoke of his Internet ideas and mentioned using the pseudonym of "Patrick H. Bellringer". So, Mr. Bailey, if you are listening, it is time you spoke up. However, we do not overlook your statement in your March diatribe: "...I am saddened to hear THIS OF A DEAR FRIEND who has spent more than a decade...".

And let's look at your lineup with the "other two" miscreants:

<http://www.fourwinds10.com>

<http://www.contactnews10.com>

<http://www.spectrumnews10.com>

Now, do YOU see anything remarkably similar in this lineup? Or perhaps the Spectrum Rainbow kids set up a nice new and useful web-site with Patrick's information? How come there is a CONTACT web-site after the CONTACT attorney ordered them to close it? That looks like a clear case of contempt to us and should be plenty of cause to reopen the case. CONTACT did not start that Internet site—Ed Young, through some people calling themselves "Pleiades Command Headquarters" in North or South Dakota did. The listing above indicates that it is functioning under the Ed Young GROUP. It may turn out that they will wish this latest trashing of Ekkers was done by Patrick Bailey; we are going to enjoy finding out.

Here are our responses (indicated by "RESP") to "Bellringer" (indicated by "BR", followed by the paragraph number—e.g. "BR (1)" refers to Bellringer's first paragraph):

BR (1): Since this past April the Contact Newspaper has spiraled rapidly downward into the darkness of negative energies, and in some circles has become known as "Doris Ekker's Rag Sheet", though there is occasional Truth presented in it by the Lighted Masters such as Korton and Soltec. It is sad, indeed, to see one so noble in presenting Truth for so long, now groveling in the Adversary's gutter of lies and vindictiveness. In past life-streams Doris "walked" in the shoes of Aknaton, Plato and Socrates, and with Esu Immanuel in the person of his beloved disciple, Peter. Her task in this present lifestream as a receiver of Truth from one, Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, during this last third dimensional civilization on Earth Shan was equally as noble.

RESP: Korton and Soltec ARE NOT "MASTERS" and never claimed to be. They are presented as "Masters" by Dr. Young in his writings. If I (Doris) was once so Noble but deteriorated: WHY ARE THE SPECTRUM GROUPIE TROOPIES STILL COPYING EVERYTHING, INCLUDING NAMES, FOR THEIR MATERIAL FROM "MY" MATERIAL? I also note that I WAS even a miraculous something-or-other to have walked in all those shoes; brilliant as I might be, I find it awkward to have been Socrates and Plato—for they existed at the same time and, gosh, I can hardly keep up with "one" MUCH LESS TWO INFAMOUS PHILOSOPHERS—WHO ACTUALLY WERE IN MUCH CONTRADICTION HISTORICALLY. (This is an error not likely committed by Patrick Bailey or Ed Young, so who does that leave?)

BR (2): What has happened to Doris and E.J. Ekker is both an example and a warning to the enlightened of the tricks of the adversary. Free-will and ego are always the basic causes for anyone's demise, and the Ekkers cannot say that they were not warned many times to stay alert.

RESP: Yes, and we have STAYED alert! The DECLARED ADVERSARIES OF E.J. AND DORIS ARE THE SPECTRUM GROUP, PUSHED HARDEST BY THE MOST OUTSPOKENLY DECLARED SELF-PROFESSED "ENEMY", RICK MARTIN-CORTRIGHT. I would most certainly agree that when the bullies get after you, the stories get downright amazing in presentation. Free will and ego? We have had free-will choices and we have chosen to serve God in goodness, even at our own losses and battering—by those very thugs and thieves. Have you noticed that they have broken many laws, stolen property and maliciously maligned Ekkers, while we have not deviated or varied from our guided course of strict lawfulness?

BR (3): Hatonn asked Doris to take time off from her work to rest, but she refused to do so. She never allowed herself enough time to even re-read and understand the messages she received for Contact, which were often directed to her, E.J. and the Contact staff. The Ekkers were told to keep themselves under the protection of the Lighted Realms at all times, to give responsibility to others for the various court cases and funds, and to not leave Tehachapi, California and the energy of the great crystal which underlies the city.

RESP: WRONG! Hatonn asked nothing of the sort of Doris. Ed Young and Norey Latona presented a need for Doris to rest and turn over the receiving to them. Ekkers NEVER moved out from the protection of the "Lighted Realms" and there were no objections when Ekkers (at the request of Hatonn) readied for a trip to the Philippines. Who ever said not to leave Tehachapi, California? Think you that God is dependent upon that crystal for our protection? By the way, we read and re-read those messages given through me as well as those being presented by those other "receivers", as interpreted by Dr. Young. The perversion of our material began slowly, almost imperceptibly; when we objected to Dr. Young was when the trouble began.

BR (4): Many have observed the "slippage" occurring in Doris' receivings over the past several years. This became most obvious during the Sunday night gatherings, as ego "colored" the receivings. A specific example of "ego-shifting" is the Doris Ekker/Grandma (V.K. Durham) negative dialogue some time ago over use of the Peruvian Gold Certificate (PGC). Due to their indiscretions in the use of funds and their ego-tripping through the courts to protect “their” property, the Ekkers were told by Hatonn that they would never have large sums of money for personal use.

RESP: Sunday NIGHT gatherings? Clue number one: WHAT Sunday night gatherings? Wherefrom comes such misinformation? The Hatonn gatherings were almost always scheduled at 1:30 PM (or earlier) on Saturday or Sunday. Such “receptions” were always recorded and audio tapes sent out to those subscribing to “The Word”. If “slippage” was occurring, there would have been plenty of evidence available long ago. Isn’t it interesting how Mr. Bellringer’s own lies are coming to the surface?

You refer to a specific example of “ego-shifting” regarding negative dialogue with V.K. Durham some time ago, over use of the Peruvian Gold Certificate (PGC). “Ego-shifting”? Sounds a bit like “shape shifting”, for which the Spectrum group has gained quite a bit of recent notoriety. Any “conversations” Doris had with V.K. were warm and friendly and spoke of lots of things, but I don’t remember even one in which the PGC was mentioned. The point IS: DOESN’T ANYONE OUT THERE REMEMBER THAT THERE WAS NO LONGER A PERUVIAN GOLD CERTIFICATE TO TAKE INTO CONSIDERATION—and nobody understood that better than V.K. Whatever had been done about that certificate was long before we, Ekkers, ever heard of such a thing.

“Ego-tripping” through the courts? My, I see that the writers of this missive have no concept of law—or the manner of courts.

Next, we have the perfect example of the adversary’s ability to take two unrelated thoughts and put them together as “evidence” to make his point, “irrefutably”. The combined statement goes: “Due to their indiscretions in the use of funds...the Ekkers were told by Hatonn that they would never have large sums of money for personal use.” That sounds like Hatonn said Ekkers were misusing funds. If he did, it would be the only known example of Hatonn failing to confront the guilty party. The second part is meant to sound like Hatonn was punishing Ekkers by not allowing them to have “large sums of money for personal use”. The facts are that Hatonn taught Ekkers and everyone else to use corporations to manage their money, so that they never needed large sums of money for “personal use”. When Hatonn was dissatisfied with the use of funds, as in the cases of Ence at the farm and Dixon with the CLC, he brought it to confrontation and put an end to it.

BR (5): At one point they were directed to set up a corporation exactly like George Bush’s Inter-American Investment Corporation for total protection and were given all the necessary information to do so. Discovering that George’s “corporation” was unincorporated, the Ekkers attempted to incorporate George’s “corporation” for themselves and steal his Super Fund, which was illegally based on the Herman PGC of 1875 and control all, rather than follow their directive.

RESP: This tale gets more and more interesting and amusing. We were getting a LOT of talk about some of these “so-called” “Bush” CORPORATIONS—in which, it turns out, you will find no mention of “George Bush”, other than perhaps as an advisor. To get some information in order to back up things V.K. was publishing, RICK MARTIN tracked down “THE” people with THAT “Inter American...” company. BUT, THERE WAS NO INCORPORATION OF SAME—AND IT WAS ADMITTED WHEN RICK QUESTIONED THEM. In fact, we have the Annual Report book of said company and, surely enough, it is an Inter-American group of some kind, wherein many countries, including the U.S., paid into the pot to become members in the organization from which they would receive help. Rubin, then Secretary of the Treasury, showed as “Governor” of the banking operation in the U.S.

But, contrary to BR’s assertion above, yes, indeed, we did incorporate it—in Nevada—just as we were directed, in 1996. However, we didn’t realize that it was George Bush’s Super-fund operation—which it was not—and with its puny assets it certainly could not be too “Super” in scope. George Bush and Russell Herman parted company in 1989; Russell died in 1994, so you can see how lubricious such an assertion is in light of a few facts.

Of course, Bush’s Super Fund was based on the Herman PGC, but that was done mostly prior to Herman having it reconfirmed, reformed, and reissued as a contract/jurat of “identifiable ownership” at the Peruvian Consulate in Los Angeles in August of 1989.

BR (6): Since its inception the Evil Controllers have tried to destroy the Contact newspaper, as they had its predecessor, The Phoenix Liberator. This intrigue is recorded in the back issues of Contact. Knowing of the Ekkers’ need for funds, George Bush created a plan to deceive them and stop Contact as a truth source.

RESP: Oh, my gosh, really?

BR (7): Russell Herman, as a CIA operative, had worked directly with George Bush when George was Director of the CIA prior to becoming U.S. President. George knew of the PGC held by Russell and Katherine (V.K. Durham) Herman and the published “will” they had made to economically restore the United States and many other countries. So, Russell was cloned and the clone was used to illegally transfer Russell’s 48% of the PGC to Rick Martin of Contact. Rick then transferred his authority to the GAIA Corporation, leaving the “authority” for the PGC basically with the Ekkers. This instrument is now the basis for the Ekkers’ claims to fame and imminent fortune—and backed by the PGC as collateral.

RESP: My goodness, Patrick Bellringer, you can certainly have credit for a wild imagination. We didn’t know Ricky was into cloning; if George had cloned, Russell you can bet that the assignment of the jurat/contract would not have gone to Ricky. Is it POSSIBLE, then, that the clone died and Russell is still running around somewhere? [Hahaha.] The assignment to Rick (and thus to GAIA) was in 1993, PRIOR to any other assignment or effective will and, therefore, was and is the legal and binding documentation. If it were not, do you not think VK would have found a way to sue GAIA and/or Ricky?

BR (8): Following the Bush Super-Fund plan of using the PGC as collateral to gain funds, the Ekkers, Rick Martin and Charles Neil in August, 1998 went to the Philippines in “search of gold”. After several months, conflicts developed which caused Rick and Charles to return to Tehachapi, California in February, 1999. Rick resigned from the GAIA Corporation, leaving the “authority” for the PGC basically with the Ekkers. This instrument is now the basis for the Ekkers’ claims to fame and imminent fortune—and backed by the PGC as collateral.

RESP: Bush Super-Fund plan? Mr. Bush never disclosed his plan to us and we were not aware that he had such a plan until just recently; our “plan” comes from a higher source. Using PGC as collateral to gain funds? The PGC went out of existence in August 1989. Ekkers did not go to the Philippines in “search of gold”; if Rick and Charles went in search of gold, then they did it quite without our knowledge.

There were no “conflicts” in the Philippines. Ekkers were paying all the expenses for both Rick and Charles, so if there were conflicts, they were kept FROM EKKERS. The conflicts surfaced after Rick and Charles’ return to Tehachapi. Unknown to Ekkers, Rick and Charles had taken the side of Ed Young. About March 10, Ed wrote a very venomous, “tuff luv for your own good” letter to E.J., critical of Doris and Diane (Diane is the daughter that runs New GAIA Products). E.J. immediately wrote, faxed and e-mailed a response to Ed, terminating him from any further contact with the newspaper, and instructed Rick and Charles to pick up Ed’s keys to the office complex. (Ed always insisted upon having keys to all offices, since he was there frequently late at night and could thus “respond quickly to any emergency”.) In a few days, March 14, I think, Rick sent an e-mail saying E.J.’s instructions to him to terminate Ed were improper and ill-advised and he refused to do so and, further, rather than do so, he would resign. E.J. immediately accepted his resignation, reminding him that he, E.J., had terminated Ed effective March 10. By this time, Charles, as the responsible officer for two corporations, had E.J. removed as a signer on the two American Express credit cards that we were using to pay all of the Philippine expenses and which we had just paid up-to-date, so it was quite clear that he was joining the Rick/Ed gang.

About expenses: Rick was having ALL expenses paid, his credit card was clean when we left the states and was paid up at least twice while he was here. He was also getting funds sent by Gail Irwin, apparently out of the CONTACT account—as cash, somehow, and he was receiving cash from Charles on the cards of Amex that Ekkers were paying for. He got new glasses and all of his dental work done—also on those same cards—which Ekkers were paying for from their PRIVATE funds from a property settlement that EVERYONE KNEW ABOUT. The expensive Christmas gifts he sent to his family and friends, including Kathy and Karen, were also paid for by Ekkers. And Charles? His expenses were totally covered, including his rent and $750/month truck payment, and his SS and pension money just piled up in his mail box. He went home to a $15,000 plus nest egg.

You, BR, refer to the PGC and “this instrument”, demonstrating your complete ignorance of the facts. You are obviously trying to describe the GAIA “asset”, which is an absolute and irrevocable assignment (gift, if you will) of the Russell Herman half of the interest accumulated to the jurat/contract reissued to Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd. made to Rick Martin and subsequently to Global Alliance Investment Association (not GAIA Corporation as you so carelessly state). The assignments from Herman to Rick and Rick to GAIA were published in CONTACT before our coming to the Philippines.

BR (9): This whole scenario has problems. The lawful and binding contract held by Russell and Katherine Herman as husband and wife stated that in the event of death of either party, power of attorney over the deceased marriage partner's estate would automatically reside with the living partner. Therefore, at Russell's death, control over his 48% of the PGC, which was designated by his published "will" to the 50 states of the Republic of the U.S. of A., was automatically transferred to his wife, Katherine (V.K. Durham), and who now holds power of attorney over the entire PGC. Therefore, she is now the sole signatory of same.

RESP: BR has really stepped in it now. The second sentence (above paragraph) should cast a permanent pall of doubt over everything he has written on this entire subject. V.K. Durham had a fetish for filing all of their documentation in the "public record", in the Washington County Courthouse, Nashville, Illinois. If a "lawful and binding contract" as described by BR ever existed, it would be in that publicly available file. Over the past three years GAIA has acquired copies of the file, the latest from a Korean group. The County Recorder, Thomas Ganz, signed the certificate that the copy provided was "true, perfect and complete" on November 16, 1999. It contains no such "lawful and binding contract"; if there were such a "contract" available to Ms. Durham, you can bet it would be the top document.

Then BR compounds his error. Russell Herman and V. K. Durham were not married. We conducted a very thorough search in California, Illinois and Missouri in an attempt to verify the date of their "marriage"; there is no record. VK has consistently complained that she is unable to collect Russell's pension or Social Security.

Next, BR refers to Russell's "48%". Is that logical? Does VK now claim 52%? In his assignment to Martin, dated August 5, 1993, Russell refers to his "portion" and makes it very clear that the reason for the assignment is to assure that VK would not become the "sole signatory of same". This was published in CONTACT, so BR cannot blame anyone else for these "inaccuracies", and that can lead only to the conclusion that this entire dissertation is no more than a poorly executed personal attack on the Ekkers.

BR (10): The Herman-Herman contract also stated that neither partner could assign any portion of the PGC to anyone else without the signature of the other partner. Thus, the action by cloned Russell Herman of signing his control of 48% of the PGC over to Rick Martin of Contact is totally illegal and invalid. His wife Katherine never knew of such action nor signed any such agreement.

RESP: Please see RESP to (9).

BR (11): George Bush laid his plans well and carried them out thoroughly. His goal to stop the Ekkers fell for his tricks and ran off in search of the pot of gold at the end of the Philippine rainbow.

RESP: Bush plans? Maybe it would be comforting to finally meet someone (such as BR) who knows the Bush plan. If it was the Bush plan to have us go to the Philippines, we may owe him a "thank you". It is not yet "over".

BR (12): It is quite obvious that Doris Ekker is now being used by the darkside to publish disinformation and lies in Contact under the guise of "Hatonn/Dad/GCH-d", and to attack the Truthbringers of Spectrum. Doris discusses at great length the subjects of evil, sin, the devil, and evil actions and equates all with the Spectrum staff, while focusing the Contact and its staff with the Light. Such nonsense! In reality Doris and E. J. Ekker have apparently joined the People of the Lie!

RESP: Poor Bellringer, so confused. Doris was attacked by Ed Young, seconded by Ricky Martin when he got back to Tehachapi, as being "tainted", "dark" and a "basket case", in response to Commander Hatonn's objections to the running of his Public Notices on the reverse side of badly written "spiritual" material and advertisements for the Rays II book. Doris has not discussed "evil, sin, the devil and evil actions"; Hatonn did two very excellent writings on those subjects. Even he did not "equate all with the Spectrum staff"; his references were to Ed, Rick and Gail. "In reality..."? That is a lead-in frequently used by Rick—poor Bellringer is surely no authority on Reality.

BR (13): One such example is Doris' attack upon Bellringer. On occasion, Doris (GCH-d) has associated Bellringer with her "evil Spectrum cult". She claimed to have known Patrick Bellringer personally as an old friend for more than ten years and could not understand why he had turned against her and Contact. Later, when someone hit her on the head with a verbal 2 X 6, she realized she had mistaken Bellringer for a Patrick Bailey, but never publicly admitted her foolish mistake. It is of interest that by her own admission Doris has no direct personal computer connection to the internet, and therefore, receives internet information "second-hand", including any of Bellringer's writings.

RESP: Ekkers first heard about the idea of a web-site and the name Bellringer in the presence of Patrick Bailey, who was visiting Tehachapi where, at dinner, he and Ed Young discussed the Internet, etc. Isn't it strange that we still have no rebuttal from Patrick Bailey?

Foolish mistake? Have you now proven you are not Bailey? And just what is it that makes "second hand" Internet info inferior to "direct"?

BR (14): For the record I now state that I, Patrick H. Bellringer, have never had any contact or communication of any kind with this person known as Doris (Dharma) Ekker. I have never met her. I have never seen a picture of her. I have never talked with her, and I have never communicated with her in any manner whatsoever, except to petition the lighted Realms for her safety, wisdom, and sanity.

RESP: Oh my, my, now. Why didn't you just say you "aren't Pat Bailey"? Or would that be too blatant a lie? Or you could simply identify yourself and leave no room for further doubt.

BR (15): "Doris as GCH-d in the Contact Newspaper discusses lies and states that anyone who lies is called a liar. With this we would certainly agree, but guess what? By her own words, Doris has labeled herself a liar. It is very sad, indeed, for one called and committed by contract with the Lighted Realms to be a Lightbearer, a bringer of Truth—to become so fooled by ego and the darkside's thrust for power and wealth. This receiver of Light has now become a source of darkness! Let this be a lesson for all who carry the torch of Truth. Those who lead will always bear the brunt of the Adversary's attack."

RES: Boy, right on. You said a mouthful in the last sentence. We who are classified as some kind of "leader" (of which I never classified myself in any such way at all) always bear the brunt of the Adversary's attack. I GUESS

SO! Thank you.

BR (16): "In closing this statement I note that over two years ago, after much verbal harassment from Doris Ekker, V.K. Durham (Grandma) made five assignments of 10 billion dollars each from the PGC to "Contact", to be acted upon by "Contact" within a 12 month period. This was never done by "Contact" due to the obsession to take all of Bush's Super Fund and the entire PGC through incorporation. Therefore, at the end of the 12 month period, V.K. Durham issued a "Cease and Desist" order in the use of these funds.

RESP: This is hard to believe. Every statement you have made is incorrect—every one! Odds were that any fool could have gotten at least a partial fact in such a long paragraph—you flunked 100% and I'm not going to help you cheat on the answers. I don't mean "little errors" or typos—I MEAN THAT EVERY LAST STATEMENT IS WRONG, INCORRECT—A LIE. And no, Rick would never have made these particular mistakes, although he probably wouldn't correct them if someone else made them.

BR (17): If the Ekkers are currently using these five assignments as collateral for their money program, that is fraud. If they are using Russell Herman's 48%, that is fraud on two counts. One, the 48% is designated by published "Will" for use only by the 50 states of the Republic of the U.S. if A. and not for any other country or any personal use. Secondly, no legal authority was ever given to anyone, including Rick Martin, GAIA and the Ekkers to use these funds. Finally, if the Ekkers are using the PGC to get funds the "George Bush style", and actually succeed, that then becomes both fraud and theft. So, what have we?

RESP: Well, for one thing we have here in Mr. Bellringer a totally uninformed idiot talking about things of which he is intentionally fabricating (lying) or is so ignorant as to be considered, likely, a moron. Also, please refer again to RESP to (9).

What exactly IS the "George Bush style"? And, pray tell, Bell, what is YOUR interest in this matter? What are you promised out of some hoped-for gain from the Spectrums? Do you actually think that such spinning and twisting of the facts helps the Spectrum group? Or diminishes Ekkers' credibility? YOU MAKE US INFINITELY MORE CREDIBLE! With friends like YOU, Spectrum rainbow rays don't need enemies!

BR (18): My friends, these are lessons in discernment of Truth. Hatonn of the Light of Aton never speaks as portrayed by Doris (Dharma) Ekker in recent Contact writings. Carry the Light of Truth. Keep protected at all times from the Adversary and stand firm against his attacks, as has the Spectrum staff and the "Watchers"! We honor them for their commitment to Truth. Meanwhile, we continue our petitions to God Aton of Light for the return of the Ekkers to the Red Road of Truth.

RESP: This last is the most "telling" on you and your buddies, BR. Hatonn/Aton/Dad has never spoken more clearly. Perhaps you have smugly quit reading CONTACT and are missing the best part.

Now, just who takes all those manuscript disks and offers all of the papers, the Journals and even BANNED JOURNALS and publishes them on a web-site? Oh, my goodness...! Is it you? If you depend upon the Internet for a livelihood, you are taking a big risk.

I need to close this now, and yes, we are getting our job done, and NO, IT IS NOT FOR PERSONAL GAIN, AND YES, IT IS GOOD AND IT IS TRUTH AND IT IS LIGHT.

Alaska Airlines Flight 261

Motive For Shoot-Down?

Another airplane tumbles from the sky and the mainstream media goes far out of its way to AVOID asking key questions—sound familiar? This latest crash is similar to the crash of EgyptAir 990 in numerological terms: When you add up the individual numbers numerologically, 2+6+1 makes 9, or three "threes", or 3x3; Flight 990 was thirty 33s. Coincidence? Probably not.

There is another similarity that must be mentioned: Flight 990 went down within a stone's throw of the infamous Montauk facility; Flight 261 just "happens" to have gone down very close to Naval Air Station Point Mugu, another facility rumored to possess electromagnetic weaponry.

We know that the "powers that be" tend to use such "accidents" sacrificially: In the case of Flight 990, it was the 33 members of the Egyptian Armed Forces; in the case of Flight 261, the intended victim just might have been the former President of a corporation that holds all of the land immediately north of the HAARP facility in Alaska.

For a more in-depth look at the situation, we turn with great appreciation for his efforts to an article written by John Quinn of NewsHawk (who, you might recall, provided an excellent update on the situation at Montauk in the "Phoenix Undead" series carried in CONTACT last year).

FLIGHT 261 CRASH MOTIVE: DOYON LAND HOLDINGS IN ALASKA

By John Quinn, NewsHawk, 2/2/00

One of the victims of the crash of Alaska Air Flight 261 was a Morris Thompson. Until very recently, Thompson had been the long-term President of the Doyon Corporation, a Native American group which owns/administers over TWELVE MILLION acres in Alaska. Doyon, as we have noted, is the single largest landowner in the United States.

The Navy's original and "SUPPOSEDLY" still primary HAARP transmitter site in Gakona, Alaska sits RIGHT on the edge of Doyon land holdings.

It is irrefutable, hard-wired and FULLY documented fact that the Navy is seeking to implement a massive expansion of the size of their Gakona transmitter site; AND is also seeking to implement an astronomical INCREASE in the power of transmitted signals—in the range of HUNDREDS OF BILLIONS OF WATTS—at ALL the Navy's HAARP transmitter sites, locations which are, for the most part, secret.

Obviously, more real estate is needed to implement these fervently and obsessively sought goals of HAARP operators and administrators.

Well, if it looks like a duck, walks like a duck and quacks like a duck, we'd say there's a darn good chance it IS a duck. We'd say that given these facts: that Morris Thompson, who had headed the Doyon group for FIFTEEN years since 1985, was on board Alaska Airlines Flight 261; and, in relation to the vast tracts of land controlled by the Doyon group in immediate proximity to the Navy's Gakona HAARP site; AND, in relation to the indisputable and avidly pursued intentions of the Navy to expand the physical size and effective transmitter power at their HAARP sites—a distinct possibility exists that Flight 261 was terminated using EM warfare technology known to exist at Pt. Mugu Naval Air Station for the purpose of murdering Morris Thompson and perhaps OTHERS about the flight.

ALASKA AIR FLIGHT 261— ODDLY HAUNTING QUESTIONS

By John Prukop, 2/3/99

In addition to the well thought-out material from NewsHawk regarding the crash of Alaska Airlines Flight 261 and the tragic loss of all 88 souls aboard, these further KNOWN FACTS AND THE QUESTIONS THAT THEY RAISE should be considered:

1. NTSB states that the previous flight crew flying this particular MD-83, with the flight originating in Anchorage, experienced "mechanical problems" on its way down to Mexico—the flight just before the one that ended with the deaths of all those aboard. NTSB states that this crew reported control problems with the horizontal stabilizer. Alaska Airlines emphatically DENIES there was ANY anomaly with this aircraft. Who is telling the truth? Was this story planted by NTSB as a cover?

Was Flight 261 subjected to an intentional or accidental military mishap?

2. NTSB Chairman Jim Hall—the same fellow who has continually LIED to the public about the cause of the downing of TWA Flight 800 and how its center fuel tank caused the crash by [inexplicably] "exploding" (NOT!)—said the pilots of Alaska Airlines Flight 261—the Monday afternoon flight from Puerto Vallarta bound for San Francisco and Seattle—had turned to a maintenance crew in Seattle for help in their efforts to regain control of the plane. Where is the confirmation from Alaska Airlines regarding this statement? If, in fact, there are tapes of the crewmembers' conversations with the Seattle maintenance base regarding a control problem with the horizontal stabilizer in the possession of Alaska Airlines or the NTSB, why haven't TRANSCRIPTS of those conversations or audio excerpts been released to the media? Why the "he said—she said" routine, as reported by the media?

3. At the time of the crash of Alaska Airlines Flight 261, the MD-83 was located either within or slightly adjacent to Restricted Area R-2519, which is depicted by both the Los Angeles (LAX) Sectional Aeronautical Chart as well as Low Altitude and High Altitude Enroute Charts as being under control of Naval Air Station Point Mugu, to "unlimited" altitudes and "continuous" hours of operation. Restricted Area R-2519 is also contiguous to Warning Area W-289, which is located in an expanding arc further southwest and south, out into the Pacific Ocean, encompassing Anacapa and Channel Islands. W-289 is also to "unlimited altitudes" but with "intermittent operation". The importance of Alaska Airlines Flight 261 being located in or adjacent to these Restricted and Warning areas is important from the aspect that Naval Air Station Point Mugu, in concert with the China Lake Naval Weapons Center and other military installations in the area, routinely conduct high-tech weapons testing in these areas, with potential danger to aircraft transiting the area. For example, "Restricted Areas", such as R-2519, "denote the existence of unusual, often invisible, hazards to aircraft such as artillery firing, aerial gunnery, or guided missiles." (FAA Airman's Information Manual, Section 3-4-3). Similarly, a "Warning Area" such as W-289 is "airspace of defined dimensions, extending from three nautical miles outward from the coast of the United States that contains activity that may be hazardous to nonparticipating aircraft." (FAA Airman's Information Manual, Section 3-4-4). It is EXTREMELY SIGNIFICANT AND TROUBLING that Alaska Airlines Flight 261 DID NOT HAVE A PROBLEM UNTIL IT ARRIVED WITHIN, NEAR OR ADJACENT TO, RESTRICTED AREA R-2519 AND WARNING AREA W-289. Was military weapons testing in progress as Flight 261 approached this area? Was the MD-83 or its tail section (Flight 261) struck or damaged by some "invisible hazard", or "aerial gunnery" or "guided missile" that INDUCED control problems with the horizontal stabilizer and subsequently caused the complete and total loss of control of the airplane?

4. It is also extremely significant and troubling to learn that NTSB placed a "muzzle" on at least one eyewitness, who so far appears to be the closest eyewitness to the crash site. The following quote from Associated Press, dated February 2, 2000 at 12:05 AM ET, raises the suspicion that NTSB is doing "damage control" by limiting what the media is reporting, to wit:

"Drew Gottshall, 45, a Channel Islands National Park worker, was putting up a trail sign near the Anacapa Island lighthouse when he heard the jet, looked up and watched it slam into the water 2½ miles to the north. 'The plane made a quick entry into the water upon impact and disappeared,' Gottshall said in a statement released by the Park Service, which noted that at the NTSB's request it did not include observations of the plane's flight path and orientation."

5. Over the years we have come to know that the military-industrial complex has experimented on various people much like they were laboratory animals, with radiation, toxic poisons, etc., in some cases "shock testing" an entire city to determine the results and effectiveness of the experiments. Is it possible that Alaska Airlines Flight 261 was determined to be an expendable resource and, because of certain personages on board, "terminated" for purposes of political expediency?

6. Perhaps the most disturbing commentary from the media is the absence and ABSOLUTE SILENCE BY THE FLIGHT CREW OF ALASKA Flight 261 in the last six minutes before the airplane impacted the Pacific Ocean. This is extremely odd, given the fact the PTT (push-to-talk) microphone button for radio transmission is located on the control wheel. Why didn't either of the pilots at least cry out to Los Angeles Center, "Alaska 261 is going down", or "we've lost control, we're going in"—or at least something? If, in fact, there was total silence on the part of the flight crew, that raises the additional suspicion that perhaps they were incapacitated, given the further report by the media that the aircraft was spinning and tumbling. This AP report at 12:05 AM ET on February 2nd raises the specter of something more sinister going on with Flight 261:

"NTSB member John Hammerschmidt released preliminary transcripts of air traffic control communications with the airliner. The last routine transmission came at 3:55

PM PST, when the flight was cleared to continue to San Francisco. At 4:10 PM the pilots said they had control difficulties and were descending below 26,000 feet. A few seconds later they advised they were at 23,700 feet and there was 'some discussion about their ability to control the aircraft', Hammerschmidt said. Over the next few minutes, the pilots said, 'we're kind of stabilized and going to do some troubleshooting,' but then said they had a jammed stabilizer. At 4:16 PM, they were cleared for an emergency landing in Los Angeles. The controllers cleared the plane to 17,000 feet. The crew acknowledged that in what was the last known transmission from Flight 261, Hammerschmidt said. At 4:21 PM, the aircraft dropped from radar."

NewsHawk has already raised the issue of Flight 261 being cleared for an emergency landing at LAX, located 40 miles away, when Naval Air Station Point Mugu with its 12,000 foot runway was immediately adjacent to the crippled flight's location, a mere five or ten miles away. It does not make any sense that the flight crew would request an emergency landing at an airport over 40 miles distant, knowing that they might never make it with the kind of control problem they were apparently experiencing. It is further incongruous that LAX Center would not suggest or recommend NAS Point Mugu as a viable alternative to flying to an airport 40 miles away, versus one as close by as Point Mugu, with all kinds of emergency equipment the Navy has at its disposal to deal with an airplane crash.

From the AP story above, roughly 5 or 6 minutes elapsed after the purported "last known transmission" from Flight 261, apparently after which the MD-83 went completely out of control. During these 5 or 6 minutes, did Flight 261 completely lose the rudder and horizontal stabilizer, or the ability to control them? And lastly, unlike the EgyptAir-990 crash into the Atlantic Ocean off Nantucket Island on October 31, 1999, where NO BODIES WERE EVER REPORTED AS HAVING BEEN RECOVERED, the NTSB reported in the instance of the Flight 261 crash that only four bodies were recovered, yet the debris field as shown by the media was of small pieces of the wreckage, as if the airplane disintegrated into a million pieces. We've all seen the shoe floating and some of the luggage. The debris field doesn't jive with the number of bodies recovered and, at least from this writer's perspective, is INCONSISTENT with an 80-degree nose-down impact of the airplane as reported by NTSB. An airplane striking the water at the speed and angle exhibited by Alaska Airlines Flight 261 would result in the utter explosion and disintegration of the airplane and its contents—it would be like slamming the airplane into a concrete wall. Where are the bodies, or body parts? [Perhaps Cmdr. Hatonn knows?] And why haven't the media shown anything other than the repeated showing of the shoe and luggage? We have seen literally no evidence of any of the salvage of the MD-83.

Alaska Airlines Flight 261 may well have had a control problem with its horizontal stabilizer; but what external force initiated it? Remember, everything was "NORMAL"—up until 3:55 PM, when Flight 261 neared Naval Air Station Point Mugu and the weapons-testing area.—John R. NO POISON SUPPLY AT AUSCHWITZ, SAYS IRVING

Press Association of London, 1/26/00

LONDON—Eyewitness evidence of the existence of homicidal gas chambers at Auschwitz was "totally demolished" because there were no holes in the roof through which to insert poison, historian David Irving told the high court today, Jan. 26. Mr. Irving, the 62-year-old author of Hitler's War, who is seeking libel damages for being called a "Holocaust denier", said that his theory "blows holes in the whole gas-chambers story".

He said that a number of "revisionist" researchers had entered the ruins of Crematorium Two at Auschwitz, in which Holocaust historians say 500,000 died, and photographed the collapsed underside of the roof—but found no holes.

"I do not accept that the Nazis in the last frantic days of the camp, when they were in a blue funk, would have gone around with buckets of cement filling the holes that they were going to dynamite."

Mr. Irving, who is representing himself, made the comments during his cross-examination of Professor Robert van Pelt, who has said that there was a "massive amount of evidence" of the camp's use for mass extermination. Professor van Pelt has said that the gas chambers were first dismantled and then dynamited when the gassings stopped in November 1944 as the Russians advanced.

Giving evidence for American academic [sic] Deborah Lipstadt and Penguin books, who are fighting Mr. Irving's action, he says that the evidence for gassing included eyewitness accounts, photos and drawings from memory of a sonderkommando—a Jewish inmate selected to work in the crematoria.

He referred Mr. Justice Gray to a photo taken by an SS man in February 1943, which showed openings above ground on the newly completed roof of Crematorium Two with a kind of cover on top of them. The defence case is that these projections were from four introduction columns through which Zyklon B pellets traveled.

Mr. Irving, who says that the gas chambers were only used to de-louse corpses and objects, claimed that the picture was taken in December 1942 during building works and that the objects on the roof were drums containing sealant.

Professor van Pelt also relied on an aerial photo taken by the Americans in the summer of 1944, which showed "four dots" on the roof of Crematorium Two. He said that this showed very clearly that there were "introduction devices" on top of the building.

Mr. Irving questioned the authenticity of the photo and said that whatever the dots were, they were too big for the purpose put forward by the defence.

Professor van Pelt also cited the drawings, undertaken in 1945-46, of surviving sonderkommando David Olere, which showed openings for the introduction of the pellets into the gas chamber at Crematorium Three in Auschwitz. Olere, he said, was a "very experienced draughtsman and painter" who had a good visual memory and was a credible witness.

Mr. Irving is suing over Professor Lipstadt's 1994 book, Denying The Holocaust: The Growing Assault On Truth And Memory. Accused by the defendants of being "a liar and a falsifier of history", he depends on a 1988 report by a man called Fred Leuchter, who had taken samples from ruins at Auschwitz and concluded that there were never homicidal gas chambers there.

Mr. Irving says Professor Lipstadt's book has generated "waves of hatred" against him.

Mr. Irving said that the defence's "so-called" eyewitnesses were a relatively small number for the large proposition at stake. Apart from that, he added, there was not "a single document of any credible worth" which explicitly set out the defence case in all the "hundreds of thousands" of papers in the Auschwitz Museum and the Moscow archives.

He submitted that his position on the Holocaust was justifiable and not perverse.

He went on to question Professor van Pelt's reliance on the evidence of sonderkommando Henryk Tauber, which included descriptions of gassings in Auschwitz's crematoria.

He said that some of Tauber's accounts "test a reasonable historian's credulity" and "should be open to more than normal scrutiny". He questioned the validity of Tauber's evidence, as he had wrongly asserted that four million had died at Auschwitz.

Professor van Pelt said that he considered that Tauber was "an absolutely amazingly good witness...I find his power of observation very precise and don't have any general reason to doubt his credibility as a witness."

Mr. Irving suggested that at the time of his evidence Tauber would have been furnished with drawings and documents by the interrogating Polish authorities.

[JR: UPDATE: There is very little information being published directly from this trial. The few articles that are published internationally are not actually about the trial itself but more in defense of the Holocaust industry.]

U.S. ADMITS EMPLOYEES' EXPOSURE TO RADIATION

By Matthew L. Wald, Chicago Tribune, 1/30/00

WASHINGTON (NYTNS)—After decades of denials, the government is conceding that workers who helped make nuclear weapons beginning at the dawn of the nuclear age were exposed to radiation and chemicals that produced cancer and early death.

The new finding—that radiation exposure led to higher-than-normal rates of a wide range of cancers among workers at 14 nuclear weapons plants—raises the prospect of compensation to them....

...The new conclusion comes from the government's most comprehensive review of studies of worker health and raw health data. The review accepts the conclusion of many of those studies, some of them done under contract for the government, that workers were made sick by their exposure.

The finding goes far beyond an acknowledgment by the government last July that one substance handled by weapons workers, beryllium, had caused some of them to become ill from breathing beryllium dust.

Of the new conclusion, Energy Secretary Bill Richardson said in an interview, "This is the first time that the government is acknowledging that people got cancer from radiation exposure in the plants."

The finding is detailed in a draft report prepared by officials of the Energy Department and the White House with the cooperation of a dozen government agencies.

President Clinton ordered the study in July, when the Energy Department concluded that some of the workers at plants that had supplied beryllium to the government for bomb making had developed beryllium disease, an incurable lung ailment. The President asked for a broad study that would include the effects of radiation and chemical hazards from uranium, plutonium and other substances.

He also asked the group to develop a compensation plan but that work has not been completed.

Legislation proposed by Rep. Paul Kanjorski (D-Pa.), whose constituents include some of the beryllium-disease patients, calls for payments to an estimated 500 to 1,000 former workers who either have the illness or are at high risk of developing it. Total payments in the beryllium cases could range from $15 million to $30 million a year, officials said.

One question that Congress would have to resolve in the beryllium compensation, and that would have to be addressed in any compensation plan developed as a result of the cancer finding, is whether [or not] to make payments to survivors.

In the 57 years since the Manhattan Project began processing radioactive materials to produce bombs, the government has until now minimized the hazards of radiation and chemicals, criticized epidemiological studies that raised related questions and spent tens of millions of dollars in defending itself against lawsuits charging that the bomb plants had made workers sick.

"In the past, the role of government was to take a hike," Richardson said, "and I think that was wrong."

One expert on nuclear weapons manufacturing, Robert Alvarez, a former Energy Department official, welcomed the government's conclusion that many of its critics had been correct.

"A review of the studies by a body impaneled by the President is official recognition," Alvarez said.

Daniel J. Guttman, a lawyer for the paper, Allied-Industrial Chemical and Energy Workers Union, which represents workers at 11 weapons factories, said "That's stunning."

"The prior story line is, 'What's the big deal, the risks were marginal,'" said Guttman, former Executive Director of a commission formed by the Clinton Administration to look into improper radiation experiments using human subjects.

Richard D. Miller, a policy analyst with the Union, said the change was remarkable because the Energy Department and its predecessor, the Atomic Energy Commission, had "spared no resources in seeking to defeat claims" by employees who said they had been made sick by radiation or chemicals.

[JR: The government wants you to believe that this change of attitude is because this Administration is concerned about the health of these workers. Decades of dedication and research by numerous pressure groups filing Freedom of Information Act requests documented the cover-up of the radiation exposures and forced this official inquiry. Let's hope these workers and their families receive expedient compensation and do not get dragged through "further studies" delays. The pressure on officials must not only continue but should increase in order to make our government more accountable for its actions—even when National Security is involved.]

HEAT IS ON WORLD LEADERS TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE

By David Greising, Chicago Tribune, 1/28/00

DAVOS, Switzerland—When people first started talking about the global village, I don't think they meant that everyone who runs the place could literally fit into one tiny ski town.

At the weeklong meeting of the World Economic Forum, the world's biggest pocketbooks, biggest brains, biggest clout and biggest companies all get together to contemplate the fate of the planet. And decide what they're going to do about it....

...You want technology? How about Bill Gates, Steve Case, Jeff Bezos and Michael Dell. Want politics? Listen to Bill Clinton, Yasser Arafat and Tony Blair. Insights from star players like that help the bigwigs who attend Davos become the first to know what the Next Big Thing will be. Sound like hype? Then consider this: Last year's topic was "Responsible Globality". Then, bingo! Fifty thousand protesters stormed Seattle to protest globalization less than a year later.

The world leaders at Davos had their hand on the pulse of the next big global issue, alright. But they never expected non-global leader types would see that not-so-invisible hand as a stranglehold on the carotid artery of social progress....

...At the meeting's opening session, many of the 3,000 world leaders in business, government, the media and the arts took remote-control voting machines into their deerskin-soft hands and voted on what they considered the most important issues facing the globe.

The result was a gut-level read on some of the world's most important trends in politics, business and the arts. And judging by some of the prodigious CEO bellies in attendance, this crowd could offer gut-level thoughts until all of Switzerland's cows came home and still have room for dessert.

In the voting on the most pressing issue of the day, "Climactic Change" edged out "The End to Traditional Ethics", 20 percent to 16 percent. "Ineffective International System" came in a close third among 10 choices.

But what will the business leaders who dominate this meeting do about these troubles? They acknowledged that they've got to lead in fixing the climate and in making international institutions more effective.

But on ethics, business expects to be a no-show.

This outrages philosopher-novelist Umberto Eco, the unofficial conscience of this year's meeting. "The responsibility for the decline of traditional ethics belongs to the show business," says Eco. Then, broadening the charge, Eco continued: "Business is responsible on this point. Stop."

Now, if you think there are more important issues out there, like the spread of genetically-altered Frankenfoods, the lack of sanity in the U.S. stock market or NASA's inexplicable inability to land a probe safely on Mars and send signals back to Earth, don't worry too much.

They may all be global leaders. But that doesn't mean they're always right.

David Hale, global Chief Economist for Zurich Financial Services, has attended eight of the last nine Davos meetings. He finds it useful because "you get a flavor of the global Elite's consensus on things."

But that consensus can be a false lead, like playing one of those murder-mystery games where everyone thinks the butler did it. "The consensus isn't always right. In fact, it's often dead wrong," Hale says.

All that power, all those brains, all that money and still dead wrong? That certainly was the case last year, when no one foresaw the global groundswell of anti-globalization resentment that broke out in Seattle.

They're all global leaders at Davos. But they're nothing more than players in a high-powered parlor game if no one follows them when they get back home. [JR: The problem for these elitists is that they never figure the HUMAN factor in their equations when they project their theoretical exercises as to what may befall this world they are controlling (for the moment). It's a little like The World According to Garp.]

SHADES OF SEATTLE RIOT AS CLINTON ADDRESSES ELITE ECONOMIC FORUM

By David Greising, Chicago Tribune, 1/30/00

DAVOS, Switzerland—The unfocused but persistent global protest movement that disrupted trade talks in Seattle last December followed President Clinton across the Atlantic to the small ski town of Davos.

About 500 mostly French and German protesters took to the streets less than an hour after Clinton addressed the World Economic Forum Meeting here. Clinton told the international crowd of about 3,000 leaders from government, business and the media that global trading systems need to take into account legitimate concerns about labor rights, the environment and the need for sustainable economic development.

Defying police orders to disperse, the protesters marched down Davos' main street toward the convention hall, carrying banners with slogans like "Global Killers" and "Against the New World Order". They threw steel barricades and wooden poles through the window of Davos' only McDonald's, ignoring a banner that read, "Think Globally, Eat Locally".

At one point, witnesses said, at least three police officers received head wounds and were taken away by ambulance before police began arresting protesters and taking them away by bus.

Just as they did at the World Trade Organization meeting in Seattle, the Davos protests highlighted concerns that are developing in the U.S., Europe and elsewhere that the growing power of global business is a threat to individual liberties and to the sovereignty of less-developed countries.

These concerns have been the subject of heated debate inside the Davos meeting. Representatives of less powerful countries and from non-governmental interest groups like Greenpeace and Friends of the Earth have urged leaders of major corporations and Western governments to develop a more inclusive and sensitive approach to global trade.

Clinton allied himself with such concerns. "Trade can no longer be the private province of politicians, CEOs and trade experts," Clinton said.

Clinton said people living in a global economy all have shared concerns about human rights and economic progress. "A few of us live on the cutting edge of the economy, and too many of us live on the bare edge of survival, without the means to move up," Clinton said.

Clinton urged all countries to cooperate in a system of fair trading rules. "Developed and developing countries alike must insist that the benefits of free trade flow widely," he said. But the move toward more open trade will not be reversed. "The consequences of running away from a dialogue on the vitally important issues won't be more trade, it will be more protectionism," Clinton warned.

Still, the protesters were not in any mood to reason about trade. Nor did they seem to care about some of the nuances that make international business such a complex target of protest....

...On the streets, billionaires mixed with roustabouts as the protests created a strange mixture of people....

...Inside the convention hall, the protesters drew sympathy from some World Economic Forum attendees. Thilo Bode, international Executive Director for Greenpeace International of the Netherlands, said the Davos mind-set tends toward arrogance.

"Most of the people here think everything is fine," Bode said. "We just need to explain it to the poor, stupid people who are outside the Elite."

Protester Charles Pasqua, who said he traveled from central France to participate in the Davos demonstration, doesn't think he's enlightened enough.

"We're against the power of global companies," he said. "We want to live like we want, and not like commercial people want us to live."...

[JR: I hate to tell Billy-come-lately but these very issues were addressed when Congress debated NAFTA and WTO set on fast-track legislation approval for all trade treaties. Billy-boy was too busy twisting arms and making deals to bother to listen to the will of the people. Our puppet leaders are always reinventing the wheel to get a better spin.]

ECUADOR'S INDIAN MOVEMENT FLEXING POLITICAL MUSCLES AFTER OUSTER

By Monte Hayes, Boston Globe, 1/29/00

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—Most of the 5,000 poncho-clad Indians who took control of Quito's streets in outrage over soaring food prices and forced the ouster of an unpopular president are back in their villages high in the Andes.

But a few of their leaders remain in the capital, and the Indians warn they are ready to march on Quito again if necessary—a warning Ecuador's political elite no longer takes lightly.

The leader of the Indian movement whose revolt precipitated the overthrow of President Jamil Mahuad on January 21 says Ecuador's 4 million Indians have finally forced political leaders to take them seriously.

"We showed that we have the capacity to bring down presidents and corrupt governments," said Antonio Vargas, a 40-year-old bilingual school teacher who was elected President of the Indian federation a year ago.

Coups have been common in Latin America's turbulent history but this was the first provoked by an Indian group. Ecuadoreans were stunned when the military high command forced Mahuad from power to avoid "a social explosion" and replaced him with the vice president.

Clearly, Ecuador's Indian federation has emerged as the most organized and influential indigenous movement in a region where native peoples in several countries are engaged in struggles over land, language and civil and political rights.

The success in ousting Mahuad has instilled confidence in Ecuador's Indians and they have no intention of fading back into their impoverished villages to be forgotten again by the government....

...The Indians achieved their primary goal of ousting a president they viewed as corrupt and incapable of halting Ecuador's disastrous economic decline, and they express pride in their growing power.

But they also feel anger and bitterness at military commanders they accuse of sabotaging a three-man Indian-military junta formed to rule Ecuador after Mahuad was ousted. The military command dissolved the junta within hours of its formation and turned power over to Vice President Gustavo Noboa....

...Ecuador's Indians live brutish lives of 12-hour days at backbreaking work on tiny, infertile plots of land. They have little access to health care, and educational opportunities for their children are limited.

They are treated as second-class citizens even though they make up a third of Ecuador's 12 million people. City dwellers mock their clothing and their attempts to speak Spanish.

Often forced to migrate to the cities for work, Indian men end up as street vendors or as laborers who haul mammoth loads of produce on their backs at public markets. The women and children beg on street corners, reinforcing the scorn of the White elite and mestizo population....

...Vargas warned last week that if the new President does not eradicate endemic corruption and take steps to end Ecuador's deep poverty, the Indians will rise again in six months, setting off "a great social explosion that could lead to civil war".

Officials have learned not to ignore the Indian movement's threats....

...The Indian federation has taken strong stands against repayment of Ecuador's foreign debt, privatization of state companies and Mahuad's controversial plan to replace the national currency with the U.S. dollar, all of which it considers economic threats to Indians.

Although experts on the Indian movement agree the successful revolt has strengthened the Indians' political power, they say it has also increased suspicion, fear and racism among the middle and upper classes....

[JR: It's a promising start for the Indians in Ecuador. Perhaps it is time for the meek to inherit the Earth.]

PEACEKEEPERS BATTLING PR PROBLEM IN KOSOVO

Chicago Tribune, 1/28/00

VITINA, Yugoslavia (AP)—Lulzim Ukshini says he was hanging out with his buddies in Sam's Pizzeria when a grenade exploded in a Serb store across town. He also says the first he heard about the attack was when four U.S. peacekeepers came looking for him.

"They started to beat me non-stop, telling me to admit that I did it," he said. "Then they pulled a knife out and threatened to cut me into pieces."

Ukshini's story of mistreatment at the hands of American soldiers is being echoed by other ethnic Albanians in Kosovo, who tell of beatings, inappropriate body searches of women and daily harassment by U.S. troops.

The allegations come at a time of heightened concern following the rape and murder of an 11-year-old ethnic Albanian girl. U.S. Staff Sgt. Frank J. Ronghi, a weapons squad leader from Ft. Bragg, N.C., was charged this month with murder and indecent acts with a child in connection with her death.

Ethnic Albanians say the killing is not their only complaint against the Americans.

Their allegations have prompted an official Army investigation and threaten a breakdown in trust between the U.S. peacekeepers and the citizens they were sent to protect.

U.S. officials declined to discuss specific allegations because many of the complaints are under investigation. But the Army acknowledges it has a big problem with community relations in Kosovo.

"These are serious allegations that we do take seriously," said Maj. Erik Gunhus, a public affairs officer at Camp Bondsteel. "We will investigate and if we find they are true, we will act accordingly. We want to show that no one is above the law."

In a statement issued Sunday, the Army said preliminary findings indicate several U.S. soldiers may have been involved in misconduct, "including improper use of physical force and threats against Kosovar males and inappropriate physical contact with Kosovar females." Gunhus confirmed several soldiers have been transferred out of Vitina.

Still, Ukshini and other Vitina residents are skeptical.

"I wouldn't complain to KFOR because it does no good," Ukshini said, using the acronym for the NATO-led peacekeeping force that entered Kosovo in June after a 78-day bombing campaign forced a halt to Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic's crackdown on ethnic Albanians.

"Every time we went to complain, they told us: 'It's not true. Our soldiers don't behave like that,'" said Ramiz Hasani, 21, whose father has been detained by the Americans in the death of a Macedonian police officer. Hasani said U.S. soldiers have entered his father's restaurant several times and harassed customers.

[JR: Our "peacekeepers" in Kosovo need to be sent home to enroll in sensitivity training. They have been trained as brutes and bullies for war, not as peacekeepers. Call them enforcers and leave out the law-and-order parts. Remember when our civilian police were called "peace officers" or "Officer Friendly"? Now they are known as LAW ENFORCEMENT! Remember, ENFORCEMENT is the key word for everything today.]

2,000 INTERNET-RELATED TAXES IN STATE LEGISLATURES

Investors Business Daily, 1/25/00

State legislators will take up more than 2,000 Internet-related bills this year. After recovering from the initial shock, we realize what's behind the push. A widespread attitude out there says nothing can exist apart from government control.

Most of the bills fall under three categories: privacy, content and sales and access taxes. Surely, not all of them can be harmful. We'd support any bill that bars new taxes on Internet sales.

In the Internet, we are truly witnessing a historical revolution that's deeply changing our lives. By the end of this year, 100 million Americans—more than a third of the population—will be online. The Web—after its birth as a government communications system—has proceeded quite nicely without further government involvement.

We can talk to each other through the Internet. We shop there. We invest online. Vacations are planned, recipes are found, careers are improved and goods are auctioned in cyberspace.

Have a health question? Find the answer online. And is there a limit to what children can learn on the Web?

The Web—a true reflection of the free market at work—has done a good job of policing its content (like television, parents have the ultimate control over what their children see) and pleasing customers in a relatively untaxed environment (studies indicate that taxes would shrink this growing medium).

In a working paper, Jason Oxman, counsel for the Federal Communications Commission's Office of Plans and Policy, thoughtfully reminds that the Internet has developed because government has thus far largely kept its hands off.

The FCC's challenge, he wrote, "is to maintain its deregulatory stance towards data services and the Internet".

We suggest that state and local governments do the same. If they don't—and the 2,000 bills awaiting action indicate they're not inclined to back off—then the free-market defenders will have to fight hundreds of battles in 50 new venues.

As Grover Norquist, President of Americans for Tax Reform and a member of the Federal Advisory Commission on Electronic Commerce, says, "It's the federal government's job to protect the Internet from being looted and bled to death by a thousand cuts inflicted by state and local officials."

The interstate commerce clause, included in the Constitution to prevent states from erecting protectionist policies that interrupt the free flow of interstate trade, should be applied.

At a White House conference during his second term, President Reagan famously explained the bureaucrats' and lawmakers' mind-set: "If it moves, tax it. If it keeps moving, regulate it. And if it stops moving, subsidize it."

In those few words, Reagan also provided insight into what's happening in the States more than a decade later. So now we ask: Who in Washington is going to step up and defend the Internet from a state legislative onslaught? [JR: Well, since Al Gore invented the Internet (haha), it has to follow that our fearless leaders would have to step in to collect on what is theirs. They never run out of ways to GETCHA and it will be interesting to see how creative they'll be on this one.]

NEGOTIATORS SEAL DEAL ON GENETICALLY-MODIFIED FOODS

By Matt Crenson, Boston Globe, 1/29/00

MONTREAL (AP)—After negotiations late into the night, delegates today reached an international agreement on the trade of genetically-modified food and other products.

Just before dawn, Colombia's Environment Minister Juan Mayr announced to a conference hall full of delegates that the yearlong stalemate had ended.

"The adoption of this protocol represents a victory for the environment," Mayr said, fighting back tears. "But don't forget that this only represents the beginning. We have still before us a great challenge."

The Biosafety Protocol to the UN Convention on Biodiversity provides rules intended to protect the environment from damage by genetically-modified plants, animals and bacteria.

The protocol allows a country to ban imports of a genetically-modified product if it feels there is not enough scientific evidence showing the product is safe. It also provides rules for the transport and labeling, requiring that the words "may contain living modified organisms" appear on all shipments of genetically-altered commodities, such as corn and cotton.

"The text is good, from our point of view, very good," said Adrian Bebb, an environmental activist with Friends of the Earth.

Environmentalists and a few scientific studies have raised concerns that genetically-modified organisms could wipe out native species, disrupt natural cycles and cause other ecological damage.

The European Union and developing nations argued that countries should be allowed to refuse imports of a genetically-modified product if little is known about its environmental effect....

...Today, U.S. negotiators said they were satisfied with the final agreement.

"On balance, we think this is an agreement that protects the environment without disrupting world food trade," said head U.S. delegate David Sandalow....

...In one of the main compromises, the United States and its supporters were able to amend rules that would have required labels to give specific details on what genetically-modified materials are in a product.

Under the compromise, for two years after the protocol comes into effect, labels must say only that a product may contain such materials, without specifics. During those two years, negotiators will work out more specific labels.

Negotiators also reached a compromise on the thorny issue of how the protocol would relate to the World Trade Organization. After months of debate over which treaty should prevail, it was finally decided that the two should be "mutually supportive", with a specific statement in the document declaring that nothing in it is "intended to subordinate this Protocol to other international agreements"....

...Talks last February in Cartagena, Colombia ended in disarray when the United States and five other countries—Canada, Australia, Argentina, Chile and Uruguay—rejected a draft agreement favored by 125 other countries.

The situation has changed since then, with major U.S. food producers such as Archer Daniels Midland, Gerber and the Iams pet-food company either demanding that genetically-modified products be segregated or refusing to use them altogether. Protests at the WTO talks in Seattle last month also suggest that the American public has concerns about genetically-altered food.

"In the year since Cartagena, it has become obvious that the position of the (United States) group is increasingly isolated," said Philip Bereano, a University of Washington professor who has been following the talks.

Genetically-modified crops are already widespread. About 70 million acres of genetically-engineered plants were cultivated worldwide in 1999. In the United States, genetically-engineered varieties account for about 25 percent of corn and 40 percent of soybeans.

[JR: It is encouraging to know that the U.S. has conceded—under pressures from the people of the U.S. and other nations—to address their concerns about genetically-modified foods and its effect on our environment.]

NOT WHAT THE NSA HAD IN MIND

By Carl Weinschenk, Teledotcom, 1/30/00

For covert operation, Echelon makes a lot of news

If the worst thing for a multinational spying system is publicity, there are probably a lot of long faces these days at the headquarters of the National Security Agency (NSA, Fort Meade, Md.). Suddenly, its five-country super-secret snooping outfit, Project Echelon, is getting as much attention as Ricky Martin and Pokemon.

The long-rumored project, said to be a cooperative effort between the NSA and its counterparts in Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand, intercepts as many as 2 million e-mails per hour and eavesdrops on cell-phone, fax and wireline communications at similar rates, experts say. They peg total per-day intercepts at 3 billion messages.

"I would describe Echelon as the mechanism that has automated the largest systematic invasion of privacy probably in history," says Ethan Preston, a law clerk for the Electronic Privacy Information Center (EPIC, Washington, D.C.).

The NSA, Echelon's supposed directing partner, neither denies nor confirms its existence. Few people who follow this sort of thing for a living have any doubts, however. "There are a few questions, but the existence of Echelon isn't really one of them," says Steve Bellovin, a fellow at AT&T Bell Labs (Holmdel, N.J.).

The project, which has roots deep in the Cold War, is gradually coming—or being pushed—into the open. Last spring, the European Parliament reported that Echelon exists and Australian government officials conceded the fact. Last month, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU, Washington, D.C.), in conjunction with EPIC and other groups, established an Echelon page on the ACLU web-site. This month, EPIC filed a federal lawsuit seeking NSA documents that the organization had refused to provide earlier this year to the White House Intelligence Committee, which oversees the NSA.

Rep. Bob Barr (R-Ga.)—a former Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) official and United States Attorney—asked House Government Reform Committee Chairman Dan Burton (R-Ind.) to hold hearings on Echelon. It is unclear if Burton has agreed, but insiders say they will occur.

Barr, one of the most conservative members of the House, attached language to the Foreign Intelligence Authorization Act for 2000 indirectly seeking information on Echelon by mandating that the NSA, CIA and Department of Justice (DoJ) outline the legal statutes under which communications involving American citizens are intercepted. The reports are due in February.

The likelihood that something exists and the NSA's inability to talk about it create the perfect breeding grounds for wild rumor. It's possible that Echelon exists—in a perfectly legal form. After all, legitimate clandestine activities are part of the NSA's mandate.

It is also unknown how powerful or sophisticated Echelon is. "We don't pretend to know all the details," says Barry Steinhardt, Associate Director of the ACLU. "In many respects, it's a black box."

There have been some interesting glimpses inside that box. Echelon-watchers point to a patent on voice-recognition technology that was assigned to the NSA in August. Some say Echelon may have the tools to see billions of messages but is unable to efficiently find those of interest. Experts also speculate that it may be struggling with the changing technologies used by the public network carriers on which it snoops. For example, the switch to fiber optics makes eavesdropping difficult, Bellovin says, because photons don't leak through fiber as freely as electrons slip through copper. The next few months will likely determine if a full-blown scandal ensues. NSA officials may be in for a bad time if rumors of industrial espionage are substantiated or if it has been operating outside the proper channels. "If the NSA has been evading these committees, I think Congress is going to blow a gasket," Bellovin says.

Because the intercepted messages are carried by public networks, service providers may be in a difficult position. Some laws compel them to secretly allow governments access to their customers under certain conditions. Indeed, the level of cooperation between carriers and Echelon-like organizations is perhaps the key to the project's effectiveness. It's vital to have access to carriers' infrastructure elements, such as Signaling System 7 (SS7) networks and dial-up Internet protocol (IP) address databases, experts say.

Involuntary participation notwithstanding, carriers can't do much except force elected officials to get to the bottom of the matter and urge customers to use high-level encryption. "If ISPs [Internet service providers] and application providers learned how to teach their customers to encrypt their e-mail, then there would be no possible way that any law-enforcement agency on Earth could break all of the traffic," says Bill Schrader, CEO of PSINet Inc. (Herndon, Va.).

[JR: Because Echelon is a "Partnership/Cooperative Treaty" it is designed to circumvent national or constitutional laws. Random surveillance or spying directly on all American citizens by the NSA, CIA, FBI or the DoJ is invasion of privacy and, therefore, not lawful. Similar laws apply to NSA's counterparts in Canada, the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand, so the legal technicalities are thus bypassed when each of the five nation's counterparts spies on the citizens of the other nations and they exchange relevant information.]

ENZYME LETS ALGAE PRODUCE HYDROGEN

By Glen Martin, San Francisco Chronicle, 1/29/00

Researchers have found a metabolic switch in algae that allows the primitive plants to produce hydrogen gas—a discovery that could ultimately result in a vast source of cheap, pollution-free fuel.

Hydrogen, which can be used as a clean-burning fuel in cars and power plants, is virtually limitless in availability, because it is part of the water molecule. It is a candidate to become the world's primary fuel in coming decades.

But until now, it was obtainable in quantity only through relatively expensive extraction procedures involving the electrolysis of water or processing natural gas.

The breakthrough, by scientists at the University of California at Berkeley and the U.S. Department of Energy, would make possible the commercial production of hydrogen gas by photosynthesis in tanks, ponds or the open ocean.

"I guess it's the equivalent of striking oil," said Tasios Melis, a microbial biology professor at UC Berkeley. "It was enormously exciting. It was unbelievable."

Melis made the discovery with UC Berkeley researcher Liping Zhang and with Michael Seibert, Maria Ghiardi and Marc Forestier of the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, a Department of Energy project in Golden, Colorado.

The team's findings appear in this month's issue of Plant Physiology, a science journal.

Seibert said it has been known for decades that algae give off small amounts of hydrogen. The problem from a commercial perspective, he said, was hydrogenase—an enzyme that produces hydrogen, but does so only in the absence of oxygen.

All green photosynthetic plants—including algae—consume carbon dioxide in the presence of light to build tissue, respiring oxygen as a waste product.

"But because hydrogenase shuts down in the presence of oxygen, it doesn't function during photosynthesis," he said. "It basically only works during darkness, when photosynthesis isn't occurring."

Because plant functions are at low ebb during darkness, Seibert said, the amount of hydrogen produced is minimal.

But the team was able to solve the problem, said Seibert, by imposing a "nutrient stress" to the algae.

"First we grow out the algae, 'fatten' it under normal photosynthetic conditions," he said. "Then we withhold sulfur."

Sulfur is critical for the completion of normal photosynthesis, Seibert said. In the absence of the element, the algae ceased emitting oxygen and stopped storing energy as carbohydrates, protein and fats.

Instead, the algae cells began using "an alternative metabolic pathway" to exploit stored-energy reserves anaerobically—in the absence of oxygen. The hydrogenase was activated, splitting large amounts of hydrogen gas from water and releasing it as a byproduct.

"The significant thing is that the plant is using the energy of the sunlight to produce hydrogen, not oxygen," said Melis. "Without sulfur, it produces a great deal more hydrogen in the presence of light than it does under normal circumstances in the dark."

The algae ultimately would die if the nutrient stress were maintained for more than a few days, but they can be "fattened" again with sulfur and sunlight, allowing for repetitions of the process and continued harvesting of hydrogen gas.

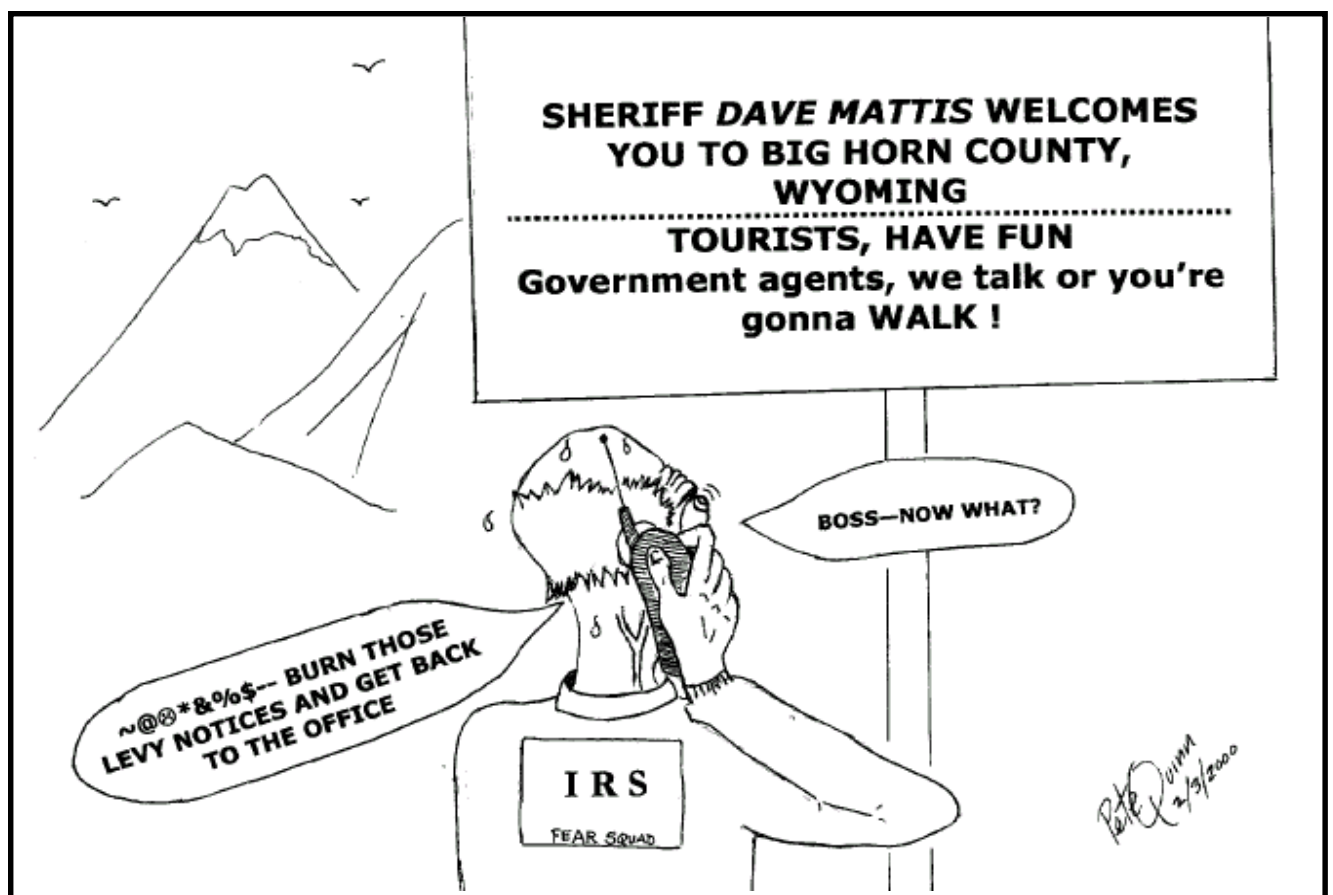

Eventually, the process could be used for the production of huge quantities of hydrogen. Hydrogen burns clean and hot, and it constitutes one-third of the water found in the Earth's oceans, rivers, lakes and atmosphere.

Cars already have been developed that run on hydrogen-powered devices known as fuel cells. These vehicles are virtually pollution-free; the only substance emitted from the tailpipe is water vapor. They do not release carbon dioxide or other heat-trapping gases, which are widely considered the primary culprits in global warming.

Fuel cells big enough to power electrical generating plants could also be built.

"Our long-term goal is to develop strains of algae that we would grow in mass cultures to produce enormous quantities of hydrogen gas," said Melis. "But at this point, we have to improve the production performance."

[Comment: Technologies such as this are simply not going to be allowed in the world UNTIL control is wrested from the Khazarian Elite. But what a future we have to look forward to!]

TELEPHONE HOTLINE 661-822-0202

As an adjunct to CONTACT, the Telephone Hotline keeps you as informed as possible on current events and other important information that needs to get to our subscribers before our publishing date.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. If the Hotline does not answer your call, then there is currently no Hotline message.
