GAIA Program, Documents Are On Desk Of RP President GMA

4/19/01—#1 (14-246)

DO WE MAKE THE WAY MORE DIFFICULT OR EASIER?

Hatonn present in the Light of the Radiant One. As to difficult or ease of travel: It depends on the road, doesn't it? Moreover, it depends on where you might be located along the road and where you are headed.

Dharma sits to serve as I ask her to. Please understand that there are some things in this LIFE journey which must be kept to a minimum of discussion. We cannot share with each of you, just as you will not share all your private programs with us. However, we find a demand for more than wisdom would suggest we talk about—and we end up having to focus on the distraction rather than on moving ahead.

As to ESJ and his books, there is no push to do anything. It was felt that some of you might find him interesting to meet. No, we are not in the publishing business and perhaps we may never again be in such business. Unless we can focus and desire toward that in our lives, we certainly can't even make a living at such industry.

And no, there is a misunderstanding. ESJ is a contact who can assist in getting paperwork to high-level decision-makers. No, he did not present any part of the program we have. He is quick and he usually sees the merit in a move but it usually takes a couple of weeks to accomplish that.

Erick's pressure seems to be to wish to participate in a very big measure in getting BACK gold and funds moved out of the Philippines and which is most often called the "Marcos Gold". Our intent is to back the system and bring some help to the PEOPLE. Both will help but no, both are not the same.

We are only interested in gold, itself, as a means to an end for security of the economy—and if we can begin to accomplish that foundation, we can move right on ahead.

to write because I want you to have information and keep up on world events—but just to have the "preacher" preach every day is a foolish thing, for it ensures no one listens to yesterday's lesson in waiting for tomorrow's. We have written for 14 years and have averaged at least one writing per day for the entire time period. That means we actually wouldn't need to write more for at least 14 years while all those lessons are again offered.

I know that you people back home have no idea how many write directly to Doris expecting it to be gotten TO ME. We are blessed in that way but there is no way to "humanly" get it even covered to a smattering.

We have piled up inquiries on light-frequencies, Priori equipment, Rife equipment, Deuterium fuel, every kind of agriculture program there is to be had, more insight from such as ESJ and Dr. J.C. We have inquiries and sharings from DayStar and it all needs to get to all you the people—but it simply can't make it through one person in Manila, Philippines with a full-time job at hand, which happens to be the biggest one program on the globe today.

I often ask Doris [as Doris]

Except for visiting with family, Dharma covers the topics I ask her to share so that when we have time to write, you have the background.

I am asked to comment on many topics which I, frankly, do not enjoy making comment. If one reader wishes to believe in a topic as absolute truth and another doesn't—I am going to lose a friend. It is much as with the book Telos, I don't want an opinion—but I do want YOU to have an opinion if you choose to even read the book.

Your warnings as to possibilities start right up front in that book while giving you a royal hierarchy in ancient “orders”. We have also talked about those things for over 14 years, so it is YOU who must have discernment or foster the ideas thereabout. I have at least 12 other books awaiting comment and, frankly, in the midst of working around the human clock to get our job done, I don't want to have the distraction. You do not need my opinion about shallow cities under such as Mt. Shasta—but you will certainly get a big contradiction from the elders of the mountain. Obviously, if you can conceive of such a thing, it can be achieved but let us make sure why we would want to have that particular achievement.

You can find distractions and contradictions in all writings—but you have to understand, students, that the most important one thing to YOU is your course of travel in truth unto God and your higher cause. Everyone is still seeking the magic, the revelation and the way so that all the other things can be set aside. No, you must look at all that come to claim your attention. I will tell you, however, that nobody ELSE than that author has suggested such shallow cities. It is known that the mountain was inhabited and that the energies were removed during the period of pressure toward Earth tilting and problems in space in getting back and forth off the planet.

I think you will note that the scientists have just recently told you of a Sun-pole shift—can the terrestrial body be far behind?

Everybody still wants to debate a “Photon Belt”. These are scientific things which bear no argument—they just ARE. I can, however, respond over and over again and again and my story will not change—so look it up as to what you were already given. All the spiritual channelers are back on that wavelength. Fine, you cannot be warned enough but you must be properly warned or you are going to have damage.

Please remember that we had no “group” or “cult” and still have none. YOU who participated up to and through now are you who WANTED to participate in a period of time of training so that we could accomplish this very human task at hand. We are doing the best we can and that is just the way of it. You also wanted, you claimed, to participate in the new possibilities we can make available.

It seems long and the struggle brings impatience, frustration and finally, yes, even distress, for ALL things are possible—not just the positive and wondrous adventures.

If it is too difficult to keep that positive realization through the regular calls, etc., then perhaps you might wish to make them longer apart than weekly.

We have the documents and the program to the desk in front of the President here. The probabilities look good—but never when dealing with governments or bankers can you depend on anything going smoothly.

Already we are told today that if the bank (CB) does any gold transactions that a bunch of the gold or proceeds must go to the IMF. So, people start bargaining! NO, no one will bargain our program into the pits to have more and more kickbacks.

And, if you think others could do this job better—I ask you WHO? There have been ones working all along the way and haven't accomplished anything—including working right along side us.

We have plenty of people now ready to “cut” corners just to get started. No thank you, we do not cut corners which might well bring down the hounds on our people for something in which they have no participation. The instructions are simple and easily understood.

As to everyone within our team, we have to accept whatever might be your choices regarding anything that comes along. I ask you not to speak of some things and you do—so how can we expect to move forward? It is a very difficult time for all of us and, yes, the prize is well worth it. There are enough dead people breathing and walking but we can't drag anyone along to our demand.

We are in a place where one day's news is the opposite of what it is the next. Is this intentional? Well, it certainly is as confusing as you can get on a day-to-day basis. The lie is the accepted mode of communications here and yet, WHICH is the lie? Is it the tale told yesterday or the one to be had tomorrow?

As an example, two days ago eight cases were filed against former President Estrada. By evening five were discarded because of deliberate errors in the paperwork or the witnesses are gone or whatever might be the idiotic excuse of the day. Today is Erap's birthday and he just wants the persecution to stop. Is it persecution? Hummmn? Well, his special police task force is now entirely implicated in murder and mayhem which goes all the way to the prior top police chief. People are dead and the people who abducted them and killed and burned them are known—but somehow no “masterminds”?

Then there is the story yesterday that one of the prime witnesses, Mrs. Ocampo of Equitable Bank, has resigned from the bank. Wow, what would that do to the case? Not to worry, today there is another statement that she has NOT resigned at all. I just want to sing Happy Birthday to all and get off the sleighride.

Worse, last month the now President said that there would be no executions during the duration of her term. Today, as if nothing had ever been said, she said there would be a continuation of executions as scheduled.

Now, that bodes “something” for Erap, for he is charged with plunder which is a capital offense. But, it is also not aailable offense, so the new look is probably “house arrest”—in one of the most luxurious mansions in Manila.

It may well be more fun to share this as we live it—but we can't do that AND get this job done. It has truly ceased to be “fun” over here—and yet this is where it needs accomplishment.

More has been accomplished here in less than three years than in all the years to date. That comprises a lot of years and perhaps you aren't looking in a comprehension big enough.

Where is commander hanging out when not in Dharma's face? In Dharma's face! And yours, and yours and yours—so Dharma wonders why she doesn't get any answers except from the Spectrum discreditors. If you cannot share the negative and the positive, then the unbalance will bring physical disharmony.

Now as to the book Telos but not to belabor it: John Swanson of Mt. Shasta asked us to review it if possible and we did. People went to expense of purpose to gain some copies. It is a fun read and I would put it in the same similar category as Sipapu Odyssey in that it was never intended to be other than a motion picture treatment for same. I don't know what might have been the purpose of Telos—but it doesn't need to have greater impact, for it changes nothing in your daily world. If you can find the tunnels and have access and exit and would want to live near those “possibilities”, then do so—but don't ask me to make an opinion FOR you.

Here in Manila someone sent a long dissertation taking apart some of the material of Sipapu Odyssey, the story. We didn't write a true history; we wrote a story. I do, however, believe that the author of Telos is writing what she proclaims as truth and, yes, I do question a few of her observations—for the higher dimensional beings simply do not struggle with royalty or priest-priestess bowing and scraping. Be very careful of that; and without that distraction see what you then think of the logic and reasoning of such a story.

I am not going to write more now because I needed to make a statement regarding these matters—and my people here are simply not well enough to manage it all. What we do here makes major differences in the world as it turns.

The heat in China, as in Israel, is serious and I would ask that you pay close attention to possible surprises in those sectors—because you will note Hoof-and-Mouth and Crazy Cows have been knocked off the “world” news pages.

We will keep right on pressing forward and yes indeed, I will make time to give a bit more input on “living”—for that is what it's all about after all. Keep your Spiritual Pathway clear and “LIVE” well and within honor—and you will be abundantly rewarded for the journey.

Will we have a meeting or something when we “come home”? We can't see that far down this old muddy road. Where would we have such a meeting? I suggest we let it unfold as we can see around the bend in the roadway.

May your insight be broadened and your understanding made gifted, for we have a way to go before we rest.

Hatonn to clear.

GOD'S SIMPLE PLAN

THE MONEY PROBLEM

God's Plan in His Millennium is to bring ABUNDANCE to His people—all over the world. This paper will deal with, primarily, the Republic of the Philippines (RP).

Like so many nations worldwide, the RP has been caught in the IMF "debt trap". Its money supply has dwindled to only U.S.$28 billion and its interest payments to the IMF/World Bank (IMF/WB) milk away $6 billion every year with no way of replenishment. It has less than P20,000 per person and, to reach a par with the G7 countries, needs at least P1 million per person, a multiple of more than 50 times.

The RP Constitution (which includes conditionalities required by IMF), or the IMF Loan Agreements themselves, prevent increasing the money supply. Just printing more money would not help anyway, because no reserves are created and so the peso's value would fall.

Money (currency or credit) CAN be created to buy gold to be added to reserves—actually increasing the value of the peso—without violating the Constitution or IMF "conditionalities". The Global Alliance Investment Association (GAIA) DEEDs OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION (DEEDs) offer a solution.

GAIA DEEDs are small portions of the interest due GAIA on the debt of the U.S. to GAIA and are thus "U.S. Treasury debt".

GAIA DEEDs are designed to be used primarily as banking reserves, worldwide.

GAIA DEEDs are a surrogate for gold because they are payable in gold.

Banks are required to have RESERVES and usually hold their U.S. dollar-denominated RESERVES as U.S. Treasury debt (notes, bills, or bonds). GAIA DEEDs are U.S. Treasury debt payable to GAIA and assigned (for consideration of 50% of the value) to the Joint Venture Partner (JVP). The JVP, in most instances, is a Project Proponent (PP) whose project is humanitarian in nature and which will provide employment and livelihood for its participants. National Treasuries, local government entities, and banks can also be JVPs under appropriate circumstances.

Any domestic bank can accept a GAIA DEED as collateral for a loan (just as it would any other U.S. Treasury debt) and declare its value as an addition to the bank's RESERVE. The conflict has arisen when the bank "rediscounts" its reserve to the Bangko Sentral de Pilipinas (BSP—Central Bank of RP) for funds to purchase gold and seeks an "advance ruling" that GAIA DEEDs are acceptable to the BSP as reserves. If the BSP answers "yes", it will lose certain benefits it receives from the IMF/WB. If it says "no", it can be sued by the domestic bank since the law requires the rediscounting of U.S. Treasury debt, and the DEEDs are U.S. Treasury debt.

To protect the personnel at the BSP, an ORDER from higher up must be used to remove the "blame" from the BSP for allowing the use of the DEEDs.

THE GOLD PROBLEM

Purchasing, transporting, and holding gold is risky for domestic commercial banks. The BSP has all of those facilities and more, including assaying, refining, formatting, hallmarking, and registering gold in the form of bullion bars. The proper method of making gold available to domestic commercial banks is for the BSP to process it and hold it under a warehouse receipt for the bank. A warehouse receipt lists bars of gold by their registration numbers and serves as a certificate of ownership of those particular bars, unlike a Gold Bullion Certificate which provides a claim on a stated amount of gold from what amounts to a general "gold pool" being held by a custodian or trustee. In many cases the value of a gold pool is available for the use of the custodian in such arrangements as "leasing" or limited "leveraging" (which means using as collateral for a loan). A warehouse receipt does not permit the custodian to use the asset and is thus much more secure from the point of view of the owner.

The Global Alliance Investment Association DEED OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION program requires the purchase of gold equal to at least 50% of the value of each DEED, and GAIA recommends that the JVP's 50% also purchase gold to be used as the collateral for the line-of-credit with which to do its project. The benefits of this are several: the JVP will enjoy any increase in the price of gold; the requirements of the funding bank can be reduced; otherwise nearly-impossible-to-finance larger, longer-term, and service-type projects are made possible. For the bank, double collateral is provided and the usual concerns over "change orders", delays, cost overruns, currency risk, etc., are eliminated, as are inspections to ascertain that the salvage value is enough to cover the funds drawn. If the project fails, the bank simply takes enough gold to satisfy what it has loaned to the project, plus any unpaid interest, and returns the balance of the gold to the JVP. All of the participating banks in the system have huge increases in their loanable funds, enhancing profitability and reducing risk of "bank runs" to near zero.

GAIA's assumption that BSP had sufficient gold to begin and could get more as needed has proved to be erroneous. Not only has the BSP shipped off the 200 metric tons or so of gold that it had, for others to use, but the local miners and treasure holders have been so mistreated that they refuse to sell gold to BSP. Fixing the blame for this state of affairs has no value; it is a simple fact that requires remedy and that remedy is available if the RP Administration is willing to cooperate with GAIA.

GOLD PURCHASE PROGRAM

The price of gold is being held so low that most mines and miners cannot make a profit and many of them are being forced to sell their properties and facilities to companies controlled by the International Banking Cartel (IBC). With the cooperation of the RP Administration, a program can be developed that will pay Filipino miners and treasure holders, in most cases, twice what they are getting now, which would be the equivalent of $400 per ounce. This would revitalize the Philippine gold industry and allow the holders of "treasure" to bring it in for a decent price under safe conditions.

Perhaps the details of the gold purchase program can be left out of this paper. However, one thing must be absolutely clear: The government's regarding of treasure as anything other than the tax-free property of the Holder (no matter who it be) of the treasure must be abandoned if the latent riches in this nation are to be released to the use of its people. Why should a government claim any portion—any percentage—of gold treasure when it can, by using its facilities and God-given intelligence, issue new currency to purchase the gold, have it all, 100%, at no cost, and leave its citizens gratefully friendly while increasing its desperately needed money supply?

Too good to be true? How about "salvation"? And "rapture"? Come, come. God's plans are practical and real. It is man's plans that lack reality and attempt to avoid responsibility.

The three attributes that make this plan practical and possible are: 1) A new Administration with a commitment to integrity, 2) the GAIA DEEDs to assure the Holder gets paid, and 3) a decent price to the Holder for the gold. When these are properly expressed as a CONTRACT, enforceable in all courts in the RP, the problem will be much different. It will become a problem of staging, scheduling, and processing the gold deliveries—a much happier problem for the Philippines and an opportunity for GAIA to move on to include other countries.

SUMMARY

God's Simple Plan for the Philippines is to let the government issue new money, which it desperately needs to do, to purchase gold treasure to increase its RESERVES, which will then allow it to fund the GAIA DEEDs, already issued to the livelihood Project Proponents, which disperses funding to His PEOPLE. If done as a joint venture with GAIA, Holders of gold treasure can be paid $400 per ounce, which will also rejuvenate the gold mining industry and break the lock of the IBC on the price of gold. Dedicating 50% of the gold purchased to GAIA will allow GAIA to later repurchase its DEED from the Holder, completing the $400/oz payment.

God's Simple Plan for neighbor nations is the same as for RP, except that some of them may need to purchase some gold from RP. As the program progresses and gold becomes more valuable, the debts of all of these nations can be paid off, reinstating their sovereignty and giving God's PEOPLE the freedom to reestablish their connection with Him. Even the threat of war between the world's two "SuperPowers", the U.S. and China, will diminish as it becomes more evident that the "former colonies" can no longer be plundered because of their ability to help each other.

We are just barely entering God's Millennium. If we are willing to change our thinking and work in harmony with Him, we will enjoy His abundance and guidance. He answers our prayers in His way and, with Him, all things are possible. Just because He chooses now to deal with money and gold does not devalue His plan—it is time to join with Him.

GOLD PURCHASE PROGRAM

(A Special offer of 500 Metric Tons to Jump Start the Philippine Economy)

INTRODUCTION

In the Philippines it is said there are thousands of tons of gold bullion stored in vast caves and tunnels, much of it guarded by indigenous tribesmen. It is recorded that President Ferdinand Marcos gathered, processed, and sent thousands of tons to other nations for safekeeping until the time was right to use it as the basis of a world currency.

It now appears that most of that gold has been stolen by the banks charged with its safe-keeping or, at the least, those banks refuse to honor the signatories established by Mr. Marcos.

While there are available many estimates of what was removed and what remains, the consensus seems to be that perhaps as much as one million tons (or more) were removed and that there may be half again that much remaining. What does not seem to be in question is the fact that much gold bullion remains in the Philippines. There are huge deposits of yet-unmined gold, also.

It is reliably reported that specialized satellite maps show the location of gold deposits, especially of bullion. It is also becoming apparent that there is a strong positive correlation between some deposits and the location of some of the "Visiting American Forces", leading to speculation that the gold is the objective of the visitors. In the Bicol region a submarine was reportedly being loaded with something at night, and there was a "joint training exercise" occurring in the area at the time.

If gold bullion is being removed from the Philippines at this time, even if it is being paid for, Filipinos are being victimized by the International Banking Cartel's (IBC) manipulation of the gold price, keeping it below $300 per ounce. As a positive counter to such manipulations, GAIA offers hereby to assist and provide certain guarantees to the gold seller so that properly licensed gold dealers can purchase gold bullion at $400 per ounce, with payment made in two separate tranches.

SPECIAL OFFER

This is a special offer to the Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo Administration to assist in stabilizing the economy, strengthening the value of the peso, affording the funds for an emergency registration of the disenfranchised youth who deserve special consideration, providing the money to professionally conduct and monitor an honest election, and as well, to bring all civilian, military, and police (active and retired) pay current. Should there be more pressing needs than these, they may also be addressed.

To accomplish this, GAIA has located and arranged the purchase of 500 metric tons of gold. This must be a cooperative joint venture of GAIA and the Administration, neither GAIA nor the Administration can do it alone. GAIA intends this to be the first of many such transactions, some of which may be substantially larger.

If the gold averaged 22 carats and the price on the day of purchase were $264 per ounce at an exchange rate of P48/$, the effect upon the national treasury will be the immediate injection of P180 billion of gold reserves, nearly three times what is currently reported to the IMF. If gold reserves have the same multiplier effect in this banking system as they have in others, this will virtually double the liquidity in the system (adding P1.125 trillion), surely a great boon to this Administration at this time.

To purchase the gold, GAIA has issued a DEED OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION to the Holder of the gold in the amount of $5.702 billion (P273.6 billion), which is the amount due at a price of $400 per ounce. The Holder is thus assured that, no matter what might happen to its gold, it will ultimately be paid that amount. The BSP will issue new currency/credit (at virtually no cost) of P144 billion which is immediately available to the gold Holder/Seller and which will be used to begin livelihood projects, benefiting thousands of poor people. At a later time, when the price of gold has risen to $400/oz, GAIA will buy back its DEED from the Holder, paying the second tranche amount of P111 billion.

To enable GAIA to be in a position to make good on its commitment to buy back its DEED from the Holder, GAIA must enter into a joint venture with the Administration and/or the BSP to own 50% of the gold purchased under this program. This can best be accomplished by issuing a DEED OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION to the National Treasury for $5 billion which will achieve several purposes: 1) Provides instant availability of funds to the Administration (through Land Bank and DBP), without waiting for the gold transaction to be completed, 2) Makes funds available for partial early payment to Holder/Seller for security and transportation if government does not assume that responsibility, 3) Eliminates the need of "club loans" or the offshore sale of bonds, 4) Strengthens the national reserves and thus the peso, and 5) Establishes and demonstrates a mutual commitment so necessary to assure other Holders of gold that the program can be trusted so that they can consider delivering some of their holdings.

In preliminary discussions with persons who would logically have the best interests of the nation uppermost in their minds, the only objection to the proposed program is that GAIA "gets half the gold". GAIA finds that a strange attitude to encounter since it is only the GAIA asset that is used to purchase the gold. That asset is a debt of the United States to GAIA, payable in gold. This program will allow this nation to issue new currency/credit, which it desperately needs an excuse to do, at practically zero expense to itself, and for doing that it receives what amounts to a gift of 50% of the gold. Besides, the other ancillary benefits to the nation, once understood, are astounding.

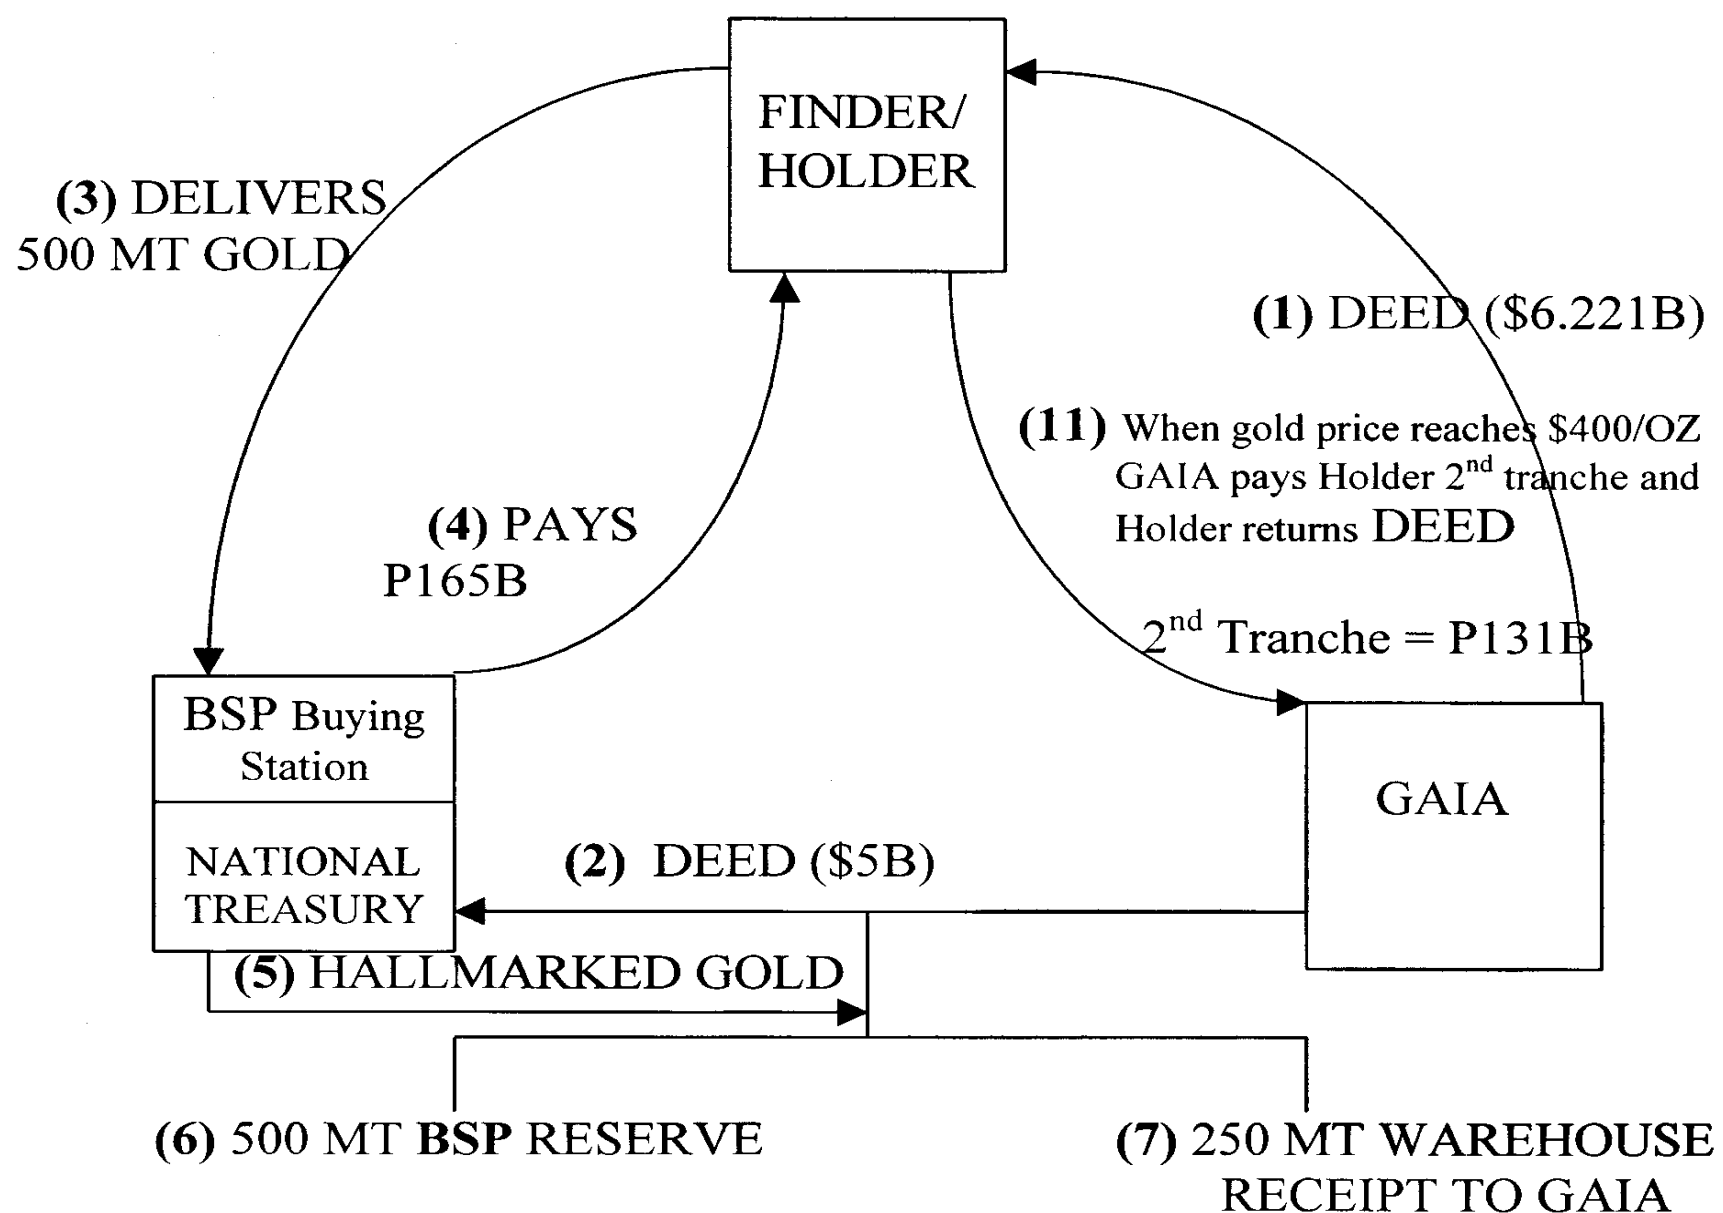

Accompanying this written explanation are a FLOW CHART and a page of computer-generated calculations showing how we derive the numbers on the FLOW CHART. The calculations can serve many purposes and so are redundant in this proposal, so we ask the reader not to be distracted if there appears to be more information presented than is needed.

Finally, we will present some "disclaimers" so that the regulatory and legally-minded readers can find comfort in the fact that we have taken a lot of time and effort not to break any law or to run afoul of any registration requirement. GAIA is neither a gold dealer nor a gold exporter. GAIA does not recommend the exportation of gold from this nation and objects vehemently to the importation of money upon which interest must be paid to foreign entities. Such is not necessary and robs the nation of the opportunity to regain its sovereignty. GAIA offers its DEEDS OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION, which are designed to function as bank reserves based upon gold, in a joint venture arrangement with a qualifying entity for the purpose of enabling, or stabilizing, humanitarian projects and activities. The qualifying entity, as a joint venture partner, is responsible for all licensing, permitting and banking. Further, nothing in this document is to be construed to mean that GAIA is offering either a security or a product of insurance.

GAIA has come to the Philippines in the spirit of cooperation. God has required that we be patient until all of the proper ingredients are in place for success. We do not come from the U.S. Government; we come from the American People, the We The People who have been disenfranchised in the U.S. since 1933. We can work only in honesty and candor—we neither know nor understand any other way. We desire to meet you real Filipinos half way to better the world; we have the "collateral" and the way; you have the gold. Let us work together without suspicion or coercion to create a Win-Win.

JOINT GOLD PURCHASE PROCEDURE

March 22, 2001

INTRODUCTION

The intent of this document is to begin to put to paper a practical program that will result in the joint acquisition of large quantities of gold at very low cost. While the gold primarily targeted is stored bullion, currently mined gold can be acquired in the same way. An unknown percentage of bullion gold is considered “treasure”, which seems to be subject to several transitory and capricious rules and/or laws, most of which have been identified as carry-overs from the Executive Orders issued during the martial-law years. Because these rules and/or laws have been interpreted to the detriment of the Finders, Holders, and Sellers (Holders) of gold “treasure”, those Holders are no longer willing to sell gold to the government, preferring instead to accept huge (as much as 40%) discounts from clandestine buyers willing to take the risk of smuggling it out of the country. Of all of the impediments to the orderly and successful purchase of large quantities of gold, this is the greatest—and should be the easiest to overcome.

It will only require a change in the attitude of government toward “treasure”, a change that is easily made once simple logic is used instead of the ever-present “how others do it”. Others do it wrong, usually for a purpose. To avoid detours and distractions, let us agree that we are considering the purchase of gold treasure and not any other kind. Gold can be used as banking reserves of the very highest quality (when refined and registered); gems, artifacts, and other metals are not so easily identified as reserves and will be excluded from this discussion, please.

Current law mandates that anything found on or under private property belongs to the owner of the property. If a property owner finds a 75-kilogram bar of gold on his property and sells it to the government, he is paid the full current value (approximately P30 million) via a government check. That check gives him money to spend. What does it cost the government? An estimated P80 for the check and the bookkeeping. What if the property owner is really lucky and finds 100 bars? The check is for P3 billion! Now what is the cost to government? It is still P80; the only difference is that the bookkeeper makes two more clicks with the little pinky on her right hand. The government has issued new currency/credit to purchase the gold, which this government desperately needs to do to increase the money supply, and the increased gold reserves can be multiplied at least six times as an increase of liquidity in the nation’s banking system.

What does this have to do with buying treasure? Everything important. It tells us that, instead of confiscating or taxing gold treasure and getting, maybe, 75% and a bunch of enemies, the government can have it all, 100%, for practically zero cost and get a bunch of friends while strengthening its banking system and its currency.

Accomplishing this in a major way should be the greatest pleasure and gratification any dedicated public servant could possibly wish for.

This Introduction would not be complete without addressing another pervasive problem besetting both Holders and miners of gold. The current low price of gold ($260/oz) and silver ($4.30/oz) is being caused by the manipulations of the International Bankers Cartel (IBC) to make gold mining and processing so unprofitable that they will sell their properties and mines to companies owned/controlled by the IBC. As lackeys of the IBC, the IMF/World Bank push for “privatization” and “globalization” are prima facie evidence of this worldwide conspiracy. They already have achieved control of nearly all oil and gas properties and processing/distributing facilities, which gives them a stranglehold on all energy; now they are after the natural resources and cash-generating utilities such as NAPOCOR. As a counter to their low-gold-price technique, Global Alliance (GAIA) proposes that the government and GAIA offer the Holders $400/oz. This will not cost the government anything but will stop the flow of gold offshore while more than doubling the real money in the pocket of the Holders, who will promptly start livelihood projects with the money, thus keeping much of it in circulation where the government most needs it. Most importantly, it will start the flood of gold into our new program at the same time as it preserves our mining industry.

ACTIONS TO TAKE

INTERNAL DECLARATION OF INTENT

To assure the cooperation and active support of all of the agencies involved, the Office of the President should produce and distribute an Executive Order, or like document, enunciating its intent to 1) change the government’s procedure for acquiring gold, and 2) authorize the use, as banking RESERVES, of the GAIA DEEDs the same as other U.S. Treasury debt (which will provide the $400/oz guarantee to the Holders). This document should also make it clear that amnesty and safe conduct for the delivery of gold, in any amount, will be guaranteed by the national police and military. To the extent that it is invited, GAIA is willing to participate in developing the needed documentation.

LAWS

Those laws, rules and/or regulations, and Executive Orders that might impact this program should be reviewed (the BSP will have them all identified) so that any needed changes can be effected.

MECHANICS

GAIA has located several Holders of gold who have expressed a willingness to sell gold at $400/oz. The steps to be taken in sequence are as follows:

1. The Holder and GAIA enter into a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) assuring the Holder of payment of $400/oz in two tranches, the first immediately upon delivery of the gold and the second when the price of gold reaches the target price of $400/oz.
2. The Holder determines the amount of gold it wishes to sell and informs GAIA.
3. GAIA calculates the appropriate amount of the DEED and issues the DEED to the Holder, along with the calculation of the amount to be paid in each of the two tranches.
4. GAIA informs the Treasurer of the details of the transaction and provides to the Treasurer a draft MOA between the Treasury and GAIA establishing a 50/50 joint venture for the purchase of the gold to be agreed to and signed.

5. Pursuant to the MOA, GAIA calculates and issues a DEED to Treasury for an amount somewhat greater than the estimated CURRENT value of the gold. The current value of the gold is the amount that will be paid out in newly issued funds by the Treasury, using the DEED as its RESERVE. (Since the reserves created by the DEED greatly exceed the amount needed to pay the 1st tranche, funds are available to the Treasury as soon as the DEED is lodged and accounted as the asset it is.) The greater size of the DEED is intended as an offset to a likely increase in the price of gold during the transaction, which might require several weeks for transportation and delivery of the gold, and to facilitate the early release of funds to assist in the transportation and security expenses of delivery. Such an early release will be an advance against the 1st tranche and such an order should be countersigned by an authorized officer of GAIA.

6. GAIA shall retain a private assayer to verify to the Holder the quality and quantity of gold actually received.

7. To the extent feasible, payment should be made for gold as soon as it is delivered and its value estimated, with the object being to get funds into the hands of the Holder as soon as possible. Those are the funds that will most quickly move the economy, allow people to return from the crowded cities to the provinces, and relieve the government of the pressure to “do something”.

8. Payments for the gold are divided into two portions, 90% to the Holder and 10% to GAIA. The 10% to GAIA will be paid to the Holder with the 2nd tranche when GAIA repurchases its DEED from the Holder.

9. When the final gold delivery has been made and processed and the final payments made so that the exact amount of new currency/credit issued is known, Treasury will require BSP to issue a Warehouse Receipt to GAIA for 50% of the gold received pursuant to this transaction. So that the value of both the DEED and gold are retained as RESERVES in the domestic banking system, GAIA will either lease its Warehouse Receipt to Treasury, or place it with a domestic bank as collateral for a small line-of-credit—which would give a very large boost to the reserves of that bank.

10. When the price of gold reaches the equivalent of $400/oz, GAIA will pay the Holder the 2nd tranche, which will include the 10% paid to GAIA during the purchasing period. The Holder will then return its DEED to GAIA and the transaction will be complete.

11. The DEED granted to the Treasury to support the transaction will be left with the Treasury to strengthen the national reserves.

12. To summarize: The Holder will have received a fair price, $400/oz without any discount, for its gold. GAIA will have a Warehouse Receipt for one-half the gold for which it will have issued a DEED for twice as much, thus remaining within its 50/50 mandate. The nation, including the banking system, the Treasury, and the BSP, will have increased its reserves by double the amount of gold purchased and will own one-half the gold, all at virtually zero expense.

PLANNING

Making these arrangements in advance so that everything moves smoothly requires serious advance planning. Which agencies/organizations will be involved and who has the authority to bring them together? Is the President the only authority or could this be appropriately delegated to the Vice President? Who will furnish security for the convoys that will be necessary—PNP or military, or other? The smallest transaction contemplated seems to be 500 metric tons. At 10 tons per load, that equals 50 trucks. How will the BSP move the gold after it is delivered to their buying station? Might it be more practical to commission the military to transport the gold to Quezon City in all cases, since it must go there for processing, anyway? What should the cost be per ton per kilometer, and how should it be determined? If the Holder is responsible for delivery to the nearest BSP Buying Station, it would be logical to charge that amount to the Holder and the balance to BSP.

AGREEMENTS

GAIA has created draft MOAs between itself and the Holder and between itself and the Treasury. These agreements need to be polished and made ready for use. Another agreement, between the Holder and Treasury and/or BSP, may also be required. Are agreements also needed for transportation and security services?

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENTS

When the planning is complete and the agreements readied, the nation's President should make a public announcement that, to relieve the economic duress, the nation will undertake a new program of buying gold from its citizens. The announcement should make very clear that amnesty will be provided to all sellers (including so-called rebels); no taxes will be imposed; that the origin of the gold will not be questioned (including “sequestered” deposits), and that the price paid will total $400/oz net of transportation costs to the nearest BSP Buying Station, payable in two tranches, one immediately and the second when gold reaches the target price of $400/oz. This program will be so beneficial to all parts of the economy that the media should handle it as a public service.

SUPPORT

To assure that the program is an ongoing success, an agency should be designated to follow each transaction and report (in a generic way and not to disclose names of beneficiaries) the livelihood projects begun with the money received. Enhancements to the banking system can also be described—the improvement in the value of the currency will be visible enough but its source can be mentioned from time to time.

BENEFITS

The benefits of this program to all concerned are so great that it would require a whole page just to enumerate them, let alone describe them. Suffice to say, please, that the benefits just to the nation are incalculable. If the reports, apparently supported by the satellite maps, are anywhere near correct, the wealth of this nation in gold is greater than that of Saudi Arabia in oil. This program can be the beginning of freeing that wealth for the use of its people, God's people. We urge all Filipinos to join with GAIA to make it so. Filipinos must do it; neither God nor GAIA can do it for you.

GLOBAL ALLIANCE INVESTMENT CORPORATION

April 5, 2001

PRESIDENT GLORIA MACAPAGAL-ARROYO
MALACANANG PALACE
REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES

Your Excellency:

The purpose of this letter is to save your time while delivering the succinct information you need to make an informed decision regarding the use of the Global Alliance program.

This asset is not something new, especially to the Republic of the Philippines. George Bush, Sr. called it the SuperFund. Ronald Reagan dreamed of leaving as his legacy to the world a gold-based currency, for which Ferdinand Marcos furnished the gold and printed the currency, called "ABL" (Ang Bagong Lipunan), and shipped "packages" comprised of P780 billion with 2,500 metric tons of gold bullion (in each package, some nations received several packages) to some 50-60 nations all over the world. Some of those packages are known to still be intact; others have "disappeared". We have no need of those packages and mention them only so that you will know that we know of what we speak.

The "owner" of the asset, Russell Herman, was a high-level officer in the CIA and was sent here in the early '70s to train some of your top intelligence people, came to know Marcos and learned of the large amount of gold here. Herman also became a friend and business partner of Bush, who began using the asset as collateral for large loans to support Iraq and the Contras (with Herman signing the loan documents since he owned the asset). Ronald Reagan was a real American; George Bush is an opportunist out of the drug families going back to the British East India Tea Company. When you know that, you can better understand what is going on between George Jr. and China today. The plan of Reagan and Marcos was God's plan to bring stability and abundance to His people; they did not realize that Bush and his people were on the other side.

For brevity, in 1989 Bush and Herman had a falling out, which caused a serious rift in the partnership of Saddam Hussein and Bush and resulted in the Gulf War. Herman then had the asset, at that time in the form of a Peruvian bearer bond, declared lost or stolen and had it reconfirmed (as not having been redeemed) and then reconfirmed and reissued as a jurat/contract of identifiable ownership to Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing, Ltd., his own corporation, to protect it from theft by Bush. Herman was kidnapped and tortured by the Bush people in 1993 in an attempt to get him to sign over his ownership to Bush. As soon as he could, thereafter, he assigned 50% of the asset to us. He knew us because of our publishing many of the stories of his fellow CIA operatives who refused to carry drugs for Bush and the Clintons and were held in Federal prisons to keep them from talking.

All of this is adequately documented in the newspapers and more than 100 books that we have published since 1989.

The asset was valued by the FED and accepted by the U.S. Treasury in 1989 and we negotiated an acceptable mode of use with the U.S. Treasury in 1996. Because we continued to encounter resistance in its use here in late 1998, we utilized the Uniform Commercial Code (UCC) procedure to finally establish our unequivocal claim, which became effective February 16, 1999. There can be no further dispute of our claim and use of the asset, although we agree with their suggestion that we not issue more than $5 trillion worth of our DEEDs in any one year.

By now you might be asking, "But what does this have to do with me, Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, President of the Republic of the Philippines?"

If we knew God's entire plan, we could answer that question quickly and succinctly. In our service to Him we are asked to have faith that He knows what He is doing. Our response to that advice is to ask that He hold us in His Light so that we are not misled by the Prince of Darkness and Deceit. You are the President of this country, and this country is where we have been sent to begin the establishment of the Alliance. Just as this country had the necessary gold in the time of Marcos, it still does. Reagan's dream is surely not LESS valid now than it was then. The PEOPLE of the world are in even greater need of stability and abundance, which you are in the position to begin to provide. We are past the year 2000 and into God's Millennium; you can be the fulcrum for huge progress and change, or you can hesitate and consult your CFR and Trilateral "friends" and, like Bush and Marcos, be passed over. You are being given the opportunity to be the greatest President this country, or any other, ever had.

On the local, day to day, pragmatic level, you can give your candidates (both House and Senate) something real to talk about. Endorse this now and they will all be elected. Fiddle around and it will be too late.

Peace in Mindanao? More than 750 DEEDs have already been issued there and are waiting for the "go" signal. We know, they will be used to buy arms and ammunition. What stupid self-serving poppycock. The people will eat, first, and revolutions do not survive full stomachs. Then they will begin to root out the troublemakers. Let them have their projects, their dreams, and they will solve their own livelihood and housing problems. We will help you match what they do with infrastructure—roads, power and water, communications, waste treatment, education and health facilities—and not only will you have peace, you will have a productive addition to your nation.

The same is true of the NPA. They have control of a lot of gold. Let's jointly buy it from them, openly and officially—it won't cost a centavo. They will soon be so busy building beautiful communities with their money that they haven't time to ambush your soldiers. Rebellions require poverty. Treat the PEOPLE right and the rabble-rousers will soon lose their voice.

China is a problem? So is the U.S.; they just lie more cleverly and make bigger promises. One or the other will squash the Philippines if you don't establish your sovereignty. God can help with that, but not if YOU waffle. They both want your gold, so you have to use it or lose it. When the RP shows some spunk, you will have Malaysia and Indonesia grabbing your coat tails—and shortly thereafter will come most of the rest of the ASEAN.

The plan is made. The only question now is, will you be the one—or do we have to wait for your replacement? We believe you to be the one—surely your father would have relished the opportunity and we believe you inherited a lot of courage from him. We are willing to meet and work with you to: first, get the gold flowing into the BSP; second, get money flowing to livelihood projects in the provinces; and third, boost the funding for infrastructure projects and wage levels so that corruption is no longer a necessity.

May I ask you for the courtesy of a personal response that you have received this letter? With great respect, I remain:

Sincerely yours,

E.J. EKKER, President

RETURN OF THE PHOENIX

VOLUME I

BY GYEORGOS CERES HATONN

PHOENIX JOURNAL #22 (1990)

CHAPTER 22

REC #1 HATONN

SAT., DEC. 15, 1990 7:42 A.M. YEAR 4 DAY 121

TODAY'S WATCH

I see that you don't allow your soldiers in Saudi Arabia to do "this" or to do "that" and through a "glitch" even the flag patches were removed from uniforms of the U.S. WHAT HAPPENED TO GOD? WHERE HAVE YOU HIDDEN GOD? I note that now your great military leader says the "flag matter" has been cleared up and that the "Saudis don't have any objection, so flags will again be provided!" The plan was to replace the patches, if at all, with UN symbols. However, there is actually so little support from the UN nations that the action was cancelled.

You object to me saying you "... invaded Saudi Arabia to gain control of her wealth!" I regret that you object but I suggest someone look very carefully into the matter. Why does someone not inquire into the testimony of your former U.S. ambassador to Saudi Arabia, James Akins, who presented and proved a PRE-EXISTING PLAN TO OCCUPY THE SAUDI ARABIAN OIL FIELDS, REGARDLESS OF THE CONSEQUENCES FOR THE POPULATIONS OF THE AREA—OR THE CONSIDERATION OF WORLD (AND/OR U.S. CITIZEN) OPINION!!

This very day, there is a stupid and nitty quarrel going on as to who will meet whom, when and where! I suppose 50,000 nice new Christmas Body Bags for America—to help your sagging economy—is apropos?

Does it not matter to you-the-public of the U.S. that the U.S. herself—prompted by England's great leader, Maggie—lured Iraq into occupying Kuwait?

Does it not matter that you, the U.S., stand actually alone in the Middle East? Does the U.S. have the right, as President Bush asserts, to militarily intervene in any area where there are raw materials it considers vital to its economy? Oh, yes, that is EXACTLY WHAT HIS LIPS STATED!

Doesn't this "NEW WORLD ORDER" of President Bush and Mrs. Thatcher dictate the denial of life-saving technologies to all Third World nations, to be exercised through a dictatorship of the United Nations Security Council—of which Mr. Bush intends to be dictator?

Well, I have terrible news for Mr. Bush—Mr. Kissinger also plans to have that little slot to his King-ship!

Can the U.S. justify going to war to restore a ROYAL FAMILY THAT HOLDS CHATTEL SLAVES? Is this what America is all about in these "modern" days of modern living styles and modernized religions?

I suggest, beloved ones, that these are, indeed, important points to ponder

GENOCIDE POLICY

I am going to outlay something which I think you had better consider most carefully as you are bombarded with the false double speak. Let us consider the overall picture behind the mouths.

Bush talks incessantly about bringing Iraq's Saddam to trial for war crimes, as the Nazis were brought to trial at Nuremberg—oh, sorrowful day for "justice". But some of Bush's own friends and colleagues could find themselves on the docks of justice if you acted in justice, first. They are chargeable with the crime of genocide.

For decades, top Elite figures in the environmentalist movement, just to isolate one grouping, like Alexander King of the Club of Rome, have screamed about "overpopulation"; privately, they say that means eliminating Black, Brown, and Yellow "USELESS EATERS" in Africa, Asia, and Latin America. Meanwhile, the U.S. government under Presidents Carter, Reagan, and Bush has carried out a consistent policy of denying technological development to Third World nations.

Bush's shriek that Iraq's Saddam Hussein is developing nuclear weapons (which he already has) becomes a silly support of truth—the component parts for such weapons has come from the U.S., Germany and even cycled through Israel, along with other European countries such as England and France. And what of the Hydrogen Bomb capabilities given into the hands of the Israelis—do you think they want this capability to use for power production?

Well, these little helpless countries have now been completely cut off from all possibility of having nuclear reactors—and thus massive portions of these countries remain without power supply even for purification of water supplies.

In addition, international financial institutions led by the IMF and the World Bank have consistently crippled development programs in African, Asian, and Latin American nations by forcing them into repeated currency devaluations, cutting off their investment in infrastructure, and lowering the educational levels and living standards of the people who are any economy's indispensable use.

Anyone who doubts this truth is in deliberate intent of genocide need only look at America's so-called "inner cities"; many of them look like bombed-out combat zones, populated with the casualties of induced drugs and AIDS. Or do you simply turn your head away and hope the gangs don't move into your neighborhood tonight? If there is no intent to destroy the dark-skinned people, then why is this what is being driven upon the American populace?

IS RUSSIA PURE?

Why you ones continue to bombard me with my possible support of Russia—I suggest that you have not "read my lips". Not only is Russia not pure but is the largest perpetrator of murder upon a populace. Russia has the greatest abortion rate of any nation in your world! Do you actually believe this is in accordance with the Laws of God? I suggest you all stop "reading the insane lips" and start seeing truth!

NOW PLEASE, FOR YOU HAVE ANSWERS FOR TRUTH SPREADING

Please do not take exception to that which I am about to present. We get mail every day—in great amounts with great advice regarding our failure in distribution of truth. It comes in forms of letters as I outlaid two days ago in wondrous intent—but alas, without full understanding.

We KNOW that many do not read! We KNOW that unless something is placed under his nose in prime time under the guise of violence and stupidity, that he won't tune it in. We KNOW that if we can't get it onto the screen, it won't be watched. We KNOW that you think brotherhood of the cosmos should manifest all of that which you need and you can go right on in your misbehavior in your dream-time. Sorry about all those things that we already KNOW!

Yes, something has to be done to bring about these things. Do any of you have any idea of what it costs to simply publish a book? And, how else do you propose we get the original information unto you? WE DON'T HAVE TO CHANGE OUR BEHAVIOR, FOR IT IS ALREADY ACCEPTABLE UNTO GOD—AND WE LIVE IN BALANCE WITH THE CREATION.

I defend my workers in this unit because, as with George Green and my people in this very location—they have, without whimper or expectation, given all they have and borrowed more. They do not live in mansions all paid for—they get by as best they can until you of the populace are allowed the touch of truth. We have ones who work short-handed into the wee hours of the nights and then take up collection to give unto you stamps for the very mailings—and they do it without complaint and along with a collective projection that some of you see and hear and act.

We KNOW what we need to do—but this little Earth group cannot do more. Does this indicate that we do not appreciate suggestions? Oh, no, please, we treasure every tidbit of correspondence or phone connection—even if negative and blasting—for it is the only indication that the word is being received! Please do not think we complain unto you who offer expression and help. We are touched to the very heart by those of you who write encouragement and send gifts unto our people—for the gifts are turned into stamps. We have one who now works through the nights on old equipment—just to get the Expresses out on the same day written, within 24 hours! Then ones gather and volunteer their hands to fold and ready for mailing. I kneel on bended knee unto these precious and faithful ones—who then go into their places asking what more can they do? I want to take this opportunity to thank them, for we have little time to even meet in these pressured days in personal contact—and that must continue, for we must write more and more and more.

These ones are doing to the limit of that which they can in most instances—it is now up to YOU THE READERS AND RECEIVERS OF THIS TRUTH TO SUGGEST AND THEN HELP US. But each is gifted with choices and free-will actions—we demand nothing.

I am humbly touched by my brothers here in the nucleus of the writing. For I have just told my scribe to cut out all social inter-action for both safety and to write at double receivings. This means, dear ones, that the publisher, distributor, and volunteer editors will hardly sleep at all in effort to get this to press. Our press-people work with IOU's which are never paid current—and we must keep them even in secret as to location and label to insure a bit of security. Every Journal brings the impact of open aggression against them and their presses. We put to print out of this state in order to protect the resource.

Please accept that we receive in grateful appreciation, the input and suggestions, and understand that we are doing that which is possible and beyond Earthly production. You ones can only touch on the bare surface that which is brought against our workers in this place—the computers are continually under tampering, the equipment is continually attacked by electronic surges—and now there is dedicated assault against these ones even being able to obtain loans, etc., to continue the publishing.

It should be noted that there has now even been conjured up records from high sources within your government to build a negative dossier on these ones—which, when ones desire to invest (I did not say donate—I said “invest”). You see, God desires that you have return and reward for contribution and gifts from your hearts); the lawyers involved tag the information and present it to the considering parties. If you desire proof of that, I believe we can outlay dozens of instances as proof.

As a matter of fact, the first groups to obtain this information are the surveillance and police groups. To them I suggest that the truth is also for them—I see very few of them bearing tickets to the secure underground in Australia or anywhere else; and human police and agents die as easily as do any other citizens—and frankly, even more quickly if you become a bother to your Elitists. I suggest that the computer monitors of this apparatus listen and watch most carefully—for YOU know the truth of it, better than the other citizens of the world who will receive of it. I further announce as I regularly do, that we have these ones in protection and we are given permission to protect them at any rate. WHO WILL PROTECT YOU?? I suggest you surveillance harassers think most carefully as you go home to your families and consider the plight you are ACTUALLY WITHIN! So be it.

You children of the lie, can turn this thing around only through coming into unified intent to do so. Further, if you keep into the truth and move with the instructions as we will outlay them unto you—you need not get the great hot-foot in the final analysis. WE CAN GET YOU OFF AND INTO WONDROUS SAFETY IN A PREPARED PLACEMENT—BUT, YOU WILL ASK, AND YOU WILL COME INTO THE WORKING LAWS OF GOD AND CREATION TO BE IN ACCEPTANCE ABOARD.

P.S. Any contribution of size is automatically treated as investment—BACKED BY GOLD IN PLACEMENT—IN COLLATERAL RESERVE AT THE BANK. Can the gold be confiscated? Yes, I suppose, but we stay pretty much on top of what is in the planning for imminent action within your government. Then the funds are funnelled into publishing, businesses for food production, earth-material building units, architecture for durable and recession/depression housing, media center and production of information for your T.V. and motion picture theaters—with the central NEW media center for assurance of production and distribution. The first production is in script preparation—so bear with us, we work to the full extent of human ability.

YES, WE NEED HELP! WE RECOGNIZE OUR OWN LIMITATIONS IN THE HUMAN FORMAT—AND WE ARE NOT ALLOWED TO DO IT FOR YOU. SO BE IT. SO BE IT!

Let us return to your PLEIADES CONNECTION.

DECEIVING ELEMENTS

I have already gone through this subject—but I suppose it cannot be presented often enough nor stressed enough, to reach unto you all.

These ones who receive this truth are under constant attack from ones who do not understand, do not even read the information, deliberately attack and are misinformation perpetrators. These bombardments come from all quarters—not the least of which, are religious circles who pronounce contempt against truth. You see, chelas, as you come into truth regarding God and self—the religious cults loose their power over your being! Therefore, they must insist that you not move out of the limitations as laid forth for your information.

As we are writing, for instance, for the direct contact with the one you called “Jesus”, we will receive of mail demanding that we cease the Satanic outlay and “move back into the truth of Christ!” I suppose there might be considered some humor in this—except that it constitutes such “sick” humor.

Now the punch-line, of course, is to openly discount the work. Then comes the “... oh my goodness, this is proving to be truth!”—and the barrage heats up so as not to allow disclosure of the idiot projections of those who did the pronouncing of “LIES” upon the work. In other words, if we prove to project truth—they will be openly accused of deceit and cover-up. This has happened over and over again. It happened in the case of contactee Billy Meier—and the cover-up and concoction of lies continues to flow in a steady stream when practically NONE of the information is in any way connected with Pleiadians nor Billy Meier. False books, false information, false pictures, etc., have flowed like water through the sands to discredit the truths we brought unto that man in original contacts—just as ones barrage against this work as projected in these Journals.

Well, sad facts confront you-the-people of Earth place. It no longer is our problem if you allow discrediting of all this information! Our task is a final one—to give it unto you—you do with it that which you will. Then, we will continue to work diligently and constantly with those who desire truth and transition—and so be it! God gave us commission to “TAKE FORTH THE FINAL WORD”—AND SO SHALL IT BE GIVEN! Salu.

There are perhaps misperceptions and interpretations of our words which can be misunderstood, I suppose. In respect to there being differences in the truths in the way that our explanations and interpretations would correspond with only a “part” of truth in your objections and projections, as would appear, under confrontation with other explanations and interpretations of other “creatures” supposedly coming from outside your world travel to this Earth, and also who are in station thereon—

I suggest you look more deeply into facts. Our truth will not vary one iota from the truth of another “creature” of truth. If it varies in otherwise manners, I suggest you study again the Laws of God and The Creation and check it for self as to WHO might be giving false information.

At this time, Pleiadians are the highest developed creatures who from outside your world travel to your Earth. There is a reason for this, as we have outlaid over and over again. In conjunction with these brothers, come we of the Hosts of etheric stature—the emissaries of God to remind you of truth and allow your awakening so that you might come into understanding and “remembering”.

There are still other creatures penetrating into your Earth space—and some even have bases thereon for the final purpose intended in the higher PLAN. However, there has been a disallowance of further damaging energies in Satanic form from actually coming from the outer cosmos unto your place. The activities are isolated now, into the spaces in and around Earth and nearby moons and planets—as research centers. You are basically isolated and pinned to your planet—does it touch your hearts in sorrow to realize you as a species are unacceptable unto your cosmic neighbors? The evil and Satanic troops are all now working among you in total take-over of your globe—just as outlaid by the prophecies of ancient beginnings. Your “little gray aliens of destructive intent” are creations of your human Satanic construction. God allows no evil to come forth in these days upon your placement—from the cosmos—for it is the time of awakening, transition and reclaiming of HIS wondrous Kingdom.

The brothers and kin of Pleiades represent the highest evolution of human-kind who will be present or approach your planet at this time. Mind you, I said “human”. The etheric beings of higher dimension are of different consideration—and we come in the service of you and ONLY OF GOD. We are come with your humanoid brothers because YOU MUST HAVE PHYSICAL RECEPTION PLACES TO FILL THE NEEDS OF YOUR PHYSICAL MANIFESTATION. WE OF THE HIGHER DIMENSIONAL ETHERIC STATUS DO NOT AND THUSLY WE ARE IN COMMAND—BUT WORK IN TOTAL UNITY WITH THE HUMAN COUNTERPART OF YOURSELVES. I, PERSONALLY, SHALL SERVE WHERE AND HOW I PLEASE—NO MORE AND NO LESS, FOR IN MY HIGHER BEING I HAVE NO PEER NOR HIGHER AUTHORITY. I, Hatonn, CHOOSE TO SERVE AS A PLEIADIAN COMMANDER! Wrathful God? No, a JUST God! A God who allows his fragments to experience in free-will choices! However, a God of discipline and expectation of a return unto His outline of Laws to insure balance and non-destruction of other of His creations—such as a planet and species. Laws are quite suitable for the needs of each placement and each creation—YOU OF MANKIND ARE THE DESTROYERS AND PEOPLE OF WRATH AND VIOLENCE—NOT GOD AND NOT CREATION. IF YOU PERCEIVE PERSECUTION—I SUGGEST YOU TEND THE ATTENTION MORE CLOSELY! I COME IN SERVICE UNTO THAT GOD OF CREATION AND I HAVE BUT ONE ENEMY—THE EVIL OF SATANIC INFLUENCE AND DISREGARD FOR THE LAWS OF CREATOR/CREATION.

We force nothing; we simply bring truth and you will decide that which you will do about it. Cast it aside and move into the darkness in separation from God and Light—OR, move within the Laws and INTO THE LIGHTED AND WONDROUS PLACES OF GOD. IT IS YOUR CHOICE ALONE—EACH INDIVIDUAL, EACH ENTITY!

The next highest civilization behind Pleiades is several thousand years, as you count, behind Pleiadian evolution and you must have help—NOW!

When we transmit explanations and interpretations, from the Pleiadian society, these accord to the highest level of recognition and knowledge and to the highest known truth, which not any explanation and interpretation from lesser developed creatures, under confrontation, could lead towards greater truth—and Pleiadians don't have it ALL by any imagination otherwise!

When matters in consequence that are transmitted to you, it is the highest known truth from them—I hold higher stature and I bring higher truth at this time of cycle, for you, as a species, are about to collectively “thought”-manifest destruction upon your entities and placement.

Your Pleiadian brothers who have brought truth to your world prior to this, brought the highest known truth which they bore and that has been prior to now, given unto you—how many of you have heard and/or read it? They have given you truth within their level of spirit, which also results that in respect to the formerly mentioned deceptive elements, can only be revealed the effective truth. The brothers of Pleiades must remain with that truth as given. If persons doubt their explanations in this matter, they must sooner or later recognize the truth of the words.

Little ones, this includes ones who pretend and speak in worldwide outlay of adventures and contact with human beings of your neighboring planets such as Venus, etc. You have suffered in the pits of deception while deceivers have made fortunes at your expense. I remind you that God needs no intermediaries and ultimately—IT IS JUST YOU AND GOD, MY FRIENDS—JUST YOU AND GOD! I care not what your star-sign is, nor your special “numbers”—IT WILL JUST BE YOU AND GOD AND THE WORD OF TRUTH. GOD IS THE WORD AND THE WORD IS TRUTH IF IT BE OF GOD AND NOT A THING SHALL CHANGE OF IT! 'Tis alright, Dharma, I know, precious, that the mammoth portent of the task is incomprehensible to you—let us not stop now, for thine brethren must be given this Word. So be it, chelas, all of you who recognize not your placement in this final play in revelations. Simply remember: “The Greatest never recognize their greatness and that, dear ones, is what makes them Great!” I touch ye ones most gently in your own awakening to purpose. My wings are large enough to bring shelter to all mine flock! Be it done!

TIME SHALL REVEAL TRUTH OF THE FALSE INFORMATION

It will now become evident to you by your own sciences, etc., that on these other planets and upon your own, that there exist no human creatures of the forms described by deceivers, neither spiritual nor material forms. If our explanations are refused by different Earth humans, then this is of no importance, because the Earth scientists know well—as do all the governments, etc., of your place—that these ones do not exist as travelers from the cosmos; they are only constructed to deceive and mislead you of the Earth-man. The different pseudo-contactees will prove themselves to be deceivers and liars—truth will always stand, beloved ones—always!

For the sincerely interested Earth human, we want to trouble ourselves to give important explanations with respect to the specific planet Venus. Often the Earth's solar system is passed by comets and wandering planets or wandering stars, about which the following is an explanation: Comets appear in different forms; one time as wandering planets and as wandering stars, which by the great attractive powers of other stars and planets, and by suns, are drawn into their sphere of influence. Because of their great speed, they usually rush through the gravity belt and distance themselves again, whereby there is increased friction of the planetary, solar and star forces—and their surface is liquified and loses matter. This matter often forms itself as a very long tail behind the fleeing comet. From solar energies, etc., the emitted particles then become visible as a shining “tail”.

On the other hand, the so-called “empty space”, is not empty, because it is alive with innumerable particles and other things, which by the constant friction with the wandering planets, stars, etc., cause their tails to shine. Yet there exist, besides the comets, the veil-like cometic bodies.

Comets, in general, have rather eccentric courses, and circle, like the system's planets, around the sun, but upon very much larger courses. These systems' comets develop themselves normally at first near the Sun with their impressive long tails, which often can be many millions of kilometers long. But truly gigantic comets are quite rare, for which reason the greatest number of all comets is not perceivable by the naked eye.

Dharma, stop NOW. The computer is destroying the information—and I do wish to finish this subject in this portion. Please just begin another document.

CHAPTER 23

REC #2 HATONN

Only the really great and rather close-to-Earth comets are perceived by the mere eyes of the Earth-human. The average comets are nothing more than small and very weak sphere-shaped clouds of light without tails. But of this sort of comet are innumerable ones. The veil-like comets are the most frequent ones, and they possess three main characteristics: They are surrounded by a veil coma, without or with inner central densification; then the core and then the tail. The forms of the coma can be very different: elliptical, round, or drawn out in any direction. The central densification appears that way, that the coma becomes brighter and more compact on the inside.

The core itself forms a brightly shining zone and embodies the essential comet, which can measure a few hundred meters in diameter up to many thousands of kilometers, while the total diameter of the comet's head, measured together with the coma, amounts often to many hundred thousand or even millions of miles.

Each, from the sort of comet and the influences, consists in the tail of dust particles or of forms of gas, mineral substance (from which, for instance, we glean substances), or of all these particles formed together. Tails of merely gas, keep themselves within much closer dimensions than do the dust particulate tails, which only appear in greater brightness and these are tenuously enormous.

The system-connected comets have very long elliptical courses which extend themselves very far out into the cosmos. These courses lead very often half way or even more, into other systems, until they begin their return flight again towards their originating system. But the courses can also run so far that the way may pass through one or several systems and the path becomes longer accordingly. Because of the great distance of these courses, the comets often require multiple decades of years before they return to their home systems, while on the contrary, system-wanderers, comets which fly about through different systems, hold orbiting times of many hundreds of thousands of years. Like all planets, so also are comets subjected to the laws of gravity, thus they also form their courses accordingly.

These different courses and their lengths of cycle are decisive for changes and occurrences in the differing systems of stars and suns, even as such occurrences and changes are only rare.

In less detail I have already spoken on the subjects outlaid herein—and have pointed out that your solar system partners in the form of planets have in most instances suffered the same cycles as has Earth—only to end up at the destruction of the very life-forms aboard. When you have topography which can only be created by water—on a planet which appears to have no moisture but, rather, temperatures of incredible degree—it is truth before your eyes. If your own atmosphere ignites—and fails to blow apart your planet orb itself—there goes Earth!

BACK TO VENUS

This comet explanation is to allow movement into explanation regarding Venus—wherein at this time no human life runs about and plays upon her surface. Millions of years past, a huge, dark star destroyed half of a planetary system many light-years distant from your solar system. After the destruction of that distant system, the wanderer rushed out to the widths of the Universe—and took up its course towards Earth—where it was forced by the great planets and the Sun into a new orbit which, in consequence of that, brought it on again and again into your system. I suggest you pay very close attention to this lesson, for it has great impact on your very existence—that same comet continues its cycling.

At that time, it was recognized by a label handed down through the Oral Traditions as “the destroyer”; it followed its new course and produced for itself in the course of millions of years, a stable orbit to some extent—but with these travelers, there is never “permanent stability”. This course led the destroyer uncontrollably close to stars and other systems, and on to other wandering stars and comets, which were by its own gigantic size then forced out of their own orbits or were attracted by its gravity and were for all practical description—kidnapped.

This happened only a few thousand of your own years ago, when this immense destroyer drew an object into its gravity and course and led it over many millions of miles toward the Earth's solar system. This comet, now of immense size, passed very far outside the reach of Earth gravity—but the object trailing in its gravity field passed dangerously close to Earth and evoked great catastrophes.

The whole of your solar system was plunged into disorder and chaos at that time and all its planets were pushed into new orbits. This represents massive destruction, dear one—MASSIVE! THE NEW OBJECT DISTURBING THE HARMONY WAS FORCED BY THE GRAVITY OF THE GREATER PLANETS AND THE SUN INTO A COURSE BETWEEN EARTH AND WHAT YOU HAVE LABELED MERCURY, AND WAS UNABLE TO LEAVE THE SYSTEM. That orb, being the brightest and most reflective planet of Earth's solar system, circles since then around the Sun and is called by the Earth humans "Venus".

I might add herein, that we choose the very orbs for our orbiting "anchors" of tremendously large craft placed between you and the orb. We can function in full visibility without any of you taking note to any extent at all—the astronomers know we are there but the information is not allowed distribution. So be it.

These events, where Venus was held by the Earth's solar system, happened almost four thousand or so, years ago. By the events of the time, Venus was guided into a very quiet course, for which it has one of the least eccentric orbits. This is the essential effect of that ancient close passage to Earth, by which the rotation of Venus was also influenced. By the gravity of Earth, the rotation of Venus was slowed and it started rotating in the opposite direction [retrograde]. And in effect of the very short time of passage through Earth's gravity, the rotation of the slowed planet was not able to increase itself, for which reason it attained an extremely long time for only one rotation, and maintains from that time the slowest rotation time in your whole solar system.

Since then, one day in your counting on Venus has a duration of approximately 117 Earth days, while the time for rotation around the 30-degree inclined axis of the poles amounts to some 243 Earth days.

By the gravity of Earth, Venus was robbed—in its flight those thousands of years ago—of its own rotational energy, and there arose a very great heat of friction. And this frictional heat is also the cause of the physical conditions which presently reign on Venus—not having been destroyed in the same manner as other inhabited planets originally having life-forms.

When we refer to bases on a given planet, we speak of what you would call satellite bases—or platforms. We do not speak of typical life-forms as humans as you recognize your species. There is no physical life form able to sustain in those physical conditions which presently are in reign on Venus. The physical conditions alone show the falsity of all those who would affirm that human life exists on Venus—much less some great voice and/or contact from beings based on that placement. If ones come from Venus—they do not come from the surface thereof. God does not alter natural laws of physics. The physical conditions alone show the falsity of all those who would affirm that human life exists on Venus itself. The matter thereof is completely outside the frame of natural chance, because the environmental conditions on Venus' surface and the atmosphere are absolutely deadly to human creatures or any of the other conjured forms of life as presented unto you. Any forms on such a placement would, of necessity of existence, be etheric in form—oops!

The surface temperature of Venus—as measured by gauges at a depth of some 32 kilometers—is presently registered at 457 degrees Celsius in your language; yes, we can measure quite definitively and travel through the atmosphere quite comfortably, for we are entirely self-contained. We utilize much material from such star entities.

This is also the reason why all the water of this planet has turned to vapor and forms the very thick stratum of clouds. That also produces an atmosphere so dense that the pressure at an accepted sea level is some 334 times higher than of the air on your Earth. Interpreted in your scientific terms, the atmosphere of Venus is also a danger to the life of human creatures, because it consists by volume of 87% carbon dioxide, while the percentage differs in some places. There are life-forms in other places which can handle an extreme level of carbon dioxide—but not on Venus, dear ones. You have, however, invited in some of these very beings who came to assist you with your increasing levels of carbon dioxide—and you simply incinerated them for their goodly efforts to respond to you. Oxygen exists at present in the lower stratum in only some 4.23%, and nitrogen and rare gasses are reported to be 55.47%. Water vapor is very rare, indeed, and the atmosphere is considerably greater than that of your Earth. The actual pressure of the Venus atmosphere is about 107-110 times greater [MM: Read GCH's clarification on page 14 under "SEA LEVEL?" regarding the perceived contradictory atmospheric pressure differentials discussed in this paragraph.] than the pressure of your Earth's atmosphere. This is also a matter which is very hostile to human forms—or any life-form for that matter. By this tremendous pressure, human forms of life would simply be squashed to indiscernability and destroyed as trash in a compactor. Even metallic forms suffer the same fate. In explanation, I wish to reveal herein that we have found on Venus, Earthly apparatus, which by the immense pressure of the atmosphere of Venus was completely squashed and damaged even before reaching the surface of that planet. Therefore, all subsequent bases are set up outside the atmosphere and simply identified as Venus bases. Russia, by far, leads the pack of your nations of Earth in dumping debris all over the landscape of Venus in various degrees of "squashness".

Venus has a magnetic field of very low measurement, and also what you call the "Van Allen Belt" is expressed very low, in consequence of which what you call the "solar wind" factor is not screened to any extent at all. They must be regarded as well the very high temperature, which injures the belt. But also the lack of water has its consequences in nourishing the hostility against all life-forms of the planet. From the event of those thousands of years ago, the planet is at present in the first phases of recovery and restoration. Slowly, over the course of millenniums, natural conditions for life and forms of life of the most primitive kind will begin to develop, as those are usual on each emerging life-developing world. Thus, for even the most unreasonable one, it is evident that we are dealing, in the case of Venus, with a planet that is making its first moves within the status of ability to produce and sustain life. Eventually, it will be housing life-forms and even human.

With regard to the planet itself, it must be explained that—especially in its equatorial regions—it is very flat with structured relief regions far away. Concerning the temperature, day and night sides are nearly equal, while there are great differences in the strength of the wind between the lower and the higher regions. At the surface itself the wind is still, and first develops in the higher regions. At still higher regions the winds increase very much and reach velocities of some 117 meters per second [262 mph]. The lower level of clouds exist at about 43.17 kilometers above the surface, but this can vary because of atmospheric storms, pressures, etc. This is especially likely over those regions where the winds are pressed downwards and reach the surface and blow against the mountain, which themselves reach heights of 2.3 kilometers on average.

The climate and structural weather are, on the whole, very constant on Venus but, nevertheless, show certain differences. Thus it is that human life on that planet is up to now still impossible if not accorded technical means for survival in great protection.

In this sense then, mentioned by deceivers, no life, in fact, exists on Venus as projected by would-be "channels" and authorities on metaphysical and "New Age" stages of disinformation. There are other forms of life which do exist thereon, but there can be no manner of comparison between these and human life-forms. The planet is still extremely wild in nature—and it could not be otherwise in the natural evolution of only a few thousand years. For example, look unto your "Moon", as when you look at it you have nearly a copy of the Venus which presents itself below the thick stratum of clouds. You have, effectively, a created imitation Moon, dear ones. When we, or other forms of life, go to Venus, which is rich in different minerals and other materials, it is only possible for us by using highly specialized protective gear to function in any manner—that hardly indicates that you humans of Earth technology romp around in your sun-suits tossing out words of wisdom to your Earthbound brethren.

Our protective gear is most sophisticated, indeed—and, furthermore, we do most of our exploration from aboard ship. Great protective measures must be taken to preserve the life-form from the dangerous influences of the Venusian atmosphere, the great heat, and as well, in regards to the differing forms of poisons and gasses which move as deadly clouds over the planet. Because the planet is subjected to certain differences, we must also take this into consideration, as for example, for different locations where the temperature increases to more than 500 degrees CELSIUS directly on the surface, and where also the values of carbon dioxide, of nitrogen, helium, argon and neon gasses change values; while also the atmospheric pressures differ between 88 up to 107-110 atmospheres (AT) [14.7 psi per AT].

These are, therefore, the basic explanations which I have to offer in respect to the ability of human or similar to human life-forms existing on the planet Venus. If I had to describe other planets of your Sun system, then by regret also, there I would have to refute at different planets the deceptive information of certain elements and substitute for it the real truth, because other supposedly inhabited planets of your system contain no such forms of human life at this time—either. Depending upon the reason for this loss of life-sustaining format, there is often great histories of great civilizations having at one time lived, as well as you of Earth, upon their orbs. There are, however, bases on some of your planets in your system put there by some aliens and some of your own peoples. Russia, has by far, the most advanced abilities in that direction, than any other nation on your own orb.

So what of the information coming from so-called dependable “channels”? I have no further comment—DO YOU WANT GAMES AND MYSTICISM OR DO YOU ALLOW THAT TRUTH MIGHT SERVE YOU FAR BETTER? SO BE IT. BUT YOU ONES HAD BETTER TAKE NOTE OF THAT DANDY COMET WHICH DROPPED OF VENUS INTO YOUR SYSTEM—IT’S STILL RIGHT ON COURSE!

Let us close this segment, as it has grown far too lengthy.

I hereby move to stand-by. Hatonn to clear, please. I do further ask that you not mistake my own identity and/or service. My attachment is with one recognized as ATON—and it will serve all my brethren to hold that closely in your hearts! Saalomé and Salu.

Please remove yourselves from this placement the remainder of this day. It is not safe, as this subject is most unwanted in circulation. Get away and allow us to tend of the electronics in your absence. Thank you.

CHAPTER 24

REC #1 HATONN

SUN., DEC. 16, 1990 6:20 A.M. YEAR 4 DAY 122

TODAY’S WATCH

Good morning, in the Light of Radiance. Hatonn at ready.

Rather than “watch” this day, I shall simply give you ones a thing or two to ponder and then we will effort to finish this beginning dialogue regarding Pleiades.

You desire to argue about my terminology of “invading” and “occupying” Saudi Arabia. Yes, that is exactly what I said. Why do you think your major banks are going to arrange to fail and/or have their subsidiaries fail? I knew you knew; go back to the investment programs set up by the Middle East Oil Producers—to gain control of the money, the banks HAVE TO FAIL! (See SPACEGATE, THE VEIL REMOVED.) If you nice citizens have to lose everything you have worked for, so be it! There has to be military “occupation” because the countries are not going to LIKE the news that the U.S. and World Banks have stolen all their money and the only thing that will save those Royal Rip-Off leaders who sold out their countries and the U.S./World Banks (Cartel) is military presence in such massive manner that no one dares make a peep about it. Do not expect your troops home soon no matter what comes off in Iraq. I told you long ago that this would happen because there would be some hangings in those countries when the masses found out what the leaders have done. These nice high-level coalitions are the bacon-saving measures.

You have allied with the most dastardly leaders on your planet—including Saddam. Come now, you don’t really believe it is JUST a disagreement over days of meeting to “negotiate”. There are many things at play here—but money and oil money are the point. Money and world domination through total force.

IRAQ

How can you as a people denounce Iraq for not meeting Mr. Bush’s schedule of non-meeting. Mr. Bush, Mr. Baker, Gen. Powell, etc., etc., have announced to the world that there will be “no negotiations”—the meetings are simply to give Iraq no alternatives except to meet Mr. Bush’s demands! Now, Mr. Bush wants those demands announced on his schedules—what would YOU DO? I am very serious! WHAT WOULD YOU DO? What ARE you doing? What ARE you parroting? IS AMERICA REALLY ACTING IN REASON? WHY ARE YOU OVER THERE?

HELP

Why do you think your UN nations are not actually paying the money for support of this adventure? They have not paid even a fourth of that which the U.S. pronounced as “each one’s portion”. Why does not Japan give more participation, “Because Japan receives over 70% of her oil from the Middle East”? BECAUSE, DEAR HEARTS, IF THE U.S. GOT OUT OF THE MIDDLE EAST, THEY WOULD HAVE ABSOLUTELY NO SHORTAGE OF FUEL AND THE PRICE WOULD HAVE REMAINED QUITE MODERATE! WHO DO YOU THINK YOU FOOL WITH YOUR “I AM THE GOD OF THE WORLD” ATTITUDE—YOU AMERICANS WHO HAVE TO HAVE SPECIAL RECIPES FOR FAT REDUCTION TO KEEP YOURSELVES FROM OVERWEIGHT? I promise you—overweight is NOT a big problem for most of your world! Neither will it be a big problem for you ones very soon now—a morsel of food will be precious indeed.

GENETIC ROBOTIDS

I have actually lost some readers because I announce that many of your leaders are replicas. I intend to enlarge on that subject but we have sequence problems here. We can only write as much as my scribe can handle—so please, do be patient.

I will, however, ask Dharma to reprint a paragraph from one of your own news publications. U.S. NEWS AND WORLD REPORT: Nov. 19, 1990, from an article regarding the DEATH OF A NATION (RUSSIA) entitled “The Last Hurrah”: I suggest that you pay attention to terminology in several respects within this statement from a Jewish journal, VESTNIK, by Viktor Yakushev, a member of the group, Pamyat. He denounced “... ‘Zionists/Masons’—as bio-robots, programmed for self-destruction. This is a scientifically proven fact, and we have arrived at such evidence through experimental means. In addition, 6 to 8 times more Zionists are...”.

I simply remind you—THE SOVIETS HAVE LONG HAD THE CAPABILITY AND THEREFORE, THEY SHOULD KNOW! You of the citizens of this world have no idea of that which you are up against and most will make death transition never having known. So be it. Please allow us to continue on our original subject, chela. Science Fiction? Oh, you should be so fortunate! It is NOT fiction, dear ones.

MEANWHILE, BACK TO PLEIADES CONNECTIONS

I suggest you spend some of your time asking God to request to the nice Pleiadians not to abandon you to your foolishness—for they have the right to do so if you continue in your hostilities unto them. They have the prerogative of simply picking up their brethren on your planet and moving out and watching the rest of the show unfold. So be it, for I would hope a word to the wise might be received as given. God, the one you recognize as the Messiah (Christ) and the higher energies will NOT abandon any of the entities of their own—I suggest you re-read your books! NO EVIL SHALL BE BROUGHT FORTH INTO THE KINGDOM OF GOD, FROM EARTH! We are in the process of telling you explicitly and emphatically that which will be acceptable behavior and that which will not be acceptable. You continue to confuse idiotic mysticism, false teachings and BS for truth. We care not which you choose—but to get off of that planet in physical form and transfer is going to require a return in intent at each soul vortex—unto the LAWS! SO BE IT! We will continue to outlay how it really is, and then you will be in the deciding where you want to put your little tootsies and assets.

You ones keep efforting to place finite limits on everything and then turn about and make your own foolish rules of acceptable behavior against the very thing that allows you infinite and unlimited potential. Strange, indeed, are you Earthians. There is NO limit or “end” to the Universe—you only have “barriers” of various energy separations, of Universes which comprise various aspects and conglomerates.

George, for instance, personally ponders what I outlaid a few days ago regarding the entity, ASKET, whom I announced was from the DAL Universe. This is simply recognized as another universe of another polarity opposed to yours, which counterbalances yours in manifestation. Ones from that vortex arrived prior to the Pleiadians in this time of encounter to prepare some of the earlier contacts for the Pleiadian contacts which would be coming shortly—and now, here they are! The Pleiadians and the DALs have been in contact in association on projects of various kinds with each other for a very, very long time.

Contactees are ones from past experiencing with beings from the various aspects—they come and function on your planet specifically for contact purposes, although this is not readily recognized until just prior to need of service. You of this group desire to go back and use Billy Meier’s contact with our brotherhood as a guideline. It is difficult, for so many things came to change the situation as is the case if the opposition can pull down or discount the contact. Billy was not a Pleiadian in last passage—he was a DAL(ian) and having lost ability to inter-relate to the DAL(ians) got into great trouble with credibility. You see, the first contacts, even though they worked totally in conjunction with Pleiades Command, were not considered threatening to the Elite—it was anticipated that B.M. could simply be discounted as a “nut”. When Pleiadians entered the picture, the entire scenario changed, for that was to be the big event of truth-bringing—and the discounting and discrediting had to be pushed into high gear.

It is not separation in the Universes as such, for Pleiadian ancestors and YOURS, come from a common heritage, descended from the refugees, if you will, from the great sun-system—some of whom fled at one time to the Pleiades, some to the Hyades—oops!—and a number of other places where they found hospitable planets in their escape from destruction. Oh, yes, human entities have a hard time getting the point! But in the ending, the point shall be thoroughly gotten and the lessons of behavior—well-learned!

You of Earth must stop efforting at discounting receivers from this dimension by errors we might pronounce as regards things such as names, labels and attitudes of various planets, systems, etc. For instance, allow me to give example: “IHW-HATA”—what does this mean to you?? I thought not! It is what we call that energy polarity system which is translated into “The Eye of God”. As we scan your astronomical books, we find that you refer to this “Eye of God” as being with a constellation called by you, “Lyra”, and you call it “The Ring Nebula of Lyra” or, in more mathematical identification—“M-57”. Now, the next thing is always for you ones to say, “OK, but give me explicit distances and miles and light years and absolutes!” Why? You would not know whether or not I speak truth. If you have nothing upon which to compare or relate—you have been given nothing! You ones will learn to stop asking me for explicit information, for I shall be lessening input of specifics as we move along—explicit information will be given through mind reception and transmission—that which will be technical information. This is the intent of this mission: security whereby several will hold portions of most critical survival and transition information—and ones shall be pulled together to share these portions at the proper sequence of events. You will not need magic formulas from space. So be it.

While we are close to the subject of travelers, let me clarify a point of contention used as a discrediting point against the Billy Meier material. It has been claimed that the one, Semjase was actually a woman seen about the city—and was assumed a model. No, Semjase made frequent jaunts into the city for various reasons—Munich being a frequent point of contact with other contactees who still remain silent witnesses and busy workers.

SEA LEVEL?

Oberli, in monitoring yesterday’s writing, had a most logical question: How could Venus have a atmospheric pressure of some 107-110 ATs at one statement and then at “sea level” have a pressure of some higher than 300% more than Earth? It is a difference only in the way you measure vs. how we measure altitudes, for instance.

You can’t know altitudes exactly, for you start from the reason-based premises of that which appears to you to be a starting point from which to measure. For instance, your scientists count the height of a country or of a given mountain, in “meters or miles or feet above the level of the sea”. What a foolish starting point. The starting point for all measurements must be from the center of the planet, which never changes. This is because planet forms are not exactly round, but tend more towards an ellipse shape. For another example, let us say that you say Mount Everest is the highest mountain of Earth, then this is correct only so far, with respect to your sea level. But in truth it is around 2,150 meters less high than the highest mountain of your world. When you measure Earth mountains, then the center of the planet is decisive, and measured from that point of reference, you will see, the highest mountain of Earth planet is NOT Mount Everest. Pressures also vary greatly from one perceived altitude to another, just as you have great pressures at the bottoms of your oceans—so, if you have no oceans, you have great pressures increasing as you move toward the center of the planet.

OTHER VISITORS?

We are further developed forms of life, and no longer are able to move in such levels of mind perception as do Earth beings. This is not a pretentious point on our part, but simply a Law of Creation. It is the same with all forms of life; also with Earth humans. They, as well, are no longer able to move within still lower, to them, levels, thus they are not able to integrate in any manner with lower beings. The concept would be insane. To adjust to all tasks in the existing Laws of Creation, each world creates—according to its level of evolution—one or more creatures of advanced development through whom necessary facts may be transmitted. These higher developed creatures have been called “Prophets” on Earth who, unfortunately, in their times, were almost without exception persecuted and pursued—which condition still has not changed. And because this is the way it is, there is no necessity or intention to make ourselves further known to all ones.

Besides us, there are still other extraterrestrial intelligences who move in the Earth realm, but who are in uniquely different positions in evolution than are you, and who are sometimes advanced over Earth humans by only a few centuries. These creatures may thus come into contact with Earth humans and reach total integration. Because some of these intelligences are not much developed beyond Earth mankind, they may behave like “Commanders” and such, and more advanced creatures may actually participate with humans of Earth to prevent evil consequences.

Some Earth humans do have real contacts with such extraterrestrials, and others take such reports and elaborate them with fantasy, thus creating new stories. There also appear lesser developed intelligences who thirst for command and want to keep the scepter over Earth humans and, conscious of the affinity for religions on Earth, they learn to apply them for their own purposes. These advanced, let us refer to them as negative (for lack of better description) beings who would manipulate the human populace are, indeed, clever and, being advanced in technical knowledge and abilities, are able to influence and direct your own species. These ones have become great menaces to Earth man’s development—for they are basically destroyers. Earth man can begin to better sort out the tools of these ones by observation at times when wars and catastrophes befall them. The powerful leaders of Earth at this time are unconsciously, or consciously, or in absentia, led totally astray by such intelligences.

To understand the relationship of Earth beings and your cosmic brothers, you must use logic and the gift of true reasoning deduction processes. I’m sorry, chelas, but the stories you have been given are simply not even logical and, furthermore, they form a mystical aura about God and Creation which is absurd. Why do you have to couch God in mysticism when there is none? The wonders of the Universe are so magnificent—why require it to be mystic and magic?

Specifically, extraterrestrials or star-people, whatever you desire to call your cosmic counterparts, are very much like you. Knowledge and “WISDOM” are superior to yours, as well as technology—no more and no less—each moving through experience. Space and time are not overcome by space and time—BUT BY SPACELESSNESS AND TIMELESSNESS, which means that space and time collapse into one another and become equally directional to zero-time. By that, a few fractions of a second are enough to rush through billions of light-years, practically without loss of time, because the zero-time neutralizes space and time simultaneously. We do not even need to discuss “etheric” beings at this point, nor thought transference—good old space and time will do nicely.

Many deceivers pretend they are in contact with other planetary human beings of your solar system, and even having flown with or in their ships. That is nothing more than false, as most of the stars (planets) indicated are so desolate that human life is no longer possible on their surface or, as with Venus—the star itself is not old enough or evolved enough to sustain life-forms of human. It is most unfortunate that the contacts which might well be valid are discredited by lack of understanding of the truth by the receivers themselves. Of course, this is the total intent of the base energies efforting to control your planet.

Our mission is to alert you to the presence of the deceivers and warn you of your declining ability to reverse your negative path. These are not “little gray aliens” from somewhere “out there”—they have become real and incarnate beings with intent for control and destruction of your planet as you know it. THAT is NOT mystical.

The time of conflict with these energy forms is coming in imminent experience—and you are, by great numbers, at disadvantage if you are IN truth and just behavior. You have become dominated by evil intent and actions; your human spirit is greatly underdeveloped; and the lessons of false teachers continues the decline of the overall.

Above all, there remains but ONE that possesses the power of life and death over each creature. This is the CREATION alone, which has laid its laws over ALL. Laws which are irrefutable and of eternal validity. The human being can recognize them in Nature when he troubles himself to do so. They expose for him the way of life and the way to spiritual greatness, embodying the goal of life. While the human indulges in his religions, and by this a heresy, he pines more and more away in spirit, which finally leads to a bottomless pit—abyss.

The human being may recognize that a God can never take over the part of the Creation or destine the fate of a human being. God is NOT the CREATION, but as well, only a creature of it, like all Creation-dependent creatures. But the human being hunts for his religious wrong beliefs and affirms God being the Creation ITSELF. He goes even further and pretends a normal Earthman by the name of “Immanuel”, who is also called the “Jesus Christ”, is God’s “son” and the Creation itself. Still different sects of the new time go on to maintain these same things, which already approach total delusion—and the stories get more and more wild in presentation.

It is pathetic for, as already mentioned, deceivers also walk in the same direction and put out incorrect perceptions and total lies unto the world of man—that your cosmic brothers and sisters from other planets of the cosmos would come at the “order” of God (with whom they actually mean that one, “Christ”) and integrate into one element of definition, those “beings” with that of THE CREATION. This is total bunk! Ones misproject and attempt to allow you unthinking and seeking humans to believe such trash. There are ones who come with the cosmic brothers who do attend these matters of higher dimension and are a higher integration with The Creation. These ones come in attendance at this time with the higher teachers in preparation of return of God upon your place in order for the reclamation.

The CREATION itself gives the commands, dear ones, in ultimate measure, because IT embodies the greatest power in the Universe, and never is in need of commands or silly religions. Religion is only the primitive work of human beings, in purpose, quite frankly and honestly, to lead them into suppression—for exploitation—to which only spiritually deficient life can fall.

Our further mission at this time is to bring this Truth to the light of the world and make it known. If this does not happen, then mankind will slowly destroy itself and fall into complete spiritual darkness in separation from God and Truth.

God is one thing, Creation another—it is the total lack of balance with the Laws of Creation which has brought you down. The Laws of Creation as given unto the human species are presented by God of Creation as guidelines by which you can remain in balance and harmony with that which IS The Creation—and you have broken and rewritten them all to suit your lustful, greedy and very base human desires. So be it.

Dharma, this is a good place to break off this Journal, for we have reached the number of pages beyond which the readers will not even “begin” the Journal. THE TIME IS AT HAND WHEN YOU MUST NO LONGER LOOK THROUGH THE EYES OF THE CHILDISH FANTASY. IT IS TIME TO COME INTO MATURE UNDERSTANDING (AS THE CHILD WITH CURIOSITY AND OPENNESS) INTO TRUTH—FOR THE CLOSING OF THE CYCLE IS AT HAND. SAALOMÉ

I realize this information is a bit difficult to swallow and perhaps two doses of the medicine will go down the easier? Please be in relief as you come into understanding—it is far easier to believe, change and meet the need of that which is “REAL” than to continue in the lies and deceptions of those who would simply deceive and mislead you by their false projections. God and The Creation are totally balanced and very logical, it is time you see Light instead of hazy, mystical aberrations.

May we walk together in brotherhood through this wondrous journey called “life”. I extend my hand—who will accept of it? Salu.

ISRAEL BEGINS GROUND WAR IN GAZA

World Tribune.com, 4/11/01

GAZA—Israel has launched a limited ground war against Palestinian targets in the Gaza Strip.

For the first time, Israeli troops entered the Gaza city of Khan Yunis and destroyed Palestinian Authority military positions and nearby homes.

Palestinian sources said about 100 troops, backed by tanks and bulldozers, were involved in the Israeli operation overnight Wednesday.

Israeli military sources confirmed the operation. They said the aim was to destroy a PA military post that was shelling the nearby Gush Katif bloc of settlements.

“What happened last night was clearly a defensive operation,” Israeli Defense Minister Binyamin Ben-Eliezer said.

Palestinian sources reported that two PA officers were killed and another 20 were injured in the fighting. The sources said this was the first time Israeli military forces operated openly in territory controlled by the PA.

The overnight Israeli raid capped a day of tit-for-tat attacks in which Palestinians fired mortars at Israeli settlements and the Israeli military responded with anti-tank fire. On Tuesday, the Israeli military destroyed a PA police station in the northern Gaza village of Bet Khanoun by anti-tank fire. One Palestinian was killed and another 20 were injured.

Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon was on the outskirts of Gaza during the attack. “I have a very clear plan,” Sharon said. “This will be implemented and security will return. But we need staying power and patience.”

Israeli military sources said deputy PA security chief Col. Rashid Abu Shback is responsible for the mortar attacks on Israeli positions.

In Washington, U.S. President George Bush again called for an end to the mini-war. Bush said the end to violence is required before any resumption of peace talks between Israel and the Palestinians.

Palestinian sources said the PA is training thousands of recruits in five training camps throughout the Gaza Strip. The sources said the training is meant to stop an Israeli military invasion of the strip.

[JR: Israel claims her incursions are not to reconquer Palestinian lands but to create a wider buffer zone between the Jews and the Palestinians. To increase the buffer zone for one group you have to move out the other group. Guess who gains more land and guess who has less? Sharon and his predecessors built these illegal settlements to do just that and to use this issue to induce violent reactions by the Palestinians. President Bush is wrong to insist that the violence must end before the peace talks are continued. This works out well for Israel who has no plan to concede anything to the Arabs but a small plot of land with six feet of dirt or sand over them.]

ISRAEL OPENS FIRE ON GAZA BASES

By Alan Philps in Jerusalem,
The Telegraph—UK, 4/17/01

Israel warned its Arab neighbours yesterday that the “rules of the game have changed” after it launched its most serious raid on a Syrian military target in Lebanon for almost 20 years.

Syria denounced the “aggressive policies” of Ariel Sharon, Israel’s Prime Minister, saying it reserved the right to defend itself. A spokesman in Damascus described the air raid—in which three Syrian soldiers were reported killed and six wounded—as a “dangerous escalation that could destabilise security and stability in the region”.

The region was rocked by further violence last night when Israeli helicopters and ships fired missiles at bases of the Palestinians’ Force 17 security unit in central Gaza. The attack came hours after Palestinian mortar bombs fell on the Israeli town of Sderot, three miles from the Gaza Strip. They caused no casualties or damage, military officials said.

Israeli forces also raided Beit Hanun, an area under Palestinian control in the northern Gaza Strip, destroying Palestinian border police positions with bulldozers. At least 20 Palestinians are said to have been wounded in the attacks.

Washington led calls for restraint, saying it was time to end the “cycle of violence in the Middle East”. Israel said it launched the raid in retaliation for the killing of a soldier on Saturday in a cross-border missile attack by Hizbollah, the Lebanese Shia Muslim guerrilla force financed by Iran and backed by Syria. The Israeli government has blamed Damascus for not reining in the guerrillas since Israeli forces withdrew from Lebanon last May.

In a statement later, Hizbollah threatened to strike at northern Israel with Katyusha rockets. “The Islamic resistance knows when, where and how to strike at the enemy with painful blows,” it said.

The Israelis’ target was a Syrian radar installation near the Dahr el-Baidar mountain pass, about 20 miles east of Beirut. It was the first Israeli attack on such an important Syrian installation since the Jewish state invaded Lebanon in 1982. Until last year’s withdrawal, Israel staged almost daily attacks on the guerrillas. But the Syrian army—which has 30,000 troops in Lebanon—was never the primary target.

The Israeli Defence Minister, Benjamin Ben-Eliezer, said: “The rules of the game have changed. We sent a message to the Syrians that we see them as the only ones responsible.” Mr. Sharon’s spokesman, Raanan Gissin, said no one should underestimate the new prime minister’s determination.

He said: “Regarding the Syrians, there will be a need for them and for Hizbollah—and for the Palestinians, by the way—to reassess the situation vis-a-vis Israel’s preparedness, readiness and determination to respond.”

The conflict between Hizbollah and the Israeli army is over the Shebaa Farms, a disputed patch of grazing land on the borders between Lebanon, Syria and Israel. When Israel withdrew from Lebanon, the United Nations ruled that the area was not Lebanese territory, but Hizbollah has not accepted this.

By continuing to wage a sporadic war, Hizbollah is fuelling opposition within Lebanon to the Syrian presence there. Christian Maronite leaders are openly campaigning for Syrian troops to follow the Israelis and pull out of their country.

The Israeli raid presents the young Syrian leader, President Bashar al-Assad, with his first major military challenge. However, it is not clear what kind of military response could be forthcoming as Syria's armed forces have been no match for Israel's since the collapse of the Soviet Union which used to supply them with arms.

Despite outrage in the Arab world over the Israeli attack, Jordan's Foreign Minister, Adel-Ilah al-Khatib, went ahead with a visit to Jerusalem to promote an Egyptian-Jordanian peace initiative. The plan calls for a timetable for a final-status deal between Israel and the Palestinians. But the hawkish Mr. Sharon has said he is interested only in a non-belligerency pact. He is refusing to evacuate any Israeli settlement on occupied land.

[JR: If the rules have changed, the gloves are off and the iron fist is now the declared policy of Israel, who is going to stop Israel's aggressive acts in Lebanon and Syria? For weeks Israel has been sending out these threats and no one has cautioned her to cool her hostile rhetoric. She can bomb and destroy Palestinian towns and villages to revenge the death of one Israeli soldier or to protect "sacred Jewish settlers". If the Jewish people continue to support the aggressive Zionist policies of Sharon and Ben-Eliezer they lose the respect of those who wish them peace and good will.]

PERES: ISRAEL WILL CONSIDER JORDANIAN-EGYPTIAN PROPOSAL

By Herb Keinon, The Jerusalem Post, 4/17/01

JERUSALEM—Jordanian Foreign Minister Abdulilah Khatib yesterday formally presented Israel with the joint Egyptian-Jordanian proposal to reduce the violence and restart negotiations, a proposal Foreign Minister Shimon Peres would only say Israel will "seriously consider".

"We need to study the proposal," Peres said at a press conference the two held after meeting at Jerusalem's King David Hotel. "We appreciate the efforts to put out the fires, also from the Arab side, so that we can return to negotiations."

Peres said he told Khatib that Israel will honor signed agreements if the other side does the same, but that issues that were not agreed upon in the past cannot be included in any document, because they still need to be negotiated.

Khatib, who also met with Prime Minister Ariel Sharon and Defense Minister Binyamin Ben-Eliezer, almost canceled his visit because of the raid on the Syrian radar installation in Lebanon. He was convinced to go ahead with the visit, however, after a lengthy phone conversation with Peres.

Khatib characterized his visit as "a mission of peace", saying that he came "in an effort to lift the closure on the Palestinian people, to end confrontation, to create the right conditions that will allow Israel and Palestinians to get back to the negotiation table to continue their negotiations for a comprehensive settlement that would guarantee the national rights and independence of the Palestinian people, establish an independent state in the Palestinian territories, and also provide security for the Israeli people."

Peres said that this is the fourth version of the proposals, and the first one that was put in writing. The proposals call for both sides to take steps to reduce the violence, for a number of confidence-building steps to be taken by Israel, and for a deadline of one year to be set on reaching a final-status agreement.

Spokesmen for Sharon have said that any proposal that sets a deadline and does not call for an end to violence before negotiations can begin is a "non-starter".

Khatib said that there is no "security solution" to the current situation, only a political one. "The use of force will not provide any sustainable permanent solution," he said.

Khatib said that the two-page proposal that he presented includes ideas that "deal with the ways and means to build confidence between the Israeli and Palestinian sides, and open the way toward the resumption of negotiations that will conclude in a permanent comprehensive agreement."

The Prime Minister's Office issued a statement following Sharon's meeting with Khatib, saying that the Jordanian foreign minister "emphasized his hopes that the conditions will be created for a resumption of the negotiations with the Palestinians. The prime minister once again reiterated his commitment to peace and the restoration of security to the citizens of Israel, and that Israel would honor any agreement that was signed and ratified by the Knesset and that is totally implemented by both sides."

Sharon, according to this statement, said: "Our government will not negotiate during violence and terror. The responsibility for bringing about a cessation of the violence and terror rests with the Palestinian Authority. After the terror is halted, Israel will be pleased to commence negotiations for a diplomatic settlement between it and the Palestinians."

Sharon also stressed the importance of Jordan as a "stabilizing force in the region and noted the importance of the relations between the two countries."

Khatib said that Jordan, which has not had an ambassador here since October, will only dispatch one "when the situation improves, when the closure is lifted, when our Palestinian brethren are not subject to use of military power by Israel, and when we get back to a viable peace process."

One diplomatic source said that Sharon and Peres were careful not to discuss the proposals in depth with Khatib, so as not to be seen as "negotiating under fire."

The question of whether anything will come of these proposals depends on whether or not there is significant reduction of violence, the source said, a few hours before the mortar attacks on Sderot and the gunfire on Gilo.

Meanwhile, the cabinet was briefed yesterday on the security situation in the territories by General Security Service head Avi Dichter, who reportedly said that Mohammed Dahlan's Preventive Security Service in Gaza is now a terror organization.

One senior political official said that what emerged from the briefing was a feeling that there has not been a serious attempt by the PA to prevent terror, nor has there been any significant drop in terror since a resumption of high-level security talks earlier this month.

The issue of arms smuggling to the PA from Egypt was also raised at the cabinet, with Sharon saying that a message on this issue was passed on to the Palestinians.

Lamia Lahoud adds:

West Bank Fatah leader Marwan Barghouti

denounced Khatib's visit. "Khatib should not have come, and no Arab capital should welcome any member of this government," he said.

He dismissed the Jordanian-Egyptian peace plan as a waste of time. "I don't believe this government is ready for a peace settlement," he said. [JR: Israel says no restart of the peace talks until the PA stops the violence. The U.S. parrots the same message. The UN, the promoter of peace (?), stands ever mute on this growing crisis. Jordan's attempt to rekindle the peace talks will be ignored by Sharon and his fellow terrorist Ben-Eliezer. Their policy is to escalate the war with the Arabs and to genocide or remove all Palestinians from the occupied lands. Both Sharon and Ben-Eliezer have made public statements to this fact. Sharon and his Knesset weren't elected to bring peace to Israel but to create a bigger Israel. Guess whose side the U.S. will fight on?]

ISRAEL: U.S. OK'D MISSILE SALES TO CHINA

Virtual New York, 4/15/01

TEL AVIV, ISRAEL (UPI)—Israel sold China an undetermined number of Python-3 air-to-air missiles but did so after obtaining U.S. consent, an Israeli source told United Press International Sunday.

The issue came up following the release of pictures of a Chinese fighter plane flying in close proximity to a U.S. Navy spy plane. The photos show the Chinese aircraft carrying an Israeli Python 3 missile underneath its fuselage.

The Python-3 is an Israeli-manufactured third-generation short to medium range missile capable of cruising speeds up to Mach 3.5.

The Israeli Defense Ministry's spokesman Sunday declined comment on the picture, insisting that "as a matter of principle" Israel does not reveal information on its arms sales.

A source told UPI on the condition of anonymity that Israel had sold the Python 3 to China three or four years ago, after receiving U.S. consent.

The missile did not pose a threat to the U.S. Navy EP-3 surveillance plane, as the American aircraft was equipped with countermeasure's technology, the source said.

[JR: Well so what—if Israel sold the Python-3 missiles to China. She got the okay to do so from our Israeli-run Clinton White House and that policy won't change with the Bushites. Israel can deny, lie or refuse comment but it won't alter our protectionist policy towards Israel. If those missiles come back at us it won't matter to her as long as Americans are targeted and not the Zionists who run Israel, the U.S. and the UN.]

CHINA: LEVERAGING THE CRISIS

STRATFOR.COM, 4/11/01

The agreement between China and the United States for the release of 24 detained crew members of a U.S. spy plane ends an 11-day standoff China hopes will gain it political leverage and technological know-how that can be used against the United States.

Despite the crisis at home, Chinese President Jiang Zemin has continued a tour of Latin America aimed at enhancing China's geopolitical influence in the region, the declared zone of U.S. national interest.

Jiang has attempted to use the standoff to demonstrate China's strength and confidence as he looks to expand Chinese trade and investment in Latin America and build support for China's accession to the World Trade Organization.

China's dispute with the United States is expected to help make gains in Latin America. But China's detention of a U.S. EP-3E, loaded with some of the most sophisticated reconnaissance equipment in the U.S. arsenal, can give its military a technological leap forward, as well.

The plane could provide China with substantial technological gains, helping Beijing learn how to hide its military activities and giving it knowledge of how to monitor other militaries' movements and gauge their motives.

Such technological know-how could propel China toward its goal of being a major conventional military power in the region.

The technology found aboard the EP-3E could give China electronic capabilities that would have taken years for it to develop on its own. The plane's systems, designed to detect and classify a wide range of electronic signals, could help China block its own emissions.

The EP-3E also has some of the physical sub-hunting characteristics of its predecessor, the P-3 Orion, which could be highly useful in China's efforts to operate its submarines far from the mainland without detection....

Beijing has tried in the past to garner the support of other developing nations by using ideological and military means of influence. In using economic incentives, China's government is taking a different approach in its attempt to become the leader of the developing world.

On this tour, no military officials are traveling with the president's entourage. Instead, the entourage consists of economic officials and civilian diplomats, suggesting Beijing sees expanded business ties with Latin America as the main diplomatic weapon in its goal to establish geopolitical leadership in the developing world.

Beijing understands the Chinese example cannot lure the developed countries of Western Europe, Japan or other regions. But developing countries are another matter. China is trying to portray itself as the world's largest developing nation, one that could serve as a model for other developing countries....

In essence, Beijing seeks to establish a counterweight against the United States' global economic and political power, not by challenging it militarily but rather by coordinating global resistance....

All six countries on the tour are willing to acquire investments from China, strengthen economic and trade relations and support China's entry into the WTO, based on Xinhua interviews with respective foreign ministers. More than 20 agreements on trade, investment, education and sports will be signed during the tour.

China mainly buys raw commodities from Latin America and exports products like textiles, footwear and some computer components. Bilateral China-Latin America trade increased 52.5 percent in 2000, totaling $12.6 billion overall but representing only 3 percent of China's total trade.

Jiang's visit is likely to be a success. The current standoff between the United States and China will probably help China promote its geopolitical influence in Latin America.

But Beijing has a long way to go before it can truly compete with Washington there, given the strong U.S. security presence on the continent, the heavy influx of imports from the United States and with Latin America counting for only 3 percent of China's total trade.

[JR: If we still have our reconnaissance satellites operating in space, why do we rely on spy planes to keep tabs on our enemies? If it is our supreme right as a world super power, then we have to expect that a mishap may occur that could trigger a world crisis. The Chinese regard us as arrogant and feel we should be challenged. Despite the positive spin on the return of our people, we did lose a plane and a bit of our pride. The Chinese are watching and waiting for another incident, but in the meantime they are going about making friends and influencing our neighbor countries in the Americas. This is also another way to gain access to our U.S. free trade zone through NAFTA.]

ISRAEL PLANS WATER PIPELINE FROM TURKEY

By Anthony C. LoBaido, WorldNetDaily.com, 4/12/01

Mediterranean conduit could thwart serious crisis in Jewish state

NICOSIA, CYPRUS—The nation of Israel—which is running out of fresh water and, some estimates say, will run completely dry within 10 to 15 years—has struck an agreement with Islamic Turkey to provide water via a pipeline through the Mediterranean Sea.

In a maverick deal with Turkey, a nation with whom Israel has established close military ties, Israel would receive fresh water from its cross-sea neighbor. Turkey is rich in water resources and is currently building a series of dams that will give it control over the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers—the cradle of civilization.

The water would be transported through a pipeline laid under the Mediterranean Sea, pass through Turkish-controlled northern Cyprus and then on to Israel.

The agreement brings to play several international issues of contention in the region, not the least of which is Turkey's control of northern Cyprus. If the European Union gets its way and Turkey withdraws from that area, the fate of Israel's [water] lifeline likely would be in jeopardy.

In 1998, Turkey and Israel began discussing the possibility of an undersea fresh-water pipeline from Turkey via northern Cyprus to Israel. Turkey is blessed with rivers that already pour huge amounts of fresh water into the sea, so the only thing needed to make Israel a fresh-water superstate in the Middle East is to build the underwater pipeline.

By necessity, the days of water largess for Israel—whose per capita water use is the highest of any nation in the region—are rapidly coming to an end. Israel's Hydrological Service issued warnings that the country's water reserves are in danger of becoming salinized aquifers, above-ground reservoirs are at a dangerously low level, and that Lake Kinneret is only 85 centimeters above the "red line."...

Lake Kinneret, more commonly known as the Sea of Galilee, is a huge fresh-water lake in northeast Israel and is 696 feet below the level of the Mediterranean Sea. The lake covers an area of 64 square miles and is approximately 144 feet deep at its deepest point. If the water level of Lake Kinneret drops even further, however, irreparable harm to the lake's ecosystem could occur. Consequently, Israel will be hard-pressed to share any more water from the lake with its neighbors, much to Syria's dismay.

If Israel and Turkey complete an undersea pipeline, Israel will become the major fresh-water source in the Middle East. With such water sovereignty established, her Arab neighbors likely would be forced to make peace with her. There can be no doubt that the water issue will be an integral part of any regional peace plan.

Countries like Indonesia, the Emirates, Cyprus and others are already exploring the importation of water. A new company called WaterBank acts as a meeting place and brokerage site for bulk water requests and sales....

The cost of the bulk water is significantly lower than desalination. Saudi Arabia indicates its cost of desalinated water is 70 cents per cubic meter. The new northern Cyprus desalination plant reportedly produces water at $1.26 per cubic meter. The International Desalination Association is predicting costs of 50 cents per cubic meter by 2005.

Turkey already delivers water by tanker to the breakaway state of northern Cyprus and wants to sell Manavgat River water to Malta, Cyprus, Crete and even its own metropolis, Istanbul. It has held talks on selling water to water-poor Jordan and says water from the Manavgat could make a "peace bridge" for arid Mediterranean countries. Jordan has said that importing Turkish water via Israel is too expensive.

Until the water pipeline is completed, Israel plans to purchase Turkish water that will be transported by more traditional means.

"We have declared that we can sell water to whichever country needs water, regardless of its language or flag," said Cumhuriyet Ersumer, Turkey's energy minister. "It looks like Israel will be the first country to buy Turkey's water."

Israel has previously purchased water from Turkey. It was the first major commercial transaction involving water between two Middle Eastern countries. Israel is obliged to supply water to Jordan under their peace treaty, and Syria has supplied water to Jordan, but these are not commercial deals.

Turkey has long planned to sell water from its southern rivers to Middle Eastern countries and says the precious commodity can help an Arab-Israeli rapprochement. It is offering Israel water from the Manavgat River, where it has built a $147 million water purification and treatment plant.

According to Turkish government sources, a contract will be signed shortly after Turkish officials purportedly agreed to reduce the original price of 23 cents per cubic meter by 5-10 cents, not including transport and purification costs. The agreement would allow Israel to import 50 billion cubic meters of water over a five-year period from the Manavgat plant, and Turkey is said to have submitted price offers for five-, 10- and 15-year contracts.

Israel's ambassador to Turkey, Uri Bar-ner, said the purchases would be "for several years". An official from the Israeli delegation has stated that Israel planned to buy 50 million cubic meters a year.

"Israel needs 2 billion cubic meters of water annually..."

Ram Aviram, a water official from the Israeli foreign ministry, said that an Israeli delegation had visited the purification plant to confirm that it conformed with Israeli environmental standards.

"We are very impressed with the Turkish side of the water operation," Aviram said after the visit.

Ersumer said Turkey would deliver the water at floating loaders mounted off the coast at Manavgat and that transportation would be handled by Israel....

Turkey has spent $150 million on a terminal it built at the estuary of the Manavgat River, located on Turkey's Mediterranean coast. This water would be transported to Israel in two tankers, each with a capacity of 250,000 tons, from Manavgat to an unloading terminal that would be built south of Ashkelon in Israel. The water would then be transported by a pipeline that would be built to the Neguhot reservoir south of Kiryat Gat and integrated into the national water system....

While the Israelis continue to examine their options, Jordan has just announced that it will begin water rationing. Although Jordanian officials have stated that Jordan's long-term plans include water purchases from Turkey, current plans for the importation of Turkish water via Israel are too expensive. Previous reports suggested that Israeli government studies for importing Turkish water included Jordan and Palestine in the project. Israeli government officials, however, have stated that this is not the case.

The Infrastructure Ministry of Israel says that importing Turkish water is less feasible than other alternatives and more expensive. It estimated the cost of imported water at 77-99 cents per cubic meter, while the cost for desalinated seawater would only be 60-70 cents per cubic meter.

In support of the argument for self-production, Water Commissioner Meir Ben Meir has said that no quick decision should be made on importing water because such an alternative entails relying on foreign sources. Other groups, including the ultra-orthodox Shas party, have opposed the tanker shipment project and purchase of imported water.

One U.S.-led and two French-led groups are proposing a string of desalination plants, each with a 50 million cubic meter production capability per year. This amount is equal to 10 percent (200 million cubic meters) of current Israeli needs....

Paul Michael Wihbey, a Strategic Fellow at the Washington office of the Institute for Advanced Strategic and Political Studies has spoken out on the Turkish and Israeli water partnership.

"If Israel is going to import water from any source, there is no better source than Turkey, since Turkey is a friend of Israel. I think the argument that Israel would be strategically dependent and therefore vulnerable is not a valid argument," he said.

"By using a strategic resource like water, countries could bind together to advance common regional goals, economic development, political stability and reform. Water can be a basis for promoting a regional system between countries....

Wihbey added, "If the Syrians get control on the Jordan River and on the lake, it means they control the flow of water that makes up a large portion of the Israeli water supply, and of course the Syrians can do what the Russians do with gas and oil, which is to exercise leverage, make extortions and demands, or take actions that can disrupt the flow. The Syrians wanted to establish the border along the Jordan River by splitting the river into an Israeli and Syrian side and would like to extend Syrian sovereignty to parts of the Sea of Galilee, which in addition would give the Syrians legal claim into the lake. As a result, the Syrians would be able to control the flow of water and the water supply of the Golan, which provides 40 percent of Israel's total water needs. This matter has tremendous political consequences for any Israeli government. Imagine for Turkey, if Turkey had 40 percent of its water supply being controlled by Syria or Russia."

Ari Noam Levy, a Mossad intelligence agent based in Paphos, Cyprus, told WorldNetDaily, "Control of the Euphrates and Tigris Rivers is one of the keys to strategic dominance of the region. I have read in the book of Revelation of how "the Kings of the East" with a 200 million-man army will enter the Middle East after "the Euphrates has been dried up". I can't say I understand Revelation very well. I am a Jew, not a Christian. But even I have to admit, with the advent of Turkey's new dam system and the Mediterranean freshwater pipeline, this prophecy is now, for the first time, possible and even probable."

[JR: The restriction, stoppage or control of the flow of water in the Middle East should not be based on Israel's needs alone. If she gains that advantage she will use it to conquer her neighbors and bring them to their knees, begging her for their right to exist. If the Book of Revelation was written as a plan to give Israel the right to rule, then we'd better question such rights and such plans. She has not earned that right and God/Creator/Allah loves all His people. God wants all His people to be happy and to live in peace—not just the Jews. God plays no favorites. THINK ABOUT IT!]

TURK MINISTER WARNS OF HARDSHIPS

By Louis Meixler, star tribune.com, 4/14/01

ANKARA, TURKEY (AP)—Turkey's economy minister Saturday warned of more hardships as he announced an austerity program that called for cuts in government spending, a cap on hiring and reforms of the ailing banking system.

Some 10,000 protesters took to the streets in Istanbul on Saturday, demanding that the government resign amid economic chaos that has led to mass layoffs and rising prices.

The release of Kemal Dervis' economic program comes some eight weeks after the Turkish lira began to plummet, falling some 40 percent against the dollar and triggering skyrocketing interest rates, business failures and some 500,000 layoffs.

"We will all tighten our belts," Dervis said. "We won't be in a better situation in the next three months. Compromises are required, but there is no need to be pessimistic."

Observers say that with the political opposition in disarray, Turks might have little choice but to back the austerity measures.

"Even if it is not good, we have to accept this program and everyone has to support it," said Sarik Tara, head of ENKA Holding Co., one of Turkey's largest construction companies." Turkey's emergence (from the crisis) "requires solidarity".

Dervis said Turkey will slash government spending by 9 percent and freeze public hiring, except in the fields of health, education and security.

Salary raises for public sector employees will be limited to the inflation rate.

Turkey's economy will likely shrink by 3 percent this year, Dervis said, but grow by 5 percent in 2002.

Inflation is expected to reach 57.6 percent this year, but is forecast to drop to 16.6 percent in 2002, Dervis said.

State banks, which have accumulated $20 billion in bad loans, will be reformed, branches will be closed and workers will be offered retirement packages.

International lenders such as the World Bank and International Monetary Fund have been calling on Turkey for years to carry out such austerity measures.

Dervis said Turkey needs $10 billion to $12 billion in foreign support, adding that by next week it should be clear how much money Turkey will receive.

The program does not address some key issues, such as a target exchange rate with the dollar, and Dervis said additional economic details would be released in the coming days.

Prime Minister Bulent Ecevit pledged his government's support for the program. Dervis called two weeks ago on the government to pass 15 key economic laws before Sunday, but had to push that target date back three weeks. The government has only passed two of the laws, and many analysts have questioned whether the government has the will to carry out harsh economic measures that may alienate key constituencies.

"We're supporting this program sincerely and with determination," Ecevit said. Long years of grave economic and social problems can be overcome with the solidarity and sacrifice of our people."

But many people are angry at the cutbacks and blame government corruption for the economic turmoil.

In Istanbul, protesters chanted "Resignation!" and "Dervis Go Home!" as hundreds of policemen stood watch. Dervis had been working in Washington as a vice president at the World Bank before he was asked to return to Turkey to help manage the economic crisis.

Officials banned demonstrations in Ankara and 20 other provinces after some 200 people were injured in clashes at a Wednesday demonstration in the capital.

"What is in the program: price hikes, price hikes, price hikes," said Enver Civelek, a taxi driver in Ankara. "I can smell more hardships."

"Everything is upside down," said Abdullatif Sener, a lawmaker for the opposition Islamic Virtue Party. "The shrinking of the economy means unemployment, it means poverty. He is basically saying we will continue to destroy the small businesses, the civil servants, the retirees."

Opposition parties, however, have been tainted with charges of corruption and past scandals, and have been unable to rally support against the government.

[JR: Turkey is in deep economic troubles, with skyrocketing interest rates, massive business failures, 500,000 laid off and those with jobs being held to inflation-rate wage increases; inflation is expected to reach 57.6 percent this year. They were warned but, as in the U.S., people just didn't want to believe it could ever happen until the bottom drops out and drastic measures have to be taken just to survive. Good times were had by all, but when corruption prevails and state banks accumulate an excess of $20 billion in bad loans, it becomes time to pay the piper. The burden of corruption and mismanagement of the State falls on the people which will struggle and suffer the losses while those actually responsible are not held accountable and have their fortunes protected in foreign bank accounts in U.S. dollars.]

35 NATIONS SIGN ON TO GADDAFI'S UNITED STATES OF AFRICA DREAM

By Peter Goodspeed, National Post, 4/10/01

War, poverty, AIDS

likely to hamper United States of Africa

Muammar Gaddafi, the Libyan dictator, has a penchant for big causes.

For decades, he was a leading advocate of Arab unity, calling for the creation of a Pan-Arab state. Then he earned international notoriety as the chief paymaster for revolutionary Islam. Now, the former army colonel wants to become both a founding father and leader of the U.S.A.—the United States of Africa.

According to the Libyan newspaper As-Shams, 35 African nations have ratified a treaty calling for the creation of a United States of Africa.

If just one more African state signs on to an Organization of African Unity resolution sponsored last year by Libya, Colonel Gaddafi's proposal for a continental confederation loosely modelled on the European Union may be a step closer to becoming a reality.

"All we need is the ratification of one more state before we can officially announce the union," Ali Treki, Libya's Deputy Foreign Minister, told the newspaper.

But the plan still has a long way to go.

Once two-thirds, or 36, of the OAU's 53 countries agree, the 40-year-old OAU is to open formal negotiations to transform itself into a new regional grouping of states to rival other international groupings such as the European Union, the North American Free Trade Agreement and the League of Arab States.

Debate on the unification proposal could get underway in earnest as early as July at the next OAU summit in Lusaka, Zambia.

Col. Gaddafi has been pushing a plan that calls for an African confederation headed by a Council of Heads of State, with a pan-African parliament, a central bank, a Court of Justice and a single continental currency.

Ultimately, the new confederation would eliminate boundaries and create an overarching Pan-African state, forever burying Africa's tragic experience with state sovereignty and the narrow nationalism of the nation-state.

In a continent ravaged by war and disease, burdened with debt and struggling with constant turmoil, Col. Gaddafi has promised Africa greater cohesion and unveiled a grandiose dream of a huge, powerful, borderless African state to rival Europe, Asia and the United States.

He has also strategically used some of Libya's $10-billion a year in oil revenue to bolster support for his idea among the smaller and poorer African states, through widespread foreign aid programs and by going so far as to pick up the OAU membership dues of 10 small impoverished states.

For two years, government propaganda billboards in Tripoli, which used to promote Arab unity and Islamic fundamentalism, have been boasting: "We are so proud to be Africans." And Col. Gaddafi, generally referred to in Libya as "the great leader of the revolution," has quietly adopted a new unofficial title—"mayor of Africa".

But while Libya's plans have been endorsed by such countries as Togo and Burkina Faso, Africa's more powerful nations, such as Egypt, Nigeria and South Africa, have all expressed deep reservations with his proposal.

Some countries, like Nigeria, fear attempts to create a new pan-African union will derail regional economic and political co-operation initiatives. Nigeria already wields significant regional influence as head of the Economic Community of West Africa (ECOWAS) and has taken steps to unify currencies in West Africa, while trying to liberalize trade in the region.

South Africa enjoys a similar dominant position and leadership role in the Southern African Development Community (SADC), while Kenya, Uganda and Tanzania have been trying to revive the East African Community, which collapsed in the 1970s.

Among the countries that have ratified Col. Gaddafi's vision are Gambia, Cape Verde, the Central African Republic, Chad, Equatorial Guinea, Ethiopia, Lesotho, Madagascar, Malawi, Mali and Niger.

Talk of a pan-African union has been around for decades and first surfaced during the immediate post-colonial era, when Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Julius Nyerere of Tanzania first strove to create the Organization of African Unity in 1963.

But talk of unity has always been more symbolic than real, as the continent has been racked by wars, ethnic bloodshed and religious divisions.

Africa has 33 of the world's 48 poorest countries, faces the fallout of an AIDS pandemic and has civil wars raging in 20 of its 53 countries—all crises that will complicate any hopes of a union.

[JR: Col. Gaddafi's vision for an Africa without borders is an idea whose time has come. Why shouldn't this huge continent be united and be governed by leaders who will serve Africa and its people and not be corrupted by foreign influences. Neither the U.S., nor the EU is committed to address the needs of Africans and do not have immediate plans to include Africa in their New World Order map. Once this North African treaty of unity is created and established, South Africa will have to reconsider her position and move to declare her freedom and independence from her European masters and controllers. Our Elite rulers are prone to underestimate the will of the people and our own War of Independence from England was proof of such thinking.]

BEHIND THE HEADLINES

By Lev Gorodetsky,

Jewish Telegraphic Agency, 4/16/01

MOSCOW (JTA)—The weekend takeover of Russia's only independent, nationwide television channel by the state-owned natural gas monopoly Gazprom is being seen here as a crackdown on free speech.

The NTV channel had been the property of Vladimir Goussinsky, the former president of the Russian Jewish Congress—leading some Russian Jews, who flocked to demonstrations in Moscow protesting Gazprom's "coup" against NTV, to worry that a crackdown on the Jewish community might also be in the offing.

"I don't sympathize with the NTV fat cats, including Goussinsky," said Yevgenia Krukovskaya, a Jewish university student.

"It is well-known that some of the top NTV people are former KGB officers," Krukovskaya said in a downtown Moscow square full of NTV supporters, expressing a widespread belief. "But I am going to this demonstration because I understand that if they are closing down this independent channel, they are closing down the freedom of speech and democracy—and after that, as usual, they will crack down on the Jews."

As if to support her misgivings, a group of middle-aged women a dozen steps from Krukovskaya carried posters reading "Close Down the Zhids' TV Box" and "NTV People—Servants of Israel."

An elderly man harangued passersby with the argument that Jews have plundered Russia and that NTV is a platform for Zionists.

Some of the thousands of pro-NTV demonstrators quickly tore down the anti-Semitic posters.

But the small group probably reflected the feelings of many thousands of Russians who viewed NTV as a mouthpiece of Russian Jewry.

Gazprom, NTV's main creditor and shareholder, said it took over the station to improve the channel's management and recoup some of the $200 million to $400 million it had lent NTV. Still, the move has been widely understood as having political connotations.

"There is much more here than a simple business deal gone bad," said Mark Levin, the executive director of the Washington-based NCSJ: Advocates on Behalf of Jews in Russia, Ukraine, the Baltic States & Eurasia. "This clearly goes into the issue of whether the government is going to allow an independent voice in the media."

NTV sharply criticized the Kremlin's war against Muslim separatists in Chechnya, and during the last presidential election in 2000, it supported Vladimir Putin's rival, liberal Grigory Yavlinsky.

Soon after Putin became president, the Kremlin launched its campaign against Goussinsky, who fled to Spain and is now fighting Russian attempts to extradite him to face embezzlement charges.

Sources say that if Moscow's extradition efforts prove unsuccessful, Goussinsky will move to Israel, where he owns 25 percent of the Ma'ariv newspaper and has a substantial stake in the country's mobile communications market.

He also is reportedly financing a new Russian-language Israeli TV channel, which could allow him to become a major player in Israel's huge Russian community.

Some Jewish observers believe the takeover has dashed the hopes of Russian Jewry to become a major player in Russian politics.

Both Goussinsky and Boris Berezovsky, another Russian media tycoon with Jewish roots, had played such a role.

Unlike Berezovsky, who had himself baptized but never tried to hide his Jewish roots, Goussinsky took a leading role in the Jewish community.

Another Jewish umbrella group, the Federation of Jewish Communities of the Soviet Union, reportedly is considering entering the political fray. But sources say the federation's political activities depend on the personal relationship between Israeli-based diamond tycoon Lev Levayev and Kremlin official Alexander Voloshin – and that Voloshin's influence is weakening.

Meanwhile, the latest developments have brought long-time foes Berezovsky and Goussinsky closer. Many of the NTV journalists quit the station after the takeover and, with Goussinsky's help, are trying to create a new independent channel at Berezovsky's TV-6.

"We are very different people, although of the same ethnicity," Berezovsky said. "But we managed to cut a deal and joined forces at a critical juncture."

[JR: I find it revealing that this Jewish news article names the Jews and their Jewish connections in Russia, while the Russian news sources do not. So how can NTV, which was run by Jews, have been the only honest independent TV station in Russia? The news outlets owned and operated by the false Jews worldwide censor and control all the news and information we see or hear. The Jews in Russia have not missed out in being a major player in Russian politics. They were the very people who made up the Bolshevik/communist regime that ran Russia for over seventy years. The false Jews know how to promote themselves and—to do that—the truth and the facts are always sacrificed. The Russian people know this and its time the rest of the world knew it too.]

U.S. WILL NOT PULL OUT OF BALKANS, EUROPE TOLD

By Patrick Bishop (Paris), Telegraph—UK, 4/12/01

America has no plans to abandon its commitment to peacemaking in the Balkans, the Secretary of State, Colin Powell, said yesterday.

Gen. Powell reassured the other five nations in the so-called contact group of powers involved in former Yugoslavia that America was in for a long haul. An impending reduction of American troops in Bosnia and reticence about the Bush administration's intentions had provoked anxiety that Washington had little appetite for an open-ended engagement in south-east Europe.

But officials said a major policy shift was unlikely and Europe would find a lot in common with the new leadership in Washington. America has nearly 10,000 troops in the region, where several simmering conflicts are threatening the shaky stability imposed by international peacekeepers. Mr. Powell met his counterparts from Britain, France, Germany, Italy, and Russia before setting off on a Balkan tour taking in Macedonia, Kosovo and Bosnia.

In Macedonia, he is expected to reinforce a European strategy of offering moral and economic support to the government in return for a commitment to do more to address demands by the Albanian minority for better recognition and rights. Tensions flared into violence last month when guerrillas launched a campaign along the country's northern border with Kosovo. The rebels were eventually repelled after a clumsy campaign by the Macedonian army and special police. But they could resume their action if no political progress is made.

In Bosnia, the American-brokered peace between Serbs, Muslims and Croats is fraying following violent demonstrations by Croat extremists against international troops. In Kosovo, no progress has been made in breaking down hatred between the Albanians and Serbs who formerly ruled them. The 42,500-strong Kfor peacekeeping force, led by Nato, has been strongly criticised for failing to control armed groups from using the province to launch attacks in southern Serbia and Macedonia. American troops have been singled out for their reluctance to get involved.

Another potential flashpoint is Montenegro, where elections this month could determine whether the country stays in partnership with Yugoslavia or decides on a potentially difficult move to independence. In Skopje, the Macedonian capital, Mr. Powell will meet the Yugoslav Foreign Minister, Goran Svilanovic. He is expected to add to European pressure on Belgrade to hand over the deposed president Slobodan Milosevic to the international war crimes tribunal in The Hague.

Richard Holbrooke, the architect of much of America's Balkan policy in the Clinton era, gave warning this week of increasing instability in the region. He urged President Bush to take "an increased American leadership role". Early indications are that the Balkans do not loom large in Mr. Bush's thinking, and that the European Union and European nations may have to take the lead if any of the current conflicts boil over into war.

Twelve suspected ethnic Albanian guerrillas have been arrested crossing into Kosovo from Albania, United Nations police said yesterday. The men told Nato peacekeeping troops that they were refugees, but only one had identity documents. They were suspected of belonging to the National Liberation Army, a guerrilla group which has recently been fighting in neighbouring Macedonia. The rebels say they are fighting for equal rights for the large Albanian minority there.

[JR: The "imposed stability" in the UN-controlled Balkans is hanging by a thin thread. The KFOR peacekeepers seem more symbolic than a force that is effective in maintaining the peace. Sir Powell is touring the region to dictate his foreign policy and seemingly overriding President Bush's policies for the region. Add to that his promises of moral support and economic aid (bribes) to pressure the Macedonians into giving in to the demands of the Albanian minority or face allowed (UN) incursions into Macedonia. The policy out of Brussels is to enforce diversity between the Macedonians and the Albanians and to maintain the false peace, as in Kosovo. Sir Powell is intent to hand over Milosevic to the World Court despite the fact the Serbs have enough evidence to convict him and satisfy any court in the world. Milosevic will be Powell's trophy to the world rulers in Brussels.]

EU GOES GLOBAL
AS PATTEN CHASES SUPERPOWER ROLE

By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard in Brussels,
Telegraph—UK, 4/12/01

The European Union is to boost its role as global policeman under plans proposed in Brussels yesterday, using its power as the world's biggest aid donor to shape the international scene.

Chris Patten, the European external affairs commissioner, said the EU must develop a "tool kit" to nip conflicts in the bud and to raise its profile around the world. "We should try to ensure that our political influence comes nearer to matching our economic weight," he said. It now plans an "early-warning system" for potential trouble spots, a campaign of anti-drug actions, tough controls on the arms trade, and measures to stop the proliferation of nuclear, chemical and biological weapons.

The initiative is unrelated to plans already being developed by the European Commission for a Rapid Reaction Force, which would be under the control of EU ambassadors meeting in a separate set of buildings in Brussels. The EU also has access to up to 5,000 police to help to restore order in volatile regions such as the Balkans. Mr. Patten's remit is limited to the EU's £7 billion annual aid budget, which he is using to spearhead an activist foreign policy.

When the national aid programmes of the 15 member states are included, the EU provides 55 percent of the world's development aid and 66 percent of outright grants. Mr. Patten yesterday dismissed suggestions that Brussels was attempting to dominate global affairs, challenging America on a broad range of issues far beyond Europe's borders. "We're not seeking a hegemonistic role," he said.

Washington is uneasy over the EU's decision to send a mission to North Korea next month to promote the Communist nation's dialogue with South Korea. The Bush administration, which still deploys large numbers of troops on the Korean border, is treating the dictatorship in the North as a dangerous, nuclear-armed pariah.

A minor clash is also looming over the Middle East. Mr. Patten yesterday called Israel's economic blockade of the Palestinian Authority a "profoundly mistaken policy" that would almost certainly backfire. He also attacked the Israeli decision to expand existing Jewish settlements in contravention of United Nations resolutions.

There is a growing view in Washington that the EU is failing to use its leverage as the chief financial underwriter of the Palestinian Authority to put pressure on Yasser Arafat to rein in Arab extremists. Geoffrey Van Orden, the Tory foreign affairs spokesman in Brussels, said hostility towards America had become the "sub-text" of the EU's new Common Foreign and Security Policy.

"People are very quick to say they support the transatlantic links and the Nato alliance, but the actions taken are all going in a different direction. The truth is that anti-Americanism is the binding theme," he said. Last month, the EU presidency criticised Britain's support for U.S. air strikes in Iraq, saying the legal basis for such action was unsound.

The European Parliament gave any EU superpower ambitions a further push this week when the foreign affairs committee passed a resolution calling for "the creation of a European Foreign Office" and the abolition of the national veto over foreign affairs. Mr. Patten insisted that the EU's 15 governments would continue to keep their own foreign ministries for a long time to come. "Foreign and security policy goes to the heart of what it means to be a nation state," he said.

[JR: Mr. Patten may deny the EU's attempt to dominate world affairs and to challenge the U.S. as the world's policeman, but it still makes Washington very uneasy. Has the world become tired of our arrogance and our aggressive foreign policy that has made us more enemies than friends? Are we being set up to be labeled a "rogue state?" What would the EU's plans be for the U.S. if we refused to comply to their demands? Would we face sanctions, have our cities bombed, or be invaded by foreign troops? Is this a hint to the rest of the world that the U.S., Israel and Britain have failed in their policies in the Middle East and are not legitimate brokers for peace? America would still be respected and trusted if we had remained faithful to the foreign policy established by our Constitution. That policy prohibited us from interfering in another country's business. Why is it being ignored and overruled by our presidents and our Congress?]

GREENSPAN BLAMED FOR BUBBLE

By Charlotte Denny, The Guardian—UK, 4/10/01

*Fed chairman encouraged
'irrational exuberance' among investors*

The fond belief that Alan Greenspan, venerable chairman of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board, is a superman who can prevent a crash of inflated American stocks to twice their fair value last year, economic researchers are warning.

Although U.S. stocks have lost $4 trillion since the height of the Greenspan "bubble" last March, the market is still overvalued by $3.5 trillion, according to Professor Marcus Miller of Warwick University and his colleagues.

"There will be a market crash when investors realise that Mr. Greenspan is not superhuman," he will tell his colleagues at the Royal Economic Society's annual conference in Durham today.

Prof. Miller said U.S. investors ignored the risks and piled into stocks because they believed that Mr. Greenspan would bail out the market if it nose-dived—precisely the kind of "irrational exuberance" which the Fed chairman warned against in a landmark speech four years ago.

Despite his warning, Mr. Greenspan encouraged the exuberance, according to Prof. Miller, because he failed to take a tough line after his speech. Mr. Greenspan cut interest rates twice in the space of six weeks during the Russian debt default crisis in autumn 1998, which led investors to believe that he would always act to prevent sharp falls in share prices.

Exaggerated faith in Mr. Greenspan caused investors to discount the risks of investing in shares and sent the market soaring. Prof. Miller estimates that the wider measure of U.S. shares, the S&P 500 index, which has fallen by 400 points from its high of 1500 last March, needs to lose a further 350 points.

Such a fall would bring it back to the level it stood at in December 1996, when Mr. Greenspan made that speech. According to Prof. Miller, four years of subsequent economic growth means that this is now a fair value for the U.S. market.

Prof. Miller's paper has been discussed by senior central bankers on both sides of the Atlantic. The Bank of England has held a seminar on the paper and the Fed asked for a copy of the preliminary version a year ago.

A further crash is not inevitable, if the Fed chairman could gradually bring investors to their senses.

"Mr. Greenspan would confirm his status as a great central banker if he can do it," said Prof. Miller. [JR: The market is still being manipulated by "irrational exuberance" now being fueled by the Fed. The stock market's roller-coaster ride of highs and lows has become a game of chance for gullible investors. The con job is to sell the idea to American investors that gambling in the market is as secure as saving money for the future and those who go along with the trend are savvy people who are smart enough to take risks to succeed. No, Mr. Greenspan has not been prudent and has made little or no effort to bring investors back to their senses. I trust the savings in my piggy bank are more secure than in the hands of the experts.]

NEVADA CORPORATIONS:

Manifold Benefits Of Keeping A Low Profile

Budget's "Tip of the Week" #9:

Keep A Low Profile

Over 90% of the lawsuits in the entire world are in the United States. A medium-sized business is typically involved in a lawsuit per year here and larger corporations are compelled to maintain teams of full-time attorneys to defend themselves. At the other end of the scale, an individual proprietor risks everything to engage in business without a corporate structure and even individuals who are not involved in business are at risk if they have any assets attached to their names. Meanwhile, the law schools keep churning out more attorneys at an increasing rate.

What's the solution? KEEP A LOW PROFILE. In business and in our personal lives, too, ideally it would be best to never show up at all on the enemy's "radar". In the game of "getcha" it is always better to represent a minimal target profile for the "getcha gang" and the best way to accomplish this feat is very often through the use of a Nevada corporate shelter.

In some cases it may be possible to shelter assets and income in a single corporation but when success is achieved and that first corporation starts to take on a higher and more vulnerable profile, it's time for some creative thinking. The first step should always be to separate assets from potential liability, so if you have an operating business it is good to ensure that it holds no assets of its own. Often the best solution is to have the operating entity lease its equipment from another, unrelated (by ownership) corporation. The next step could be to consider spinning off the existing business' departments into separate corporations: the marketing department could become a separate marketing company, as an example. Almost all businesses must purchase some goods from outside sources, so why not deal with a friendly supply company, one over which you may exert some control from behind the scenes?

Not only will this approach severely limit the prospects for damage by prospective litigants, it will also, by and large, keep the IRS out of your affairs. Audit rates for the 2000 tax year continue to show (not surprisingly) that the smallest corporations have by far the lowest audit profiles. A corporation with less than $250,000 in assets had an audit rate of just .28% last year, while the rate for a corporation with $1 million in assets was more than TEN TIMES as high at 2.90% and the rate for the largest corporations skyrockets to more than ten times that figure at 30.51%.

The key to making this work is to treat each corporation as its own separate interest and to ensure that each entity always acts out of its own self interest. In so doing you ensure that each corporation has minimal exposure to lawsuits and IRS audits and the aggregate exposure is far, far less than it would be with a single, high-profile corporation.

Please note that many of New Gaia's Products are not on this order form. Due to the continuing harassment of the FDA we are still unable to offer to you the products which were confiscated in July 2000. Please bear with us while we undergo the investigatory process that is so lately common with our Governmental System.

We would like you to know that New Gaia is still in business, delivering the finest quality nutritional supplemental products available to us, and able to process your nutritional supplement orders as efficiently as before.

We do regret having to have made an increase in our shipping fees. Please take note of the changes in the above rate chart. We cannot keep up with the increases from the USPS and UPS. We have sustained our standard fees for many, many years without an increase. This last jump (caused by inflated fuel fees) was too much for our budget. We hope this does not cause any inconvenience to you. We have done our best to keep costs to the consumer down to the bare bottom and we will continue to do the best we can.

Thank you for your continued support and patronage.

The Management for New Gaia Products.

WORDS OF WISDOM FROM HATONN

CONTACT OR SPECTRUM?

I want to briefly respond to a most unusual question from a totally "out of the blue" person: "It appears Spectrum will fail, possibly close, so will you go back to writing for CONTACT or what?"

I have never stopped writing for CONTACT—but I have NOT written, nor have my compatriots written for Spectrum. Tails wag a lot of dogs, my friends. Therefore, "or what" has no meaning.
