Business As Usual: Ongoing Mind Control

10/6/01—#1 (15-051)

RE: A SUPPORT FROM ANTHONY ROBBINS
VIA DIANE; RUSSIAN PLANES FROM TEL
AVIV-JERUSALEM

DO SOMETHING FOR YOURSELF IN THIS FRUSTRATING TIME

Hatonn—Does this seem a contradiction to that which I wrote only yesterday, about self? Sorry, but life is made up of contradictions and therefore CIRCUMSTANCES must dictate your level of “self” control and self-interests. You must have control of self or you CANNOT even assist another. Even the blind, however, can actually lead the blind if the leader knows where is IS and the way to go.

I want to offer the Robbins thoughts on the terrorist acts in the U.S. for two reasons. 1) Tony has a very good conceptual understanding of the BEST of the many self-improvement programs. He gleaned from the many into one now famous program. And, a prior partner in the field of alternative energy is now a fully famous body trainer who is a close friend and fully recommended peer of Tony Robbins.

2) It was because of these connections that Diane first got more than acquainted with Tony Robbins. It went further than that first trip as a visitor and Diane became a “staff” assistant of sorts. She also met people who were trained in use of the Internet for product demonstrations and sales, etc.

I only tell you this to remind you how deadly and cruel people can actually be when they feel somehow outdone or thwarted, OR, want something that another has.

Diane was accused of using HER money to attend some of the Robbins classes which Ed Young in his wisdom said were totally unGodly. HE, OF COURSE, WAS WANTING THE MONEY FOR HIS OWN PURPOSES—OUT OF NEW GAIA. It got very, very UGLY.

Now, just when you think confusion and hurt are about to boil over in your own life—being in that inner circle, Tony remembered his people. Diane forwarded his letter, which is probably on the Internet now, but I ask that it be shared, for it comes from a very Earth-oriented person caught in a class in Hawaii at the coincidental moment of impact in New York. ALL OF YOU NEED IT. It is more like the fact that friends make connections and share—and THAT is community. One person cannot do it all, so each has to take, accept for self, and pass it on. Please also remember: ENVY IS A TERRIBLE BURDEN.

And to Diane: Keep the head up, things will work out better, no matter how you think they may be working out wrong. Life is like that, please don't forget.

[QUOTING Message dated: 10/3/01: Letter from Tony Robbins through Diane:]

There is an order to the universe. In the midst of untruth, truth continues; in the midst of injustice, justice continues; and in all darkness, there is light.—Mahatma Gandhi

Dear Friend,

I know that each of us, as compassionate souls, have experienced a series of deep losses in the last weeks. I also recognize that no loss is as powerful and as direct as the loss of loved ones, friends or family, whether in the World Trade Center buildings, on the hijacked flights, in the Pentagon, or in the heroic efforts of our police force and firefighters as well as the people on Flight 93 who sacrificed their own lives to save their fellow man. For each of you, my heart goes out to you in prayer, in service, and in gratitude for your valor, your compassion, and your strength.

At the same time, I write this note to you NOT as a response to these attacks against humanity, but as a declaration of faith, not only in all Americans but in all heartfelt people worldwide, people of every religious belief, political conviction, race, creed, and nation around the globe.

We will always remember where we were the morning of September 11, 2001. My deepest desire, however, is that these attacks are not met with a reaction of hatred or fear but rather that this day represents the awakening of our collective spirit, our courage, our faith, our love, our determination, our compassion and our resolve. In the days that follow, the greatest honor we can bestow upon those who have given their lives to this cause is to embrace life fully, without fear, and to serve at the highest level by bringing to each other our most precious resource: our immense capacity to care.

When I received the call at 4:00 am on that Tuesday morning, I was in Hawaii conducting my final Last Master event, a 9-day program on leadership and self-mastery, which has been attended by tens of thousands of people from more than 80 nations around the world. Ironically, the topic of the day was to be emotional mastery and we knew we needed to respond quickly to support the diverse array of participants: everyone, from a woman whose fiancée called her the morning of the attack from the 101st floor of the World Trade Center to say good-bye, to a man of Arab descent who transformed from believing that there was a time he might have been willing to fly the plane and that, at least now you know how it feels, to a higher understanding and truth that what unites us is our humanity and compassion for others.

We had hundreds of participants from the New York area alone, many who would have otherwise been at work in the financial centers in the World Trade Center towers that day and who lost friends, family, and co-workers. And there were many more affected as a result of the flights, as well as the police officers and firefighters who immediately rushed to the scene. I don't believe anyone has all the answers in a situation like this. However, as leaders our job is to step in to make whatever difference we can, not just by caring and grieving our losses, but in finding active ways to support those in need.

As everyone around the world did, we put people in contact with loved ones, donated blood, and gave our emotional support wherever possible.

Once the immediate needs are supported, however, we must shift our focus to what will make the biggest difference in the long-term, so that the terrorists do not succeed in causing us to live in fear, but so that we turn fear on itself and use this opportunity to become stronger than ever as individuals, as a nation, and as part of the global community.

To allow ourselves to think that this terrible act destroys our world as we know it is a fatalistic surrender, validating the barbaric intent of the terrorists themselves. Throughout our history, we have experienced unbelievable hardships and heartbreaks. We have also experienced unrivaled prosperity and unsurpassed joy. It is the nature of conscious man to grow, to build, and to create. Each winter we have experienced throughout history has been followed by a spring and summer more beautiful, more prosperous, and more full of life than before.

This is a moment that comes once in a generation, when people, communities, and humanity have to align against forces of destruction. It is also a time, however, in which we must not react out of anger and rage. We must protect the security of our family and friends and yet at the same time be careful not to make the same mistake by attacking those who are innocent, merely in reaction to what has been done to us. To do this is to perpetrate terror ourselves.

I trust that our leaders will think clearly and carefully before they act. My faith is that love will win over might; justice will prevail over terror; and that compassion will reign over fear.

Finally, if you wish to actively participate and join us in becoming part of the solution... (etc.)

[H: I don't need to print any more as you can look up Tony Robbins far more easily than we can do it FOR you. However, his signoff is:]

... God Bless. Keep Living With Passion!

Your Friend and Fan,

Tony Robbins

[END OF QUOTING]

Now, of course, I shared this for more than the reasons above: There is a lot of GODLY INPUT WITH GOODLY INTENTION FOR MAKING BETTER THE LIVING OF MANKIND.

What of Tony Robbins as such? What about him? He is a MAN who found his way UP out of his own depression and yes, you would suppose that he just might be of some background of Jewish heritage.

WE ARE ALL IN THIS TOGETHER, READERS, AND IF YOU CANNOT SORT BEYOND RELIGIOUS OR TRIBAL LIMITATIONS, YOU ARE "THE" PROBLEM—FACE IT.

Now, because this man has introduced this type of community perception, I want to take further what indeed has happened to you in simple language you can witness for self.

TRANCE—formation or otherwise: That is what has HIT you, like it or not. You can also object and say "I was NOT hypnotized", but oh yes you were by the experts in the field of mind-control.

You have been built up to the moment of impact in thousands of different ways and through myriads of inputs. Then when you are lulled into more "drama" the SHOCK that comes is GREAT, is INSTANT and whammo—"SLEEP"! You don't even need a "trigger" word to drop you into a trance, reader.

Ah but, there was given NO OPPORTUNITY to awaken from the trance. The trance has been deepened to the depths of total somnambulism if nothing more. The brain-warp material is then drummed into you with such seeming confusion but directly orchestrated as to fatigue you beyond awakening—UNTIL IT IS TOO LATE.

Not only are you emotionally saturated beyond the point where there is capability of independent thought—but you are mesmerized by the repeated steps of the programming directly into NON-thought.

The TV screens are saturated and if you want a break already, you have to go to Discovery Channel or National Geographic or Animal Planet—where there is nothing but copulation, killing and eating other helpless species of animal beings. Great conditioning for the children to understand blood and death to the center of their mind root.

Next, to keep you confused and in trance, the news will be presented on SPLIT screens, each moving part changing and with inability to really see or read each so that there has to be change of eye focus to introduce the flood of overwhelming repetitions. The mind can only really focus or process one thing at a time, it is thought. Yes, that is CONSCIOUSLY so—but the facts are that as you are sent into "idle" mode, the MIND is absorbing EVERYTHING that passes on that screen—and that is visible subliminal programming.

Note that Osama bin Laden has been driven into your mind, but that is not enough. His face must be given so that you can only connect the face, the name and the action involved without reaching further for other possibilities.

Did Osama bin Laden blow up the Russian plane from Tel Aviv with so many from Jerusalem aboard? ARE YOU NUTS? No, but you are IN A TRANCE!

Ah but: The TRANCE-former will, and yea, has, overplayed his hand by his own ego-trap. And no, I won't spoil the last chapter by reading ahead FOR you. You will begin to get the BIG picture just through reading the presentation in today's papers regarding the Russian crash and the tales presented to cover the backsides of the perpetrators.

First, note that in reference to "U.S." it is always with "anonymous sources". Why would the U.S. have any input AT ALL?

I will, as a hypnotherapist, count you up slowly from the depths of your sleep:

1. Slowly, easily, calmly you are coming back into awareness.

2. From head to toe you are fully relaxed, calm and feeling GOOD.

3. You are feeling good in every way, alert. From head to toe you are moving back into full control—alert and with all nerves settled and functioning smoothly.

4. You are now eager to get your eyes open, your mind clear, and you feel refreshed as if Spring water from the mountain spring is washing over you. On the next number, 5, you will be fully awake, fully aware, clear of thought, and receptive—eager to realize potential and reality.

NUMBER FIVE: You are awake now, stretch, yawn, and GET BUSY.

TRUTH AWAITS

Now, with lessons we have shared boosting your batteries, I ask that the article on that plane disaster be printed. And consider just who might be "the expendables" in this little game of "make it look bad for the other guy while I shoot my feet off".

[QUOTING The Philippine STAR "WORLD NEWS", Saturday, October 6, 2001:]

RUSSIA OPENS TERRORIST PROBE INTO PLANE CRASH

UKRAINE DENIES STRAY MISSILE DOWNED AIRLINER

SOCHI, Russia (AFP)—Russian crash investigators searched the wreckage yesterday of a Russian airliner that exploded over the Black Sea, killing at least 76 people, for clues pointing to a terrorist attack or a tragic missile accident.

Relatives of those who died aboard the chartered Tupolev Tu-154 began arriving at Sochi on Russia's Black Sea coast, some 180 kilometers from where the plane crashed Thursday following a still unexplained mid-air explosion.

[H: Please pay attention to key words such as "chartered", etc.]

Russia launched a terrorist probe as the Ukraine government continued to deny reports that the plane was accidentally shot down by a missile during a joint Ukrainian-Russian military exercise.

Seven ships were in the region gathering fragments of the plane from the waters of the Black Sea. Parts of the cockpit and the fuselage, including a door, have already been recovered, officials in the resort said.

The airliner carrying 64 mainly Israeli passengers and 12 crew had been flying from Tel Aviv to Novosibirsk when it vanished from radar screens.

The number of people on board was not known with absolute certainty, with some reports setting the figure at 78.

Sixteen bodies have so far been recovered and taken to Sochi, the Interfax news agency said.

The Sibir air company which chartered the doomed plane said it was flying 33 relatives—25 relatives of the passengers, along with eight relatives of the crew members—to Sochi, along with the regional deputy governor.

Relatives from Israel were due to arrive later in the day. Most of the 51 Israeli nationals on the plane were Russian Jews who had recently emigrated.

The downing comes less than a month after terror attacks in the United States using hijacked civilian aircraft claimed about 5,500 lives and amid warnings from Washington of a “very real” chance of further attacks on the United States.

The cause of the explosion aboard the Tu-154 remained unclear and was being attributed either to a stray Ukrainian missile fired during military exercises or to a possible terrorist attack.

Earlier, a spokesman for Russia’s Black Sea Fleet at Sevastopol in southern Ukraine told AFP that the explosion was the result of a Ukrainian missile hitting the aircraft. But Russian fleet officials later denied the report.

In Washington, a U.S. official WHO SPOKE ON CONDITION OF ANONYMITY said it was “possible that this was a tragic accident and not terrorism” and that “at the moment we believe it was shot down by the Ukrainian government.”

[H: And what do you think about “them apples”?]
[END OF QUOTING]

And, readers, OHMYGOSH—Anthrax in Florida, ebola-LIKE stuff in Afghanistan, Flu up the nose in Manila and back to the TRANCE and SLEEP! Boy, that bin Laden dude gets around. In the places that know, bin Laden is pronounced Lahdeen. This is just so you don’t look “egg on face” when the Mossad picks you up for “thinking”.

By the way, yesterday’s EYEWITNESS of that Russian plane said that it was directly overhead and exploded—BUT AFTER IT HAD CRASHED THERE WAS ANOTHER MAJOR EXPLOSION. (That was AFTER impact, readers.) This is just to annoy your perfect acceptance of the non-reality of whatever you are going to be fed on your synthetic-food plate for the day.

Consider now, “WAR” and “PEACE”. WHO presents “war” and who presents “peace”? Now, guess who has your mind by the noose and is pulling hard to stop your oxygen flow? The brain REALLY goes nuts with oxygen depletion as some people even experience dark tunnels and lights at the end and all sorts of weird circumstances—even “death” into “life”.

Please pause a minute and let us speak of a few things for that “too confused to think” condition of zombism of intentional inception.

If I could get you to focus on one concept right now it would be, as Henry Ford put it: “Don’t find fault, FIND A REMEDY.”

A second important concept is, yes, from Anthony Robbins and on up the line: “Nothing has any power over me other than that which I give it through my conscious thoughts.”

You will be, readers, exactly that which you THINK.

If your instant reaction is: “Go bomb them,” I have terrible news for you in this recent incident in the U.S.—for FAR more people were killed in Iraq in YOUR U.S. war on Saddam than you can even count on toes and fingers in the New York thing.

The next thing to consider is “WHO do you go kill, bomb and whose kids are those you kill? By the way: WHOSE KIDS ARE GOING TO GO DO THE DYING WHILE THEY ARE ALSO DOING THE KILLING? Patriotism demands it? No, Evil DEMANDS it and you comply—every time! None of the President’s kids will be catching bullets—KNOW it. But YOURS are going to catch a bad case of TERMINAL dis-ease.

Also, as with the downed plane in Russia. Those Jews on the plane were Jews who had “recently emigrated”. That is a very KEY phrase, reader—did you catch it above? Well, you will find that within the past most recent years the “recently emigrated” Jews to Israel were RETURNING as they found life in Israel impossible with which to deal and their words: “Ungodly in every way”. Yes, I would guess those might well be among the “most expendable”.

Now, the talk is of “healing”, “a time to heal”, and “go about your business and we will see to...”. Heal? You can’t HEAL, silly kids, until you know what you are supposed to “heal”. An evangelist striking your noggin and exclaiming “be healed”, “take the healing” or whatever other thing you WANT to fix everything, is a Band-Aid or sleeping pill at best. WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO “HEAL”? Osama bin Laden is not the name of a disease, my friends, even if the U.S. President SAYS SO. He is but a man, good or bad, but certainly not supernatural in any way and less so than almost all others. He was the “chosen one” and be very careful about “chosen ones”. And beware his warnings and edict to “kill” Americans, for they are but “Israeli Zionists”. He should know—THEY TRAINED HIM FIRST!

Am I negative and against anyone? Nope. Surprise you? Please, my whole thrust is to CREATE, not destroy. For every idiotic error (sin) of MAN, I can use that error to CREATE a good from the outcome and all steps along the way. While distractions are manufactured to grab, steal and control, WE CAN MOVE AS QUIETLY AS LITTLE CHURCH MICE RIGHT IN THE OPEN ARENA, IN REASON, AND IN LOGICAL SEQUENCE.

There is readying a war of civil nature in the Philippines as the Muslims and Tribal indigenous people say they are NOT going to take it any longer—period.

They HAVE already agreed that if the GAIA program is adopted, there will be NO WAR and they will, in fact, even bring in gold to back all the projects desired from infrastructure, to repair and reclamation, power production, agricultural development, housing, and general LIVELIHOOD cooperatives. All they want in return is simply to be left out of the garbage politics and start their own central management councils and banking according to, yes, TRIBAL-ISLAMIC “STYLE” operation to get rid of the IBC and devastating USURY which is disallowed BY GOD, ALLAH AND GREAT SPIRIT.

If they can’t get this in the Philippines, then they fully plan to take the program to fruition through severance by decree and/also take it to Malaysia where the desire for such freedom is understood.

Now which would you choose if you were Ms. President? God always sends “the way”, the apparatus to “get there”, and allows considerations of both.

I know, you thought we, and/or you with us, were making no headway? Oh, indeed, it is all in perception and depends on where you are located as to the bullets flying about. We “feel the blood” dripping from some of the wounds and therefore time has little meaning except as in “too long”. No, to change the concepts and possibilities of a PLANET is hardly more than instant change in the annals of history. This is but a half-blink of a very quick eyelid, precious ones. You will not even remember other than the most important dates of your own lives or yesterday’s lunch (unless you had that lunch in the middle of the Trade Center bombing or your tooth hurt too badly to chew your junk-food. Frankly, even with the latter—you will forget the DATE, time, even the year—three years out.

Unless you are a Savant of some kind, you will surely not be able to give more than a dozen dates, with certainty, of IMPORTANT events in YOUR OWN LIFE.

As that old cigarette ad went, my friends: “You have come a long way, baby!” Which direction have YOU traveled? My friends are tired of the ongoing misery—we want to get on with the good things, the abundance and the joy of ENJOYMENT. WE ONLY ACCOMPLISH THAT STATE OF BEING IN PEACE—NOT WAR.

We want to see the kids grow up and become whatever they choose as a life-experience and not just be bullet-catchers.

Can we do it “in time”? In time for what? ALL YOU HAVE IS SPACE AND TIME—remember that you are IMMORTAL. I might well ask YOU: How else do you plan to use up all that time? Infinite, immortal, eternal—these are all very long stretches of “time”, good friends—very long indeed.

Now with these ideas in mind, open your eyes, stretch and yawn and let’s get on with getting on. Check over your supplies and remind friends of commitments of calling “if” something happens and share with Diane, please, that her friends with those kids need to know whom to call. Work a plan for the kids, even though brief, so that no child or babe is left unattended in an emergency. At most that means that camping friends just sort of keep those bags together along with a clothes change and emergency items available on INSTANT GRAB AND GO.

People have CHOSEN to abandon us? Fine, it makes room for others who need a place.

Rex, please, make sure of some sacks of Spelt in the security place along with a grinder and please check the portability of the large generator, run it a bit, make sure of backup fuel, get a couple or more bread machines and slow cookers for grain and let’s make sure that things are ready when the need arrives.

For those children: Make sure there is a bundle of games, lots of cards, dominos, etc.

Do I anticipate long periods of time inside a shelter? No, but stay prepared. And, DO NOT make any big deal of this because the last thing you want is ATTENTION. NO ATTENTION! Therefore, that means only close and trusted friends can be involved! The terrorist nonsense will stop as soon as the Big Boys get what they want.

Make sure caretakers know WHERE to take the children—in the event of..... This used to be called civil defense, but only the perpetrators know what “operation” label it will carry now.

Pretty soon you can expect the push for everyone to have a backyard shelter—AGAIN. That is what terrorism is all about, the not knowing when you are going to be either attacked, bombed, stomped or tormented.

God has mercy; God is faithful and TRUE. When you start leaning on God instead of Satan, you might find the path much easier.

Love, Dad

Human Clones Among Us For Well Over Fifty Years

10/9/01—#1 (15-054)

RE: HEARTS IN OVERLOAD; BUSH WARS;
CATCH A FALLING STAR

CHECK THE HEART FIRST

Hatonn—First is the question as to “How” do you check the heart when the impact is so elusive and yet so oppressive with current events?

Here is where you STOP, go within and check out what you think and feel. Do NOT leave God out there somewhere—recognize HIS presence already there.

Is the way to help a Muslim woman, mistreated by men and having to wear a shroud, to blow off her head so she doesn't longer notice the inconvenience? Is the answer to hunger and terror to those distant people to blow them away so they no longer are frightened or hungry? Collateral damage? COLLATERAL DAMAGE? Is that what life boils down to in the lesser countries; collateral damage if people are murdered?

Are these but the “other losses” or “acceptable losses” as in “necessary to get the job done”? What job? Get Osama bin Laden? Come now, students, who are you kidding other than yourself?

A columnist wrote yesterday: “The last thing that I want to do is to launch a 10-million-dollar missile at a 10-dollar tent and hit a camel in the ass.” Is this what it's “all about, Alphie”? So be it.

SO, WHERE IS GOD

IN ALL THIS MESS—GIVE US A SIGN!

Oh God is right there with you AND right there where you aim the bombs and napalm. GOD TAKES THE SAME HIT AS THE VICTIM IN THE TARGET HAIRS.

You have to understand that the striking forces have to treat this game as what it is—a game to test weapons, tactics, terror-success in its most basic form, and operate machinery and toys. A man acts as a machine, a robot, or he could not do this atrocity upon his fellow man. You talk of robotics and brainwashing? You have now set your children into virtual non-reality so that there is no conscience involved—just success at hitting whatever is in point. Then watch the waste of a hundred bombs landing all over the place with no targets. IS THAT NOT PLANNED TERROR? How about to boost the economy—those bombs are not FREE. YOU buy them, taxpayers. IS THIS CHRISTIAN America/ Great Britain/Israel my friends? And no, don't give me the old “Well Canada and Australia are right behind everything as well. Oh, well, strike me—I could have sworn those are belonging to Great Britain on whose empire the Sun does not set.

How intimidated is the world in general? Pretty “gone”, readers. Right in the Philippines where they can't seem to catch a thief much less a few Abu Sayyaf, the front page of the paper bears the PROUD BRAGGING RIGHTS of a ship launching a cruise missile. The ship is the USS PHILIPPINE SEA. Nobody knows what to do because of outright FEAR.

This is not “of” the terrorists as named, but of the United States and allies. That, of course IS THE INTENT—so they have won, haven't “they”?

Are my friends frightened, fearful and/or terrorized? OF COURSE. And therefore I am going to make some requests and that is that some of the “leaning” cease and desist.

I can give you good example: Al Overholt came to Margie to ask for a tape to be made. He then wanted to know if he could get 50 lbs. of Spelt grain. Margie answered promptly that she didn't know but the Spelt probably couldn't be sold in California and she would ask Diane. Within the hour that was back to the Spectrum bunch apparently and the Federal lawyer was notified and it is now stated that Diane “is back in the business”.

The facts are that Rex is making a concerted effort to sell the whole lot of stored grain and beans and it most certainly has nothing whatsoever to do with Diane.

It reminds me of an old Southern game of “Snipe Hunting”. In this game a group will get a pot of money and the point is to take someone unsuspecting off on this hunting jaunt. The novice is shown how to hold the bag at ready and the rest go hunting for the Snipes. The first one back with a Snipe wins the pot to be split with the bag-holder. So, the group takes the prize and themselves off—but not to hunt Snipes. The next morning the bag-holder is still there holding the empty bag while the others split the money and go home to bed.

This is often referred to as “Left holding the bag” game. Well, our people are tired to breaking with “Left holding the bag”, be it drias, colloids or bread mix.

The fact that the ONLY Spelt mill in the West is the one at the Tehachapi farm may well be unfortunate while every effort has been made to SAVE it—and now, we shall have to see. We need a couple of more months to get some relief from here and then? We are going to hit back—HARD.

We already have several entities (companies) who are in line to grow Spelt and we hold the seed, don't we? Well, I continue to have to beg help because these people can't do it ALL. They can't even get out of the line of fire.

And yes, there will be a day when you who have offered will be able to assist in other ways—but obviously, not today in the way of choice and providing products and services. Help us “get there” and things will look incredibly different and better in spite of what is going on in your world today. We do not contribute to that world and we serve none against another. Just as the rain falls on the just and the unjust—so too does the Sun.

By the way, there have been human CLONES for well over half a century. I suggest you keep continual observation on your leaders and watch the changes right before your eyes. But, you didn't need clones or replicas or “look alike” to dump those aircraft directly onto target—it was all computerized manipulation. And by the way, a plane downed in a crash does not scatter particulate over a ten mile stretch with pieces no larger than a bread loaf—it blew up in air, friends. The crashed Pennsylvania plane was either bombed or shot down by a missile large enough to really particulate it. Physics is quite a simple concept just as is the science of implosions to bring down buildings. The tops of those Trade Center buildings came STRAIGHT down without veering to right or left—WATCH IT, IT WAS SHOWN TO YOU OVER AND OVER AD NAUSEAM. THAT IS NOT FROM AIRCRAFT IMPACT. AND, ALL THE FLAG-WAVING YOU CAN DO WILL ONLY HIDE THE TRUTH.

BY THE WAY, DHARMA IS AN AMERICAN—I AM NOT! THEREFORE, AFGHANISTAN'S TRUTH IS JUST AS VALID AS IS THE U.S.—AND THE LIES ARE EQUALLY DISTASTEFUL. I CERTAINLY DO PARTICIPATE IN AN AMERICAN DREAM BECAUSE THIS PROGRAM IS BASED ON THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—TREASURY DEPARTMENT, GUARANTEED BY THE FEDERAL RESERVE THROUGH THE FEDERAL RESERVE ACT OF 1913. IT WOULD SEEM REASONABLE TO DEMAND THAT THE TREASURY DEMAND PAYMENT FROM THAT FEDERAL RESERVE—BUT PERHAPS THAT IS TOO LOGICAL TO BE ACCEPTABLE—AND AFTER ALL, THE GOLD IS IN THE NEGEV DESERT SOUTH OF TEL AVIV.

We have gone the ONE STEP FURTHER, however; we back the whole process with nice new GOLD so that there is no argument available to anyone including the New Knighted States of the New World. We only need the paperwork to keep the accounting TRANSPARENT and without those sticky-finger games. Then, we will all borrow against that gold so that nations and people are no longer KILLED by usury. A new concept? No, the OLDEST in the world. And yes, Islam uses this clean, honorable method of banking where the laws are not already set in cement by the International Bankers.

Can it work? Of course it can work. It can work without even uncovering the already accomplished graft and corruption, money laundering or kickbacks. Those tidy-up duties rest with the nation, not our task. Further, we will keep GOLD in the funding bank to make SURE the funds are covered. Now that is simple enough, isn't it? And indeed, money-laundering laws ONLY PROTECT US AND OUR BUSINESS—WE HAVE NOTHING TO HIDE. Moreover, by going through legitimate business processors, it is good business from start to finish.

The only thing that changes is that we will require a couple of tonnes of gold to be processed before our kick in of $400 per ounce—and we now have to change because of added expenses with new laws and regulations that the second tranche payback for the $400 ounce comes when gold hits $450/oz. These are bank requirements to do that transaction. We, however, have yet to find valid holders and no longer is a shaving for proof acceptable for start-up. And, people, the GOLD DEALER with all the legal permits (third party) handles it all so that there is no fudging, especially from our side.

If the bank won't meet the needs, then the going price is market. And the battle lines of non-trust? The United States of course. It is known that the Central Bank is totally crooked and is run solely by the IMF. It all takes TIME to work through the trust element and, in spite of everything, WE HAVE RECOGNIZED INTEGRITY OVER A LONG ENOUGH PERIOD OF TIME TO MAKE A REAL DIFFERENCE.

Now I have to tell you readers that we have so much to do that we have to spread out the paper's news and there is such good, exceptionally good, material as to give us that little relief we need. It also spreads out the acceptability by very viable contributors. In this way we can look forward to good contributors in exchange for good business return—once we get this program off its dime.

We are NOT some New Age, Patriot, or religious press paper. We are a Truth in alternative format. We will publish with “credit” and as well with responsibility of the authors for contributions. I can sort and comment and we can use information for educational purposes. You do, however, deserve support in a much more self-beneficial way than just to babble and prattle. A BETTER WAY HAS TO BE PLANTED AS A SEED, NURTURED, AND GROWN. WE MUST “REPLACE” AND “RECLAIM”, FOR THE DAMAGE IS ALREADY PREVAILING AT EVERY TURN. IN A WORLD OF PHYSICAL MANIFESTATION IT TAKES A SEQUENCE OF EVENTS IN WHAT YOU CALL “TIME”.

GOD HAS BEEN QUITE PATIENT WHILE MAN DESTROYED. NOW, IT IS TIME TO BE A BIT PATIENT WHILE IT IS SET TO RIGHT! THOSE CHOICES, HOWEVER, ARE YOURS ALONE. BUT FACTS ARE, PATIENT OR IMPATIENT, IT WILL BE AS IT WILL BE AND YOUR “OPINION” WILL DO LITTLE TO NOTHING IF YOU DO NOT DO SOMETHING POSITIVE TO ASSIST—OTHER THAN BABBLE AN OPINION WHICH MAY WELL NOT MATCH ANYONE ELSE’S.

Let us make something clear: DIANE IS NOT BACK IN THE BUSINESS.

Diane has nothing to do with Spelt grain and never did. New Gaia handled some of the grain kernels and some of the bread mixes. Never was Diane more than a “manager” of a distributing branch of New Gaia, etc. And by the way, Rex Smith has the option of selling the entire stock of Spelt grain.

Have I asked that grain and flour be made available? Yes, but that does not mean that I ORDER anything, push off responsibility onto anyone. But, if no one wants responsibility, then the answer is very simple indeed: DO NOT OFFER ANYTHING.

If Rex feels better to sell only through the Nevada corporation shelter, then please do so and the grain can go right from Nevada like everything else. There IS NO CALIFORNIA BUSINESS! Does everybody hear me? THERE IS NO CALIFORNIA BUSINESS! I would suggest, however, that since the grain is a farm product, just like eggs would be, that it is a food and can be handled like any other exchange. Perhaps even, a sack (or more) of grain could be exchanged for the discs of journals held by Dr. Al.

Any products that we may have made available will just have to become unavailable as far as we are concerned, from this attachment. I will no longer ask such a burden on my friends and yes, family associates. Consider it OVER. I’m sure there are other ways and means, all nicely approved and legal, to handle this but no longer will my team have to struggle before the Federal judges on trumped-up charges and fraudulent documents. And yes, we do know who filed those charges and it shall be countered—depend on it.

Now, I will tell you something perhaps you have misunderstood before. All those colloids were approved by and through us by Dr. Young, holder of a Ph.D. in “electrical engineering”. The colloid technique is very definitely “electrical” in every way, shape and form. The colloids in point were MADE by Norey Latona and Charles Neil, both qualified engineer-type persons, or at the least presented as same.

There is absolutely NOTHING other than totally NATURAL in any Dria product.

The other product under consideration for questioning was the “Parasite” cleansing kit which is, at best, a product as presented by established and accepted parasite cleansers—even as offered by Spectrum’s Mayan Shaman. The only difference in products is in the fiber which we insisted be partially Spelt fiber.

Now, if you want to take this one further, note please, that THAT product, that “kit” if you will, was established to assist those with Gulf War Syndrome which was parasitic in origin. That was due to desert sand fleas in the gulf area of the Gulf War which speaks for itself. That was established and actually paid for by one, Dr. Pierré Cloutier and offered through a large discount to those veteran victims who wanted to try it to see if there would be help.

Others found the kit exceptionally effective to rid the body of parasites—period, end of medical discussion.

It is good to note that Dr. Cloutier did join with Young-Latona to publish the Wisdom of the Rays books which were a direct extraction from the original Rainbow Masters, a Phoenix Journal.

In Spectrum issue of February 2000 (Vol. 1, No. 9) almost a whole issue of the paper was presented by Young-Latona as to the glories of Silver Colloid and even as to how to make colloidalizing apparatus with parts from Radio Shack as well as how to get other equipment, the silver wires, etc. The issue carried all the information now questioned as to all the microbes vanquished by “just” silver colloid.

That information had long been available in hundreds of different places and utilized by ourselves as well as having been verified information from such as textbooks, etc. as to the harmlessness of colloids in every instance as well as inability to “overdose”. I always made and still make absolutely NO CLAIM TO CURES OR EVEN HEALING. AT BEST A “THING” IS ONLY A HELPFUL “TOOL”.

However, we are not here to make games for the adversary and self-described “turncoat” enemies.

Why would the old CONTACT team want to STEAL “CONTACT”? Well, Dr. Watson, it is quite simple indeed.

After cutting all ties with the GAIA project, program and corporation, it was then quite obvious there was a bad error in calculations.

So, the little team of miscreants hijacked the paper and did in fact steal the mailing lists, subscriber funds and lists as well as take over the facilities—on the basis that somehow “Hatonn had handed over the paper 100% into the hands of Dr. Ed Young”. That did not sell—and the law entered the picture in behalf of CONTACT, so the decision was made to raise enough money from old CONTACT people and new friends to do the new paper. They promised a weekly paper and of course stated that Hatonn said there would plenty of funds and everything that could be needed.

No, the weekly paper is now a second week of the month—monthly tabloid. Fine, EXCEPT, the ones at SPECTRUM still claim “I” write for them and continue to run Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn writings even after my asking that they cease and desist. THEY FURTHER FAIL TO IDENTIFY THEMSELVES WHILE CLAIMING TO BE “LIGHTED” RECEIVERS. Balder Squash.

The real reason to have needed CONTACT, however, is because in the fully noticed will of Russell Herman, $40 million was bequeathed to CONTACT. Any way you try to spell “spectrum” it doesn’t add up—does it?

Now, Margie went to Spectrum’s office to get the back issue of the Silver colloid issue and was told most ungraciously, No, never, and get out. She was also slammed with us having “hurt them so badly”. WE have hurt THEM? I would suggest that international Internet misinformation, disinformation and outright lies from them speak otherwise while, in the meanwhile, we have NO INTEREST IN THEM OR THEIRS AT ALL.

No, this is NOT OVER. By no means is it OVER. However, it will wait its proper sequence while we focus on getting THIS GAIA job done. Terror has come in all shapes and sizes but the actual “doing” is the painful confrontation.

So, yes indeed, I do ask right here and now: Please, get some copies of that issue of SPECTRUM and I ask that information be given right here as to how to do that. [The SPECTRUM, 9101 West Sahara Ave., PMB158, Las Vegas, NV 89117, 1-877-280-2866 (or P.O. Box 1567, Tehachapi, CA 93581, 661-823-9696), www.TheSpectrumNews.org; E-mail: thespectrum@tminet.com] We do not use the information to hurt anyone; it was an excellent issue and extremely well researched and presented. But, as a paper, it is public domain if the fee is paid. WHAT IS THIS NEW GAME? What all do you suppose SPECTRUM IS HIDING? They get every CONTACT through whatever sources, smile, without paying a cent and actually use it in their interviews, etc. Don’t we find that quite interesting?

By the way, as to any advertising materials? There was a licensed herbalist (Ph.D. actually), several holistic healers and as well, a licensed physician, two registered nurses and a Chiropractor who did the product segments. WHERE ARE THEY NOW? Wouldn’t everyone want to know? We had full-time accounting and bookkeeping out of Las Vegas and that got dumped as well. Is everyone having fun yet? Well, no, we are not having “fun” but there is joy in the realization that we are recognizing truth and the facts of life among the greedy ego-crowd. Even the corporations got so skewed by “takers” that it has been all but impossible to sort the mess. In addition to that, all the important files were taken when the offices were taken as well as in the moving around, Federal Raids which got the hard drives of all the computers, etc.—it is quite a circumstance.

We made agreements with the Spectrum “bunch” which were not kept for even one day, by them. They demanded “their” corporations which had been paid for regularly by the Institute, as it turned out to be—so they could hide their income payments. Fine, except that now I wonder just how that works? They even turned in CONTACT to the IRS and that took Mr. Christie some time to sort that one out. CONTACT has run in deficit since inception while the bill arrived to the tune of thousands of dollars. That had to come directly from that source and Mr. Moorhead who was working AT Nevada Corporate Headquarters.

Now I believe if you check, you will find one of Mr. Christie’s corporation holdings in a major class-action suit—against him. This has nothing to do with us but indeed we do get tired of the ongoing assaults by people who only gained in their association with us. Friends, THAT is LIFE and yes, it IS realized that just because you are right does not mean that you will receive any kind of justice. But, now, aren’t we all grateful in THIS game that we have done things RIGHT, even when it would have been easier to take the easy way OUT? WE HAVE EARNED OUR WINGS. Do you now understand: WE ARE THE LIGHT, THE WAY AND THE WORD!

Hearts weep, yea even for SELF, for after all, we are not nuts, you must understand. The human heart hurts in the midst of sorrow and pain and the eyes run over with tears in response. That does NOT mean that the MIND dies or quits; it simply means that a human being is mortal—mind is immortal.

LET US TURN TO ISLAM AND ANY OTHER "RELIGION"

MAN DESTROYS what he can to suit his own needs, good readers—every time he gets a chance. He covers his sins in a cloak of religion in the name of God. Oh my goodness, by the time Man is through there is no resemblance to God or Righteousness.

There were criminal acts in New York City and Washington D.C. but the surprise was not an actual terroristic expression. The impact was hideous, horrific, terrible and now results in "terror", aided and perpetuated by around-the-clock telling you to be terrified. What you are doing in Afghanistan and to your own people is TERRORISM! YOU NOW STALK YOUR PREY WHO CAN ONLY CRAWL FROM HOLE TO HOLE WHILE YOU SHOOT AT THEM LIKE DUCKS OR A FOX BEFORE THE HOUNDS. YOU ARE A PACK OF HUNTERS WITH MISSILES AND SMART BOMBS USING ALL THE MILITARY TOYS YOU HAVE BEEN ITCHING FOR YEARS TO TRY OUT ON SOMEONE.

Is this OK? Well, if it is fine with you, then it is your business and perhaps you can come to some measure of peace within self. Is a Taliban baby somehow less a baby? A deaded baby in the eyes of God is quite sacred, good readers, no matter what color of the skin. A baby in a helpless circumstance is decidedly more precious unto GOD, and "just doing your job" in the murder brigade is not acceptable—to God. You can't make restitution for that loss, good buddies. Therefore, be very, very careful about your "taking forgiveness" for granted because someone ELSE says you are on the "right side" because you are bigger and armed with bigger weapons of mass destruction. Those weapons of mass destruction should have been removed from your closets a long time ago, don't you think?

Don't fool yourselves by the stance of Israel in all this, for you are but playing around and butchering goyim so "what the heck". But you had better know something, readers: In that Negev Desert in Israel are stashes of gold to beat the records. Stored right there along side NUCLEAR weapons enough to blow away the people on the globe. Now, that just happens to be the way it IS. This is certainly not to be unkind to nice Judean-lineaged people.

Mr. Bush has not gone to war—YOUR LOVED ONES HAVE GONE TO COMMIT MURDER AND MAYHEM—WORSE YET, IN THE NAME OF GOD!

I again mention gold? Well, you have to understand that you Americans could not demand your payments or currency trades in gold or silver—but foreign nations could always demand payment in precious metals—like GOLD. Trillions of dollars in Gold was shifted off right through that program—right to Israel and those are facts, undisputed. And so, consider Armageddon. It is time you look carefully at a global map and check your location status.

I will close by asking you to "walk in another's shoes" before you pronounce them to Hell. BE that mother in Kabul and see if you don't feel just a tad different—neither she nor the child was anywhere near New York and Wall Street where the money brokers dwell and manipulate a world into poverty. Try it, YOU WILL NOT LIKE IT.

I would offer you Love and Light, but that too has become a passe' speaking which usually means nothing at all except a signoff as is "yours truly".

I salute you and yes indeed, you ARE my "friend".—GCH

Prophecies Are At Our Door, Including Armageddon

10/11/01—#1 (15-056)

RE: STATE OF THE ART (OF WAR—NOT REVELATIONS). MECHANISMS OF CONTROL

FREEDOM OF SPEECH;
FREEDOM OF THE PRESS.

I ask that if you don't have your list of PROTOCOLS of THE LEARNED ELDERS OF ZION—get them out in front of you now and keep them there for your daily reference, so you aren't surprised when the Feds come to your door with their assault weapons drawn and pointed—at YOU.

You can now tick off the accomplishments right down that manifesto listing.

Globally, you have a shut-down of news and are limited to what the orchestrated media is given permission to show or tell or print and it squeezes down daily—"for national security reasons, of course"—and to hide the murders of already starving people in the landing spots of the "smart bombs" (that bomb U.N. civilians, no less).

By the way, how many of you noticed the scatter bombs falling by the hundreds from stealth craft? Did you think that a stupid waste? Well, it is now speculated or "leaked" that that was a "landmine" clearing technique in preparation for the special forces entry.

Wow, what a wonderment! One plane with lasers can clear every mine on the field in one burst set on scatter-wave. Those mines are numbered and mapped, silly kiddies. There is capability of lock-on pin-point detonation using invisible frequency systems so that the lasers don't show up as "light".

Now, some of you want to talk about crop circles, especially new ones near "radio" systems for "alien contact". Don't hold your breath, chelas. That is foolishly primitive, even in expectation. The satellite systems are monitored through those "dishes" and it is about the very "last" method any extraterrestrial would need to use.

Moreover, just as you can set scatter lasers, you can paint a whole computer picture on your board, fire one set of beams and present one fine "crop picture". Twist the crop stalks just a tad by circular motion lasers and you have your shadowing. It does NOT require alien craft. And most certainly the aliens would be smart enough to NOT put such nonsense near those broadcasting and receiving dishes.

I don't know whose side you might choose to put self as to speculation—but KNOW that the technology being used today, from cloning to craft, is a perfected system for at least 25 years OR LONGER.

Look at your night-vision equipment these days where you have cameras which can actually see better and target better than in day-vision circumstances. This allows targeting with technology so simple as to be pathetic in "the kill".

You guys after somebody called bin Laden are going to turn that man into another Jesus Christ—and you don't even seem to recognize the players involved. Moreover, you are going to KILL thousands of children in the "Russian Winter" coming up very shortly. Remember you are talking Afghanistan, not tropical Manila. Those children are already orphaned and naked, shoeless and foodless—now you will humanitariously freeze them to death because they have no way to get heat and nothing with which to cover themselves. So, beat your patriotic breasts, wave your flags and "demand justice" from some helpless victim targets and see if it saves your world.

You are IN Armageddon and don't even seem to see it.

What do I expect you to do? Expect? Nothing. Suggest? Keep your head down, don't bugger the trigger-fingers, and STAY ALIVE as comfortably and as well as you can—in whatever freedom you can BARGAIN. EXAMPLES will be made of any who struggle against this new "terrorist" regime called the New World. There is now no Constitutional LAW, kiddies; it went with the "emergency" and the "War Powers Act".

I suggest you get as good a shelter as you can manage and keep it ready but don't advertise and certainly don't have an emotional breakdown.

Do I suggest you bargain-deal with your enemies? Of course. We need to stay alive, as free as is possible to even go about our daily survival. WE DO NOT FIGHT CITY HALL OR ANY OTHER VIPER-OCTOPUS. WE ARE NOT AT WAR. WE ARE ONLY ABOUT CREATING A BETTER WAY. IF MAN DOESN'T WANT THAT BETTER WAY, SO BE IT—THEN OTHER THINGS KICK INTO GEAR BUT THAT IS NOT OF OUR DOING.

If you must PLEA-BARGAIN, fine, and then give no further cause to even be questioned.

That is exactly what we plan to do in our own programs—give no cause to annoy the enemies. We will confront when appropriate—those who are simply evil little humans living in greed and ego-trappings. We have no need, no wish nor any animosity toward anyone, including whoever you might choose to be YOUR ENEMY. Be very careful, for we do not incite to do anything, except to get informed. The minute you try to live by the sword, now the gun, you can count on dying by that sword or gun. You have to do business in such a way as even your enemy can find a "way out".

Good (and evil) is that which is IN THE HEART WITHIN. “Intent” toward the action of good or evil is the choice at hand. And, chelas, sometimes it pays to switch rather than fight if evil actions are not present in your activities or intent. When you understand this you will have far fewer sleepless nights. Anyone can pick up a gun and GET KILLED, but freedom comes from CREATING A BETTER WAY—without that gun. And by the way, you can use that sword to cut your bread—not your neighbor. Never mind the plowshares—you have grown enough to expect tractors, my friends.

Anyone can win a game if only he knows the rules. Sometimes you have to be shrewd enough to learn the rules and QUIETLY use them. Furthermore: USE THE RULES AVAILABLE UNDER THE LAW. GOD IS ABUNDANCE; WHY DO YOU ALWAYS MAKE HIM BEG? HE DOESN'T EXPECT YOU TO BEG OF HIM—SIMPLY ASK. TOGETHER YOU AND HE WILL FIND A SOLUTION—EVEN IF IT APPEARS OTHERWISE IN THE MOMENT.

I have chosen to speak on these things so that you can better understand how difficult it is to always protect our very project and program AND try on the fortune-teller prophecy garb. The prophecies are arrived, my friends, and if you can't see it as it was planned for lo, the generations—then clean your glasses.

The program has to go as prophesied in those old books presented in ancient times: BECAUSE THAT IS THE WAY IT WAS/IS PLANNED AND YOU WOULD ACCEPT NO OTHER POSSIBILITIES. Whatever comes will be custom-made to fit those visions of the “end times”, readers, with all the gore, blood and destruction evil can muster.

You have now lost your freedom of speech and freedom of the press. People will now be arrested and hanged in violation of national security regulations for leaking information. Will the journalists put up with it? Well, of course. In addition, the governments right from the President down (in all nations) have declared that all will be SECRET. To protect what and whom? Well, of course—THEM. Bitch about it—and you WILL be shot as a traitor.

Why have they pretty much left “ME” alone? Because of many things—but one reason is I won't lie to you. This is the way things ARE, readers—and at the moment, the big stick is in Satan's drawing room. Funny thing: You can force Man to be evil but you cannot force him to be good—because “goodness” is a state of being and that requires SOUL. The adversary can, however, force a Good man to do Bad acts. It is not even a contradiction in terms.

A paper has been sent requesting my comments and yes, I will ask that the text be shared, copied here if you will. There is nothing NEW about the material you will read here and anywhere I might make exception is so small as to offer no argument or correction—including the “so-called aliens”.

There is a lot to be attended regarding Reticulum (I and II) as to Zeta of the same classifications.

I will tell you that “there are” just as there “are” Atmospherians offshore Cebu, Philippines. I will not jeopardize any program or person by more conversations on the topic at THIS TIME. We wrote and I spoke openly about these things and people. It is now time for CONFIRMATION and/or at least food for thought on a very basic physical observation point.

[QUOTING Dr. Rich Boylan, “Prediction Now Timely”. Via e-mail from friendly senders. Received 10/11/01 Thank you, Jerry:]

2000 PREDICTION NOW TIMELY

I am reissuing this posting 11 months later, because it appears that certain predictions are now occurring.—Richard Boylan, Ph.D.

Latest Briefing from high-level National Security Informant 11/26/00 by Richard Boylan, Ph.D.

He emerged from his vehicle in the parking lot of a fancy hotel near the shoreline, attired in dress-casual clothes with sunglasses, thrust out his hand, and said, “Hi! I'm [Z]” (name withheld in this dispatch). With that, I met face-to-face with one of the highest-level informants in the U.S. National Security network. What follows are extracts from our three-hours-long conversation.

“Z” was deeply concerned about current events in the Middle East. He said the National Security community considers that the place where soon war could break out which would engulf not only the Middle East, drawing in not only Syria, Iraq, Jordan, and possibly Egypt, Turkey and Iran, but also draw in larger powerful states such as India and Russia.

Then, with India's attention diverted, China could march into areas of India it considers within its sphere of influence.

The Western Powers would have to respond, and global war would become a reality.

He said that the Intelligence community expects a major terrorist strike within the United States this Winter, most likely a biological warfare agent dispersed across a city of note, or even a nuclear weapon detonated. He noted grimly that 18 Soviet nuclear warheads have gone missing, and are most likely in terrorist hands now. He considered anthrax the most likely biowarfare agent to be used, but allowed as that there are other killer microbes available to the terrorists also. He said terrorist groups are within the U.S. now.

[H: Please keep in mind that this is a “reprint”.]

Z stated that the U.S. is quietly on ThreatCon Delta, the equivalent of the Pentagon's wartime DefCon 4 (active war) alert status. ThreatCon Delta is the highest level of civilian threat alert condition, because biological or nuclear incidents are considered likely to occur at any time now. Because of ThreatCon Delta, classified sections of the National Security are considered likely to occur at any time now. Because of ThreatCon Delta, classified sections of the National Security Act (amended) and secret Presidential National Security Directives have become activated. “Did you know,” Z asked me, “that the President is not in charge now?”

“FEMA (the Federal Emergency Management Agency] IS!” I replied that that is unconstitutional. Z replied that the classified laws and NSD Directives make it legal. We discussed installations that are all stocked and staffed and prepared to take in a certain portion of the population in the event of a disaster or terrorist strike happening. Such installations include one under the Kansas City stadium, with a capacity to take care of one million selected persons. Many such installations exist and are ready to go.

There is also a “shadow government”, Z told me, with substitute President, Vice-President, Cabinet officers, heads of Senate and Congress, Supreme Court Justices and other top governmental officials ready to function if disaster strikes “topside”. Thus he confirmed earlier leaked reports about a secret Continuity-of-Government plan. He also confirmed that the “REX Exercise” authorized by President Reagan was a dry-run dress rehearsal of the taking over of command of the government, legislature and courts by the unelected shadow government, implemented, if necessary, by federalized FEMA troops.

Z then got down to the more exotic areas of mutual interest. He confirmed the previously-anecdotal story about President Nixon's having taken then-famous television star Jackie Gleason to Homestead Air Force Base, Florida, and showed him the corpses of Zeta Reticulan (Grey) crewmen retrieved from a UFO crash. Z said that he, too, had viewed those bodies. He indicated that the Bilderberg Council (a transnational elite world-policy-planning group comprised of heads of some governments and multinational corporations) interacts with “The Nine”, a group of extraterrestrial representatives from a Council of Coordination for many cosmic super-civilizations in contact with Earth. Phyllis Schlemmer spoke of this in her classic book, The Only Planet of Choice. Schlemmer herself occasionally is a channel for The Nine.

Z also confirmed what black-projects defense industry insider Edgar Rothschild Fouche wrote about in his recent book, Alien Rapture: the existence of the TR3-B, a large triangular antigravity craft within the U.S. antigravity fleet. This fleet also includes: the B-2 Stealth Bomber, made by Northrop, the Lockheed X-22A two-man antigravity disc, the large space-faring Nautilus, manufactured by Boeing and EU's Airbus Industries, Northrop's discoid craft, and the XH-75D or “XH Shark” antigravity helicopter, made by Teledyne Ryan Aeronautical Corporation of San Diego. Here is what Z had to say about the TR3-B triangular antigravity craft.

“TR3-B. This is the code name for what everyone on Earth has seen. It is a very large triangular-shaped re-entry vehicle with anti-gravity. It is what the November issue of Popular Mechanics identified as the Lenticular Reentry Vehicle, a nuclear-powered flying saucer, the first version of which went operational in 1962. [The version Popular Mechanics illustrated.]

“It was used in Gulf War's early hours with electromagnetic-pulse/laser cannons. It literally sat mid-air, firing long-, medium-, short-range to take out antennas, towers, communications, air traffic control towers, TV dishes and centers, etc. For three hours, these three triangles [TR3-Bs] just sat there blowing up everything in sight. Then the Stealth fighters had fun for the rest of the day into the early evening next night. Then [followed] carpet bombings from high altitude B-52 Strato-Fortresses. They dumped all the old, aged Vietnam-era crap [munitions]; a third blew up, the rest [were] duds.

“Anyway, the TR3-B has been in testing since the ‘60s. BUT it has only been perfected for the last 8 years (1992). It is a good remake of what Truman first saw [the Roswell semi-circular craft]. It is compartmentalized, built by the Skunk Works [Lockheed-Martin’s classified plant at Palmdale, CA] and Boeing. It is housed in Utah. Remember Utah?” Z was reminding me of his earlier revelation that the U.S. Space Command has located its prime headquarters and antigravity space-launch fleet facility beneath the tallest mountain in the Wasatch Range east of Salt Lake City, Utah.

[H: Yes indeedy, and there is another one in the mountains accross the way from the old Robber’s Roost Ranch looking from the front stoop. Perhaps you should think of that in dealing over and about that ranch, E.J. That is why we wanted the site for the motion picture that was underway until both A.C. and Wally Gentleman left us. A.C. was helped along by medical errors, Wally from a broken heart that without the ranch backup the Sipapu might never get finished. It is called “easy access”.]

“This is the end of that story. This is what people have seen, which I could safely estimate more than 90% of the times. The other 10% is what you seek, the real! [Extraterrestrial UFOs].”

I politely disagreed with Z’s estimate, since I doubted that the U.S. antigravity fleet was numerous enough to account for the hundreds of daily sightings. But I thanked him for all his information, and for so graciously driving a distance to rendezvous with me.

I certainly hope that the destructive incidents that the current ThreatCon Delta alert is set for do not happen. But I also believe that the American public has a right to know what I have learned.—Richard Boylan, Ph.D., LLC

[H: I will leave it to MM as to whether or not he should run the other information regarding this party.] [MM: included at the end of this writing]
[END OF QUOTING]

The next we will offer but without further personal information as to source. Let’s just offer it as is, please.

THIS WAS WRITTEN BY AN AMERICAN AIRLINES PILOT WHO IS IN THE U.S. NAVY RESERVES.

[QUOTING Wed., October 10, 2001:]

I want to tell you a few things about this tragedy [Twin Tower event] from an airline/military pilots perspective. First off, about 80 percent of the nations airline pilots are ex-military, many are combat vets, the captains from Vietnam and first officers from Desert Storm and allied force. This could never happen again; let me explain.

During the 1960s race to put a man on the Moon, NASA had a tragedy, an Apollo space ship burned on the launch pad with 3 men strapped inside. In the hearing that followed, the lead NASA engineer was asked how it happened, and he replied “imagination”.

He went on to explain that the engineers at NASA never imagined that the oxygen they flooded the capsule with prior to launch could be ignited by a spark from a piece of Velcro.

Last week a tragedy happened because no one in the entire aviation industry could have imagined that terrorists would hijack 4 aircraft and use them as cruise missiles. We were trained extensively on hijacking in training at American [Airlines]; our training was industry standardized so I know all airline pilots received essentially the same message.

If you are hijacked, you comply with the hijackers demands to the extent necessary to get the jet on the ground and minimize the loss of life. That strategy has proven correct over the past 40 years and saved hundreds of lives; last week it killed thousands.

I just finished 5 days flying the line domestically. I volunteered to fly and was co-pilot on the second American flight to take off from Miami when flight operations resumed. I can report to you that the aviation system in America is the safest it’s been in history, and I can tell you that no American/U.S. airliner will ever be successfully hijacked again. Airline Pilots will never permit it.

[H: This man is a real macho dreamer, but then, “imagination” has done a lot of damage elsewhere too.]

After flying empty aircraft the first day, I slowly saw the number of passengers increase, and spent hours talking to them and reassuring them. I want everyone in the unit to keep the following recommendations in mind. When you fly, allow 3 hours at the airport for check in, leave any type of tool or weapon (especially a pocket knife) at home, my flight engineer had a hole punch taken away from him at a security check point in Philly yesterday.

Don’t kid around at all about hijacking at the airport or on the aircraft (I know that seems obvious but people say weird things when they’re nervous). When you’re in flight, wear your set belt tightly unless you’re making a head call. Don’t drink, any type of disorderly conduct is going to result in a felony arrest.

If a hijacking is attempted, the second choice for the pilots is to break every bone in the hijacker’s body through a series of positive and negative “g” maneuvers (hence the Seattle).

The first thing they’ll do if the altitude is sufficient is depressurize the aircraft rendering everyone unconscious; we can turn off the oxygen to the cabin from the cockpit, then the first officer will enter the cabin on a portable O2 bottle and kill the hijackers (with a fire extinguisher or similar blunt object) while the captain lands at the nearest suitable field.

By the time you wake up (and you’ll be absolutely fine, airplanes have depressurized before) the terrorist will be dead; we have no choice but to kill them in order to prevent a possible situation back on the ground. I have talked with dozens of pilots the past 5 days; our resolve in this matter is firm; most would relish the opportunity.

Contrary to the reports on the news, we can effectively stop an attempted aircraft takeover, we simply didn’t realize that it was necessary; until last week we saved more lives by complying with hijacker demands; we’ll not make that mistake again.

Bin Laden changes his strategy each time. I seriously doubt he’d ever try this particular type of attack again. I obviously fly for a living, but I would not hesitate to put my family on an aircraft today; it is truly the safest I have ever seen it.

As many of us are activated, we’ll have to fly on commercial airliners. We will all be safe; please keep the few pointers I provided in mind. With God’s help we’ll win this war.

[END OF QUOTING]

Ah indeed, macho men!

Flying might well be the safest it has ever been—but when you know the facts, it has never really be safe—just pretty lucky is more like it. Ask Rodney Stich from Unfriendly Skies.

But, that is NOT the problem and no matter HOW MACHO the pilots may be—IF THE PLANE IS NOT IN HIS CONTROL, HE WILL NOT “CONTROL” IT. IT WILL GO WHERE IT IS PROGRAMMED TO GO—RIGHT TO THE TARGET.

Bin Laden didn’t make these plans so why would it be suggested he would or would not “change” them?

No, I don’t want to be a wet blanket and I certainly KNOW that some of you HAVE TO FLY if you are going anywhere. There are no terrorists on the globe worse than the ones after you—NOW.

Will YOU object? NOT FOR LONG. And yes indeed, indeed, indeed, it is far better to be wise and LIVE TO ACT ANOTHER DAY. GOD AND RIGHT NEED NO MORE MARTYRS—JUST LIVE PEOPLE BUILDING A BETTER WAY.

It is said that Church and State must not mix and that Politics and Religion should not be mixed. I find that an interesting concept in a “logical” mind—Politics and Religion ARE THE SAME THING! And, a State without SPIRITUAL foundation of goodness, IS WHAT YOU HAVE NOW. Can, then, it get worse? Yes. Therefore, I must request strongly that my teams do NOTHING foolish, and that includes ongoing legal matters with big decisions to be made about the most expeditious way to handle same. Just make sure you arrange to keep the passports clear for most will want, at some time, to fly the friendly skies. All else amounts to NAUGHT.

I can assure you that we will and can work with whatever is dealt us. I do, however, suggest that you always move with the least disruption, for we need to move on through these foolish times of “getcha” just to spite the face and play the lawyer games.

If “they” demand something of you—give them two. Remember, Esu said: If a man demands your coat give him also your cloak. Now, go to bed and get a good night’s sleep, please, for we have much to do before we rest again.

Salu, GOD is with you and so, blessed are ye, GCH

EFFECTS ON HUMAN CONSCIOUSNESS
AND SPIRITUALITY OF THE UPCOMING
ANNOUNCEMENT OF UFO REALITY

By Richard J. Boylan, Ph.D., posted 11/21/99

(Dr. Richard J. Boylan is a Ph.D. behavioral scientist, Associate Professor of Psychology at Chapman University, clinical hypnotherapist, consultant, researcher, and author of four books and numerous articles. He is a consultant to persons exploring personal growth and transformation issues, and ET and other anomalous experiences. His research investigations have included: human encounters with extraterrestrials, parapsychological/psychic experiences, life-stage growth factors, and societal implications of contact with cosmic cultures.)

Psychology and anthropology provide illumination and prediction about the effects on humanity of the public disclosure of extraterrestrial contact. Let us begin this examination of the effects of extraterrestrial contact, starting from the "pre-contact", natural, self-centered perspective from which we humans tend to operate. Along the long chain of evolution from simple primate to homo sapiens, it is widely accepted that the point at which our evolution passed from pre-human (or proto-human) to fully human, was at the point at which man became conscious. Webster's defines "conscious" as meaning: "perceiving, apprehending, or noticing with a degree of controlled thought or observation", and "capable of or marked by thought, will, design, or perception". Inherent in these definitions is the idea that consciousness is self-awareness that is under the control of the aware person. While modern comparative psychologists have conceded that the faculty of consciousness is not limited to humans, but also shared to some degree by other animal and even plant life, it is the degree to which humans are self-conscious, purposefully reflective, and able to elaborate our ideas into complex actions and new creations, which marks our distinctive consciousness. When we scan the other members of the animal kingdom, we have almost universally arrived at the conclusion that we are, perhaps through no merit of our own, at the pinnacle of animate life. What places us at the pinnacle of animate life, we deduce, is precisely the consciousness which enables us to step back and evaluate all other orders and species, and arrive at the conclusion that none is as conscious as we are. And we act upon this superiority-consciousness: We treat other species as inferior, and obviously here for our use and domination. We ride horses. We butcher cows. We pen up gorillas in our zoological gardens for our amusement or education. We eat chickens and fish. We keep birds in cages, and confine cats to our homes, as companions. And aside from the anomaly of the "neurotic" Venus fly-trap, we hardly give plant life any thought about its consciousness at all.

Naturally, we equate our superior consciousness with superior intelligence. Because of the apparently unique way in which we are aware, we conclude that the way we process information and organize data makes us the most intelligent species of all. Whales may have bigger brain mass, but no whale has ever produced a Lamborghini, we proudly point out. And again, because we place ourselves at the pinnacle of not only consciousness, but also intelligence, we assume that the rest of the less-bright natural order is putty in our hands, to be manipulated by our intelligence into useful and creative forms.

Human consciousness, we further surmise, is inherently an individual matter. Each of us has our own thoughts, plans and imaginations. We have individual control of these, and derive security from the idea that our thoughts are our own. Our cultural behavior is built around these assumptions. As an example, consider the reaction of a 14-year-old girl when she discovers that her parents have been reading her diary. But it is not that way with every culture on Earth. (And it most certainly is not that way with off-planet cultures contacting us.)

There is a tribe in the East Indies whose first ritual in the morning is to gather after awakening, and then each member of the tribe shares their dreams of the night before. The content of these dreams is seen as a valued shared resource, to be made use of by the entire tribe for instruction, prediction, and understanding. How different from the jealously-guarded individual thought domains of individuals in Western culture!

Since psychologists and anthropologists generally agree that the natural condition of humankind is social interdependence, it follows that modern hyperindividualism of consciousness may be seen as unnatural and dysfunctional. Put more strongly, we humans cannot attain our highest and best potential while we cage ourselves in cells of rugged individualism. The extraterrestrials (ETs) accomplish their communication telepathically. Furthermore, because of the shared, radiating-outward quality of telepathy, ETs operate in a collective mind-field, a sort of shared mental "commons", just as the Boston Commons is a physical shared meeting ground. Because of their heritage of operating in a shared mind-field, the ETs have developed cultures which emphasize collective purpose, group will, and the presumption of mutual support and aid. Furthermore, the ETs' degree of collective consciousness has opened them up to the presence of consciousness throughout the universe and in all things, to a greater or lesser degree. Additionally, the ETs have a metaphysics which seems to hold that consciousness is at the foundation of the universe as its Supreme Source. Thus, one impact on the traditional cultures of the Western industrialized societies will be a radical revision in the way we look at consciousness. As we humans develop more experience in dealing with the extraterrestrials' consciousness, we will have to abandon what we will come to see as our distorted view of consciousness as completely individual. We will have to expand our understanding to create a permissive context for shared mental communication and group consciousness to be allowed to take place among us. Events which formerly were restricted to the province of psychics and the paranormal, such as reading another person's mind, will become commonplace. But even more, such consciousness-sharing will not be seen as socially impolite. In the mental "commons", no one is an intruder, and all have a place.

The transformative implications of this paradigm shift should not be missed. Just as at a nude beach, visual openness among people tends to create a social spirit of relaxedness and trust, even more so will a mental openness and exchange foster attitudes of mutual acceptance and respect, appropriate trust, and the abandonment of interpersonal behavior based on misuse of power and deception. In a telepathic mind-field commons, there is no place to hide dark thoughts of greed, hate, aggression and deception. Social collective consciousness exerts a pressure on the individual to abandon such thoughts, and operate in ways that work together for the greater good of all.

Our assumption about being at the pinnacle of evolutionary development, because of our highly-developed consciousness and intelligence, is due for a rude revision, when the reality of extraterrestrial contact emerges into public awareness. The consciousness of the extraterrestrials is not only arrayed more distributively than ours, it appears to be, on the average, much more developed. Features of such advanced consciousness development include: less reliance on material artifacts, greater reliance on metaphysical and spiritual perspectives in planning and decision-making, treating individual beings and planets from an integrated systems perspective, and an appropriate subordination of their motivations and will to ethical and spiritual considerations derived from awareness of the intrinsic sacredness of all creation. Extraterrestrial intelligence is certainly not only greater than ours, but arrayed differently. Using human IQ as an inadequate but understandable yardstick, I have estimated the intelligence of the most prevalent visiting ET race at an average of "300 IQ". Of course, the ways that the ETs are intelligent are almost certainly different than our form of intelligence. And their intelligence, operating in conjunction with their advanced consciousness, develops much more thorough, systemic and integrated comprehension and problem-solving than is common in human intelligence.

Therefore, another paradigm shift which awaits us is the lowering of ourselves from the pedestal of creation's peak, and instead to place ourselves in a more modest but more accurate position somewhere along the spectrum of intelligent conscious lifeforms.

A corollary revision of human thinking involves the realization of the cosmic dimensions of the community of intelligent life. We humans will have to make the leap of awareness that, not only are we not the only intelligent, conscious life in the universe, but that such intelligent consciousness is common, and widely distributed among star systems. Further revision of perspective will be needed as we come to see that intelligence and consciousness form a community in the universe. This community is not just due to the common sharing of intelligence and consciousness, but more radically, due to the nature of intelligent consciousness as the core underpinning constituent of the universe. Further, that consciousness is intrinsic to the nature of matter and energy.

Another revisionist area for humans will be the erstwhile assumption that each of us is a personal uniqueness, consisting of a unique consciousness/personhood/soul, operating in one unique lifetime. The extraterrestrials know better.

While each of us is unique in the sense that we are not interchangeable clones, our uniqueness is not derived from separateness from the community and collective consciousness. For it is only within such community and collective consciousness, that we derive our awareness of being, our understanding of our special role and contribution, our sense of a heritage from which we are derived, and our sense of a future into which we can take our personal and community efforts. The individual person has no meaning divorced from the community of origin and community of participation. The extraterrestrial cultures have long since mastered this understanding. Members of ET societies operate from a communitarian perspective, and derive their sense of worth and belongingness from their contributory position within their communities.

Furthermore, when we view the situation from the perspective which the ETs use, we can see that while we may think of ourselves as unique individuals, each of whom has his/her individual allotment of intelligent consciousness, actually the reverse is the case. There is intelligent consciousness, distributed widely and generously throughout the universe; and of that consciousness matrix, we are somewhat individuated yet connected actualizations. This is also why each of us does not die, indeed, cannot die. As transiently-individuated constituents of the pervasive consciousness matrix, since the matrix consciousness is forever, so are those connected with matrix consciousness.

The human idea of a soul doing a unique lifetime, after which it will be judged on how well or evilly it acted in its lifetime, is thus simply not a correct understanding. Human spirituality, at least in the Western industrialized cultures, has historically involved a cosmology built upon the assessment of the way the conscious self/soul behaved. Furthermore, our morality has been built on the proper exercise of the faculties of motivation and will, the handmaidens of individual consciousness. Each of these religious/moral assumptions will undergo abrupt discontinuity and major challenge, when humans, individually and socially, confront the paradigm-shattering implications of the public world announcement of extraterrestrial contact with Earth.

A major disconcerting notion for many Westerners will be the ETs' metaphysics. Their metaphysics includes the awareness that that which defines a person, their spark or soul, does not die nor is used up after a lifetime. Instead, that spark persists, and can, and often does, choose to reinvest in another body and go through another lifetime. Indeed, the ETs tell us, certain such sparks, which were invested in an extraterrestrial body in a previous lifetime, have subsequently volunteered to do a human lifetime, and have invested in a human embryo, and are doing a human lifetime currently. This "missionary incarnation" is apparently designed to help spread appropriate consciousness, as we humans prepare for the major transitional times which are upon us. Such serial-incarnation histories for a given soul/spark may help explain why certain human experiencers of ET contact have the notion that, although human, they have an ET heritage and/or an alternative ET consciousness which breaks through at times.

It follows that the perspective that a unique soul will be definitively judged at the end of its lifetime as to how well or evilly it behaved must be changed. No one lifetime is definitive for the soul. Indeed, soul continuity allows for the soul to become more developed in its consciousness and spirituality, as a result of the various lifetime experiences it has undertaken. Therefore, traditional Western societies' Judgment-Day mentality must give way to a more developmental understanding of the "Pilgrim's Progress" of the journeying soul. Parenthetically, such spiritual metaphysics underscores the folly of those U.S. military compartments which are waging covert war on the Visitors in their craft. Such hostilities are attacks on what may well turn out to be family.

As a corollary, evolution will now become seen as not merely a doctrine about physiological development, but also spiritual and moral development as well. And traditional notions of Divine Creation will have to yield to a richer understanding that the Supreme Source continually creates, and recreates, throughout successive lifetimes. But no modern psychology and metaphysics would be adequate if they remained as mere conceptualizations, and were not translated into practice. Let us examine some practical implications of the above.

As background, the evidence suggests, as James Deardorff has noted, that Earth has been in a galactic quarantine against contact by other civilizations for a long time. And the quarantine is about to be lifted; not because we have been good, but because time is running out for Earth and for the human species. While we deserve galactic conservatorship, we are fortunate enough to be about to be offered galactic partnership: to save the planet, to end weapons of mass destruction, to work together to assure fair access to resources for all, and to acquire the information we need to develop further mentally and spiritually, so as to become fit to join the partnership of intelligent inhabited worlds.

In response to the lifting of the quarantine, we will need to develop a truly planetary single voice in addressing the Visitors. The shape and functioning of our future global governing structure will depend on what we insist that it be. We can draw some inspiration for the global governing structure by remembering that in America, we founded a country based on principles which are still the inspiration of peoples around the world. Is it not now time for us to reexamine the founding principles of our country? The right of human equality. The right to life and property (right livelihood). The right to pursue personal goals and objectives within the context of social responsibility (the pursuit of happiness). And we must add to the Founding Fathers' list of basic rights, the other rights which we have signed off on which are included in the United Nations Declaration of Universal Human Rights.

Furthermore, we will have to temper the American historical preoccupation with Rugged Individualism, by reflecting that, contrary to what Cain said about his murdered brother Abel, we are our brother's (and sister's) keeper.

Paradoxically, coming cataclysms will provoke each of us to reach down inside, and remember what is basic and best in each of us. Just as during the recent American floods, we saw society women and cleaning ladies, banking officers and farm hands all pulling together, filling sandbags while standing in the rain. Because, after all, it was everybody's community which was threatened. We need to keep that consciousness and spirit alive for the days of the near future, when we will be rebuilding human society, as we operate from the renewing perspective of having found out that we are cosmic citizens. There is more. As we become aware of the Visitors from afar as not just curious interlopers from space, but rather quite literally our "distant cousins", we shall have our whole sense of reality changed, and hopefully transformed. While it may shake many to come to learn that the ETs have played an active intervening role in our evolutionary development over the aeons, this news can also serve to build quicker bridges between humans and our galactic distant cousins.

We have always risen to new challenges. Mastering such challenges has made us stronger and wiser. I expect that this moment in our history, as extraterrestrial contact is dawning, will prove no exception. We can, and we will, arise to the challenge of being confronted with cosmic citizenship and interstellar family ties. And when soon the official meeting between our Cosmic Visitors and ourselves takes place, we can let that be not just an historic occasion, but recognize the truth that it is a family reunion, and as such, an occasion for great joy. What are the implications for us humans of, finally, the day arriving of the global manifestation of ET reality? How will it change us as individuals, as a society, as a planet? Each person will have to answer these questions personally, but I can offer some suggestions.

The advanced development of the extraterrestrials can inspire us to reach beyond our own current horizons. The ETs can, and will, challenge us to develop ourselves more mentally and spiritually, and to stop worshipping material progress for itself. The ETs will challenge us to confront, honestly, effectively and unflinchingly, the ecological crisis our world is in, and to turn the damage around now, for it is very soon becoming too late. The ETs, with their selfless outreach across millions of miles of space to raise our consciousness, can set an example for us to extend our own renewed caring to the less fortunate members of our own human race, and to see our basic solidarity as one human people. And the ETs can make us aware that the precious gift of life is not confined to one planet, or one millennium, or one galaxy, and thus help us have an improved understanding of what the source of life is, and on what our deepest human destiny is grounded.

An Age is passing—a new Age is being born. Let us welcome it.

SATAN'S DRUMMERS

PHOENIX JOURNAL #9 (1989)

CHAPTER 15

REC. #1 SANANDA

WED., NOV. 8, 1989 6:30 A.M.
YEAR 3, DAY 084

Sananda present for the final pages of this document. It will be the most distressing, for the pictures are so vivid. It is most unfortunate but it must be so. You do not wish to face this terrible thing that has grown to touch all of your lives. You have hidden too long—much too long. You must read these upcoming individual scenarios as if these were your family, your friends, your children and your babies. You must do so, for in all instances—they are! Your entire world has been raped, pillaged and plundered at the hands of evil—no more and no less. Turning away and pretending it is not will do naught.

If you still believe that you can comfortably live in today's world as a God-loving, law abiding citizen and not deal with the reality of Satanism, think again. Satanism is on the rise. It is not a passing fad that will fade if you all just ignore it or throw a few positive confessions at it. Not every Satanist group is involved in animal or human sacrifice, but a growing number of them most certainly are and the actions are sanctioned by the hierarchy of every group.

I am only going to touch on a few scatterings of cases which you can easily check for confirmation. As I look at the situation I find very few villages or cities which are completely absent of a witch or Satanic cult. It is far beyond the subject of good or bad, goodness or evil. You could not see far enough to understand that the last great religion to sweep the mighty planet Earth would be of evil. It, like anything else, begins most simply and innocently in most instances; just a few little rituals which “work”, a few chants which “work”, a few fortune-teller's tales that are “fact” and a movement into self-greed, misery, loneliness, boredom and whatever else “seems” correct. You are drawn like moths into a flame.

What I am going to tell you will not surpass the very movies you allow your babies to watch on any given Friday or Saturday in America, U.S.A. You pretend those are not true and, therefore, harmless—nay, they are true and they are most dangerous, indeed.

It is painful to hear these stories. It rips at the very depth of one's mind and soul to learn of the unspeakably deliberate evil that man is capable of committing. You would far rather talk and argue over one who is “Christ”. Well, for you who feel this way I most surely understand; however, it is a fact that these organized places of hell are “anti-christ” factories with written rules to break every Law of God and Creation—a doctrine of total evil.

Christians have become gross hypocrites and your children turn to truth. Shock you? I hope so. They turn to the truth, as heinous as it is. The only thing about the evil pronouncements which is total truth is that upon which they base their doctrines. The leaders of the cults live their lives in the selfish evil that they proclaim. The Christians go to churches and gatherings and go forth and live a lie. The children not only are witness to this but their peers, music, idols and daily living are testament to the fact of it.

The devil lies to the receivers. He promises them fulfillment, power, popularity and wondrous contentment and then he destroys his victims after he sucks everything from the entity.

Further, you don't know what goes on in these rituals—for the leaders either destroy their victims or can so terrify the observer or participant as to render, especially a child, helpless and actually present dual, triple (countless) personalities in order to preserve of the self.

Hundreds of your pre-schools are riddled with this disease. The children are organized into a worldwide computer network of pornography. And yet these same children—your children—come forth and testify in terror and you turn from them. Your own California Attorney General, in a report in your 1986 referred to a Bakersfield, California case: “It can be firmly stated that the satanic allegations eroded the children's credibility... and ultimately their ability to testify about what had happened to them.”

If there is one thing that cult Satanists do most well, it is to cover their tracks in such a way as to thoroughly discredit witnesses who might seek to come against them. That task is especially easy for them when dealing with young children, which is one reason why children make such ideal victims. The child may finally gain the courage to testify that he saw a little animal tortured, killed and burned or buried—even a baby tortured, killed and “cooked”. When these sites are excavated there is nothing found—of course not, these are sophisticated organizations. They bury the bodies to accomplish the discrediting—the moment the ritual is over for the child, the entity is dug up and disposed of elsewhere by burning or cooking.

DEAR ONES—THE CANDLES OF THE MOST VALUE UTILIZED IN THESE RITUALS ARE MADE OF HUMAN FAT. NOW, WHAT DOES THAT TELL YOU?

Further—sometimes in knowledge and sometimes in total ignorance, these ones of evil offer these artifacts for sale right through what you call your New Age journals and U.F.O. journals. I suggest you ones find a copy of one of these advertisements such as Inner Light Publications, a Brad Stieger organization, and read it. Especially read the advertisements for cult materials in the small print. Then I ask that you go forth in inner thought and check out the discrediting of UFOs and discrediting of alien visitors as vile enslavers and body snatchers.

ALIENS FROM THE COSMOS HAVE ABSOLUTELY NO NEED TO MUTILATE COWS, TAKE BLOOD OR ANIMAL PARTS. ANYONE WITH THE ABILITY TO TRAVERSE THE UNIVERSE HAS NO NEED OF SUCH VILENESS! IF THERE BE ALIENS INVOLVED IN SUCH, THEY ARE THERE AT THE REQUEST OF AND IN ACTION WITH ONES WHO HAVE FORMED CONTRACTS AND PACTS WITH EVIL—AND THE WORK IS PERFORMED UPON YOUR PHYSICAL PLACE BY PHYSICAL BEINGS.

IT IS TIME YOU ASSUME YOUR RESPONSIBILITIES, TAKE OFF YOUR FOOLISH BLINDFOLDS AND SEE WHAT IS ABOUT YOU.

Of course, some children have vivid imaginations and can construct falsely. But, dear ones, when a child can describe and draw pictures of things that you, as an adult, do not understand in language or actual fact—you had better get your “belief button” to “on”. How about a picture of an adult person who has “blue” lungs? Have you ever seen a dead-man's lungs? Would not a baby's intestines emerging from an opened abdomen appear like “worms” to a three year old with such limited vocabulary for descriptions?

How often do you, as a parent, inspect your child's anus or vagina for lacerations? So be it.

I will effort at giving you several examples ranging from the “abused” to the “really abused”. From the “little bit of abuse” to the parents who literally abuse their own children and then sell the child into pornography and on into heinous torture, mutilation, murder and insanity. A few make it back to tell about it—they are never whole again and I honor these blessed ones beyond my ability to express it, for they are helpless in the hands of mine adversary, and they have been forsaken by the very ones who are their caretakers and protectors.

These cults are filled with politicians, law officers, policemen, orthodox church leaders and your neighbors. It is power and total control and they are convinced they get this power and control from the rituals and heinous acts performed. The music shouts glory in evil and death to self and others. It projects rape, torture, blood spillage and crime as a motto of life.

As a parent, if you have teens who listen to music video, etc., go look about your child's room. What do you see? What is the appearance of your child? What are the actions of your child? Look at your child's “doodles” upon his notebooks and papers—what do you find? Are there pentagrams? Upside-down crosses? 666? “OZZY”? Knives?

And what do you do if you find these things? You better get on your knees to GOD. You will find the largest number of Satanic practicing physicians in the psychiatric community than any other. You will find at least one physician in every sacrificial practicing group for the purpose of surgery for delivering of babies.

You will also find at least one lawyer—it is part of the “rules” of the group to be “complete”.

The infant and babe are the most heinously abused. It was no accident that the Manson gang would go to the extent they did with Sharon Tate—she was pregnant! Think about it when you have your next little puff of cocaine, drink of “booze”, smoke of “pot” and watch your little music-video thriller. Oh, well, yes, I see, you tell your children these things are wrong and make them turn off their television from these things—or do you send them to their room where they can watch in peace and leave you to your favorite program? This is “look at yourselves” time!

CHAPTER 16

REC. #2 SANANDA

WED., NOV. 8, 1989 9:30 A.M. YEAR 3, DAY 084

In an effort to allow you to understand a bit of history and key players in leadership roles, I shall give you some historical and chronological information. It is more important that you of the United States know of that which is prevalent in the United States, therefore, I shall adhere to activities within America for the current times. It no longer matters what happened two thousand years ago—for the acts are more heinous than ever before in recorded history and further, you cannot handle more. The cleansing and corrections must begin at home and within self. There are worse practices taking place elsewhere in your world but relative “badness” is not that which we are about. This will be disappointing to ones in countries other than the North Americas who seek answers—but other geographical locations shall be handed by other scribes or at a later date.

HIGH-PROFILE SATANIC GROUPS

I wish to say at this point that it will not be your big organized groups which present the immediate hazard to you, for they must maintain a very clean outer shell. To participate in horrendous rituals the members will scatter to the little unknown groups here and there to preserve security. You will not know of these groups, which makes them doubly dangerous to you as citizens.

The major, known groups are public because they incorporate to glean tax-shelter status under religious protection. It is most unfortunate that evil invades all gifts.

Of the publicly noted organized groups are the Church of Satan, headed by Anton LaVey; the Temple of Set, headed by Colonel Michael Aquino; the Process Church of the Final Judgement; Our Lady of Endor Coven; the Ophite Cultus Satanis, founded in 1948 by Herbert Sloane in Toledo, Ohio; Brotherhood of the Ram, a southern California group; Church of Satanic Brotherhood, which broke away from the Church of Satan in the 70s over disagreements with Anton LaVey; and The Satanic Orthodox Church of Nethilum Rite, located in Chicago, which was formed in 1971.

There are other orthodox Satanic groups that exist whose names may come to your attention but I shall be discussing basically the first two.

I shall not give the honor to Anton LaVey nor to Michael Aquino of giving their personal backgrounds except as it applies directly to the current topic.

LaVey’s intent for the Church of Satan is to praise indulgence and discredit God and Christ-proclaiming churches. You will also see how insidious evil actually is in practice; it takes all the beautiful things and taints them with ugliness.

As a for instance, you will note that you are in year three, day 84 of a new calendar of sequence—all the most ancient of calendars have expired on August 16/17, 1987. The clever LaVey did the following: On April 30, 1966, the occult holiday of Walpurgisnacht, he shaved his head, put on a clerical collar, neatly trimmed his Mephistophelian beard and proclaimed the age of Satan. He encouraged and invited all news media to cover his antics. He was referred to as the Black Pope. He engaged in Black Masses in which a member would dress like the Pope. During the ceremony a nude woman was used as an altar as the make-believe Pope engaged in apparent sexual intercourse for the sake of the cameras. This is practiced openly when the press cameras are absent.

In May of 1967 (May is a most “unholy” month in Satanic circles—May 13th being a most unsacred and unholy day) he baptized his daughter Zeena into the Church of Satan. The baptism was recorded properly. LaVey then became very active in consultant roles, especially for the motion picture industry beginning with Rosemary’s Baby, the hit movie about a group of Satanists who use the wife of an aspiring actor to breed the devil’s child. LaVey is quite nicely listed as an advisor.

The Church of Satan continued to attract attention. A U.S. Navy seaman, who had been a member of the Church, died, and LaVey, accompanied by filmmaker and friend, Kenneth Anger, officiated at the funeral along with a Navy Honor Guard. The Church had gained legitimacy, so much so that the U.S. Government (yes, the same government as you honor) eventually provided its chaplains with a handbook that, along with other non-traditional religions, describes the religious needs of service people who belong to the Church of Satan—the information came from the Church itself.

Now, Dharma, please copy directly from the information provided for this purpose. As you read through this document, please note carefully things which must become obvious to you in relationships one with another. Note, for instance, the connection with the major rock musicians coming forth first from England and the relationship with the Nazi movement and symbolism with the German Satanic connection. Please, read between the lines, for the document had to be kept within “legal” boundaries. Further, watch for that which is omitted such as May 13th celebration and the high importance of Easter as a major time of sacrificing babies and children. Keep your eyes and minds open. Further keep in mind that the handbook was written prior to 1970 or approximately at that time—two decades past.

CHURCH OF SATAN—ANTON S. LAVEY
Post Office Box 7633
San Francisco, CA 94120
High Priest—AKA: Satanists
[QUOTING:]

HISTORICAL ROOTS: The Church of Satan is an eclectic body that traces its origins to many sources—classical voodoo, the Hell Fire club of 18th-Century England, the ritual magic of Aleister Crowley and the Black Order of Germany in the 1920s and 1930s.

CURRENT WORLD LEADER: Anton Szandor LaVey. High Priest.

NUMBER OF ADHERENTS IN THE U.S.: 10,000 to 20,000.

ORGANIZATIONAL STRUCTURE: The Church of Satan is focused in the Central Grotto in San Francisco. It accepts or rejects all potential members and charters other grottos around the country. Isolated individuals relate directly to the Central Grotto.

LEADERSHIP AND ROLE OF PRIESTS: The Priesthood is not comprised of individuals who are necessarily adept in the performance of rituals, though pastoral and organizational abilities are not minimized. The rank of Priest is conferred on those who have achieved a measurable degree of esteem or success; one’s level of membership within the church is commensurate with his/her position outside the church. Hence, a respected career soldier or commissioned officer in the Army might qualify, though be totally uninvolved with group activity. Rituals are conducted by a de facto priest, i.e., a celebrant member who has evidenced a working knowledge of and ability to conduct services and is authorized by the Central Grotto.

WHO MAY CONDUCT A RITUAL? Anyone, but a priest is required for group worship.

IS GROUP WORSHIP REQUIRED? No, but it is strongly encouraged, because it is a strong reinforcement of the faith and instillation of power.

WORSHIP REQUIREMENTS: Worship in the Church of Satan is based upon the belief that man needs ritual, dogma, fantasy and enchantment. Worship consists of magical rituals and there are three basic kinds: sexual rituals to fulfill a desire; compassionate rituals to help another; and destructive rituals used for anger, annoyance or hate. Grottos often gather on Friday evenings for group rituals.

MINIMUM EQUIPMENT FOR WORSHIP: Varies with the type of ritual performed but is likely to include a black robe, an altar, the symbol of Baphomet, candles, bell, a chalice, elixir (wine or some other drink most pleasing to the palate), sword, model phallus, gong and parchment.

FACILITIES FOR WORSHIP: A private place where an altar can be erected and rituals performed.

SPECIAL RELIGIOUS HOLIDAYS: The highest holiday is one’s own birthday. Every man is a God if he chooses to recognize that fact. After one’s birthday, Walpurgisnacht (April 30) and Halloween are most important. April 30 is the grand climax of the spring equinox; and Halloween was one of the times of the great fire festivals among the ancient Druids. The solstices and equinoxes—which fall in March, June, September and December—and mark the first day of the new seasons—are also celebrated.

FUNERAL AND BURIAL REQUIREMENTS: The priests of the Church of Satan perform funerals and the Central Grotto should be contacted in case of death.

AUTOPSY: No restrictions.

CREMATIONS: Only permitted in extreme circumstances such as an expedient measure where it is necessary to safeguard the health of others.

MEDICAL TREATMENT: No restrictions.

UNIFORM APPEARANCE REQUIREMENTS: No restrictions.

POSITION ON SERVICE IN THE ARMED FORCES: None.

ANY OTHER PRACTICES OR TEACHINGS WHICH MAY CONFLICT WITH MILITARY DIRECTIVES OR PRACTICES: None.

BASIC TEACHINGS OR BELIEFS: The Church of Satan worships Satan, most clearly symbolized in the Roman God Lucifer, the bearer of light, the spirit of the air, and the personification of enlightenment. Satan is not visualized as an anthropomorphic being, rather he represents the forces of Nature. To the Satanist, the self is the highest embodiment of human life and is sacred. The Church of Satan is essentially a human potential movement and members are encouraged to develop whatever capabilities they can by which they might excel. They are, however, cautioned to recognize their limitations—an important factor in this philosophy of rational self-interest. Satanists practice magic, the art of changing situations or events in accordance with one's will, which would, using normally accepted methods, be impossible.

CREEDAL STATEMENTS AND AUTHORITATIVE LITERATURE: The writings of Anton LaVey provide the direction for the Satanists—The Satanic Bible, The Compleat Witch and The Satanic Rituals. Members are encouraged to study pertinent writings which serve as guidelines for the Satanic thought such as works of Mark Twain, Niccolo Machiavelli, G.S. Shaw, Ayn Rand, Fredrich Neitzsche, etc.

ETHICAL PRACTICES: The ethical stance of the Church of Satan is summarized in the Nine Satanic Statements.

THE NINE SATANIC STATEMENTS:

1. Satan represents indulgence instead of abstinence!
2. Satan represents vital existence, instead of spiritual pipe dreams!
3. Satan represents undefiled wisdom, instead of hypocritical self-deceit!
4. Satan represents kindness to those who deserve it, instead of love wasted on ingrates!
5. Satan represents vengeance instead of turning the other cheek!
6. Satan represents responsibility to the responsible, instead of concern for psychic vampires!
7. Satan represents man as just another animal sometimes better, sometimes worse than those that walk on all-fours, who, because of his "divine spiritual and intellectual development", has become the most vicious animal of all!

8. Satan represents all of the so-called sins, as they all lead to physical, mental or emotional gratification.

9. Satan has been the best friend the church has ever had, as he has kept it in business all these years!

Beyond the above principles, Satanists generally oppose the use of narcotics which dull the senses and suicide which cuts off the life (the great indulgence) and stand firmly on law and order. The Church of Satan is not to be confused with Satanist groups which have been found to engage in illegal acts.

HOW DOES THE CHURCH OF SATAN RECRUIT NEW MEMBERS? The Church does not proselytize but welcomes inquiries from those potential Satanists who hear about the Church from the various books about it, the mass media or word of mouth.

RELATIONSHIP WITH OTHER RELIGIONS: The Church of Satan stands as a gathering point for all those who believe in what the Christian Church opposes, the members are generally hostile to its teachings and resultant behavior patterns. To a lesser extent, the same position holds for Eastern religions.

[END OF QUOTING]

"POLITICS HIT EVERYONE"

In your mid-70s, some members of the Church of Satan became displeased with LaVey and what they perceived as the church's new direction. They thought the Church to be too high profile, too media conscious and too much like a circus sideshow. They also believed that LaVey's ego was becoming more important than the church's mission. Many senior members quit and began their own groups. One of these people was Michael Aquino.

Aquino joined the Church of Satan after serving nine months in Vietnam as a lieutenant in the cavalry squadron for the 82nd Airborne. When he flew home to San Francisco in 1969 to be married, he was looking for a dose of counter-culture, something to even out the effects of Army regimentation. He saw an advertisement for the Church of Satan in the Berkeley Barb, an underground newspaper.

Aquino met LaVey and the two became very close over the years. LaVey raised Aquino to the full level of IVth degree—Magister Templi—the first Satanist other than LaVey to attain this level. Here is a little tid-bit of gossip: The recognition was conveyed on August 5, 1973, the anniversary of Marilyn Monroe's death.

LaVey was fascinated with Monroe and members of the Church claimed that LaVey held a ritual of necromancy for her. LaVey knew Monroe's death was not suicide. He knew her death was connected with her alleged relationships with John and Robert Kennedy. Do you begin to see how the circles spiral around and around? And now, let us look closely at how things begin to really swing into heinous action.

Aquino believed that the Church was becoming corrupt. He believed it erred in allowing outsiders visit, study, and observe the Church without any intention of personal commitment. The Church elders believed that if people were exposed to the Church philosophy, they would make such a commitment. Aquino believed that was wrong. He believed that people vampirized the Church, enjoyed the accessories of the philosophy (the indulgence without guilt) and contributed very little. You see, to this point the Church of Satan was very little different than many of your hippy and new age groups. I'm sorry, dear readers, but that is a factual statement.

Aquino decided to start his own Satanic cult and vowed not to make the same mistakes as the Church of Satan. The group was actually an offshoot of an order within the Church of Satan known as The Order of the Trapezoid. As opposed to modern magic with a Mediterranean origin, the Order emphasized magic from Northern Europe and Germany. Germanic mysticism developed mostly on its own and remained isolated during the Roman rule of Europe. It resurfaced during the Second and Third Reichs in Germany, much of it the basis for the Nazis' obsession with the Black Arts. According to some members within the Church of Satan, the Order attempted to reconstruct this German mysticism. According to others, however, it had unpleasant overtones of Nazism.

AGE OF SET

While still a member of the Church of Satan, Aquino spelled out the tenets of the Temple of Set in The Book of Coming Forth by Night. The title is the antithesis of The Book of Coming Forth by Day (also known as the Egyptian Book of the Dead). Are any of my dear ones beginning to feel a bit warm and squirming about in your chairs?

Aquino says that The Book came to him after he called upon the Prince of Darkness and his coming forth. In it, Set declares the Age of Satan to be over and the Age of Set beginning. Set says that his pact with LaVey is over and according to Aquino, "Upon the ninth solstice, I destroyed my pact with Anton Szandor LaVey... Thus all may understand that he (LaVey) is dearly held by me, and that the Church of Satan is not a thing of shame to him. But a new Aeon is now to begin, and the work of Anton Szandor LaVey is done." And so, on the night of the North Solstice 1975 a new age of horror began.

The Temple of Set as an organization was formally incorporated in 1975 C.E. (Satanists prefer to use C.E. meaning "Common Era", instead of A.D. for Anno Domini, the Year of Your Lord.) In addition, time would be reckoned starting with 1966 as year one.

CRYSTAL TABLET OF SET

Before we project the writings from the tablet, let us quote from Aquino regarding himself. "I am a Lieutenant Colonel in the Army on active duty, working in resource management. I am a graduate of the National Defense University in Washington, D.C. Beyond that, I would rather not discuss the details of my military career as, in the American tradition of separation of a church and state, I endeavor not to confuse the two or invoke one in a context pertinent to the other.

"I have a Ph.D. in political science from the University of California, Santa Barbara, and a Master of Public Administration from George Washington University in Washington, D.C. I have also taught political science for several years as an adjunct professor at Golden Gate University in San Francisco.

“The title of my doctoral dissertation was ‘The Neutron Bomb’. As it was in the field of Political Science, it dealt with the U.S., European, and Soviet negotiations concerning the development and possible deployment of neutron weapons in NATO during the Carter administration. Its principal theme—other than being a historical survey of the episode—was that the perceptions upon which many of the actors based their decisions were not necessarily related to the facts, nor were decisions made with a clear strategic foreign policy necessarily in mind.

“Interestingly enough, my research led me to conclude that Jimmy Carter was a careful and methodical decision-maker where the neutron issue was concerned. This is in refutation to his popular image as an indecisive and weak leader.

“As a matter of policy, the Temple of Set does not give out membership numbers. The bulk of our membership is spread fairly evenly throughout the United States with other members in Europe, Canada, and some Pacific Basin countries. Most of those who contact us wash out before even applying to join. They are discouraged by the rather dry membership informational letter we issue. Of those who apply for Ist-degree admission, perhaps half don’t attain recognition as Adept IIInd degree within the two-year time limit. There is virtually no attrition beyond the IIInd degree level, though we have had a few senior initiates who have either resigned for personal reasons or been expelled for abuse of their responsibilities, the last such occurrence being about five years ago.”

Rather than bore you further with dialogue from the tablets, it suffices to know that they lay down the general guidelines for the Temple of Set. Ah, Satan was happy—and then even Satan had to raise up and look around. The secret cults springing forth from out of the bowels of his churches were even more degrading than he can stomach.

When you ones pull from the ranks to interrogate on your talk shows, you can get honest answers from the participants, for the rules of the church do not advocate any of the things you pick at. Satan is the Prince of Lies, would he answer honestly even if it were true? Please, don’t embarrass yourselves.

WHO ARE THE MEMBERS?

Of the Satanic cults as organized, it is mostly White, upper-middle-class young people. You won’t find many Blacks or other minority groups. If you find participating minority ethnic groups, it will be in the so-called pagan groups or Santeria because each group will have its counterpart of ritualism. However, your most heinous groups are right out of Middle America.

People get involved for power and control—power over yourself, power over others and power over your surroundings. Dharma, another quote, please. This from a practicing member, Chicago bus driver: “If you know anything about Satanism, you know it’s about power. It is power that we all have, but most of us are too scared to let loose, take control of the power that Satan has given us.

“I like the fact that you don’t grovel, you don’t kneel and ask God for things. That, to me, is begging. My being is too proud for begging. You have to be real sure of yourself to be a Satanist. You have to have your act together.

“I ask Satan for what I want! I don’t beg some God that you can’t see. Can I see Satan? You bet I can. Look at all the sickness, hurt, and warfare in the world. That’s Satan! If there really was a God, and he’s supposed to be so good, WHY DOES HE LET THESE BAD THINGS HAPPEN? I’ll tell you why. Because Satan takes charge here on Earth, and God takes care of heaven. All good little people will go to heaven when they die. That’s nice. I’m going to hell where I’m going to continue indulging myself. So, while you’re being good so you can go to heaven after you die, I’m going to keep on enjoying myself here on Earth and again in hell. Who’s having the better time, me or you?

“No, my group isn’t affiliated with any established group. We’re our own group. In fact, some of the people in our group have parents who were Satanists. We have a name, but I’m not telling you what it is. You wouldn’t know what it meant, anyway. How many people? About fifty, at any one time. We break up into smaller groups for workings.

“I won’t tell you about our specific activities. That’s secret, but I will tell you this: We do whatever we want, the people in our group. We have connections for anything. I’ll leave it at that. If you think I’m going to admit illegal action to you, you’re crazy.” This statement was made to an investigating officer.

You also have what you might call, self-styled Satanists. This category fits ones such as your Richard Ramirez (the “Night Stalker”) of California. He would like to have joined a special group but he is so evil that no-one wanted him. Also one such as Clifford St. Joseph who was convicted in the Spring of 1988 of first-degree murder. During his trial, it was revealed that his victim had been drained of blood.

Then in June of 1985, a man was discovered killed. The perpetrators were gay and kept the man in a cage and used him sexually. They carved a pentagram into his chest. Candlewax drippings were in his right eye. He has not been identified—how very sad, not even the dignity of identification—just #60 in a police morgue. The perpetrators were into self-styled insanity. There was no evidence of motive of the killing except for ritual purposes. All manner of Satanist materials were found at the scene of the slaughter.

Then you have another category which you would have to suggest is a youth subculture. The youngsters begin by playing with Satanic ideas and get hooked. Most will dabble in it more than anything else, but a percentage will carry it beyond the games involved. These children are most often influenced by heavy metal music or by fantasy role-playing games like Dungeons & Dragons. The youngsters who go beyond the normal curiosity tend to be those who have other behavior problems going on—problems in school, with peers, at home and, of course, they have that consuming desire for power and control. I shall enlarge upon this grouping first by presenting some pathetic cases. The first being one Sean Sellars.

SEAN SELLARS

In October 1986, an Oklahoma jury found Sean Sellars, seventeen, guilty of three counts of murder for killing his mother, stepfather and a convenience store clerk in the fall of 1985. Sellars was a self-styled Satanist who was obsessed with using human blood in his rituals. He kept several vials hidden in his refrigerator for black masses. He often carried it to school and drank it in the cafeteria in front of classmates.

A friend of Sellars’ in Colorado, before Sellars moved to Oklahoma, testified at his trial that Sellars had formed a Satanic group called “The Elimination”. The witness stayed in touch with Sellars through letters and phone calls from Colorado. During a visit back to Colorado by Sellars, the friend testified that he and Sellars wore black robes, drank their own blood, and conducted the candle-lit initiation into Satanism of a third boy. They cut the boy with an athame and used his blood to write a dedication to Satan.

During his trial, Sellars told of how he held a ceremony in his room, alone, in which he wrote in his own blood: “I renounce God, I renounce Christ, I will serve only Satan. Hail Satan!” He became addicted to Satanic rituals, often staying up late into the night practicing and reading about them. On September 8, 1985, he and another friend, Richard Howard—both had engaged in Satanic rituals together—held one last ritual before setting out for a human sacrifice. Sellars stole his grandfather’s .357 Magnum and shot convenience store clerk Robert Bower, who had once refused to sell beer to Sellars.

Sellars became even more obsessed with Satanism and wrote shortly afterward in a school essay read during his trial, “Satanism made me a better person... I can kill without remorse, and I feel no regret or sorrow, only love, compassion, hate, anger, pain, and joy. Only I may understand, but that is enough”.

Sellars began arguing with his parents over a fifteen-year-old girl whom they forbade him to see. He ran away from home but returned. One night, after going home from his part-time job at a pizza store, he performed his nightly Satanic ritual. After drifting in and out of sleep that night he walked quietly into his parents’ room and shot them both in the head. He went to his friend, Richard Howard’s house where he stashed the weapon. The next morning he made believe that he found his parents’ bodies and didn’t know what happened.

Howard testified for the prosecution and received a five-year sentence as an accessory after the fact. He claimed that he didn’t take part in the clerk’s murder but waited outside for his friend. Sellars is now the youngest inmate on Oklahoma’s Death Row. We will hear from this youngster, himself, in a future Chapter.

TRUTH IS THE FIRST CASUALTY OF WAR
THIS WAR IS A FESTIVAL OF LIES
AND THEY WILL ONLY GET WORSE

By Peter Preston, The Guardian—London, 10/8/01

So it begins. The flashes of light in the night sky, the distant explosions, the appearance of a “relentless” George Bush talking command and control. We slowly remember what war is like; but we need to remember, too, that truth is the first casualty of conflict, that the briefers, bureaucrats and politicians who act as reasonably “reliable sources” in peace are operating now under different house rules. That they have become wholly unreliable by design.

Sit back and apply commonsense to the tales of the first 26 days. Troops massing at this or that frontier post. Air strikes “imminent” (three weeks ago) or “within 48 hours” (eight days ago). SAS teams already staging search-and-destroy missions inside Afghanistan. Commonsense asks a difficult question. Would anyone with braid on his shoulders, anyone who really knows, tell a journalist such things if they were true? Why not send Osama bin Laden a postcard instead?

Those of us who yomped through the Ministry of Defence in the Falklands soon got the changed hang of things. Top chaps in dark suits would summon up the full authority of their office and lie like troopers. Who, on reflection, could blame them? General Galtieri took the Guardian and the Telegraph on subscription. If journalists needed scoops, they’d better be fed some duff ones.

The Falklands war was more than a distant side-show. It hugely impressed the Pentagon. Ensure that reporters are cooped up on aircraft carriers or minded by MoD male nurses far from the front and, as long as you keep decent clamps on back at the political ranch, there is total information control. Grenada and Panama proved the point and the Gulf was its apotheosis, war watched from afar by video screen. Globalisation meant being further away from, not nearer, the action. More space, less truth.

How, then, will this latest, very curious conflict be played out? Pull down the handbooks from their dusty shelves and start pondering. For we are going by the book.

The start of the horror—the destruction of the twin towers—was uncontrolled disaster: for the thousands of innocents who died, for dreams of security and illusions of intelligence. The world watched in stunned fascination. The world was out of control. One task in the days since September 11 has been to regain equilibrium.

The building of this fabled international coalition against terrorism may or may not prove vital in the end. But, shuttling from summit to summit, it has certainly filled in the time while the military mammoths got their lugubrious act together. There’s been a Gulf-style pause. Now, as bombing begins, we can begin to sense a pattern.

Would Galtieri pull his troops off the Falklands as the task force sailed ever closer? He had that chance. He failed to take it. Would Saddam quit Kuwait as billions of dollars rolled into the desert? He had the chance. Will the Taliban give up bin Laden and save their regime? That, obviously, has been the descant of the past couple of weeks. The answer is now written in the night over Kabul.

Meanwhile the control freaks have had their thinking caps on. The world’s correspondents (one factor) are there in force and deployed: Uzbekistan, Quetta, Peshawar, and the Afghan enclave where the Northern Alliance rules. But, save for the deeply unfortunate Ms. Ridley and a handful of Afghan agency reporters, they aren’t in Taliban country, let alone camped outside bin Laden’s rural retreat. Suicidal peril and impossibility co-joined.

Better still, the Taliban themselves seem to be PR mutts. They can’t field a Tariq Aziz figure looking grave, just a deputy ambassador in Islamabad looking perplexed. They have already (losing bin Laden, then miraculously finding him again) blown what credibility they had. In their self-imposed isolation, they won’t be able to take Western camera teams to inspect any civilian casualties of air attack. No wrecked Baghdad hospitals; no Serbian buses burned on a bridge. They are sitting, silent targets. That won’t stop protest waves round the Arab world today, nor will it necessarily catch bin Laden. But it does mean that the only clear TV evidence of effectiveness, however carefully selected, will come from the Americans and the Brits. Happenstance has played to the handbook rules.

What can go wrong? Plenty, naturally—even apart from bombs gone astray. Bin Laden himself, as yesterday’s television interview showed, has a malign gift for PR. He could stage a dismaying series of catch-me-if-you-can for the cameras. Proof of his death or capture will need to be absolute before the briefers celebrate. More terrorist onslaughts are high on the agenda. More American lives in places like Saudi Arabia lie on the line. Hostage-taking (as Jimmy Carter might add) could wreck every equation.

Even so, because restraint equals thinking time, a measure of control has returned. The war of perception, vital after September 11, is on a more even keel. The perception is that governments still govern and can seem to call the shots. The HQ hope must be that some finite battle in an unseen field far away will soon be enough to end any shooting war and, with a little help from the Pakistani secret service, leave al-Qaida headless.

But then the dissonances of difference begin to impinge. The FBI and CIA, caught ludicrously short by 19 men with penknives, are obliged to exalt the potency of bin Laden’s network. Poison gas, germ warfare, nukes? Some or all of these visions may have a sliver of reality to them, but they also conveniently turn a low-tech enemy into a Bond villain like Ernst Stavro Blofeld. (Indeed, yesterday’s Sunday Times did just that.)

You may call this reacting to a challenge, and so it is. But it is also, in the nature of spin, the inflation of the adversary who wounded you. Warnings of risk from Scotland Yard become as fearsome as Met Office gale forecasts after 1987. No danger knowingly understressed. No briefer, by training or profession, is more usually unreliable than a secret agent covering his back, and the tale he tells is likely to be self-serving tosh.

The trouble is that, even as the jets go in, this is also an amorphous war of jaw-jaw. The braided ones, clutching their handbook, may have devised a scenario they have a prospect of commanding and controlling. We will be, as we were last night, distant spectators of this enterprise. We can only hope it succeeds, and hope as well that we can maintain a decent perspective, a balance of understanding. But that needs thought and fact as well as cheers. Keep calm, or at least, calmer. But believe nothing implicitly, especially from the Blofeld blowhards. Travel carefully and carry a big wastebasket.

THE PHONEY WAR IN AFGHANISTAN

By Marshall Smith, Brother Jonathan Gazette, 9/17/01

The current “war” on Afghanistani terrorism is a misdirection and a hoax. As pointed out in the book “Black Gold Hot Gold” the oil expected to flow from the vast oilfields under the Russian Caspian Sea, discovered about 20 years ago, remains undrilled and untapped. That field contains about 500 years worth of oil at present world consumption rates.

The only possible oil pipeline routes at the present time to handle the massive flow of oil from the Caspian Sea region under Chenya is either through Kosovo to the Mediterranean Sea, or through Afghanistan and Pakistan to the Indian Ocean. Two years ago, the Clinton administration attempted to place Kosovo under international control and begin pipeline construction, but was unable to complete the process.

The normal oil route would have been to move oil from Chenya, across the Black Sea and through the Bosphorus to the Mediterranean. But the narrow Bosphorus channel is already clogged with oil tankers from the existing Black Sea oilfields. The only alternate is to move the tankers from the Black Sea, bypassing the Bosphorus, up the Danube River and then through a very short pipeline across Kosovo to the Mediterranean at Tirana, Albania. That process was stopped by the Chinese who have supplied and armed the Albanians, as a client state, since 1949.

Following the Soviet discovery of the vast Chechen oilfields in the late 1970s, they attempted to take control of Afghanistan to provide a massive pipeline system to allow the Soviets to market their oil directly from the Afghan-Pakistan seaport. This resulted in the decades-long Soviet-Afghan war. The Soviets were stopped by the U.S. supplied and armed insurgent groups, including Osama bin Laden, who defeated the Soviets in the late 1980s.

The Soviets had massively built up their military in the 1980s, including the world’s largest nuclear submarine fleet, gambling on the huge profits to be made by selling their Chechen oil on the open market. When the Afghans under bin Laden, backed by the U.S. CIA stopped the construction of the Soviet-Afghan pipeline, the Soviet Union went through an economic collapse and ceased to exist in 1991.

The vast Chechen oilfield still remains fallow and untapped. As identified in “Black Gold Hot Gold,” the Empire of Energy is now making a new attempt to market the Chechen oil by carpet bombing Afghanistan and building the Afghan pipeline.

George W. Bush’s statement about declaring war on “terrorism” is obviously hollow and sallow. It strangely does not include the terrorists in Northern Ireland, nor even the terrorist suicide bombers among the Palestinians. Instead it makes an instant leap of logic to aim the U.S. military directly at Afghanistan.

The terrain in northern Afghanistan is the arid rugged foothills of the Himalayas known as the Hindu Kush and is defended by the large fierce tribal armies of the Northern Alliance who are excellent guerilla fighters with years of experience fighting Soviets, now backed by the Chinese, and not connected with the main Taliban government in Kabul. The Soviets spent over 10 years at great expense to attack and “carpet bomb” Afghanistan, but they found fortress Himalaya is impenetrable. The result was tremendous loss of Soviet lives and the economic collapse of the Soviet Union.

George Bush is now leading the United States down that same road. The Empire of Energy has for almost 100 years had as its goal the dismantling of the United States of America and amalgamating it into one large global energy market. They have found in George Bush a willing partner. Any war in Afghanistan would pit the U.S. against the Chinese who just last week, on the day of the World Trade Center attack, signed a mutual pact with the Afghans.

In the last 50 years, the U.S. has fought numerous wars against the Chinese, as in Korea, Vietnam and elsewhere. In those wars the result was always a draw with massive loss of life. Even high-tech “smart” weapons in Kosovo were unable to defeat the Chinese. In the upcoming Afghan war with the Chinese, the U.S. will lose by simple attrition. Neither smart bombs nor nuclear bombs work against hidden terrorists or against fortress Himalaya. There are more Chinese soldiers in uniform than the whole population of the U.S.

Numerous recent news stories indicate the attack on the World Trade Center was known to the CIA and FBI weeks before the attack. Seemingly nothing was done. As for America, its panzers ran out of gas with the “strange” fraudulent election of November 2000. Both G.W. Bush and Al Gore were backed by the Empire of Energy, so it didn’t matter for whom you voted. Americans have been anesthetized and put to sleep by their lack of knowledge of world history, as America disintegrates.

[JR: An oil pipeline through Afghanistan certainly puts a different slant on the U.S./British declared war on terrorism. The lies coming from the mouths of the warlords in D.C. don’t match up to the facts presented in this article. The oppressive Taliban regime has been allowed to exist for the past seven years with the West showing little or no concern until the Taliban blew up some nondescript figures carved into some mountain. If we “supposedly” have the support of the Mujahideen that we originally supplied and trained, how is it that the Chinese were successful in signing a pact with these Northern rebels Sept. 11? How many groups/tribes are there in the North? If we take on China, how will Russia react against the U.S. and NATO moves into their territories of the independent republics? Is the U.S. really ready to take on all the terrorists everywhere (especially near Israel) as well as the Bear and the Dragon? Should our warlords in D.C. be certified as dangerous to the well being of every U.S. citizen? A lot of questions... find the answers.]

U.S. TROOPS ON EX-SOVIET SOIL

By Tim Novak, Sun-Times, 10/6/01

A thousand U.S. soldiers trained in mountain warfare were sent Friday to Uzbekistan, Afghanistan’s northern neighbor, marking the first time that U.S. troops have been deployed in the former Soviet Union.

Even as U.S. troops, warplanes and ships continue to gather in the Gulf region, the Bush administration and European officials signaled that major military action might not be imminent. Some have even raised the possibility that the anticipated campaign against Osama bin Laden and the Taliban rulers who have given him refuge in Afghanistan might be waged without the kind of military fireworks that Americans who watched Gulf War missions on CNN might expect.

“It will take time,” Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said at a news conference in Turkey, where he met with Turkish officials in his last stop on a five-nation tour to build support for the campaign in the Middle East and Central Asia. “And we need the cooperation of countries around the globe.”...

The ground troops from the Army’s 10th Mountain Division flew from Fort Drum, N.Y., to Uzbekistan to provide security for Air Force fighters and search-and-rescue missions. President Islam Karimov agreed to host the U.S. troops but said he opposes America using his country to launch attacks against Afghanistan.

“We are against the use of our territory for land operations against Afghanistan, and we are against air strikes from the territory of Uzbekistan,” Karimov said. “I envisage that the equipment will be used for humanitarian operations and for search-and-rescue operations.”

No American special forces, such as the Green Berets, will be allowed to operate in Uzbekistan, Karimov said, because “we are not quite ready for this.”

Neither Karimov nor Rumsfeld would identify the Uzbek air base American troops will use.

In exchange for cooperation, Karimov said Uzbekistan was seeking security guarantees. He said a legal document being prepared will spell out each side’s commitments.

As the United States was positioning the troops, Afghan rebels signaled Friday that they will launch their own attacks to topple the Taliban regime that has been accused of harboring bin Laden, the suspected mastermind of the Sept. 11 attacks.

“Today, we have a chance to defeat the Taliban and the terrorists, and we will use it, whatever the cost,” Mohammed Fahim, leader of the Northern Alliance, said on Russian television.

Among some two dozen bases—many old Soviet posts used in the 1980s to launch attacks into Afghanistan—one possibility is Kakydi Air Base, 30 miles north of the Afghan border. Another possibility is Khanabad Air Base, about 125 miles north of the border.

The 10th Mountain Division forces are the first regular U.S. ground troops acknowledged by the Pentagon to have deployed to Central Asia.

Earlier, other defense officials had said light infantry from the 10th Mountain would be used in Uzbekistan to provide ground security for U.S. Air Force fighter and combat search-and-rescue teams.

The troops also would be on standby to come to the aid of any U.S. special operations troops that might encounter major trouble while conducting raids inside Afghanistan.

The United States remains under the threat of terrorist attacks, and the country should be prepared for more casualties, Bush spokesman Ari Fleischer said Friday, repeating the president’s earlier warnings.

“The president has said that this will not be as antiseptic as previous wars—that the American people have to prepare for casualties in this war,” Fleischer said.

“I don’t think the president can be any more forthright than he’s been,” Fleischer said, responding to news reports Friday that U.S. intelligence officials have concluded that bin Laden’s al-Qaida organization is “100 percent” certain to again attack the United States.

Fleischer said Bush has acknowledged as much.

“He has said to the American people from the beginning that this is going to be a different type of war, and that the American people have to be prepared that the threat remains,” the presidential press secretary said.

British Prime Minister Tony Blair traveled Friday to Islamabad, Pakistan, where he told Pakistani President Gen. Pervez Musharraf that any military action against Afghanistan should be proportionate, targeted and “not directed against the Afghan people, who are not our enemy.”...

Zaeef, the Taliban’s ambassador to Pakistan said Blair came here “to encourage war” and that the Afghan leadership had nothing to say to him....

Zaeef praised Iran for refusing the United States and its allies use of its airspace in any attack on Afghanistan. However, Zaeef would not condemn Pakistan for its stand.

“We understand the problems of Pakistan, but we have no comments to make,” he said, referring to Musharraf’s policy.

Pakistan is the only country to recognize the Taliban as the legal government of Afghanistan....

[JR: I wonder how long before President Karimov will be pressured or persuaded to agree to having more U.S. or even NATO troops in Uzbekistan. Once we have a foot in the door, who says we won’t want to occupy the house. Americans are being warned that with 100% certainty we will be attacked again and that this secret war will last as long as the old (or continued) Cold War. The Cold War lasted over 50 years, people! Not one flag-waver has questioned the masterminds in D.C. as to how they are going to protect us besides just issuing warnings and edicts]

PAKISTAN’S LOYALTY MAY REST ON ITS ECONOMY

By James Cox, USA TODAY, 10/5/01

ISLAMABAD, PAKISTAN—By enlisting Islamabad as its ally in the war on terror, the U.S. has raised hopes among Pakistanis that their sick economy will get transfusions of aid and investment. Top officials are adamant that the government’s decision to side with the U.S. is a moral stand against terrorism. But they also say President Pervez Musharraf must be rewarded for his gamble or risk losing public support to the angry mullahs—religious leaders—calling for a jihad against America.

Two delegations from Islamabad have been in Washington in recent days to press the Bush administration for help. They want the U.S. to forgive old loans, provide fresh aid and boost the import allotment for Pakistani textiles and garments. Thursday, the Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved legislation that would formally suspend sanctions against Pakistan, clearing the way for a $100 million aid package planned by the administration.

Debt is Pakistan’s curse. The country is a ward of international lenders, drowning in $35 billion in foreign obligations. Interest payments eat up 57% of the annual budget. Military spending consumes 34%. That leaves just 9% for education, health care, law enforcement, infrastructure and other needs....

There is real urgency in Pakistan, says Sakib Sherani, chief economist at ABN-AMRO Bank in Islamabad. The U.S. and other industrialized nations need to write off or reschedule $7 billion to $8 billion of Pakistan’s debt for it to have breathing room to begin spending on education and basic health needs again. "Anything less will not be enough," he says.

Pakistan, with a population of 144 million, generates annual economic output of about $64 billion, about the same as Mississippi, which has 2.8 million people. Adult unemployment is at least five times higher than the 5.9% official rate, economists say....

With education spending and household incomes so low, most Pakistani families can't afford to send their children to school. An estimated 60% or more of youths ages 5 to 14 are full-time workers. Millions cultivate tobacco and cotton, weave carpets, stitch leather goods or, like Shurmahmad and Nurahmad, root through spoiled and fallen vegetables for something their families can eat.

The mullahs have stepped in to fill the void in education. Of the children who do get formal instruction, up to 700,000 are tutored free at religious schools that offer little other than instruction in the Koran. Some have been incubators for religious extremism, producing recruits for Afghanistan's Taliban regime.

The millions of illiterate children here "are a lost generation," says Sherani. "It is woeful."

The current crisis has already damaged Pakistan's fragile economy. Commerce Minister Abdul Razak Dawood says falling global demand and spiking shipping costs could slash Pakistan's exports by $1.4 billion in the fiscal year that ends next June. Exports were $9.2 billion for the year ending June 30.

Since Sept. 11:

At least 15 airlines have suspended flights to Pakistan, including virtually all foreign cargo carriers. Pakistan International Airlines has scrambled to charter planes to keep outbound cargo moving.

Pakistani media have reported that Disney, Wal-Mart, Nike, Gap and others have canceled or put on hold their orders for goods from the country. And textile industry executives say they fear an anti-Pakistan backlash among American consumers.

Shipping lines, complaining that they must pay war-risk premiums to tie up at the Karachi port, have added $5-a-ton surcharges to freight. The government has had to offer naval escorts to reassure skittish freighter captains.

Basic commodity prices have soared on the streets. At Aslam's stall in the market, the price of a 5-kilogram can of cooking oil has gone from 190 rupees ($1.97) to 230 rupees ($3.59) in 3 weeks. Even the slightest price hikes have a dramatic impact in a country where per capita income averages $460 a year....

Americans buy 27% of Pakistan's textile exports and 45% of its finished garments. Even so, officials here argue that Pakistan's quota for certain goods—bed linens among them—is puny compared with allotments for Thailand, Sri Lanka and Bangladesh.

A handful of American multinationals operate here, including Procter & Gamble, Bristol-Myers Squibb, American Express and Citigroup. U.S. companies account for about 35% of annual foreign investment, the largest share along with British investors.

But overseas investors have largely shunned the country in recent years. They spent just $469 million last year, 31% less than in 1997....

The business capital, Karachi, is haunted by sectarian and ethnic warfare, a patchwork of deadly "no-go" areas. But where else are foreigners to look?

Pakistan's western border cities are caught in the grip of Islamic fundamentalism and often make outsiders unwelcome. Tribal regions are allowed to operate outside of Islamabad's control and are anything-goes territories with little rule of law. Kashmir is a staging ground for a guerilla war with India. Long stretches of Pakistan's highways are controlled by armed gangs.

"Investors are like birds. When they come, they come in flocks. And when they leave, they leave in flocks," says Zafar Mueen Nasir, senior research economist at the Pakistan Institute of Development Economics. "In our case, they've never come."...

If Pakistan cannot pull its economy out of a downward spiral, it could become an even less friendly destination down the road. It has one of the world's fastest-growing populations—45% are under age 25—and a swelling number of ethnic Afghans who have no hopes of returning home.

Saigol, the textile chief, says Musharraf was right to take a moral stand and offer assistance to the Bush administration. But in America's war on terrorism, he says, it is Pakistan that has the most to lose.

"The entire future of our country rests on the outcome of this crisis."

MAHATHIR TO PRESS FOR THE MIDDLE WAY

By Brendan Pereira, Straits Times—Asia, 10/6/01

He will urge his colleagues and ASEAN to keep away from the war effort in Afghanistan while condemning terrorism

KUALA LUMPUR—When the heads of ASEAN nations meet in Brunei next month to discuss international terrorism, Malaysian Prime Minister Mahathir Mohamad will almost certainly urge his neighbours to stay away from any war effort in Afghanistan.

He will argue that the best path for the regional grouping to follow in the aftermath of the Sept 11 terror attacks on the United States is the middle path - outright condemnation against terrorism and outright disapproval against an all-out US-led assault on the adopted home of Osama bin Laden.

The Malaysian leader gave a peek of this approach during a talk show this week.

He said that ASEAN should play the role of moderator and shy away from being a warmonger.

"It is not fair to have an all-out war against Afghanistan. The people there may not like their Taliban government but have no means of overthrowing them. In a war, those who dislike the Taliban are also going to be killed," said Dr. Mahathir.

At the same time, he said the regional grouping had to oppose terrorism.

The position being put forward by Dr. Mahathir is consistent with a growing perception in Malaysian circles that no-one is playing a mediator's role between the U.S. and its allies; Afghanistan, and possibly the rest of the Muslim world.

Said a political analyst with government links: "The United Nations is certainly not playing a mediating role in this situation where the line between fighting terrorism and fighting against Afghanistan seems to have been blurred. ASEAN can certainly play a part."

It could do so by helping to shape a rational and logical international response to what happened on Sept 11.

He believed that when Dr. Mahathir speaks about ASEAN steering clear of any full-scale military action, he is referring to the possibility of countries in the region committing troops or facilities.

"The PM is not talking about countries extending logistical support to the U.S. because of prior defence agreements."

The middle-of-the-road position that Dr. Mahathir wants Asean to adopt is consistent with the stance the Malaysian leader is taking at home.

Opposition politicians admit that the Sept. 11 terror attacks on New York and Washington and the negative publicity on Islamic radicalism has given the Malaysian leader a temporary boost.

Says Mr. Rustam Sani, a senior official with Parti Rakyat Malaysia: "Dr. Mahathir may be enjoying a surge in popularity at the moment but that is largely due to the negative sentiments against extremism."

"If the United States moves unfairly against Afghanistan or other Muslims, then there could be a backlash here."

"So Dr. Mahathir also has to be careful not to follow the U.S. position too closely."

Malay-Muslims make up nearly 60 percent of the country's population and remain politically divided following the sacking and treatment of former Deputy Prime Minister Anwar Ibrahim.

Many of them are unhappy with the U.S. because of what they perceive as double standards by the world's superpower on Muslim issues, especially Palestine's future.

A majority has denounced the terrorist attacks but are opposed to an all-out war on Afghanistan.

That is the position the Mahathir administration has to adopt to avoid political and religious minefields at home.

[JR: A middle-of-the-road position by Malaysia is one that will prevent dissension amongst the various political factions. Pakistan has taken sides in supporting the U.S. position against Afghanistan's Taliban and now has to resort to shooting its own people. Whatever payoff of debts promised by the U.S. won't be enough to quell the unrest and dissension that rules Pakistan today. Doesn't this sound like a plan for takeover and intervention by the U.S. and Britain?]

REACTION TO PRESIDENT BUSH'S STATEMENTS ON THE PALESTINIAN STATE

Arabic News, Palestine-U.S.A., Politics, 10/5/01

The Arab League (AL), Paris, London and most of world capitals have welcomed the American inclination to supporting the establishment of a Palestinian state, at a time when the Israeli government underestimated these statements, saying that this is not new as the U.S. president Clinton had repeated this matter several times during the Camp David meeting in July 2000 and in Taba by the end of the same year, noting that the only new element is the timing the U.S. President has chosen for his statement.

Avy Bazner, the spokesman for the Israeli government said in a statement that Bush's statements were part of the efforts made by the U.S. to form the international coalition on fighting terrorism (to gain support from the Arab states), stressing that Israel is not intending to give up what he called concessions in support of the American project to form a terrorism-fighting international coalition.

The Israeli spokesman added that Israel has proven in the past how to behave in order to honor what he called the rights of Israel. He added that Israel will not accept anything that contradicts with its vital interests.

For his part, the AL secretary general Amr Moussa expressed his conviction that the U.S. will during the coming phase re-evaluate its stances towards the issues of the region, especially the cause of Palestine.

Moussa added in statements he made on Wednesday that efforts made to settle this issue have met great difficulties during the past ten years, stressing that the West understands well that it is difficult, or rather impossible to liquidate the Palestinian question, stressing the need of dealing with issue according to international legitimacy resolutions.

In Amman Jordan has welcomed the new American stand towards the Palestinian question. A stand that came in the context of a statement by the U.S. President on adopting the idea of establishing an independent Palestinian state.

The Jordanian minister of information Saleh al-Qallab described statements made by the U.S. President as an advanced step by the side of the American administration.

Meantime, the spokesman for the French Foreign ministry Francois Revaso described the statement of the U.S. President on his country's support to the establishment of a Palestinian state as positive.

In a statement on Wednesday, the spokesman added that the European Union has clearly announced its position since Berlin Summit in 1989 for the interest of founding a Palestinian state, noting that Bush's announcement goes in the right direction and is very positive.

Revaso has expressed France's concern over the deterioration of conditions in the Middle East adding that France calls for finding out a peaceful solution and halting the bloodshed in the region.

In Madrid, the Spanish foreign minister on Wednesday said that President Bush's backing for the principle of founding a Palestinian state embodies a great U.S. contribution to solving the crisis....

On the other hand, the British foreign ministry announced that Britain also supports the establishment of a Palestinian state that is valid for continuity, recalling the British and the European stances which support the establishment of a Palestinian state.

A spokeswoman for the British foreign ministry said that durable security can be only attained through a political process that implements the land for peace principle and puts an end to occupation.

[JR: I don't know if Bush's support for a Palestinian state will bear any change in the Middle East unless he backs it up with withdrawing support from Israel. If pressure were put on Israel, would she "hint" to us about the nuclear stockpile she has covertly acquired at our expense and our own security? America is in no position to make demands or act independent anymore. Our Congress knows it is the Knesset for Israel. Europe can parrot approval but it all rings so hollow for the Palestinians, Arabs and Muslim people worldwide.]

SHARON CALLS POWELL
AFTER WHITE HOUSE BLASTS PM COMMENTS

By Aluf Benn, Ha'aretz, 10/6/01

Prime Minister Ariel Sharon called U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell on Friday, in an attempt to soften the diplomatic strain created Thursday evening between the two countries. The White House responded harshly earlier Friday to comments made by Sharon the day before, in which the prime minister said that the United States risked appeasing Arab nations at Israel's expense.

An announcement released Friday by the Prime Minister's Office stated that Sharon expressed his appreciation for the deep friendship and the special relationship shared by the U.S. and Israel, in particular with President George W. Bush.

In their telephone conversation, Sharon asked Powell to pass on his blessings to Bush for his courageous and daring decision to fight terror, a stance that Israel supported and one in which it was a full partner. Sharon told Powell that Israel has suffered from terrorism since its creation and the government of Israel is obligated to protect its citizens and prevent all acts of terror against innocent civilians.

The White House indicated Friday the level of displeasure with which it had greeted Sharon's remarks. "Those comments made by the prime minister are unacceptable in the president's opinion," President George W. Bush's spokesman, Ari Fleischer, told reporters.

"Israel has no better friend than the United States and will have no better friend than the United States," Fleischer said. He refused to be drawn into a debate on claims that Israel's policies toward the Palestinians was one of the motives behind the September 11 attacks.

"If a beautiful and lasting peace were brought to the Middle East today, terrorism would still exist," he said.

During his speech at a press conference in Tel Aviv, Sharon cited the "dreadful mistake of 1938" when Europe "decided to sacrifice Czechoslovakia" to the Nazis.

The prime minister also stressed that "all of our efforts to reach a cease-fire were foiled by the Palestinians and the fire did not stop, not even for a single day. We can only rely on ourselves."

Sharon's comments reflected the growing disappointment in the American administration's position regarding terrorism in the region, in the aftermath of the September 11 attacks on New York and Washington. Particularly disturbing is the fact that Syria and Iran—who back the Lebanese militant group Hezbollah—are not being held accountable for their role in sponsoring terrorist activities against Israel.

Americans officials said Friday that Secretary of State Colin Powell demanded in a phone conversation with Yasser Arafat on Thursday that the Palestinian Authority Chairman take action to fulfill his cease-fire obligations, Israel Radio reported. The call came after Powell discussed with Prime Minister Ariel Sharon and Foreign Minister Shimon Peres recent incidents of Palestinian violence in the territories.

Following a cabinet meeting in the West Bank town of Ramallah on Friday morning, the Palestinian Authority released a statement calling on all Palestinian groups to stop attacks on Israel.

"The cease-fire is a Palestinian interest and all forces and officials are to strictly honor it," the announcement said. It also said that steps were being taken to ensure that the cease-fire is honored in a manner that will prevent Israel from claiming that the Palestinian actions are "terror."

Minister for Regional Cooperation Dan Meridor and Public Security Minister Uzi Landau will next week travel to the U.S. to meet with senior White House and State Department officials. Former Israeli Ambassador to the U.S. Zalman Shoval will also visit Washington during the same period, as a personal envoy of the prime minister. The three will clarify the Israeli position, and attempt to convince the Americans to take action against Palestinian terror groups and Hezbollah.

Sharon spoke with Powell by telephone Thursday and told him: "Arafat is not doing anything to prevent terror, attacks, shooting and incitement. There was not one day of quiet. We understand that we can only rely on ourselves. We will of course try to assist the coalition in any way, because we face the same enemy."

Sharon repeated his request to Powell to include Hamas, Islamic Jihad and Hezbollah on the list of terror organizations "to be addressed immediately," because "that is the one thing that will put pressure on Arafat to take action."

[JR: The Zionist-controlled American is much more vulnerable than the Jewish state of Israel, given the fact that its citizens are the least protected in the world. That issue won't be the topic of discussion when Israel's ambassador and the Public Security and Regional Cooperation Ministers meet here in the U.S. They won't discuss our security but will discuss Israeli issues and what they demand from us. This country and its people has/is being badly used by the Zionist state of Israel. The U.S. is now the most hated country in the world next to Israel. As one Jewish writer successfully put it—anti-Americanism has replaced anti-Semitism. That says it all doesn't it?]

SAUDI ARABIA WARNED U.S.
OVER POLICY ON ISRAEL

By Roula Khalaf (Riyadh), Financial Times, 10/9/01

Crown Prince Abdullah of Saudi Arabia told Washington 10 days before the September 11 terror attacks that U.S. policy towards the Arab-Israeli conflict had become untenable.

According to diplomatic sources in Riyadh, the prince's letter to President George W. Bush prompted U.S. reassurances that apparently led to U.S. backing for the establishment of a Palestinian state.

The Riyadh sources said the letter was part of a dialogue started in the June meeting in Paris between Crown Prince Abdullah and Colin Powell, U.S. secretary of state. The letter shows the world's largest oil exporter trying to influence U.S. policy on the Middle East conflict at a time when Arab public opinion and governments had become increasingly disillusioned by U.S. backing for Israel.

This suggests that Mr. Bush's statement last week supporting the idea of a Palestinian state was not directly tied to U.S. efforts to bring Arab nations into the coalition against terrorism.

The Saudi message is believed to have indicated that U.S. bias towards Israel was making it impossible for the Saudi leadership to follow policies that were in both countries' interests. Mr. Bush is said to have written back to reassure the crown prince that the message had found a listening ear.

The crown prince's office on Tuesday would not comment on the letter. But in a statement last week the Saudi leader praised Mr. Bush's statement on a Palestinian state, saying the kingdom appreciated the move.

U.S. officials confirmed that an "exchange of letters" had taken place shortly before last month's attacks but did not comment on the details of them.

A diplomatic source in Riyadh familiar with the Saudi correspondence said it was "a frank exchange, but a letter from a friend".

Saudi Arabia in recent weeks has backed the U.S. campaign but stressed its concern about the fate of Afghan civilians and its opposition to extending the U.S. war to Arab countries.

Since the launch of air strikes against Afghanistan, the kingdom has not issued a public comment. But in a cabinet meeting on Monday, King Fahd called for “practical steps” to end the Arab-Israeli conflict and restore peace in the region. A senior Saudi Arabian cleric on Tuesday sought to counter Osama bin Laden’s calls for an Islamic uprising by stressing that jihād, or holy war, should be fought for the good of the Muslim nation, not its destruction.

Sheikh Saleh bin Mohammad al-Lahidan, head of the country’s higher judicial council and a member of the council of leading clerics, stopped short of opposing U.S. and British air strikes. But in the first comments on the war by a senior Saudi cleric, he called for “wisdom” in the fight against terrorism.

ARAFAT CRUSHES REVOLT HAMAS BOWS TO PRESSURE TO RESTORE ORDER

By Suzanne Goldenberg at Erez crossing, Gaza,
The Guardian—UK, 10/10/01

Radical Palestinian groups bowed beneath the weight of Yasser Arafat’s iron fist yesterday by stepping back from an open revolt against their leader’s support for Washington’s war on Afghanistan.

A day after two Palestinians—one a 13-year-old boy—were shot dead by their own police after rioting in support of Osama bin Laden, the Islamic group Hamas and Mr. Arafat’s officials were working in tandem to restore order in Gaza City.

The borders of the territory remained sealed to foreign journalists yesterday, and schools and universities were closed to stifle any prospect of Palestinians taking to the streets with posters of Washington’s greatest enemy.

It was the first time Mr. Arafat has banned the international press from Gaza.

By yesterday afternoon, an uneasy calm prevailed. The security forces had retreated to their barracks. Hamas and other radical groups were struggling to put the episode behind them.

“I think the shooting by police yesterday was a mistake,” said a Hamas leader, Abdul Aziz Rantissi, using deliberately mild language to describe the killing of his followers. “I do not think it will happen again. We in Hamas have called on our people to calm the situation.”

As they buried their dead—the first victims of Palestinian guns since the start of the intifada—many Gazans said they were afraid of inviting a civil war that would play into the hands of the Israeli prime minister, Ariel Sharon.

“Instead of fighting the Israelis, I am afraid we will be fighting each other, and this is one of Sharon’s plans,” said Wafa al-Ifranji, at a mourners’ tent for her teenage son, Abdullah. “I never thought the Palestinian police could do something like this which is totally against our national unity. But we must not allow our people to be divided.”

The fury of Monday’s protests were fuelled by Mr. Arafat’s efforts to impose a cease fire on the Palestinian revolt—which Washington sees as crucial to its designs of enlisting the support of Arab states for its war.

The clashes were the most serious challenge to Mr. Arafat’s rule since 1994. During that unrest, police shot dead 11 Islamic protesters only months after his Palestinian Authority came to power.

Mr. Arafat’s resort to force has provided the strongest evidence to date that he wants the cease fire to work. “There is no doubt that the Palestinian Authority today feels more strongly than any time before that it wants the cease fire to succeed,” said Khalil Shikaki, a Palestinian analyst in the West Bank city of Ramallah.

However, he warned that Mr. Arafat could reverse his enthusiasm for a ceasefire if Israel takes advantage of the world’s preoccupation with the war on Afghanistan by escalating military action in the West Bank and Gaza.

Mr. Arafat’s zeal in stifling demonstrations of support for bin Laden extended to Nablus in the West Bank yesterday, where foreign journalists were barred from covering an anti-war rally by 1,500 protesters.

Palestinian loyalty to Washington has its price, however. Analysts believe Mr. Arafat would not have ordered the crackdown on protests unless he believed Washington would reward his efforts once the war in Afghanistan is over by putting pressure on Mr. Sharon to return to negotiations.

“Arafat believes that if he gives America what it wants from him now, he might get something in return,” said Ghassan Khatib, a Palestinian analyst in Arab East Jerusalem.

[JR: The Machiavellian maneuvers by the U.S. using Arafat to put down the pro-bin Laden rallies seen on the West bank will only bring Arafat grief. A cease fire (temporary) will not prod the Israelis to begin negotiations for the creation of a Palestinian state. Sharon was elected to prevent any such actions and his goal and focus is to push forward his plans to rid the State of Israel of all Palestinians. Our policies in the Middle East are to serve and protect Israel’s interest, further Sharon’s plans—and if Arafat continues to ignore that fact then his days are short lived.]

NATO TO DEPLOY AWACS AIRCRAFT IN U.S.

YAHOO News, 10/7/01

BRUSSELS (Reuters)—NATO will soon deploy AWACS surveillance aircraft for anti-terrorist operations in the United States in response to the attacks on New York and Washington, NATO officials said Sunday.

NATO officials said the United States had asked Friday for the AWACS to be deployed.

“The planes will be deployed quite soon,” a NATO official said. “They will be deployed in the United States in support of anti-terrorist operations.”

NATO officials declined to say why the United States had asked for the AWACS to be deployed there, or whether they would be used to free up U.S. aircraft for deployment in other regions.

The United States itself has a fleet of 33 AWACS planes, 28 of which are stationed at an airbase in Oklahoma.

All that is needed before the AWACS are deployed is final approval by national representatives at NATO headquarters in Brussels and military advice, NATO officials said.

NATO allies agreed Thursday to provide the United States with a complete eight-point list of assistance it had requested, including the use of some of its fleet of 17 modified Boeing 747 AWACS airborne surveillance and control aircraft, based in Geilenkirchen, Germany.

A NATO representative would not say whether the planes would be flown from Geilenkirchen or from another location.

The deployment grows out of the decision “to provide a NATO presence and demonstrate resolve,” an official NATO statement said Thursday.

NATO also used AWACS in Bosnia and the Balkans to assist in air operations.

[JR: Now why would we need a NATO presence in the U.S.? Why must we have a “foreign” international MILITARY organization (NATO) conduct security surveillance operations over the U.S.? Have our 33 AWACS been deployed all over the world that we can’t even protect our own airspace here in the U.S.? This makes me feel even less secure since there is no real protection for the average American citizen. Politicians YES, citizens NO! Where are the shelters for the general population here in America?]

SEARCH FOR BIN LADEN EXTENDS TO EARTH ORBIT

By Tim Friend, USA TODAY, 10/6/01

U.S. military and spy satellites are searching aggressively for signs of Osama bin Laden and are providing military planners with near-real-time high-resolution photographs and data about specific regions of Afghanistan, officials say. Although many Americans anticipated swift military retaliation, little is likely to happen until satellites scan hundreds of thousands of square miles of Afghanistan’s rugged terrain...

McArthur says the space technology in use today over Afghanistan is a dramatic improvement from that used in the Persian Gulf War. New satellites can process information at much faster speeds and allow ground forces to have up-to-the-moment information.

Missiles now are guided by satellite rather than lasers, which makes them much more accurate than the laser-guided strikes in Kosovo just 2 years ago.

Although the war on terrorism is expected to be fought primarily with special-operations forces, McArthur says the USA’s satellites are critical for providing information for their strikes.

“We play a big role and anticipate playing a big role on this war on terrorists,” McArthur says. Since the Gulf War, when America showcased its technological war capabilities, satellite spying has improved to match the U.S. government’s increasing dependence on space-based assets. At least six new spy satellites have been placed in orbit since 1996, according to the National Reconnaissance Office, which operates the U.S. spy satellite system.

One of the newest gadgets available for the search for bin Laden is satellite-dependent. It allows soldiers for the first time to view spy satellite ground photos in near-real time. In the past, satellite images typically were hours, if not days, old by the time they could be put to use. Some targets had been moved by the time of attack. The operational prototype, called the Broadcast Request Imagery Technology Experiment, or BRITE, system, was developed because of difficulties in getting up-to-date information during the Gulf War.

The compact system can be carried into the field and operated with a laptop computer. Military units equipped with the system can radio ground coordinates to controllers of satellites. The controllers aim the satellites at the requested target and transmit high-resolution satellite pictures to the ground troops. This allows a unit to view a region, such as a suspected terrorist training camp on the other side of a mountain, in near-real time and make more precise tactical decisions. Officials say the system is ideally suited for a clandestine war on terrorism.

Spy satellite coverage can be conducted 24 hours. Standard visual imagery is used during daylight and clear skies; radar imagery is used for nighttime and cloudy weather.

The resolution of the imaging satellites varies from the ability to view trucks and buildings to seeing objects as small as 4 inches across. Neither provides the capability to distinguish a face or to tell the difference between bin Laden's group and a group of refugees. However, the satellites are supported by U-2 spy planes, which can use radar to detect ground movements, and unmanned drones that take high-resolution television images that reveal differences in groups of people.

Critics say bin Laden can avoid detection by hiding in the rugged mountains of Afghanistan and by avoiding use of electronic transmissions. After learning that U.S. spy satellites monitored his cellphone, bin Laden reportedly reverted to low-tech personal couriers. But experts say that if bin Laden's group moves or uses a simple handheld radio, the network of satellites and spy planes eventually will track it down.

Consequently, protecting the satellites' ground stations against terrorist attack has assumed new importance.

While the United States has unsurpassed superiority in space, its satellites have an Achilles' heel. The sophisticated system, said to be capable of seeing a man tying his shoelaces, is vulnerable to a simple terrorist attack, experts say.

Terrorist groups are probably incapable of knocking out satellites in orbit, but several of the ground stations, which control the satellites, are open targets. "The ground stations are too big to hide, and they are relatively well-known," says John Pike, a national security expert and president of GlobalSecurity.org in Alexandria, Va.

Art Haubold, spokesman for the National Reconnaissance Office, declines to comment on whether the stations are vulnerable. He says only, "We take the necessary steps to protect our assets, but we never discuss the details of our security arrangement."

Of the known spy satellite ground stations, four are located in or near public areas in the USA. Although the locations of most of the stations are public, USA TODAY has decided not to print them....

U.S. LAUNCHES 'ANTI-TERROR' SATELLITE

BBC, 10/6/01

The United States has launched a satellite which intelligence analysts say will probably be used to gather information in the global campaign against terrorism.

The Titan IV rocket was launched from Vandenberg airforce base in California on behalf of the U.S. National Reconnaissance Office, a secretive agency specialising in providing information for the CIA and the National Security Agency.

The rocket is believed to have been carrying a top secret KH-11 spy satellite—that could monitor Afghanistan ahead of an expected military strike.

The U.S. Air Force refused to comment on the payload, but the NRO builds and operates America's spy satellites and specialises in gathering pictures and electronic data, such as telephone conversations on the ground.

Experts from Aviation Week and Space Technology Magazine said the satellite was likely to be equipped with a digital camera able to pick out objects as small as 10 cm (4 inches) across on the ground.

Orbiting hundreds of miles above the earth the 15-tonne KH-11 is capable of tracking small groups of people walking on the ground as well as vehicle and weapons movements.

It can monitor conversations and even spot campfires at night using infrared technology.

According to Aviation Magazine such information could be used to monitor the movements of Taliban groups and refugees to help allied forces separate potentially hostile groups from "non-combatants".

The United States is believed to have spy satellites over Afghanistan already as U.S. forces continue to build up nearby ahead of expected military strikes.

Before 1996 the NRO did not publicly disclose the launches of its satellites.

[JR: The spy-in-the-sky technology developed by the military (with tax dollars) will be used/abused by the NWO to not only track "terrorists" but civilians as well. They will see, hear and pinpoint the whereabouts of anyone they choose to target. People have bought into the lie that all this surveillance is for their safety and security. What they don't realize is that they are being conditioned to live in a "fishbowl" society, which monitors and controls their behavior. Even more of our freedoms and liberties were dissolved on Sept. 11.]

IN U.S. PLAN, TAXPAYERS WOULD COVER TERROR CLAIMS

By Stephen Labaton with Joseph B. Treaster,
New York Times, 10/6/01

WASHINGTON—The Bush administration and Congress are preparing legislation to have taxpayers pay major insurance claims arising out of terrorist attacks.

The plan would make the insurers the second major industry, after the airlines, to receive emergency government aid after the Sept. 11 attacks on the Pentagon and World Trade Center.

Government officials and corporate executives say such a measure, to be announced as early as this week, is essential to avert an economic meltdown at the end of the year, when many insurance contracts covering businesses, office buildings and factories expire. Without such coverage, lenders will not finance real estate purchases, construction or investments by business in plants and equipment.

Some lawmakers question whether the plan would be an unjustified bailout, and whether the situation is as dire as corporations say. But already, major reinsurers, which protect other insurers against huge risks, have notified their clients and the government that they intend to sharply limit or curtail their coverage for terrorist attacks.

A government program may help limit future rate increases. As the most likely terrorism targets, Washington, New York and other major cities would benefit the most from such a plan. Without it, experts say, businesses are likely to seek safer locations.

While the airlines' $15-billion aid package helps cover the costs associated with the attacks last month, the proposals for the insurers would cover the unknowable expenses from future terrorism. The government has also agreed to temporarily limit the airline insurers' future losses from terrorism.

Administration officials and lawmakers, prodded by heavy lobbying from the insurance, real estate, manufacturing and investment industries, say they already agree on the need for quick action. Senator Christopher J. Dodd, the Connecticut Democrat who heads the Senate Banking subcommittee that oversees insurance, said he exchanged drafts of legislation on Friday with senior Treasury Department officials who share his urgency.

Mr. Dodd said that law enforcement officials' predictions of more attacks made it imperative to act.

"There is a real risk that reinsurance will not be issued, creating broader economic problems," he said. "It's like someone going to get a mortgage on a house, and the bank says, 'Do you have fire insurance?' and you say 'no' and they say 'forget it'. This is not a bailout. It's an economic issue."

Senator Charles A. Schumer, another member of the banking committee, agreed. "There has been a consensus achieved among the White House and everyone here that for an attack of terrorism, the government will have to be the insurer of last resort," Mr. Schumer, a New York Democrat, said. "If there was no insurance, it would really crimp economic activity."

Insurers generally say they can survive the estimated $40 billion or more in losses from last month's attacks, but cannot bear the full risks of future attacks.

"Everybody is asking for this coverage, but nobody is getting it," said Salvatore Zaffino, chief executive of Guy Carpenter & Company in New York, one of the world's largest reinsurance brokers. "We know of no reinsurer that is offering to provide terrorist coverage."

Officials say it is impossible to calculate whether the plan will wind up costing taxpayers nothing, like a similar plan in Britain, or hundreds of billions of dollars, which taxpayers paid to cover insured deposits at hundreds of failed savings and loan institutions a decade ago.

"Nobody knows the upper parameters of the risk," an administration official said last Friday, which is the main reason the reinsurers now refuse to issue such insurance on their own.

Lenders usually require businesses to insure any property they pledge to secure loans. Insurance coverage also supports a $300-billion market for commercial mortgages packaged as securities, the second-largest source of cash for real estate projects after traditional bank loans.

President Bush has already signed measures providing $20 billion in relief for New York, $15 billion for the airlines and an open-ended fund to compensate victims of the September attacks.

The insurance measure is expected to move swiftly because virtually nobody has been lobbying against it. But any such measure could encounter resistance from both conservative Republicans who are skeptical of government involvement in the marketplace and liberal Democrats who see it as an unjustified bailout....

Lawmakers and administration officials are working on proposals under which insurers would cover initial terrorism claims, but their losses would be limited. The insurers would finance an industry pool that would then provide terrorism coverage of perhaps $10 billion, with the government [taxpayer] paying for any greater losses, industry representatives say.

Last week, officials worked to resolve major issues including how insurance premiums would be set and by whom; whether the coverage would be mandatory; how large a calamity would trigger the use of government money; and whether the program would be permanent.

The most commonly discussed option is one adopted eight years ago by the British government in a similar crisis. But officials are exploring other plans including the creation of a new government-backed enterprise like the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation. Another option would be modeled on the 1957 law that limits the liability of utilities for damages resulting from accidents at nuclear reactors. One other possibility, though unlikely, would be a tax break to enable insurers to provide coverage themselves....

In the United States, experts say that government protection is now essential. "Who's going to run a business in New York or any other place if they don't think they can get protection?" Jerry Rosenbloom, a professor of insurance at the University of Pennsylvania, said. "I think businesses would try to move out of what they consider to be high-risk areas, and that will weaken the tax bases of a lot of major cities. It would include a loss of jobs right down to people being afraid to go into new businesses."

[JR: With the $40 billion bailout to prop up Wall Street (economy) and the $15 billion bailout for the airlines, our government, despite huge layoffs, is on a prolonged spending spree. There are no real figures yet on the cost to rebuild the Pentagon. Also Ashcroft pledged to rebuild the WTC (as it was) and then there is the cost to send our troops overseas to protect our U.S. homeland. We have probably spent a trillion, with the debit column bleeding like a waterfall. How many taxpayers are willing to work for nothing in order to secure the futures of the privileged and wealthy of this country? I have yet to hear of any offer of monetary assistance from our ally ("you do for us") Israel. After all—isn't New York the new capital of Israel?]

ATTACK CAN'T ERASE STORED DATA

By Julia Scheeres, Wired News, 9/21/01

A week after a terrorist attack obliterated their offices, tenants of the World Trade Center are slowly piecing their businesses back together again.

In addition to the horrific human toll—thousands of WTC employees are missing and assumed dead—companies that were housed in the towers are facing computer equipment losses to the tune of $500 million, according to financial services firm Morgan Stanley.

But one asset most tenants avoided losing on Sept. 11 was electronic data. They had learned a valuable lesson after the 1993 WTC bombing: Back up information often and completely.

That attack, which killed six people and injured more than 1,000, spurred companies to prepare for possible future disasters by investing in data storage and recovery services to protect reams of electronic information that they produced on a daily basis.

Companies that occupied the twin towers—mainly brokerage, financial and insurance firms—relied heavily on IT to run their businesses. And while the paper documents blown out office windows of the WTC still swirl around the streets of New York, most electronic data was salvaged, experts say.

A report by Morgan Stanley's technology team characterized the WTC as "probably one of the best-prepared office facilities from a systems and data recovery perspective," because tenants had learned to back up systems following the 1993 attack.

Most companies use one of two methods to back up their computer systems. Smaller companies tend toward the cheaper option of manually downloading data onto magnetic tapes, while larger companies rely on "hot backups", a service that can cost companies tens of thousands of dollars a month.

The latter option simultaneously copies all electronic data entered into the company's system onto an offsite computer over high-speed lines. When disaster strikes, hot backups allow companies to tap into a live system with little or no interruption.

Backup tapes don't have the same advantages; it takes at least 24 hours to extricate the information from magnetic tapes and transfer it onto a new system, said David Johnson, vice president of Data Center Services for Solid System, a Houston-based data storage and recovery firm.

If you back up your system once every seven days—say, every Friday night—and a disaster occurs Friday morning, you've lost a week's worth of work. Also, if a company stores backup tapes onsite and their offices are wiped out, they're at a total loss, he said.

"A lot of companies are just now realizing the potential of losing IT infrastructure and what it will do to them," said Johnson.

When Houston, Texas, was brought to a standstill by floods last June, some companies using tapes for data storage lost significant amounts of information, but companies using disk-mirroring service did not, he said.

Many companies in the WTC switched to hot backups after the 1993 attack, according to EMC, a data management system located in Hopkinton, Massachusetts. EMC had 25 clients located in the twin towers.

After the first plane slammed into Tower One, EMC was alerted that something was wrong when their clients' computers "phoned home", said company spokeswoman Anne Pace.

"When there's a problem, the system automatically contacts us to say there's a problem," said Pace. "It lets us know that the power went out, or that it's getting hot, or it's vibrating."

On Sept. 11, EMC received alerts for all of these conditions, she said.

For EMC and other data recovery and storage companies with clients in the WTC, the attack was the worst emergency they have faced....

They were able to provide office space and equipment to their clients within hours of the attack, he said. Although Sungard's clients relied on tapes for data storage, they didn't lose much information because the attack happened early Tuesday morning, and the company could rebuild systems using tapes that were sent to storage on Monday evening....

Comdisco, a data recovery and storage business, mirrors 80 terabytes of information for seven customers who were housed in the WTC. The company bought more than 3,000 personal computers to support their clients who lost equipment in the attack.

Comdisco faced the Herculean task of relocating the New York Board of Trade, which had been at Four World Trade Center, to a temporary office.

As of Monday, 150 trade center employees were working out of Comdisco's recovery center in Queens....

[JR: Nice to know. We'll see how much data that was stored for the WTC will be made available when certain people start asking questions as to why the rebuilding and huge bailout for certain businesses by Bush & Co. There might be a lot of "selective malfunctions" found in the system at the time of data recovery, especially the elusive records on GATA.]

POLICE STATE

By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard, The Spectator, 10/6/01

Let us be thankful, briefly, that the current director of Europol is a stout defender of civil liberties and furthermore a German, among the most reliable defenders of open democracy in the European Union these days. Dr. Jurgen Storbeck was already sitting on top of an embryonic FBI before the destruction of the World Trade Center: now he is to bestride an embryonic CIA as well. The two are to be housed together under one roof at Europol's headquarters in The Hague. He will soon be one of the few men outside Pyongyang, Baghdad and a handful of other despotisms heading an agency with double access to law enforcement and intelligence secrets—something that every first-term student of political science is taught should never happen in a democracy.

Before the terrorist attacks, Europol was not allowed to have direct dealings with MI-5, MI-6, the Bundesnachrichtendienst, or any other intelligence services of the EU member states. It had to rely on contacts with police, customs and immigration services. But in a single throwaway line at their emergency summit in Brussels, EU leaders ordered all EU spy agencies to hand over "any relevant information on terrorism" to Europol. They also approved the creation of an anti-terrorism unit staffed by intelligence officials to be based at the agency's headquarters. The seed is planted.

Of course, MI-5 and MI-6 already share secrets on a selective basis with the Dutch, or whoever, but this is a radically different exercise. The information will now go to the EU machinery and will be stored in the computer banks at Europol, where one can only hope that secrets will be safe. The Dutch police arrested a French police captain earlier this summer for operating a scam out of the same computer offices, and another official is still under investigation. If that were not enough, a Munich computer company has accused Europol operatives of stealing its software and pocketing the commissions.

When I asked David Blunkett about intelligence sharing with the sort of people who might be tempted to sell secrets to al-Qa'eda for the right price—not a ludicrous concern, since an EU official was caught three years ago selling confidential data from the Schengen Information System to organised crime—he said sternly that Europol jolly well ought to clean up the problem. By way of reassurance he added that no raw data from GCHQ would be given to ne'er-do-wells. Only those with a top security clearance, and on a strict need-to-know basis, would get a look at our crown jewels.

With a staff of 300, Europol is still a puny creature compared with the $30-billion apparatus of U.S. federal intelligence, but the taboo has been broken. For the first time, the EU has acquired an intelligence function. I expect that it will now mimic the exponential growth of Europol's police role, which has mushroomed from a tiny clearing house for data on drug trafficking five years ago, to a pro-FBI today with powers to "request"—i.e. launch—criminal probes, and to take part in joint operations with national police. Its jurisdiction was quietly expanded last year to cover “all crimes involving money laundering”. This is the open-door clause. It can be made to mean any crime where money changes hands. I predict that it will soon become the EU equivalent of the federal wire fraud clause in the United States, which gives the FBI primary jurisdiction whenever the U.S. federal mail is used at any stage of a crime. So if the criminal sends a single letter, the Feds can muscle in.

Neither part of this twin-headed Europol is subject to the oversight of an elected parliament. In Washington, the directors of the FBI and CIA are ritually toasted in cross-examination by the senate and house committees. But in the EU’s half-way system between intergovernmentalism and federalism—a paradise for unaccountable elites—Dr. Storbeck answers only to a management board, in secret. These are essentially the same people who appoint him, so there is no democratic control on the executive. The European Parliament complains bitterly that it cannot even get a look at Europol’s books.

The hectic pace kept up last week. Mr. Blunkett was at it again, this time approving the establishment of Eurojust, an EU body of national prosecutors with the job of co-ordinating probes into organised crime, environmental crimes, xenophobia, and above all terrorism. The legal basis for proceeding this far is a little dodgy, since it derives from Article 31 of the Nice Treaty, which the Irish have refused to ratify, and may never ratify. So EU lawyers are stretching the Amsterdam Treaty to do the job instead. A future justice ministry, a replica of the U.S. Justice Department, will acquire power over time to prosecute cases in EU federal courts.

The foundations of an EU federal judiciary and an EU police and security system are now largely in place. What makes this doubly potent is the parallel urge to give greater repressive powers to the emerging apparatus, an urge that reached an uncontrolled spasm after the deadly attacks in America. It has been going on for two years or so, and while it would be going too far to describe Jack Straw as the Godfather of this European police state, the British have certainly been eager sponsors. This may seem illogical, since it is not obviously in the interests of interior ministers to transfer their own powers to Brussels. But to understand this is to understand the EU’s little secret, the deformed method that causes EU states to push for leaps in integration that Brussels itself is not even requesting.

Mr. Straw’s Home Office was the prime mover behind new EU rules passed last July which compelled telephone and Internet service companies to retain billing records, instead of destroying them as they do now. If EU ministers have their way, the police, including Europol, will have access to a databank listing all our telephone calls, faxes and e-mails, as well as a record of Internet Websites that we have visited, which, taken together, provide an imprint of our daily lives.

This was vehemently denounced at the time by the European Commission (yes!), furious that its original proposal had been hijacked by authoritarians, as well as by the European Parliament and by our own data protection commissioner, Elizabeth France, who called it a violation of Article 6 of the European Convention on Human Rights which safeguards privacy. Yet it was quietly passed by the 15 EU justice ministers meeting at the EU’s drab Kirchberg Plateau in Luxembourg, a spot reputed to have the highest suicide rate in Christendom. Why did they push through such a measure—which any one state had the power to block—when all indications were that the German, Dutch, Italian, Irish and Scandinavian parliaments would have voted against such a move at home, if the matter had been put to them?

Because interior ministers, with their own institutional proclivity for greater police powers, know they can get what they want more easily through the EU, where everything can be stitched up behind closed doors—especially at the Kirchberg Plateau, far from the Brussels press corps. And the British know it best. New Labour has mastered the art of exploiting EU procedures as a means of evading parliamentary oversight—and its corollary, unwelcome media debate. The consequences are irreversible. A bad British law can be repealed by a future Parliament. Practically speaking, a bad EU law can never be repealed. It is part of that great magisterium, the acquis communautaire, where it sits in perpetuity, infinitely easier to do than to undo.

But it was not until the catastrophe in New York and Washington that New Labour really got the bit between its teeth and dared to push for an EU list of proscribed terrorist organisations and a joint EU definition of terrorism that extends British anti-terror policy to the rest of the EU, and then ups the ante. A terrorist is to be defined as anybody using “intimidation” seriously to alter the political, economic or social structures of states. Clause 3.f. of the text states that “Unlawful seizure of or damage to state or government facilities, means of public transport, places of public use, and property” is an offence carrying a “minimum maximum” prison sentence of five years.

The British rights group, Statewatch, warns that this could be used to cover non-violent protest such as the Greenham Common women’s movement against U.S. Cruise missiles. We know that it has absolutely nothing to do with al-Qa’eda. The text was drafted months ago to prevent a recurrence of the Gothenburg and Genoa riots, which were public-order problems, not terrorism. Once it is law, lodged in the acquis for ever, it can be applied to practically anything, such as anti-EU protest, and will increasingly fall under the ambit of the EU’s federal police, investigating, and (soon) prosecuting authorities. I am willing to wager a small bet in euros that this anti-terrorism text, and especially the clause “unlawful seizure of property”, will before the decade is out be used to charge a British citizen engaged in political dissent against the EU.

There will not be much escape if any other EU state chooses to interpret the new terrorism code in such a fashion, or indeed any other fashion that offends our sense of liberty. In the great rush after the attacks, EU ministers also pushed through the European arrest warrant. This obliges Holland to hand over IRA suspects, rather than embrace them as freedom fighters as they were once wont to do. But at the same time, Britain will be compelled to extradite its own citizens to Belgium or Italy, say, countries without habeas corpus, at the demand of a prosecuting magistrate, without the oversight of an independent judge. After having looked into the skulduggery of several Belgian and Italian magistrates, I personally view this as a betrayal of my rights as a free-born Englishman, and I don’t remember being told before the election that the government was going to do such a thing. Given that the acquis will now gobble up this British concession forever, the only way I can regain my lost birthright is if Britain withdraws from the European Union completely. It is the sort of thing that sets one thinking.

[JR: This is definitely the agenda of the NWO.]

CANADIAN PROFESSOR ACCUSED OF 'HATE CRIMES' FOR CRITICIZING U.S. WAR

By Glenn Bohn and Kim Bolan, Vancouver Sun, 10/12/01

“If you point to the factual record of U.S. foreign policy, you are now accused of spreading hate,” she said. “It really is unbelievable.”

A University of B.C. women’s studies professor who criticized U.S. foreign policy has been accused of a hate crime—publicly inciting hatred against Americans.

An unidentified B.C. resident alleged Oct. 4 that assistant professor Sunera Thobani violated the Criminal Code of Canada during an Oct. 1 speech to a women’s conference in Ottawa, RCMP Corporal Michael Labossiere of the B.C. Hate-Crime Unit said Tuesday.

Thobani, a former president of the National Action Committee on the Status of Women, said in an interview Tuesday she had not heard anything about the complaint and she is curious to know who made it.

“This is just pure harassment,” she said. “They are trying to silence dissent in this country.”

Thobani said her speech was intended to explain how U.S. foreign policy has affected life in many countries of the world.

“If you point to the factual record of U.S. foreign policy, you are now accused of spreading hate,” she said. “It really is unbelievable.”

The RCMP’s Labossiere wouldn’t disclose any more specifics about the complaint or the complainant. He said he forwarded the complaint to the Hate-Crimes Unit of the Ottawa-Carleton police force, which has jurisdiction in the area where the offence is alleged to have occurred.

Ottawa police Detective Frank Corkery, a member of Ottawa’s Hate-Crime Unit, wouldn’t confirm whether police there are investigating Thobani.

Corkery said police generally don’t discuss ongoing investigations or reveal the subject of an investigation until charges are laid and it becomes public knowledge.

However, the detective added: “Any complaint made to the hate-crimes section is taken seriously and is investigated on the substance of the complaint.

Labossiere, who last week reported bomb threats had been made against Islamic mosques in Vancouver and Surrey, said he went public with the complaint against Thobani to show that majority groups can potentially be targets too.

“Here we have a complaint against someone who is obviously from a visible minority, whom the complainant feels is promoting hate,” he said.

“Normally, people think it’s a White supremacist or Caucasians, promoting hate against visible minorities... We want to get the message out that it’s wrong, all around.”

Section 319 of the Criminal Code of Canada allows for a jail sentence of less than two years for anyone convicted of the “public incitement of hatred” against an identifiable group of people, when the comments lead to a breach of the peace.

An “identifiable group” is defined as any section of the public distinguished by colour, race, religion or ethnic origin.

However, the same section also provides some broadly worded legal defences. For instance, no one can be convicted “if the statements were relevant to any subject of public interest, the discussion of which was for the public benefit, and if on reasonable grounds he believed them to be true”.

Murray Mollard, a lawyer and executive director of the B.C. Civil Liberties Association, said that, legally, a charge against Thobani would be an uphill battle for the prosecution.

Mollard also said the state shouldn't prosecute someone who criticizes public policies in a democratic forum.

“This is absolutely the wrong thing to do,” he said. “We need to have an open debate about our response to Sept. 11.”

Thobani received a standing ovation at the Women's Resistance Conference in Ottawa after she argued that the U.S. government—not international terrorists—is the most dangerous global force, “unleashing prolific levels of violence all over the world.

“From Chile to El Salvador, to Nicaragua to Iraq, the path of U.S. foreign policy is soaked in blood,” she said in comments that received front-page coverage in Canada's daily newspapers, including The Vancouver Sun.

Many Canadians said Thobani's speech was an ill-timed and anti-American attack, while others accused the mainstream news media of a McCarthy-style witch-hunt.

Thobani said Tuesday she has been stunned by the reaction to her comments.

While she said she has received a lot of support, she has also been shocked by hateful e-mails and telephone calls not just from within Canada, but from the United States.

“It is just unbelievable what it is like,” Thobani said. “I am just getting sent all this porn and hate mail.”

She said the past week has made the controversies during her term as president of the National Action Committee on the Status of Women “seem like a piece of cake”.

But, she said she doesn't want to restrict her life because of the hate mail and threats, even though it has disrupted her life and her job.

“I have security outside my class,” Thobani said.

Convictions for public incitement of hatred are rare in Canada, but not unprecedented.

In 1982, Alberta public high school teacher Jim Keegstra was fired for teaching students that the “Holocaust”—where millions of Jews died in Nazi concentration camps—was a fabrication of a “Jewish conspiracy” that wanted to destroy Christianity. The courts later convicted Keegstra of promoting hatred and ordered him to do 200 hours of community service work.

In 1999, a Christian evangelist in Ontario was convicted of inciting hatred against Muslims in flyers he distributed and in a phone-line message. Mark Harding received a three-month conditional sentence and was required to perform more than 300 hours of voluntary service for the Islamic community.

ANTI-U.S. DEMONSTRATIONS ALL ACROSS THE MIDDLE EAST

AFP, 10/12/01

CAIRO, EGYPT—Thousands of Egyptians, Iranians and Palestinians and other Muslims staged angry protests following their weekly prayers on Friday, five days after the start of the U.S.-led strikes against Afghanistan.

More than 5,000 Egyptians gathered at the al-Azhar mosque, Egypt's largest, to vent their anger at the military strikes by the United States and Britain.

“Down with the United States, down with Britain. Long live the Muslims,” chanted the demonstrators, who included representatives of the Muslim Brotherhood and of the Nasserite movement who had arrived as guests of the mosque's imam, Sheikh Mohammed Sayed Tantawi.

During his sermon, Tantawi restated his position that “no state has the right to punish an entire nation including children, old people and innocent women simply through the misdeeds of one criminal.”

He also supported “the right of the Palestinians to defend their land and their faith” against Israeli occupation.

“These are mujahideen and it is our duty to stand at their side,” he added.

The demonstration took place peacefully amid a large police presence, with several plainclothes security agents deployed among the faithful and anti-riot trucks stationed near the mosque.

At Saudi mosques, prayers were offered for fellow Muslims in Afghanistan and railed against “enemies of Islam” but made no explicit mention of the ongoing strikes, which began Sunday after Kabul's Taliban regime refused to hand over prime terror suspect Osama bin Laden to the United States.

Sheikh Saud al-Sharim, imam of the Grand Mosque in Mecca, Islam's holiest shrine, simply warned Muslims to “steer clear of strife”.

The imam of the Prophet's Mosque in Medina prayed for “Muslims in Afghanistan to be spared” and for “the Muslims' enemies to be destroyed,” again without referring to the U.S.-British blitz.

Some prayer leaders in the capital's mosques were slightly more explicit, urging Muslims to “support their brethren in Afghanistan”.

“It is every Muslim's duty to support his brothers in Afghanistan to show them that we are brothers in adversity,” said the imam of a Riyadh mosque, beseeching God to “bring down the infidels”.

“The blood of Afghan Muslims is being shed,” he said.

In the Iranian capital, Tehran, Culture Minister Ahmad Masjed-Jameyi and Trade Minister Mohammad Shariatmadari joined several thousand people who marched from Tehran University to the central Palestine Square.

Many held up placards, including ones reading “(U.S. President George W.) Bush is the father of terrorism” and “(Israeli Prime Minister Ariel) Sharon is the disobedient son of terrorism”.

Others carried ones announcing their willingness to enter a jihad, or holy war, against the United States.

In Zahedan, capital of Iran's southeastern Sistan Baluchistan province, a rally by about 3,000 people, including a large number of Afghan refugees, turned violent after they attacked the Pakistani consulate, police told AFP.

“Pakistan's consulate was attacked by demonstrators who threw stones,” a police official said, adding that there were no injuries but that the consulate's windows were broken.

In Jordan, an ally of the United States, the prayer leader at one of Amman's main mosques, the King Abdullah Mosque, Sheikh Walid Shabsogh, said in his sermon: “We send a sincere message to the entire world that it is totally wrong to link Islam with terrorism.”

Meanwhile, at the Al Wahdat Mosque in Al Wahdat Palestinian refugee camp, also in Amman, prayer leader Sheikh Samer Mahmood asked that “God give victory to our brothers in Palestine and Afghanistan”.

In the West Bank city of Nablus, some 2,000 people gathered and carried banners and Palestinian flags, including ones calling the United States “the head of terrorism in the world”.

There were similar protests through the streets of Ramallah and Tulkarem.

Palestinian police were given strict orders to take a hands-off approach to any demonstrations after last Monday's violent clashes with protestors, in which two people were killed.

And in Lebanon, some 3,000 people led by Sunni Muslim religious clerics staged a protest in the northern port city of Tripoli, where a number of Sunni fundamentalist groups are based. Many also carried portraits of bin Laden.

SENATE APPROVES ANTI-TERRORISM BILL

By Jim Abrams, Associated Press, 10/12/01

WASHINGTON—The Senate voted Thursday to give police broad new wiretapping authority and other tools to pursue suspected terrorists and to increase and federalize security on airliners and at airports.

Hours after unanimously passing a bill to overhaul protections against terrorism in aviation, the Senate approved a compromise bill negotiated with Attorney General John Ashcroft authorizing the use of roaming wiretaps and new subpoena powers against suspected terrorists.

The Bush administration had urgently pressed for the two measures as a response to the Sept. 11 hijacked airliner attacks in New York and Washington. But both had been stalled for two weeks, the anti-terrorism bill over civil liberty concerns and the aviation security bill over efforts to add aid for laid-off airline workers and money for Amtrak.

The Senate passed the anti-terrorism legislation 96-1. Sen. Russ Feingold (D-Wis.) cast the only dissenting vote.

Feingold had failed in a last-ditch effort to tone down parts of the bill's police powers, and grew angry that the bill, which came straight to the floor, was moving so fast. “What have we come to when we don't have either committee or Senate deliberation or amendments on an issue of this importance?” he said.

Senate Judiciary Chairman Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.) who negotiated with Senate Republicans and the administration to come up with the final version of the bill, conceded that the legislation “is really not the bill that any of the 100 here would have written, but we can't pass 100 bills”.

“What we have done is put together the best bill possible,” he said.

The House is expected to take up its version of the bill Friday.

Both the House and Senate measures would expand the FBI's wiretapping authority, impose stronger penalties on those who harbor or finance terrorists and increase punishment for terrorists.

But unlike the House anti-terrorism bill, the Senate measure has no expiration date on the new police powers and also includes money-laundering legislation requested by the White House.

WORDS OF WISDOM FROM HATONN

CONTACT OR SPECTRUM?

I want to briefly respond to a most unusual question from a totally "out of the blue" person: "It appears Spectrum will fail, possibly close, so will you go back to writing for CONTACT or what?"

I have never stopped writing for CONTACT—but I have NOT written, nor have my compatriots written for Spectrum. Tails wag a lot of dogs, my friends. Therefore, "or what" has no meaning.
