Focus On The Moment: Turn From Distractions

11/1/00—#1 (14-77)

RE: OUR FRIEND WALLY

MOVING ON

Hatonn—LOOK AT YOURSELF—AND MAYBE YOU WILL SEE ANOTHER DIFFERENTLY; PUT YOUR HAND IN THE HAND OF THE MAN BESIDE YOU.

When a friend moves on it is only a reference point in a life where each who touch that personality might appreciate various memories and do a “time check” on self.

Wally Lowell moved on and left some final possibilities and a final nucleus to which to draw in a time of forced attitude considerations.

Some will “gather” in a bit of sharing to remember the man, the circumstances and the journey itself. But will many reach beyond the narrowed circle and put your hand in the hand of another who shared a bit of the way with Wally Lowell? Or, will they do their “thing” (or not), make excuses and forfeit forever the one opportunity to say thank you, Wally; you were “different” in that somehow you made “me uncomfortable with your very comfort in relationship to soul and that which we all seek”.

Wally chose well, his departure, realizing that a group of friends had scattered to the winds over the most ridiculous of all things—ego manifestations of the worst kind. Those are things which can’t be “undone” but that does not mean that many would not wish to join in a handshake over Wally’s continuing journey.

Wally WAS, Wally IS and shall evermore BE. HE IS MY FRIEND—HE WAS, IS AND EVERMORE SHALL BE MY FRIEND, WHICH REACHES BEYOND BEING MY SON OR MY BROTHER.

Many “ending” things are happening, which only means many “beginning” things are at hand. What will YOU do with these things available to yourself?

The “old” is all but cleared away and scattered upon the winds of change—and loss of hopes and dreams are mourned as much as is the moving on of a person-friend as winter sets the leaves to fall and thoughts of Holidays past move on in passing on the stage before you now and upon that which requires attention and responsibility.

I cannot help those who pronounce themselves my enemies or my antagonists, nor those who have damaged beyond a return to the status-quo of the recent years past and the longer memories of gatherings in joy for whatever reason might suffice—even a Sunday afternoon of sharing, especially if we had a visitor or a special occasion—those were “Wally days” and few missed those moments more than Wally, my friend.

I apologize to you who would wish to choose up sides and present your voted-in “Hatonn” or “receiver” as “THE” TEAM upon which you could function and rejoice, join together, share and multiply your blessings—but you cannot do that any more than you can say “this is not Wally Lowell who just departed the side-stage and at this moment has CENTER stage”. “Somebody else’s Wally—but not mine...”. Silly pronouncements and claims do not make a “thing” either factual or true—only TRUTH can merit such acclaim.

There are a few people who come along who just can’t find a way through the human morass without moving partially into “another world” of realization. That is usually representative of those who you might call “far out” and a bit strange. People like Wally, more than ANYONE ANY ONE OF YOU WILL KNOW, lived as a soul swinging in the winds of human experience. Like a piñata which is often poked and bashed, knocked about and only able to find solace and peace within the deepest reaches of his own realizations. Most of you will never try it because you can’t fathom the “letting go” required to reach that deeply within as to let go the attachments to all that surrounds you. It is as well because in a physical world someone has to function, take responsibility for the myriad of things always waiting and move with the burden. Yes, it IS “easier” to simply move with the flow and do what you are asked to do—but let me remind you—THAT IS NOT THE IMPORTANT POINT OF THE GAME EXCEPT IN ITS OWN SPECIAL FORM OF REALITY. GAIN THE WORLD TODAY AND TONIGHT PERCHANCE YOU MOVE ON AND THOSE GAINS CAN ONLY THEN BE MEASURED IN THAT WHICH IS SOUL, THOUGHT, FOUNDATION, AND NOTHING OF THOSE THINGS SHALL MOVE FORWARD “WITH” THE DEPARTED AS EXCESS BAGGAGE. BUT WHAT IS LEFT OF SELF SHALL BE MEASURED AND EVALUATIONS OF “SELF” SHALL BE MADE AGAINST THAT WHICH IS NO LONGER PRESENT. WHO WILL HONOR YOU?

There has never been a man alive who treasured his children more than Wally Lowell treasured his and, children, he would not have gone if he had thought you unable to move forward in your own choices, your own pathway and become that which is YOUR dream.

“A” “Doris” sorts the loss with a box of Kleenex and Dharma sorts the gain with a special gratitude for the recognition of brotherhood. All are “each” in individual costume and aspect—just as every attention is in a frequency of whatever connection you had or didn’t have. These times and changes are the VERY THINGS you must attend within self—and here you have the actual FACT of inability to consider circumstances other than through your self within. If you fail to grasp the lesson at hand, then you are certainly not ready for graduation into the REAL LIFE IN POINT AND STRAIGHT AHEAD.

“Right” needs recognition and “Wrong” needs confrontation—every time—and those circumstances need factual input based on honor, integrity and righteousness weighed on the scales of just goodness.

Wally always took a stand beside what he knew to be right and stood strongly and unfaltering beside his friends in need. How many are willing to do that? No, you are NOT. Most run and hide and gang up on “sides” and fling arrows and stones and refuse the hand of the man beside them.

My friends, you have failed to learn something so incredibly important as to be overlooked. You do not have to bless a wrongdoer of the wrong done—but you can most certainly put your hand in the hand of the man who chose a different pathway and bless the passage of a mutual friend along the way.

As Wally finds his place in the greater plan of Light, so too shall every remaining fragment have to go a very private, lonely roadway. And, as the old is peeled away from the joint workings of a group that would have seemed to endure forever (which it will), you must accept the changes, become even more responsible for self and goals and recognize the truth in that to get to here at this point in each life—it had to be exactly the way it was, so that it IS exactly the way it IS.

There is only “change” and the extent or direction of change is more prevalent at times of relocation, demands upon physical beings and on the circumstances encountered and being worked through from long-distant locations and experiences.

When your direction is to love instead of hurt whoever comes your way with whom you disagree, you will have learned the way Wally would have wished to share with each. Wally did not, however, like to share the pain of loathsome acts as persons beset upon another and continued to eat away at the very flesh of those who could not further defend selves from the wolves or scavengers. Frankly, neither can, nor shall, I.

When it was time for Wally to grow ever stronger in himself as an example by which others could measure themselves, he met that challenge and prevailed.

I caution you who remain and who shall continue to function and move on—that you need the touch of human closeness—not to lean but to enjoy the very things of new beginnings.

I will tell you one thing which will give you a chuckle, whoever you might be—Doris would have all the Christmas decorations out and hanging and a Christmas basket on every available space to make the new central location the picture of a Christmas in the country and a chair by the fire as you make your days through the rest of the lull season. Yes, I certainly did say “lull”—we have not even yet BEGUN!

If you have felt we have gone away to simply play a game of some kind or other—better start more carefully thinking. Those who participated in this program at upstart, yea even several years ago, would not even recognize it now as laid forth. If you think it isn’t so—then you certainly NEVER BELIEVED IT COULD BE SO. IT IS SO! Furthermore, God shall present his Plan when it is ready and appropriate in the perfection of the “moment of understanding”.

Frankly, for you who are quite cynical about these things, I suggest you consider why Wally felt he could depart NOW and not last month or next week!!!

Some people need to return or come home while others need quite a few more lessons to become better prepared for a time when truth and presentation are the only acceptable behavior of the day. In the meanwhile we continue to the best of our ability under whatever circumstances present.

It is much as with “Mr. Four Winds” announcing again on the Internet some pretty outstandingly idiotic things, attributing them to one, Georgos Ceres Hatonn. He has stated that “George Ceres Hatonn has insinuated that Al Gore carries a vial of human blood at all times and has to regularly sip it to prevent himself from shape shifting.”

No, old Hatonn did not say nor insinuate ANYTHING OF THE KIND. What a bunch of rot, chelas, and if you can’t determine beyond such rubbish, then you need a lot more lessons than we have time to share with you at this time. Spectrum/Arizona/Icke, et al., are the “shape shifters” of recent vintage and when you cling to the absurd—EXPECT THE ABSURD. And NO, “old Hatonn” DOESN’T write for Spectrum nor that crew—and the whole picture is, again, absurd.

Every effort is made to make us look as ridiculous as is possible, for ego purposes of whatever kind are destructive. It matters not any longer, for we need the privacy of the moment—and we don’t have trouble while the spotlight is off our heads. However, to toss in garbage such as blood-vials, etc., is pretty foolish in its basic structure. Shape-shifting is truly in the eye of the beholder at best, lest you believe in magic spells and potions of a witch’s brew—especially if those people CALL THEMSELVES WITCHES—WHICH IS MORE OFTEN THE CASE THAN YOU HAVE EXPECTED—CHECK OUT ARIZONA ICKE.

Nobody shall put me or my team into such bizarre positions and expect us to remain there. We deal in REALITY and not in MAGIC. And, yes, there ARE “realities” in daily expression, from paying the rent to answering the phones and printing a paper. Magic does not do those things unless tricks are underway—KNOW IT. When reality of responsibilities meets the reality of soul expression, we have grown a very long way. Wally found that bridge and used it and—regardless of feelings of those who feel the most close and drastic loss—it shall come to pass that the love left for nurturing through the tough times shall overflow the cup and offer a necessary crutch along the way.

You are coming upon the days of Christmas Season and quite frankly they ARE the days that touch the soul and squeeze the heart while the loneliness wafts through the being along with the pecan-pie smell and the apple pie and turkey warming the house and making the most dreary room a home. Even if the feast was at the local pub the friends were there and, as with last year, here, there were no friends from past Christmases.

Here it was fine because E.J. couldn’t walk and thus the hotel crew was what was had—and it was beautiful in the very generosity of being included by the very maids and crew-staff who put up the decorations in the first place.

Don’t overlook these “times”, friends, lest you grow old and rigid and callous in your demeanor and emotions. Commercial? What is not commercial?

You don't have to BE commercial to enjoy to the very last moment the Christmas thought or the last twinkle of a string of tree lights. Don't become what Satan wishes you to become—dead and heartless—just because you don't want to be “bothered”, or judge another. LIFE is good, brother, whether it be on one side of that curtain or on the other. And please know, that you are being watched to be followed as an EXAMPLE by those who come along or share the journey.

A good test of growth in SELF is pick out the most annoying (to you) person in any town or room and go thrust out your hand and wish them a Merry Christmas and a “May we all have a wonderful New Year”. You will be amazed at how good it will make you feel, for either the other person has to make a fool of himself or you will regain some pride within self for your ability to grow and allow another to be whatever they are. You don't have to marry the person—remember that old bag of errors—to be friends and gracious acquaintances.

If we can turn attention away from the distractions and focus on the moment here, we shall get this project off and running quickly now. In this place the alternatives of NOT USING OUR PROPOSALS are so devastating that even such as the IMF are stupid not to come to some workable conclusion. IT IS A GOOD TIME, CHELAS, PLEASE DON'T MISS IT.

What can I example? Well, the Philippines is in COLLAPSE as the dollar is manipulated to weaken the currencies here and around the area. The foreign magnates would like to grab up the remaining values at nothing costs and the political circus is in full swing and headed directly toward bloodshed. IT IS A GOOD TIME FOR GOD, MY FRIENDS, AND A GOOD TIME TO SEE IF GOD HAS ANY INTELLIGENT LIFE DOWN THERE.

The papers are filled with the “bleakness” of everything from Christmas disaster to literal loss of everything. Stores are closed in the mall as to stagger the realization—as they couldn't even make it to the Christmas Holidays. The other stores are more beautiful in hopes of gathering the money from those who are yet rich and famous and also making a ploy for what there is available. So, the dreary projections reach out and touch the hearts along with the masses struggling along in flooded streets and whole sections of the nation without steady power and whole squatter towns burned to the ground because of power surges, etc. Plague and malaria are rampant and Christmas seems more like a trip to the morgue than a holiday.

Doris finally heard me: “NO! This is not going to be a bleak Christmas time for these people IF WE GET OUR JOB DONE—IT WILL BE THE FIRST AND BEST CHRISTMAS EVER HAD OR KNOWN IN THESE ISLANDS OF SOUTHEAST ASIA. WHEN THE GIFT IS ACCEPTED HERE, IT WILL RUN AS WIND AMONG ALL THESE ISLAND NATIONS. NO, NOT BLEAK—JOYOUS GLORY!”

Now, what does Wally know, perchance, that you do not? He KNOWS! He does not need the blockage of “time” constraints to realize the success of Creation. Jealous? Yes, please, but NOT envious. And, yes, indeed, to Jonathan and Sarah—you shall not be overlooked in the abundance for which your Father laid aside his prayers and efforts and NO, WE DO NOT RENEGE OR DISAVOW ANY WHO HAVE NOT RESCINDED THEIR DIRECTION OR PARTICIPATION “WITH US”. WE DO NOT SERVE OUR ENEMIES BUT FEW ARE ACTUALLY OUR ENEMIES. THE MOST ARE SIMPLY CHILDREN WITH THEIR EGOSELVES HANGING IN THE GALE TO BE WHIPPED HITHER AND YON, BASHING EVERYONE WHO COMES WITHIN DISTANCE—WHILE WEARING A PIOUS FACE WITH, QUITE FRANKLY, GUILT OF ACTIONS TAKEN AND HURT HEAPED ON OTHERS. TO EACH HIS OWN CHOICE AND DIRECTION BUT EACH MIGHT WELL TAKE A MOMENT AND CONFRONT WHAT YOU DO AND WHAT YOU THINK—EVEN ABOUT THE DEPARTURE OF ONE, WALLY LOWELL, FROM AMONG YOU.

Is it too late to come home? Is it ever too late to go home? What I suggest, however, is that you bring your dish to contribute to the pot-luck feast or not expect a very big welcome back. I suggest you dig out the bread machines and have a lot of hot bread, butter and beans and remember to be thankful—for Thanksgiving comes before Christmas and might just get you “in practice”.

How are other things? Well, we are within the finishing fabrication of a furnace to process some of the first foreign exchange product. And it comes just in time because the people doing “that” also are in the major business of rice and rice harvest. Well, two typhoons, one expected to hit today, are going to basically waste the rice harvest in Luzon OFF THE MAP. Now, people in your misery, THAT IS HURT IN A VERY VIVID PRESENTATION. We need this nation to shore up its people, replace that rice FOR FOOD, while never mind the harvest if necessary and get renewed shelter for those people of the fields. GOD HAS PROVIDED THAT AND SENT “YOU” WITH IT—SO HOW LONG WILL “YOU” TARRY? DO NOT BLAME THE IMF, WORLD BANK OR THE NATIVE AMERICANS—“YOU”. HOW LONG WILL YOU PICK AT YOUR BROTHER AND FAIL TO DELIVER THAT WHICH GOD SENT FORTH IN YOUR MISSION? SO BE IT. IN THE MIDDLE OF TYPHOONS BACK TO BACK AND A GOVERNMENT-NATION IN COLLAPSE, I DO NOT THINK A COUPLE OF WEEKS IS TOO MUCH TO ASK OF YOU PEOPLE WHO CLAIM TO BE OF SERVICE TO GOD, FRIEND AND NATION. YOU SAVE THE PHILIPPINES AND YOU WILL SAVE THE GOOD OLD U.S.A.—IT IS JUST THE WAY OF IT. AND, NO, YOU DO NOT HAVE TO GO SEARCH THE CLOUDS FOR THE WAY OR THE CONFIRMATION—WE HAVE THAT IN HARD, COLD DOCUMENTATION AND POWER PLAYS LIKE YOU HAVE NEVER WITNESSED BEFORE. BUT IT MUST BE WHILE THE NATION IS “SOVEREIGN”.

AFTER THE HORSE IS DEAD OF EXPOSURE, IT IS OF LITTLE VALUE TO LOCK THAT BARN DOOR!

My intent was to speak on the topic of Wally's departure—but one thing is never separate from that of another and perhaps it is time to allow some healing, some rightful REMORSE, and a time to put your hand in the hand of the man or woman OR CHILD next to you and look at YOURSELF differently.

You are wondrous and YOU ARE THE MIRACLE and you don't need MAGIC. Oh, my, wonderful ones, you do not need witches and brews—you only need love, honor, integrity, and above all, hope, charity and LOVE! You need to put a stop to the GARBAGE such as pours forth on those INTERNETS and Websites. GO WITH GOD AND YOU DO NOT NEED TO ATTEND THE BLOODSUCKERS OR SATANISTS PLAYING IN THEIR POTS AND KETTLES CONJURING CURSES AND LIES. LOOK UNTO THE HEAVENS/MOUNTAINS FROM WHENCE COME TRUTH AND THE EAGLE—AND STOP LOOKING AT THE DUNG-HEAP AT YOUR FEET. If you be over-run with rats and mice—get them clear, fix the holes and exterminate them and keep them out of your space and in that way the little apartment can be emptied, cleared, cleaned and re-done appropriately for whatever you choose. A coat of paint, a bit of fixing and you have a little kitchen and sink with bathroom at that farm. There is nothing you wish to make that can't be made right there.

Stop the stupid games about some Tea Place in Tehachapi having to do this or that for the FDA. YOU ARE NOT A TEA PLACE; YOU HAVE NO BUSINESS PLACE IN TEHACHAPI AND THOSE ARE THE “FACTS”—STOP THE GAMES AND THE GAME WILL STOP.

Now, please, let us get on with getting on with our lives and moving forward. We will be needing “the way” to be brought to this Archipelago; God's life-saving gifts to His people do not rest on what druthers might be held by such as Spectrum and Four Winds and frankly, I think the Spectrum group is about sick and tired of that Watcher crew—should be anyway.

We will also have, probably there as well as here in Southeast Asia, not only a production plant but a duplicate and more dedicated paper distribution—just as soon as we are “under sail”. We can let the children dicker with their U.S. counterparts until the fish swim home—but we will not be again held hostage to the whims of some self-egotistical “enemies” who would rather destroy than prevail in their own wealth and right. We each and all make our own futures and desires come fully into creation—even if you don't realize it. You will reap exactly what you proclaim and if you proclaim, as with Spectrum, that you will offer nothing of greatness or abundance—EXPECT NOTHING. WE ARE EXPECTING AND AWAITING UNTOLD ABUNDANCE AND JOY AT ABILITY TO IMPACT A HURTING WORLD IN A MAGNIFICENT WAY. IF YOU CAN'T BELIEVE IT—FINE, PLEASE JUST ALLOW US OUR LITTLE CRAZIES.

Furthermore, if you think God and Man can't work together, try looking at Janis Berend! AGAIN, carefully. And no, Wally did not choose to go that route, for he can do more good in the route he took home than all the rest of you put end to end. Believe me, there are many just waiting to "come home" and I like to repeat it so that you might stick out your paw first. A lot of our loved ones are hurting and so lonely as to die for a friendly recognition. We are not of God if we cannot reach out and share a smile or a hug—you will find it does not "subtract", only "divides" and "multiplies".

To you, including Wally, who have walked the extra mile and filled in, sick or well, to get us through these days of thorns and assaults, it is with grateful appreciation that you are honored and it is with these hands held tightly that we will finish this little side-trek up the mountain and view the valley with its shadows that seemed ever fearful and filled with lack, for, from a distance, only the light is there—even on a very dark night, for the lights then are in the heavens and you need to look UP and stop wallowing in the dark. THERE IS NO DARKNESS IN THE PLACES OF GOD—ONLY MAN CAN CONJURE A DARK PLACE NO MATTER HOW HARD HE TRIES TO DUMP IT ONTO GOD.

I ask that you get together somewhere and share this writing, for the crew has had to make major changes and adjustments under very, very difficult circumstances—and I want our appreciation recognized, both as an honor to Wally and TO YOU who have responded to the needs of the moment, regardless of how difficult personally.

Let us please leave our space as best we can so that we can be welcome again and again, for we have only JUST BEGUN, but choices shall be greater as we conclude this segment, join hands and move forward.

Let us keep one another as sheltered as we can and do what can be done to ease the burdens of another—but realize, please, that henceforth, we each must attend selves because it is a time of making do until we can sort and start again.

It is time, Mark, please, to run some of the more technical write-ups regarding such as Gaiandriana—and New Gaia can make arrangements for shipments. It is a time when our people must not be without ability to have these things if they want them. The "enemies" have driven you out of business, so frankly, it is time to stop licking wounds and DO BETTER without all the deadwood draining our every pore while expecting and demanding more.

Let them claim every "master" known to man—it doesn't make it so—and we shall attend those things as we choose. When you stop your nonsense about invisible voices, you will get it right with GOD—HE SPEAKS TO EVERYONE AND NEVER URGES YOU TO DO ANYTHING EVEN REMOTELY TWEAKED WITH UNLAWFUL POSSIBILITIES.

I suggest that you have had plenty of time to realize that all those astounding pronouncements made by the Spectrum group have failed to materialize, as has the dark downfall of either Ekkers or myself—or CONTACT. WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO CONVINCING YOU ALREADY?

Will we perchance fail? No, we have already succeeded—even if not what you or this team expected in form—and by the way—GOLD WILL DOUBLE!

Where will Ekkers abide in a world of shambles? Anywhere they choose! It is much as with Wally today—ANYWHERE HE WANTS. And if you think Wally Lowell can dance around a room at a wedding party—you haven't seen twinkle-toes today.

I suggest some of you youngsters, i.e., Wally's children, get yourselves hyped up for some education in things offering ability to function in computers, technical activities from building to making Gaiandriana and stop drifting hither and yon on the wisp or driftings of a pointless river. YOU MUST RELY, PEOPLE, ON THESE YOUNGSTERS OF TODAY—WILL YOU BE ABLE TO TRUST YOUR OWN FUTURE AND THEIRS—TO THEM? OK, THEN, MAKE IT SO; AND THAT IS MY COMMITMENT TO A WALLY LOWELL—TO MAKE VERY SURE THAT IF I GET COOPERATION—THEY GET THEIR PLACE IN THIS NEW WORLD IN THE MAKING—IN FREEDOM. BUT THEY MUST DO THEIR SHARE AND THAT IS THE "PHYSICAL"—AND THEY SHALL FIND THAT THEY WILL ACCOMPLISH WITHOUT EVEN HAVING TO LOOK TO ANOTHER "HUMAN ENTITY" TO PROVIDE, FOR GOD PROVIDES "THE WAY"—YOU MUST WALK IT AND MANIFEST IT.

Do what is necessary to get you physically through these days, for they are the days of testing to see your intent and cause. If you can't make it through these slightly lean times, can you make it through the big times? Think so? HOW? IF YOU ONLY "WAIT" UPON ANOTHER, HOW WILL YOU KNOW WHERE OR HOW TO EVEN BEGIN? And, yes, this IS for the big people as well as the little short or tall people. We can hardly classify Robby or Jonathan as "short" now can we?

WHY DID YOU COME THIS WAY IN THE FIRST PLACE? ISN'T IT TIME TO SPEND CAREFULLY REMEMBERING? YOU HAVE ALL BUT REACHED PORT—AND YOU STILL ARE DRIFTING IN THE SHALLOWS. WE WHO MAKE LANDING MUST MOVE ON, BE THAT WITH OR WITHOUT THOSE WHO BEGAN OUR LITTLE JOURNEY, AND THAT IS SIMPLY THE WAY IT IS WITHOUT IFFING AND GRIPING OR GRINDING AWAY AT WHAT YOU WOULD RATHER HAVE IT BE. IT IS EXACTLY "THIS WAY" AND SO BE IT.

Thank you for reading this and sharing this message; and it share with anyone who knows or knew Wally, for he reaches now beyond differences and distances and if his hand reaching out looks a bit like feathers—so be it—grab one and cherish it. You will know a man by the space he leaves behind—in the heart and at the family table.

LISTEN TO YOUR HEART

If you can live
the life that you believe in,
you will have everything you need to reach your dream.

Just look into your heart, and you'll find confidence in yourself that will make each challenge easier to face...

You'll discover the hope that will keep you believing...
you'll find an inner strength that will help you past obstacles...
and you'll see the happiness
that's waiting for you if you keep trying...

The struggle for any dream is always worth the effort, for in the struggle lies its strength and fulfillment...

If you listen to your heart,
you will reach your dream.

REMEMBERING WALLY

A sadness fills our hearts today,
For a special friend has gone away.
He left behind an empty chair,
Because of such, he'd want no despair.

With love he accepted a responsible position,
Working cheerfully on God's critical mission.
And the mention of Aton or Hatonn's writings,
Elevated his spirits to perceptions as exciting.

Wally, you did a job and did it so well,
As your many friends won't hesitate to tell.
Now on smooth waters you'll set your sail—
An infinite celestial journey to blaze a trail.

You'll fly on angel's wings,
To where you're supposed to be,
Above the clouds with Heavenly Hosts,
Where God will dwell with thee.

And to Wally, WELCOME HOME, SON, AND
MAY THOSE LEFT BEHIND REALIZE THE GIFT YOU WERE AND ARE.

RE: HOPEFUL EXPECTATIONS ALONG WITH "THE DONKEY'S CHOICE OF LOAD".

WINDOWS OPEN AND CANDLES BURNING

THANK YOU, WALLY LOWELL

I sit to write this morning during a moment in a storm when there is just enough sun filtering through the typhoon-filled sky to allow us to know the Sun is alive and well in the HEAVENS and, therefore, all else is just a passing moment in someone's time schedule.

I thank Wally Lowell for the years and years of loving support he has never ceased to offer to those needs of higher demonstrations and to our hands and hearts when bleakness overshadowed the heart like great shrouds of hurt loss of one kind or another. He always reminds me that if we stay RIGHT within, and within God, the slings and arrows need not pierce the vital organs and strew us upon the tides upon rocks and barren sands. Not easy, just secure within.

I am caused to look upon each day and experience now with something close to double vision with an anchor to God and Truth, a hope that God truly allows us the ONLY way of perfection in this great and magnificent task allotted into our care, and, finally, the love and hope of all that IS, in creative ability within that wondrous perfection and Light of Creator.

I'm sorry that we must grieve over the transition of our brethren, for it is truly only in the moment of personal loss that we consider our own actions and thoughts. All those who passed on their way from "my" circle of radiance only present themselves in the perfection and beauty of flawlessness gleaned by a life served, a moment in "time" constraints, and then a support so wondrous as to allow us, the remaining on trial, to see and hear more clearly. Surely Wally, for instance, flies beyond the teachers of a physical plain of expression whereby we need hear the voice as given sound by a physical "sound-box" expressing. When, as with such as Wally, the body rests and the soul is set free it soars with the Phoenix from the ashes of that which was a passing role in an ever-fleeting play on a stage somewhere in "time" limitation and space categorization.

Am I wise? Am I gone daft? Neither, I simply have grown from the lessons to see truth and recognize the very presentation of cause and effect, before and after, the beginning and ending as projected in short spurts of illusion and practical application of physical participation.

Mostly, we don't realize, of course, that which we have near and can hold until it is ripped from our presence and the empty place at the table is staring at us, as "in our face".

I am going to say something which, please forgive me if it is offensive to some who seemed to offer "more" somehow in backup and stay-power, but within my own personal strength system there are a few of the most non-judgmental entities who have offered more strength to my way than I can express. The silent support of Little Crow, the unbending allowance and support of Wally Lowell and the quiet expression of things just "being" (somehow) OK as we journey along the way in the congenial expression of an Eric Peterson.

Would I mimic their life expression? No, because they are NOT "me"—and their expressions need be unique as our tasks vary even though the wind chimes within may bear the same notes and tones to touch the heart strings which stir to those tones of acceptance and sharing.

Each comes and bears witness to teachers, each different and, yet, ever the same. For those messages, even if they appear in error of accepted "notability", are coming from human expression and its non-perfection but soundly based on that which is TRUTH in the higher understanding of Life, God, Universe and Self. "If I polish myself as the diamond is polished in the hands of the MASTER CRAFTSMAN, I shall shine—and if I only shine WITHIN, it is sufficient."

CHANGING ATTITUDES

We sit in the train's "side-cars" on what appears to be a "siding rail" and surely enough—everything goes on in its good or negative perception and, finally, one has to look and simply "allow" it to take place as it will.

We have more information about the Federal raid shakeout. Nothing different only that, as the players and the points flow in, we are brought into "knowing" more and have a better chance to evaluate possibilities.

The last to hit as in "attorney" observations is that somehow New Gaia stated positive things about something that is a collection set forth by what we thought were "professional" physicians and lettered herbalists, etc., directly for some persons requesting same for Gulf War Syndrome support items.

That particular group of "things" is nothing other than a collection of a "start-up" kit of items which some found helpful to the persons harboring the malady.

The kit itself was originated by and through Dr. Peter Kawaja who was involved deeply in the outpouring of information and scientific studies on that matter of Gulf War Syndrome.

The kits were compiled and often paid for by Dr. Pierre CLOUTIER, a licensed Chiropractor and Holistic physician along with being publisher of America East Publishers.

Dr. Cloutier is also the ONE who joined with and paid for, as we understand it, much of the Dr. Young's "WISDOM" books last published. Certainly, this man did write vitriolic things regarding Ekkers, further pushed "Hatonn" off onto Latona/Young and ungraciously said we stole from everyone, including the CONTACT, because we had to take a stand in behalf of the LAW.

Anything reported SHOULD HAVE been followed up with letters and instructions to modify (if statements were incorrect) and if labels were incorrectly offered, letters of instructions were also required BY AND

FROM THE AUTHORITIES. The major point seems to be that the "colloids" should have also had a line stating "dietary supplement" [since November 1999].

We find the first products of the Drias and/or the other products were not only used by but labels passed for inspection by Atty. Scott Tips who made many trips to the location whereat he would even bring in other products (such as a weight-loss product) which he both touted and took sales commissions. Scott Tips was—and perhaps still remains—"the" lead counsel for the National Health Federation and Maurine Kennedy-Salaman.

As to colloids, perhaps they are considered a dietary supplement so that addition is quite well accepted but electrolytic colloidalization is via a very standard process and certainly not a "food or drug" category.

Vortexing to colloidalize is separate yet and if a colloid product is vortexed electromagnetically the particles are flung into the cells of the water or fluid base product.

At the farm will be found a large "extractor" which was to be converted to "electro-magnetic" apparatus for more accurate non-electrolysis processing. Bob James had the components and after perfecting the electrolysis of energizing the liquids such as Gaiandriana, he was moving on to complete the "light frequency" equipment and such as the electromagnetic processing apparatus.

I am not going into all this except for one reason—people just don't seem to know that which they do. THESE WERE THE PROJECTS FOR WHICH PEOPLE LOANED FUNDS AND OTHERS CAME AND DESTROYED THE VERY PROCESSES THEMSELVES FOR WHATEVER SELFISH PURPOSES.

The very people who did the "turning in" were the ones who benefited most directly from New Gaia's revenue. We can only look upon these things with whatever reaction comes to the surface and keep right on moving with our job at hand. I state this because the job at hand is righteous, wondrous, bountiful, and above all: RIGHT. GOD DOES NOT LEAVE US "WANTING" WHEN WE HAVE SERVED RIGHTEOUSLY WITHIN THE PERFECTION OF INTENT WITHIN. Are we always perfection and right? NO, because we are human and cannot see beyond the moment in the pathway—but we diligently make every effort to know what we can about the bend in the pathway and not run off the cliff. GOD DOES NOT PRESENT THOSE CLIFFS—MAN SETS THE TRAPS AND DISASTERS.

Right here in Manila today, in the aftermath of TWO "back-to-back" typhoons, there are hundreds of thousands of people flooded, devastated and homeless. Ah, indeed, the shelters blew down like matchsticks, caught fire and were destroyed. WHY WERE THERE MATCHSTICK SHELTERS IN THOSE SQUATTER VILLAGES ALONG THE FLOODING RIVERS? THAT is man's doing, NOT GOD! Now, everyone turns to another and says, "It is God's will." NO, IT IS NOT—IT IS THE GREED AND AVARICE OF MAN AND SO SHALL BE THE RESULT AS DISEASE SWEEPS ACROSS THESE LANDS.

The rice crop of Luzon is likely GONE WITH THE WIND right here at harvest time, while the politicians change locomotives in the middle of the muddy river awash in bodies and pollution.

Well, it appears God in HIS infinite wisdom of instructions, to we who wait upon those instructions, has probably put into place a win-win circumstance for “all” the players—if they (we) move right ahead according to HIS well-laid forth agenda. But this is only the Philippines in “cast-offs” of the U.S. Lords. So be it because we too are Americans caught in this play unfolding.

How do you even know for what to “wish”? We don’t so we ask God, in HIS INFINITE WISDOM, to show us the way and to do so in HIS PERFECTION and within HIS WILL that we might not blunder in our own trail of woe and Satan’s armies.

SATAN’S TROOPS

We are noting a total lack of ability for Satan to even catch his troops and hold them—rats always jump ship when the seas get rough and, by golly-gee, everyone can’t wait to bolt Erap’s party, since it is plain they will soon no longer hold power.

Some of the politicians are LOUDLY proclaiming their change of support systems which is in itself interesting, for they are the ones up for re-election RIGHT NOW [Well, next May]. Wow! And then you have whole “party” dropouts to protect their own dreary and corrupted backsides in hopes that their own indiscretions will be lost in the hoopla of the shouting itself.

The man who brought the President to his knees is A PUBLISHED AND SELF-STATED CRIME LORD, as a for instance, and yet his hands were held up high, supported by the Archbishop of the Philippines, Cardinal Sin—at the gathering of “eagles” (or vultures) with 50-60 thousand people in tow. Will this Governor, Singson, be perhaps the next vice-president or something? What do people do—and does the LORD strike them from their crime sprees or does a threat on the life by the former joint crime-lord make the difference? It is hard to tell from the new pious countenance and the whooping crowd,

Is Mr. Estrada (President) a man without blemish? Well, with 8 families recognized (seven of them have to be headed by mistresses), I doubt he is worthy of absolution of the Roman Catholic Church—although he was shown on the front page of the papers TAKING COMMUNION by a Catholic Bishop.

He, the President, missed the rally yesterday because he was out passing out little bags of relief supplies (less than a grocery sack each and each bag with his emblazoned picture affixed) to refugees of the storms.

BOTH SIDES (OR “EITHER”)

Now, to our own mundane activities? We sit waiting as, yes, indeed, we did our allotted work and we have provided the solution nobody can handle—to the poverty status of this nation. The economy is in the tank, the currency is devastated and only saved further disaster this week by having to close the banks and bourses for the typhoons. This place is a worse disaster than the Singapore Airlines plane on the wrong runway in Taiwan.

GOD, friends, proves his unfaltering “equal opportunity” to the people by providing BOTH SIDES with HIS abundance program.

We have “in holding” now TWO major-sized Deeds of Assignments with trusted agents now working directly with the “opposition”. We also have other trusted “counsel” working with the direct parties of the Administration—offering whatever is necessary. A meeting Friday had to be called off until the coming week because of the flooding and “no power” on the Island.

So, will we get our portion of this job done? YES, we have done so and our job now is further patience. We have presented that which is a coverage program for other nations juxtaposed to the Philippines. Those recent papers assembled by E.J. and passed on appropriately are now considered the “documents to be heard around the world”.

U.S. ELECTIONS

No, we don’t have ability to have a choice—as we are homeless and at present somewhat nationless in that we can’t have a choice with voting one way or another.

I do note that Malaysia comes right out today and states clearly that a victory for Gore is going to cause a probable disaster in relationships between the U.S. and Malaysia. People, that is NOT good—Malaysia remains the ONLY stable economy and political entity in this entire region.

BACK TO GOD, HOWEVER

Not to be biased, for I have no right nor reason to take sides in this embroiled political morass, I can admit being stunned! I watched the Prayer Rally while E.J. met with other REMARKABLE people yesterday afternoon. I wept in pure astonishment as probably 60,000 people (citizens of this nation) bowed in PRAYER TO GOD for help, the way and the nation—and the light in the midst of the storm was so great as to blind-out the cameras. These people in masse were asking God to intervene, assist, and bring peace to the nation. There was no act of violence anywhere, ONLY RESPECT IN REVERENCE TO GOD AND MOTHER.

These people make their dramas but I assure you they mean their relationship to HOLY GOD in their faith that God WILL respond. GOD HAS RESPONDED THROUGH OUR HANDS, READERS, AND THROUGH WHAT GOD OFFERS THROUGH US CAN ESTABLISH STABILITY AND A FOUNDATION UPON WHICH TO BUILD THIS NATION AND BRING PEACE AND JOY TO THESE AMAZING PEOPLE.

Will corrupted officials prevail in the high places of the Madding Crowd? Oh, probably they will be there, but structured as we have outlined the program—THEY WILL NOT PREVAIL IN THEIR CORRUPTION.

At this point, there is NO attention to us as persons and we have asked that that remain so. There is no need for “permission” or other foolishness allowing payoffs and kickbacks from the U.S., Fed, IMF or any other power-broker. The way is clear, the alliance sound and the association needs no figureheads to take credit or publicity. “Just get to the job, ma’am, with the facts.” Whatever positive comes from this program can only reflect in goodness upon the remaining light of the world, the U.S. as was established in integrity and GREATness.

And, yes, we WILL publish these documents for the sharing—when appropriate. Our friends will simply have to wait as do we to see the proper unfolding—OR SHUTDOWN if the greater force-bearers can hobble the horses already out and running.

THIS PROGRAM, HOWEVER, IS BIG ENOUGH TO BE THE STARBURST WHICH LIGHTS THE SKY AND KINDLES THE FIRES OF THE HEARTHS OF HUMAN BEINGS IN THIS PLACE AND CAN REACH AROUND THIS OLD, DARKENED, WEARY, WAR-TORN WORLD.

Hardest for “us” in this ongoing “drama” is the very personal ebb and flow of our own considered friends and coworkers. It is fine, for we cannot have either wimps or dropouts in the final presentation here on this stage of presentation. And yes, we have had the backup teams needed “back there” in “dreamland” to allow us the ability to meet these obligations here.

Should we fail to make it for some human physical reason, we have, yes, structured the flow to continue without interruption except for coming up to speed on a computer flow-chart.

And, no, the “dropaways” won’t like the choices made but we have seen who will stay the course, bear the slings and arrows and keep right on as best can be worked through to completion. TOUGH TIMES DON’T LAST—TOUGH PEOPLE DO!

It has truly been a wonderment to be so involved and yet so non-involved. We have been caused to offer to all sides and allow God’s perfection to make the choices of who hears and accepts. THE PEOPLE WAIT, FOR THEY NEED POLITICAL MANDATES TO ALLOW THEIR ONGOING VENTURES. BUT, THEY SIT WITH SOME 1200 BIG DEEDS TO KICK-START EVERY KIND OF COOPERATIVE VENTURE IMAGINED, FROM MINING TO FISH-FARMING. AND, YES, THE SCATTER IS ABUNDANT AMONG THE MUSLIMS AND ANY OTHER RELIGIOUS PREFERENCE. BUT THE OUTSTANDING OPPORTUNITIES ARE “WITH THE PEOPLE” AND THE MOMENT THE POLITICIANS CAN’T INTERFERE WITH THE BANKS’ CONTROL OF THEIR OWN LAWS, THE FLOODGATES OF OPPORTUNITY OPEN.

Today is one of the first days I have felt a need for these more than two years of labor in this polluted vineyard. And, readers, I get my confirmation moment by moment now—I DO NOT BELIEVE I COULD HAVE DONE THIS! I FURTHER DON’T BELIEVE THAT ANY ONE WILL EVEN GIVE ME CREDIT AS THEY HAVE DONE FOR THE TRAVELS UP TO HERE. This may well be a drop in the old bucket of water, but it is a big enough splash for me to know DIVINE INTERVENTION AS REQUESTED HAS RESPONDED IN THAT WHICH IS SO BIG AS TO BE UNFATHOMED AND WITHOUT MEASURE.

Have there been equally large opportunities presented prior to now? I suppose, but surely, as we could guess, they have now seen the light of day and thus remains the mystery and assurance—at least we have been able to get this INTO THE LIGHT OF DAY.

So, will it be, for we who can’t function in a human physical world beyond the next week or month, “on time” to save us from the wheels of the onrushing train? I don’t know! But I AM SURE that if we pull away those binding ropes, get help to the damaged to allow staying the course—we certainly SHALL make the finish-line out front. Nobody said we would be unbattered but we have the realization that the enemy has sent his best troops against us and we still march on—some from the newly realized “other side”. We have stood the test by fire, friends, and we have moved a long way to dousing those fires with the fresh spring waters of that which is far greater.

Will the corrupted become uncorrupted? That is NOT my problem. I can guess that they will suddenly wake up to the fact that continuing in the dregs of corruption is not going to long be acceptable. There simply won’t be a big deep and black hole in which to hide such indiscretions as have formed a network of sheltering crime and evil.

What will happen to the President’s ladies of the night? I don’t have any idea but the mansions will be sold and the funds returned, somehow, to the people (it is said). And people, we are talking about mansions, not log cabins. One of the “favorite mistress” bungalows is over 70,000 sq. feet in size and outfitted something like Hearst Castle.

What happens to the children of the liaisons? I don’t know—and for them I feel great sorrow, for they had no say in their presentation. I did watch two very notable sons (from two of the ladies in point) lie their way through a Congressional Blue Ribbon hearing. They also hold political positions as Mayors, etc. One is an “actor” who is both stupidly silly and a bit of a clown—but is also the president of the Philippines Mayor’s Association. They both, in turn, simply LIED and everyone knew they lied—which ultimately cost their Father almost all of the members of the panel of the Committee doing the hearings.

Are they getting even somehow with Dad? Who knows, but the deeper the digging, the more disastrous is the evidence found from “hot cars” (luxury customs, smuggled), RVs to such as Lexus sedans, ambulances for their cities and on you go—right to taking gambling funds DIRECTLY in negotiable drafts and cash.

Are the people jumping ship of State totally innocent? Oh, gosh, no, a couple of them TOOK direct gambling pay-offs and now find it better to hop off that old train and onto the new one leaving the depot.

One of the witnesses took two weeks to be located “on vacation” in the U.S. and was brought back to testify. Another just simply “took off for the sheltering arms of the U.S. Administration”. Even the President has great land holdings in the U.S.—right in beautiful sunny Southern California. These crooks in high places have property ALL OVER AND BACK AGAIN in the United States of America and a lot in Canada—all gifted as a PLACE TO SHELTER THEIR PAYOFFS. It is no secret here—don’t know that it even makes the news in the U.S. other than as a little Third World nation in upheaval of some childish sort.

The incoming (vice-president) ready to “take over” is about 5-feet tall on tippy-toes and went to school with Billy Clinton in his classrooms yet, and they are ongoing buddies in every way.

I watch the unfolding and there are so many “Amboys (Ampersons?)” in this pot as to boggle the mind. It leaves you realizing that the war is between American assets and American assets and it can no longer be hidden—but it appears that Erap has to go to let in the really big U.S. power-thugs. Conspiracy? Well, there are so many conspiracies unfolding right before everyone as to have to sort them and it is really, really difficult. NONE of the players had best toss stones because houses are shattering all over the block. It pays never to listen to Satan because even the “chosen” are dumped when the going gets appropriate and Erap just never measured up to the U.S. plan, except as a foolish dupe.

Corruption, it is said, in the Philippines is so acceptable that half the time nobody knows what the word means. I believe it. Even the Pope (Cardinal Sin) is said to have three wives himself. I don’t know how that could work but we certainly do know that he is Communist by party-line and now it also becomes interesting to you who have all the back writings of Erick San Juan to re-read it all if you have interest—for the line of command is spelled out quite visually.

Is Erick on the “side” of say, Marcos? No, Erick would like to see the money stolen from the Philippines COME BACK TO THE PHILIPPINES.

SO, ABOUT THAT MONEY?

Boy, every time you think you might have a line on the truth and scatter on that wealth, you are shot down by the scams and cons. These are outright liars and cheats who can’t seem to have any other way of operating. Truth is not in them even if it would serve them far better. Some of these people can turn the perfection of fact into some kind of distorted rip-off game.

I can tell you one interesting circumstance that just came to us yesterday, with full-blown backup and documentation. It has something to do with assets in the Sierra Madre Mountains. This is not just a tale but apparently factual while the projects intended are simply land-oriented production programs. Legends? Who knows. Myths? Surely, but again, who knows? Even Legends and Myths have some basis for the myth itself.

Some persons, however, have produced that which comes from the “claims” and that is hardly deniable even by our own harsh standards of non-belief. God has said, it is said, that there is that which was placed “against this day in sequence of evolvment” for the use of “MY PEOPLE”. I am not here to proclaim that I know who or what those people might be—but the facts lay before us to behold with eyes that of physical being but so great as to continue to deny—having been scorched by the fire before and thus limiting self to total flexibility in any exchange.

The state of anarchy here makes it physically difficult to move about or shift ANYTHING from rice to riches. So, it is again a time of patience for the political players to settle down and get the very law of the land under control. People are desperate and desperation builds nasty attitudes in the “defenders” seeking security.

This is why I am not impressed longer with anyone who would “give his life for...” B.S., who is willing to STAND and use their life (alive) to achieve goodness and merit? Suicide is suicide whether it be honorable or sick but that is not mine to reason or report. To deliver that load to dock is the hardest one emotional burden I have had to confront—and my full realization is that we had opportunity before and I took the out of fire, crucifixion, the lions den, the social outcast and the hemlock. This time, friend who believes or does not believe—I will stay this course and dock this boat. Then, I will try to secure that which we can and let go and let God do that which comes next. I use the term “I” here because I HAVE NO RIGHT TO SPEAK FOR ANY OTHER!

How bad is this con-arena in this location? Daily, you get tales and more offers of the most ridiculous things known to a thinking person. Therefore, we are always opened to the proposition that our offering too, is likely fabricated. No, ours proves to be better and better and for all the RIGHT REASONS of LAW and timing of the asset itself.

Example today: [QUOTING The Philippine STAR, Sunday, Nov. 5, 2000:]

[D: Now note that we have been offered these things since we got to the Philippines and we have even been asked for funds to buy some of these here-described “documents”. Life is certainly interesting if nothing else in a day’s journey.]

UTAH MAN CHARGED FOR CASHING IN FAKE $100-M BONDS

NEWARK , NEW JERSEY (AP)—US authorities charged an auto mechanic with trying to cash a bogus $100-million Federal Reserve bearer bond allegedly issued in 1934.

Kevin Jackson, 49, of Hyde Park, Utah, was charged on Friday. He was arrested June 22 and is free on $10,000 bond pending arraignment on two counts of mail fraud and one each of conspiracy and transporting a counterfeit security across state lines. Each count carries a prison term of up to five years and a $250,000 fine.

In court papers filed after his arrest, Jackson claimed he got the bond through an intermediary of an unnamed Filipino general. Jackson claimed that notes with values up to $100 million were produced before World War II and were issued to European nations to help their economies.

He further claimed that some of the bonds fell into the hands of the Japanese during the war and eventually ended up with the late dictator Ferdinand Marcos.

The court documents, filed by Jackson’s public defender K. Anthony Thomas, claim Filipino military generals got hold of the bonds after the dictator’s death.

Prosecutors said the Federal Reserve never issued any note in a denomination greater than $1 million. The central bank could not immediately verify that claim Friday evening, said spokesman Dave Skidmore.

Jackson could not be reached for comment at his home or workplace, the Mechanic Shop in Smithfield, Utah. Messages left at both locations were not immediately returned Friday.

Thomas said he had not yet seen the indictment and declined to comment.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Patrick Rocco, who is prosecuting the case, said he could not comment on whether others would be charged, but said the investigation is continuing.

The case came to light when banking officials became suspicious after Jackson tried to deposit the bond in several financial establishments and to have funds transferred elsewhere or to take cash.

In court papers seeking to dismiss the complaint, Jackson's lawyer argued that the government denies the notes exist because, "If these notes were redeemed, the American economy would devastatingly suffer."

[END OF QUOTING]

Now, please, a personal observation and comment.

We have been shown these ridiculous fabrications since we got to the Philippines with Charles and Rick. The dupes have enlarged a typical older-type $100 bill (FRN) without even bothering to check authentic participants, data or numbers. A $100,000,000 "thing" is used to fit in the space for the $100 designation and then printed and coupons affixed to the bottom of the documents.

The basis of the documents themselves are BASED ON NOTHING (as in gold or hard assets), and, they are issued AFTER THE FEDERAL RESERVE ACT OF 1913 which dumps them into the pot of those things needing no attention nor payout even if "good".

We simply have asked that NO ONE even bring these things into our space and if they do, to take them away or we would be obligated to turn them over to the authorities. These things come in lots of up to forty medium-sized boxes.

We have also been "exposed" to such "things" as "forty barrels of silver coins". The silver coins are not even silver and then these nice people dip them in gold something or other and you have the makings of 40 barrels of fraudulent coins. This goes along with the zinc bars brought in as platinum or silver and others dipped in some kind of gold-plating and foisted off as ancient treasure.

The ones with the coins claimed to have them for making costume jewelry and that could work. I have two—(before and after). This is rather OK in that these same people also bring shell necklaces and beads as little gifts from their "craft livelihood" efforts.

So, do we handle things differently? Indeed—we put our paper before the highest courts and people in the land(s) with full ability to follow-up all the way down the trail.

I don't know much about old Peruvian certificates—except that apparently Russell Herman (Hermann) had one and it was properly converted. That is not our problem or claim and our agreement with the Treasury and Fed was to not "transact" within the domestic United States to disallow for a hard hit on the Treasury or the Fed. We consider that totally RESPONSIBLE behavior for all involved. BUT THE DOCUMENTS ARE VALID AND CAN BE USED AS RESERVES. The reserves are then converted to hard product and used as the valid (in point) collateral for funds which are held by the issuing bank (nation).

Hard to believe? Well, GOD is like that, isn't HE?

When we realize that it is us Ekkers that are wanted to be STOPPED at all costs through the little miscreants set to simply throw bullets and darts, we chuckle at the misunderstandings of even our own selves. And yet, let the Feds keep tracking and it is NOT us in trouble in the outcome. They KNOW what we have is valid, legal and IS. What a blow that must be to the tinkering destroyers. They only further validate our very products and projects FOR US.

We hear that Rick and Gail are the new airwaves authorities on FEMA? Well, my goodness, wonders simply never cease. What SOLUTIONS are offered for solving the miserable lack? Waking up America simply does not supply conclusive solutions to THE PROBLEMS. GOD DOES NOT JUST OUTLINE PROBLEMS WITHOUT ALSO OFFERING A SOLUTION. Of all the things we have LEARNED—that is a major one.

Will the U.S. ever honor Grandma? I don't know; I would certainly wish so but it is certainly doubtful at present or until such time as other manipulations can be put in place to shelter the country as a whole. I do not argue the need for that type of protection or the need to come to working agreements over that which can totally devastate when in the hands of wrong-players.

Does that include us? YES, AND WE MADE AGREEMENTS WHICH SECURE FROM ALL SIDES.

Can we determine avenues of use after the program leaves our joint venturing? No, but the hope is that the program is so excellent that there is no need to strip it or abuse it.

Surprisingly enough, it is obvious that there is only a tiny handful of war-mongers who want devastation and war. When PEACE is the only prevailing way to go—we will see change in both manifestation and attitudes. WE ARE ALL HUMAN BEINGS STUCK ON A RATHER TINY SPINNING TOP IN A VERY LARGE UNIVERSE AND WE HAVE GROWN IN STUPIDITY ENOUGH TO DESTROY IT. ILLUSION? WELL, I BELIEVE THAT THE FIRST THING THAT CAN BE DESTROYED IS AN "ILLUSION". WHEN WE START SAVING BABIES INSTEAD OF KILLING THEM, THEN PERHAPS WE WILL BE ABLE TO SEE MORE CLEARLY THE PATHWAY AHEAD.

Furthermore, however, we have had no viable SOLUTION to offer to the problem, for the first Protocol is to get control of the money, gold, etc., so that the people have to go to the crooks to survive. WE HAVE BEEN GIVEN THE SOLUTION RIGHT OUT OF THEIR OWN STRUCTURES.

The solution of that kind is not what is needed for each "problem"—but I can guarantee you that if they undid our world through those Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion (whoever wrote them), we can undo it solution by solution, inside out. BUT WE HAVE TO HAVE A SOLUTION IN HAND IN ORDER TO FIND PEACE OUT OF THE CONFRONTATION OF THE PROBLEMS THEMSELVES, INCLUDING DISASTER ASSISTANCE AND HELP WHETHER YOU CALL IT FEMA OR COMMUNISM—OR LIBERAL CAPITALISM. CALL ANYTHING YOU WANT ANYTHING YOU WANT AND IT CHANGES NOT THE FACT OF THE REALITY, ROSE OR THISTLE. It is certainly good to smell the roses—IF YOU DON'T SUFFER FROM "ROSE FEVER" WHICH IS AN ALLERGIC REACTION THAT CAN KILL. Aren't we humans an interesting lot? Right: Look at ourselves and we might see another differently—thank you, Father.

We "Pleiadians" with those proverbial round-heels that allow one pushover after another are a real test of living in a confused world. However, getting up off the mat is often the more strengthening bit of the exercise provided as in pushups vs. roll overs. I find that when we attach to the life-ring that doesn't deflate at the first pinprick, we can make it to shore, drag up out of the mud on the shoreline and somehow bumble our way to safety. Perhaps all we learn from that exercise is that unexpected lesson regarding "you can make it", rather than: "Look, you dough-brain, quit while you can run and hide."

Chances? Oh, my, that one is better as a lesson. "Give me another chance" and again, "please, give me another chance..." and that is the big one for the hundredth time from the President's mouth to his public today. It is like being saved: If you are saved, you are saved and if you jump back into the burning car, you really didn't "mean" to make that extra chance work, did you? God can judge our intent of all these "chances" and knows when we lie and when we mean our honorable intention.

I don't think any of these particular lessons were in my desired outline of subject material. Certainly, to stand against Satan in a high-rise hotel—in a monsoon or typhoon in darkest Manila—was not high on my list of desirable positions up for grabs.

Well, I begin to realize that we shall actually be within reason to expect to see Manila and these wondrous islands called Philippines become the Paradise of the wish books. And this wondrous disease could then spread over the globe like a wildfire in Australia in drought.

I've had far more than my allowance of time and space—and please overlook that if you are annoyed by the input—as I am told about that Ekker/"Hatonn" stuff from CONTACT as internationally sent out over Four Winds Website. Funny thing about that position—it was OUR paper and I find the remarks interesting in their own content.

Keep allowing that type of garbage flinging, SPECTRUM, and you can count your days to disaster. Denying association there no longer cuts the mustard; in fact, never did. And if YOU had the solutions—wouldn't you be over here instead of us? Some were and chose to change horses and that is fine, but the trail is a bit more muddy now and you are far easier to TRACK.

May God truly surround you all with HIS security and wings, for there is room for all of us.

Love to all of our friends, and within the Light, thank you, and our appreciation abounds for all you share. This job is going to get finished in glory; we cannot fall unless we deliberately "let go".

THE CONSPIRATORS' HIERARCHY: THE COMMITTEE OF 300

By Dr. John Coleman
(Part 13)

This Fourth Edition Masterpiece—one of the best reference sources still available on the world would-be-king Elite Puppet-Masters—is a must resource for all libraries, public and private. This book's FOREWORD, in addition to Dr. Coleman's excellent article "Betrayal of the Philippines", was front-page-quality material in the April 5, 2000 issue of CONTACT. Other parts of this continuing series: Part 1 (8/9/00); Part 2 (8/23/00); Part 3 (8/30/00); Part 4 (9/6/00); Part 5 (9/13/00); Part 6 (9/20/00); Part 7 (9/27/00); Part 8 (10/04/00); Part 9 (10/11/00); Part 10 (10/18/00); Part 11 (10/25/00); Part 12 (11/1/00). Our appreciation to Dr. Coleman for sharing this One World Government magnum opus. See page 15 at the conclusion of this part for ordering information.

- Note: The title "House of Windsor" was adopted by King George V in 1917. The "Windsors" are in reality of the House of Guelph, one of the Venetian Black Nobility's oldest dynasties. Queen Victoria's lineage is traced directly back to the Guelphs.
- Members of the Committee of 300 are sometimes coopted from the hierarchy of the United Nations, but it has only occurred on two occasions.
- Members are sometimes drawn for a particular period from MI-6, and are always drawn from the Anglican Church. Archbishop Runcie was handpicked by Queen Elizabeth.
- An interesting connection between Japan and the Committee of 300 is found in the intervention of King Frederik IX of Denmark, backed up by King Haakon of Norway; King George VI of England, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands and Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg, who "requested that Emperor Hirohito not be arrested or tried as a war criminal". But it was the power of the Order of the Garter which saved Emperor Hirohito from most probably being executed as a war criminal. Queen Elizabeth II had maintained a close relationship with the late Emperor Hirohito (formerly Crown Prince Akihito), and still does with his family. Other than that, it does not appear that the Committee of 300 exercises much influence in Japanese affairs.
- Every "royal" and so-called European "noble" dynasties past and present, have seats on the Committee of 300, most often by way of nominees. For instance, the Hohenzollern dynasty might be represented by Edward the Duke of Kent; the Braganzas by the Duke of York, and so on. There are just too many of these "royal" families for them all to have direct seats on the Committee of 300, and that means also, too many names to be individually mentioned here. But the thing to remember is the order of rank; first the royal family members, then dukes, earls, marquises and lords, then finally the "commoners", who usually get the title of "Sir".

Note: With the exception of the Basle Committee on Banking, each of the above mentioned banks has been, or may still be involved in the drug, diamond, gold and weapons trade.

BCCI: The bank was indicted on scores of charges of being heavily involved in drug-money laundering throughout the world. Its structure grids every operation of the Committee of 300. Of interest is its corporate structure:

BCCI Middle East Interests consist of 35 percent of stock held by the ruling families of:

Bahrain

Sharjah

Dubai

Saudi Arabia

and a group of Middle East businessmen.

BCCI Cayman Islands 41 percent.

Bank of America 24 percent.

BCCI Cayman Islands, and BCCI Luxembourg, established agency offices in Miami, Boca Raton, Tampa, New York, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

BCCI, U.S.A.:

In 1992, the directors of BCCI were found guilty of massive fraud, but the principals had already fled the United States by the time indictments were handed down. Two of the principals who helped establish the bank in the United States were Clark Clifford, a famous Washington lawyer and "insider", and his assistant, Robert Altman. After a lengthy trial, Altman was found not guilty on a technicality, or a series of technicalities. Clifford was "excused" from having to stand trial, on the grounds of ill health. Nothing that has happened in recent years, with perhaps the exception of the kidnaping and imprisonment of General Noriega, has so perverted the justice system of the United States, as have the cases of Clifford and Altman.

It is very interesting that the BCCI was brought to the United States by the Stephens family of Arkansas, a family that controls the biggest banking system outside of the New York banking network. "King" Stephens reportedly gave then-presidential candidate Clinton, $2 million toward his election campaign. The money was said to have come from BCCI. The Saudi government concluded a settlement with the United States, in terms of which they will pay $250 million against claims of $300 million. This was concluded on December 27, 1993. The two Saudis who are said to have removed cash from BCCI accounts will not be prosecuted.

Brookings Institution

Dedicates its work to what it calls a "national agenda". Wrote President Hoover's program, President Roosevelt's "New Deal", the Kennedy Administration's "New Frontiers" program (deviation from it cost John F. Kennedy his life), wrote President Johnson's "Great Society". Although Brookings wrote the programs, they were, in every detail, simply lifted from Fabian Socialist papers drawn up in England. In some instances, Brookings did not even bother to change the titles of the Fabian Society papers. One such instance was using "Great Society", which was taken directly from a Fabian Socialist paper of the same title.

Brookings has been telling the United States government how to conduct its affairs for the past 70 years and is still doing it on behalf of the Committee of 300.

Hudson Institute

Under the direction of Herman Khan, this institution has done more to shape the way Americans react to political and social events, think, vote, and generally conduct themselves than perhaps any except the BIG FIVE. Hudson specializes in defense policy research, and relations with Russia. Most of its military work is classified as SECRET. (One of its ideas was to build a moat around Saigon during the Vietnam War.)

Some of its earlier papers were entitled: "Stability and Tranquility Among Older Nations" and "Analytical Summary of U.S. National Security Policy Issues".

Hudson prides itself on its diversity; it helped NASA with its space programs and helped to promote new youth fashions and ideas, youth rebellion and alienation, for the Committee of 300 which was ostensibly funded by Coca Cola. Hudson may be quite properly classified as one of the Committee of 300's BRAINWASHING establishments. Some of its nuclear war scenarios make for very interesting reading, and if they can be obtained, I would recommend "The 6 Basic Thermonuclear Threats" and "Possible Outcomes of Thermonuclear War", and one of its more frightening papers entitled "Israeli-Arab Nuclear War".

Hudson also does corporate advising for Committee of 300 companies, Rank, Xerox, General Electric, IBM and General Motors, to name but a few of them, but its really big clients remain the U.S. Department of Defense which includes matters of civil defense, national security, military policy, and arms control. To date it has not gotten into "wet" NASA, that is to say the National Oceanographic Agency.

National Training Laboratories

NTL is also known as the International Institute for Applied Behavioral Sciences. This institute is definitely a brainwashing center based on Kurt Lewin principles which include so-called T-Groups (training groups), artificial stress training whereby participants suddenly find themselves immersed in defending themselves against vicious accusations. NTL takes in the National Education Association

The National Education Association (NEA) has become the largest teachers union in the country, and its leadership has fought every initiative to improve what passes for education in primary and secondary schools. The National Teachers Association (NTA) is backed by the Carnegie Corporation and the Ford Foundation among others. This enabled it to defeat California's Proposition 174, which called for parents to be allowed to send their children to private schools, and to receive from the state an amount of $2600 per child to subsidize the cost of private schooling.

NTA poured $16 million into the drive to defeat Proposition 174, a drive which was backed by the ultra-socialist San Francisco Chronicle and its affiliated television stations. The initiative was defeated by a wide margin, but it opened the eyes of many parents as to what kind of teachers are out there. The NTA favored the New World Order's "Outcome Based Education" (OBE) which is an openly brazen attempt to turn American schoolchildren into future Socialists.

While officially decrying "racism" it is interesting to note that NTL, working with NEA, once produced a paper proposing education vouchers which would separate the hard-to-teach children from the brighter ones, and funding would be allocated according to the number of difficult children who would be separated from those who progressed at a normal rate. The proposal was not taken up, because it was held to be racially motivated.

University of Pennsylvania,

Wharton School of Finance & Commerce

Founded by Eric Trist, one of the "brains trust" of Tavistock, Wharton has become one the more important Tavistock institutions in the United States, in so far as "behavioral research" is concerned, attracting clients like the U.S. Department of Labor, which it teaches how to produce "cooked" statistics by the Wharton Econometric Forecasting Associates Incorporated. This method is very much in demand as we come to the close of 1993, with millions more out of work than is reflected in U.S. Department of Labor statistics.

Wharton's ECONOMETRIC MODELING is used by every major Committee of 300 company in the United States, Western Europe and by the International Monetary Fund, the United Nations and the World Bank. Wharton has produced such noteworthy political figures as George Shultz and Alan Greenspan.

Institute for Social Research

This is the institute set up by "brains trusters" from Tavistock, Rensis Likert, Darwin Cartwright and Ronald Lippert. Among its studies are "The Human Meaning of Social Change", "Youth in Transition" and "How Americans View Their Mental Health". Among the institute's clients are The Ford Foundation, U.S. Department of Defense, U.S. Postal Service, and the U.S. Department of Justice.

Institute for the Future

This is not a typical Tavistock institution in that it is funded by the Ford Foundation, yet it draws its long-range forecasting methodology from the mother of all think tanks. Institute for the Future projects what it believes are changes that will be taking place in time frames of fifty years. The institute is supposed to be able to forecast socioeconomic trends, and to blow the whistle on any departures from what it has laid down as normal.

Institute for the Future believes it is possible and normal to intervene now and give decisions for the future. So-called "Delphi Panels" decide what is normal and what is not, and prepare position papers to "steer" government in the right direction to head off such groups as "people creating civil disorder". (This could be patriotic groups demanding abolition of graduated taxes, or demanding that their right to bear arms not be infringed.)

The institute recommends actions such as liberalizing abortion laws, drug usage, and that cars entering an urban area pay tolls; it demands that birth control be taught in public schools, require registration of firearms, make the use of drugs a non-criminal offense, legalize homosexuality, pay students for scholastic achievements, make zoning controls a preserve of the state, offer bonuses for family planning, and last, but by no means least, a Pol Pot Cambodia-style proposal that new communities be established in rural areas. As will be observed, many of the Institute for the Future's goals have already been more than fully realized.

Institute for Policy Studies (IPS)

One of the "Big Three", IPS has shaped and reshaped United States policies, both foreign and domestic, since it was founded by James P. Warburg and the Rothschilds in the United States, bolstered by Bertrand Russell and the British Fabian Socialists through their networks in America. These networks included the League for Industrial Democracy, in which Leonard Woodcock played a leading, behind-the-scenes role. Local lead players in the League for Industrial Democracy included "conservative" Jeane Kirkpatrick, Irwin Suall (of the ADL) Eugene Rostow (Arms Control negotiator), Lane Kirkland (Labor leader), and Albert Shanker.

For record purposes only, IPS was incorporated in 1963 by Marcus Raskin and Richard Barnett, both highly-trained Tavistock Institute graduates. Most of the funding came from Rothschild associates in America like the James Warburg Family Foundation, the Stern Family Foundation and the Samuel Rubin Foundation. Samuel Rubin was a registered member of the Communist Party who stole the Faberge name. (Faberge was Jeweler of the Imperial Russian Court) and Rubin made a fortune out of illegally using the Faberge name.

The objectives of IPS came from an agenda laid down for it by the British Round Table, which agenda in turn came from Tavistock Institute, one of the most notable being to create the "New Left" as a grass-roots movement in the U.S. IPS was to engender strife and unrest and spread chaos like a wildfire out of control, proliferate the "ideals" of left-wing nihilistic socialism, support unrestricted use of drugs of all types, and be the "big stick" with which to beat the United States political establishment.

Barnett and Raskin controlled such diverse elements as the Black Panthers, Daniel Ellsberg, National Security Council staff member Morton Halpern, the Weathermen Underground, the Venceramos, and the campaign staff of candidate George McGovern. No scheme was too big for IPS and its controllers to take on and manage.

Take the plot to "kidnap" Kissinger, which was in the hands of Eqbal Ahmed, a British MI-6 intelligence agent of Pakistani origin, laundered through "TROTS" (Trotskyite terrorists based in London). The "plot" was "discovered" by the FBI before it could go too far. Ahmed went on to become the director of one of IPS's most influential agencies, The Transnational Institute, which chameleon-like changed from its former name, Institute of Race Relations, when intelligence agents of BOSS (Bureau of State Security), South Africa, unmasked the fact that it was tied directly to the Rhodes Scholarship Foundation, Harry Oppenheimer and Anglo American, and British mining interests in South Africa. BOSS also discredited the South Africa Foundation at the same time.

Through its many powerful lobbying groups on Capitol Hill, IPS relentlessly used its "big stick" to beat Congress. IPS has a network of lobbyists all supposedly operating independently—but in actual fact acting cohesively—so that Congressmen are pummeled from all sides by seemingly different and varied lobbyists. In this way, IPS was, and is still, able to successfully sway individual representatives and senators to vote for "the trend, the way things are going". By using key pointmen on Capitol Hill, IPS was able to break into the very infrastructure of our legislative system and undermine and subvert the way it works.

To give only a single concrete example of what I am talking about: In 1975, an IPS pointman persuaded representative John Conyers (D-Michigan) and 47 members of the House to request IPS to prepare a budget study that would oppose the budget being prepared by President Gerald Ford. Although not adopted, the request was reinstated in 1976, 1977 and 1978, gathering sponsors as it went.

Then, in 1978, 56 Congressmen signed their names as sponsors of an IPS budget study prepared by Marcus Raskin. Raskin's budget called for a 50-percent cut in the Defense Budget, a socialist housing program "that would compete with and steadily replace private housing and mortgage markets", a national health service, "radical changes in the educational system that would disrupt capitalist control over the distribution of knowledge", and several other very radical socialist ideas.

The influence of IPS on Arms Control negotiations was a major factor in getting Nixon to sign the treasonous ABM Treaty in 1972, which left the United States virtually defenseless against ICBM attack for almost 10 years. IPS became, and remains to this day, one of the most prestigious "think tanks" controlling foreign policy decisions, which we, the people, foolishly believe are the product of our law makers.

By sponsoring militant activism at home, and with links to revolutionaries abroad; by engineering such victories as "The Pentagon Papers", harrying the corporate structure, IPS was able, to some extent, to bridge the credibility gap between underground movements and acceptable political activism. IPS set its sights on penetrating religious organizations and using them to sow discord in America. Radical racial politics under the guise of religion, were used by the establishment media to spread IPS ideas.

Stanford Research Institute

Jesse Hobson, the first president of Stanford Research Institute (SRI), in a 1952 speech, made it clear what lines the Institute was to follow. SRI can be described as one of the "jewels" in Tavistock's Crown, in view of the key role it has played, and still plays in the United States. Founded in 1946, immediately after the close of WWII, it was presided over by Charles A. Anderson with emphasis on mind-control research and "future sciences". Included under the Stanford umbrella was the Charles F. Kettering Foundation which developed the "Changing Images of Man" upon which the Aquarian Conspiracy rests. What was not generally known was that Stanford did research for the U.S. Office of Education at the Education Policy Center at Stanford, which also came under Willis Harmon.

Some of Stanford's major clients and contracts were at first centered around the defense establishment, but as Stanford grew, so did the diversity of its services. The following are some of the prestigious clients who contracted the services of SRI:

- U.S. Department of Defense
- Office of Aerospace Research
- U.S. Department of Defense
- Directorate of Defense Research and Engineering
- Office of Science and Technology
- Applications of Behavioral Sciences to Research Management

SRI Business Intelligence Program

The most prestigious of the major corporations also sought the services of SRI, and they included:

- Wells Fargo Bank
- Bechtel Corporation
- Hewlett-Packard
- Bank of America
- McDonnell-Douglas Corporation
- Blyth, Eastman Dillon
- TRW Company

One of SRI's more secret projects was the extensive work it did on chemical and bacteriological warfare (CAB) weapons.

Stanford Research Institute is plugged into at least 200 smaller "think tanks", doing research into every facet of life in America. This is known as ARPA networking, and represents the emergence of probably the most far-reaching effort to control the environment of every individual in the country. At present, Stanford's computers are linked with 2500 "sister" research consoles, which include the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), Bell Telephone Laboratories, U.S. Army Intelligence, the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI), RAND Corporation, MIT, Harvard and UCLA. Stanford plays a key role in that it acts as the "library" for the others, cataloging all ARPA documentation.

"Other agencies, and one can use one's imagination here, are allowed to search through SRI's "library" for key words, anything that would "trigger" interest, such as certain phrases. Other agencies can look through SRI files and update their own master files, using SRI master files. The Pentagon for instance, uses SRI's "master files" extensively, and there is little doubt that other U.S. Government agencies do the same. Pentagon "command-and-control" problems are worked out at SRI.

While ostensibly these files apply only to weapons and soldiers, there is absolutely no guarantee that the same research could not, and will not, be turned to civilian applications. There is every indication that most police departments are linked through SRI computer files. SRI is known to be willing to do anything for anyone. It is my belief that if ever SRI were to be fully audited by the General Accounting Office (GAO)—the hostility which would arise from revelations as to what SRI actually does—an outraged public would most probably force its closure.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Alfred P. Sloan School of Management

This major institute is not generally recognized as being a part of Tavistock U.S.A. Most people look upon it as a purely American institution, but that is far from being the case. MIT Alfred Sloan can be roughly divided into the following groups:

- Contemporary Technology
- Industrial Relations
- Lewin Group Psychology

Institute for Defense Analyses (IDA)

It would take hundreds of pages to describe the activities in which it is engaged, so we can only touch on them in brief in this work. IDA is the "top brass" of military think tanks and also one of the least known, for IDA does not believe in advertising. The huge building it occupies close to the Pentagon, passes for a bank at first sight, and that is because it has a sign on the door that reads, "Suburban National Bank".

Absolutely everything that IDA does is secret. It has immense influence and power, and few dare to cross its staff of top-ranking scientists who prepare extensive reports in very short periods of time for the handful of top strategists. One of its major tasks is economic studies on a global scale. It works at the highest level with the top-echelon military strategists.

One of the most extraordinary tasks undertaken by IDA was the effect of weather modifications using ELF radio waves to change normal weather to abnormal weather patterns. The NSA became very concerned that weather-modification experiments would have a detrimental effect on the national security of the United States, when used against it by Russia, and what these effects would be. One of IDA's most secret efforts concerned the economic future of China—and it is believed that based upon IDA findings, David Rockefeller journeyed to China to cement a relationship with the Li family that virtually rules China.

IDA's "Jason Division" reads like something out of "James Bond" and, indeed, resembles the elaborate scientific facilities available to MI-6 for its many covert activities. Just as in MI-6, in Jason we find between 45 and 47 top scientists working on "research problems" of one kind or another. There is no list of "Jasons", but it is known in intelligence circles that the top scientist of the Jason Division is Norman M. Kroll, who at one time was head of the Physics Department at the University of California, San Diego.

It is said that "the Jasons" spend all of their time together, even their free weekends and summer holidays. No one knows where they go for their summer vacations; they are usually spirited away under very heavy security conditions. What does the Jason Group work on? Apart from projects that are known to no more than five persons carrying CODEWORD classification—it is believed that the group works on only the top defense matters, among which is ballistic missiles, ELF radiation weapons, submarine detection techniques.

Rand Research and Development Corporation

Without a doubt RAND is THE think tank most beholden to the Tavistock Institute—and certainly the RIIA's most prestigious vehicle for control of United States policies at every level. Specific RAND policies that became operative include our ICBM program, prime analyses for U.S. foreign policy making, instigation of space programs, U.S. nuclear policies, corporate analyses, hundreds of projects for the military, the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) experiments in the use of mind-altering drugs like peyote and LSD. (The 20-year covert MK-Ultra operation which lasted for 20 years.)

Some of RAND's clients include the following:

American Telephone and Telegraph Company (AT&T)
Chase Manhattan Bank
National Science Foundation
Republican Party
TRW
U.S. Air Force
U.S. Department of Energy
U.S. Department of Health
International Business Machines (IBM)

There are literally THOUSANDS of highly important companies, government institutions and organizations that make use of RAND's services, and to list them all would be an impossible task. Among RAND's "specialities" is a study group that predicts the timing and the direction of a thermonuclear war, and working out the many scenarios based upon its findings. RAND was once accused of being commissioned by the USSR to work out terms of surrender of the United States Government, an accusation that went all the way to the United States Senate, where it was taken up by Senator Symington. The investigation subsequently fell victim to articles of scorn poured out by the establishment press. BRAINWASHING remains the primary function of RAND.

To summarize, the major Tavistock institutions in the United States engaged in brainwashing at all levels, including government, the military, business, religious organizations and education, are the following:

Brookings Institution
Hudson Institute
Institute for Policy Studies
Massachusetts Institute of Technology
National Training Laboratories
Rand Research and Development Corporation
Stanford Research Institute
Wharton School at University of Pennsylvania

It is estimated by sources of mine that the total number of people employed by these institutions has grown from 50,000 to 100,000, with funding close to $20 billion. Much of what these institutions do is not required to be reported to Congress.

THE "ENGLISH" JEW BEHIND THE FOUNDATION OF ISRAEL

By Michael Walsh, ety.com/HRP, 10/13/00

It has always been assumed by historians and others that it was the pro-Zionist U.S. government at the end of World War Two and earlier that laid the foundations of the State of Israel.

Admittedly the U.S. did play a decisive role in this but research carried out recently in Britain by a Jewish professor has put a very different complexion upon the prelude to the establishment of a Jewish state in Palestine.

As in many fateful—and fatal—policy decisions, the machinations of the British Foreign Office played a decisive role in creating bloody mayhem, betrayal and misery on a monumental scale, not only in Europe but also in the Middle East.

William Rubenstein, professor of modern history at the University of Wales, has unearthed an extraordinary secret from the annals of British Government concerning the origins of one of the most influential members of government during the past century.

"This case is possibly the most remarkable example of concealment of identity in 20th Century British political history," commented Professor Rubenstein in History Today magazine.

Rubenstein was referring to Leopold Amery, a leading Conservative politician, close ally and friend of Britain's un-elected wartime leader, Winston Churchill. Amery was the author of the infamous 1917 Balfour Declaration, which promised British government support for the Jewish rape and colonisation of the Palestinian nation.

Amery throughout his life deliberately concealed his Jewish origins and Professor Rubenstein who is himself Jewish, has established the deception beyond any doubt. In his disclosures about Leopold Amery's past, Professor Rubenstein says that Amery misled people about his past in his autobiography, My Political Life which was published just before his death in 1955.

In this book Amery declared that his father, Charles Frederick Amery, came from an old English West Country family. However, according to the historian he sought to conceal his mother's origins. Amery merely wrote that his mother, Elizabeth Leitner Amery was one of a stream of Hungarian exiles who emigrated after the 1848 European revolutionary turmoil, fleeing first to Constantinople (Istanbul) and then to England.

In fact, according to this new research, Amery's mother was born in 1841 to Jewish parents in Pest, which subsequently became part of Budapest. This area of the Hungarian capital was host to the Jewish ghetto and her own mother's name was Elisabeth Johanna Saphir, a common Jewish name in the region.

Professor Rubenstein says that Amery also changed his middle name Moritz to the more Anglicised Maurice in his full name, Leopold Charles Maurice Stennett Amery. He did so to further disguise his Jewish origins.

Amery's mother was of pure Jewish descent says the learned historian and therefore, according to orthodox rabbinical Jewish law and tradition so was her son.

Amery's actions and psychotic anti-German hysteria expressed during both World Wars and the intervening years left no doubt as to where his anti-Christian sympathies lay.

As the Assistant Secretary to England's War Cabinet in 1917 it was the deceitful pretend-Englishman Amery who drafted the now notorious blood-document, the Balfour Declaration, which was delivered by Lord Balfour, the then British Foreign Secretary.

It was the same hapless Lord Balfour who on behalf of the British Government signed the equally disastrous and infamous Versailles Diktat, which was to lead directly to the British declaration of war against Germany, the consequences of which left Europe in ruins.

This, the Balfour Report, a momentously evil document, was in effect the founding Charter for the State of Israel and what can be described as the ensuing Palestinian holocaust.

Amery thus had an overwhelming racial self-interest as opposed to British interest, in promulgating this. He also founded the so-called Jewish Legion, the first racially exclusive Jewish fighting force created since Roman times. The Jewish Legion was composed of battalions of Jewish soldiers who were trained and served under superior British officers during the First World War.

This force was a forerunner to the present Israeli Army. Many of its members deserted, attracted by the opportunity to vent their piratical bloodlust on the displaced Palestinian population. During the Israelis anti-Palestinian pogroms tens of thousands of Palestinians, many of them of Christian faith, were uprooted and driven from their homelands of centuries. Tens of thousands died of brutality, starvation and in numerous Jewish slaughter orgies. Entire villages such as Deir Yassin were wiped off the map.

Few were spared. Even their British allies were slaughtered—captured, held hostage, hanged and often their lifeless bodies booby-trapped. The most notorious terrorist outrage was the bombing of the King David Hotel in Jerusalem in which 105 Britons, many of them women and children, lost their lives to Jewish terrorism. Such terrible events have since been conveniently air-brushed out of history books. Surprisingly, Amery's openly pro-Jewish sentiments and collaboration failed to raise eyebrows among British Government colleagues, some of whom like Sir Anthony Eden who were known to be strongly anti-Semitic. Presumably such politicians regarded the Asiatic Amery's actions favourable to British interests at the time. It is for this reason that much of the Arab world despises Britain today, an alienation which costs billions of pounds and tens of thousands of jobs in lost trade and favoured-nation status.

During the Conservative Government of Sir Stanley Baldwin (1925-1929), when he was Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, Amery was actively one of the promoters of the greatest growth of British Jewry's exploitation of commercial, financial and political opportunity throughout the world. Yet, he disguised his own Jewishness so effectively that few of his parliamentary and government colleagues were aware that he was, in fact, Jewish or of where his true allegiances lay.

However, the act for which he is best known and often heralded by the English establishment's apologists "as a true Englishman", came in May 1940. Amery played a decisive role in bringing down Neville Chamberlain's government, which sought peace in Europe. It was Amery who with the impudence of the successful infiltrator made a war-provoking speech in the House of Commons: "Depart, I say. Let us have done with you. In the name of God, go!"

It signalled the departure of the "Peace in Europe" section of the Conservative Party and opened the door to those who fervently desired war with Germany, the removal of a trade competitor and the opportunity to loot Europe's most prosperous nation. More than half of this pro-war section had shares in munitions factories.

Amery, as a secret Jew, had good reason to hate and loathe Neville Chamberlain, the alleged appeaser of Germany's conciliatory leader. Chamberlain was one of the last, if not the last, of the old-style gentlemen of honour and decency in British Government.

Amery neither forgot nor forgave Chamberlain's bitter words in September 1939 when he said to his Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax. "The Jews of America are pushing us into this war."

And so it was, Amery and the Conservative Party's "War with Germany" faction led by Winston Churchill, resolved to ignore Germany proposals for peace and plunged Britain into a global conflict which became the bloodiest in the history of the human race. It was a conflict which delivered half of Europe to the dictatorship of Jewish-Communism and the Palestinian nation to the emerging Jewish empire....

An ironic piece of history is that John Amery, Leopold's estranged son, was a British Fascist who had gone to live in Germany where he remained when Britain declared war on the German nation.

In the early forties John Amery made a few radio broadcasts from Berlin calling for peace between the two countries and the ousting of the British autocrat, Winston Churchill and his warmongering gang.

Vengeance was swift and brutal. At the end of the war he was arrested in Italy, brought back to England in chains, tried and hanged as a 'traitor', his body being unceremoniously hurled into a lime pit within the confines of London's Pentonville Prison. The executioner, Albert Pierrepoint later said that John Amery was one of the bravest men he had ever executed. Whether John Amery knew of his father's past and origin remains uncertain although Professor Rubenstein inclines to the view that he did. His younger brother, also John, became a senior figure in British post-war governments and died several years ago maintaining silence until the end about his family's Hungarian-Jew origins.

Professor Rubenstein sought the reasons for Amery's reluctance to identify his Jewish roots. This was a period in English history when many, even those in the English establishment, held those of Jewish race in loathing often contempt.

He suggests that one reason for the cover-up was the driving ambition to break into English society demonstrated by Amery's Jewish mother, and also the fear of embarrassment that knowledge of his Jewishness might have caused him at the "elitist" private school Harrow where outwardly at least he ingratiated himself as a "fervent English nationalist".

Rubenstein points out also that most of those—especially in public life—who then and now hide their Jewish ancestry, also took pains to distance themselves as far as possibly from overt interest in Jewish issues. Some would even proclaim anti-Semitism. Leopold Moritz Amery chose to present himself as a great English patriot whilst at the same time serving the interests of where his true loyalties lay, Israel and Judah, side by side with those other cultist sycophants of Zionism, Winston Churchill and F.D. Roosevelt.

[JR: The crisis we face today in Palestine (Israel) was planned 83 years ago by Leo Amery. His Belfour Declaration was the plan designed to steal the lands held by Arabs to create a new Jewish state they claim as their "Promised Land". This secret plan, like all others that change the natural order of things, is based on the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. It is through this doctrine these Jews/Khazars plan to run the world as they have done covertly for centuries. They don't, however, like this fact becoming public knowledge and will deny, deny and deny.]

IRAQ GOING AHEAD WITH EURO OIL CONTRACTS

By Nicole Winfield, Boston Globe, 10/28/00

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Iraq will start signing contracts with its oil customers in euros on Wednesday, its UN ambassador says is part of a campaign to stop using dollars, the "currency of the enemy" despite UN calls to hold off on the move.

Baghdad wants bank accounts in the European currency set up to hold profits from oil sales that the United Nations oversees instead of the dollar account currently used.

But a UN Treasury Department report called the change "cumbersome" and said it could cost millions of dollars in currency conversions and lost interest revenues that could otherwise be spent on humanitarian goods.

That prompted a UN request for Iraq to postpone the move until details are worked out and the issue is studied further.

Ambassador Saeed Hasan insisted Friday that no delay is necessary, dismissing the treasury report as "exaggerated".

Iraq, which exports about 2.2 million barrels of oil a day, has threatened to halt exports beginning Wednesday if its proposal for a euro account isn't accepted—a warning that has spooked the oil market.

On Friday, Hasan said exports may be disrupted if the UN oil overseers who review contracts through the oil-for-food program reject the euro-denominated contracts that Iraq plans to submit beginning Wednesday.

"In my view, that is the only reason" for a disruption, Hasan said.

The United States and Britain, which take the hardest line against Iraq in the Security Council, have said they will not oppose creation of a euro-based account but said details need to be resolved. Diplomats said Friday that the proposal would likely go ahead.

The United Nations already has a dollar-based escrow account at the French bank BNP Paribas in New York to receive payment for oil exported by Iraq through the UN oil-for-food program.

The program allows Iraq, under sanctions for its 1990 invasion of Kuwait, to sell its oil provided the proceeds are used to buy humanitarian goods for its 22 million people.

The UN Treasury report said that if the change to a euro account were made, the program would have to swallow currency conversion costs that would amount to at least 10 cents a barrel, since oil would continue to be priced in dollars.

New staff would be needed to chart the fluctuations of the euro, and the aid program's finances would be exposed to greater risks on investments because of the euro's volatility, the report said. The common currency is trading at about 84 cents to the dollar, about 28 percent off its value when it first launched back in January 1999.

Interest rates on euro accounts are almost 2 percentage points lower than on dollar accounts, meaning the program would lose about $185 million annually in interest on a $10 billion account, the report found.

Hasan acknowledged interests rates may be lower for euros but said transaction costs would be minimal since Iraq would buy its humanitarian supplies in euros, not dollars. Many suppliers of humanitarian goods destined for Iraq through the UN program are European.

[JR: Iraq's use of the euro just might be the beginning of challenges against the almighty fiat U.S. dollar. We will keep checking if this begins a trend and a spike up for the Euro, which is 15% backed by gold. On 10/31/00 the UN agreed to set up euro escrow accounts for Iraq oil sales and as a result the euro took a 4-point jump the next day. Speculation has it that other Islamic countries upset over the abuses of the Palestinians and even Venezuela may possibly follow Iraq's initiative and demand payment for oil exports in euros. The question is—can the euro buck powerful opposition forces and continue its rise against the dollar?]

U.S. BREAKS WITH EUROPE BY BACKING KOSOVAN INDEPENDENCE FROM SERBIA

By Kim Sengupta in Pristina, Independent—UK, 10/30/00

The United States is preparing to back Kosovo's bid for full independence from Yugoslavia in a move which would lead to a serious rift with its European allies and hostility from Russia.

A senior State Department source told The Independent yesterday that the development follows secret discussions held during the recent visit to the Balkans by Richard Holbrooke, the American ambassador to the United Nations.

The initiative comes at a critical time, with the election of Vojislav Kostunica as Yugoslav President and the first polls being held in Kosovo since last year's NATO bombing.

Until now, the Western allies, including Britain and the U.S., have stressed that the future of Kosovo must be decided under the terms of UN Resolution 1244, which recognises the "sovereignty and territorial integrity of the Federal Republic of Yugoslavia".

Since the defeat of Slobodan Milosevic, the Western powers have reiterated that position in an effort to strengthen the fledgling government in Belgrade.

The State department official said that U.S. officials had talked to the lawyers who framed Resolution 1244. He argued that the resolution did not preclude independence for Kosovo. The resolution "explicitly recognises the territorial integrity of Yugoslavia, but that does not mean Kosovo cannot be independent. De facto independence is already a reality", he said.

Ibrahim Rugova—the moderate leader of Kosovo's Albanians whose LDK Party appeared to be sweeping to victory in the weekend's municipal elections—is adamant that the Serbian province must be allowed to gain full independence as soon as possible. He said he was optimistic that the West would support that position.

But President Kostunica is just as forthright in declaring that Kosovo remains a part of Yugoslavia. The official Serbian news agency, Tanjug, branded the Kosovo elections as illegal.

How far the Americans are prepared to go to revisit Resolution 1244 remains uncertain, and there is speculation that they may be floating a trial balloon to test reaction in the region and among their allies.

A British official said U.S. support for Kosovo's independence would be "not very helpful". Other NATO allies, such as Greece and Italy, favour reaching an agreement with Serbia over the province, he said.

[JR: The de facto independence for Kosovo is assured now that the exact wording of UN Resolution 1244 is questionable and open to debate. Mr. Holbrooke's secret discussions were set to do just that and to undermine the newly elected President Kostunica as well as the rights of the sovereign state of Yugoslavia. How can the U.S. government go back on its word and justify this betrayal? But then again, Israel has taught its lesson well.]

KOSOVANS PICK MAINSTREAM MODERATE

By Mark Heinrich, The Guardian—UK, 10/31/00

The moderate ethnic Albanian leader Ibrahim Rugova claimed victory over his main rivals yesterday in Kosovo's first free elections, opening up hope of a future dialogue with the estranged Serb minority.

The preliminary results are likely to be announced later today, but a spokesman for the vote organisers did not dispute Mr. Rugova's claim that his Democratic Party of Kosovo (LDK) had won most of the 30 municipalities in the province.

Hashim Thaci, head of the Democratic Party of Kosovo (PDK), said he would respect the outcome.

"We will recognise the final result," he told a news conference, adding that the PDK would assist in the work of the elected town councils. "Objectively, we did not expect such a result."

Mr. Rugova, head of the oldest, most mainstream Kosovo Albanian party, said he was dedicated to cooperation across party and ethnic lines in shaping Kosovo's future.

"The LDK cultivates tolerance and cooperation with other political groups," he said. "We will continue protection of minorities, which should be integrated into Kosovo institutions. But it is important to remember that this election had both a local and national context—which is independence for Kosovo."

If the LDK's victory is confirmed, it will mark Mr. Rugova's return from the political wilderness after the passive resistance drive he led against the Serb leader Slobodan Milosevic for 10 years was eclipsed by the guerrilla uprising. The rebels broke Belgrade's grip and emerged as folk heroes after the Serbian security forces, under aerial attack by NATO, halted its mass expulsions of ethnic Albanians and left Kosovo. NATO peacekeepers and UN administrators arrived in the middle of last year.

"This was a vote for moderation, so it's welcome," said Louis Sell, director of the Kosovo office of the International Crisis Group.

"Although Rugova has never swerved from independence as his goal, he is more inclined to achieve his objectives peacefully, through negotiation. The Serbs previously made clear they'd prefer Rugova to the ex-guerrillas."

In Belgrade, a senior member of the new Yugoslav president Vojislav Kostunica's reformist cabinet welcomed Mr. Rugova's revival.

"We can say it is positive that ethnic Albanian citizens from Kosovo have opted for a more moderate, more democratic, more liberal option and not for an option which is defined by separatism and terrorism," Vladan Batic said.

Kosovo's 75,000-odd Serbs refused to vote in protest at post-war Albanian reprisals. Mr. Kostunica's cabinet has supported their protest, and on Sunday it released a statement saying the elections were invalid because the Serb minority had not taken part.

But Mr. Kostunica has also said he will seek to cooperate with the UN, whose officials plan to appoint Serbs to municipal councils and allow by-elections later to redress the imbalance.

[JR: At this point in time both newly elected Rugova of Kosovo and Kostunica of Serbia are willing to work through the international community to find a solution regarding the status of Kosovo. The problem is that the Serbs feel it's still a part of Serbia and the Albanians feel they have attained independence through the occupation of 50,000 NATO/UN troops. The U.S. has seen fit to interject itself and has made unilateral moves that might undo any peaceful accords agreed to thus far. Although this peace is in its embryonic stage the situation is much the same as between Israel and the Palestinians.]

U.S. TO PULL OUT OF NATO IF EU FORCE GOES AHEAD

By Robert Fox, Telegraph—UK, 10/29/00

Washington is ready to reduce its forces in Europe to a token presence if Paris gets its way in forging a new European military alliance at next month's European Union summit in Nice.

The new alliance, which has been in the pipeline for some time, is in theory supposed to complement NATO. It is being seen across the Atlantic, however, as a move to undermine NATO and marginalise the United States in European security.

The move could spell the end of NATO as anything but a talking shop, according to defence experts in Britain and America. The 15-member military alliance, a Franco-German brainchild, is designed to take over from the Western European Union as the first EU-commanded force, drawing substantially on European manpower, equipment, intelligence and command-and-control systems already allocated to NATO.

Officially, members of the Clinton administration have welcomed European initiatives "to share more of the burden" in security and peacekeeping. In the Pentagon, however, officials see the new EU alliance as a move against NATO. According to planners in NATO, the U.S. could cut its forces in Europe to about 10,000 from existing levels of up to 150,000.

Washington has 11,000 troops on peacekeeping duties in Kosovo. These—plus substantial American forces in Bosnia—will go home if George W. Bush wins the U.S. presidency next week. Pentagon chiefs have also made clear to European governments that they would be unwilling to share intelligence data with the new EU military alliance.

This stance reflects Washington's bruising experience with several NATO allies, including France, during last year's Kosovo campaign. The Americans believe that a spy from one of the European allies—pointing the finger at France, Belgium and Greece—gave plans of the first phase of bombings to the Serbs. British defence staff deny this.

The new EU military partnership is thought by some observers to spell the end of NATO as an effective alliance. A NATO insider said: "The Americans were going to pull out anyway over the next 10 years. This will accelerate the process. They could be out in all but a token presence by 2003."

The French would like the new EU alliance to be enshrined in a treaty at Nice. This would lay down a structure and staff, and a military committee. The senior civilian figure is to be the High Representative for Common Foreign and Security Policy, currently Javier Solana, the former NATO secretary-general.

He is said to be acquiring the powers in his new job that he felt he lacked as NATO's chief. He is believed to be working with the French, who have laid claim to leading posts in the structure. The most crucial is the Director-General Military Staff—effectively the EU supreme commander.

The Telegraph has learnt from defence experts that both Tony Blair and his military staff have given way to the French demand for this post. Mr. Blair is reported to be keen to "go along with the initiative" of forging the alliance, as he believes that much of the idea was his in the first place—particularly for a 60,000-strong European rapid reaction force.

The plans for such a force were agreed to at the EU Helsinki summit last year. Since then, however, little has been achieved to turn the idea into reality. The problem is that in order to raise 60,000 troops—ready for action within 60 days and deployable for a year—a pool of at least 250,000 soldiers, planners and staff would be required, most from forces allocated to NATO.

Then there is the cost. A NATO analyst said: "Creating new staff structures is terribly expensive. Yet nobody in Europe is talking about increasing national defence budgets, except the French."

Mr. Blair's principal advisers say that there is no problem in creating parallel defence alliances for the EU and NATO. The problem is that both formations must largely draw on the same pool of resources and forces in Europe. Already, there are not enough to go round.

Critics, such as Lord Owen, the former foreign secretary, see the European alliance initiative as fatally flawed. He believes that the move could severely damage British global interests. A Foreign Office official said: "I think the Prime Minister has really dropped the ball on this, and if we sign up at Nice to what the French seem to want, there could be no going back."

[JR: On Oct. 11 Cohen agreed with the goal for an EU force and "saw it as a national process". The Pentagon seems to be at odds with his decision. In the united force plans, NATO will be dissolved into a European army. It is inevitable but Europe has not seen fit to increase their defense budget to build up for a new system. The world is being carved into centers of power and control and the U.S. does not figure into Europe's plans. England has yet to commit to European unity, so the mother country may side with the U.S. and be a wedge in the EU's future plans and goals.]

U.S. HOT TO FIREPROOF NUCLEAR SITESBy Judith Graham, Chicago Tribune, 10/25/00

IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO—The Energy Department is preparing several major new initiatives to protect the nation's nuclear sites from catastrophic wildfires, following criticism of the way it handled blazes in the West this year.

Responding to charges that the agency was ill-prepared for fires that swept through its nuclear reservations in Idaho, Washington and New Mexico, the department has called for a comprehensive review of emergency procedures at these and other nuclear sites, due in mid-December, and assembled a team of experts to advise it on future safeguards.

Energy Secretary Bill Richardson has directed the agency to focus on improving communication with the Departments of Agriculture and Interior over planning for wildfires.

"We have to assume the possibility of [fires like these] happening again," said Ellen Livingston, an adviser to Richardson.

Critics claim the Energy Department only narrowly escaped a potential meltdown of nuclear waste and other toxic materials at the Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratories, the Hanford nuclear reservation in Washington, and Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico, which could have had disastrous consequences.

At various points during the Hanford fire, flames burned close to areas where nuclear wastes could have exploded and caused an emergency. At one point, the fire was 400 yards away from 330 50-gallon barrels containing large amounts of uranium packed in combustible chemicals and stored near the Columbia River. The blaze also passed through an area of known contamination near nuclear waste dump sites, according to Doug Sherwood, the EPA's manager for Superfund cleanup at Hanford.

Moreover, large amounts of nuclear waste dumped into the ground and open ponds at these nuclear sites also were vulnerable, officials say. While advance planning by agency managers, such as trimming vegetation around major facilities, helped prevent a crisis, preparations overall were insufficient, critics say. For instance, firefighters were barely able to prevent blazes from reaching areas at Hanford where nuclear materials are stored, after winds shifted.

Robert Alvarez, a former senior adviser to Richardson and former Senate investigator on nuclear-waste issues, said attention to the problem is overdue. "These sites are where the most dangerous weapons in the world were made, and the most dangerous ingredients in the world were used, but [the Energy Department] does not have adequate safety plans or procedures with respect to wildfires. It's only by luck that the department was saved from major catastrophic consequences this summer," he said.

Among the problems encountered was the lack of adequate maps of areas with radioactive contamination at the nuclear sites. Emergency crews from nearby towns or counties didn't know which areas were hazardous and used different radio frequencies than department personnel, making communications difficult.

Some firefighters from outside the Energy Department were not equipped with radiation monitors and were not aware of the risks they faced battling blazes in or near the sites. Monitors used to sample air during the fires were not sensitive enough to detect unusual releases of materials, such as plutonium, that are potentially toxic even in minute quantities.

Poor communication between federal agencies was also a problem. At Los Alamos National Laboratory, the National Park Service failed to fully inform the Energy Department about plans for an intentionally-set fire that quickly burned out of control. And during the fire at Hanford, there was confusion over the roles of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and Energy Department. The Fish and Wildlife Service manages a national monument on the Hanford complex, which is owned by the Energy Department.

At these sites, the department relies on the principle of strict "institutional control", closely monitoring access and putting up warning signs, fences and other barriers. "But fires don't recognize the fences, they don't give a damn about the guards, they go with the wind, and all this bad stuff that's been lying around gets re-suspended in the air," said Chuck Broschous, director of the Environmental Defense Institute in Troy, Idaho.

According to new evidence, reported by The New York Times, much more dangerous nuclear material is lying in the soil and in poorly constructed containers at Energy Department nuclear sites than previously estimated. Based on recent analyses, the department reportedly has concluded that the soil and unsecured containers at nuclear sites hold 10 times more plutonium and other radioactive elements than previously estimated.

Though most public attention focused on the fires at Los Alamos, serious problems occurred at Hanford following a 164,000-acre blaze that ripped through the site in eastern Washington in late June.

Higher-than-normal levels of plutonium were recorded at 10 spots in and near the 560-square-mile complex. Levels were as much as 100 times higher than normal, but officials say the increases did not pose a threat to public health, because the amounts involved were small. Still, the Government Accountability Project of Seattle, a group that monitors Hanford, cautions that the data are seriously incomplete because the most reliable testing was done by the Environmental Protection Agency only after the fires ended.

Charging that federal, state and local firefighters from outside the Hanford nuclear site weren't adequately trained, informed of the risks or equipped with dosimeters that monitor radiation, Heart of America Northwest, a citizens group in Seattle, asked the government in early August to investigate alleged willful negligence by the Energy Department.

An investigation of the Hanford fire by the Fish and Wildlife Service concluded that fire management plans were inadequate, that federal officials misjudged the seriousness of the blaze and that knowledge of how best to obtain resources was insufficient. For instance, the Energy Department's requests for extra help from a regional fire center in central Washington were denied because of misunderstandings about how to proceed, the investigation found.

Fires also threatened Idaho National Engineering and Environmental Laboratory, an 890-square-mile complex that includes the Western operations of Argonne National Laboratory in southeast Idaho. Last month an 8,000-acre fire forced an evacuation from the facility, and resulted in an accident that officials admit was very dangerous.

One chamber of an incinerator that burns "mixed waste" containing plutonium and other hazardous ingredients continued to burn, apparently overnight, without supervision after employees were evacuated on the afternoon of Sept. 17 and before they returned to work the next morning.

Safety procedures require that the incinerator be attended at all times by an operator. Lab officials say employees shut down both chambers of the incinerator, but that one appeared to have reignited. The incinerator, which has since been closed, was operated by Bechtel BBWI, an Energy Department contractor. Higher-than-usual levels of radioactivity were recorded during and immediately after a much larger range fire July 26-29 that burned 49,000 acres. Lab officials initially claimed the blaze did not burn in areas of known contamination.

Higher readings of radioactivity are expected after a fire, said lab spokesman Brad Bugger, because plants soak up naturally occurring radioactive elements and man-made radioactivity from nuclear testing, and release them when they burn. But environmental monitoring groups, which overlaid maps of the fire on maps of contaminated areas at the lab, claim that the fire did burn through contaminated portions of the Energy Department site.

Kathleen Trever, of the state agency overseeing the site, said state and local officials have determined public health was not compromised, but said "we need better maps of where contamination is, outside of INEEL's main facilities, and what the risks are of areas burning from an emergency response and public health standpoint."

[JR: The firefighters who fought these "controlled" fires around these nuclear sites were put at great risk by various government agencies, especially the Dept. of Energy. These firefighters were not informed of the potential hazardous site conditions as required by law and also not provided adequate maps of the areas. The lack of an emergency plan or procedures at the Los Alamos and Hanford labs reflect a lack of leadership by Richardson at DOE and the absence of concern for the environment, employees and the health of the people living near these nuclear lab sites. Now 6 months later these incompetent DOE employees are again preparing to do another "control burn". Irresponsible political appointees like Richardson are symptomatic of the decline of a democracy in its terminal stages.]

APPEALS EXPECTED FROM JURY RULING*capitolhillblue.com*, 19/29/00

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court is seeing the effects of last summer's groundbreaking ruling which expands jury-trial rights in certain criminal cases: A pile of appeals by defendants who say their sentences are unfair.

The justices ruled that virtually any question that could boost someone's maximum sentence, such as whether a crime was motivated by racial hate, must be decided by a trial jury. Judges no longer can decide such issues on their own during sentencing.

In essence, the court said "the constitutional right to trial by jury means what it says," said New York lawyer Gerald Lefcourt, former president of the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers. "That's been bedrock U.S. justice since the Founding Fathers."

"There are dozens of cases that have come down the pike already" challenging sentences as a result of the ruling, said Miami criminal defense lawyer Neal Sonnett. However, he added, "Whether it has far-reaching effects is yet to be determined."

The ruling, issued in June, said a New Jersey man who fired shots into a Black family's home was entitled to have a jury decide whether he acted out of hate and could be sent to prison longer than the ordinary maximum.

New appeals citing that decision are rolling in to the Supreme Court, and the justices already have ordered lower courts to take a new look at a number of cases. Lower courts have decided some defendants are entitled to a new sentencing.

Many of those cases involve drugs. Until now, judges often have decided such issues as how much cocaine someone sold: More cocaine can lead to a longer prison sentence. But many appeals say those decisions now must be made by the jury if the drug quantity could boost the maximum sentence.

Other appeals say juries must decide such issues as the amount of loss in a fraud case, or a defendant's use of a gun, if that factor would allow a longer maximum prison term.

Prosecutors also are figuring out how to comply with the ruling in future cases.

Justice Department officials say the ruling will require prosecutors to prove more facts to juries when those facts would allow a longer maximum sentence.

Monmouth County, NJ, prosecutor John Kaye said many state laws allow higher maximum sentences if prosecutors show, for example, that someone is a career criminal, is involved with a street gang or committed a crime by using a stolen car.

"All those things will be tested now," Kaye said, adding that proving such issues to a jury instead of a judge would be "a little harder, but we'll work with it."

The whole issue stems from the Constitution's Sixth Amendment guarantee of a jury trial for criminal defendants. Even with that guarantee, trial judges traditionally have had wide leeway to impose sentences by considering all of a defendant's actions, even if they were not charged or proved to the jury.

In fact, the Supreme Court ruled in 1997 that convicted defendants can be sentenced even for charges on which a jury acquitted them, if the judge believes the defendant committed the act.

The New Jersey ruling still gives judges discretion in sentencing, so long as they stay within the maximum set by law. But the decision said judges cannot subject someone to a higher maximum sentence without a finding by a jury.

The ruling featured an uncommon lineup of justices. The court's two staunchest conservatives, Justices Antonin Scalia and Clarence Thomas, joined the more liberal Justices John Paul Stevens, David H. Souter and Ruth Bader Ginsburg in ruling for the defendant.

Scalia wrote in a separate opinion, "the jury trial guarantee was one of the least controversial provisions of the Bill of Rights... It means what it says."

Dissenting from the decision were Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist and Justices Sandra Day O'Connor, Stephen G. Breyer and Anthony M. Kennedy.

O'Connor's opinion called the ruling "a watershed change in constitutional law" and said it could invalidate recent federal and state sentencing rules that have sought to limit judges' discretion.

So far, however, the ruling's main effect appears to be in drug cases, said Steven Kalar, a federal public defender in San Francisco.

Kalar predicted the decision would cause "tremendous uncertainty" in the short term as courts sort out which cases now on appeal must be re-examined under the new rules. The long-term effect, he added, will be "better administration of justice. The government's going to have to work harder at putting together its case before indictment."

[JR: This correction is long overdue. Some prosecutors have helped their careers by taking the shortcuts and liberties with the law to win cases in conjunction with judges. Judges have also abused their powers by arbitrarily including evidence not pertaining to the case or the exclusion of evidence vital to the fair outcome of a case. Judges have overstepped their authority by increasing sentences and overriding the jury's decisions. The Supreme Court needed to intervene and review these abuses in our courts. More is sure to come.]

VACCINE REFUSAL MAY CAUSE NY TO TAKE CHILDREN

Health Mail, 10/27/00

Today, 77 middle-schoolers will be yanked from home and taken into custody by New York state unless their parents agree to vaccinate them for a disease usually caught by drug abusers or the sexually promiscuous.

On October 10, students in Utica were sent home for failing to get hepatitis B vaccines by the state deadline. Parents were warned the children would be turned over to Child Protective Services for neglect if they were still without vaccination in 2 weeks.

"This is Hillary-Care coming home to roost in NY," said Jane M. Orient, MD, Executive Director of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons (AAPS). President and Mrs. Clinton's 1992 campaign pledge to create the Vaccines for Children Program (VFC) was to become the first domestic policy initiative of the administration. It was designed as their first shot to pass the Health Security Act. "Their campaign to pass VFC was based on creating a false crisis by claiming that millions of children would be exposed to risk of disease without a government program."

"This vaccine is a potential death sentence for some children," said Dr. Orient. "Government studies show that children under the age of 14 are three times more likely to die or suffer adverse reactions after receiving hepatitis B vaccines than to catch the disease itself." Hepatitis B is primarily an adult disease, usually spread by multiple sex partners, drug abuse or an occupation with exposure to blood. Children are at a very low risk of exposure, unless the pregnant mother is infected.

The school district will lose a substantial amount of state funding if students do not comply with the vaccine mandate. "We refuse to let that happen," said school district physician, Mark Zongrone.

"Apparently, Dr. Zongrone is more interested in protecting his employer's budget than protecting the children under his care, and Mrs. Clinton cares more about her vision of socialized medicine," said Dr. Orient.

"It's obscene to seize a child and force him to the custody of strangers just because his parents refuse medical treatment they think is unnecessary or even dangerous," said Dr. Orient. "Parents, not Mrs. Clinton's village government bureaucrats, should make decisions about their children's medical care. We urge an immediate repeal of all vaccine mandates."

[JR: If the parents involved don't challenge the state to specifically define the difference between child abuse and the right to protect their children from an unsubstantiated medical treatment, they will lose more than their rights and their children.]

THE MAN WHO DOESN'T LISTEN SEEMS TO KNOW WHAT "EVERYBODY" WANTS

By Akiva Eldar, Ha'aretz, 10/26/00

"It's true that you are prime minister and minister of defense, but we are more veteran than you are in politics," said Meretz MK Ran Cohen on Monday to Ehud Barak. "Sharon will not come into the government to save you, or to save the peace process. He will come in to get control of the government and the peace process. He will do to you what he did to Begin and to Shamir, to Peres and to Netanyahu." Yossi Sarid, who headed the Meretz delegation to the prime minister, hinted that his doubts had to do with Barak's own character/conduct: "I don't want to be insulting, but when we sat in your government, you did not let us in on the peace process. Why should we believe you that you will let us in when Sharon is in the government?" The Meretz people came away from the meeting with a sense that the state of emergency has not changed Barak. He decides on his own what is good, and expects that "everyone" will accept his position, on all fours. If the other side refuses, "everyone" will know who is doing the refusing, and he will look the mothers straight in the eye.

This is how Barak acted toward the late Syrian President Hafez Assad, and this is how he is acting in Israeli politics. He has decided that Israel needs an emergency government, and now Sharon and Sarid have to sign. If they accept his conditions, for instance, concerning the structure of the emergency government, he has got what he wants. If they refuse, everyone will know who is to blame for the fact that there is no peace, and perhaps, God forbid, there is war.

Ever since he lost United Torah Judaism because of the stupid transformer, Barak has endlessly repeated the mantra, "Don't judge me on the way. What counts is the result." Up until the Palestinians deviated from the plan he intended for them, the one and only result was "the end of the conflict".

Instead, he got the beginnings of a war in the territories and perhaps beyond them as well. This week Barak spoke to Russian President Vladimir Putin about the real danger of a flare-up on the northern border. He begged Putin to appeal to the Syrians and the Lebanese not to drag the region into war. During the meeting with the Meretz people, he also predicted the danger of "the opening of new fronts and significant incidents that will affect the public", hinting at dramatic terror strikes in populated areas.

From Barak's point of view, he, in the worst case, slipped up the first time he took the test of the result. Obviously he is not at fault. The misbehaving student at the next desk kept him from concentrating, the teacher did not prepare him well, the questions were too hard. Why should he be the one to take responsibility for the failure? He is leaving this to the commander of the Duvdevan unit who goofed and the Nablus Brigade commander who made a mistake. And anyway, there is always a second chance.

The next test could be an encounter with the Israeli public, for whom Barak not too long ago was the favorite partner. Until not long ago, the polls and the intimate advisors, those who dictate Barak's moves, taught him that the latest merchandise was "the end of the conflict".

Now they have sold him (with the help of officers who are a bit hysterical and/or hungry for funds) the jingle “the beginning of the war”. In an “emergency situation”, a responsible leadership refrains from dragging the country into elections. In an “emergency situation”, the people want unity. According to Barak’s plans, if Sarid and Sharon enter the government, former prime minister Benjamin Netanyahu won’t be needing movers in the next few years. And if they refuse, when the residents of Gilo thread their way among the tanks to the voting booths, they will know “who is attentive to their needs”, as Barak said at the last government meeting, and who is thinking only about power.

According to Justice Minister Yossi Beilin, the document he wrote at the end of 1995 with Abu Mazen was made to measure for Yitzhak Rabin and Yasser Arafat. Yigal Amir’s bullets, which sliced through the prime minister’s suit on November 4, pre-empted Beilin. Rabin never got to see the document, and we will never know whether he would have adopted it.

According to Arafat, it became the basis for all future negotiations. Thus, for example, there is not a chance that he will settle for less than 95 to 96 percent of the territories, in addition to compensation within the 1967 borders, which the Beilin-Abu Mazen document offered him. A few years ago, in an appearance in New York before a foreign policy forum, Arafat said that he could live with the Beilin-Abu Mazen formula regarding the postponement of a permanent status solution for Jerusalem. But then, as today, he would not sign on “the end of the conflict” without settling the dispute regarding the Temple Mount. Shimon Peres rejected his protegee’s initiative and preferred the Syrian channel. Barak insisted on all or nothing.

Even after he returned empty-handed from Camp David, he rejected signals from Arafat concerning his willingness to reach a partial agreement on a state. Arafat’s messengers were prepared to accept the Beilin-Abu Mazen map and set aside the sovereignty over East Jerusalem. Barak said to his friends, the ministers, that it was necessary to make Arafat “make the hard choice”. Ariel Sharon helped Arafat choose the Intifada.

In recent days, the evaluation in the American peace team is that Arafat is interested in the continuation of the negotiations. In fact, from the outset he planned to drag it out until November 7, because he did not believe that U.S. President Bill Clinton would risk presenting a compromise formula that could damage the election campaigns of his wife Hillary and Vice President Al Gore, the Democratic presidential candidate. “What are you all going around looking so grim for?” said Arafat to his advisors on the way home from Camp David. “We’ll have another summit.” In a face-to-face meeting with Clinton at Sharm, he explicitly asked the president to convene a summit after the elections.

To Jerusalem, too, signals have begun to arrive that the crucial time has come. In the Palestinian Authority leadership they believe that the current Intifida has improved their position around the negotiating table. Around Barak they are saying, however, that he has no intention of giving Arafat one iota more than what he had been prepared to give him before the riots. The shooting from Beit Jala onto Gilo demonstrated for the Israeli public the geographical proximity between Israel and the border of Palestine, according to the Beilin-Abu Mazen map. Even the most devoted disciples of Beilin-Abu Mazen say that there is no chance that Arafat will be content today with the deal he had been prepared to accept before the al Aqsa Intifada.

The biggest minefield—how could it be otherwise?—lies in the provision about the Jewish settlements beyond the 1967 borders. It is difficult to believe that Arafat will now adopt the formula that allows the settlers who live outside the blocs that will be annexed to Israel to choose between being evacuated to Israel and living in Palestine. After Barak and Clinton put Jerusalem at the top of the agenda, it will be very hard to move it away from there.

[JR: Barak, like Clinton, is great at playing the blame-game. It’s always the opposition that creates the crisis. A Sharon/Barak partnership will not encourage any positive movement in the peace process. Both B & S believe an intractable political position accompanied by a show of force is the only way Israel can succeed in her negotiations with the Palestinians. Israel has to be made to adhere to UN Resolution 181 (II)—which she signed in 1948—and withdraw from the lands she took over illegally in 1967. If it’s peace and security she wants she can’t do otherwise. However, if it’s land she craves, then the clashes, struggles and retaliations will continue another century.]

A EUROPE-WIDE LEGAL SYSTEM

By Daniel Hannan, Telegraph—UK, 10/29/00

You might have thought that home affairs, by definition, would be the one area of policy that had nothing to do with Brussels.

Yet over the past month, the European Parliament’s Home Affairs Committee has been dealing with one of the most ambitious schemes ever to have come out of the European Union. What is proposed is the establishment of an EU criminal code, complete with a European public prosecutor.

As a first step, national prosecution services will be combined into a unit known as “Eurojust”. In due course, a separate EU jurisdiction will be created, covering such areas as drug trafficking, terrorism, money laundering and fraud.

Let us be clear: The Parliament is not simply asking for co-operation in these areas—something which already happens and which everyone supports. It wants an entirely new legal system. The idea is that, just as in the United States, petty crimes would be tried under state law, but serious offences would be dealt with under federal law.

Once you have a federal law-code, of course, you need a federal police force. The EU has already given substantial operational powers to Europol, intended as the forerunner of such a force, but there is frustration at the lack of progress. So, to speed things up, we are to get a European Police Academy.

The day is fast approaching when you could be arrested by a Europol officer, charged under European law, and tried before an EU court. As the European Commission has made clear, the EU legal system will be modelled on the Napoleonic and inquisitorial law-codes favoured by most of the member states.

It is at this stage that Euro-philes usually start scoffing ostentatiously. A European police force? No more habeas corpus? What will these paranoid sceptics come up with next? But, having followed the debate closely, I predict that the necessary institutions will be put in place very soon—possibly as early as the Nice summit in five weeks time.

It is exactly one month since the Danes voted against the euro. Before the poll, politicians fell over each other to warn people of the consequences of a NO vote. The krone, they said, would come under speculative attack. The stock exchange would collapse. Interest rates would have to rise.

So, one month on, what has happened? As I write, the krone is at an eight-month high. The stock exchange surged on the morning after the result and has strengthened continuously since. The Danish Central Bank did raise interest rates by half a point but commercial rates have fallen and are now below the euro-land average.

This is not the first time that a “no” to European integration has pleased the markets. When Norway voted to stay out of the EU in 1994, the economy grew so quickly that the government had to set up a special fund in which to invest its budget surpluses.

The trouble with repeatedly threatening the terrors of the Earth is that you look rather an ass when they fail to materialise. Danish Euro-philes are in that position now. “I don’t believe they can ever put the question again after this,” says Jens-Peter Bonde MEP, a veteran Euro-sceptic leader. “Thank Heaven,” he adds. “I gave myself diabetes on the campaign trail. Another referendum might kill me.”

[JR: Will the new Eurojust legal system based on the Napoleonic Code of laws be fairer to its citizens? If Napoleon was considered a despot and the anti-Christ in his time, why now implement his code of laws? I guess it will work nicely to ensure the control and power of the master rulers. Good to know the Danish NO vote on the Euro hasn’t suppressed its economy despite the dire predictions.]

STEALTH SECRETS BREACHED

By Paul Shukovsky, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, 10/30/00

SEATTLE, WASHINGTON—A Russian mathematician who was given access to an American supercomputer loaded with stealth warplane design software is under investigation for espionage.

Federal agents suspect that Aleksey Yerebin, who logged on to the supercomputer from Moscow, took advantage of Lockheed Martin and military security lapses to steal stealth technology secrets.

The 3 1/2-year investigation stretches from the heart of the old Soviet empire to Lockheed’s secretive Skunk Works plant in Southern California to a quiet suburb north of Seattle.

Yerebin, vice president of a software company based in Bothell, Wash., that did work for Lockheed, was e-mailed part of Lockheed’s modeling program for designing stealth planes. And, sources say, it would have been easy for him to steal the rest of it.

The potential loss is staggering: America’s global monopoly on radar invisibility.

In spring 1997, the FBI and the Air Force Office of Special Investigations, or OSI, launched the investigation, code-named Digital Demon. A short time later, Lockheed pulled the plug on its project with Yeremin: an ultra-high-speed, number-crunching computer program that was supposed to greatly accelerate stealth aircraft design work.

Federal criminal-justice sources say Yeremin, 46, has connections to the Russian military and now-defunct KGB.

It is unknown whether Yeremin took any classified information. But sources told the Seattle Post-Intelligencer that some of the unclassified information he did obtain should have been classified top secret.

A retired Air Force three-star general said he is concerned the apparent leak could help the Russians build their own stealth warplanes.

"I don't think what is at risk here is making these (U.S.) aircraft any more visible to radar," said George Muellner, who played a key role in developing the nation's stealth fleet.

"But what is at risk is accelerating a country's ability to develop and build these sorts of aircraft—to produce something that is a threat downstream," he said. "If they started building and selling these things to the Iraqis, that would be a concern."

The joint FBI-Air Force probe has so far yielded no arrests, and no one has been publicly charged with a crime. Agents have seized the home computer of a Lockheed employee who worked closely with Yeremin.

That man told the Post-Intelligencer that he now realizes he was deftly manipulated by Yeremin.

"I am not 100 percent sure, but I am highly sure he is a spy," said the 38-year-old computer expert, who no longer works for Lockheed. He asked that he not be identified for fear of jeopardizing his current job.

He said he went beyond giving Yeremin portions of the MM3D simulation software—used to model highly complex interactions between stealth aircraft and radar—that the Russian needed to do his job. He said he also provided information that Yeremin could have used to determine American stealth capabilities.

"I have to admit, I am very gullible, very naive, very trusting," he said. "He asked very probing questions, but I pushed my concerns away.

"Now I can look back and see how he gathered information from me. He used textbook ways to win over someone; to recruit them as an operative or agent. He would earn my trust by saying he was not in any way... loyal to the country he was from, but wanted to come here."

The computer expert is befuddled by how Lockheed and the Air Force could allow a Russian with KGB ties access to such a sensitive program.

Lockheed refused to answer questions about whether security was compromised. The Air Force would not explain how it conducts security oversight of the defense contractor.

Officials at Skunk Works, in Palmdale, where the U-2 spy plane, the bat-winged F-117 and the F-22 were designed, first became aware in 1997 "that an employee... was not reporting contacts with foreign nationals as required by governing security regulations," Lockheed spokesman Sam Grizzle said in a prepared statement.

The officials reported the violations to "appropriate U.S. government agencies and followed their instructions in addressing the situation. The employee in question no longer works for Lockheed Martin," Grizzle said.

The FBI and the Air Force OSI refused to comment on the case, and federal prosecutors did not return calls about the case. "What I can tell you is it is an ongoing investigation," said Maj. Mike Richmond, an OSI spokesman at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland.

There are strong parallels to the Wen Ho Lee case, which also raised questions about digital transmission of technology to foreign nationals, and the way in which the federal government classifies its secrets.

The government feared that Lee, a scientist at Los Alamos National Laboratory in New Mexico, had stolen computer records containing the "crown jewels" of America's nuclear secrets and turned them over to the Chinese government. He recently pleaded guilty to a single count of mishandling classified information and received a sentence of time served—nine months.

Working out of his Bothell home, high-tech entrepreneur Russ Sarbora plucked Yeremin from a Russian military aircraft-design center a decade ago and collaborated with him to start a company called Elegant Mathematics.

Today, Sarbora is shocked that his business partner is under investigation in an espionage case.

"I believe he is not an agent for any foreign power," Sarbora said. "It would surprise me enormously if he turned out to be."

Yeremin "readily acknowledged working for the Soviet military," according to Sarbora, but "prior to 1990, if you were a scientist of any stature, you worked for the Soviet military structure. You didn't get to work, or support in school without working for the military."

Reached recently at his home in Moscow, Yeremin declined to discuss the espionage allegations. ...

And it wasn't just MM3D that was at risk of being stolen. Also loaded on the expert's home computer were test fixtures—secret computer representations of stealth aircraft structures.

The expert said he had been assured by Lockheed engineers that the test fixtures were not classified. But after the investigation began, federal agents claimed some were top-secret....

The computer expert said the reason he was allowed to work at home is that at night, he could access government and private supercomputers for free, saving Lockheed the expense of maintaining an in-house supercomputer on which he could work.

He said he repeatedly sought guidance from Lockheed security officials over how far he could go with Yeremin but was either ignored or rebuffed....

"It was bungled by Lockheed and the Air Force. From what I saw, everybody kind of snoozed through, kind of kissed it off. It was just 'keep an eye on it and give a report once in a while,'" said the former official, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The computer expert said he left Lockheed after the company pulled his access to work on the stealth program. He remained a Lockheed consultant for a time, then left for another job.

He maintains that any information he gave Yeremin "pales in comparison" to open articles written by scientists and engineers, and technical information available over the Internet....

When Sarbora learned that Yeremin had created an algorithm, or calculation method, that could achieve on relatively primitive computers what U.S. scientists did on supercomputers, he immediately grasped the scientific and commercial potential.

Yeremin joined forces with Sarbora to launch Elegant Mathematics. They incorporated in Washington state with Sarbora as president and Yeremin as vice president. The main offices, however, were thousands of miles away in Moscow, at the Russian Academy of Sciences. ...

[JR: It takes 3 ½ years for the FBI to investigate a case of espionage in one of our vital industries and no one charged? Access by foreign nationals to our secret technologies is the norm rather than the exception with the Clinton espionage team that runs Washington, D.C. The unidentified co-worker who volunteered classified information to Yeremin should be held accountable as well as the head honchos at Lockheed and the Air Force. Our security has been compromised to the point of being nonexistent. The barbarians are no longer outside our gates—they are on the inside passing out our secrets.]

CHINESE ARMY FIRES SUPER-GUN

By Charles Smith, WorldNetDaily.com, 10/26/00

New weapon with 200-mile range capable of raining bombs on Taiwan

Shocking the international military community like Saddam Hussein did with his 512-foot-long super-gun in 1990, the Chinese army has tested its "Taiwan rocket gun", a new weapon with a range of over 200 miles.

According to a recent report translated from the China Wen Hui Bao daily, "China has tested a newly developed rocket gun, named the WS-1B, which claims to have a range of 360 kilometers, the longest range in the world of a weapon of its kind."

Beijing's rocket gun has already raised concern inside the island nation of Taiwan. "The Chinese rocket gun could hit any area of Taiwan within minutes, if fired from the coast," stated a report filed this month by the Taipei Times.

"Various people have been working on this type of technology for some time," noted Frank Gaffney, noted defense analyst, president of the Center for Security Policy and a former assistant secretary of defense under President Reagan.

"It stands to reason that the Chinese communists would be interested in having the capability to attack Taiwan without having to use missiles. Although I think that when they go, they are not going to be terribly hung up about breaching the missile 'threshold'. Witness their 1996 missile shots into Taiwan's territorial waters," said Gaffney.

Reports have surfaced before in the Chinese press suggesting that Beijing was developing a super-gun. According to a Sept. 1999 article published by Janes Defense, "reports from Hong Kong say that China North Industries Corporation has developed a new long-range artillery system, described as a 'super range rocket gun' with a range of 360 kilometers."

"The new reports note that the WS-1B is an artillery rocket," stated defense analyst Richard Fisher, a senior fellow at the Jamestown Foundation. According to Fisher, the Chinese super-gun may be more a rocket than a gun.

"If the PLA were to have such a missile, that would mean that they have the ability to produce a precision strike SRBM that likely would cost much less than their DF-15 and DF-11 missiles, and that would allow a much higher salvo launch rate," Fisher said. "This kind of missile deserves close monitoring, as it has the potential to rapidly increase the PLA's missile inventory aimed at Taiwan."

According to another defense expert, Beijing may not have to fire its new rocket gun at Taiwan. Instead, Red China may use its new super-weapon to win a war of diplomacy with the tiny island democracy.

"Back in the 1980s, people like Norman Podhoretz suggested that the Soviet arms buildup was not intended to conquer Europe, but to 'Finlandize' it, reducing it to neutrality and trading with the Soviet Union on Soviet terms," stated defense analyst Philip Gold, a senior fellow at the Seattle-based Discovery Institute.

"We now know that the Soviet arms buildup was driven far more by internal dynamics than by coherent grand strategy, but I wonder if China might not intend to 'Finlandize' Taiwan," suggested Gold.

In March, WorldNetDaily reported that the Taiwan rocket gun is known to be directly related to Hussein's Babylon super-gun. According to the intelligence source who told WorldNetDaily about the new Chinese weapon, Dr. Gerald Vincent Bull, the designer of the Iraqi Babylon gun, assisted the Chinese artillery maker Norinco in its development of a super-gun.

Bull, considered a rogue scientist, worked with Iraq during the 1980s to develop the Babylon weapon capable of striking Israel. Bull also helped Iraq improve its SCUD missiles. The Iraqi super-gun project was discovered by British intelligence and shut down prior to the Gulf War. That gun was never used, but a smaller gun—"Baby Babylon"—was fired successfully. In 1990, Bull was found murdered outside his Belgian apartment, allegedly killed by Israeli agents.

The 19th Century science fiction novelist H.G. Wells popularized giant guns. Nazi Germany, hoping to bombard Britain during World War II, unsuccessfully developed a super-gun codenamed V-3, which was similar to the Iraqi Babylon cannon. Other large German siege guns were often given nicknames such as "Big Bertha" or "Anzio Annie" by the Allied troops that suffered under their shelling. The largest German-designed gun, the World War I Paris gun, fired shells over 70 miles into the French capital.

Super-guns became less attractive after World War II with the introduction of small nuclear warheads and long-range missiles. The Chinese weapon developed by Bull is considered large enough to hurl large chemical or nuclear bombs on Taiwan.

The Chinese army rocket gun may also have an American guidance system. Beijing military sources openly noted that the rocket gun is capable of striking Taiwan from the Chinese mainland with various types of warheads, including guided smart bombs. The report from the China Wen Hui Bao daily noted that "guidance options include the use of GPS," the American-built Global Positioning Satellite navigation system.

Administration documents show that GPS technology was transferred to China with the approval both President Clinton and Vice President Al Gore. According to a 1997 Rand report, in 1996, the Clinton-Gore administration approved the sale of GPS navigation systems directly to a company owned by the Chinese army.

The GPS technology transfer was labeled "disturbing" and "raised serious concerns" in the 1997 Rand Corporation report on the Chinese military industry. The Rand report was made public in a 1998 federal lawsuit filed against the U.S. Commerce Department.

"The most troubling potential transfer to China is Rockwell's proposed joint venture deal with the Shanghai Broadcast Equipment Factory and the Shanghai Avionics Corporation, the latter of which is a key enterprise of the Aviation Industries of China," states the 1997 Rand report.

"More accurate GPS systems would enhance the PLA's ability to carry out attacks against Taiwan's military and industrial facilities, potentially reducing the ability of the Taiwanese military to defend itself against PRC coercive diplomacy," the report notes.

"The use of GPS to enhance the accuracy of long-range Chinese cruise missiles, coupled with long-range sensors, would raise serious concerns for the U.S. 7th Fleet in the Pacific and possibly circumscribe their ability to provide an effective deterrent in a crisis over Taiwan," concluded the Rand Corporation report.

[JR: Gerald Bull may have been considered a rogue scientist but his expertise was much sought after by many countries, including his native Canada and the U.S. He did build the Big Gun for Iraq which was successful at a 200-mile range. He was working on a bigger gun of 500-mile range before he was murdered. If the Chinese have his technology and our GPS system, not only is Taiwan in range but China could control the South Chins Sea. The Big Gun may be as effective as a missile system at short range and less cost effective to build, so why wouldn't the Chinese use it?]

ARMENIAN GENOCIDE IGNORED

By Charles Dakarian, Chicago Tribune, 10/27/00

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, ILLINOIS—On Oct. 19, U.S. House Speaker Dennis Hastert pulled the Armenian genocide resolution from the House schedule moments before it was to be considered on the House floor ("House drops bill alleging Turkish genocide of Armenians," News, Oct. 20).

Speaker Hastert withdrew the measure after President Clinton requested that the House drop and avoid voting on the resolution. Hastert said the president believed that passage of the resolution might have adversely impacted the situation in the Middle East and risked the lives of Americans.

Imagine Germany threatening the U.S. if it passed a Holocaust commemoration resolution.

The Armenian genocide resolution would have simply affirmed the United States record on the Armenian genocide, the organized deportation and exile of 2 million Armenians from their ancestral villages in what is now Turkey, and the death by massacre and starvation of 1.5 million of them, between 1915 and 1923. In short, it would have affirmed the "murder march" of the Armenian people.

President Clinton cited grave "national security concerns", undoubtedly related to Turkey's numerous vocal threats of closing U.S. airbases in Turkey, and the tension between Israel and Arab nations. A foreign government, Turkey, forced President Clinton and Hastert to deny and ignore the U.S. record and response to the events that took place in the Ottoman Empire from 1915 to 1923.

What's really going on here is that the speaker and the president and, therefore, the government of the United States, both executive and legislative, have succumbed to the threats of the Turkish government, threats by that government against American soldiers.

This is shameful.

Turkey is a bully, ashamed of its past, insulting Americans and especially Armenian-Americans with its arm-twisting of the U.S. government to participate in its denial campaign. We have America, the most powerful country in the world, being told by the Republic of Turkey what we can talk about and what we can think—not only with regard to human-rights violations but with regard to the most heinous crime against humanity, genocide.

The measure would also have called upon the president to ensure that the foreign policy of the United States reflected appropriate understanding and sensitivity concerning issues related to human rights, ethnic cleansing and genocide documented in the United States record relating to the Armenian genocide.

If America is going to live up to the standards we set for ourselves and continue to lead the world in affirming human rights everywhere, we need to stand up and recognize the Armenian catastrophe for what it was—the systematic elimination of a people, just as we have peacefully and effortlessly acknowledged the Holocaust time and time again.

[JR: Turkey also threatened canceling major arms purchases over this issue. America no longer is a representative of the values we WERE known for in the past. Foreign elements can and do influence our policies, our Kongress/knesset, our President and even our Executive branch of government. America is lost but pieces can be found in places like Turkey, Israel and China.]

THE FORGOTTEN DEFICIT

gold-eagle.com (editorial), 10/26/00

The federal budget deficit may be fast disappearing, but the "other" deficit is growing bigger than ever before. America's huge and growing trade/current account deficit could soon spoil the "Goldilocks" economy—and few in Washington and on Wall Street even want to admit that there is a problem.

What is a Trade Deficit?

America runs a trade deficit when U.S. exports are less than imports. In other words, the rest of the world—especially Japan, Communist China, and OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) members—ship us more real goods and services than we ship them. The "current account" deficit is the broadest measure of America's international economic position. It includes investment income in addition to goods and services. For the purposes of this article, we will use the term "trade deficit" to refer to this total picture.

Foreign countries benefit from this deficit because we ship them financial assets (dollar-denominated securities) in return for their goods. Simply put, America is borrowing from foreigners. This form of borrowing is often referred to as "dissaving". A trade deficit is, simply put, borrowing from abroad. The market value of foreign-owned U.S. assets now exceeds the value of U.S.-owned foreign assets by some $1.4 trillion—an increase of more than $1 trillion since Bill Clinton took office. To put it into perspective, the U.S. is now in debt to the rest of the world to the tune of about $5,000 for every man, woman and child in America.

As we shall see, borrowing huge amounts from foreigners is filled with potential pitfalls. So far, foreigners have been happy to take our dollars and help lower U.S. interest rates and drive our stock market higher. But what happens if foreigners no longer want to hold dollars? Our huge foreign debt poses the threat of a sudden, major weakening of the U.S. dollar if foreign holders become pessimistic about the American economy.

This rising indebtedness is due to America's mushrooming trade deficit. Between 1992 and 1998, the trade deficit grew from $39 billion (0.6% of GDP) to $202 billion (2.3% of GDP). It grew even larger during 1999 to a whopping $347 billion.

Is There A Problem?

Some economists and public policy observers claim that the trade deficit is really not a problem. In fact, they even celebrate it as a by-product of a strong economy and America's role as marketplace for the world.

The potential negative implications of the trade deficit are underestimated in Washington, on Wall Street and in academic circles. The persistent and growing trade deficit shows that our economy, especially our manufacturing sector, is increasingly being dominated by foreigners. That deficit means that thousands of American jobs are being given away to foreign countries. Unless action is taken to correct this situation, there could be a protectionist backlash which could derail the world economy and financial markets.

What Caused the Problem?

What has caused the U.S. trade deficit to balloon out of control? There are many theories, yet no consensus. Some observers point to the paltry domestic savings rate that causes us to borrow from abroad. Others celebrate the deficit as a consequence of strong U.S. growth relative to other world economies.

But there is another explanation: It has become clear that our deficit is being influenced by Japanese, Chinese and other foreign governments' purchases of U.S. government securities. They want to keep the dollar propped up to make their goods and services cheaper relative to American goods and services. This is pure market manipulation separate and apart from U.S. fiscal and monetary policy or domestic savings and investment trends.

This foreign accumulation of U.S. government securities is an alarming economic development. As Dr. Ernest H. Preeg of The Hudson Institute (www.hudson.org) points out in his new book, The Trade Deficit, The Dollar, and The U.S. National Interest, these massive holdings make America vulnerable in trade policy and even national security:

"Foreign governments increased official dollar holdings from $432 billion in 1989 to about $1 trillion in 1999. At some future point, large dollar-holders, such as Japan and China, could threaten to sell dollars, or shift them into euros and other currencies, as bargaining leverage against the United States related to trade or national-security issues. One Japanese prime minister has publicly spoken of the temptation to sell dollars, and Chinese military strategists have published studies about integrated warfare with the United States, including in financial markets."

What does Dr. Preeg mean by "leverage?" Well, if either Japan or China decided to sell their Treasuries, the result would be a financial crisis rivaling the 1973-74 episode that was characterized by "stagflation" and a 45% drop in the U.S. stock market. By dumping Treasury bonds, foreigners would force U.S. interest rates higher (when bond prices fall, interest rates rise). This would send the bond market into the proverbial tank and it wouldn't do the stock market much good either.

In the short term, the trade deficit and foreign holdings of U.S. government bonds may have little impact on U.S. financial markets. But as the situation progresses, tensions between America and her trading partners are bound to flare. The U.S. and Japan have come close to an all-out trade war twice in the 1990s over everything from rice to luxury cars and consumer electronics. With oil prices skyrocketing and U.S. oil imports on the rise, tensions with OPEC could surface, especially if Saddam Hussein decides to cut production. Finally, Communist Red China considers the U.S. its number one enemy. We have a lot of disagreements with them over issues like Chinese proliferation of ballistic missiles and "weapons of mass destruction" and their expansionist aims with regard to Taiwan and the rest of the Pacific Rim. Don't think for a second that they would hesitate to use their $105 billion in Treasuries as leverage in a crisis.

Is There a Cost From the Trade Deficit?

Some observers claim that the trade deficit is a benign deficit with no real negative effects. Others disagree. The Economic Strategy Institute (www.econstrat.org) has quantified the effects of the trade deficit. The trade deficit results in lower GDP (Gross Domestic Product) because it forces employment and investment away from U.S. export activities, as well as domestic business activities that have to compete with cheap foreign goods and services. The Institute estimates that eliminating the trade deficit would increase real GDP by some $44 billion per year.

U.S. companies have to match the import competition, but will do so at a cost. Profits have to be shaved to compete with cheaper foreign goods. Lower profits have an effect on the stock market, because investors don't like low earnings.

Meanwhile, with rising oil prices and our growing dependence on foreign oil, the trade picture could get even worse—perhaps much worse.

Implications for the U.S. Dollar

Absent a protectionist backlash in the United States or a massive foreign liquidation of U.S. Treasury bonds, there is still another major concern surrounding the trade deficit: The dollar may be set for a major decline. A strong dollar makes U.S. goods more expensive overseas and foreign goods cheaper here. That means a strong dollar adds to the trade deficit. A weak dollar, with all of its negative implications, would lower the trade deficit. Alan Blinder of The Brookings Institution (www.brookings.org) and Princeton University warned of a coming fall in the dollar due to the trade deficit during testimony on December 10, 1999, before the U.S. Trade Deficit Review Commission:

"Another concern is that we may be setting up the dollar for a very big fall, and that brings me to my third and final point. I believe that a lower dollar, indeed, a much lower dollar, will ultimately play a major role, indeed, the major role, in whittling our trade deficit down, not to zero, but to a manageable size. I think the problem for public policy is simply to cope with the sinking dollar as it sinks."

A sinking dollar is not just a problem for public policymakers. It is a problem for investors as well. A rapidly sinking dollar has never been kind to the stock and bond markets; however, gold is probably the single most negatively correlated asset to the U.S. dollar. It will be one of the few asset classes that can protect investors from a collapse of the dollar.

Potential Effects for Investors to Ponder

Eventually, these chickens will come home to roost. There will be a price to pay for continuing large trade deficits and a huge foreign debt. Three potential scenarios exist. All have negative consequences for the financial markets:

1. Protectionist Backlash. We've already seen the roots of protectionism in last year's violent protests at the World Trade Organization meeting in Seattle. Should that sentiment spread to the halls of power in Washington, D.C., we could see tariffs and embargoes spring up overnight around the world. Such a scenario would destroy whole corporations and eliminate jobs. In short, the U.S. and world economy would be crippled, much like what happened during the protectionist backlash of the 1930s. It would not be an exaggeration to say that the financial markets would collapse. Fortunately, this scenario does not seem likely.

2. Foreign Dumping of U.S. Treasury Bonds. Should foreigners sell U.S. Treasury bonds—or even cease purchases of U.S. Treasury bonds—the result would be a possibly steep rise in interest rates and the concurrent fall in stock and bond prices. Unfortunately, this scenario is a real possibility.

3. A Decline in the U.S. Dollar. A rapidly sinking dollar would more than likely mean inflation in the United States and a decline in our stock and bond markets. This scenario should be considered likely.

Gold: Financial Insurance

The potential effects of America's huge and growing trade deficit should prompt investors to include gold investments in their overall financial plan. Investors have had the luxury of ignoring risk during the "Goldilocks" economy of the 1990s, but they should not assume that this luxury will continue indefinitely. Gold is one of the few assets—perhaps the only asset—suited to providing a degree of capital preservation during any of the potential scenarios likely to arise due to our trade deficit.

Gold is negatively correlated to the U.S. dollar, so when the dollar falls, the price of gold usually rises. This is exactly what happened in 1982-83 when the dollar fell and the price of gold increased from $294 an ounce to $514 an ounce in just 9 months—an increase of 74%. Once again from 1985-87 when the dollar fell again and the price of gold increased, this time from $282 to $502 over 21 months—an increase of 78%.

Stocks and bonds are no longer negatively correlated with one another—but they are both negatively correlated with gold. So, should stock and bond prices fall under the pressure of a falling dollar, mass sales of U.S. Treasuries, or other negative economic and political events, gold will be useful as a portfolio diversifier.

It is best if investors do not wait for the trade deficit to begin taking its toll on the financial markets to acquire their financial insurance in the form of gold. By then, it may be too late to buy gold at attractive prices. Today gold is trading at under $275 per ounce—just above a 20-year low. And $275 gold is lower than the annual peak in each of the past 20 years. In fact, $275 per ounce gold is cheaper than the average annual price of gold in each of the past 20 years. There has never been a better time to buy gold for less.—Blanchard Economic Research, <http://www.blanchardonline.com>

PHASING-OUT SALE

Since we have little idea how far the Federal Government will follow the false information given by its mind-controlled informers, we are assuring your opportunity to gather all the invaluable material presented through the years from this source—at going-out-of-business sale prices.

Phoenix Source Distributors now offers all Phoenix Journals at half price—$3.00 each, plus the usual shipping charge. This means ownership of a complete set of published Phoenix Journals is now domestically available for less than $300.00, most locations. A modest price for an almost complete treatise of Truth on this era of planetary civilization.

Contact Inc. is selling all past newspapers and newsletters at $1.00 each, which includes domestic shipping. Please call for additional shipping charge on foreign orders. Please give volume and issue numbers, or dates on newspapers and newsletters—with the respective quantities. We offer an almost complete set of newsletters and newspapers for $300.00. Many early Phoenix Journal Express newsletters are absent and a few subsequent newspapers, but more than 90% of the total are available—and since putting a complete set together is easier than selecting some, we offer this special price of $300.00 for almost 500 of these publications. This includes domestic U.S. shipping. Please request foreign shipping rates.

TELEPHONE HOTLINE (Discontinued)

As an adjunct to CONTACT, the Telephone Hotline keeps you as informed as possible on current events and other important information that needs to get to our subscribers before our publishing date.

The message machine will answer after 2 rings if there are any new messages for that day, and after 4 rings if not. Thus daily callers can hang up after 2 rings and save toll charges if no new message has been recorded. If the Hotline does not answer your call, then there is currently no Hotline message.
