RE: A FEW WORDS OF LOVE AND WISDOM; PART 5, WORLD TRADE CENTER SPECIAL REPORT, WIR, COLEMAN

LET'S REMEMBER PEARL HARBOR
FOR THE REALITY OF WHAT IT WAS!

Hatonn—Today may well be the 8th of December in the Philippines but in the U.S. it is very definitely the 7th. It is more worthy to remember a few things in TRUTH than to just wave flags. Again, I suggest you honor the birthdays of those you love who were born on December 7th and carefully note that “celebrations” of freedom are not very likely to be WHAT THEY SEEM.

THE WORST TERRORISTS THERE ARE ARE THE ONES IN CONTROL—WITH THE POWER TO BRING DOWN THE ATROCITIES ON “ALL” HEADS AT THEIR COMMAND.

REMEMBER IT AND THEN LOOK AROUND VERY CAREFULLY AND VERY SLOWLY.

TERROR IN THE PHILIPPINES

The Taliban is one thing but the other parts of the world under the terrorist attack of the United States is quite another.

Special troops have landed in the Philippines WITH SECRET ORDERS, but it is assumed that they will attack all places declared by decree as to be anything against the sitting government.

On the list, and perhaps rightfully so, is found every group having spoken or acted against the government in dire danger of annihilation. Lady Arroyo has even, get this one, ASKED GEORGE W. BUSH TO PUT NUR MISUARI ON THE LIST AS AN INTERNATIONAL TERRORIST. George Bush? (????) And just where were YOU when the U.S. Constitution WAS MURDERED? Ask George Bush to put a local man trying to defend his very autonomous region set forth under lawful TREATY and Peace accord, on a list as a terrorist?

Is the man a terrorist? Well, who but the Shadow knows? BUT, the Philippines has just stepped into the trap and WILL be governed by no less than an official United States of America International Banking Cartel.

Will the U.S. get back the “American” couple? Probably, but you should know that the “couple” have been living in the Philippines as, basically, citizens for some near-15 years. This has no bearing on the right or wrong of hostage-taking but does point out that any trick in a storm will do to accomplish ends desired.

What does that do to GAIA? Well, hopefully nothing except make it more SAFE to use in order to bring actual peace to a dying area.

We have offered NOTHING to anyone save registered Philippine entities for LIVELIHOOD purposes and NOTHING to Misuari or his apparatus. We offer solutions to problems and do not offer more problems. We do not offer “something for nothing”, only stability and a way to recover wealth and stability plundered by the New World Order-IBC. PATIENCE AND LOW-PROFILE “LEARNING”

INSTEAD OF PRESSURE SELLING OF THAT WHICH CANNOT BE “FOR SALE” WILL DO ITS WORK—IN ITS PROPER TIME.

Meanwhile, everyone has plenty to do and with which to struggle to make your marks in honest goodness “because it is the right thing to do” and not just to play games with abundance. We will set things to right after we meet our obligations and accepted responsibilities—and by then will have accumulated the information necessary to clean some houses of dirty tricksters.

Then, after we clear up the usurpers we can move on with our goals of information sharing, projects which were begun and intended through these troubled years and begin to build instead of struggle to survive. We will, however, do it honorably, with integrity, demand justice and never revenge, and only to further the flow of truthful information through those who have paid a dear price for their struggle to simply “inform”.

And yes indeed, I am righteously delighted, honored and pleased with my friends who have stayed this course at such cost as to be staggering. In our work is reflected the Truth and Honor of our commission. A very Merry Christmas and a most happy New Year to you all.

In just little ways we read our future as even Papua New Guinea is seeking information on projects to grow Spelt that they might better feed their people and have exports. And, readers, THEY have a problem with a minimum of 700 tribes and equal separate languages. You don’t need a New World Order; you need order in a New World. The population runs to almost 100% poverty and below (as if that could be) and range from penis-shield clothes to fully glued-on feathers to, of course, fully integrated WESTERN WEAR that reads: UCLA or some such U.S. college of HIGHER learning. A penis shield fully decorated and a UCLA T-shirt is as good as it gets, travelers.

We now, however, look squarely at some very promising considerations in the Philippines. Just remember, watchers, we have to keep plugging with the frogs until a Prince gets word and shows up. Every non-Prince with eyes on the treasure will show up first—but that is exceptionally GOOD training for the players on our team as a program takes shape of perfection rather than a mass glob of open wounds which can become infested or infected.

All I can ask is that you stay the course, have some REAL fun along the way, see the humor in all things along with that which is purely logical and reasonable and you will be better than “fine”. If you can’t bring self to live one day at a time, evaluate and redirect, then try one step at a time after which breath you have just taken allows for another. God is within the heartbeat and the breath and all else is but a circumstance.

[QUOTING WIR “WORLD TRADE CENTER SPECIAL REPORT”, Sept.-Oct., 2001, Dr. John Coleman:]

PART 5

INSTRUMENTS OF PUBLIC POWER; INVISIBLE GOVERNMENT

During WW I, Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo, Secretary of the Treasury expressed his loathing for the “instruments of public power”:

“This invisible Government is reactionary, sinister, unscrupulous, mercenary and sordid. This kind of government must be scourged and destroyed.” We echo those sentiments and view with alarm the growth of the Invisible Government which is so much more sordid and powerful today that it is threatening to destroy the United States.

Roosevelt breathed new life into the British in 1940 when the war was virtually over and Britain was facing certain defeat. By prolonging and widening the conflict, Churchill and Roosevelt were responsible for the loss of millions of lives that would otherwise not have been lost. Pearl Harbor was their excuse, it was an act of “enlightened terror” as we said but which is certainly important enough to mention again. What did the American people know about the plots that were hatched in the darkness? They knew absolutely nothing about these treacherous events. They did not know that, behind their backs, plans were being made that would affect their lives in a most drastic way and that the course of their nation would be forever altered for the worse.

The American people were powerless to contest these events, because they lived in ignorance of what their government was doing. This was pure evil and ought not to have been allowed to prevail, but it did. We issue this solemn warning in the wake of the World Trade Center tragedy. Do what Washington said we should do, be vigilant at all times, see that our Constitution is never violated. The United States fought the First World War to save England from defeat. The American people were sold a false bill of goods by Colonel House, the agent extraordinaire of the Rothschilds, by Balfour and Lansing, when they were told that our entry into the war would “make the world safe for democracy”, one of many slogans devised by the Tavistock Institute.

The United States fought the Second World War to save Britain from certain second defeat at the hands of Germany and to restore British trade monopolies including the one imposed on the U.S. under the guise of “free trade”. Everything else we were propagandized to believe was mere window dressing designed to deceive the American people: “Save democracy”, “put an end to tyrants”, “protect our freedoms”—mere products of the Tavistock Institute. Germany was defeated solely because the United States entered the war. The perpetrators of this giant hoax were Roosevelt and Churchill.

Benjamin Friedman, a scholar, philosopher and former assistant to Bernard Baruch, (controller of both Wilson and Roosevelt) attended the Paris Peace Conference where the Treaty of Versailles was signed, explained the reasons behind the all-consuming hatred of Germany, in a speech he delivered at the Willard Hotel in Washington, DC.

“World War I had been started against Germany for no reason for which Germans were responsible. They were guilty of nothing, only of being successful. They built a big navy. They built up world trade. You must remember that Germany at the time of the French Revolution consisted of 300 small city-states, principalities and dukedoms and so forth. And between the times of Napoleon and Bismarck they were consolidated into one state. Within 50 years they were to become one of the world’s greatest powers.

“Their navy was rivaling Great Britain’s, they were doing business all over the world; they could undersell anybody; and they could make a better product. What happened? What was the result of that? There was a conspiracy between England, France and Russia to slap the Germans down. There isn’t one valid historian in the world who can find a valid reason why those three countries decided to wipe Germany off the map.”

Nor is there one single valid historian who can find a valid reason why the United States went to war against Germany, why we attacked Iraq, why we attacked Serbia, why we put down the civilized government of South Africa, why we put the Sandanista Communists in power in Nicaragua and so on and so on ad-infinitum. The invisible Government so detested and feared by McAdoo has our nation and our country by the throat, and as a leopard keeps a grip on the throat of the impala it has hunted down until it can no longer breathe, so are we in the death grip of tyrants we have never seen and whose names only a few of us know.

Author Ian D. Colvin summed up the deceitful, treasonous, treacherous character of Wilson, House, Balfour, Stimson, Knox, Roosevelt and Churchill in his book, The Unseen Hand in English History:

“The ruling motive in politics, as intelligent men know very well, is interest. Those resounding cries and plausible principles on which to the young and the innocent, the battle appears to be fought, are usually pretexts, the flag, the color of action, men and especially politicians seldom if ever aver their true motives, but nearly always wrap it in some virtue, some faith, or plausible abstraction.”

How perfectly does Colvin strip the veneer of pretensions off the politicians and how perfectly do his observations strip the veneer of patriotism from Wilson, Roosevelt, and Churchill. How empty, how lying, how conniving were their “patriotic” speeches written for them by the Tavistock Institute with the intent to deceive the American people. They had as their goal the triumph of International Socialism.

The armed forces of the United States, the billions of dollars, were not expended to make the world “safe for democracy”, nor for the preservation of the mythical “Four Freedoms” (yet another Tavistock invention), nor in the patriotic motives which Churchill and Roosevelt were so good at incorporating into their speeches. No, the armed might of the United States was used to preserve intact the International Socialists’ agenda which had nothing to do with “democracy” nor did our armed forces fight to remove “ruthless dictators”.

BOLSHEVIKS, LENIN AND STALIN

If it were true, then why did we not remove the most ruthless dictators the world has ever known, Lenin and Stalin? Far from trying to remove them we were the first to recognize the bloody Bolshevik state they had set up in Russia. Worse than that, after WW II the United States destroyed nearly every anti-Communist government in the world and replaced them with Communist or Socialist regimes, of which Rhodesia, South Africa, and Nicaragua, are just a few examples.

Roosevelt and his War Cabinet knew the approximate time the Japanese strike against Pearl Harbor would take place. They knew that their policies had backed Japan into a corner from which it would probably have to fight its way out. They knew that a large Japanese battle fleet was approaching Pearl Harbor and that an attack was less than a week away. They knew after the final 14-page coded message from Tokyo to its foreign embassies was decoded, there was a very strong probability that an attack was imminent.

CLEVERLY SPRUNG TRICKS

Yet, the commanders at Pearl Harbor, Admiral Kimmel and General Short, were not immediately warned. Notwithstanding the pleading of the ONI naval officer who decoded the message, Admiral Stark and General Marshall refused to give the order that a warning be transmitted to the commanders at Pearl Harbor. Why? Because Roosevelt did not want to take the risk that the Japanese might intercept the signal and then cancel the attack, knowing that the key element of surprise was lost.

Roosevelt had another agenda. He desperately needed "a cleverly sprung trick" to overcome the strong opposition of 87 percent of the American people, who up to the December 7, 1941 the day of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, were adamantly opposed to war with Germany, even if it meant that Hitler defeated Great Britain and USSR!

Did the American people have any knowledge of these events? We answer, "No, they did not have any indication of what was going on. They were deliberately kept in ignorance because Roosevelt wanted war and not peace. He had been striving for war for more than a year, but was thwarted by the American people who were solidly against involvement in the war in Europe and had no desire to be involved in a war against Japan. It is worth repeating, they opposed "trust me" Roosevelt by a margin of 87 percent. It was a repeat of the solid opposition to Wilson's attempts to get the United States "in on the side of the Allies", to quote the sinister and treacherous Mr. House.

All that changed after December 7th. On December 8th, 1941 a joint session of the House and Senate gave Roosevelt the declaration of war they had refused so many times before to give him, and conferred upon him the title of commander in chief of the armed forces of the United States. To his credit, at least Roosevelt recognized that he needed a constitutional declaration of war and did not go off to war on his own volition. He knew, although it galled him, that he was not the commander in chief until such times as war was declared and the Congress called him into service and conferred the title upon him.

Would that the current crop of politicians get this fact implanted in their numskulls; that they are obliged to obey this vital provision of our Constitution, instead of trampling it underfoot in their unseemly scramble for causes alien to the welfare of America. Whereas the American people had been resolutely opposed to war right up to December 7th, they now gave Roosevelt their wholehearted support. It appeared that "enlightened terrorism" had been a great success.

One of the stratagems used by Roosevelt was the uttering and publishing of false information in the hope that it would stampede the American people into giving him the unconstitutional power he had so avidly sought. Perhaps of the most infamous was a map purporting to be a genuine Abwher (German intelligence) document showing how Hitler was planning to invade South America and divide it up into fourteen separate regions.

At a Navy Day dinner in Washington D.C. on October 27, 1941, widely covered by press and radio, Roosevelt held the map aloft and in ringing and stentorian tones, declared:

GAMES, LIES, DECEIT, SECRET MAPS, FORGERIES AND MORE LIES

"I have in my possession a secret map made in Germany by Hitler's Government. It is a map of South America and Central America as Hitler proposes to organize it. They have also so arranged it that the territory of one of these new puppet States includes the Republic of Panama and our great lifeline, the Panama Canal. This map makes it clear that the Nazi design is not only against South America but against the United States itself!"

Roosevelt's "revelation" brought uproar and resulted in several anti-war stalwarts changing their stance. In fact the map was a clever forgery made by Division E of British Intelligence MI-6 in their document Forgery Section in Toronto, Canada. Years later Sir William Stephenson who was then the head of MI-6 North American Desk admitted that it was a forgery, but by then it was too late to repair the serious damage it did to the American people. Roosevelt knew that the map was a forgery but believed he could keep his little secrets from the American people.

After America was in the war, Roosevelt told Morgenthau: "You know Henry, I am a juggler and I never let my right hand know what my left hand does... and furthermore I am perfectly willing to mislead and tell untruths if it will help us win the war." The poor American people! They believed their International Socialist President was a great leader and even erected a large monument to honor his memory!

Starting in 1940, British intelligence ran a huge disinformation service from Toronto, under the control of Christopher Emmett, from where they issued fraudulent opinion polls in favor of U.S. participation in the war and smeared patriots like Rep. Hamilton Fish. Emmett's main target was Rep. Fish, a stalwart anti-war patriot who was subjected to four years of calumny and vicious slander, eagerly supported by the "El Supremo of Smear", Drew Pearson.

MI-6 had a list of every influential person who was against Churchill and Roosevelt's war and printed hundreds of scurrilous accusations in the ten or twelve magazines owned by MI-6. (For further details see Pearl Harbor Revisited by Dr. John Coleman.) The Canadian authorities undoubtedly knew about these things but did nothing to expose the criminals in their midst.

MISSION IMPOSSIBLE? HOW COULD THEY...?

We mention this because we have noticed that since September 11, there has been a steady stream of "reports", "warnings" and "information" coming from Canada, all purporting to be this, that or the other "evidence" about terrorist activities and possible future terrorists activities, and nearly always couched in the vaguest of terms. We urge our readers to be skeptical of all such information originating from Canada, lest we might be seriously hoodwinked once again as we were when Roosevelt held aloft his "made in Germany" forged map. Our question to those in Canada issuing these "reports" is this: "How is it possible that you are now able to give America these "warnings" when you were unable to provide even the smallest vestige of information prior to Sept. 11th?"

The latest "alarm" and "excursion", on the strength of which a new "high alert" with new draconian measures was imposed, came in a television announcement by Attorney General Ashcroft who said the warning came from Canada. We thought it vaguely worded, unless the version delivered by Ashcroft was not the full message allegedly intercepted by Canadian authorities, and if it is not, why are we not entitled to a full and proper account of the alleged "message"?

It has taken almost sixty years of relentless digging to come up with what really happened in the years of "rule by secrecy" before Pearl Harbor, and even now, we still don't know the full extent of Roosevelt's treasonous conduct. As always happens when governments make secret deals they wish to conceal from their people, no mention of what they are doing appears in the press. Those who imagine that the United States and Britain have open governments should think again. The tens of thousands of secret deals made by these two governments (always for the good of the people, we suppose!) have yet to be recounted, and if ever even a small percentage should be chronicled, decent men everywhere would be deeply disturbed.

The seeds of a permanent state of war in Palestine were sown by one such secret deal, known as the Balfour Declaration which we mentioned earlier. Did the American people know anything about this secret deal that was to bring America into the First World War? Of course not! While they were going about their daily business, little did they know that there were people trying to circumvent the Constitution, working around the clock to destroy the peace and equanimity and enjoyment of the life they had?

They had no inkling of the plots being hatched, the secret deals, and the treacherous betrayals that would soon snatch their sons away from home and family to pull the British Empire back from the very brink of resounding defeat. Where in the Constitution is it written that President Wilson or any other U.S. President is authorized to make secret deals? There is a distinct probability that even now, eighty-six years later, more than 85 percent of the American people still do not know what those secret deals comprised, or how or why America was dragged into WW I and WW II for no valid reasons and against its national interests.

Some time ago we talked with a group of intelligent Americans who prided themselves with knowing what is going on. When we asked how many of the group knew what the "Balfour Declaration" was, we found that they had only a hazy idea that it was a "some kind of a British document relating to Palestine".

They did not know that America was part of it, that the deal had involved Justice Brandeis, Colonel House and President Wilson, and that the draft of the declaration was written in secret in the United States of America by Justice Brandeis, behind the backs of the American people, who had not the slightest inkling that it would be the cause of their sons being snatched away and sent to France to fight a war which they solidly opposed.

Nor did the American people know that in order to raise “an American expeditionary force” President Wilson would willingly violate his oath of office in the most heinous manner, an act of treason! No, the American people knew nothing of the disasters being planned and plotted in secret by their leaders! In our opinion, absolutely nothing has changed in the years 1917-2001. What do the American people know about events preceding the unconstitutional wars against Panama, Iraq, Serbia, and Macedonia, and what do we know about events currently going on behind the scenes? Our cause is always said to be just, but is it constitutional, that is the burning question? And if it is both constitutional and just, why are we not given the facts? Why the everlasting secrecy?

America had never directly witnessed the effect of terrorism until September 11, 2001. What millions of Americans saw on that terrible and fateful day completely disoriented the entire nation and placed their support solidly behind President Bush. There was an instant rush to “war”. Dan Rather in his most dramatic manner declared, “America is now at war.” Of course we were not at war then, nor are we now, simply because war has NOT BEEN DECLARED BY A JOINT SESSION OF THE HOUSE AND SENATE (which Wilson and Roosevelt were careful to observe). Invested by the Constitution, the Congress (House and Senate) has the sole power to make that decision. Every television news reporter and commentator echoed and compounded Dan Rather’s error. The great propaganda machine came roaring onto the freeway of public opinion at full throttle.

[END OF QUOTING PART 5]

This is truly worthy of your attention, for as it is, readers, the United States of America is involved in the most heinous acts of Terrorism ever foisted off on the world. There is NO WAR as declared—and yet bombing and weapons of mass destruction are dumped onto the heads of the most poverty-stricken people on the globe. This is not “humanitarian”; it is an atrocity against mankind.

I probably will ask for an interruption for a writing or two from other sources so that we can be sure of getting the notations into Journals assembled later but if not on “our” disks as in this type of writing by Fingers, we don’t have the opportunity to be interchangeable.

I do want to share with you some things now put to press and which can’t longer be denied, one of which is that Bush Sr. actually had the Israeli Mossad out to assassinate him. But, Israel has been doing everything possible to get the U.S. to start that Middle East war on THEIR terms and we shall see, won’t we? It probably won’t take much longer to see it unfold.

Also, you need to look at other input on loss of the Constitution as it is being presented in the “Free” press.

I would remind you that your very downfall as a Nation came with that wondrous “Wilson” regime—remember the traitor secretly got the Federal Reserve Act done up against you at Christime, 1913.

Can the world recover? Yes, that is not the question. The question is: WILL IT?

Thank you, GCH

BLM: Clear Mandate To Confiscate And Harass

12/11/01—#1 (15-117)

RE: BLM AND CATTLE RUSTLING. I WON’T MAKE ANYONE DO ANYTHING! NOTE THAT EXAMPLES MORE OFTEN HIT VERY CLOSE TO HOME AS THINGS BEGIN TO HAPPEN TO “EVERYONE” AND NOT JUST SOMEONE ELSE

ONCE UPON A TIME AT THE OLD HOMESTEAD OR, “MEANWHILE, BACK AT THE RANCH...”

Hatonn—Most of you regular readers will recall that early in November a year ago, E.J.’s brother AC died in a plane crash which plane he was piloting. This was at roundup (cattle) time so was in a remote area of the “Roost Ranch” (of Redford/Sundance fame).

E.J. had to remain in Manila to attend MY business which left the “pick up the pieces” to family back home. Now this was simply an instance of having to let the others bury the dead and sort the loss. But the nightmare was only just beginning.

The brother did not die of the plane crash. In fact he was able to give instructions for attending his two passengers AND get the rescue people to the explicit location. He was doing quite well in a sitting position but did have a very damaged jaw.

The long and short of this tale is that the “rescue” people handled the circumstances incorrectly and actually were responsible for his death. This is called in legal terms: wrongful death.

This is not in focus until you consider the numbers of things revolving around the young man in point which included Sipapu Odyssey filming on site at the ranch in point with MILLIONS of dollars of motion picture funds resting on the table, so to speak.

The death of the “logistics” person was so devastating to our Academy Award winner, Wally Gentleman, that he succumbed to a heart attack in December last. And, yes, this is all documented with budgets done and industrial arrangements in structuring.

NEXT, HOWEVER, CAME THE LAWYERS

Now, all of the grieving and special arrangements had to be attended; all motion picture arrangements had to be put on hold while estate matters were settled.

Ah but—even though the ranch was securely established in a long-standing CORPORATION which was well documented, the nightmare began and has continued to this moment over a year later.

I don’t wish to detail the problems further but know that after a year with ALL RECORDS totally in order, the lawyers claim that there is no agreement as to who owns the ranch, the cows or the corporation itself.

Now please, realize that in the high plateau country of Utah it is hard winter NOW.

With that in mind please also realize that there are cattle to be under consideration. Moreover, cattle rustling has been a steady and continual drain on the ranch itself. Debts of massive size were left as well but mostly to the “estate” of AC so “SHOULD NOT” impact the ranch—BUT—of course it does, for AC had used the ranch to collateralize some of his farm and horse operations “in town”.

So, OK, even with these negatives it seems life could go on, the culprits of theft could be absolutely identified—but nobody would do anything, including allowing a claim against the rescue service which literally killed the man. There seems to be some Utah law that only allows the spouse or direct children allowance to file “wrongful death” claims and that must be done within one year of the death itself.

Wow, and the death didn’t even take place in Utah but in the air, somewhere, as they took AC to Grand Junction, Colorado for attention.

Now the stage is set, hopefully, to get on with interesting points otherwise.

The ranch is remote, incredibly hard cattle-raising country, and the land for grazing is, of course, of the shrinking BLM (Bureau of Land Management) “legal” and “permitted” land in this last half century. Water rights are the important holding today of which Ekkers hold a bunch of rights on that cattle property. Oh well, on with the story.

AC had sold some of the property of the ranch to a Grand Canyon Trust which worked with the BLM and the point was to retire the land for wilderness use. In that agreement, of which the only proceeds were used for personal needs of AC, the important point of note in this tale is that it was agreed that the cattle would be removed from the remote areas by given dates or the ranch company would be fined and other dastardly things would take place—if...!

Now everyone was nice and it was only May with Spring looking toward Summer and “Oh well...”. Then the agreement was extended after the death so that in the end it turned out that all the “trespass” cattle would be removed by December 14, 2001. Now that was a long time and no problem except that lawyers couldn’t seem to quite agree on anything nor would they file a timely complaint to get things moving.

NOW, here on December 11, 2001 those cows have to be OFF BLM property (seized in the first place) or very heavy FINES would be put against the ranch company for “trespass”.

Without finishing contracts the lawyer went away for a trip to attend a Sheepherder’s convention and didn’t even get the contracts with the “cattle gatherers” finished and today, in the bitterness of a Siberian-type winter, riders had to be hired in an effort to get a “best efforts” document before the BLM. Oh there would still be fines even with an extension because this would be a second time. This is not your dude ranch, people, this is country so rugged that even Butch Cassidy couldn’t be found.

Now, worse, if fines are big, the homestead can be seized as well, by the BLM, and THEREIN lies the problem at the heart of the matter. The ranch in point borders the Canyonlands National Park and much of it has already been declared wilderness and lost to the families of the original settlers.

Nobody can longer make a living on the place and in fact it now needs thousands and thousands of dollars to bring it into good condition. Well, the two sisters and E.J.'s two sons have been pouring all of their available time into that project and getting ready with holding pens, water supply, etc., for THIS ride.

When the lawyer was confronted for non-fulfillment of duties and asked "What can we do now?" he said, "Well, you can shoot me."

I am going to repeat, E.J.: GET THAT RANCH CORPORATION MOVED TO NEVADA WHERE THERE IS NO QUESTION REGARDING INCORPORATION. THERE IS NO ACTUAL INABILITY TO DEAL WITH THIS IN UTAH, EXCEPT THAT LAWYERS HAVE TRULY BOTCHED, BEYOND BELIEF, THE CASE—AND HAVE GOTTEN AWAY WITH IT BECAUSE OF E.J.'S NOT BEING ABLE TO BE PRESENT TO DEMAND ATTENTION.

Will that change the status of the Corporation itself? Yes and no; yes it will give authority to Nevada as to registration (JOINT) BUT WILL FALL UNDER THE NEVADA LAWS WHICH WILL BRING MANDATORY LEGAL NOTICE TO THE LAWYERS PLAYING WITH WORKING FUNDS WHICH THEY HAVE NOW EXHAUSTED IN PERSONAL BILLINGS FROM THE ENTIRE INCOME OF LAST YEAR.

Now, to anyone who thinks I am focusing on "just another personal story", forget it. For when you think the GOVERNMENT doesn't run your lives, think again.

Can the BLM do these things? YES INDEED; please read on, for it is the next that I want you to attend.

As a matter of fact, I want all of you to remember back to the "DAN" clan, a small Indian tribe in Nevada of probably ten years ago where people got shot and killed by the government officers over cattle, seizures and trespass ON INDIAN LAND.

I am sorry not to be able to use the picture included here where a rancher wearing a "flag" hat [stars and stripes—patriotic] is standing at his truck while a shouting BLM agent, in uniform, has a gun aimed at him. Might remind Diane of a fateful morning in 2000 when she met agents in uniforms with drawn guns in her family room.

Is it too late? Yes. But it is not too late to begin to get some security BACK.

[QUOTING AMERICAN FREE PRESS, Dec. 3, 2001 (within THIS week):]

FED RUSTLERS SEIZE, SELL
RANCHER'S LIVESTOCK
By Fred Lingel

Not all robberies are committed by street hoodlums—some of the biggest crooks are federal officials.

With no clear title indicating ownership and without a court order, federal officials recently auctioned off seized cattle during a dispute over grazing rights on federally-managed land, says a Nevada rancher.

The government's stint in rustling began when ranchers and the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) wrangled over whether cattle could be grazed on Ben Colvin's ranch in Nevada.

BLM officials claimed that rancher Ben Colvin, 63, of Goldfield, Nev. and others were trespassing and destroying public land by grazing their herds in parts of Esmeralda County.

According to a BLM spokesman, in 1994 the federal agency made changes to how cattlemen could graze their herds on public lands in parts of Nevada because of drought and stress caused by OTHER WILDLIFE.

However, ranchers and citizens' rights advocates argue that federal bureaucrats are mismanaging the land by allowing a population explosion among protected wild horses and burros to devastate areas in Nevada.

When the ranchers tried to dispute the BLM's claim, their herds were seized to cover fines levied by the BLM.

Other cattle seized by the BLM at the time Colvin's herd was removed, however, had to be released to a third party who held ownership in the name of a security interest.

However, the government kept Colvin's cattle and auctioned them off at a discounted price on Nov. 13.

In addition, Colvin says federal bureaucrats gathered his cattle without a court order or due process.

They acted "before due process of law can be afforded me. I am not a trespasser on my own land," Colvin said.

A teenager, using his grandmother's credit card, purchased the cattle valued at $40,000 for $13,000, said Carolyn Bauer of the Nevada Committee for Full Statehood, based in Sparks, Nev.

Because the teenager received no ownership title to the cattle from government agents, he could do nothing with the livestock. The boy then tried to sell them back to Colvin for $13,000, Bauer said. Colvin, however, refused to buy back his own cattle.

The committee has sent letters to Gov. Kenny Guinn asking for the removal of Paul Iverson as director of the Nevada Department of Agriculture.

"Iverson has gunned down Nevada law by signing an understanding that breaks the lock and key of the long-established heritage and history of the western range brand law ... as surely as if he had built the fire, heated the iron and altered the brand himself," said David Holmgren, chairman of the Nevada Live Stock Association.

The Nevada Committee for Full Statehood plans to file charges against all involved in taking Colvin's cattle.

PROTEST MARRED BY VIOLENCE

During a peaceful protest at the auction, a BLM officer physically assaulted Ken Greenwell and took his gun, the statehood committee said. Greenwell filed "assault with a deadly weapon" charges.

Greenwell's gun was completely holstered the entire time. He was moving the gun and his lunch pail into the back of the truck," Greenwell said. "The gun was in the back of the truck where I had placed it. The agent grabbed for the gun ... and physically pushed me out of the way.

"All this while he had his gun drawn and was pointing it at me," Greenwell said. "I then grabbed his arm and took my gun back. Then he started to yell at me to get down on the ground, but I wouldn't do it. The BLM agent was pointing his gun directly at me."

When other members of the committee arrived to see what was happening, Greenwell said, the agent disappeared behind a locked gate.

[END OF QUOTING]

Now, citizens, this is not some created tale of singular woe. THIS is what has come to pass in the land of opportunity and the "free". YOU WILL DO WHAT YOU ARE TOLD TO DO, AND IF YOU DON'T OR IF YOU STRUGGLE, YOU WILL BE PROSECUTED TO THE FULL EXTENT OF NON-VALID LAWS—BY THE GOVERNMENT.

Or, you will be SHOT on the spot by a government agent playing James Bond.

So, will it help to have the Ekker ranch in a Nevada CORPORATION rather than a Utah corporation? YES, because if it had been in Nevada, the question of corporate status WOULD NEVER HAVE ARISEN. But you see, the lawyers playing "get the money" are also UTAH residents and practitioners and literally can push around and manipulate the circumstances until TIME RUNS OUT.

Why even struggle over the ranch? Well, because it is a historical monument and the legacy of the parents and their parents for generations. It could in no way pay its way as a ranch, BUT AS A MOTION PICTURE "BASE" IT IS PRICELESS BECAUSE OF ITS FAMOUS HISTORY AND LOCATION.

Is this all because of E.J. (Ekkers) and this task? No, sorry about that, readers—THIS IS WHAT HAS HAPPENED TO YOUR LAND OF THE FREE—HOME OF THE MOST LAWYERS ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH.

Can E.J. do anything, REALLY, to sort this?

No, not from here and the family has done a wondrous job while the family has grown ever so much more "close" and respectful of each other and the incredible confrontation of this incident, of which of course, I have not even nearly begun to outlay the numbers of incidents from "Peyton Place" in old-West-lore-type activities to "gotcha" on a grand cattle theft program.

In fact, there is a semi-load of cattle being held in a feedlot without documentation—thieved off the ranch within the past three weeks. We can have, not only a film site, but my goodness, a whole "Lonesome Dove" series.

Mainly, the site is an object of my instructions TO KEEP because YOU WILL NEED IT, good friends, before these terrorists wars are over. And no, it is NOT OK to simply abandon a family heritage of such importance to the wolves and terrorists.

And people, IN TODAY'S paper, there is [Sir] Mayor Guiliani hugging and kissing (literally) Mr. Sharon of Israel as they join the "anti-terrorist" coalition. GOOD LUCK, AMERICA! (Are the rewards for "cover-up" greater than perpetration?)

I suggest you people go catch up with your reading because it is well known that Mr. Sharon led the Stern terrorist gang in Israel and did personally shoot and kill a United Nations envoy/ambassador ATTENDING THE TERRORIST ACTIVITIES IN THE AREA.

No, it is NOT good, friends, and meanwhile back at the desert called Negev is a large portion of the Gold of the world treasuries, INCLUDING THE U.S.'s, and an arsenal of nuclear weapons OF MASS DESTRUCTION to boggle your senses.

So be it and may we cut this short please, for we need to attend other topics as well, today.

Things ARE, yes, looking very positive in Manila.

Salu, GCH

RE: OBSERVATIONS ON GAIA FROM THE GROUND LEVEL ON SITE. GRATITUDE FOR ALL THE HELP—IN EVERY WAY

ALL IN THE GAME?

OR SHOULD IT BE: ALL IN THE SHAME?

A lot of people are learning some very hard lessons, including us. However, we are now gifted with having had lessons prior to now on incidents pulled over and over again ON US so that we recognize before the disappointment wipes us out that “here it comes again!”

I'm writing this note to all, but especially to the ones on the conference call from the CONTACT office yesterday morning early. We told them we had a couple of gold transactions in immediate process and no earthly way to tell how it would turn out or even if, as is usually the case, nobody shows up but has a zillion excuses—mainly that they have to have money to get a vehicle to carry “it all”, “exclusive” authorization to “themselves, the holder” (never has the party in point been even nearly a “holder”) and/or “THE important party in point had to be taken to the hospital with something or other.” The something or other is in a given level of dizziness to massive stroke or leg amputation, etc. We have now experienced two leg amputations, ten strokes, multiple sibling or parental deaths (often, memory being what it is here—several deaths for the same party). Then there is always the taxi fare, the vehicle rental, the storage with security and “we have to stay overnight” (hotel costs), etc.

Then comes the one that says “I have two bank accounts, but no cash today, can you cash a check?” Then when you put the checks into the mill—the account either didn't exist or has been closed OR HAS NOTHING IN IT.

We have, however, been VERY CAREFUL to take any such funds out of our own Social Security funds so nobody back home gets stung. The amounts are usually $2 (100 pesos) up to perhaps $10 (500 pesos). One lady actually had borrowed on a Friday to be paid back on a Monday (along with a very large gold transaction). Well, Monday came, she came, the gold didn't and neither did the pesos. Later that very week she ended up in the hospital with a stroke. Prior to that the “holder” had been held up because he had been in the hospital with a similar stroke.

Typical of yesterday, to those with whom we discussed these things: We expected a BIG bunch of gold to arrive at 7:30 a.m. (the exact time of the call from back home).

Now, the night before people waited in the lobby with anticipation and storage place arranged only to be told the location was a secret and they would bring it in “early tomorrow morning, by 7:30”. Fine, saved the bother of fussing with storage in a secure area under the nose of the hotel security people.

At about 8:30 a.m., the “receiver in the lobby” was called and told to “SEND FUNDS FOR TWO VEHICLES” so they could transport the gold.

Response: “Not on your life, dear.” So, “Oh OK, we'll keep working on it and bring it later.” No word “later”, so even the receivers, the gold dealer, et al., went home or back to work—OR WHATEVER.

The other one with another “load” waited until into the night in the lobby only finally to track the “dealers” to find that the “holder” had been brought to the hospital for an emergency.

DON'T GET DISCOURAGED
MORE THAN MOMENTARILY

Hey, we went from believing these people to wanting to strangle them—NOW, we are at least finding out where the product is actually secured and these are just dancing brokers trying to cut themselves in for some pesos big time.

Poor Mr. V., however, sent us a message in total humiliation and embarrassment and vowed to disown the Philippines forever. He had, in fact, only been BACK in the Philippines a couple of months. His actual words are not fit for even the modern press.

Now readers, at best these little transactions are NOT any “solution” but give us opportunities to map resources and actually locate the very commodity to the large PROGRAM in progress. Please note my daring statement of “in progress”.

As only God works his perfection, we are now to very important persons dickering DIRECTLY with the President here who, we are told, is willing to even develop more fully the “Treasury” participation instead of being disallowed input from the Central Bank/IMF. Now THAT, if so, is a real “wow”. E.J., by the way, has been called to be ready for personal meetings supposedly this coming week.

We are ready, willing an able—with yet, a security crew and again, one of those bulletproof thingies on four wheels.

I will say one thing—the Lady has made recent promises for Philippines recovery that couldn't otherwise even be considered. It has pulled in, in addition, about the highest level U.S. foreign personnel, ex-ambassadors, and you name it. Funny thing, however, there is notable “hands off” the “messengers” (US). In addition, some VERY BIG and INCREDIBLE projects have come in with their engineers and operations people—in the last two days.

We are also now having response over the “fictitious” name-calling by the Central Bank to our project holders. Wondrous thing is the lawyers are coming right up off their desk chairs to get the “cause of action” people gathered, information circulated and our own “brother” attorney, Victor (oh indeed known even by Rick Martin, Charles Neil, Teri York and attorney Don Rhoads), is into the thick of it by writing legal “letters of complaint—intent to counter” those indiscretions of the Bank itself.

This morning we are met with a call from one of our more responsible associates who has called to ask about handling “funds” for a holder to keep himself clear of government harassment, elsewhere, but get the gold sold in the Philippines. Our “Philtec” friend can do that and indeed, we certainly do need to know how that works for our own security at “jackpot” possibility so that we clear everything here but can get help back to help on the paper, etc. The BIG comes when we get the program structured and in place—underway. IF this place doesn't fall apart first, of course.

Can the whole program “go south”? Well, having lived 70 years on this globe, I would suppose so. However, I can't believe that even Dubya Jr. WANTS it to go “south”. We watch him trying to deal with his REAL adversary and it certainly is NOT someone called bin Laden. I would guess that of all the people on the globe who need “our” assistance it is Bush and Buddies. And yes, certainly, we would love to talk with them. The U.S. is our country too and it has been trashed about as far as, certainly, I want to watch it go.

The U.S. Treasury agents offered us $250 million to make the whole thing go away. Later, when Bush supposedly offered us $5 million and go to an island and “retire”, we felt Lt. Col. Al Martin (Bush's former financial wizard in the Iran-Contra affair) was just a trial balloon. Bush had already sent word through that source that “I am not ready to deal at this time.”

Readers, what we have is honorable, REAL, valid and handled to perfection by Russell Herman who held the certificates, program ongoing and got the thing changed out to a Contract. There is no question about that.

Because of our connection with CONTACT and “they” with Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn, we agreed to hold and make viable this asset. George Jr. would be indeed totally insane to want to destroy us—we ARE HIS ONLY WAY OUT OF HIS OBVIOUS GRAVE.

We don't know much about V.K. Durham but we surely have learned a lot about Russell Herman and we certainly DO recognize why the package was turned over to US. And this in no wise criticizes one, Grandma Durham.

The circle of visible players closed this week with pictures of a kissing, hugging Sharon and Guiliano in New York—with Guiliano wearing a Jewish “cap” while even Sharon did not.

And a tape by Osama bin Laden happening to be found in a vacated house of rubble in Jalalabad? My goodness. If true, he stated clearly that it was totally unexpected that the towers would collapse—“surely not below the point of impact”. Where are the missing 4,000 Jews about which questions have arisen from DAY ONE? In fact, again, as Cmdr. questions: “Where are the bodies?” We have rituals monthly and just where are all those bodies? What have we going, America?

Out of it all we have now lost ALL OF OUR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS—but remember something, fellow citizen, so too have the visiting forces from Israel or their attachments—who are recognized as the biggest terrorist force on the globe. Moreover, they were furious that Bush won the election, for it was all staged and ready for Al Gore to pull in the election. Now, Reno is going to run for the Bush governor's slot in Florida? My goodness, it makes the Philippines look pretty clean and only inhabited by outright and recognized criminals in high places.

Are we in fear over our circumstances and possibilities? No, we quit running through those hoops because the pressures here and back home are so great that we simply can't afford to be immobilized. This particular hotel area is off limits to visitors unless E.J. gives personal authorization. There is a security guard, at least one, on this floor all the time. There are no “hallways” as you find in hotels today—just balconies, fire equipment, etc.—being “old” is a real asset to our cause.

The staff here literally call us Mum and Dad or Mumsy-Popsy. So yes, we have concern, act with caution—and recognition—EVERYWHERE we go which is only across the street to the very most “local” stores at, actually, this immediate end of the mall. My (Doris’) movements are even more restricted and most weeks go right around without my leaving the rooms we occupy.

So, how do I know so much? I have no idea! Psychic I suppose and E.J. can tell me his summation of all these constant meetings in, usually (typical male approach to information sharing), six seconds or less.

Neither of us can repronounce the names of anyone and except what is on LEGAL documents, are instantly “forgotten”. We are just OLD FOLKS doing what we can but it seems I always manage to meet the more important visitors—basically by stumbling into them in the lobby.

It is there, however, that the incredible warmth and love from these people pours forth. They want to keep us forever, get us a place to live, etc. (after, of course, any of us can afford to eat and breathe)—but it is pure love and they each want to show us THEIR province, i.e., Corregidor, Bataan, Palawan (where hostages are the going industry) and you name it.

These people BELIEVE IN GOD AND HIS GRACE, however, more honestly as in humble recognition as in children but with an eagerness to LEARN beyond any people we have ever met. They accept and love us without our wealth and like most would probably love us MORE with it—but we didn’t have that luxury at upstart of this game in play.

I have probably said more than I should but Cmdr. says I might share this because we are all in it together and we want you to share with us as much as is possible. Because, er-a-well, it is certainly “different” than ordinary retirement programs.

We thank each of you and may the blessings of this Season of Hope rest upon all of us. I have to pray for our personal success, not for us, but because in this case, our success IS YOUR SUCCESS. We know it and we never for a second forget it and THAT is what keeps us striving along this way. WE CAN DO THIS JOB. If it were otherwise, we would have quit a long time ago—so keep the hatchet raised and we will move right on through with this job.

Our “partner” from Papua New Guinea is anticipating that he will be called to leave this very day as his traveling companions should have returned from Hong Kong and plan to meet with E.J. and leave sometime today to go home to PNG and get on with getting on with this.

However, with the already “interruptions” the day has moved on to mid-afternoon with no word, so who knows!

E.J.’s 10:30 a.m. appointment didn’t show up but the maintenance man did (to fix the water pouring all over the floor) and so we cut and ran (well, waddled) all the way across the street to pick up our silver pieces we had on order for “suspending” particulated ions.

Now that one is really dear: We had the “strap”-type of silver electrode from Two-X. It had managed to short out and gouged a little “V” into the top of the strip, right at the water level.

Now that was fine; we told the order-taker that we want exactly the same thing only 11 inches in length. They kept the little piece as a sample and lo and behold, back it came along with a nice little “V” carefully clipped out of the new strip. Now, folks, you just can’t get better than that!

But we certainly keep scattering silver ionized suspension. The people in the jewelry store where we can get the silver ordered raved about my face skin, age, etc. We had a hearty laugh or two and I owned up to the truth; I use silver colloid in my makeup base (on the sponge) and the only thing I ever think to use is silver solution as a “wipe it off after a week or so”. Then I assured them that I keep the wrinkles ironed out with fat fluff. So, viva la fat fluff.

To you who knew about our partner in Athens, Greece, silver-plating his water jug, I have to make a correction: He responded that the jug was the “last” thing he silver-plated, for he had managed to plate himself and everyone around him first. Ah, the technology of modern times.

I do have a notice for you who stash your silver suspension in touch with your Gaiandriana—be careful, we found that after three days next to our Gaiandriana garden jar, the silver began to lose its suspension but increased exponentially as to frequency and behold the adventure further—the Gaiandriana began to take on the golden color hue of silver ions.

Now, the lady at the store makes sense; she said I sort of radiated—wow, a lightbulb yet! So much for silver and gold and surely, may God win with this particular motley crew. But one thing is for sure; if we can do it, anyone can do it!

THANK YOU FOR SO MUCH BACKUP FOR DIANE

We are humbled by the numbers of you who wrote in support of Diane and, indeed, New Gaia.

I am so proud to say that she didn’t sign those incredible “plea bargain” documents. That means she has to go it basically ALONE but refused to lie and will let the chips fall, now, where they will. I have been there and we have done that and it is completely awful but since TRUTH never varies and lies do, we just have to go with truth, demand a grand jury hearing and then a jury trial. This gives her access to appeals even to the U.S. Supreme Court. We are so proud of her that our buttons pop off—(but that could be shirts that are too tight or too-old button thread). I know that your cards and letters of support have precipitated this stand in the face of the worst terror there is, a U.S. Federal Court. After, however, facing FDA agents with drawn weapons inside her own home in July 2000, she will not find much terror worse than that.

The good part is that the evidence and false affidavits will have to be made public if the Court chooses to pursue this and there goes down several miscreants from California to Las Vegas, Nevada.

She is having to ask for a Public Defender and I hope the level of Consternation in that Court is at the least annoying.

This is not a nice thing for them, for they only charged one little mother who actually didn’t even have income from New Gaia. The accusers didn’t even name New Gaia or anyone else—JUST Diane. And yet they made federal raids on Two states and a minimum of four houses and offices, including the whole of the CONTACT COMPLEX of offices. All that over silver colloid which is now, according to the FDA, “a supplement” while in addition, the dates are totally skewed as to claims—if everything else would have any credibility at all.

The observers are correct: There is no signed charge, complaint, indictment or any other valid “grievance”.

People, what have we come to?

GOOD NEWS—BAD NEWS

There is only GOOD news, for it turns out that even the BAD NEWS is not—wait a few days and it passes on by like life itself.

Just got a call, again, from attorney Victor and he is all “up” and wants to bring people this evening—to lump in the challenge to the Central Bank—like the whole alliance of Mayors of which there are thousands!

There is no doubt that we will get this done, it is only questionable as to when. I would guess that things are about as bad as they can get, so perhaps if there are to be saving changes, it had best be pretty soon.

Our little Ludi (maid) came in today saying that the hotel has cut everyone’s hours and there will be no bonus, Christmas party or anything. Readers, the going salary here is less than $5 per day. I don’t know about YOU but I can hardly stand it as people have to live 10 or 12 to a little space, sans electricity, just to have a shelter at all. And THIS is a downtown Makati hotel, never mind “old”. It has pretty good occupancy in spite of the bad times, and rates are not particularly good or better—but the others in the hotel “chain” are in such bad shape that just to hold on the owner has to transfer funds to the other four establishments around Manila. In fact, the rates are high in my estimation but we are able to have office space, a kitchen and other space available as in an apartment. And combining the costs of all of the needs we feel pretty good about the arrangements. At least the thought of moving is overwhelming at this point. So, if this hotel is keeping the others alive in the chain, let us pray for this one enduring for a while longer because we finally were able to get a phone and fax for the office.

We have office “expenses” for copy work having to be done across the street commercially and some done here by the hotel but at a higher cost in addition to tip-cost, etc.

We are continually grateful to Teri York who somehow turned up this place before we got here in 1998. We have moved three times to larger rooms to facilitate the office space which we have to have to function at all.

We are tired and “wanna go home” but, after all, even that is not a pull since we HAVE NO HOME BACK HOME. BUT, think of it this way; our “house” (here) is fully decorated with outside decorations and lights, we have a 15-foot Christmas tree beautifully decorated in our lobby “living room” and in the dining room (coffee shop) and our entryway downstairs has trees, wreaths, lights and smiling faces. Meanwhile on every Friday, Sat. and Sun. evening there are ten minutes of glorious fireworks right outside our windows. And yes indeed, I would give it all up to simply get to hold one grandbaby for 5 seconds. Or know that my Ringo, Billy, Tilly, etc. still remember me.

If we get weary of our own space, we can walk over to the Penn Hotel where they have a 40-foot tree in the lobby. We note, however, that there are not nearly as many buildings, hotels or other things decorated this year. But the mall has its glorious things, although MANY of the businesses expect to close right after Christmas. It is really time for GAIA and thank GOD in wherever HE IS that there IS a GAIA! Pray hard, friends! God does hear us and sends us the very best if we let HIM do it "HIS WAY". And quite honestly and brutally frankly—I don't see other alternatives but to do it and do it right. I don't think, also being honest, that the ones who cut, ran and wreaked destruction could be very happy—especially within where the real rubber hits the road. But, we all certainly learned a lot about a lot of things.

This pretty much catches us up and no, I am not "just Pollyanna". We SEE the way and KNOW higher forces are at work and yet there is room for us "little folk" to share in unfolding Truth and opportunities. We must do good work for those who have to make this thing work long after we tread onward.

Thank you for "being there" and letting us share, for we actually do feel guilty that we are probably having more fun than anyone else around. That means that ASAP we have to get everyone else around.

We send our love, appreciation and promise to keep you posted on every last, little dream come true and even the number of cows gathered back at the ranch in the wilderness, except that we don't yet know about that. (Got 36, expected 60.)

We have, in addition, nothing but good things to say about the Park Service people at the ranch area in Utah. They are watching, reporting and keeping things straight. The local agents even shared Thanksgiving with family and friends—and they brought the turkey! PEOPLE ARE PEOPLE AND A FEW BAD ONES DO NOT A NATION MAKE!

Lester: We have a boodle of packages but have only peeked at the calendars and place mats with the wonderful pictures of New Zealand. Hold on and we will "get there" along with, we hope in time, a PapImi machine (advanced wet-cell apparatus) and you can do your heart's desire.

GOD DOES NOT GIVE US MORE THAN WE CAN HANDLE!

Furthermore, HE must think we can do it—for here we are, all of us, in this grand adventure—making a "difference". And, even today, when a window of opportunity seems to close—two more opened and usually offer "better". This, however, in no way seems to diminish the impatience level.

Of course the politicians run on graft and corruption funds, Mercedes autos and luxury vans, and pass out their bribes which are also "less" this year.

I don't know whether to be insulted, glad or sad—as nobody even suggests bribing us, so temptation is not a major concern here in our house. God probably knows not to push us too far after the hard times getting to here. I do wonder from time to time, however, how many times we have to begin again, and again, and, and?

So it goes while we are making these plans...!—E-E
[E.J.: Just a little add-on. We feel strong and well supported and for that we have you all to thank. We recognize that you all are doing your part, no matter what it might be, and we are grateful to each one of you for that. Someday Dad will let us all gather together to see and feel being together and that will be a joyful time. Until then please know that we know you are there, always following your guidance and doing whatever you can to help us bring this mission to fruition.]

FORD SEEKS TO BURY ISSUE OF NAZI LABOR

By Tom Brown, Reuters, 12/07/01

DEARBORN, Mich.—Ford Motor Co., whose founder was admired by Adolf Hitler and notorious for his anti-Semitic views, sought Thursday to lay to rest long-standing claims that it profited from the Nazi war machine and use of forced labor in Germany during World War II.

Ford has long denied allegations that it maintained contact and control over its Ford-Werke subsidiary in Cologne, Germany, during the war and that it knowingly profited from forced and slave labor there.

"The statement that Ford profited from the activities of Ford Germany during World War II is just not true," Ford Chief of Staff John Rintamaki said Thursday as the company issued a report on what Rintamaki called "a time that many of us would like to forget".

An innovator of mass production and the assembly line, Henry Ford was also the author of a pamphlet titled "The International Jew: The World's Foremost Problem" and other anti-Jewish writings that drew Hitler's admiration in the 1920s.

The Ford report supports the company's earlier claims that it lost effective control over the Ford-Werke plant under the Nazis and cannot be held responsible for the plant's operations during the war.

"We didn't learn any new information that changes our view of history," Rintamaki said.

The Ford-Werke plant was never formally confiscated by the German government, and Rintamaki acknowledged that Ford held a controlling stake in it throughout the war. He also said the plant employed about 2,000 forced and slave laborers, or about 45 percent of its total workforce, during the war.

"Ford-Werke's linkages with the Dearborn headquarters became increasingly attenuated during the course of the decade of the 1930s," Simon Reich, an expert on Germany's wartime auto industry, wrote in a prologue to Ford's report, on which he was commissioned to work.

Ford and other U.S. companies have been sued in the past by ex-Nazi slaves who were compelled to work under brutal conditions in their German factories. The companies have commonly defended themselves by saying the Nazis seized control of their plants, but critics say that argument falls short.

"The fact that they still maintained ownership and possibly control over the company goes directly to the question of responsibility and accountability," said Hillary Kessler-Godin, a spokeswoman for the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany.

"If in fact they are acknowledging that they retained ownership of the company, then they are responsible for the use of forced labor," she said of Ford.

Ford also said Thursday that it would make $4 million in donations to fund a new study of slave labor and to contribute to a U.S. Chamber of Commerce fund for slave laborers. Ford's German subsidiary has already contributed about $13 million to a fund for former slave laborers.

[JR: The false Jews that Henry Ford wrote about 80 years ago in his series The International Jew is based on facts he researched, compiled and published in his newspaper The Dearborn Independent. Included in this series were the Protocols of the Elders of Zion that was the actual plan for the Jew's takeover and control of the world. From the tone of the above article the suffering of the Jews has always been about money and revenge. The articles below, written in 1921 and featured in the New York Times, clearly show that Henry Ford was, and still is being targeted for revealing their truths. Even today they still use extortion and hide their lies behind their cries of anti-Semitism. These false Jews have charged their critics with anti-Semitism for centuries and it still works for them. (NOTE: This complete Henry Ford series was featured in CONTACT from March 17, 1998 to May 19, 1998.)]

4/1/98 #1 HATONN

Another thing I am constantly asked is about Henry Ford and how he either dared or was enticed to write the articles offered in THE INTERNATIONAL JEW in The Dearborn Independent.

Well, with patience with readers, the information just pops up when sequence is perfect. We have some information sent anonymously yesterday to our Editor-In-Chief. It speaks far better than anything I could say for you to "hopefully" believe.

The following comes from The New York Times, Dec. 5, 1921, p.33.

[QUOTING:]

FORD EXPLAINS ATTACKS

CAUSED BY STATEMENTS MADE TO HIM
BY JEWS ON PEACE TRIP

Special to The New York Times

FLORENCE, Ala. Dec. 4: Henry Ford today told reporters the fundamental reason why for the last two years he has attacked the Jew in his weekly magazine, The Dearborn Independent. He said that the course of "instruction on the Jew which he intends to give the United States will continue for five years."

"It was the Jews themselves that convinced me of the direct relation between the international Jew and war, in fact, they went out of their way to convince me," he said.

"You remember the effort we made to attract the attention of the world to the purpose of ending the war through the medium of the so-called peace ship in 1915. On that ship were two very prominent Jews. We had not been to sea 200 miles before these two Jews began telling me about the power of the Jewish race, how they controlled the world through their control of gold and that the Jew, and no one but the Jew, could stop the war.

"I was reluctant to believe this, and said so—so they went into detail to tell me the means by which the Jew controlled the war, how they had the money, how they had cornered all the basic materials needed to fight the war and all that, and they talked so long and so well that they convinced me. They said, and they believed, that the Jews had started the war; that they would continue it as long as they wished and that until the Jew stopped the war it could not be stopped. We were in mid-ocean and I was so disgusted that I would have liked to have turned the ship back.

“When I got back to the United States I still had in mind what the Jews had told me. In Europe, I had looked about quite a bit and I could see that a lot of the things the Jews had told me were so. Once at home, I set about investigating a bit, and the more I investigated the more I found to substantiate what the Jews had told me. I determined that the situation should be made clear to the people of the United States through publicity. But do you think I could get a newspaper to print it? Not on your life. It seemed that there was no newspaper in the United States that dared print the truth.

[H: It is even WORSE today and that is why we had to start in 1989 to prepare for a paper which could be read and circulated during this time of crisis with a reputation of total Truth with confirmation and proof to back our presentations.]

“Then a funny thing happened just at this juncture. An old chap in Dearborn came to my office and wanted to sell the local paper, The Dearborn Independent, a weekly newspaper. The thought came to me like a flash. [H: Oh my—GOD AND HIS FLASHES!] Surely some place in the United States there should be a publisher strong and courageous enough to tell the people the truth about war. If no one else will I’ll turn publisher myself. And I did.” [H: And now perhaps you have a bit more insight as to how Dharma functions.]

“How long will your paper continue to deal with the Jewish question?” he was asked.

“We’ve got a five years’ course in sight, and we are going to tell the people, among other things, some American history that they don’t teach in the schools. We will show indisputably that one of the great factors behind the Civil War, that brought it on and made peaceable settlement of the issues impossible, was the Jew. And that isn’t the whole story either. There will be more than that.”

Mr. Ford and Mr. Edison spent Sunday morning looking over the site of Dam No. 3 at Muscle Shoals, which is still to be started, and which, when built, will create a great reservoir for control of the back waters above the power plant. The afternoon was spent at a Southern barbecue at the home of E.A. O’Neal, head of the Alabama Farm Bureau.

FORD SAYS ENEMIES
TRIED TO “GET HIM”

*He Didn’t Deny the Story
That He Needed Money Because
He Wanted to Trace It Down.
HAS PAID $100,000,000 NOTES*

*LETTER TO OFFICIALS SAYS
VARIOUS EXPLANATIONS
FOR ARTICLES ON JEWS
ARE ALL WRONG*

THE NEW YORK TIMES last night received the following dispatch, signed by E.G. Liebold, personal secretary to Henry Ford:

Detroit, June 9.

Copyright, 1921, by Francis Osborn Jr.

Henry Ford, in an authorized personal letter to Ford officials all over the country to be sent out today tells the exact financial condition of the Ford Company and explains Jewish attacks in his magazine, The Dearborn Independent. The letter is the first answer to published reports about financial difficulties of the Ford Company and the first official explanation of the anti-Jewish propaganda in Ford papers.

A significant statement in the letter, regarded as explaining the large number of resignations from the company early this year is that Mr. Ford did not deny published statements regarding alleged financial difficulties because he wanted to discover where and how that story started, and he did.

The letter states that the Ford Company has borrowed no money from the banks, as was reported, and that the enormous transaction of buying out his stockholders for one hundred million dollars has been fully consummated. According to the letter, the last of the notes involved in this deal were fully paid recently before maturity. It characterizes the whole story of financial difficulties as utterly false, a hoax by the press. [H: And this was in 1921! How far have you gone down that “Hoax” road since then?]

The letter denies all published Jewish explanations for the series of articles appearing in The Dearborn Independent. These explanations mentioned in the letter “that Jews stung Henry Ford in a business deal” and “Jewish bankers refused to let Ford have loans, and that Ford is a Jew-hater” are denied with these statements:

“No Jew has succeeded in getting the better of Mr. Ford. No Jew has had the chance to refuse a loan. No Jew can say that he ever got anything but the squarest kind of a man-to-man deal from Mr. Ford, as thousands of Jewish Ford employees can testify.”

The full text of the letter, written in the third person, follows:

“Gentlemen: the most talked-of publication in the United States today is The Dearborn Independent. No Ford official doubts that he probably hears about it more than he cares to sometimes, and that is what we want to talk to you about. [H: This sounds like CONTACT and such as SPOTLIGHT doesn’t it? These are the most, certainly is the CONTACT, most read papers in the world today and yet we have at this week’s press only 1,200 paid subscribers. Do you see how even simple numbers lie? This is why, however, it is always difficult on the presenters to be able to stay in business; we don’t have a Ford Motor Company to back us so the burden rests on your heads and backs, even in the little pieces. YOU WANT TO SERVE AND HONOR AND YOU HAVE BEEN WILLING TO KEEP THIS PAPER IN PRESS. MAY THIS CHANGE SOON, READERS, AS TRUTH BEGINS TO SWEEP THE WORLD.]

“The Dearborn Independent is Henry Ford’s own paper and he authorizes every statement occurring therein. One proof of the virility of The Dearborn Independent is the enemies it has made. Henry Ford has always had enemies. He made enemies when he single-handed fought the first automobile trust which sought to restrict auto manufacture under the so-called Selden patent.

“He made enemies when he voluntarily raised the minimum wage of the country to the highest point it has ever reached and then raised it again. He made enemies when he proclaimed his horror of war. He made enemies again when he threw his whole energies into winning the war and refused to take a dollar for it for himself. There are a lot of persons and interests in this country who would like to see it proved that business cannot be run on the Ford idea.

“You have a most illuminating example of it in recent months. You remember when the ‘whispering campaign’ started with its slogan ‘We’ll Get Ford’. A little later it broke in a deluge of newspaper reports that the Ford organization was in financial difficulties.

“You did not see any denials, did you? Mr. Ford was watching the progress of that storm of propaganda across the country, deaf to the appeals from him that would let them down gracefully from the hoax they had perpetrated on the country. He wanted to discover where and how that storm started and he did.

“The whole story was false. Every banker in the United States who was at all conversant with the Ford financial status knew it was false.

“Mr. Ford was not asking for a dollar, although more money than Wall Street controls was offered him for the taking. Recently he paid the last of the notes involved in the transaction of buying out his stockholders, an enormous transaction involving $100,000,000.

“The last of these notes were paid before maturity. You did not see any splurge about that in the papers, did you?”

“A man of whom it was said two months ago, ‘we’ve got him’ clears himself of every financial obligation in an enormous sum and yet it is not news to the interests that will never forgive Henry Ford for introducing the square deal in business. Perhaps you will understand now some of the enmity visited on The Dearborn Independent. [H: Can you just imagine the insane anger by the bankers for losing interest on $100,000,000?]

“People ask you every day, perhaps, a question which runs like this, ‘Why is Henry Ford attacking the Jews?’ The answer is ‘There is no attack and no campaign against the Jews.’

“The Jewish Question, as every business man knows, has been festering in silence and suspicion here in the United States for a long time and none has dared to discuss it because Jewish influence was strong enough to crush the man who attempted it. The Jews are the only race whom it is ‘verboten’ to discuss frankly and openly, and, abusing the fear they have cast over business, Jewish leaders have gone from one excess to the other, until the time came for a protest or a surrender.

“The Dearborn Independent in a series of articles, eminently fair, temperate and judicial, has endeavored to set forth the facts and has won the gratitude of thousands of Americans by so doing.

“You, as officials of the Ford Motor Company, may deny all Jewish explanations for this series of articles, namely, that Jews stung Ford in a business deal, that Jewish bankers refused to let Ford have a loan and that Ford is a Jew-hater anyway.

“No Jew has succeeded in getting the better of Mr. Ford. No Jew had the chance to refuse him a loan. No Jew can say that he ever got anything but the squarest kind of a man-to-man deal from Mr. Ford as thousands of Jewish Ford employees can testify.—“E.G. LIEBOLD, Authorized by Henry Ford.”

THE WAR IN AFGHANISTAN
IS A MEANS TO ANOTHER END

By Firoz Osman, The Mail&Guardian—UK, 12/07/01

It is becoming more apparent that the war in Afghanistan has nothing to do with terrorism, Osama bin Laden, the Taliban or the World Trade Centre.

Realpolitik, the need and greed for oil and gas are, once again, the source of misery and tragedy. This time it is happening in central Asia, just as it was in Iraq.

In his book Unholy Wars ABC news correspondent John K. Cooley reveals the intentions of the United States and multinational oil companies to establish pipelines to route the oil and natural gas of Central Asia and the Caspian Basin to the West.

To this end the aims of the generals of the Pakistani ISI (Inter-Services Intelligence) and their American counterparts, the CIA, converged. They saw in the Taliban the means by which they could achieve their objectives.

In 1993 Pakistan and Turkmenistan signed an agreement to jointly develop their energy resources and build a pipeline between the two countries. A company called Unocal, based in California, signed a protocol with the Turkmen government to explore the feasibility of building this pipeline.

The one-year study cost $10-million for a huge energy project worth $18-billion, to transport Turkmen oil and gas by pipeline to the Indian Ocean. This trade and energy would run through Pakistan, America's ally, rather than through Iran, her adversary ever since the overthrow of the Shah in 1979. This will also bypass Iranian ambitions to channel Turkmen energy.

A further objective of both the Taliban and Pakistan is the recovery of natural gas from northern Afghanistan's Shiberghan province, pumped northward to Russia through Uzbekistan. Afghan estimates of the resources in the Shiberghan gas fields run from 1 to 100-billion cubic meters. Export of the gas continued throughout the war between 1979 and 1989, despite periodic sabotage orchestrated by the CIA and ISI.

Corroborating Cooley's findings, a book has just been published in Paris entitled Bin Laden, La Verite Interdite (Bin Laden, the Forbidden Truth). The book claims that the Bush administration held extensive talks with the Taliban regime from February to August this year with the aim of securing control over the vast oil and gas reserves in Central Asia through the construction of an oil pipeline from the rich oil fields in Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan, to Afghanistan, Pakistan and on to the Indian Ocean.

The authors, Jean Charles Brisard and Guillaume Dasquie—who have long experience in intelligence analysis—claim that if the Taliban had facilitated the construction of the pipeline and U.S. control over Central Asian oil and gas reserves, the U.S. would have paved the way for economic assistance to, and political recognition of, the Taliban.

The Taliban's unwillingness to accept U.S. conditions frustrated the Americans. According to the author: "At one moment during the negotiations the U.S. representatives told the Taliban 'either you accept our offer of a carpet of gold, or we bury you under a carpet of bombs'."

It is well established that the Bush administration, and President George W. Bush's family in particular, have strong oil corporate links. Vice-president Dick Cheney was until the end of last year president of Halliburton, a company that provides services for the oil industry. National security advisor Condoleezza Rice was a manager for Chevron between 1991 and last year, while commerce secretary Donald Evans and energy secretary Stanley Abraham worked for oil giant Tom Brown.

As journalist John Pilger asserted, the Taliban were trained and supported by the CIA and SAS, Britain's intelligence agency. Soon after their takeover of Kabul in 1996, their leaders were entertained by the executives of Unocal in Houston, Texas.

With secret U.S. government approval, the company offered them a generous cut of the profits of the oil and gas pumped through the pipeline that the Americans wanted to build from Soviet Central Asia through Afghanistan. A U.S. diplomat said: "The Taliban will probably develop like the Saudis did." He explained that "Afghanistan will become a U.S. oil colony; there would be huge profits for the West, no democracy and the legal persecution of women. We can live with that."

Although the deal fell through, it still remains an urgent priority of the Bush administration. The Caspian Basin has the greatest source of untapped fossil fuel on earth and enough, according to one estimate, to meet the U.S.'s voracious energy needs for generations. Only if the pipeline runs through Afghanistan can the U.S. hope to control it.

Not surprisingly U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell is now referring to the "moderate" Taliban, who will join a U.S.-sponsored "loose federation" to run Afghanistan. The "war on terrorism" is a cover for this. It is a means of achieving strategic aims that lie behind the flag-waving facade.

If the allegations and arguments contained in Unholy Wars and Bin Laden, The Forbidden Truth are true, it raises some fundamental questions about the U.S. bombing of Afghanistan, and indeed, about the September 11 tragedy itself. Is oil the ulterior motive, the hidden agenda, behind the assault upon Afghanistan? Is the attack a vile attempt to gain control of the country and establish a pliant regime in Kabul, which will enable Washington to extend its tentacles over Central Asia and its oil wealth?

The world has the right to know the truth—for the sake of the innocent people who are being slaughtered in Afghanistan, and for the sake of the thousands who were killed in New York and Washington on September 11.

[JR: Here is another confirmation that the war in Afghanistan is not about terrorism but about oil and who gets to control it. The Bush family and some of his Cabinet all have connections to the oil cartels. It is no coincidence that Russia agreed to U.S. bases in Uzbekistan and Tajikistan given the fact she is moving in to secure her own interest in Afghanistan. If the Taliban had chosen the "carpet of gold" instead of bombs, who would we then have targeted other than bin Laden for Sept. 11/? Would the Sept. 11 tragedy have occurred or would it have been deferred to some other point in time? Who besides Iraq would have been targeted? My guess would be the Palestinians, to suit Israel's purposes and draw us into a war in the Middle East. These plans have been a long time in the making and these incidents just don't happen by chance. Is the U.S. of Israel repeating Alexander the Great's conquest of the Middle East?]

RUSSIAN AIRLIFT TO AFGHANISTAN
HIGHLIGHTS
UNDERLYING U.S.-EUROPE TENSIONS

By Peter Symonds, World Socialist Web Site, 12/03/01

The sudden arrival of 12 Russian military cargo aircraft at Bagram airfield just north of Kabul last week has underscored the intense behind-the-scenes rivalry now underway between the U.S. and other major powers for a stake in Afghanistan. Having supported Washington's military intervention, each is now seeking, under the guise of humanitarian concern, to establish a presence inside the country to further its interests in resource-rich Central Asia.

According to Russian President Vladimir Putin, the purpose of the airlift was to provide relief aid, including a field hospital, and to rebuild the Russian embassy in Kabul. The huge Ilyushin-76 aircraft, each capable of transporting 40 tonnes of equipment and supplies, landed at Bagram on November 26 and unloaded construction equipment and materials, Health Ministry officials and uniformed relief workers from the Emergencies Ministry.

While Russian officials denied any soldiers were involved, the Emergencies Ministry is a paramilitary body with its own military wing of 70,000 troops. It was formed as a split-off from the Defence Ministry after the collapse of the Soviet Union in 1991. The landing operation is reported to have taken five hours. A fleet of trailer trucks, supported by fuel tankers and other vehicles, ferried the cargo and personnel into Kabul.

Putin has played down the operation simply saying that it was the first "in the past few years". But no one missed the political significance. Russian officials were back in Kabul for the first time since the Soviet military pulled out in 1989 after a decade of brutal war against various Mujaheddin groups backed and financed by the U.S.

Putin noted pointedly that Russia's actions had been carried out "on the request and with the assistance of the Islamic State of Afghanistan"—a reference to the Northern Alliance that now controls Kabul. By mounting the operation on the eve of talks in Bonn over the political future of Afghanistan, Moscow signalled Russian support for the Northern Alliance and its leader Burhanuddin Rabbani, who is still recognised by the UN as the Afghan head of state.

While Russia stopped short of officially recognising the Northern Alliance as the Afghan government, the move threatens to cut across Washington's demand for a "broad-based" administration. The U.S. is insisting that others, including the former king Zahir Shah and various ethnic Pashtun tribal leaders, be part of any new regime alongside the Northern Alliance. Russia, Iran and India have been supporting the Northern Alliance against the Pakistani-backed Taliban since the mid-1990s.

U.S. officials reported that Secretary of State Colin Powell had telephoned Russian Foreign Minister Igor Ivanov after the Russian airlift to warn Moscow against any abrupt diplomatic or military moves that might undermine trust between the U.S. and Russia. Powell urged Moscow to avoid promoting Rabbani as the official leader of Afghanistan. Both Washington and Moscow have attempted to minimise the differences.

Putin gave his backing to the Bush administration's "global war on terrorism", including the go-ahead for the stationing of U.S. military in the Central Asia, as a means of securing Russian interests on other issues, including in Chechnya where Washington had previously criticised

Moscow's war against Islamic militants. But support for the U.S.-led war has provoked opposition in ruling circles, particularly among the military top brass, who have warned of the dangers to Russia of the U.S. intervention in the strategic Central Asian region. The airlift is at least in part Putin's answer to his critics.

A U.S. official quoted in the Washington Post noted that last week's airlift was to demonstrate that Moscow wanted "to play some sort of role in post-Taliban Afghanistan". Then, in a remark that is more revealing about Washington's plans, he added: "The Russian are smart enough to know that the important thing is not what happens in Bonn, but what happens on the ground."

The comment bluntly sums up the Bush administration's strategy: to control the military campaign and monopolise the deployment of troops in order to dictate the terms of any political settlement. Washington's refusal to allow other countries to send soldiers in substantial numbers to Afghanistan is already leading to frictions with its European allies, particularly Britain.

Two weeks ago, British Prime Minister Tony Blair announced that up to 6,000 troops would be dispatched to Afghanistan, ostensibly to assist in providing humanitarian aid. Around 100 British commandos landed at Bagram airfield to secure a bridgehead but immediately ran into opposition from the Northern Alliance, which insisted that foreign troops were not necessary.

It became clear from subsequent statements that it was not simply the Northern Alliance but the Bush administration which was opposed to any large-scale deployment of foreign troops—other than from the U.S. While Blair insisted that there was still "complete agreement" with Washington, his Secretary of State for International Development, Clare Short, publicly attacked the U.S. for neglecting Afghanistan's humanitarian needs. Blair was subsequently forced to reverse his decision and stand down the troops.

The Guardian was quick to point out that while Russian officials were welcomed in Kabul, the Northern Alliance, with the support of the U.S., had shown "the cold shoulder to the 100 British soldiers shivering at Bagram airbase". Reflecting concerns in the political establishment that Britain was gaining little from the war, the newspaper complained: "Blair's aid-and-rebuilding agenda elicits only tepid American backing, suggesting that his instant and full-throated support for Bush has not quite won the clout he hoped for."

France faces a similar situation. Its first detachment of about 60 troops left the Istres airbase for Mazar-e-Sharif in northern Afghanistan in mid-November. They landed in Uzbekistan, where they have been cooling their heels for two weeks, waiting for transport by U.S. helicopter. The group was the advance guard for up to 2,000 French troops being sent to create "favourable conditions" for humanitarian relief. The first French unit was finally airlifted into Mazar-e-Sharif last weekend.

Last Friday, White House spokesman Ari Fleischer made clear that the Bush administration considered the sending of an international "peacekeeping" force as premature. He described the conditions in Afghanistan as "difficult and dangerous" and implied that other foreign troops would only get in the way of U.S. operations. The president "looks forward to the day" that "peacekeepers will be able to arrive," he blandly concluded.

U.S. Central Command spokesman Rear Admiral Craig Quigley confirmed that the U.S. would dictate the terms on which other countries would deploy troops. "Whatever piece they're offering doesn't work at this time. You take them up on their offers at the location and time and manner that fits into the overall fabric of Enduring Freedom," he said.

At the same time as vetoing a large international force, the U.S. has stepped up its own deployment of troops in Afghanistan. The commander of U.S. forces General Tommy Franks said last week that the U.S. may create more bases like the one near Kandahar in southern Afghanistan established by around 900 Marines. He announced that a small "rapid reaction force" had been dispatched to Mazar-e-Sharif and that more U.S. combat aircraft were to be sent to either Tajikistan or Kyrgyzstan, along with a handful of French warplanes.

The U.S. strategy of excluding its so-called allies from Afghanistan, and thus from the spoils of the war, is bound to further exacerbate tensions with Europe.

[JR: Here we get a broader picture of the so-called U.S./Russian alliance in Afghanistan. It appears that it was based on a mutual mistrust and open to interpretation. The Russians have taken the initiative in entering Kabul over the U.S.'s expressed opposition. When the Northern Alliance took over Kabul we can only assume that Russia had an unspoken yet understood agreement with them that the Russians would go in right behind them. Did Russia checkmate the talking heads in Bonn by establishing a military presence in Afghanistan? A Russian presence in Kabul cements their position as a policy maker for Afghanistan and Central Asia. Is this a challenge to the U.S. influence in the affairs and future of Central Asia? Has the U.S. done an about-face in excluding Britain and France from our operations in Afghanistan? What's going on between Bush and Tony Blair? Has Britain been excluded from our plans or will they fit in elsewhere? These are some of the questions that need to be answered in the near future. Shouldn't the similarities in policies of the U.S. and Israel give pause to the rest of the world... especially our allies? We, like Israel, set ourselves above the law and all agreements when it comes to promoting and protecting our own interests.]

ASHCROFT DEFENDS ANTI-TERROR EFFORT HE ACCUSES CRITICS OF SPREADING FEAR

By Naftali Bendavid, Washington Bureau, 12/07/01

WASHINGTON—In his first appearance before Congress to defend the Bush administration's anti-terrorism tactics, Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft lashed out Thursday at his harsher critics, accusing them of spreading fear, dividing the country and helping the enemy.

"We need honest, reasoned debate, not fear-mongering," Ashcroft said during a four-hour hearing of the Senate Judiciary Committee. "To those who would pit Americans against immigrants and citizens against non-citizens, to those who scare peace-loving people with phantoms of lost liberty, my message is this: Your tactics only aid terrorists, for they erode our national unity and diminish our resolve."

Democrats did not hesitate to hit back, criticizing an array of administration actions. Sen. John Edwards (D-N.C.) noted that President Bush's proposed military tribunals could in theory sentence someone to death by a mere 2-1 vote. Sen. Russell Feingold (D-Wis.) asked

Ashcroft to guarantee that everyone now in custody in connection with the terror investigation would get a lawyer, and Ashcroft said he could not.

But Ashcroft said some of his detractors were mangling the truth. "Their bold declarations of so-called fact have quickly dissolved, upon inspection, into vague conjecture," he said. "Charges of kangaroo courts and shredding the Constitution give new meaning to the term 'the fog of war.'"

The clash was long anticipated. The Justice Department began implementing a series of hard-hitting legal procedures shortly after the terrorist hijackings of Sept. 11, prompting immediate protest from civil libertarians.

Far from backing down, Ashcroft waved a copy of what he said was an al-Qaida manual, bound in purple and encased in a plastic bag, to dramatize the threat facing the country.

Ashcroft's accusations prompted Feingold, who has questioned the administration's tactics, to ask whether the attorney general was challenging the committee's right to scrutinize his actions. Ashcroft denied any such meaning.

Other administration critics also reacted forcefully. "Atty. Gen. Ashcroft's attempts to smear and silence his critics demean his office," Ralph Neas, president of the liberal People for the American Way, said after the hearing. "Smothering dissent is not the American way."

Ashcroft may have been emboldened by recent opinion polls indicating strong support for President Bush and the war on terrorism. Sen. Patrick Leahy (D-Vt.), the Judiciary Committee chairman, at times seemed defensive, saying, "Whether the administration's recent unilateral actions are popular or unpopular at the moment, that's not the issue."

Some of the fiercer exchanges focused on revelations that the Justice Department had turned down a request from the FBI to check gun-purchasing records. FBI agents wanted to determine whether any of those arrested as part of the terrorism investigation had bought guns.

Ashcroft told the senators that the law forbids using the records on background checks for this purpose. But Sen. Dick Durbin (D-Ill.) questioned that stance in light of the administration's oft-repeated statement that it is using any available weapon to fight terror.

"Why is it when it gets to the 2nd Amendment—when it gets to this question of purchasing firearms, particularly by illegal immigrants who are here in the United States and have connections with terrorism—that there is such a blind eye from the Department of Justice?" Durbin asked.

Sen. Charles Schumer (D-N.Y.) noted that the Bush team asked Congress to make the law tougher on terrorism in other areas. But when it came to gun rights, Schumer said, "this administration becomes weak as a wet noodle."

Ashcroft, an avid supporter of gun owners' rights, said he would consider any bill lawmakers proposed. "If Congress passes a law to keep guns out of the hands of terrorists and others who should not have guns, I will fight to sustain it and I will enforce it," Ashcroft said.

Bush's order paving the way for the creation of military tribunals is among the administration's most controversial actions, but by the time of the hearing the issue appeared somewhat defused. The Bush administration has promised in recent days to soften the tribunals' procedures, while many Democrats have conceded the tribunals are constitutional.

Nonetheless, Democrats voiced concern about whether the tribunals, which would have jurisdiction only over non-U.S. citizens, would dispense with many basic rights.

"History has shown that military commissions have been effective, but they've also been abused," said Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.). "This time, we want to get it right."

North Carolina's Edwards, a former trial lawyer, suggested that Bush's order, if read literally, would allow the president or the attorney general to overrule an acquittal and declare someone guilty, though Ashcroft said that was not the intent.

"Whatever we do, I want to make sure your children and mine, and our grandchildren, are proud of what we do," Edwards said.

Leahy proposed that Democrats work with the administration to hammer out the tribunals' procedures, but the Bush administration is unlikely to accept such a proposal.

Ashcroft mounted a forceful defense of the tribunals, arguing that trying terrorists in U.S. courts would be impractical.

"Are we supposed to read them their Miranda rights, hire a flamboyant defense lawyer, bring them back to the United States to create a new cable network, Osama TV or whatever, provide a worldwide platform from which propaganda can be developed?" Ashcroft said.

The fight over the Justice Department's tactics has not been an exclusively partisan issue. Sen. Arlen Specter (R-Pa.) and Rep. Bob Barr (R-Ga.) have been among those questioning the administration's actions, and Sen. Zell Miller (D-Ga.) issued a statement this week ripping into Ashcroft's critics.

"They need to get off his back and let Atty. Gen. Ashcroft do his job," wrote Miller.

That delighted Sen. Orrin Hatch, the Judiciary Committee's senior Republican, who read Miller's statement aloud at the hearing.

Broadly, Ashcroft's argument was that al-Qaida and other terrorist groups are so ruthless that an aggressive counterattack is the only responsible action. Ashcroft also said terrorists use America's civil liberties as weapons against the nation.

He told senators he receives a report every morning that outlines the threat facing the U.S.

"If ever there were proof of the existence of evil in the world, it is in the pages of these reports," Ashcroft said. "They are a chilling daily chronicle of hatred of America by fanatics who seek to extinguish freedom, enslave women, corrupt education and to kill Americans wherever and whenever they can."

[JR: There are no longer any "honest seasoned debates" to which Mr. Ashcroft alludes, except those which support the government's position. Mr. Ashcroft challenged the Senate Committee by labeling them as terrorist sympathizers and accused them of creating national disunity. His posturing provoked Sen. Feingold to ask if he was threatening the Committee for questioning his authority. I guess to question is to risk being called a traitor. How do we know that the reports or manuals that are waved before us on TV are facts that haven't been altered and based on the truth? The information that is provided has no oversight or review. Mr. Ashcroft was very adept at turning the tables on his inquisitors. At the end of the inquiry many on the committee were too complementary and conciliatory towards Mr. Ashcroft. They failed to clarify and define his powers as stated in the Constitution. We must assume that this Senate Judiciary Committee as well as our Congress is uninformed or even ignorant of the powers delegated to them by the U.S. Constitution. If we don't have these hearings our de-facto government will have totally free reign to interpret or ignore the Constitution as they see fit.]

U.S. SAYS OTHER COUNTRIES MIGHT TRY SOME SUSPECTS

By John Diamond, Washington Bureau. 12/07/01

WASHINGTON—The Bush administration offered a new formulation Thursday for the handling of captured Taliban and al-Qaida leaders, saying they could be prosecuted in Afghanistan or in their countries of origin.

The question of what to do with suspected terrorists apprehended during the U.S. campaign in Afghanistan is rising to the top of the agenda with word of a possible negotiated surrender of Kandahar and with U.S. troops and allied Afghan rebels assaulting al-Qaida caves in the eastern part of the country.

Until now, the assumption has been that senior terrorism suspects such as Osama bin Laden faced two fates: death or prosecution before a U.S. military tribunal.

In a formulation far more flexible than President Bush's vow to "bring them to justice, or bring justice to them," Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld said Thursday that the main goal of the U.S. campaign in Afghanistan is to make sure these leaders don't return to their old ways of sponsoring global terrorism.

Rumsfeld was careful not to suggest that this flexible approach would apply to bin Laden.

Beyond such a broad aim, the specifics of how to accomplish it could vary with the circumstances surrounding capture of Taliban or al-Qaida leaders, Rumsfeld said.

"We are interested in seeing that they be punished and that they stop doing what they have been doing," Rumsfeld said.

If, for example, a leader of al-Qaida from an Arab country such as Egypt or Saudi Arabia were captured, the prisoner might be sent back to that country for trial.

"It may be that there's already paper out on that individual" in a country other than Afghanistan, Rumsfeld said. Under those circumstances, he said, it "might make sense" to send such a prisoner back to that country.

An immediate question facing the Bush administration concerns the fate of Mullah Mohammed Omar, leader of the fundamentalist Islamic Taliban regime that ruled Afghanistan from 1996 until this fall.

Omar, the son of a landless farmer, was born in a mud hut near Kandahar in 1959 and rarely ventured far from there. It was a life of self-imposed ignorance of all but religion and war.

Scarred and blinded in his right eye during combat against Soviet invaders in the 1980s, he came to believe about a decade ago that he had been called on by God to purge Afghanistan of sin and violence, to make it a pure Islamic state.

That vision was fulfilled as Taliban officials and religious firebrands made Omar their leader and gave him the title of mullah, though he never completed his religious education.

As he gained control some 5½ years ago, Omar literally cloaked himself in the trappings of the Prophet Muhammad.

On April 4, 1996, Omar was moved to unseal a shrine in Kandahar that held a cloak believed to have belonged to Muhammad, the founder of Islam. The cloak had not been touched since the 1930s.

He lifted it in the air as he stood on a rooftop, displaying it to a crowd of followers. The event was caught on videotape, one of the very few times that he was ever photographed.

He placed the cloak, which only Muhammad was said to have worn, on his own shoulders.

At that moment, Omar declared himself the commander of the faithful, the leader of all Islam. No one had claimed that title since the Fourth Caliph, more than 1,000 years ago.

On Thursday, there were reports out of Afghanistan that the Taliban was preparing to surrender Kandahar to U.S.-backed anti-Taliban forces in exchange for allowing Omar to live in dignity in Afghanistan. Those reports met with immediate disapproval in Washington.

Bush "believes very strongly that those who harbor terrorists need to be brought to justice," said White House spokesman Ari Fleischer.

Rumsfeld said the administration has made it clear what Washington expects if the Afghan rebel forces getting extensive U.S. financial and military backing seize Taliban or al-Qaida leaders.

"Our cooperation and assistance with those people would clearly take a turn south if something were to be done with respect to the senior people in that situation that was inconsistent with what I've said," Rumsfeld said.

As Pentagon lawyers worked on options for conducting military tribunals of terrorism suspects and as Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft defended the presidential executive order authorizing such tribunals, Rumsfeld stopped short of demanding that Taliban and al-Qaida leaders be handed over to the U.S.

The principal U.S. objective, Rumsfeld said, is ensuring that "the remaining al-Qaida fighters do not leave the country and go off to conduct additional terrorist attacks on other nations, including the United States, and that Afghanistan not be a nation that harbors terrorists."

If carried out by the Bush administration, such a strategy could solve two potentially thorny problems. It would reduce the need for military tribunals, which have come under sharp questioning, including Thursday in a Senate hearing. It also would allow Muslim governments to determine the fate of Muslim terrorists, sparing the U.S. the prospect of mass trials of Muslim terrorism suspects. [JR: Justice would be best served if the prisoners held in Afghanistan were sent back to their own countries for trials. They would be judged more fairly according to their own laws and customs. I'm sure the U.S. will want the captured American fighter Walker be sent back to the U.S. to face a military tribunal. That would protect our position in objecting to our own military being put on trial in an international court setting. By what measure or criteria can the U.S. discern which of the Taliban and al-Qaida fighters committed acts of terrorism? Are we saying that anyone fighting a war in this new millennium is a terrorist or just those who fight against the U.S. and Israel?]

AFGHAN FARMERS RESUME
GROWING VALUABLE CASH CROP

By Mike Taibbi, Daily News, 12/06/01

JALALABAD, Afghanistan—Poppy seedlings were peeking up through the earth of Ali Khan's three acres of land in eastern Afghanistan this week. He planted them the day after the Taliban surrendered Jalalabad and the surrounding territory to opposition forces, and now he's awaiting a bountiful crop that he hopes can improve his family's meager circumstances.

AND WHY NOT—the yield from his three acres of opium poppy—sold to one of the “businessmen” who inevitably show up at harvest time—will feed his extended family of 16 for one year.

Khan expects his take to be around $3,500, an astounding figure in a country where the annual per capita income is about $300.

The farmer was proud of his crop, showing how he has diverted precious irrigation water from his eggplants and wheat to nourish his poppies, the key ingredient in heroin.

Until the Taliban ordered a halt to opium production in July 2000, Afghanistan produced 3,900 tons a year—75 percent of the world's crop.

According to the United States, poppy was cultivated at the expense of wheat and other food crops desperately needed by the people of Afghanistan.

After the Taliban crackdown, only about 10 percent of the growers defied the prohibition ordered by the hard-line Taliban regime.

But there was still plenty of money to be made from the crop for the Taliban and its principal money launderer, Osama bin Laden, the prime suspect in the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the United States. Tons of the drug's raw material had been warehoused and was shipped to the thriving consumer markets in Pakistan, Europe and beyond.

A new supply stream is now likely. Farmers have wasted no time returning to the crop since the Taliban was driven from most of the country by opposition forces backed by U.S. military might.

In one village, farmers have already procured a new supply of seed. One 6-year-old boy proudly carried 3 kilos of seed in a battered pan while men turned the ground with ox-drawn tiller boards.

Others danced barefoot across the softened earth as they drew the seed from a pouch created from their upturned robes and fanned it over the ground with a practiced motion.

“If [new government officials] tell us not to grow poppy, they must know it's their responsibility to pay us to grow other crops,” said one village elder. “I would rather grow tomatoes and carrots.

“I know what heroin is and what it does to people, but I have to take care of my family.”

[JR: Well good times are back for the poppy growers in Afghanistan and the governments who use drug money for their covert activities. Isn't the war for “Enduring Freedom” the ultimate deception? There was a time when the world cared about the suffering and death of the innocent and drugs were for healing. This new war is the same old war with new objectives hidden under the cloak of secrecy. Wars are now used as an acceptable business practice in the new millennium. Isn't it all about consolidating profits, acquisitions and mergers?]

U.S. AGREED TO TIMOR INVASION, SAY PAPERS

By Stephen Collinson in Washington,
The Courier Mail—AU, 12/08/01

The U.S. offered full and direct approval of Indonesia's 1975 invasion of East Timor, a move by then-president Suharto which consigned the territory to 25 years of oppression, official documents released yesterday showed.

The documents prove conclusively for the first time that the U.S. gave a “green light” to the invasion, the opening salvo in an occupation that cost the lives of up to 200,000 East Timorese.

Mr. Suharto briefed U.S. president Gerald Ford and secretary of state Henry Kissinger on his plans for the former Portuguese colony hours before the invasion, according to documents collected by George Washington University's National Security Archive.

When Mr. Ford and Dr. Kissinger called in to Jakarta on their way back from a summit in Beijing on December 6, 1975, Mr. Suharto claimed that in the interests of Asia he had to bring stability to East Timor, to which Portugal was trying to grant autonomy.

“We want your understanding if we deem it necessary to take rapid or drastic action,” Mr. Suharto told his visitors, according to a long-classified State Department cable.

Mr. Ford replied: “We will understand and will not press you on the issue. We understand the problem you have and the intentions you have.”

Dr. Kissinger, who has denied the subject of Timor came up during the talks, appeared to be concerned about the domestic political implications of an Indonesian invasion.

“The president will be back on Monday at 2pm Jakarta time. We understand your problem and the need to move quickly, but I am only saying that it would be better if it were done after we returned.”

The invasion took place on December 7, the day after the Ford-Suharto meeting.

Dr. Kissinger has consistently rejected criticism of the Ford administration's conduct on East Timor.

During a launch in 1995 for his book, Diplomacy, Dr. Kissinger said at a New York hotel it was perhaps “regrettable” that for U.S. officials, the implications of Indonesia's Timor policy were lost in a blizzard of geo-political issues following the Vietnam War.

“Timor was never discussed with us when we were in Indonesia,” Dr. Kissinger said, according to a transcript of the meeting distributed by the East Timor Action network—which advocated independence for East Timor.

“At the airport as we were leaving, the Indonesians told us that they were going to occupy the Portuguese colony of Timor. To us that did not seem like a very significant event.”

The documents also show that Dr. Kissinger was concerned about the use of U.S. weapons by Indonesia during the East Timor invasion.

By U.S. law, the arms could only be used in self-defence, but it appears that Dr. Kissinger was particularly concerned over the interpretation of the legislation—not the use of the weapons.

“It depends on how we construe it, whether it is in self-defence or is a foreign operation,” he is quoted as saying.

The eastern part of the island of Timor, north of the Australian coast, was invaded by Jakarta in 1975 and annexed the following year.

[JR: On December 7, 1975 East Timor had their own sneak attack just like our own Pearl Harbor. History repeats itself... same date, same circumstance, only this time it's the Indonesians invading with the knowledge and support of the U.S. Thanks to the lethal diplomacy of Henry Kissinger, 200,000 Timorese lost their lives to their Indonesian invaders. When the truth is revealed it reflects another shameful chapter in the history of our U.S. foreign policy. This is a perfect example as to why the U.S. makes more enemies than friends the world over. We are playing the same game now in the Philippines.]

ILLINOIS UN OFFICIAL
PREDICTS NEW WORLD ORDER

By Rex Robinson, The Daily Southtown—AU, 12/05/01

On a day when war raged in Afghanistan and the strained relationship between the Israelis and Palestinians worsened, a UN official predicted there could be world peace within 10 years.

Edward Widmer, president of the Illinois Division of the United Nations Association of the United States, told the Bolingbrook Rotary Club that despite the chaos in the world today, he anticipated there will eventually be a major shift.

“Within 10 years time, you're going to see the beginnings of an embryonic world order,” Widmer said.

Speaking at the Bolingbrook Holiday Inn, Widmer focused on the intimate connection between the UN and the Rotary, but also touched on the problems the U.S. has had with the United Nations.

For example, before the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks in New York and Washington, D.C., the U.S. was the only country out of 180 to not sign a UN protocol against chemical warfare and bioterrorism, Widmer said. The so-called “world legislation” laid out opposition to bio-terrorism and chemical warfare, he said.

“Yet now we are the first to be faced with the threat of anthrax,” Widmer said.

After the Sept. 11 attacks, President Bush sent the legislation back to Congress, he said.

“In a sense, we are a little bit out of step with the rest of the world,” Widmer said.

The U.S. needs to get in sync with the UN, and an important step toward that is for the U.S. to pay the more than $2 billion it owes in past dues to the UN, Widmer said.

A new “world order” will be achieved through the globalization of industries like banking and finance, he said.

“There is $1.5 trillion in foreign currency changing hands throughout the world everyday,” he said.

There also is 55,000 corporations doing business all over the world, he said.

What will be most significant, Widmer said, is non-governmental organizations focusing on world problems.

"These are grassroots organizations just like your Rotary Club here in Bolingbrook," Widmer said....

"Be proud to be Rotarians, because we're right there, right in the vanguard of the UN," Widmer said. [JR: It can be said that the Rotary Club is a little cog in the big wheel of the UN. The UN has the master plan for the New World Order and is charting the course, guided by Zionist rules. If, as Mr. Widmer says, the U.S. isn't in sync with the UN it is because it still has the power to choose when and if it will cooperate. What planet is Mr. Widmer living on? The NWO has already achieved the globalization of banking and finance through the International Banking Cartel and the IMF/WB that is controlled by our own Federal Reserve. Too many people fail to see the big picture in front of them.]

EU CONSIDERS PLANS TO OUTLAW RACISM

By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard in Brussels,
TELEGRAPH—UK, 11/29/01

RACISM and xenophobia would become serious crimes in Britain for the first time, carrying a prison sentence of two years or more, under new proposals put forward by Brussels yesterday.

Holocaust denial or "trivialisation" of Nazi atrocities would be banned, along with participation in any group that promotes race hate.

The plans, drafted by the European Commission, define racism and xenophobia as aversion to individuals based on "race, colour, descent, religion or belief, national or ethnic origin".

Ordinary crimes would carry heavier penalties if they are motivated in any way by racism or xenophobia, or if the culprit is carrying out "professional activity", such as a police officer. Some of the crimes listed are, broadly speaking, offences under British law already, such as public incitement to violence.

But the list also covers a wide range of activities that sometimes fall into the sphere of protected political speech, such as "public insults" of minority groups, "public condoning of war crimes", and "public dissemination of tracts, pictures, or other material containing expressions of racism or xenophobia"—including material posted on far-Right Internet Websites.

It was not clear yesterday how the law would affect radical Islamic groups that openly promote anti-Semitic and anti-Christian views.

Nor was it clear how it would apply to political parties opposed to mass immigration, such as Austria's Freedom Party, Belgium's Vlaams Blok, and the Danish People's Party, all of which have become serious political forces.

The law could potentially cover many stand-up comedians, and even Anne Robinson, who, during an appearance on BBC television this year, described the Welsh as "irritating".

The proposals, which will require the unanimous backing of all 15 states, are aimed at ending the patchwork of different laws across the European Union and establishing a common definition that can be used by all judges. The commission appears to have adopted the most restrictive code—Germany's—as the basis for the rest of the EU.

Leonello Gabrici, the Commission's judicial spokesman, denied that there was any intention of curbing political expression. "This totally respects free speech. It will be up to judges to decide where the balance lies" he said.

The United Kingdom Independence Party said yesterday that it could be targeted by the new rules, noting that the Oxford English Dictionary definition of xenophobia is "a morbid fear of foreigners or foreign countries".

Nigel Farage MEP, the party's chairman, said: "I'm morbidly xenophobic about this new country called the European Union, so if that is covered by this law then I'm most certainly xenophobic and I could be extradited anywhere. So I'm going to make sure my overnight bag is packed and ready."

[JR: What a screwed up world we exist in when clinical paranoia is relegated into laws and we think this is normal. Why do we need some European Commission to dictate what is acceptable in thought and behavior? They have already defined Islamic groups as being radical in thought towards Jews and Christians. It certainly doesn't respect free speech and no judge is capable of determining fairly what is hateful in thought or speech. If God were still recognized as Creator of all that is we wouldn't need these little men to determine what is right.]

USSR SUCCESSOR GAINING POWER

By Toby Westerman, WorldNetDaily.com, 11/05/01

The Commonwealth of Independent States, or CIS—formerly the weak successor to the defunct Soviet Union—is beginning to assert itself as "an authoritative international organization and an important factor in global stability," according to official Russian sources.

All republics of the former Soviet Union—except for the Baltic States of Latvia, Lithuania and Estonia—are members of the CIS, with Russia as the dominant partner.

The CIS's declaration of power in world affairs follows a newfound unity among the organization's leaders.

"Today we all realize we just can't live apart from each other, neither economically, nor politically and socially," Ukrainian President Leonid Kuchma proclaimed.

The statements were reported by the Voice of Russia World Service, the official broadcasting service of the Russian government.

The CIS has already affected the lives of American citizens directly. With Moscow's permission, CIS member states in Central Asia, including Tajikistan and Uzbekistan, are providing logistical assistance to U.S. troops operating in Afghanistan.

Also, Moscow's decisions regarding oil impact U.S. oil pumps. On Dec. 2, Deputy Prime Minister Viktor Khristenko stated to a business delegation in Tokyo that Russia might cooperate with OPEC and reduce oil production. If Russia does decrease its oil exports, American consumers would feel the result in higher gas prices. A unified, coordinated CIS would combine the vast manufacturing and natural resources of the old Soviet Union with the technological and economic advances made in the CIS since the collapse of the USSR.

The material and human resources available to a unified CIS are staggering, making the CIS an extremely powerful partner—or formidable adversary.

Kuchma described the sudden advent of political unity in terms reminiscent of a religious epiphany. Recalling that "it took the Commonwealth leaders a whole decade to finally realize this simple truth," Kuchma declared that "either we ... [suddenly] all saw the light, or maybe we've been given some help from the Lord."

Some observers view Kuchma's recognition of possible divine assistance in CIS affairs as ironic, noting that the organization's leaders have been accused of political crimes ranging from election fraud to murder.

Kuchma himself has been implicated in corruption scandals and murder, as has the president of Belarus—and admirer of Josef Stalin—Alexander Lukashenko.

Lukashenko is also the head of the Union State of Russia and Belarus, a combination formed in December 1999.

Each of the CIS rulers governs their nations with an iron hand and effectively dominates opposition forces—even in the face of international criticism.

In December 2000, CIS leaders meeting in Minsk, the capital of Belarus, declared their support of elections in Kirgizia, Azerbaijan and Belarus, despite Western criticism of the voting process in those nations.

According to a British Broadcasting Corporation report, the CIS leaders stated that "we confirm the democratic character" of the elections in Kirgizia, Azerbaijan and Belarus, which the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, as well as other Western observers, found to be "unfair" and "deeply flawed".

The OSCE described Lukashenko's September presidential re-election victory as "arbitrary", with numerous instances of "intimidation" directed at his opponents.

Disregarding Western protests over the conduct of the election, Voice of Russia referred to Lukashenko's "sky high" level of support and labeled him a "sure-fire winner".

Lukashenko described his 75-percent margin of victory as "elegant and beautiful", according to the BBC.

The Union of Russia and Belarus, which Lukashenko heads, is also likely to expand.

Radio Free Europe/Radio Liberty reports that the Russian government is preparing to allow other states into the Russia-Belarus Union, even if these states do not have "common borders with the Russian Federation". The new law would allow four to five new states into the Union, with the most likely candidates being Moldova, Armenia and Kazakhstan, according to the report.

Ironically, Russia, which boasts, in the words of Russian President Vladimir Putin, of having made an "historical choice once and for all" for democracy and a free market, finds itself uniting with communist governments.

Belarus continues to follow Lukashenko's Stalinist designs, and Moldova elected a communist government in February.

[JR: The lines are being drawn all over the world and sides are being taken. The independent ex-Soviet states have wisely decided to join with Russia. In unity there is strength, with strength there is power and with power there is influence. These states have the material and human resources that are essential to compete in world affairs. The criticism as to the fairness of the elections in these independent states can be compared to our own recent election for president. The issues of corruption, payoffs and hints of murder, was a political issue during the Clinton regime. As for divine inspiration, didn't our own President Bush proclaim a crusade against evil wherever it may be? Where did his inspiration come from... Mars the Roman God of war? All things are different yet similar, it just depends on the country and who puts the spin on it.]

ZIMBABWE COURT OKS MUGABE'S LAND GRAB
NEW APPOINTEES ENDORSE SEIZURE OF WHITE-OWNED FARMS

By Angus Shaw, NEWSDAY, 12/05/01

HARARE, Zimbabwe (AP)—Zimbabwe's top court ruled the government's plan to seize White-owned farms is legal, overturning its own previous decision that the seizures were unconstitutional.

In a judgment released Tuesday, four of the five Supreme Court justices appointed to hear the new seizure case said they were satisfied the government's "fast track" land nationalization program was lawful and "sufficiently complied" with the constitution.

Last year's Supreme Court ruling declared the government's methods of land seizures illegal and in breach of constitutional ownership rights and government land laws.

Some of the judges who made that ruling have been replaced in recent months.

Four of the five judges hearing the new case, including Chief Justice Godfrey Chidyausiku, were appointed recently by President Robert Mugabe. All four voted to uphold Mugabe's land seizure program.

The Supreme Court traditionally had only five judges until Mugabe expanded the bench to eight in July, adding three judges considered loyal to the ruling party. The chief justice usually appoints small panels of judges to hear each case.

The opposition Movement for Democratic Change has described the court's expansion as a political ploy designed to turn the court into a Mugabe regime puppet.

Armed ruling-party militants have occupied more than 1,700 White-owned farms since March 2000, demanding they be redistributed to landless Blacks. The government has listed some 4,500 properties—about 95 percent of farm land owned by Whites—for nationalization without compensation and last month warned about 800 farmers they had three months to vacate their land and homes.

Monday's court ruling rejected white farmer's assertions that the land seizures were taking place amid violence and a breakdown of law and order in farming districts.

It said the Mugabe government had met the previous court's order to prove it had restored law and order and a sustainable land reform program in those districts.

Though it was not disputed that clashes took place on farms, "by definition, the concept of rule of law foresees a situation in which behavior prescribed as criminal will occur. The presence of the rule of law does not mean a totally crime free environment," the court said.

Adrian de Bourbon, the lawyer for the Commercial Farmers Union, had asked Chidyausiku and two other new appointees to recuse themselves from the hearing, alleging they had shown open allegiance to the ruling party and its land seizures.

None of the judges stepped down.

Monday's ruling described de Bourbon's request as "unbridled arrogance and insolence".

"This is the first and last time such contempt of this court will go unpunished," it said.

Judges have been under pressure from the government and ruling-party militants. Chief Justice Anthony Gubbay was forced out after the government warned him and other judges they would not be protected from the militants, who stormed the Supreme Court last December.

[JR: Governments worldwide are redefining their powers by twisting and changing the laws and reinterpreting their Constitutions. The revised ruling by the Supreme Court of Zimbabwe gives legitimacy to the government's unlawful "fast track" seizure of the White-owned farms. Mugabe has retained his power and control by hiding behind these unlawful acts as well as through fear and intimidation along with the use of unruly mobs. This is a perfect example of how mob rule can run a country into the ground.]

ARGENTINA ON BRINK OF BANKRUPTCY

News.com.au, 12/07/01

BUENOS AIRES (AFP)—Argentina stood at the brink of bankruptcy today after the International Monetary Fund refused to release the latest U.S. $1.264 billion ($2.47 billion) aid payment.

Economy Minister Domingo Cavallo acknowledged that the country is negotiating with bondholders and other creditors in an indication of a "virtual state of pre-bankruptcy".

But Cavallo told a Mercosur-European Union business forum that "Argentina will pay the debt that it has" despite the IMF action.

IMF directors refused yesterday to sign off on Argentina's economic program—a decision that effectively blocked clearance of the next payment from a U.S. $21.6 billion line of IMF credit.

An IMF spokesman said Argentina must meet its belt-tightening economic targets, in particular a commitment to cutting the deficit to zero, in order to continue receiving assistance.

IMF spokesman Thomas Dawson said in Washington that the IMF mission in Buenos Aires was due back in Washington on Thursday and said he did not know when the next IMF team would be sent to Argentina.

Cavallo, emerging from a meeting Thursday with President Fernando de la Rúa, declined to answer questions about how Argentina would meet its debt payments.

"The preoccupation of Argentines is not this," he said. "Leave the question to foreign creditors and let them respond."

Argentina, whose economy is being choked by the payments on U.S.$132 billion in debt, must come up with at least U.S. $480 million in interest payments to bondholders later this month to avert a full-blown default.

But Cavallo said that "the priority of the Government will be (making) pension payments, paying salaries of the state and payments for normal functioning of the government".

But he also admitted to business leaders earlier Thursday that "the next 90 days will be complicated because there will be conflicts of interest" as it moves into the second phase of its debt-swap, aiming to lower payments by exchanging high-yielding bonds for lower-yielding ones with longer maturities.

The inability to get additional funds from the IMF will make it more difficult for Argentina to maintain its currency peg with the U.S. dollar, which guarantees the peso remains at parity with the U.S. currency.

But fears of a devaluation were reflected in neighbouring countries, with major foreign exchange houses in Uruguay refusing any Argentine peso transactions, and Paraguayan currency dealers accepting the peso at a 31-percent discount.

The New York credit rating firm Moody's said new currency controls implemented over the past few days effectively ended convertibility between the dollar and the peso.

Only three days after announcing currency controls, Cavallo on Wednesday eased the measures saying there would be no restriction on the transfer abroad of funds collected before the decree was signed on Sunday.

The cap on exports of foreign currency also will be raised to U.S. $10,000 per adult from the initial limit of U.S. $1000, Cavallo added at a news conference.

Under the measures that went into effect this week, Argentines can withdraw no more than U.S. $250 a week from their bank accounts, though Cavallo said they could, in some cases, cash their entire monthly allowance in a single withdrawal.

The lack of reserves will make it harder to stave off the crisis by dollarising the economy, analysts said, estimating that the country would need at least U.S. $800 million in reserves to convert to the U.S. currency.

To make matters worse, the country's two largest labor unions called for a general strike on December 13 to protest the financial curbs implemented this week.

The risk premium on Argentine bonds meanwhile jumped to 4005 basis points, meaning the yield is 40.05 percentage points above that of comparable U.S. Treasury bonds to compensate for the risk of default.

WILL NEW BIN LADEN TAPE SHED LIGHT ON THE TRUTH?

By Miroslava Flores, La Voz de Aztlan, 12/11/01

Los Angeles, Alta California (ACN)—The government has promised that it will release, tomorrow, a video tape supposedly showing Osama bin Laden admitting to planning and carrying out the WTC and Pentagon terrorist attacks. The video, according to Vice President Dick Cheney, was found at a private residence in Afghanistan and shows bin Laden bragging and joking about the September 11 attacks. The videotape, according to Cheney, depicts bin Laden saying in Arabic that he did not expect the twin towers to come down completely and joking about the fact that some of the hijackers did not know that they were on a suicide mission.

There is no doubt that the tape will be carefully scrutinized by experts from all sides of the issue. There are groups that are questioning the government's version that it was Osama bin Laden who was behind the planning and execution of the terrorists attacks in New York and Washington D.C. Some experts and scholars are proposing that the terrorists attacks were actually undertaken by the Israeli intelligence agency called the MOSSAD with the help of some rogue elements within the American CIA. These experts and scholars cite certain evidence that they say implicates Israel and Zionist international interests in the "mother of all terrorist attacks". Israeli Zionists have a long history of using terrorism to manipulate world events—and it was Zionist terrorism against the British that eventually helped establish the Israeli Zionist state.

On October 10, 2001, one month after the WTC and Pentagon terrorist attacks, two Israelis, one a MOSSAD colonel, were arrested inside the Mexican Congress with IDF-issued Glockes, hand grenades and explosives. The incident has been totally swept under the carpet by high-level Zionists in the Mexican government. The story was initially broadly covered by major Mexican newspapers, radio and two of the major Mexican television networks—but now all information concerning the case has been totally suppressed. There is no doubt in our minds that the Western mainstream media, including Mexico's, is now totally controlled by certain internationalist interests that are keeping certain information from the public and at times even resort to twisting the truth.

It is in this atmosphere of lack of faith in the mainstream channels of information that the new bin Laden videotape will be released. Most Americans will not question what our government and mainstream media will tell them. Unfortunately, there has been too much brainwashing that has already taken place. Hopefully, however, there are still small groups of independent thinkers that will not be fooled. A growing number of college and university students—and faculty as well as bright ordinary citizens—are now "catching on" to the lies that have been published by the media to justify the war and aid to Israel.

Some of us remember the Jewish Hollywood film called Wag the Dog in which an ultimate spin doctor, Conrad Brean (Robert DeNiro) uses his uncanny ability to manipulate politics, the press and most importantly, the American people. With the help of Stanley Motss (Dustin Hoffman), a famed Hollywood Jewish producer and his irreverent entourage, Brean assembles a crisis team who orchestrate a global conflict which saves the U.S. president's election campaign by helping to focus the public's attention away from a presidential scandal. Recently, George Bush had a high-level meeting with Hollywood producers and directors to enlist their help in the war effort. How difficult will it be for Spielberg to fake an Osama bin Laden video tape? Or how difficult will it be to twist the true Arabic interpretation of what bin Laden actually said? Dick Cheney did not sound too convincing when he appeared on Meet the Press on Sunday TV when explaining how the government came about finding the tape.

There are two primary reasons why the careful analysis of the videotape to be released tomorrow is so important. The real motives for the bombing of the Taliban have been questioned. There is clear historical evidence that the big U.S. oil corporations have been pushing for the construction of oil and gas pipelines from the Caspian Sea region through Afghanistan to Pakistani harbors on the Indian Ocean. The Caspian Sea region has oil and gas reserves worth trillions. Dick Cheney was a principal working with U.S. oil and gas interests to construct the pipelines prior to his election to Vice President. The second reason is that Israel is very anxious to deflect the discussion of the possibility that it was the Israeli MOSSAD that was responsible for the WTC and Pentagon terrorist attacks. There is a lot riding on the truth concerning the new Osama bin Laden video tape to be released tomorrow.— <http://aztlan.net/bintape.htm>

OSAMA VIDEO SEEMS 'TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE' SAYS PRAVDA

By Timothy Bancroft-Hinchey,
PRAVDA.Ru, 12/14/01

"Why such potentially damning evidence should have been left in a house in Kandahar, conveniently discovered after a supposed victory by the U.S.-led alliance, giving for the first time the only real evidence against Osama bin Laden, is highly-suspicious."

The interviews took place in Afghanistan, the first in October with the Qatar-based Arab TV station, Al-Jazeera, and in November, filmed by an amateur, found in a house in Jalalabad. The first interview was never revealed, or shown, due to a secret agreement between Richard Cheney and the Emir of Qatar. The second is strange.

The first is an exclusive interview between a frightened Al-Jazeera reporter and an exultant and defiant Osama bin Laden which took place in Afghanistan on 20th October, the contents of which were used by British Prime Minister Tony Blair on 14th November, in his public accusation that Osama bin Laden was behind the September 11th attacks.

The video reached the British and U.S. governments through the work of their respective secret services, after they discovered that a video of the interview had been made and distributed throughout the Middle East, whose leaders are reported to be increasingly worried about the growing influence of Al-Jazeera in the area. Contacts from the British and U.S. secret services obtained copies of the video, which has never been shown.

Al-Jazeera decided not to broadcast the interview after a private meeting took place in October between U.S. Vice President Richard (Dick) Cheney and the Emir of Qatar, Sheikh Hamad Bin-Khalifah Al Thani. The Qatar royal family finances Al-Jazeera and has close ties with the U.S.A.

In the interview, an aggressive and determined Osama bin Laden refuses to answer the reporter's questions and he himself dictates the theme of the discourse. He manages again to portray his message that the attacks against America were justified by this country's support for Israel, which stole lands from the Palestinians and continues its campaign of terror today.

He declares that the battle has been moved to inside America and we must continue until we win this battle, or die for the cause and meet our Creator. Linking these attacks with their cause, he declared Evil terror is that which America and Israel are practising against our people, and what we are practising is good terror which will stop them from doing what they do.

Osama bin Laden and Islamist extremists have tried to explain the cause behind the international terrorist movement with the justification that while Israel refuses to adhere to UN Resolutions which instruct this country to leave the Palestinian lands it occupied and to cease the practice of building colonies on them, settled by Jews, the stakes would be raised in their fight to claim back the lands which were taken from them.

However, there is nothing concrete in this interview which incriminates Osama bin Laden, the references to the September 11th attacks being too vague, and after the event.

In the second video, which mysteriously appears in a private house in Jalalabad, filmed by an amateur and screened on Sky News on Thursday, the evidence incriminating Osama bin Laden in the terrorist attacks on September 11th would be devastating at face value.

However, Arabic-speaking Pravda.Ru contacts were present watching this video clip—and it can be stated that what was claimed and seen are two different things. What was seen were video shots of Osama bin Laden (no doubt it was him, unless the video industry used its best technicians to produce a professional-looking montage), speaking in the distance with a group of fellows, talking about the September 11th events in great detail.

Whether or not the voice was his can be debatable. The Arabic-speaking contact of Pravda.Ru in Lisbon pointed out that anyone could have dubbed in the voices because there are no close-ups of the lips of the people while speaking. What he could hear was a lot of mumbling—and during the mumbling, the supposed translation comes up with some incriminating phrases.

Why such potentially damning evidence should have been left in a house in Kandahar, conveniently discovered after a supposed victory by the U.S.-led alliance, giving for the first time the only real evidence against Osama bin Laden, is highly suspicious.

Also suspicious is the fact that Osama bin Laden mentioned names of those held responsible for the hijackings. If Osama bin Laden has the means and intelligence to fight the Soviet Union during ten years, to play cat-and-mouse with the U.S.A. for another ten years and to see the Taliban walking home—armed after what was supposed to be one of the mightiest military attacks in history, only he, himself knows where, then the second video seems too good to be true.— <http://english.pravda.ru/main/2001/12/14/23594.html>

ARAB SHOUT: IT'S ALL A FORGERY!

By Marsha Kranes, nypost.com, 12/14/01

The U.S.-government-released Osama bin Laden videotape was dismissed as unconvincing propaganda in many parts of the Arab world, with some blasting it as a complete fabrication.

Only in a few Arab countries did government officials and citizens view the video as evidence of bin Laden's active role in the Sept. 11 terrorist strikes.

Viewers throughout the Mideast were able to see the videotape on both Al-Jazeera and CNN. And while state-run Arab networks didn't air the video, commentators angrily denounced it and questioned its authenticity.

Part of the problem was the poor sound quality of the footage and the reliance on U.S. translations, Arab commentators said.

Egyptian stockbroker Sherif Abdelkhalek questioned whether bin Laden actually appeared.

"I don't know if it's bin Laden or not," he said. "This is not evidence for [the] U.S. to say bin Laden did this. The tape was not clear... the voice of all the sentences bin Laden said did not sound the same."

Abdul Latif Arabiat, head of Jordan's Islamic Action Front—considered a "mainstream" party—called the footage "shameful".

"Do Americans really think the world is that stupid to think that they would believe that this tape is evidence?" he asked.

"Of course, it is fabricated," said Dia'a Rashwan, a Cairo-based expert on Islamic movements.

"If this is the kind of evidence that America has, then the blood of thousands who died and were injured in Afghanistan is on [President] Bush's head."

In Bahrain, a viewer who accepted the video as real shrugged off its significance, claiming, "It only adds that bin Laden was aware of the incident but not necessarily that he had planned it."

Among the few Mideast officials to welcome the tape as evidence of bin Laden's involvement in the Sept. 11 attacks were leaders of the United Arab Emirates, a U.S. ally.

"There is no doubt in my mind that bin Laden was behind those operations," said the country's information minister, Sheik Abdullah bin Zaid al-Nahayan.

He added, "We, Arabs and Muslims, should punish them for offending Islam, Muslims and Arabs."

In Israel, a spokesman for Prime Minister Ariel Sharon said the tape provided "unequivocally incriminating evidence" against al-Qaida. "You could just see the sinister plot that was concocted there and the glee of these people."

AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY?

From David Rosenberg (NY), Rense.com, 12/12/01

Dear Mr. Rense,

I saw today the speech by our President.

As a Jew, I am absolutely outraged that the President chose to be photographed with the Israeli flag during ALL the ceremony.

1. Normally, you cannot see the Star of David because it is hidden inside the folds of the flag. This is the FIRST TIME in my entire life that I could see full the Star of David in a flag on a post or poll unless there was a strong breeze blowing. Somebody had to work very hard on this flag to display it in this fashion with the President. I will not be surprised if they put a piece of cardboard behind it.

2. As you can see in the photo, this is his initial position, only him swearing to the Israeli flag. After the initial ceremony, he had a 4-minute speech in which his body turned to the right and, once again, they positioned him in front of the Israeli flag... and again 'miraculously' you could see only him and the Israeli flag... FOR 4 LONG MINUTES!

3. I compared his head size next to the flag.

From the angle from the front of the camera, the size of the star was greater than twice the size of the President's head.

4. During ALL of his speech you could see ONLY his head and the Star of David. Our American flag was nowhere to be seen. That was the most embarrassing moment in my life as an American, since I got my American citizenship.

5. This was a clear message from the shadow Elite and Zionists to all of us that they are in total control of America.

I took the time to write you all of this for the very simple reason that Israel is now becoming a very serious liability to all of us American Jews, and for the whole world. Make NO mistake, this dominance of the Star of David during the President's speech was done intentionally by the White House and the Jewish lobby in order to accelerate hatred by Moslems around the world against America.

This is clearly promoting the Protocols of the Elders Of Zion agenda (whether or not they be considered a hoax) to stimulate a Third World War—a religious war between us Jews and Christians, against the Moslems. See this story: <http://www.rense.com/general17/prot.htm>

To all our American brothers and sisters of ALL religions: Please do not let this vulgar display of the Israeli flag promote anti-Semite feelings against us American Jews. The 'Jewish lobby' which totally controls our Congress and Senate and manipulates America, has NOTHING to do with American Jews. This "lobby" is the brilliant invention of elements within Israel and has been controlled by Israel since 1948.

Thank you, sir, for reading my e-mail—David Rosenberg, New York

SCIENCE CAN'T YET EXPLAIN NEAR-DEATH EXPERIENCES

Lancet, 12/13/01

NEW YORK (Reuters Health)—While no one is sure exactly what they are or why they occur, "near-death" experiences may not be explainable by science alone, according to researchers.

Their study of 62 patients who said they had a near-death experience after going into cardiac arrest found that factors such as medication and the duration of unconsciousness did not explain the phenomenon.

"Our results show that medical factors cannot account for occurrence of near-death experiences," Dr. Pim van Lommel and colleagues from the Netherlands report in the December 15th issue of Lancet.

A small number of people who survive life-threatening circumstances like cardiac arrest report having had "an extraordinary experience", note van Lommel, of Hospital Rijnstate in Arnhem, and his colleagues. These so-called near-death experiences often involve visions of a light or a deceased relative, flashbacks of life events or an "out-of-body" sensation.

Researchers have come up with a number of explanations for these experiences. Some believe that brain cells dying from a lack of oxygen help trigger the episodes, while others point to psychological factors such as fear of death, or to the changing state of consciousness people may go through in a life-threatening condition.

But research on near-death experiences has typically asked survivors to recount the events long after they occurred, according to van Lommel's team. The investigators tried to overcome this problem by interviewing cardiac-arrest survivors within days of being resuscitated and again 2 and 8 years later.

In the initial interviews, 62 of 344 survivors (18%) reported near-death experiences. All 344 had been clinically dead, meaning they were unconscious due to a lack of blood and oxygen to the brain.

The patients' near-death experiences varied, with 41 having a deeper, or "core", experience. The rest reported more "superficial" events, van Lommel's team notes. Two years later, 6 of these individuals were deemed to not have had a near-death experience.

But those patients who did have one were able to recall the experience "almost exactly" 8 years later, the researchers found. And in contrast with cardiac-arrest survivors who did not have such an experience, these patients showed less fear of death and a stronger belief in an after-life.

What the researchers could not find was any clear explanation for why a small percentage of patients had a near-death experience while most did not. If "purely physiological factors" like a cutoff of oxygen to the brain were at play, they note, most of the study patients should have had such an experience.

"We did not show that psychological, neurophysiological, or physiological factors caused these experiences after cardiac arrest," the researchers write.

But these findings are hard to interpret, according to an editorial published with the report. For one, writes Dr. Christopher C. French of the University of London, UK, "it seems that at least some near-death experiences may be the result of false memories."

In addition, he points out, it is unclear when—during what state of consciousness—the patients had their experiences.

French calls for more research to overcome the limitations of most studies into near-death experiences, while calling the current one a "major advance" over past studies.

SECRET NAVAL WAR OF THE SOUTHERN HEMISPHERE

As we move along and to make things clear, we shall discuss the referred-to “PROJECT Z” I mentioned in the previous chapter. It is the new Bolshevik three-phase strategy for NUCLEAR WAR ONE. However, since it didn’t come off on schedule, I feel we will not be misleading if we stick with references to the area of the Antarctic. The most skeletons to arise from the dead to “getcha” are all parading around “under” and “within” the Southern Hemisphere and that, after all, was the subject of this Journal. I do have trouble keeping to one subject for all facets are so intertwined.

The plan in 1982 was that of an elite group of American Bolshevik military planners by which the U.S. would strike the first nuclear blow, followed by all-out thermonuclear war with Russia.

After having set off the holocaust, the Bolsheviks in the U.S. and in certain other countries planned to ride it out safely in comfortable war bunkers already in place and well stocked with luxuries. Finally, after NUCLEAR WAR ONE fizzled out in stalemate, they planned to leave behind the ashes of the U.S. and her allies. Activating Phase #3 of their grand strategy, they planned to unveil their secret weapons, especially their secret naval fleets. With these they planned to conquer and rule what would be left of the world. The United States as you know it would be long dead and gone; but in the eyes of the Bolsheviks themselves, this outcome would constitute victory for many reasons.

Up to April of 1982 the nuclear war timetable was still on track. They were still shooting for nuclear war to begin by September of that year. Actually this continued right to the date set of September 17, 1982.

What saved you is that the Bolsheviks were running as fast as they could toward war; but, the Bolsheviks are not the only runners in the race. They have two deadly enemies, both of whom are equally determined to trip up the Bolsheviks. One enemy of the Bolsheviks in the U.S. is the Rockefeller cartel; the other enemy is the new anti-Bolsheviks ruling class in Russia: And now these two mutual enemies of the Bolsheviks are pooling their efforts in certain ways.

The new anti-Bolshevik coalition is now much more firmly established—but in 1982 it was still quite new and was working between the Rockefeller cartel and the Russians. The January 26, 1982 meeting between Haig and Gromyko in Geneva, Switzerland, was a turning point in the formation of this coalition. It is now a reality, and is responsible for the so-called “Falkland crisis” which dominated the headlines in April and May of that year. It should be emphasized that the new relationship between the Rockefeller cartel and Russia fell far short of a true alliance, at least at that time. They have very major disputes to be settled between them, but they called a truce between themselves to deal with the mutual deadly enemy—the Bolsheviks in America.

The first priority of the Russians and the Rockefellers is to slow down the Bolshevik preparations for imminent nuclear war. If they could do that, time would be on the side of the Rockefeller cartel in certain political movements. A slow-down in the nuclear war timetable will also give more breathing space for additional anti-Bolshevik actions to be implemented.

The joint Rockefeller-Russian planners decided by mid-February of 1982 that military action against the Bolsheviks was essential very quickly. No other type of action had any hope of taking effect fast enough to prevent nuclear war by the end of the summer.

The exact details of the “PROJECT Z” war plan were not known to either the Rockefellers or the Russians, but the general outlines were known to be pretty well outlined and set up.

It was decided that military action should be devised that would undermine Phase #3 of the Bolshevik war plan—that is, the Bolshevik-controlled secret naval installations and fleets in the Southern Hemisphere should be attacked and crippled. By working together, the Rockefeller cartel and the Russians were able to devise an attack plan which neither could have carried out alone. The Rockefeller group, who built and originally controlled these bases, provided detailed intelligence about the best way to attack them. The Russians with their enormous military machine provided the muscle to actually carry out the attack.

It was essential to devise a scheme that would enable both secret fleets in the South Atlantic and South Pacific to be attacked. Survival intact of either fleet would leave the Bolshevik war plan still workable.

Military analysts concluded very quickly that a direct assault on the New Zealand facilities was out of the question. There was no combination of commandos, frogmen, or other military force which could possibly keep an attack secret from the outside world. Any attack on the New Zealand bases would set off the very war which the Rockefellers and Russians wanted to prevent.

But the situation in the South Atlantic was a different matter. In a way, the greatest asset of South Georgia Island was also its Achilles’ heel. The extreme isolation which protected the secrecy of the South Georgia base also made a covert military assault feasible. The key lay with Argentina and her long-standing claims to the Falkland Islands.

THE FALKLAND ISLAND WAR

The Rockefeller cartel had dominated all of Latin America for decades. Cartel operatives were sent to Argentina to work out a deal with the government military junta there. The historic dispute over the Falkland Islands was to be used to provide a ruse, a military cover, to enable the South Georgia base to be attacked. The Argentine generals were not told everything about the situation by any means, but they were told enough to make clear what they were to do.

As an inducement to cooperate, the Argentine leaders were promised handsome rewards. They were guaranteed that after the shooting was over, the Falkland Islands would remain in Argentine hands. This guarantee included the promise of covert military assistance as needed against the Royal Navy. And, to bolster the troubled Argentine economy, it was promised that the Rockefeller cartel would help develop the immense offshore oil reserves. With those combined promises of military glory and financial rewards, the Argentine military junta agreed to the plan.

So, backing up to March 19th, Argentina carried out Act One in the joint attack plan. A group of Argentine scrap-metal merchants, of all things, landed at the abandoned old whaling station on South Georgia Island. Supposedly they were there to dismantle the old buildings and carry them off to sell. While they were at it they also raised the Argentine flag over the work-site. The British, always nervous about South Georgia Island, promptly reacted exactly as expected. The British Antarctic survey ship Endurance put 22 Marines ashore to clear up that little misunderstanding.

They drove off the scrap merchants and promptly tore down the Argentine flag. The incident provided the exact desired excuse for the Argentine Junta to bring the simmering 150-year-old Falklands dispute to a boil. From time to time in the past, Argentina claimed that South Georgia was part of the Falklands because it is administered that way by Britain. That argument was very flimsy but it then came in most handy indeed. It was nothing new to hear that claim from Argentine leaders, so there was no hint of what was really afoot.

During late March, Argentine military forces started assembling for an assault on the Falklands. The British command thought there was nothing new, for Argentina had carried out threatening maneuvers in the past many times. It was believed that they were about to do it again; but on April 2 Argentine forces did the unexpected. After many past false alarms, this time they actually invaded and seized the Islands. All Argentine public statements emphasized the long-standing historical claims to the Falklands themselves; but just for good measure, the next day a small Argentine force also seized far-off South Georgia Island. The force was so small that it gave the appearance initially that it was just a side show from Argentina’s point of view; however, the small contingent of 22 Royal Marines were overpowered and bundled off the Island along with a group of 13 alleged scientists. That was a moment of pay-off in the joint Rockefeller-Russian attack plan.

“SPUDDING IN”

Thanks to the elaborate distraction staged by the Argentine forces, a special commando team got onto the Island totally undetected. Based on the detailed Rockefeller information about the base, the team moved to the location on the mountain directly above the cavernous secret base. Special high-speed drilling equipment was set up by the Rockefeller members of the team while the Russian members concentrated on military defense. By late that same evening, April 3, the military high command in London finally learned what was really taking place. The secret South Georgia base was under attack by virtually the only means possible. The joint Rockefeller-Russian team were drilling a shaft down through the mountain toward their hollowed-out cavern inside. It was only a matter of time until their drill would break through the ceiling of the giant hidden naval base. Once the hole was made, the next step was obvious. The Rockefeller-Russian team would put a weapon of some kind through the hole. The best guess was that it would be probably nerve gas—it just doesn't pay to "guess".

The shock waves that went through the highest levels of British government on the evening of April 3 can hardly be described. The Thatcher government, like the so-called Reagan Administration in America, is Bolshevik controlled. Well, the Russians told you they would rule the world and it might very well be done without firing a shot!

That was why Margaret Thatcher always said, "Me, too." any time the Reagan Administration said it would do anything to Russia. Please note that it hasn't changed very much. What of the Stinger missile "sting" in Florida and the "I agree and support the U.S." in Panama this past December? Both governments are party to the secret nuclear war plan in complete betrayal of the people of their respective countries, and on the evening of April 3 they suddenly discovered that their precious war plan was in deep, deep yogurt, I believe you call it—amongst other terms.

Immediately the Thatcher government started assembling a naval armada to sail for the South Atlantic. Haste was their order of the day. The drilling on South Georgia Island was proceeding around the clock. The best estimates were that the drilling would break through into the roof of the of the naval base in about three weeks, on or about April 24—but it is a very long drive from England to Antarctica on the best of ships. If help did not reach South Georgia by then, the secret installation might be doomed. The forces stationed at the installation itself were unable to defend themselves under the circumstances. Their mighty naval ships were ships in a bottle. They did not dare open the bottle to sail out and fight because the Russian commandos were armed with far superior technical and nuclear weapons. (Who do you think might be the closest allies to the Nazi undercover workers?) We are talking about ones who do not care greatly for the Jewish element, much less the Zionist-affiliated Jews. To open the blast-proof entrance doors would be suicide.

On April 5, just two days after South Georgia Island was seized, some 40 naval ships began moving out of British ports. The same day Lord Carrington was sacked as Foreign Minister. He was forced to resign because he had assisted the Rockefeller attack plan by downplaying the Argentine attack preparations. Even the evil don't have any way to count on their own.

That same day, April 5, New Zealand, the home of the other secret naval fleet, broke diplomatic relations with Argentina. The two hidden New Zealand facilities had been placed on "Red Alert" (no pun intended). As a precautionary measure, all submarines at the twin base were ordered to sea. Several surface ships were already at sea undergoing "sea trials", but that still left seven major ships inside the hidden twin naval base including one of the nuclear aircraft carriers.

On that busy day of April 5, Argentina's Foreign Minister, Costa Mendez, was at the United Nations in New York. Come on, readers, go look it all up in the records—don't just stand off and accuse me of insanity—go look and find for yourselves.

Mendez was alarmed by the deployment of such a large part of the Royal Navy. Costa Mendez hurried to Washington to seek reassurances from certain U.S. officials. Of course he got them!

For the next two weeks or so the news was filled with stories about the allegedly slow movement of the British fleet, while negotiations went on. That was only a cover story. The Royal Navy was actually joining up and paddling as rapidly as possible toward South Georgia Island. If the task force arrived in time to save the secret base, a major battle was likely. The official stories about "slow movement" of the British armada were intended to give a cushion of time for that battle. If need be, the fleet would have several days to retake South Georgia Island, then it could move on to arrive near the Falklands on the announced schedule. In that way the crucial importance of South Georgia Island would be hidden and the big secret preserved.

It was initially expected that advance elements of the British fleet would reach the vicinity of South Georgia Island within two weeks. That would have been soon enough to attack the joint Rockefeller-Russian commando team and stop the drilling before it was completed. But Russian Cosmospheres and submarines made a shambles of the plan.

A KEY SHIP DESTROYED

Key advance elements of the South Georgia attack contingency left Ascension Island early April 14, two days before it was announced officially. Shortly after they did so, they ran into trouble. Russian Cosmospheres and attack submarines closed in on a single ship which was critical to the planned counterassault on South Georgia Island. The Cosmospheres bombarded the bridge and combat information center of the ship with neutron radiation. In moments the ship was without any command, its communications and radar silenced. Then a Russian "sub" closed in and quickly finished off this key British ship with torpedoes. It broke apart with secondary explosions and sank rapidly. So far as was known, there were no survivors.

That unexpected shock in the mid-Atlantic produced two results, both very important: First, it caused a slowdown in the race toward the South Atlantic by the British armada. The task force had to be regrouped into a configuration better suited for an enroute defense, but that cost valuable time. Public announcements from London about the progress of the fleet reflected the slowdown. The timetable for arrival on battle stations near the Falklands started stretching out longer and longer. All this bought extra time for the joint commando team on South Georgia Island. And so the drilling continued.

The other result of the sinking was equally important. Word was flashed to the South Pacific Stealth navy to prepare for possible action. It was obvious that the Russian Navy was getting involved in the Atlantic, which meant that the Royal Navy could be in big trouble. During the dead of night, early April 15, the seven Stealth ships put to sea from their twin secret bases in southern

New Zealand. They deployed to a secret operational headquarters area in the Antipodes Islands, 450 miles southeast of New Zealand. Their electromagnetic shields were operating to provide protection from attack. These shields make it impossible to communicate with the outside world or even to see it. But once they arrived at the Antipodes, the Stealth ships hooked up to buoys equipped with shielded communication cables to the Island headquarters. The Island headquarters, in turn, was in constant touch with the South Georgia base by way of a transoceanic cable around the tip of South America. The deployment of the available ships of the South Pacific Stealth fleet was exactly what the joint Rockefeller-Russian planners had hoped for. The ships had been flushed out from their essentially invulnerable hiding place in New Zealand!

The British ship's sinking of April 14 was also followed by other events. On April 15 the Argentine Navy started moving out of port. The same day, Alexander Haig arrived again in Buenos Aires. Supposedly he was there as a diplomat, but in reality he was there as a General, dealing with Generals. Haig was the top Governmental operative of the Rockefeller cartel. He was making sure that the Argentines did not get cold feet and back down at that critical moment. Four days later, April 19, Haig left for Washington. As he boarded his plane, Haig somberly told reporters, "Time is running out." And so it was, my friends, for the secret South Georgia base. We shall also have a lot more to say about General Haig in future writings.

NOT EXACTLY A DRY HOLE

The very next day, April 20, the drill broke through into the hollowed-out cavern of the naval base. Bolshevik military analysts in London had not expected that it could be completed until at least the following weekend. The British fleet was still out of range.

THE WEAPON WHICH THE COMMANDO TEAM INSERTED DOWN THROUGH THE LONG HOLE WAS A SMALL, COMPACT RUSSIAN NEUTRON BOMB. When it was detonated inside the confines of the huge artificial cave, the effects were, of course, totally devastating. The intense radiation instantly killed everyone inside the base. Also the heat and blast effects of the bomb are believed to have damaged all of the ships inside sufficiently to badly disable them.

Meanwhile, Russian Cosmospheres and submarines were converging on the Stealth ships which were near the Antipodes Islands awaiting orders. From a distance, the ships were invisible to the eye due to their protective shields, which also protect against beam-weapon attack; but they were sitting ducks for the tactics which the Russians employed.

THE COUP-DE-GRACE

Floating overhead, the Cosmospheres located the seven ships using their Psychoenergetic Range-Finding equipment known as PRF. There is no method known by which PRF can be jammed. The Cosmospheres radioed the exact locations of the ships to the attack submarines. The "subs" were armed with special non-homing, non-nuclear torpedoes designed to explode on impact. More sophisticated torpedos would have been thrown off course or detonated prematurely by the protective shield of each ship; but these simple torpedoes just cruise right through each invisibility field to strike the ship and explode. Within 15 minutes after the attack began, all seven Bolshevik Stealth ships were on their way to the bottom, and with them went their Bolshevik Commanders and mercenary crews collected from around the world.

The South Pacific action took place just after sunset local time. The time in Washington was around 2:00 P.M. April 23. That evening Secretary of State Haig was seen briefly in public with the new British Foreign Minister, Francis Pym. Pym was wearing the typical artificial pseudo-smile which diplomats are taught always to display in public. But not Haig. Haig was grinning from ear to ear—and no wonder. The joint Rockefeller-Russian military operation had been a brilliant success. The secret Bolshevik South Atlantic fleet had been virtually wiped out, bottled up inside South Georgia Island; and the South Pacific fleet, while not totally wiped out, had been badly crippled. By working together, the Rockefeller cartel and the Russians had won the secret naval war of the Southern Hemisphere.

Dharma, you are too fatigued to continue today, so let us leave this for now. We will discuss the ensuing Rockefeller fear campaign against nuclear war when we resume. Thank you for your service and blessings unto you dear ones. Rest well and we shall resume tomorrow morning. Good evening.

Hatonn present in the Light of the Radiant One. May we please continue on our work. I would request that this Journal be finished and ready for printing by mid-month. It is better to update the material in additional Journals than to either overload by quantity or allow to lag in current information. These Journals, at this time, are mostly for integration and insight into that which is known. We are setting the record straight regarding Space Command and participation within your atmosphere and disqualifying those stories which are in error regarding Space Brothers. It is necessary that the Journals get out rapidly, for efforts are strengthening to stop Dharma. After the facts are integrated to great extent, then we can give her a bit of rest. We must, however, show you ones that your dangers are not from Space Aliens but most surely from two or three major elements on your own planet.

No, it is not pretty and it is all but impossible for you to believe that such mammoth secrets could be kept from you; however, just as with the death camps of the Allies (specifically the U.S) after W.W.II, we believe it will begin to soak through to you ones that the truth is far stranger than any of your surface lies. It is indeed easy to cover up any action if your media is totally controlled as is yours.

We will honor all the brave and daring ones who have brought forth information and have been “taken out” because of it. At this time, however, we honor them but protect them, for these are indeed recent events and families are at risk. May you the public respect and honor those ones, for they gave their very lives for your freedom. Thank you.

Let us continue with the wrap-up of the Falkland Islands War and discuss the ensuing Rockefeller fear campaign against nuclear war.

CAMPAIGN AGAINST NUCLEAR WAR BY THE ROCKEFELLER CARTEL

At the point of June 1982 it would appear that war of a major size was about to break out in the Southern Hemisphere, but the real war in the Southern Hemisphere was already over. What you witnessed was the beginning of its bloody aftermath. That aftermath was the battle for the Falkland Islands. They had been promised to Argentina as a reward for her role in the secret war.

As things were happening in the Antarctic area the Bolsheviks were in Washington D.C. pressing for a public announcement that the U.S. would side with Britain. As soon as that would take place, military action would heat up quickly around the Falkland Islands. Britain had no choice but to fight. She had already suffered casualties which could not be explained without a public battle; but by fighting, the Bolsheviks in Britain were running the risk of a humiliating and tragic defeat for the Royal Navy.

Meanwhile “back at the ranch”, the Rockefeller strategists in the U.S. were concentrating on a fast-building, anti-nuclear-war campaign. On all sides you were hearing about the so-called “nuclear freeze movement”. There were documentaries, articles, publicity of all kinds to sensitize you to the terrors of nuclear war. There were even referenda popping up on election ballots dealing with the nuclear war issue. Medical doctors were banding together to warn the public about what would happen if there would be a nuclear war.

You were being told that all this was just popping up spontaneously. You were then into 37 years of the nuclear age and nothing like that had ever gained so much momentum before, yet you were supposed to believe that millions of Americans had spontaneously gotten the same ideas at the same time. If you believe that, my friends, I give up! Movements like that never, NEVER, develop without leadership, organization, and money—PLENTY OF MONEY! But can you see a bit further now? If you can pick up the momentum now, you can make great changes to care for your population. Truth and knowledge can most surely preserve what freedom is left to you and bring you into a safety survival mode. Ponder it as we continue.

What you were watching at that time was the Rockefeller public relations machine at work. The Rockefeller cartel could not afford to let a nuclear war take place. If it did, they would lose everything because they were not in a position to control it. Instead, the deadly enemies of the Rockefeller cartel, the Bolsheviks in the U.S., would win out if there was a war; and so the Rockefeller faction was then doing everything in its power to prevent a nuclear war.

Therefore, the then present anti-nuclear-war orientation of the Rockefeller cartel created certain temporary common interests between them and Russia; but as Russia’s new rulers knew very well, this did not spring from any great moral perspective on the part of the Rockefeller group. It was a purely practical necessity.

The Russians regarded the United States as a house divided, and they were exploiting that division by working in a careful way with the Rockefellers. Their first priority was to rid the world of the deadly Bolshevik menace of all-out, even suicidal, nuclear war; but once that was done, they knew that there would be a day of reckoning with the Rockefeller cartel some day. And, brothers, you are seeing it coming down in Europe this very day!

The Rockefeller group was working toward a definite objective with their new anti-nuclear-war propaganda. That objective was renewed power—and power that moves them closer to their old dream of World Government. The Bolsheviks in the U.S. had unwittingly provided fertile ground for the powerful new Rockefeller anti-war campaign. Under Bolshevik control, the so-called Reagan Administration had become so hawkish that it was scaring people. The Rockefeller anti-war campaign was designed to capitalize on that latent fear as a tool of power.

The smell of war was in the air. The Falklands crisis was helping to make that more intense. The Rockefeller propaganda machine was paving the way for the argument that surrender of sovereignty was the only way to avoid war. A new super-United Nations of sorts was put into the works to fill the bill. It would have teeth! As then envisioned, the new organization would be based in Geneva, Switzerland. The working name would be “World Nonproliferation Council”. The plan was to bring it into being as the outgrowth of nuclear nonproliferation treaties, but its true purpose would be to use fear—the fear of war—to control you all.

SUMMARY

The Falkland Islands crisis erupted because of secret Bolshevik-controlled naval installations in the Southern Hemisphere. Those were attacked by joint action of the Rockefeller cartel and the Russians in an attempt to slow down the nuclear-war timetable. The attacks were successful, but the results are still not totally conclusive. It did not go as expected because General Haig was fired and the planned nuclear war was averted by simply bringing the truth to public attention and the perpetrators feared mass rioting from you the people. PUBLIC KNOWLEDGE, TRUTH AND REFUSAL TO ACCEPT THESE KINDS OF ACTION CARRY A MAGNIFICENT IMPACT, FOR THE ELITE ARE NOT READY TO DEFEND AGAINST “YOU THE PEOPLE” IN THEIR OWN DOORYARDS—YET! WHEN THEY CONFISCATE ALL YOUR DEFENSE WEAPONS, I.E. GUNS—THEN THEY WILL DO AS THEY PLEASE AND YOU CAN DO NOTHING ABOUT IT! OPEN YOUR EYES AND SEE THE WRITING ON THE WALL. SO BE IT.

Britain’s Royal Navy took a tremendous bombardment in that “little” war. No reports were given as to that fact, but the return to England was delayed just to patch and repair sufficiently to keep the secret closeted.

Two major factions were struggling for control over your United States—the Rockefeller cartel and the Bolsheviks. They differ in style but both seek to control you through fear. If you are ever to rise above their trickery, it must be through the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, your only hope. As the recognized scriptures pronounce unto you, your Lord “... has not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.” You must learn to wage peace. For your Lord declared long, long ago, “Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the sons of God.” Peace can only be found through the knowledge of TRUTH THROUGH THE WORD! THE FIRST IDENTIFICATION OF GOD WAS GIVEN RIGHT OFF THE BAT—“I AM THE WORD”! FURTHER, IN REVELATION: “THEN I SAW HEAVEN OPENED AND A WHITE HORSE STANDING THERE; AND THE ONE SITTING ON THE HORSE WAS NAMED ‘FAITHFUL AND TRUE’—

THE ONE WHO JUSTLY PUNISHES AND MAKES WAR. HIS EYES WERE LIKE FLAMES, AND ON HIS HEAD WERE MANY CROWNS. A NAME WAS WRITTEN ON HIS FOREHEAD AND ONLY HE KNEW ITS MEANING. HE WAS CLOTHED IN GARMENTS DIPPED IN BLOOD, AND HIS TITLE WAS 'THE WORD OF GOD'. THE ARMIES OF HEAVEN, DRESSED IN FINEST LINEN, WHITE AND CLEAN, FOLLOWED HIM ON WHITE HORSES— (AND SILVER CLOUDS)!!!!!!!

Dharma, let us close this portion, for I believe we have begun the cycle of curiosity whereby ones will seek and see. The details of THE PLAN will be forthcoming but man must first be ready to hear.

I will add a postscript to this Journal, for I wish ones to realize that since our projection of the war crimes by the U.S., OTHER LOSSES and prior books such as UFOs: NAZI SECRET WEAPON? there has been a tremendous flood of eye-witnesses coming from the hiding places to confirm as eye-witnesses to the truth of our writings. Bless them, for they are precious unto God for their stand for truth and their fellow-man!

The postscript will only detail the last item sent unto your attention: from THE SPOTLIGHT. Thank you for this document and we reprint it here in honor of their daring stand. That "paper" dared to comment on the book OTHER LOSSES and now dares to print other stories. The headlines of the issue to which we refer reads: "CIA & MOB TIED TO THRIFT MESS, Immense Scandal Unfolding!" Yes, we will comment on that and further, we will honor and back the truth-bringers immediately and all the way! So be it and Selah!

Let us close of this document, for we have reached a breaking point in the prior story but we shall now continue with one volume upon another as we lay out the current connections supported by the historical. Thank you for your attention and God be with you—as you become PEOPLE OF THE TRUTH instead of PEOPLE OF THE LIE! AMEN.

WAR CRIMES BY U.S. CONFIRMED

[QUOTING "EYEWITNESS REPORT ON IKE'S DEATH CAMPS": Honor to THE SPOTLIGHT writer, Mike Blair:]

Since Canadian author James Bacque's blockbuster book OTHER LOSSES has been published in Canada and West Germany (after being turned down by at least 30 U.S. publishers), both German and American eyewitnesses have come forward confirming the book's grisly details.

OTHER LOSSES is a highly authoritative and well-documented account of the deliberate murder by starvation, disease and exposure of some 1 million German POWs at the close of World War II at the direction of the supreme Allied commander in Europe, Gen. Dwight David Eisenhower.

The title of the book was taken from a file, "Headquarters/U.S. Forces/European Theater/G-1 Division", culled from the U.S. National Archives in Washington by Bacque. German POWs, including old men and boys in their early teens, who had died in American POW camps, were listed as "other losses".

Bacque, whose book is creating a sensation in the United States despite the author's failure to find a publisher in this country to print it, recently stated that "over 1,000 survivors of those death camps" have written to him confirming the book's revelations about the heinous Eisenhower-directed death camps.

[Hatonn: Our publisher is in touch with the author, etc. of this daring book and it will be brought forth also through this source. It can also be gotten presently from THE SPOTLIGHT who dares to offer it in the face of the direct threats—and you thought Salman Rushdie had problems from the Iranians! Yes, dear ones, right here in your U.S.A. Threats and active attempts to stop Dharma are constant. PLEASE open of thine eyes and ears—you dear ones are in tremendous trouble.]

In addition, following the Spotlight's reports concerning Bacque's findings (SPOTLIGHT, Feb. 12 and others) and an interview with the author on Tom Valentine's Radio Free America nightly talk show on January 11, more witnesses to the atrocities have come forward.

[Hatonn: I sincerely hope that all you readers remember that an entire Radio Talk Show out of Las Vegas was devoted to attempting to wipe out The Phoenix Journals as the "biggest hoax of all times". Would it not appear that such attack must indicate a very large secret coverup which we are greatly hurting? Pray constantly, please, for the daring humans who walk in constant danger to bring this information unto you—the people who are about to lose your very lives through the most heinous plans on your planet.]

HORRIBLE ODOR: "I smelled the place two or three miles before I got there," is how Ben H. Jackson of St. Clair, Missouri, described one of the camps he visited along the Rhine River near Koblenz.

"We were not supposed to keep diaries," Jackson, who was a member of a U.S. P-47 fighter-bomber group, told THE SPOTLIGHT, "so I am uncertain about the date—early in 1945—but I was told that I could go to see some executions. I didn't care for that, but I went to the barbed wire enclosure with the prisoners standing around some bonfires, in the mud.

"It was cold and misty, and I saw nothing in the way of shelter but assumed that this was a very temporary arrangement. Hearsay was that there were 80,000 POWs, also that 30 to 40 were dying each day, which didn't seem unreasonable considering their numbers."

Former U.S. Army 2nd Lt. Arthur W. Von Fange, now of Syracuse, Indiana, related to THE SPOTLIGHT a terrible account of encountering about a dozen locked railroad cars, each built for eight horses or 40 men, that were parked at a siding near the city of Remagen, site of the famous bridge over the Rhine River that was captured by U.S. forces in early March 1945.

FILLED WITH POWS: From shouts and cries coming from the cars, which were sealed off by barbed wire and guarded by U.S. troops. Von Fange is certain that the railroad cars were filled with German POWs being transported to some camp.

Meanwhile they were kept locked in the cars at the siding, the Sun beating down on the roofs. They were given neither food nor water. They were at the siding, Von Fange explained, for "several days".

U.S. officials in the area claimed that the cars contained riotous Black Senegalese troops, who had been fighting the Germans while allied with French troops. However, Von Fange stated that this was "just a cover story".

GERMAN SURVIVORS: Some of the reports now surfacing from German survivors of the death camps add further evidence to support Bacque's gruesome findings.

Here are some examples: "I, too, was in one of those massive camps on the Rhine, in Ludwigshafen Rheingoenheim, from late April to early June 1945," Heinz Merkel, now of Gaggenau, Baden Wuerttemberg, explained. "I can confirm everything that was told about the camp. I wondered at the time why food was not being provided at all. But I never dreamed that there was a deliberate effort being made to that end, at the top.

"I am sadly disillusioned. For me, who was 18 years of age at the time, my world collapsed since I had been brought up in an anti-Nazi spirit, and for that reason had completely different expectations from the other side."

Albrecht Henke of Lueneburg, Niedersachsen, stated: "I was also one of the countless thousands of German prisoners in the Kreuznach camp. It was the most horrible time of my life. One day a kind, small girl came up to the fence of the camp with a basket of potatoes for the prisoners. The guard came down from his tower and took the basket.

"Grinning widely, he threw the potatoes into a large latrine and reveled to see how the prisoners, who were half-crazed from lack of food, fished the potatoes out of the _____.

"Many found a hideous death losing their balance and falling into the trench out of weakness while defecating. They suffocated in the _____."

A DEATH CAMP: Rudolf Binder of Freiburg explained: "I arrived in 'Bad Kreuznach', which can be characterized without further ado as a death camp, on May 1, 1945.

"Gradually over 100,000 men were gathered there," Binder continued. "During the first four days, there was absolutely nothing to eat. On the fifth day, we received raw potatoes that the German populace had collected. We ate them raw and got diarrhea. After that, once or twice a day, we got a watery soup with some turnip scraps. We also ate the green leaves that grew on the barbed wire fence.

"The guards in the towers fired on everyone who lingered in the vicinity of the fence, regardless. On Pentecost, we got bread, which had to be divided into 25 parts, for the first time. I was 24 years old at the time and relatively healthy, although completely undernourished. All day long orderlies fetched the dead out of the camp in stretchers—about 200 a day."

Bernhard Gildemann of Wolfsberg explained: "From late April 1945, I was in the notorious U.S. death camp in Rheinberg and was an eyewitness to the daily mass deaths. We would have perished had not the camp been taken over by the English in June 1945. I shall be thankful to the Brits to the end of my life for the fair treatment they gave us."

Nor was the policy of starvation that the defeated German people suffered confined to just the military.

"Well into 1946," Bacque recently wrote, "the Red Cross was prevented from helping any Germans. Over 13 million food parcels taken by the Army from the Red Cross were still unused in U.S. Army warehouses in November 1945, according to the Adjutant Section of UFSET in November 1945."

Bacque continues that "millions of German civilians had fled West to escape the Russians." He explains further that "it was agreed policy of the Allies to expel from their homes over 15 million Germans, chiefly women and children. Wandering the roads of Eastern Europe, they died in droves. More than 2 million died, while the U.S. Army was both sending food out of Germany and preventing others from sending it in.”

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy military governor of U.S.-occupied Germany, said: “In July 1945, the ration for the normal consumers was set at levels varying from 950 to 1,150 calories per day. This allowance was only about half the caloric content deemed essential by nutritional experts to support a working population....

“Actually only about 950 calories per day were distributed,” Clay admitted.

Yes, I will get around to giving you a book report on OTHER LOSSES; it lays here beside the scribe. But she, too, is a patriotic American person and finds these revelations almost too much to bear—especially in the penning thereof, so we must be gentle. Yes, you are in for some more horrendous revelations as we move on. The traitors have slipped into your very national joints. Your free body is warped and diseased with it as they have put you into a coma of all but helpless extent.

Will you awaken your masses unto the truth in time? I cannot say! “They” have rewritten your Constitution and are placing portions of rewritten confusion within each new printing thereof. Your entire income tax system is 100% unlawful and unconstitutional—you have all but achieved a total police state. I am sorry to bring this information unto you, and for those who shout at me that we spread fear and panic—ISN’T IT ABOUT TIME YOU SPENT A BIT OF TIME IN FEAR AND PANIC ABOUT THE TRUTH OF IT INSTEAD OF THE DRIVEL YOU ARE DAILY FED?

PLEASE DO NOT ASK THAT OUR SCRIBES AND DARING AUTHORS WHO BRING TRUTH CONTINUE TO FALL BY THE BEAM-BLASTS OF THE CONSPIRACY IN YOUR BEHALF. PLEASE STAND FORTH WITH THEM—FOR IF YOU SO DO, YOU CAN CHANGE OF IT SIMPLY BY KNOWING TRUTH AND STANDING FIRM. YOUR CONSTITUTION IS NOT YET DEAD BUT THE JUDICIAL SYSTEM NO LONGER CARRIES JUSTICE BUT IT IS NOT TOO LATE TO SALVAGE THE GOODNESS REMAINING IF YOU ACT NOW! GOD WILL NOT LEAVE YOU IN YOUR JOURNEY IN LIGHT AND TRUTH—NEVER! SO BE IT, I BEG THAT YE HEAR OF MY PETITION UNTO YOU.

GOD BLESS AND KEEP YOU THROUGH THIS JOURNEY

REC #1 HATONN

MON., APR. 2, 1990 7:30 A.M. YEAR 3 DAY 229

AFTERGLOW!

As this Journal closes there are several things which you must seriously consider. Are you daring enough to “find out truth” or are you to ever remain the recliner quarterback? You were given, by Creator, a thinking, reasoning mind which sets you aside from all other creatures. You have bad news coming—your scientists tell you that you use less than 10 percent of that mind. BAD NEWS! YOU USE LESS THAN 2 PERCENT OF THAT WONDROUS MIND!

As a closing thought for you to ponder and research, let me give you something upon which to chew and see if you are ready for the truths you claim to seek and desire.

U.S.-JAPANESE INVESTMENTS AND OTHER THINGS WONDROUS

I have given you all the facts you need to KNOW what has happened. You ones continually badger me with “when” will the new currency come forth, when must I be in Gold and T-Bills, “when” must I have my shelter system and on and on!—YESTERDAY OR YEAR BEFORE LAST! It is getting hot in the kitchen, chelas.

Months ago we outlined the problem of economic collapse and depression. We pointed out to you that only a few countries had to default in debt payments to the U.S. and the World Bank and they would fold up the world economy.

Let me point out a couple of things you might have overlooked. 1) Mexico is a tremendous problem to your economy—nicely planned and orchestrated. All Mexico’s resources are collateral against the loans. Last year Mexico had to be coerced into ACCEPTING a $3 billion loan from your Fed and the World Bank to carry it another 12 months. Well, the secret was that the new President of Mexico, Carlos Salinas de Gortari, had figured out a way to meet Mexico’s debt obligations, met with ones we know very well to proceed with such, and was stopped by pressures. Well, he was newly elected and couldn’t fight the system on such short notice and keep his head (literally) so he accepted the Bank loans.

This year the World Bank is trying to “force” him to accept a $2 billion loan to be shored up by other banks, to again go deeper into the pit through coercion. You see, he knows that he can go to Japan, who is already very, very active in Mexico, and get the money with certificates of deposit at very good rates of interest, start a good business foundation in addition and thus and so. Now what clue might you be getting?

BRAZIL

Now here is another goodly country to your South who also has a massive debt of over $115 billion. They have put up their collateral of Amazon Gold, oil and other precious resources to the U.S. and World Bank and sit and watch their Rain Forest be devastated by the Conspiracy. Ah—but...

Headline (very small indeed): “COUNTRY FOR SALE: A group of Japanese businessmen (Bishimetal Corp. Ltd., a subsidiary of Japanese conglomerate Mitsubishi Metal Corp.) is working out arrangements to buy Brazil’s entire $115 billion foreign debt in exchange for mining rights over gold deposits in the Amazon, reportedly worth about $260 billion”.

Oh my goodness, what might that do to the Conspirators’ plans for having Brazil?

The Japanese are also negotiating with Saudi Arabia and they are putting up massive joint-venture installations with Russia—what could it mean? Is there no end to the wealth of this wondrous little oriental country of only 145,856 sq. miles (slightly smaller than your state of California)? Further, they do massive amounts of shipping etc., out of Greece and other points in Europe, Asia and Africa. They only have about 123,231,000 population and they worship God and honor a Master Christos, Buddha. Nice, hardworking people who are industrious and who only have a per-capita income, according to last known figures, of somewhere around $10,000 or slightly above. That would amount to about 1,420,500 yen (the exchange runs usually about 142 to $1 U.S.). It is of no consequence if our figures are somewhat maladjusted.

The Japanese have also poured tons of money into Australia and New Zealand and simply all over your globe.

The published figures show that Japan owns over 40 percent of the debt of the United States of America. The facts are that they own more than 60 percent. They all but own Hawaii and buildings, orchards, farms, wind-electric farms, banks, auto manufacturing facilities—all right in the good old U.S.A.

BACK ON THE U.S.A. MONEY-FARM

The “big boys” have been trying to get a currency change in for a decade. The printing is all done and the presses are fully operational (even the big secret ones). They have proffered unto you dear ones that you need to stop the criminal counterfeiting operations of the underworld when everyone knows (by their own statements) that there is no value in counterfeiting, for the money is in drug dealing. Your government has tried to phase out $100s and $50s—they did phase out $1000 bills—all to stop that nasty drug traffic which they set up in the first place.

Do you begin to see that you MUST HAVE A WAR OF SOME SORT? You must have a distraction just like a Falklands crisis to allow regulatory control and thus and so. But—what about the rock and hard-place? Japan doesn’t want you to change any of that pretty green stuff—why would that be? Wouldn’t the government just give them equal value in pretty rainbow-colored, updated notes? WAKE UP!

REMINDERS FOR MIND AND THOUGHT FOOD

Remember those German bases in the Antarctic? Remember all that lovely green money which purchased Argentina? Remember those U-boats offloading “weapons” at the end of the war in Japan? Remember the alliance of Germany and Japan? Remember all those set-ups you are just now learning about? Do you remember I told you about the British having to take off the 5-pound note because of the perfection of German counterfeiting? Do you also remember the lake recovery of the trunks full of those notes? Do you remember that the most beautifully done counterfeit plates that Germany had made were lovely dollars in all denominations? Oh, I see, the light beginning to flicker—come on, let us brighten it a bit.

The coup-de-grace has been landed. YOU HAVE BEEN BOUGHT OUT, SOLD OUT AND DRIED OUT WITH YOUR OWN MONEY AND THERE IS NOT ONE THING THAT THE BIG BOYS CAN DO ABOUT IT SHORT OF TOTAL NUCLEAR WORLD WAR! THAT, TOO, SHALL COME. SO BE IT. THE COUNTERFEITED DOLLARS IN ALL DENOMINATIONS ARE COMPLETELY NEGOTIABLE IN PERFECTION AND—BECAUSE CONTRACTS WERE MADE AND IT ALL BEGAN IN TOTAL AGREEMENT WITH YOUR CONSPIRATORS—IT IS A PROBLEM INDEED! TO STOP THE FLOW MEANS TO ALSO STOP THE FLOW OF FOREIGN AID, REVEAL THE SECRET WEAPONS, THE SECRET UNDERGROUND SURVIVAL BUNKERS FOR THE ELITE, THE BASES IN SPACE, THE SUPERIOR RUSSIAN WEAPONS WHICH TOTALLY CONTROL THE HEAVENS AS YOU SEE THEM AND WHAT ELSE MIGHT BE LURKING THERE? THE HOUSE OF CARDS WOULD TUMBLE LIKE CHAFF IN THE WINDS. FURTHER, THE JAPANESE KNOW THAT THEIR LITTLE ISLAND IS DESTINED TO SHAKE, RATTLE AND ROLL RIGHT BACK INTO THE SEA WHEN MT.

FUGI “REALLY” BLOWS—WHERE BETTER TO LIVE AND GROW THAN IN WONDROUS CALIFORNIA OR NEW YORK, BRAZIL OR NEBRASKA?

WHO SHALL HAVE THE LAST LAUGH, CHELAS?

FURTHER, IF YOU OF THE MASSES HANDLE YOURSELVES MOST CAREFULLY AND GRACIOUSLY, YOU WILL HAVE THE FUNDS YOU NEED TO STAND AGAINST THE CONSPIRACY AND RECLAIM YOUR NATION UNDER GOD.

SO BE IT AND SELAH!

Now, just before leaving you to ponder and meditate in your state of shock (you have been testing of old Hatonn to give you something new and wondrous to chew, haven't you? You have been pronouncing mine scribe a phoney and filled with evil fear mongering, haven't you?) So be it, I suggest you allow the above to fully digest and then, read on, for I want to give you another factual item. I shall preserve the identity of the author of the next (for the above has not been written—anywhere), for the “grey men” have already given him a heart attack and are efforting to kill him to shut him up. I publish this reprint herein to give him support—the beam-system cannot penetrate the balanced counter shield of Light force about this scribe and believe me, they have tried every frequency they can conjure. She is vulnerable but not from the systems which would appear “natural causes”. Be so advised—if she dies, it is pure and simple “murder”.

HOW ABOUT YOUR POLICE-STATE IRS AND THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S. AND INCOME TAX?

[QUOTING:]

Because of the protection accorded all Americans by the U.S. Constitution, it is impossible to establish an effective and legal individual income tax affecting citizens in this country. However, the sections of the U.S. internal revenue code dealing with income taxes are written so cleverly and deceitfully that the great majority of the American people believe these taxes are at least potentially required under law to be paid by everyone in the private sector, as well as in the public sector, and that everyone must file an income tax return.

It occurs to me that all judges, bureaucrats, prosecuting attorneys and members of Congress should be asked the following:

How is it that the government apparatus can levy and collect an income tax from almost all U.S. citizens when there is no authority to do so under the very law which governs it? How is it that the statute technically observes the Constitution while those given the chore of enforcing it violate it by their procedures?

If anyone can obtain a definite answer to these questions, he is more persuasive than anyone I know.

The code lists those employees who are subject to withholding in Section 3401(c) “an officer, employee, and elected official of the United States, a state, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.” (How many of those categories do YOU fit?)

Notice that the wording here—as throughout the IR code—makes it obvious that the term ‘United States’ has reference only to the general government and never to the union of the states. Sec. 6331(a) lists those whose property or income may be seized if income taxes are NOT paid. For the most part, those mentioned are the same as in 3401(c) (above). This makes it clear that the pay of the employees of a government unit is the only category of income subject to withholding or seizure.

Interestingly enough, this involves only funds still in the hands of government. IN SHORT, MONEY THAT HAS PASSED TO AN EMPLOYEE IS IMMUNE TO SEIZURE!

The Constitution itself definitely limits the jurisdiction of the United States. Article II, Sec. 8, clause 16 states that “CONGRESS SHALL EXERCISE EXCLUSIVE LEGISLATION IN ALL CASES WHATSOEVER OVER SUCH DISTRICT [OF COLUMBIA] (NOT EXCEEDING TEN MILES SQUARE) AS MAY, BY CESSION OF PARTICULAR STATES, AND THE ACCEPTANCE OF CONGRESS, BECOME THE SEAT OF THE GOVERNMENT OF THE UNITED STATES AND TO EXERCISE AUTHORITY OVER ALL PLACES PURCHASED BY THE CONSENT OF THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE IN WHICH THE SAME SHALL BE FOR THE ERECTION OF FORTS, MAGAZINES, ARSENALS, DOCK-YARDS, AND OTHER NEEDED BUILDINGS.” (Do you find yourself here?)

Jurisdiction is NOT GRANTED to the general government over any other territory, but is accorded to the states in which it is located.

Sec. 61(a) lists 15 categories of income subject to taxation; however, neither wages nor salaries are mentioned, which seems to imply that even the pay received by government employees or those living in the District of Columbia is not subject to withholding or seizure.

NO POWER TO ENFORCE COLLECTIONS:

The code does not definitely say that incomes of ordinary citizens are immune to taxation; BUT SINCE THESE ARE NOT SUBJECT TO WITHHOLDING OR SEIZURE, IT IS OBVIOUS THAT THE GOVERNMENT, ACCORDING TO ITS OWN STATUTE, HAS NO POWER TO ENFORCE INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS AGAINST THEM.

THUS, BY TRICKERY AND DECEIT, AN ELABORATE TAX CODE HAS BEEN PREPARED WHICH TECHNICALLY OBSERVES CONSTITUTIONAL PROHIBITIONS AND PROTECTIONS, BUT THE ENFORCEMENT OF WHICH VIOLATES THE CONSTITUTION IN VARIOUS WAYS. WE HAVE, THEREFORE, A PECULIAR, SELF-CONTRADICTORY DOCUMENT, BEYOND HUMAN UNDERSTANDING.

Since no personal (meaning individual) income tax can effectively be in harmony with the Constitution, we find, among others, the following violations:

1) IT REQUIRES TAXPAYERS, IN FILING THEIR RETURNS, TO BE WITNESSES AGAINST THEMSELVES, IN VIOLATION OF THE FIFTH AMENDMENT;

2) IN ANY DISPUTE, IT REQUIRES TAXPAYERS TO PROVE THEIR INNOCENCE, ON PAIN OF SEVERE PUNISHMENT, IN VIOLATION OF THE FIFTH AMENDMENT;

3) IT SEIZES PROPERTY WITHOUT DUE PROCESS OF LAW, IN VIOLATION OF THE FIFTH AMENDMENT;

4) IT ARROGATES TO ITSELF LEGISLATIVE, JUDICIAL AND EXECUTIVE POWERS, WHICH IS IN VIOLATION OF THE ENTIRE CONSTITUTION;

5) BY REFUSING A JURY TRIAL EVEN WHEN SUMS FAR IN EXCESS OF $20 ARE IN DISPUTE, IT VIOLATES THE SEVENTH AMENDMENT;

6) BY IMPOSING EXCESSIVE FINES, IT VIOLATES THE EIGHTH AMENDMENT.

Perhaps the only way out of this Constitutional quandary is to realize that these seeming violations apply only to the “taxpayer”. And there is nothing in the code that makes the citizen liable for the tax. One who is not a taxpayer not only does NOT pay the income tax but need not even file a Form 1040. The ONLY WAY FOR A CITIZEN TO BECOME A TAXPAYER IS BY VOLUNTEERING INTO THAT STATUS, THEREBY WAIVING HIS RIGHTS. HOWEVER, THIS FACT IS CAREFULLY HIDDEN BY THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE AND ITS ALLIES!

We have, therefore, an extraordinary anomaly; a system of law which is technically in conformity with the Constitution BUT WHICH IS WORDED IN SUCH A WAY THAT THE GOVERNMENT CAN VIOLATE IT IN MANY WAYS WITH THE TACIT CONSENT OF THE LEGAL PROFESSION, THE MEDIA, OUR WHOLE SYSTEM OF EDUCATION AND THE GENERAL SOCIAL SUPERSTRUCTURE.

[END OF QUOTING]

This year the “conspiracy theory” of note is the conspiracy by the so-called government and its abettors to stampede the U.S. (and world) populace into a fervor to back heavy military action against nations/people not even known to be involved in the 911 disaster. The sword of Armageddon is rattling furiously as the dark cloak of fear is more tightly knitted with the active threat of biological horrors.

To have to ask, in the midst of all this, for financial support from those we respect and cherish the most—our loyal, long-patient readers—is indeed painful to us.

Yet on we march with loving hearts, awaiting the break in gloomy skies, bringing the beautiful light rays to many faithful faces.

These uplifting rays of wisdom shared in our beloved CONTACT will forever be treasured.

WORDS OF WISDOM FROM HATONN

CONTACT OR SPECTRUM?

I want to briefly respond to a most unusual question from a totally "out of the blue" person: "It appears Spectrum will fail, possibly close, so will you go back to writing for CONTACT or what?"

I have never stopped writing for CONTACT—but I have NOT written, nor have my compatriots written for Spectrum. Tails wag a lot of dogs, my friends. Therefore, "or what" has no meaning.
