COMMENTS, OBSERVATIONS
AND "WHAT YOU DON'T NOTICE"

GCH—Please let us begin with the request for my comments on the "Downing of the Shuttle Columbia".
And no, "downing" doesn't mean, necessarily,
naughty games afoot. "Downing" simply MEANS,
"it came down to earth" with a heavy landing after being torn or blown asunder.

Moreover, a LOT of observations are tempered with speculation because at the altitude of the craft and using "earth"-bound cameras, it is very difficult to determine WHAT EXACTLY WAS HAPPENING

OR EVEN WHAT "COULD" BE WITNESSED.

More IMPORTANT, however, is the questionable intelligence of handling ANY space flight in the manner in which this Columbia flight was brought about. Then to claim it to be a simple scientific "journey" for experimenting, again, with weightlessness, etc., when, in this age of advanced technology—there needs BE NO
WEIGHTLESSNESS, you have other points at issue.

Is it actually in good consideration to have had an Israeli scientist aboard with all the attention focused on the trip when such confrontations as are in Earth considerations? This has nothing to do with "an" astronaut—it has everything to do with global politics AND "BEAR BAITING". And NO, I do not refer to the "bear of Russia"—but "bear baiting".

What can be acceptable and appreciated are such trips in a world of peace—not in a world ready to blow other countries off your map! Would a nation or an ally deliberately sacrifice a crew and an OLD ship/craft to make points? Of course; it has been almost common practice—especially in modern

"Zionist" times. This is not an insult to Jewish people—there are more Zionists in the U.S. than in Israel, so let's stop the nonsense in the gossip circles.

COULD the craft have been "brought down" by outside forces? Of course; did we not present a whole plethora of information on scalar beams recently?
Then there is the Tesla "shield", which was also covered so, indeed, a hundred things could have happened and some of them probably did.

I shall be very careful in how I discuss this particular issue because so much of our information is taken out of context or totally "misprinted" as to boggle minds receiving information and trying to relate what is interpreted from what is presented IN HARD FACTUAL PRESENTATION.

I can give an exceptional example as in lately
there seems to be interest in some "tape" recorded in the Philippines with FOUR people present and directed DIRECTLY to those four persons.

We did, however, when it appeared of interest—make available, and it is still available, that tape for any who so much as wanted a listen.

V.K. Durham shouts loudly and widely that somehow I inferred that we were working “without” truth on our side. She then says that it is said that “only V.K. would know the truth!” Indeed? What truth? Does she tell you that she would know that her holdings are a total lie? Well, they ARE! There is no “Holding Trust”; she has NOTHING to do with the Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd., and yet few others, especially in a foreign land would know—BUT V.K. KNEW AND KNOWS TRUTH WHILE ESPOUSING THE LIES AND TWISTING EVERYTHING SHE TOUCHES AIDED AND ABETTED BY HER WORKING COLLEAGUES WHO ARE ALSO INVOLVED IN DIRTY WORK.

She has, in fact, NOW ADMITTED LOUDLY that she is behind the “NESR(A)” WHICH WAS EDITED TO EXPLAIN “NESARA” AND THUS AND SO. Her way around such imbecilic productions now claims that Doris Ekker took over Dove of something or other. This is DISTRACTION and absurd focus in a time when SPACE SHUTTLES ARE BLOWING UP AND WAR LOOMS LIKE THE DAMOCLES’ SWORD.

All anyone has to do is go to source, just check the Nevada corporate records and you will find absolute and factual TRUTH. The same thing will come to pass, if you pay attention, to find exactly what brought down the shuttle craft and WHY. Enjoy your theories and speculations—but look to logic and facts and remember that everything is related to EVERYTHING “else”.

In the Philippines, for instance, it is simply wondered why such a flight would have even been allowed—BUT—the focus here is over the Chinese involvement in the world games and how the U.S. is handling the Asian situation and WHO is pulling the strings.

In Southeast Asia the interest is on such players as Paul Wolfowitz and Richard Armitage. Remember Armitage (of Col. “Bo” Gritz whistle-blowing fame in and within the Golden Triangle of drug trade, you know, Khun Sa in the nation of SHAN)?

Armitage then transferred into the area of the Golden Crescent and now look where he is and what he is doing! And yes, we can give you firsthand news being bandied about here regarding THESE matters as the globe gears up for war, while in the Philippines, for example, the gold is being shipped out as quickly as craft can be brought in to get as much as possible OUT of here. In other countries it is drugs and gold.

Believe what you will, friends, Russia is still POWERFUL and China is even more powerful. In THIS neighborhood guess where the allegiances are going to focus? When your neighbor is in war mode—stray bullets might well fall all over the neighborhood.

This is especially true when “Big Brother” has taunted, insulted and manipulated through force, everyone in the neighborhood.

Facts are, about that shuttle: IT BROKE APART. The only thing to consider is WHY and HOW. You can KNOW that “you” will not be given truth because—be it accident or intentional—there WILL BE COVER-UP, for there ALWAYS “is”. WAS THIS THE SACRIFICIAL LAMB?

We are caused to recall in a prior shuttle launch the pictures, which were taken, by hundreds of viewers, of a blue laser-type ray piercing through the whole scene and emanating, it appeared, FROM THE MOON. So, oh indeed, something and someone is “out there” capable of this kind of havoc, and to pick off a shuttle would not even equate to “target practice”. Or, perhaps the test of your missile shield in the U.S. “failed”.

I mention this outrageous thought because we sit with yesterday’s news in hand which headline reads: “VETERANS: ‘WE WERE USED.’” Testing for biological and chemical weapons was used on military troops as far back as 1961—even on “captive” ships where no escape from the testing was possible. It is just being admitted after these 37 years of hell and bad health for these persons involved.

I also ask that you pay attention to the “Deans” of broadcasting such as W. Cronkite who stumbles around like a tongue-tied schoolboy with Spongi-Brain.

SOMETHING IS CERTAINLY “WRONG” BUT FINDING OUT EXACTLY WHAT IT IS MAY BE A WHILE IN THE COMING.

Will it, as some writers proclaim: “Stop WW III?” now getting under way? Well, you should begin to find out pretty soon now.

My people who lived near Edwards Air Force landing site for shuttle craft coming home were right there and this flight is like nothing they experienced. Moreover, at an altitude claimed to have been established—there is so little atmosphere as to negate much of a “sonic” blast. Landing at Edwards a few miles from the coast in California it is noted that the craft were always quite low and there were always two booms in immediate proximity. But the craft was on “approach”. ABSURD tales are coming out of this landing failure and problems were already “in play”.

Obvious questions are being tossed aside and some ask if the craft, if damaged, could not have entered the space station orbit, docked and be repaired. The answer is “Oh no” it was a long way from that orbit and besides there was no docking capability?

No docking capability? Why not? Hasn’t that craft handled docking or “hook-up” before this flight and is that not “built into” to craft itself? And space walking for a repair job? Are you going to suddenly have had NO WAY for anyone to check on damage from “lift off”? If there was damage could not the “other” shuttle have been launched timely in order to rescue the crew or repair the craft before re-entry? Indeed, lots of things fail to add up to a suitable “bottom line”.

Was GOD making a point? NO, MAN MAKES THESE KINDS OF POINTS—NOT GOD. Space craft AND people are physical THINGS, tampered by MAN. GOD ATTENDS THE SOULS AND ALLOWS!

The dirty culprits can put aside the whole incident by just repeating that the crew “knew the dangers” and chose to accept that danger. Oh well. How many would have been foolish enough to take that ride if they knew in advance they were picked to DIE in the return—especially by clandestine pre-planned means? A suicide committed “by another” is but simple MURDER.

Readers, that craft could have been brought down by bounced beams off any number of higher-orbiting satellites, or even lower-orbiting satellites. Scalar waves have no directional obstructions and can be bounced easily off a moon and right back as a warning beam to a launching craft. They can be curved as easily. They can also be “sprayed” as in a “net” scatter. Mix a prana/scalar wave with a particle beam merger and you have awesome capabilities.

You can further narrow the field of speculation by the fact that you did not witness vaporization of the craft—but a literal “break apart” which even allowed for some human remains to be RECOGNIZED. This was NOT your typical “star-wars” confrontation but rather a very OBVIOUS viewing experiencing.

We can rerun the scalar material if you wish but it is wasteful of time and space. Scientists warned in every way they could fathom but, as with the Encephalopathies, nobody wanted to listen and proclaimed the speakers “nuts”.

What can you do about it now? Not much! But one thing you CAN do is stop the insanity of the scatter of messenger-killing, loose cannons and perhaps there is a prayer’s chance for you as a species.

I can relate this, again, to the V.K. Durham “Holding Trust” that isn’t. How could a couple of “Ekkers” accomplish everything in mere months that nobody else has been able to accomplish in total—yet, INCLUDING HER!

False information is simply a LIE anyway you cut it and to repeat LIES is no “accident”. We can look at Patriotlad’s (V.K.’s stuff, actually) last posting. Again there is reference to Ekkers being (away to the Philippines) in late 1997.

Sorry, the OBVIOUS LIE can’t sell. Ekkers were working WITH V.K. (and probably this “Richard” person) in 1997 and did not go ANYWHERE much further than Bakersfield, California UNTIL AUGUST OF 1998.

Oh well, this is the second presentation of such an “error”. Would not such an “error” be apt to even destroy a space shuttle—a whole year yet? No, there is NO EXCUSE for presenting such erroneous information and little more excuse for YOU believing it.

People trying to bring truth and response to the Rumor Mill groups were simply BANNED from the sites and now are carefully screened to KEEP truth from the unwary site-visitors. This, without even giving information whereat people could do a bit of information-gathering for themselves.

Now they have posted material that APPEARS to have been integrated WITH information about the Clinton’s, seemingly coming from Sherman Skolnick. This is heinous and insipid manipulation, readers. Will Skolnick risk his own reputation to endure such pretenses? Who knows! But we will be quite sure that he would not be informed about any such people as “Ekkers”. They have never played in those playpens. The whole thing is absurd and no thinking person would give his reputation over to such incredibly impossible information.

Yes indeed, there were some very pointed lessons to be learned in that shuttle downing, so please stay tuned as you watch the focus shift and then information be BURIED. We too hope that the space program will not be tossed because of this incident because your only hope of holding your own is to be able to access satellites and have electronic capabilities.

We are amused when Saddam says he can wipe out the U.S. invaders and that the Iraqis are all prepared. Then pictures are shown of “troops” running about the desert in Toyota pickup trucks hither and yon. For some reason, however, he certainly shows no concern. There are more serious problems in North Korea, China, India and certainly Pakistan than can be ever conjured in Iraq. Mel Brooks at work? No, worse: deadly politicians!

I can only urge everyone to use logic and REASON in your considerations as you begin to sort reality from hype and conjecture which only presents sensationalism rather than useful information.

As articles pour in upon your senses like a tidal wave perhaps we can point to some which seem to have better content than others in hopes of finding possibilities rather than just a pile-on of fantasies.

[QUOTING from the San Francisco Chronicle, By David Perlman, Chronicle Science Editor, Sunday, February 2, 2003:]

A San Francisco amateur astronomer who photographs the space shuttles whenever their orbits carry them over the Bay Area has captured five strange, provocative images of the shuttle Columbia just as it was re-entering the Earth's atmosphere before dawn Saturday. The pictures, taken with a Nikon 8 camera on a tripod, reveal what appear to be bright electrical phenomena flashing around the track of the shuttle's passage, but the photographer, who asked not to be identified, will not make them public immediately.

"They clearly record an electrical discharge like a lightning bolt flashing past, and I was snapping the pictures almost exactly when the Columbia may have begun breaking up during re-entry," he said. The photographer invited The Chronicle to view the photos on his computer screen Saturday night, and they are indeed puzzling.

They show a bright, scraggly flash of orange light, tinged with pale purple, and shaped somewhat like a deformed L. The flash appears to cross the Columbia's dim contrail, and at that precise point, the contrail abruptly brightens and appears thicker and somewhat twisted as if it were wobbling.

"I couldn't see the discharge with my own eyes, but it showed up clear and bright on the film when I developed it," the photographer said. "But I'm not going to speculate about what it might be."

[END QUOTING]

I suggest you keep up with this, for it may well hold some important bits of information that can be better identified as to phenomenon possibilities. The next to share is extremely interesting and DOES put information and logic to good use. The more interesting points, however, are made by a party receiving the information from an e-mail:

"...I never thought that there was the possibility of these sorts of weapons other than in imagination of Tesla and engineers... perhaps this is how the little guys can protect themselves? But how far will all those go? Does all this advance in war weaponry mean the end of humankind and the devastation of the planet?"

Perhaps not if POWER itself is not abused. It remains to be seen and I would suppose the only way to assess this is to wait and see who does what NEXT. The comments, now that you might be curious, come in response to the following:

[H: Wouldn't you feel ever so much better if this came from other than Rumor Mill News Reading Room—where all credibility is now defunct? However, it seems Rayelan has enough outlets and scatter to have possibilities. Of course it is difficult to have any of our friends and readers give any credibility at all except that we have recently covered possibilities. Nonetheless, source is damaged in the recent barrage of V.K. Durham disinformation deluging interesting webrooms.]

HIGH PROFILE TARGET MAKES FOR DEVASTATING BLOW

A scalar-burst strike on the U.S. space shuttle Columbia has struck a debilitating preemptive blow to Anglo-American plans for a middle-East takeover.

Psychological warfare tactics were to the fore in continuing pre-conflict skirmishing over the planned

U.S.-UK invasion of the Middle-East. This time the blow was devastating, as the Columbia ran into an electromagnetic 'wall', in the sky over Texas.

[H: Wow, not that "wall" is an assumption with which to reckon! And no, it would not have been a 'wall' over Texas. The laws of physics are not destroyed by prana beams, they are demonstrated ever more clearly and here is where speculation and those with some "authority" presentations can do disservice to "probable cause" and disregard "effect".]

On Saturday 1st February 2003 a scalar Tesla howitzer weapon—aimed at downing the U.S. space shuttle Columbia was phenomenally successful and will leave red faces in the Pentagon.

Despite the media spin of an unfortunate accident, the nature of the crash of Columbia as evident from eyewitness accounts. The telltale sonic boom from the deployment of the weapon was so strong: "It was like a car hitting the house or an explosion. It shook that much," John Ferolito, 60, of Carrollton, north of Dallas, told the Associated Press.

Media reports put the noise down to the effects of the shuttle breakup, but this is clearly spurious. The shuttle was gliding at 203,000 feet. That works out to almost 40 miles. Aircraft-generated sonic booms 40 miles up in super-thin air do not shake homes at ground level. Nor do small debris parts. Just try generating air pressure changes at ground level when 40 miles up, no matter how fast you are going.

Just after a previous shuttle launch in November 1985 a sonic boom occurred over the launch site, after the shuttle had departed. The same effects took place on at least two previous shuttle launches. Scalar expert Tom E. Bearden put these down to testing of the weapons.

The scalar boom effect is caused in a way similar to a thunderstorm. In that case the lightning cleaves apart large masses of air which boom. The scalar weapon can generate a massive version of the same effect. This is not a "beam" weapon like the one used to down the two WTC towers. [H: Wow, really reaching, friends. The Truth would suffice far better and with much more reality in the tower "downings".]

It remotely produces local space-time distortion effects by connecting through the complex plane around which all space-time is wrapped. [H: NO, FOR GOODNESS SAKES, IT DOES NOT AT THIS POINT "DISTORT" TIME OR SPACE.]

MILITARY STRATEGIC CATASTROPHE

Quite how top military brass managed to hang out an irresistibly attractive lure for targeting, remains to be answered. If gross incompetence was the reason, then perhaps their war might better be delayed until the U.S.-UK Axis has some competent military strategic leadership in place.

Let's just recap: First, the shuttle was launched in the middle of a tense period of nuclear weapon sabre-rattling between the U.S. and China—with the Democratic People's Republic of [North] Korea (DPRK) acting as the Chinese proxy and battleground. Second, the propaganda highlight of the mission was the onboard presence of an Israeli researcher. Third, the shuttle was scheduled to land in the middle of Chinese New Year celebrations.

Fourth, it was scheduled to glide in over U.S. president Bush's home state of Texas on final approach. [H: Gosh, let's not forget all that debris dumped on Palestine, Texas. So, who is after whom?]

Given the taking the shuttle out with scalar weapons (known to be in the possession of a number of opponents of the Anglo-American cabal) was always going to be a straightforward matter, the question is: who the **** allowed this shuttle mission to go ahead at this time?

Today, February 1st, 2003 the China People's Daily online edition reported the DPRK's ambassador to Russia, Pak Ui-chun, warning in Moscow on Friday that the DPRK would take "adequate measure to counter a possible United States preemptive attack".

Adequate measure indeed. When the People's Daily reports the words of the DPRK ambassador there is a certain significance to such a report—under the headline "DPRK Warns It Will Take Measures in Face of U.S. Threat".

As we recently reported, last week the U.S. was hit with a scalar manipulation of weather, but the U.S. Administration did not seem to get the message....

[END QUOTING]

Well, don't hold your breath but coming soon on the Rumor Mill Forum will be V.K. Durham's pronouncement that the controllers of the world, Ekkers "etalliis", surely did it. Perhaps we should shoot first with our own howitzers and suggest that V.K. Durham, her "Holding Trust (TIAS) and NESR(A) WITH WHITE KNIGHTS AND CAVEMEN did it under an ancient TREATY with Peru. Perhaps this was Bonus 2003, sub. U.S.A.?

My goodness, it didn't take any time at all for the experts and scientific brains to send their stupid nonsense around the globe.

I would go first with "Cosmospheres" before moving off into Tesla Howitzers. "GENTLE READERS", as V.K. and Rumor call the visitors to their absurd disinformation sites. It appears that "Holding Cult" of Bat Guano worship is at it again. There are simply those who are stronger than you are and it might be good to respect that recognition.

I also suggest that you look VERY closely at the "defense shield" possibilities. It may not stop beam blasts but it surely could damage an aircraft just with the down- and up-drafts. You have remarkable technologies but astoundingly ignorant commentators.

Am I being sarcastic or tossing a bit of fun? Well, it won't come back that way but most certainly. When everyone has "spongi-brain" it won't matter much after all: ☺☺☺☺☺? And yes, you CAN do something to help yourself even with the Furious Cow Diseases.

Please pay attention and note everything you can in any circumstance, but don't fly off in more pieces than from the space shuttle. The shuttle was damaged at launch and broke up on landing. What caused those things needs investigation—not intrigues.

There were a LOT of stupid things taking place but conjuring nonsense only makes everyone look as foolish as they ARE. Unless, of course, the writer was on the "inside" and if so SHOULD BE ARRESTED AND INTERROGATED!

Perhaps, for the next ride, be sure to bring your Gold "Master" card. Don't leave home without it. Nanu, nanu, nanu.

So be it and SELAH!—GCH

TODAY'S COMMENTS:

GCH—In this game of journalism in a day of sound-bites and absolute fabrications of events it is neither good nor negative to have reached a point where "commentary" is the most any journalist or correspondent dares make. Because of trepidation and consternation that others will be somehow painted with disinformation AFTER the enemies of "self" work it to suit their own disinformation purposes, caution is mandatory.

It is doubly difficult at this desk to cover much because we are having to investigate, sort and CORRECT disinformation being put forth on international networks as presented by "total disinformation" parties.

We have no responsibility to SELL Truth. Our responsibility is to PRESENT Truth, for we have NOTHING TO "SELL".

Example: In Manila the Iraqi consulate is having a demand placed on it today to EXPEL an Iraqi diplomat because it is RUMORED that somehow he had allowed a meeting or a visit by a member of some NOW-PERCEIVED "terrorist" group—"possibly". This, it is now reported: "After the President received a phone call from President George W. Bush of the United States." My goodness, and how is your day?

HOW DO YOU KNOW WHEN YOU ARE SPEAKING WITH AN ENEMY OR A FRIEND OR A BINDING ALLY?

By the way, it seems a member of the team that once guarded hostage Martin Burnham at the time he was SLAIN is captured by the mighty Military and oh yes, he says the military with U.S. troops shot the man. Hummn.

Is anyone actually working in our behalf as V.K. and Rumor Mill scatter their disinformation? No. Everyone here who could possibly be involved is running about with wet pants while the scramble to survive "politically" is the game of every day.

Therefore we push right ahead gathering information, proof and absolute bottom-line facts along with circumstantial evidence which PROVES our claims and negates the opposition. This is covering things from Gold-hauling planes transferring gold by Herman and Russbacher IN TEXAS to full deceitful activities with the Peruvian Consulate in Los Angeles by V.K. Durham in her attempt to gain sole possession of Bonus Certificate/Assets of IT. FRIGHTENING GAMES AND DANGEROUS TO EVEN ATTEMPT? YES, BUT GRANNY DURHAM WILL DO AND DESTROY ANYTHING TO BE QUEEN OF THE WORLD. THAT MEANS: ANYTHING NECESSARY IN AN ATTEMPT FOR THE PRIZE.

The Philippines is in jeopardy of CIVIL WAR at the moment and again the U.S. has put forth warnings both publicly and in specific instances for U.S. citizens to stay off the streets, and more specifically, this coming Friday through Sunday as a major opposition demonstration is set for carry-through.

Ridiculous? How can it be otherwise? When men such as Saddam Hussein and George H.W. Bush were not only BUSINESS VENTURE PARTNERS but had actual JOINT BANK ACCOUNTS for funneling money here and around, how does ordinary John Doe know what to do or who is who?

URGENT MEDICAL ALERT

I might well do a three-part report on the NEW atypical pneumonia virus hitting China with deadly fear of it reaching the massive population center of Hong Kong. It is unidentified but has NO TREATMENT.

What do I recommend? I don't! Our own team finds that silver-supplement and Gaiandriana keep them relatively healthy, along with pretty good vitamins and mineral intake.

The DEADLY diseases are back with even less ability to treat ANY OF THEM. Anyone trying to so much as give information is instantly TURNED IN to the FDA and, at the least, the BATF—BY V.K. DURHAM with deliberate intent to destroy as would any viper cornered in their own venomous spewing as would a spitting cobra who simply sprays everything or being within range.

You nice people are going to need every one of those colloids you used to have available—for only such "frequency" ions can knock out the "neck molecule" of the viruses and prions themselves. Good luck!

THAT 12,000-PAGE IRAQI REPORT

Readers, please realize that there are over 3,000 pages in the Iraqi "REPORT" being allowed any semblance of public notice. There were well over 12,000 PAGES in the original report of which the U.S. REMOVED some 9,000.

What was in those censored pages? Oh well, things like where the Iraqis got all their deadly weapons and biological/chemical warfare STUFF (and how much they got).

How can Mr. Bush be so confident that there are things hanging around in Iraq that are not "nice"? BECAUSE THE U.S. PUT THEM THERE AND THEY ARE YET UNACCOUNTED! THESE "ELEMENTS" COULD WIPE OUT WHOLE CONTINENTS. Moreover, why bother to strike anywhere other than starting with the military "build-up" areas where you have now stationed your troops and equipment?

Will your super-weapons neutralize the chemical and biological elements waiting for use? No, some can be incinerated but others will simply be further "scattered" by bombing.

To again set afire the oil fields is disaster because if you recall from the last fiasco that POLLUTION destroys everything it touches as to land, sea, and more especially, AIR.

Now it comes forth that the very information used by Secretary Powell for his revealing speech was literally the work assembled and plagiarized from a "grad student" investigative paper dating as far back as the last "Gulf War". Tony Blair of Britain got credit AND INDEED, got caught and had to publicly apologize to the "author"—although he has yet to apologize to the PUBLICATION from which he got the information.

The report, therefore, is being labeled "Bogus UK Intelligence Report" which is now "Sweeping the Planet" as the headlines read. This is actually not too good, citizens.

Also, you can speculate and deliberate and create stories about the "downed" shuttle over Texas but facts will eventually reveal intentional "problems" and yes indeed it was suspected as a problem as noted by the "increased security" around that particular flight in the FIRST PLACE.

That Israeli astronaut in point, on that flight, is also the SAME PILOT of the plane that wiped out the Iraqi ATOMIC ENERGY INSTALLATION several years ago. This is not good politics, people.

Even V.K. claims, to the U.S. government, in her more recent demands and offers that neither she nor her "trustees" will travel "because of the SCALAR" problems. Right, make those Senators and the President go to Ida Grove, Iowa to her house AFTER she is provided with expenses prepaid and security brought into place! Oh well, "Look how hard she tried!"

Are our people upset with V.K.? Oh yes indeed but not for the reasons you might expect if you have kept up with the events unfolding. She defrauded them from the "get-go" and did in fact use fabricated documents and claims to suck "us" and MANY others into very dangerous activities and to gain support through fraudulent means both BEFORE Russell Herman's death and, certainly, following his demise. SHE CONTINUES TO DECEIVE, all the while she urges everyone to "just get her records" in the "recorded records". SICK? NO! THIS IS INTENTIONAL FRAUD.

Is Bonus 3392-181 even "REAL"? Oh yes indeed, having been completely validated and further, USED, by many in the U.S. government along with President George H. W. Bush. That is not in question, readers.

What IS in focus or question is that V.K. Durham ever had, has or ever WILL have anything at all other than fraud to do with the asset itself.

Col. Al Martin nailed the program as “a fraud” to get at his enemies George Bush et al., but the ONLY FRAUD, especially through the Peruvian Consulate, was 100% V.K. Durham as established through sole use of her name—and NOT as “Mrs.” Russell Herman.

Now we KNOW without any doubt whatsoever, via WITNESSES, that she holds legal, lawful CORPORATE records PROVING her subterfuge as she attempted to change out every document to reflect her as “holder”. No, it is NOT “OK”. It is major felony crime. Then she sucks in other dupes and when TRUTH is revealed she sets about destroying the “foes” in her own inimitable way of modus operandi. And still, even with the absurdities presented by this “mouth” and fabricator of, even to tales of the “Arabian Nights”, stories so absurd as to embarrass and yet the same dupes destroy themselves in an attempt to back her incongruous and irreconcilable tales. We simply have to move through the “checkout” surveillance characters.

What does it mean as to “bottom line”?

It means that we work through it, rebut publicly in the paper the events and documents as we discover more and more and more discrepancy. HOWEVER, NOTE PLEASE, THAT EVERY LAST DISCOVERY ONLY PROVES THAT WHAT WE HOLD IS VALID, HAS BEEN USED BY THE HIGHEST GOVERNMENT IN THE WORLD (U.S.A.) and is 100% held in Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd.—so that every last centavo claimed by Global Alliance Investment Association is not only valid but is only a tiny portion of what is lawfully available. WE HAVE CONTAINED THE THING, WHICH WE CAN CALL A BEAST OUT OF CONTROL.

V.K. HAS REFUSED TO RELINQUISH TO THE LAWFUL CORPORATION THE RECORDS. THAT IS “HER” PROBLEM, READERS! WE DO NOT HAVE TO PRODUCE THOSE RECORDS AS SHE CLAIMS—SHE DOES!

She claims to hold “color” documents? No, those BELONG to CSEML 100%. V.K. has not even been involved for YEARS with that entity and the documents CREATED by herself and colleagues only PROVE her deceit and attempted FRAUD.

CSEML has turned over half of that asset, in good and limited containment, off to GAIA as for use in a “Global Alliance”. The other half is contained as well until such time as arrangements can be made to clearly identify prior use and/or how best to contain as is judicious WITHIN the United States of America. THAT IS THE AGREEMENT OF GAIA AND CSEML.

The Corporation documents and property will be either retrieved or major criminal charges brought against this deceitful V.K. DURHAM.

You people who even bother to check on the Internet site for Nevada corporations will find that almost NOTHING mentioned BY V.K. does nor “can” exist!

VISITATION BY JOURNALISTS

Let us consider journalist visitation. Why would I not have personal visits with callers? BECAUSE IT IS NOT NECESSARY TO “CONFUSE”

ANYONE WITH ANYTHING BEING PUT FORTH TO THE ATTENTION OF THOSE SUCH AS V.K. HAS PEDDLED HER FRAUD.

I have now met with some and was accepted BECAUSE they could see that I am as real as “they”. However, it is not necessary to now continue into anything which might just get carried into more absurdity. We MUST check out in all ways in a very human-manifest presentation of FACT and in TRUTH. Whether we like it or not doesn’t impact the time spent or delays created in such “check-out”.

There is no subterfuge in any documents dealing with Peru in ACTUALITY—period. However, V.K. made very sure that ONLY she is referenced in any way whatsoever in her “color documents” but had to use those documents in her position as an officer of CSEML in 1989 to accomplish her dirty dealings, WITH THE CONSULATE OF Peru in 1989.

The transfer of ownership as holder of the bond (Bonus 3392-181) itself was done and established lawfully, by exact legal means into the protection of CSEML BEFORE V.K. WAS IN THE PICTURE IN ANY WAY, SHAPE OR FORM. Even her “sharing” of the entity was done by ONLY her in a totally fraudulent document filed just prior to Russell’s death and while he was too sick to even interfere with her games AND/OR THE FILING “OF RECORD” OF ANY OF HER DECEPTIVELY CREATED PAPERWORK FRAUDS.

There IS NO QUESTION as to ownership/holdings of that “asset”—period! NONE!

COLUMBIA CRASH CAUSED BY FIRE IN THE LEFT WHEEL BAY

By Joe Vialls, 2/5/03

Israeli star over Palestine, Texas, may have been sabotaged

Claims by NASA that a ten-pound chunk of soft water-resistant foam caused “severe damage to the heat tiles on Columbia’s port (left) wing” are absurd. At the time the foam broke away from the main fuel tank, shortly after launch, Columbia had a velocity of only 513-mph, rendering the oblique glancing impact of the soft foam completely insignificant.

Think about it, people, think about it! This is a craft designed to withstand the impact of minor space debris while in orbit, and then cope with enormous temperatures during re-entry to Earth’s atmosphere. The heat tiles are even designed in such a way that if you lose a few (and some have been lost in the past), the Shuttle will easily survive to fly another day.

All we have to do is ignore the NASA fundraisers, ignore the blatantly forged Israeli picture “proving” that Columbia had “cracks and a dent” in its left wing, and focus on hard data which were made available on the actual day of the catastrophe—before NASA could start changing the ground rules.

Real-time telemetry provides us with the proper sequence of events, which are as follows: There was an asymmetric 45-degree F temperature increase in the left wing, reported by heat sensors located next to the left main wheel bay. Then these sensors failed completely, followed by failure of those sensors which normally report the tire pressures of the left main wheels, which are located inside the left wheel bay. By any reasonable analysis, at this point we have a serious problem next to, and also inside, the left main wheel bay. Most probable cause (indicated by the sensors) would be fire.

Next up, the real-time telemetry records sudden and massive drag on the left wing; drag so incredibly severe that the emergency retro-rockets fired in an attempt to correct the Shuttle’s attitude. Losing a few heat tiles would produce no significant drag at all, because they would have already left the craft and be trailing far behind in its slipstream. Got it so far? But what if Columbia lost 50 tiles, or even more. Exactly how would this affect the space vehicle during re-entry? Well, there would have been a much steeper increase in asymmetric temperature than was recorded by the sensors but still very little drag, because there is a perfectly streamlined wing surface existing immediately underneath the tiles.

NASA’s Israeli buddies with the forged photograph [shown on noted Website] are already inferring that “American Negligence” led to the death of their war hero Colonel Ramon, a charming fellow who bombed a fully-fueled nuclear reactor back in 1981. Absolute rubbish! If Columbia’s left wing had fractured and “fallen off” as implied, the drag on the left wing would have decreased dramatically because of the decreased wing area, leading directly to a corresponding massive increase in drag on the right wing. Aerodynamic fact and real-time telemetry prove this Israeli claim to be absolutely impossible, so now is the time for the Zionists to get their grubby little hands out of America’s hip pocket.

Having ruled out the impossible—and ruled out the deliberate misinformation—we are now left with a crystal-clear picture of exactly what we are looking for. The disintegration of the space shuttle Columbia was initiated by massive drag on the left wing, which of itself could only have been caused by a very large appendage still attached to the left side of the vehicle.

Forget any (highly likely) later NASA claims of “space junk” being the culprit, because any such claim is proved 100% invalid by the hard evidence. We know that the temperatures increased in the left wing, and we know that Columbia suffered massive drag on the left side. If space junk had damaged the left side, remember that drag would have been on the right side. There is no way out of this reality for NASA.

So what was this very large appendage? We know the problem was in the direct vicinity of the left wheel bay, and we know there was excessive heat immediately before the drag commenced. Ask yourself what happens to a car tire if it gets way too hot. It explodes, doesn't it? And when one or more steel-reinforced tires explode, they hurl large chunks of debris all over the place.

First logical culprit is the door covering the left wheel bay, dented by the explosion and now suddenly blocking the slipstream. It is a tempting thought, but the wheel bay doors are very lightweight in construction and Columbia was travelling at Mach 18, approximately 12,000 miles per hour. As with any conventional airliner at its normal cruising speed, the wheel bay door would have snapped off clean at the hinges and vanished in a few microseconds, leaving no significant drag at all.

Put bluntly, there is only one part of Columbia capable of creating sustained drag on the left wing to the point of disintegration, and that is the immensely strong titanium-alloy left main wheel leg and axle assembly, attached directly to Columbia's main spar. If the exploding tire or tires seriously damaged the hydraulics, the left main wheel assembly would start to deploy, causing exactly the same drag as that shown by the real-time NASA telemetry. Let us be quite clear on this point—the left main wheel leg and axle assembly is the only, repeat only, appendage on Columbia capable of causing the massive drag.

Identical damage has been suffered in the past by a limited number of combat aircraft, but the end result is always the same. Unable to cope with the sudden massive asymmetric drag, the airframe, stressed beyond endurance, starts to separate. Combat pilots have a chance of survival if they swiftly activate their ejector seats, but there were no ejector seats fitted to Columbia. Even if there were, the ejector seats would have been useless. You cannot “bang-out” at 207,000 feet and 12,000 miles per hour.

What caused the fire and then the left tire or tires to explode is an entirely different matter. It could have been a genuine accident, or it might have been sabotage before flight. Of particular interest is the fact that Columbia's wheels are on a very small list of items which are allowed to leave the NASA high-security zone. Each tire is only good for a single landing, meaning that before take off, all of the wheels were removed to be shod with new rubber.

It seems quite likely that the American government's fake warning about “toxic debris” from Columbia is designed to scare people away from the wreckage, leaving it relatively forensically intact for a series of tests, including any possible explosives residue on the remaining fragments of left wheels and tires.

Somebody help me out here. Was it Russia or France who supplied the nuclear reactor to Iraq: the very same fully-fueled reactor at Osiraq that was subsequently destroyed by “war hero” Colonel Ilan Ramon?

—The author, Joe Vialls, is a former member of the British Society of Licensed Aeronautical Engineers and Technologists.

The second is far larger and perhaps can be used selectively—but with FULL recognition of publication and access information. The entire package in our hands came from John Ray and contains probably over 30 pages of the “Powell Report” presented through Tony Blair of UK and actually was simply a plagiarized “thesis” and investigative report by Ibrahim al-Marashi in September 2002 issue of MERIA (Middle East Review of International Affairs). (Looks to me like the intro would be adequate—our readers will hear about it and need to know we know about it.)

You will certainly want to run the comment of that Journal editor early in the information presentation. Please give it leading comment from you as Editor, so that readers know what they are reading.

The articles themselves need no interpretation, unless you choose to comment.

British Government Plagiarizes MERIA Journal: Our Response

By Barry Rubin, Editor, MERIA Journal
[<http://meria.idc.ac.il/british-govt-plagiarizes-meria.html>]

As some of you may have heard, a major scandal which has received global media coverage erupted over the British government's plagiarism of a MERIA Journal article.

In brief, the story is as follows: Ibrahim al-Marashi wrote a fine article in our September 2002 issue entitled, “Iraq's Security and Intelligence Network: A Guide and Analysis”, which looked at that country's secret police and other such forces in detail. He used captured Iraqi documents from the 1991 Kuwait war but updated it to cover later developments, power shifts, and personnel changes among these agencies. (For other works using these archives in MERIA Journal, see Robert Rabil, “Operation ‘Operation Termination of Traitors’: Iraq's Anti-Kurdish Campaign”—MJ Vol.6, No.3 (September 2002) and Robert G. Rabil, “The Iraqi Opposition's Evolution: From Conflict to Unity?” MJ: Vol. 6, No. 4 (December 2002).

On February 3, 2003, the British government released a report, “Iraq: Its Infrastructure of Concealment, Deception and Intimidation” which was said to be based on high-level British intelligence and diplomatic sources. It was produced under the approval of Prime Minister Tony Blair and was highly praised by U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell. The problem was that most of the report was taken word-for-word from Marashi's MERIA Journal and other articles.

A MERIA reader noticed this and alerted the British press. The story has since been covered by all the British television, radio, and print media as well as the Washington Post, the New York Times, and wire services.

Prime Minister Tony Blair's office has apologized to Mr. Marashi but not to MERIA Journal for this plagiarism.

The fact is that the report was a good one. The information was correct and highly useful. If I may be permitted a humorous note, perhaps the world and the Middle East would be a better place if more governments used MERIA articles to explain current developments and inform their people.

We are pleased that the high quality of MERIA Journal's articles has made them so valuable to our readers, who now number almost 20,000 people around the world, including many government officials, as well as diplomats, journalists, scholars, and students. As noted on the masthead of each issue and all our publications, however, we do appreciate being given credit.

The fact is that the articles by Mr. Marashi and our other authors are highly accurate, insightful, original, and extremely timely. This was our goal when we began seven years ago and the many letters we receive from readers tell us that we are in general achieving this objective. We hope these events will inspire more people to read MERIA.

Look for MERIA next month, to see new articles by both Rabil and al-Marashi: Robert Rabil, “The Making of Saddam's Executioners: A Manual of Oppression by Procedure” and Ibrahim al-Marashi, “How Iraq conceals its Weapons of Mass Destruction”.

For a free subscription, of course, one need only write gloria@idc.ac.il and to see all MERIA Journal articles—including those not yet republished as statements of British policy—visit <http://meria.idc.ac.il>.

If you have questions on the plagiarism scandal, please write me at gloria@idc.ac.il.—Barry Rubin, Editor, MERIA Journal [END QUOTING]

People spend so much time playing in conspiracy games as to miss the very information that piles up around you.

“Conspiracy” by definition: “Those who conspire.” More frequently used: “Two or more conspirators who plan secret and usually unlawful acts.”

V.K. Durham, Rayelan Allan and Patriotlad's Richard have CONSPIRED to damage Ekkers and related parties along with conspiracy to DEFRAUD public citizens and do present KNOWN LIES in intent to damage and slander. ## Reference: Bonus issued by the Government of Peru External Department

The Bonus Number 3392 issued on May 1, 1875, in the City of New York, U.S.A., by the nominal value of 1,000 gold dollars.

The issuing of the bonus fulfilled all the requirements and was authorized by legislative resolution of the Peruvian Congress on April 15, 1875.

The Bonus hasn't been either collected or prescribed. The Law No. 3359 of 1937 is not applicable.

The opinion goes on for more than a page, ending with: "This means the United States of America." That refers to the law governing the "obligation". It is signed:

Lima, June 9, 1977

Ernesto Arias Schreiber

The Schreiber MEMORANDUM was also plagiarized by Ms. Durham and can be found "interpreted" in the last three pages of a 16-page rambling dissertation she named "PREAMBLE TO CONSTITUTIONAL CONTRACT" in her Washington County file. It can be found in the GAIA Clark County file (which we furnish to DEEDholders) at pages 58-73.

Next, on August 24, 1984 Roberto Lazo signed and dated the following translation of the contract contained on the face of Bonus 3392-181. (Where was V.K. Durham?)

TRANSLATION OF CONTRACT ON THE FACE OF BONUS 3392-181

WHEREAS, the Congress of Peru has authorized the Executive by a Resolution adopted on the 16th day of April 1875, to enter into arrangements with the Contractors for the sale of Guano in the United States of America for the purpose of cancelling their contract; and whereas said arrangements have resulted in a contract being made and executed in the City of Lima in the Republic of Peru the 24th day of April 1875 between the Government of Peru on the one part and said Contractors, that is to say, the Guano Consignment Company in the United States of America, a mercantile association duly organized and established in the said City of Lima to the said Company, the Government of Peru shall issue and deliver to the said Company, Certificates of Indebtedness of the value each of ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS, United States Gold Coin to the aggregate amount of Three million six hundred thousand dollars bearing interest at the rate of seven percent per annum; both principal and interest to be paid in the United States Gold Coin, at the office of Messrs. Hobson, Hurtado and Company, financial agents of Peru in New York. Now therefore, the Government of Peru hereby acknowledges itself indebted unto the Guano Consignment Company in the United States of America, or bearer, in the sum of One thousand dollars in United States Gold Coin, and promises to pay said sum of One thousand dollars to the holder of this Certificate in the manner hereinafter to be stated with interest accruing thereon, semiannually, at the rate of seven percent per annum, from and after the first day of May 1875, on surrender of the annexed coupons as they may severally become due, and the principal of this Certificate which is one of a series of thirty six hundred certificates, all of this same tenor and date but numbered consecutively from No. 1 to No. 3600 both inclusive, shall be paid after the following terms and manner: On the 1st day of March 1876 out of the entire number of certificates issued Three hundred and sixty certificates shall be drawn by lot being 10% of the total amount issued, on the 1st of March 1877 out of the certificates remaining after the first drawing takes place Five hundred and forty certificates shall be drawn by lot being 15% of the total amount issued; on the 1st of March 1878 out of the certificates remaining after the two previous drawings have taken place, Seven hundred and twenty certificates shall be drawn by lot, being 20% of the total amount issued; on the 1st of March 1879, out of the certificates remaining after the three previous drawings have taken place Nine hundred certificates shall be drawn by lot, being 25% of the total amount issued; on the 1st day of March 1880 there will be One thousand and eighty certificates remaining not drawn, and these shall be considered and dealt with, in regard to what follows, as if they had been drawn by lot on the said 1st of March 1880. The serial numbers corresponding to the certificates drawn by lot at the different times and dates above mentioned shall be inserted immediately after each drawing takes place in two morning daily papers of the City of New York, for two consecutive days, the Financial Agents of the Government of Peru announcing at the same time that the corresponding certificates will be redeemed on the 1st day of May then next ensuing and such certificates shall accordingly be paid on and after said 1st of May in the respective years, at par value in Gold Coin, upon presentation and surrender of the certificate or certificates, at the Office of the Financial Agents of Peru in New York. The drawings shall take place at the Office of the Financial Agents of Peru in the City of New York in the presence of the Peruvian Consul, and with the attendance of a Notary Public and of any person or persons who may desire to be present. Interest of this certificate shall cease from and after the day on which the principal shall become payable, and in as much as the indebtedness of the Government of Peru to the said Company, a part of which is represented by these certificates of the total nominal value of $3,600.00 [this appears to be an error in translation since it should be $3,600,000.00] in Gold, arises and grows out of sums of money paid by the said Company to, or for account of, the Peruvian Government in the performance of certain covenants and agreements entered into between the Government of Peru and the said Company at sundry times between the years 1865 and 1869, towards the reimbursement of which sums of money and the interest accruing thereon the net proceeds of all Peruvian Guano sold for consumption in the United States had been hypothecated or pledged; it is understood and declared, that the same guarantee which secured the payment of the original indebtedness continues, and shall continue for the future, pledged towards the payment of these certificates and the interest accruing on them to the extent that may be necessary and sufficient for such purpose until the entire amount of certificates is paid

COMMENTS:

E-E/D—There being so much attention lately to the barrage of DISINFORMATION being put onto the international Internet web with "ownership" of Bonus 3392-181 up for discussion, we feel it is time to offer and put to disc for legal purposes the full text of the Peruvian Consulate document (that was created by V.K. Durham for the use of the Consulate).

V.K. Durham has made so many totally absurd claims, including her singular ownership of that infamous Bonus 3392-181 document, as to boggle most minds—UNTIL THE DOCUMENTS ARE PRESENTED. For instance, she has been trying to change its identity to a "Commodity Contract", placed in her "Trust" along with the "retired" Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd. (CSEML) corporation. As you will soon see, it is not a Commodity Contract; the "contract" is written in Spanish on the face of the Bond and was professionally translated by Roberto Lazo who certifies his translation from Spanish to English.

Mr. Lazo has the following qualifications: B.A., English at the University of Chile; M.A., Spanish and English Linguistics, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio; M.A. International Affairs in Education at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio; Ph.D. Candidate in Linguistics at Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio; and on Staff Linguistics Interpretations Section, Ohio State University, Columbus, Ohio.

Before we present the proper translation, we should tell our "not-so-gentle" readers (as contrasted with those "gentle readers" of PATRIOTLAD whose canine devotion to Ms. Durham is quite nauseating) that there is another translation, a very sloppy plagiarization of Dr. Lazo's done by Ms. Durham in order to get rid of the date of the Lazo translation, August 24, 1984. You see, V.K. has made such a point of not having seen Russell Herman between 1969 and 1987 (very briefly in 1986) that she is stuck with the problem of not being present when Bonus 3392 was authenticated and its ownership transferred to CSEML. We will not present that one here but it is included in the package of information provided by GAIA to DEEDholders on pages 45-47.

A quick recap of the timeline might be useful. After its issuance and sale in New York City in 1875, no evidence of the existence of Bonus 3392 appeared until a lawyer in Lima, Peru issued a MEMORANDUM (similar to a legal opinion) that is styled:

in full with interest, to the exclusion of all other liens and obligations which may have been to shall be imposed subsequently to the above mentioned year of 1869, on the net proceeds of Peruvian Guano sold for consumption in the United States, agreeably to the agreements and stipulations entered into between the Government of Peru and the said Company, fully set forth in the contract bearing date the 24th day of April 1875 herein before referred to, of which an authentic copy is deposited with the Financial Agents of the Peruvian Government in New York, subject to examination by all parties having an interest in these certificates. Know all men by these presents, that I the undersigned Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Peru in Washington have been instructed and specifically authorized to pledge, and do hereby pledge, the National Faith of Peru towards the faithful performance and observance of the conditions under which this certificate has been issued as above set forth.

IN WITNESS whereof I have hereunto affixed my seal of office and signature on behalf of the Government of Peru, in the City of New York, on this first day of May 1875.

Signature: Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of Peru.

Signatures: Financial Agents of Peru.

I, Roberto Lazo, hereby certify the preceding transcription as being an accurate translation of said document from Spanish to English. Signed: Roberto Lazo. Dated: August 24, 1984.

March 13, 1985 Russell Herman, as President and Director, and Cecelia V. Xalis, Secretary and Treasurer, filed the Articles of Incorporation for Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd. with the Office of the SECRETARY OF STATE, of the STATE OF NEVADA.

May 15, 1985 a photographer was given "A CERTIFICATE OF INDEBTEDNESS OF PERU" to be photographed in color. This one is a surprise because it is in a document V.K. created. She went to a huge amount of effort to re-type or plagiarize (on legal, numbered paper, yet) several documents to purge or change their dates so that it would appear that she was present whenever anything was done with Bonus 3392-181, and she has changed two of the pages in this one, so why did she not change the sensitive page in this one also? Inadvertence? It is more likely that she didn't dare because the Peruvian jurat she needed so badly depended so heavily upon the Affidavit of Authenticity, which was dated by the photographer. It is not in her Washington County file, however, so if you do your "due diligence", as she has instructed so many, by looking in that file, you will not find any document that discloses any activity with Bonus 3392-181 at a time when she could not have been present.

COPY: [D: Every effort will be made to copy DIRECTLY even to misspelled words as in "numberr" immediately below. Could this be the same proverbial slip as in Herrman? The man's name was Herman and "number" is spelled with one "r". This is another V.K. Durham trademark.]

AS A RESULT, THE VERIFICATION AND CERTIFICATION OF LOST AND/OR STOLEN DOCUMENT HELD BY COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY & MARKETING LTD; IS HEREWITH ACKNOWLEDGED THAT THE LOST AND/OR STOLEN ORIGINAL DOCUMENT IS BECOME NUL AND VOID. AND, IN ITS STEAD; SHALL STAND THE "COPY OF THE ORIGINAL" AS AUTHENTICATED AND CURRENTLY HELD IN THE FORM OF AN AFFIDAVITED, WITNESSED AND NOTARIZED PHOTOGRAPH TO STAND IN STEAD OF THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENT; THEREBY TAKING PRECEDENCE OVER THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENT IN THE FORM OF A CORPORATE SEALED PHOTOGRAPH. THIS DOCUMENT SHALL HAVE ALL THE ENCUMBRANCES; AND BE HEREINAFTER SUBJECT TO THE KNOWN "BEARER BOND" PRIVILEGES AS THE ORIGINAL? HAD IT NOT EITHER BEEN LOST AND/OR STOLEN.

IT IS HEREIN THEREFORE ACKNOWLEDGED NOW AND FOREVER THAT THE 'SEALED' PHOTOGRAPH OF THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENT OF THE KNOWN "PERUVIAN GOLD CERTIFICATE SERIES 3392, NUMBER 181, TO BE DEEMED A JUST AND LEGAL DOCUMENT; BELONGING BY OWNERSHIP OF COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY AND MARKETING LTD; AS A BEARER BOND OF SAID CORPORATION; AND SHALL BE DEEMED THE ORIGINAL DOCUMENT, ACCORDING TO THE ORIGINAL CONTRACT OF MAY 1, 1875.

[D: Even if someone WANTED to argue about CSEML's ownership, here it is in black and white that the "ownership" of the "certificate" was placed into CSEML before it was declared lost or stolen and replaced by the photograph. Since CSEML was formed FOR THAT SPECIFIC PURPOSE by Cecelia Xalis and Russell Herman, we expect that the Board Resolution accepting responsibility for the asset was dated much earlier than the Resolution supplied by V.K. to the Peruvian Consul of October 10, 1988. Those early records of the Corporation are probably still with V.K., if they have not been lost in one of her moves. This contract/jurat only justifies, or attempts to justify, V.K. Durham's claim to something of which she was but a "Johnny-come-lately". Not only did she not have any holding in the certificate itself, she had no holding in CSEML. Facts are: It has always (after being a simple "bearer certificate") been owned by CSEML—PERIOD. V.K. claimed to be "Co"-everything but there is absolutely no evidence other than that SHE appointed herself to those positions as she tried to take control of the corporation itself.

V.K. Durham was nowhere around at the founding, FOR THE PURPOSE OF HOUSING THAT CERTIFICATE, of CSEML in 1985 and all the lying and check-kiting she can conjure will not change it otherwise. It would further appear that she also tried to keep Russell Herman from knowing about her antics. Fortunately, he did know and, further, provided us with bunches of this kind of information while she keeps hidden and hostage the actual records of the corporation which should put this lady into a nice uncomfortable prison for many years. SHE KNEW WHAT SHE WAS DOING, READERS! AND WE ARE BLAMED FOR EVERYTHING ROTTEN SHE HAS PRESENTED AS TO HIS CAUSE OF DEATH? NOT US! V.K. is one totally ruthless person!

NOTICE OF CONFIDENTIALITY FOR SECURITY MEASURES

COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY MARKETING LTD: DO HEREIN REQUEST THE PRIVACY ACT AND ACKNOWLEDGMENT OF CONFIDENTIALITY ACT TO BE IMPOSED AT ALL TIMES REGARDING PERUVIAN GOLD CERTIFICATE SERIES 3392 NUMBER 181; TO INSURE SAFETY OF LEGAL BEARERS OF SAID BEARER BOND.

NOTICE OF LEGAL HOLDER OF PERUVIAN GOLD CERTIFICATE, SHALL HEREINAFTER BE KNOWN AS THE LEGAL BEARER, ESTABLISHED BY THE CORPORATE SEAL OF THE "PERUVIAN GOLD CERTIFICATE SERIES 3392 NUMBER 181". THE CORPORATION AND THE CORPORATE SEAL OF COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY AND MARKETING LTDS, SHALL BE THE "ONLY" LEGAL BEARER TO BE HELD AS LEGAL TENDER AND CAN ONLY BE ACTIVATED BY ADDITIONAL CORPORATE SEAL ACKNOWLEDGED BY THE PRESENTLY KNOWN PRESENT OFFICERS.

[D: To avoid any misunderstanding as to these "instructions": This is a perfect example of V.K.'s penchant for always trying to write her own rules. This is PURELY and SOLELY a requirement of one, V.K. Durham who was, at the most, "a business associate" of Russell Herman. Until such time as there are other instructions we will hold CSEML and recognize Global Alliance for what it is: an ALLIANCE with the portion as established by Russell Herman by assignment of "his portion". Global Alliance will only utilize a small part of its "portion" as agreed with the U.S. Treasury. Now next comes the coup de gras, readers:]

ON THIS DATE OF AUGUST 18, 1989, HEREIN ON THIS AFOREMENTIONED DATE, CERTIFY "THE AFFIDAVITED CERTIFIED PHOTOGRAPH COPY, DULY SEALED? BY CORPORATE SEAL, SHALL NOW AND FOREVER PREVAIL OVER THE STOLEN AND/OR LOST ORIGINAL DOCUMENT, AND BECOMES THE PREVAILING "ORIGINAL DOCUMENT" INSTEAD OF THE STOLEN AND/OR LOST DOCUMENT AT ALL TIMES FROM THIS DATE FORWARD.

[D: Now readers, there certainly is a PHOTOGRAPH COPY, a COLOR NEGATIVE, CSEML documents and corporate seal in the possession of V.K. Durham—as there are numerous witnesses to same. However, all past CSEML corporate records and seals in the possession of Russell Herman upon his death belonged to said corporation and should therefore be returned to the lawful officers of COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY MARKETING LTD.

However, I also believe that all will agree that there is ample evidence that the proof is available—even if hidden and unlawfully held by Ms. V.K. Durham—that there is NO HOLDING TRUST. Certainly she has NEITHER CLAIM NOR STANDING WITH COSMOS SEAFOOD ENERGY MARKETING LTD.]

[END OF DOCUMENT]

At the bottom is a handwritten line which reads: Date: Aug 18, 1989, Cosmos Seafood Energy and Marketing Ltd. V.K. Durham as Co-CEO "and" Co C.B., and a second line dated Aug 18, 1989 with her typical Signature for Russell Herman CB. & CEO by VKD (initials). It is also obvious that Russell Herman was not invited to participate.

We hope the reader will overlook our not saying in advance why the font and formatting of the foregoing would be changed—twice. The document (without our annotations) is five pages. The first page and last page are done in a "straight" font (we used Ariel) and are justified, which is best done on a word processor or computer. The middle three pages are typical "VK" done in all caps on her IBM Selectric. (The kind with which you can change the font by changing the "ball" but it will not "justify" (i.e., making all of the lines the same length to give the page a neat, "square" look.) The middle three pages contain the Peruvian "stamp" in the upper left corner; the first and last page do not.

V.K.'s refusal to edit and correct her own mistakes is evident in both kinds of pages. We would guess that the changed pages were done in about July of 1994 when she became so creative in order to put documentation into the Washington County file (August 1, 1994) that would confirm her own claim or participation in the ownership of Bonus 3392-181. Ironically, if she had not tried to claim it ALL, we would never have had to do the research that uncovered the fact that her claims were completely fabricated from nothing. Had she curbed her greed, we would not have pursued a claim to "her half"; one tenth of one half is surely more than enough to do our mission, and just the "crumbs" would be plenty to take care of our personal obligations.

Typically, embassies and consulates have a large rubber stamp that they use on the back of the last sheet of a document they are asked to authenticate. The stamp leaves some blanks to be filled in by the consulate officer. Mark will probably find a place to put a copy and we will also type it in here. This is the JURAT indicating that Peru has determined that the Bonus 3392-181 has not been redeemed, acknowledges its recognition of the corporate resolution accepting ownership by CSEML as the named "bearer", and acknowledges the substitution of the photograph for the original certificate. 1 Peruvian Gold Cert. Series 3392 #181
Order #7309
Doc. #046 [see above numbers] Oct. 12, 1993
RECEIVED FROM VK. Durham Co Ceo CSEML

Boatman's Bank, Belleville, Illinois: Signed by Mary Ann Koesteier.

[D: On a line (the alignment of which matches neither receipt) between the two receipts, V.K. has typed in "LEGALIZA LA FIRMA, NO EL CONTENIDO.." which she claims means that her signature is not to be contested. More of making her own rules, of course.] [End Quoting]

[Mark, please, even though the copy is partial as the seal of Peru receipt would have been on the back of the document just copied, please run the copy of the full page we will FAX to you. There are incredible bits of evidence right here.] [MM: Please see adjacent columns.]

V.K. Durham has taken and is illegally withholding from the current Officers and Directors the records and property of the Corporation, a circumstance that we will have to soon address. It would not have to be, at least in the beginning, the "case of the century". It could begin with a simple "Show Cause" action in which the Nevada court is asked to ask her why she has not given up the records and documents to the succeeding Officers and Directors. If she declines on the basis that they have been lost or destroyed, we can ask the Court's permission to replace them. If she declines for some other reason, then the real fun can begin.

The next may be a bit difficult to follow so we will go slow. Some readers may recall that another infamous document purporting to "sell" Bonus 3392 to V.K. and Russell was dated December 2, 1989. The exact language used is: "The sale made with vauable (sic) consideration of said certificate BONUS 3392 NO. 181, herein transfer the "known" certificate to responsible parties known as; Russell Herman and V.K. Durham to be held as their personal and private property to dispose of as their personal wish." To draw attention to this particular document, V.K. claimed it to be the very one Rick Martin used to copy Russell's signature on the Assignment of August 5, 1993 that was used to carry Russell's "portion" to GAIA. Yes, the same Assignment that she keeps asserting was notarized four years after Russell's death when it was Rick's signature transferring it to GAIA that was notarized.

IF THIS "SALE" DOCUMENT WAS VALID, THEN CSEML WOULD "NOT" HAVE BEEN OWNER ON OCT. 12, 1993. THIS MEANS A BLATANT AND INTENTIONAL ATTEMPT TO DEFRAUD BOATMAN'S BANK. However, it appears more likely that the "sale" document did not come into existence until just before it was filed in Washington County, Illinois August 1, 1994, only four weeks before Russell's death August 29, 1994. Additionally, Russell had assigned "my portion" to Rick more than two months earlier, so it seems unlikely that he would have allowed V.K. to "enter it for collection" while he was alive. He once said that he knew where it was at all times, so she must have altered the date on the Boatman's receipt.

It is also noted, AGAIN, that on the filing face page in Washington County, which is a "Warranty Deed" form, we find that V.K. is the only person to sign anything and she acts "for" Russell Herman in all instances. Moreover, on the copy she provided to us the address and county information had been "whited out", apparently for reuse in Gallatin County for Wills, etc. In the filed records obtained by the Korean lawyers, those blanks are appropriately filled in as to Washington County and the Okawville address, which shows that V.K. is not above changing a form even AFTER it has been notarized.

Further, on the "sale" document where V.K. has claimed that the Bonus 3392-181 was transferred to her and Russell, we find only a reference to a "certificate". The "gold certificate" at that time (December 2, 1989) no longer had any value, since it had been replaced by the photograph as confirmed by the Jurat of August 21, 1989. Well, it had been over three months since she had the Jurat issued; perhaps she forgot.

An amusing aside: In statements made just this week, Ms. Durham says her family has held the asset for some 127 years. Sure, and the number of her TRUST is TIAS 12087?

She claims that all of her property was always "IN HER MAIDEN NAME" which would be automatically assumed here to be "Durham". However, V.K. has supplied by her own hand a "Second Marriage" "Application and Record" which she presents as proof of her marriage to Russell Herman. The entire document is fraudulent but to avoid confrontation by YOU readers, she now claims that Ekkers personally filched the records from her "recorded records". No, just more totally spurious accusations and scattering of disinformation. It should be noted that while working with V.K. there had been, we felt, no reason to doubt what she was telling us other than what Russell Herman had told us "otherwise".

On this "MARRIAGE APPLICATION AND RECORD" there is not even so much as a "state file number" (always without exception required). But the interesting thing is that she HERSELF lists "Edith Naomi Hayes of Shawneetown and H. LaRue of Shawneetown" as her PARENTS. That is "Mother" and "Father". Now it appears, readers, that there is something very wrong in stating that her name is "Durham", although we do expect some quite "original" excuse for such a blunder.

Also, the signature of Thomas Ganz is "signed" supposedly by a Nancy Hereman. Strangely, the "H" is very much like the H in the signature of Russell Herman, and the small r's are virtually identical. Maybe the same person signed all of those signatures? Except she forgot to sign for the Minister.

At the top of the page is pasted on what is intended as a certification of Thomas Ganz that this (below) is a true and correct copy.... Please note the V.K. trademark ";" after the word Mexico. It is also obvious that Thomas Ganz' signature has been IMPORTED from some other document because the signature line is out of alignment.

[Mark, please let us waste the space and run a copy of that document, again.] [MM: Check out V.K.'s obvious forgery of Russell Herman's signature below—compared to the original on his U.S. Passport on the next page.]

While we presume most of these "marriage" documents were created to try to qualify for receiving Russell Herman's pensions, she compounded her problem by CLAIMING to OWN the entire asset, which she loves to express in quintillions of dollars. Therefore the welfare and pension people wanted substantiation of the claim and certainly were NOT going to assist a woman with all the money IN THE WORLD.

V.K. now claims that those denying her claims to Russell's pensions were "members of the Ekker Cult"—intentionally doing her in and destroying/removing all of her records causing her to "somehow" be "deceased" in the records.

Reaching? Well, not as far as yesterday's silly story of Rayelan's husband (Gunther Russbacher) and her husband (Russell Herrman-Herman) TOGETHER piloting one of those "gold moving" planes. This plane, it seems, was brought down in TEXAS and the "black hats" took the gold and ran-away-ran-away with it. We consider TEXAS to be an interesting "short cut" to get from the

I Thomas Ganz, Washington County Clerk, do certify that this is a true and correct copy of the marriage application and record for Russell E. Herman and V. Catherine Herman. This application is for second marriage, first of which took place in Mexico; October 27, 1987.

FOR BETTER OR WORSE, WAR COULD REDEFINE AMERICA

By Michael Tackett, Tribune, 02/14/03

WASHINGTON—As an anxious world awaits a report Friday from UN weapons inspectors, the United States finds itself at a thorny crossroad, and the path it chooses could define its role in the world as profoundly as any event since World War II.

America hasn't often been in this place. On the cusp of war, historic alliances are frayed and fragile. Institutions that the U.S. helped create and nurture, the United Nations and NATO, could lose their relevance and effectiveness.

Domestically, officials are warning of an impending terrorist attack and imploring people not to take up arms but rather to take up rolls of duct tape and plastic sheeting to protect against a chemical or biological attack.

The economy is sputtering, and conflict, at home or abroad, will only make it worse. ...

A near-term military victory in Iraq could still yield long-term diplomatic problems throughout Europe and beyond. If the U.S. does not find common ground with China, Germany, France and Russia—countries that have sharply challenged the Bush administration on Iraq—each individual alliance will be strained. The relationship with China, for one, could have implications for how the U.S. handles the emerging nuclear threat in North Korea.

If the UN report leads to intransigence in NATO regarding military support for Turkey, the U.S. could simply defy the alliance, which has been a cornerstone of international security for more than a half-century. ...

In other conflicts, U.S. involvement was guided by the principle of containment to halt the spread of communism and the expansion of the Soviet Union. Still other wars resulted from provocative, hostile acts that directly affected national security and economic well being.

None of those urgent factors apply to Iraq. And that is in part why Friday's report and how the U.S. chooses to respond to it will have such long-term repercussions.

"I view this decision as a fateful decision for America's future place in the world," said William Galston, a former senior official in the Clinton administration and policy analyst at the University of Maryland.

"It will redefine our relationship with every alliance that we are a member of, every institution that we are a member of, and every region and every country with which we have diplomatic, economic and military relationships."...

By pointedly challenging the credibility of the UN, Bush is sure to provoke criticism in some capitals of Europe but almost equally certain to be praised in his Republican Party, where skepticism of the UN has deep roots.

Even some in his own party, however, thought he should lower the temperature of his words.

"I'm sorry the president has chosen those words, because I do not think those words enhance America's relationships with the allies. We need to deal not just with North Korea and Iraq but Afghanistan and the Middle East and beyond," said Sen. Chuck Hagel (R-Neb.), a member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

"Sure, if we want to bolt from the UN structure and attack Iraq, there is little question that we would win. But at what cost?"

Others worried about the precedent that the U.S. might set. "It seems to me that if we can disarm Saddam through collective international action, engineered by the United States, we will have scored a great victory. But more important, we will have set a precedent for constructive leadership to deal with similar problems elsewhere," said Zbigniew Brzezinski, who was national security adviser to President Jimmy Carter.

"If, on the other hand, we rush to war on our own for the sake of removing Saddam from power and not for the sake of disarmament, we will find ourselves much more isolated," Brzezinski said. "The aftermath of the war will be exclusively our burden, and no constructive precedents for dealing" with such situations will have been set. ...

"You don't have to know a lot about diplomatic and military history to know that the rise of pre-eminent power tends to lead to the rise of new powers to try to restrain the activities of hegemonic powers," Galston said. "And we are now that power. I think a lot of what is going on in Europe has less to do in particular with Iraq policy and more to do with the much more general sense of what Rumsfeld called 'Old Europe'—that the United States cannot be permitted to have complete freedom of action."

If that comes to pass, it would be a new role for the U.S., and it would come at a time of increased globalization and economic interdependence. That is one reason, Hagel said, that he believes it would be a mistake to not work within the UN structure.

"If you propel the world into war on somewhat of a unilateral basis with some allies that we have essentially bludgeoned and coerced into it, then what do you have when it is over?" Hagel said.

Few doubt that the U.S. would prevail militarily in Iraq. But how the U.S. exercises its power to get to that end, some said, is at least as important as the end itself.

"Right now there is nobody in a position to act against us," Brzezinski said. "Therefore we are the ones who have to exercise the best judgment."

HOW CATASTROPHE THREATENS THE 12 MILLION CHILDREN OF IRAQ

By Leonard Doyle, Independent—UK, 02/12/03

"They come from above, from the air, and will kill us and destroy us. I can explain to you that we fear this every day and every night."—Shelma (five years old)

It is not Saddam Hussein and his henchmen, but Iraq's 12 million children who will be most vulnerable to the massive use of force that the U.S. plans to unleash against their country in the coming months. With or without UN Security Council backing, the looming war on Iraq will have immediate and devastating consequences for the country's children, more vulnerable now than before the 1991 Gulf War.

A team of international investigators—including two of the world's foremost psychologists—have conducted the first pre-conflict field research with children and concluded that Iraqi children are already suffering "significant psychological harm" from the threat of war.

The team was welcomed into the homes of more than 100 Iraqi families where they found the overwhelming message to be one of fear and the thought of being killed. Many live in a news void, with little information

We rather doubt that Ms. Durham would be so foolish as to use such a non sequitur as a headline, so it must have been manifested by Patriotpuppy. It gets worse by attributing the expression "A BULLET TO THE EAR OF CONGRESS" to "G.C. Hatonn also known as St. Germain, or Doris Eloise Ekker, the co-conspirator WHO IS NOW financing the Al Qaeda network." For the record, we will list some additional accusations that offer us ample grounds for suing V.K. and those who have, from time to time, been so foolhardy as to post her tripe on the Internet.

• The attribution of "Chapter Eight" and all of its libelous trash to Doris Ekker—Mrs. Ekker did not write "Chapter Eight"

• That Ekkers are conducting un-American activities, are "two notorious swindlers" who have "fled this country after cheating many elderly people out of their gold, retirement monies, properties and inheritances."—Ekkers have swindled no one.

• That "These facts... have been proven in court." What was proven in court was that the case had no merit and was filed as a diversionary tactic in an effort to protect an ex-friend of Ekkers who had stolen some gold.—Ekkers ultimately won.

• That Ekkers have entered into agreements with certain parties associated with the U.S. Federal Government, splitting 50-50 "all monies taken down on the Bonus 3392-181", and have been for years supporting the "Al Qaeda" network of Islamic radicals—As officers of GAIA, Ekkers have published their "agreement" with the U.S. Treasury and routinely present it to DEEDholders, bankers and others. It does not split anything with any one in the U.S. government. Ekkers have never supported Al Qaeda or "Islamic radicals".

• That Doris J. Ekker has developed a fanatical hatred of her homeland, which she now calls "the United States of Israel".—That is taken out of context. It is a quote of the Jewish attorney and Professor of Law, Alan Dershowitz. Ekkers love their country and are doing something to help her people recover their sovereignty.

• That Ekkers are participants with Al Qaeda and the FED in planning a BANKING WAR to bankrupt the U.S. Treasury—Nonsense.

• And finally: "Additional documentation from the internationally respected accounting firm of Ernst & Young relates that the Ekkers are collecting up to 50% up front, in gold from unsuspecting victims of these BOGUS GOLD INSTRUMENTS, which are aimed at the United States, in the current jihad of the Al Qaeda."—We would like to see that documentation from Ernst & Young. If that is true, we will willingly sell CSEML and all of its assets to Ms. Durham for one dollar. If it is not true, Ms. Durham should crawl in her cave and shut up.

We note that V.K. "retires" but is back again before the ink dries on the retirement papers. Rumor Mill also claims to have dropped V.K. from her Website to give her "her own" but the garbage is right back on before morning. This last one gave us a whole new list of "damages" so, yes indeed, PLEASE DON'T QUIT SHARING. This is "our" lives, friends! I don't know what V.K. thinks she is doing but each blast now simply gives us more and more protection and legal recourse, inclusive of the Web-masters involved. So, "bottoms up, old girl, here's mud in yer eye".

We can do this—if YOU can, friends. Moreover, since it is necessary, we can also do this nit-picking but distasteful task. Actually, we DO have such abundant appreciation pouring our way as to make the "painful" part only aspirin-worthy for the pain in the neck. When it gets to be too big and too much—LET GO AND LET GOD!—Doris and E.J. Ekker concerning the heightened threat of war. ...

But it is the fear expressed by the majority of the children that most shocked the team. In a breaking voice 13-year-old Hind told them: "I feel fear every day that we might all die, but where shall I go if I am left alone?"

When and if a massive bombardment and invasion comes, the investigators predict the consequences will be so dire that the plight of Iraqi children must be given more priority when Britain and the U.S. consider the alternatives to war.

Because there is only one month's supply of food in the country and the overwhelming majority depends on rations distributed by the Baghdad regime, the chaos of war could tip a population of malnourished children into starvation. And once American and British bombs start falling on President Saddam's power stations, the country's main water treatment plants will fail causing the rivers to become contaminated with sewage.

Millions of Iraqis rely on river water to irrigate crops and prepare food. Drinking or even washing dishes in such contaminated water will make an already vulnerable population liable to deadly diseases ranging from E-coli to typhoid.

Before 1990, Iraq's health care system was the pride of the Middle East and was described by the World Health Organisation as "first class". The ensuing Gulf War and sanctions have crippled the healthcare system causing death rates of children under five to double over the past decade with 70 per cent of deaths caused by easily avoidable bowel diseases and respiratory infections.

Despite grave concerns at the highest levels, UN agencies are unable to prepare for an emergency that has yet to happen without being accused of clearing the way for war. The World Food Programme is preparing to feed up to one million Iraqis for at least three months, but once the shooting starts it will have to pull out its expatriate staff.

Iraq's civilian population of 22 million is particularly vulnerable. Some 16 million—half of them children—are totally dependent on monthly government-distributed food rations. The last 12 years of sanctions and corruption within the regime mean that few if any families have stockpiles of food to get them through a war of any length. The World Food Programme supplies basic foodstuffs, but deliveries are left to the Iraqi government and a bombing campaign that destroys bridges over the Euphrates and Tigris rivers will stop distribution in its tracks.

The report of the international study team, published by the charity Warchild, warns that there will be a "humanitarian disaster" if war breaks out. Children, already weakened and vulnerable because of sanctions are "at grave risk of starvation, disease, death and psychological trauma".

The experts expect casualties among children to be in the thousands, probably in the tens of thousands, "and possibly in the hundreds of thousands".

The team concludes a new war would be "catastrophic" for Iraq's children.

[JR: Our war with Iraq will further traumatize Iraqi children and will add to the despair of those who survive but will have lost everything. Their lives will be changed, their country will be drastically changed and they will likely face a future without their families and loved ones. The U.S. will probably send in experts to "counsel" and train Iraqis to accept the concepts and attitudes of their conquerors and that what we did was necessary to free them from Sadam. The U.S. war stance is a statement to the world that serving its own interests is more important than maintaining world peace and that the deaths of untold Iraqis and their children is worth sacrificing them. That sort of logic is twisted and is definitely EVIL-minded!]

U.S. SEEKING ASSURANCES FROM IRANIANS ON IRAQ

By Peter Slevin, Washington Post, 02/09/03

WASHINGTON—Bush administration officials held a rare private meeting with Iranian envoys in Europe last month to seek a promise of humanitarian help and an assurance that Tehran would not interfere in military operations if the United States strikes Iraq, U.S. officials said Friday.

U.S. diplomats also asked Iran to join search-and-rescue missions for downed U.S. air crews, officials reported. They further requested that Tehran deny haven to fleeing Iraqis who might try to cross into Iran and regroup against a U.S.-supported government in Baghdad.

A senior administration official said the White House hopes the Iranians "will stay out of the way" if U.S.-led forces topple Iraqi President Saddam Hussein in favor of a pro-Western government. U.S. and UN officials report that signals from Tehran have been encouraging, although the Iranian government opposes military action.

The overture to Iran, a member of what President Bush called an "axis of evil", demonstrates the extent of the administration's efforts to line up support in the Persian Gulf for an increasingly likely war against Iraq. Bush has condemned the politics of the Tehran government but is seeking its cooperation as agreements with Iraqi neighbors Turkey and Jordan fall into place.

In London last week, Iranian Foreign Minister Kamal Kharrazi said a war would have repercussions in Iran. But he said Iran is prepared to settle Iraqi refugees temporarily along its border. During the U.S.-led campaign in Afghanistan on Iran's northern border, Iran offered to conduct search-and-rescue missions.

"Iran is basically against war and is not going to support either side," Kharrazi said.

...Analysts believe Iran has an abiding interest in the outcome of conflict in Iraq. Tehran has long supported Muslim Shiite exiles from Iraq who intend to seek power if Hussein falls. Analysts predict that Iran will not take an active role during any armed conflict but will seek influence later in heavily Shiite southern Iraq and the central government. As a U.S. official put it, "They don't want to be shut out."

In another development, the Bush administration has begun notifying U.S.-based humanitarian organizations that they will be issued licenses permitting them to work in Iran and northern Iraq.

U.S. relations with Iran, troubled since the Iranian revolution nearly 25 years ago, took a still more difficult turn when Bush grouped Iran with Iraq and North Korea as an "axis of evil" in January 2001. Later last year, Bush was sharply critical of Iran's conservative leadership and supportive of pro-democracy demonstrators.

In last month's State of the Union address, Bush said the Iranian government "represses its people, pursues weapons of mass destruction and supports terror." Yet U.S. officials concluded that Iran should not be ignored in preparations for a potential conflict along its 906-mile border with Iraq.

[JR: The U.S. is the epitome of hypocrisy! We have had no normal relations with Iran so why hold talks with Iranian officials when there are still unresolved issues between us? The talks were not as "encouraging" as those unnamed senior officials would have us believe. This was made evident in Bush's State of the Union address when he accused Iran of being a repressive regime who is attempting to acquire WMD and who supports terrorists. This article is a patchwork and tends to be confusing and contradictory and somehow the facts get a bit skewed. The hawks in D.C. are very dangerous when challenged. They will not hesitate to use extreme measures to insure their success. Our foreign policy is so twisted and has so many turns we have to try to keep from getting too dizzy and confused from all the spin coming from the media. The one major obstacle for us is that no one trusts or believes this government and neither do a growing number of Americans.]

FIVE MORE SUICIDE ATTEMPTS AT GUANTANAMO

By Pauline Jelinek, Guardian—UK, 02/07/03

WASHINGTON (AP)—There have been five suicide attempts in the past three weeks by prisoners at the U.S. naval base in Cuba's Guantanamo Bay, prompting Amnesty International to call for an investigation into conditions at the camp where al-Qaida suspects are held.

A Pentagon spokeswoman, Barbara Burfeind, said: "Medical and psychiatric teams are working to try to prevent further injury or attempts."

Officials have declined to say whether it was five separate inmates or cases of multiple attempts by one person. Including the 10 attempts in 2002, the new cases bring the total to 15 since the prison was built a year ago to detain men captured in the fight against terrorism.

Amnesty had protested after the earlier suicide attempts, claiming that the prolonged detention and uncertainty the prisoners faced put them at risk of physical and psychological harm.

"Clearly, five suicide attempts in a few weeks ought to give grave cause for alarm," an Amnesty spokesman, Alistair Hodgett, said yesterday.

"I think it's incumbent on the department of defence to investigate whether conditions of detention are contributing to these attempts—and make the contents of that investigation public."

Some of the men have been held for more than a year under interrogation by the military, without charge, trial or access to lawyers or their families.

The Bush administration has designated them "unlawful combatants", saying they are not entitled to the same rights as prisoners of war, but that they are being treated humanely.

Officials decline to say exactly how many are held and what their nationalities are, though the roughly 625 men are believed to come from more than 40 countries.

The facility has altered its treatment of prisoners in recent months after a new commander took control. Major General Geoffrey Miller, who took over in November, said in a recent interview that he would offer more rewards for cooperative behaviour, such as chances to pray together rather than being held in high-security isolation cells.

The U.S. defence secretary, Donald Rumsfeld, has said that those prisoners who were not a threat, not candidates for trial and of no further intelligence value would be transferred. Five prisoners have gone so far.

[JR: When the U.S. accuses countries like Iraq, Cuba, China and North Korea of human-rights abuses they should look at what is going on at our U.S. Camp X-Ray in Cuba. There are 26 Afghan farmers in this camp who were caught during one of our raids for terrorists, but were sent to Cuba anyway. Why haven't they been released and sent home? There is mind-control programming going on at Guantanamo as well as ceaseless monitoring. Detailed reports are kept daily on every prisoner's move even to the reporting of a simple act like the swatting of a fly. The guards at this camp are specially trained jailers who are skilled at breaking down a man physically, mentally and more importantly spiritually. The 15 attempts at suicide are proof of this.]

EXPERTS: IN MAKING CASE, U.S. 'BURNED' SOURCES

By Douglas Holt, Tribune, 02/06/03

WASHINGTON—Among those closely listening to Secretary of State Colin Powell's case against Iraq was an unintended but unavoidable audience: Iraq itself.

Because of Powell's presentation, Iraqi leaders from Saddam Hussein on down now know more about U.S. spying capabilities, and some previous sources of information are likely to evaporate, intelligence analysts and officials said Wednesday.

The speech may even be a death sentence for those officers unlucky enough to have been heard by the world chatting on the telephone about “forbidden ammo”, hidden weapons and nerve agents, analysts said.

“I have great certainty that those guys are either dead or not in their former jobs,” said Daniel Goure, a former Pentagon official now at the Lexington Institute, a Washington think tank whose specialties include national security.

Any reprisals would have one goal: To get Iraqi officers to be far more careful. If successful, that could mean less intelligence in the future from electronic chatter.

Iraqis also learned from U.S. spy-satellite photography used by Powell that certain guards, equipment and decontamination vehicles are considered “signature items” pointing to bunkers containing chemical weapons.

Hussein now can try to change the look of the vehicles, or to place hundreds of decoys next to bogus chemical bunkers, analysts said.

“We burned some very good sources here,” former CIA and National Security Administration official Kenneth Pollack said on CNN.

U.S. officials had said for months that the risk of revealing intelligence “sources and methods” had made them reluctant to present the kind of public case against Hussein that Powell outlined Wednesday. Ultimately, the Bush administration decided that the need to make the case outweighed the risk.

At the same time, the Washington Post reported, 10 foreign intelligence services, both European and Middle Eastern, agreed to allow the United States to disclose classified information they had collected on Iraq.

Before Wednesday’s speech, officials said, the release of every piece of raw American data was approved by CIA Director George Tenet, who by law is charged with protecting the nation’s intelligence resources.

“Certainly enormous care goes into making decisions to use this material in a public forum,” said a U.S. official familiar with the process. “On the one hand you need to protect sources and methods. But on the other hand, if information is not used, it’s useless.”

In the end, the official said, case-by-case judgments had to be made based on “what can be disclosed without jeopardizing lives or collection systems you may need in the future.”

Classified intelligence has a long history of being released when doing so serves a national or political purpose.

“We thought it was important to share with the world what it is we know about Iraq,” National Security Council spokesman Sean McCormack said. “Very clearly, this is a well-organized, massive effort to deceive the world.”

Analysts said Powell walked a careful line to make his case while minimizing exposure of critical sources of information.

Powell spoke in vague terms when discussing sensitive, top-level Iraqi intelligence. Based on what he only described as “sources”, for example, he said the U.S. knows that an Iraqi missile brigade dispersed biological warfare material to various locations in western Iraq, and that launchers and warheads had been hidden in palm groves.

“If I was Saddam I would be worried—how the hell does he know that?” Goure said.

Goure also noted that none of the telephone conversations appeared to have come from high-level, secure command lines—which could mean either the U.S. has no access to such lines or that it does not want to divulge that capability.

Judith Yaphe, a former CIA analyst, said Powell’s revelations stopped well short of identifying information that could lead to individuals still in Iraq under Hussein’s control. Even defectors and detainees were not specified by name.

“My guess is this was done in the most sanitized way possible,” she said. Powell, she said, “didn’t reveal anything that to my mind was identifiable back to sources that would be harmed.”

She said the need for public and international support trumped the need for secrecy. “The risk in this case was overtaken by the seriousness of what we’re doing,” she said. “You can’t just do a wink-wink, nudge-nudge, ‘I can’t tell you or I’ll have to kill you.’”

[JR: Much of what Powell said has either been debunked or the sources were so vague as to be questionable. Washington is clearly using their “well-organized, massive efforts to deceive the world” as well. This is all well and good for those sheeples who still believe the information that comes out of Washington is supposed to be truth. The problem is that these sheeples either have extremely short memories, Alzheimer’s, so dumbed down that they believe whatever officials say or they are just too afraid to challenge the lies. Remember, Bush said you are either with him or you are the enemy. Through the “Freedom of Information Act”, it has been proven that a great deal of what our government officials or the military told us in the past was NOT the truth. Why should they change now? Remember when we thought our leaders all wore “white hats”? Now they all seem to wear yarmulkes.]

WASHINGTON TO CUT BASES IN GERMANY AS ITS FORCES HEAD EAST

By Ian Traynor In Zagreb, Guardian—UK, 02/11/03

ZAGREB—Washington is planning to cut and downgrade its network of military bases in Germany and to transfer some of its European military assets to the new pro-American NATO allies of Eastern Europe, according to diplomats and officials on both sides of the Atlantic.

Although no final decision has been taken, the plan to scale down the military presence in Germany, the mainstay of U.S. forces in Europe since the Second World War, marks a major strategic shift which is being welcomed by the insecure post-communist countries of central Europe.

While such a decision is seen as too important to have been provoked by the worsening dispute between Washington and Berlin over Iraq, the momentum for moving out of Germany is also being increased by the U.S.-German estrangement.

A senior Czech official, who attended the weekend security conference in Munich at which the Americans and the Germans engaged in an unprecedented public slanging match, said that senior U.S. officials were talking about the bases in Germany “right into the middle of the night”.

“It’s a very difficult situation,” he added. “But if it leads to the Americans withdrawing from Germany, we and the Poles will welcome them. We need NATO.”

The Pentagon ordered all non-essential investment in the sprawling U.S. bases in Germany frozen last month, funds amounting to tens of millions of pounds, according to a German MP who said he saw the secret instructions from Washington to U.S. military commanders in Germany. ...

Mr. Billen said that U.S. officials had told him that the U.S. defence secretary, Donald Rumsfeld, wanted the spending frozen since it was not clear whether the U.S. forces’ strength of around 100,000 would remain on that scale.

Polish newspapers reported recently from Washington that the U.S. was to shift bases from Germany to Poland, the biggest, most important and most pro-American of the new NATO members, and a key country in Mr. Rumsfeld’s “new Europe”. The Polish reports were denied in Washington, but when he was asked about the issue in Rome last week, Mr. Rumsfeld said: “We are reviewing our bases... the centre of gravity is shifting in the alliance. The interest and the enthusiasm that the countries that had lived under repressive regimes previously is a good thing for NATO.”

The new commander of NATO forces in Europe, U.S. Marines General James Jones, told senior U.S. congressmen and senators in Brussels last Friday that the large U.S. garrisons in Germany could be radically transformed by the need for more flexible and mobile rapid response structures that may halve the number of U.S. troops in Germany and see new bases opened from Poland to Romania, according to U.S. press reports yesterday.

The U.S. bases in Germany are under German military and police guard because of their vulnerability to terrorist attacks. They are also becoming targets for the protests and demonstrations of the German anti-war movement.

In contrast to Western Europe, the governments of Eastern Europe are queueing up to offer military assets, resources, and staff for the U.S. war effort against Iraq. Romania and Bulgaria are the latest to make bases available to the U.S. air force. The first U.S. aircraft are expected in Bulgaria today.

[JR: The shift of U.S. bases out of Germany to the friendlier confines of Eastern Europe is a diplomatic game of tit-for-tat. Rumsfeld wants to make a stinging point to our questioning allies that you go along with us in our protracted wars or you lose U.S. bases and dollars. Poland may need our money more than she needs NATO but at what cost to her autonomy? With U.S. presence in Poland it may fit into our expansionist plans to establish another strategic position closer to Russia’s borders. If we want to bait Germany and Russia with such moves they could regard this as hostile and challenge us. Money may speak but is everyone really listening, especially in today’s tension-charged world?]

BRUSSELS ELITE ACCUSED OVER “FEDERALIST COUP”

By Ambrose Evans-Pritchard, Telegraph—UK, 02/07/03

BRUSSELS—Britain will lose control of foreign policy and defence and will be stripped of its sovereign power to legislate in almost all areas of national life, under the draft text of the European constitution released yesterday.

Sweeping aside British objections, the document establishes the European Union on a “federal basis”, enjoying “primacy over the law of the member states”. [JR: Sound familiar?]

The 16 articles unveiled at the European Parliament are the first piece of a constitutional text being drawn up for the Convention on the Future of Europe.

Article 3 gives the EU powers to “co-ordinate the economic policies of the member states”, which covers fiscal policy.

Article 4 says “the Union shall have competence to define and implement a common foreign and security policy, including the progressive framing of a common defence policy”.

Virtually all the current activities of the British Government will fall under the “exclusive” or “shared competence” of the EU, meaning that Westminster will be prohibited from legislating unless Brussels chooses to waive its primacy.

The areas cover public health, social policy, transport, justice, agriculture, fisheries, energy, economic and social cohesion, the environment, internal and external trade, and consumer protection.

The Government reacted with horror to the text yesterday, accusing an elite group of insiders on the convention’s 13-member praesidium of carrying out a “federalist” coup.

Downing Street’s envoy to the convention, Peter Hain, the Welsh Secretary, said the authors had disregarded the collective will of the 105 members of the body, which is drawn from MEPs, MPs, and governments of the EU's 28 current and future states. ...

He said a large group of countries, including France, Spain, Holland and Romania was "very unhappy" about the document, pointing to a future blocking alliance that would force the praesidium to retreat.

"The member states are the key building blocks of the European Union. There is no question at all of a federal superstate being erected here in Brussels," he said. ...

The text of the constitution is being released in chunks, culminating in a final version by early summer. The convention delegates can suggest changes, but they do not have voting power to impose their views.

EU diplomats said the praesidium had been hijacked by a group of EU insiders. The two European commissioners on the body, France's Michel Barnier and Portugal's Antonio Vitorino, have taken charge, bringing in commission lawyers to draft the language.

There was speculation last night that the term "federal basis" would be removed from the final text as a sop to Britain, although this would not in any way lessen the transfer of power to Brussels.

In theory, any state can veto the document at the end of an "inter-governmental" veto process this autumn, giving Britain a second chance to slow the juggernaut.

But the convention's president, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, says that no one state should be allowed to block the majority, saying that naysayers will have to leave the EU altogether.

[JR: The EU is giving our mother country Britain the same rights she gave Ireland and Scotland when she "allowed them their own parliaments while still retaining her control over crucial matters such as defense, foreign affairs, welfare, industry, taxing and spending. They basically have not been released from their serfdom. America gained her independence from England once she declared it but we now have our own royalty ruling here in the U.S. The Queen awarded knighthood to her loyal servants like Sir Colin Powell, Sir George Bush Sr., Sir Heinrich Kissinger and Sir Alan Greenspan. You can safely bet that those insiders at the EU in Brussels have very close ties to the Zionists in Babble-on D.C.? That being the case, why is England fighting so hard to be assimilated into their European Superstate when she totally supports the U.S. and Israel in all their globalist endeavors? Is the real disagreement about which country will be the true power in the one-world government? Time will tell if this is really about the clash of the Titans.]

PLAGIARISM ALLEGATIONS

EMBARRASS BLAIR ADMINISTRATION

By Mike Wendling, CNSNews.com, 02/07/03

LONDON—The British government defended a key report on Iraqi deception on Friday amid allegations that large parts of the document were copied from several publicly available articles, including one written by an American graduate student.

The 19-page document, released earlier this week by the Prime Minister's office, outlined Iraq's attempts to hide weapons of mass destruction.

It was praised by U.S. Secretary of State Colin Powell during his presentation Wednesday to the UN Security Council.

"I would call my colleagues' attention to the fine paper that United Kingdom distributed yesterday, which describes in exquisite detail Iraqi deception activities," Powell said.

But an analysis by journalists working for Britain's Channel 4 television found that large parts of the paper were copied from articles available on the Internet.

Key sections in the middle of the document appear to be copied from an article published last September in a small academic journal, The Middle East Review of International Affairs.

That article was written by Ibrahim al-Marashi, a research associate at the Center for Non-Proliferation Studies in Monterey, Calif.

A comparison by CNSNews.com of the British government document and al-Marashi's article, titled "Iraq's Security and Intelligence Network: a Guide and Analysis," revealed similarities in both reports and even exactly matching phrases, although the academic article was much more detailed.

Channel 4 also reported that parts of the dossier came from articles that first appeared in the journal Jane's Intelligence Review.

In an interview with BBC television, al-Marashi said parts of his article were based on documents left by Iraqi security services in Kuwait 12 years ago. He said the U.K. government report was largely accurate but "they maybe inflated some of the numbers of (staff in) these intelligence agencies".

Downing Street stood by the document and denied allegations of plagiarism, saying that no government official had claimed exclusive authorship of the dossier.

"As the report itself makes clear, it was drawn from a number of sources, including intelligence material," a spokesman said. "It does not identify or credit any sources, but nor does it claim any exclusivity of authorship."

"We consider the text as published to be accurate," he said.

British opposition parties, while not disputing the accuracy of the report, called the government's wider credibility into question Friday.

"The government's reaction to the Channel 4 report utterly fails to explain, deny or excuse the allegations made in it," said Conservative defense spokesman Bernard Jenkin.

"We need a clear assurance that the government's published information is based on the best available sources," he said.

"This document has been cited by the Prime Minister and Colin Powell as the basis for a possible war. Who is responsible for such an incredible failure of judgment?" Jenkin asked.

Liberal Democrat foreign affairs spokesman Menzies Campbell said: "The dossier may not amount to much but this is a considerable embarrassment for a government trying still to make a case for war."

Later, the Prime Minister's official spokesman acknowledged that al-Marashi and other public sources should have been credited.

"In retrospect, we should, to clear up any confusion, have acknowledged which bits came from public sources and which bits came from other sources," he said.

GLENDA: DOWNING STREET LIED ON DOSSIER

CNSNews.com, 02/07/03

Former Labour minister Glenda Jackson today accused the Government of lying to the public over its Iraq dossier.

Ms. Jackson said the file, which was supposed to prove Saddam's attempts to deceive the UN, is an example of how Downing Street is trying to mislead Britons.

Last night it emerged this dossier was partly based on 12-year-old information and included chunks lifted from a thesis by a student in California.

Ms. Jackson told the BBC: "If that was presented to Parliament and the country as being up-to-date intelligence, albeit collected from a variety of sources but by British intelligence agents, and in fact as we now know they simply lifted it from a university thesis, it is another example of how the Government is attempting to mislead the country and Parliament on the issue of a possible war with Iraq.

"And of course to mislead is a Parliamentary euphemism for lying."

The student who wrote the thesis, Ibrahim al-Marashi, is furious the British Government used his work without giving him credit for his efforts. ...

Downing Street today admitted it was wrong to produce the document without crediting Mr. al-Marashi.

But a spokesman for Tony Blair insisted the document was accurate.

[JR: I guess the new way of acquiring "intelligence" is to be stupid enough to plagiarize anything from the Internet that might support their perception of Iraq, right or wrong. A thesis written by a university student may be total conjecture on the part of the author to augment his suspicions or possibly enforce an agenda. This one fit well into the intelligence circle's scheme so desperately trying to build a (less-than-credible) case against Iraq to gain support from allies still uncertain about the need to attack Iraq. And they actually want us to believe this is "intelligence"?]

AIRPORTS' SECURITY SPENDING 'WASTEFUL'

By Thomas Frank, Newsday, 02/06/03

WASHINGTON—Federal officials are investigating what they called "wasteful" and "excessive" spending that has helped inflate the cost of the government's takeover of airport security to well beyond what was originally expected.

Officials also are facing an anticipated $3 billion funding gap to move new luggage-scanning machines out of airport lobbies into unobtrusive spots.

The government already is spending roughly $5 billion a year to screen passengers and check luggage at airports. That figure is "much greater than anticipated" when lawmakers, shortly after Sept. 11, shifted airport security to the government from widely criticized private companies, a federal investigator said Wednesday.

Kenneth Mead, the Transportation Department's inspector general, told the Senate Commerce Committee's aviation panel that a "large infusion of cash" is needed to make up for the extra costs. Taxpayers are "the most likely option" to provide the needed money, Mead said, shunning increased airline-ticket fees.

Mead criticized the Transportation Security Administration, which runs airport security, for a "lack of management oversight" that contributed to contracts running well over budget.

NCS Pearson, a government contractor hired to recruit 60,000 security screeners for $104 million, ended up sending a bill for $700 million. One of its subcontractors, which government officials did not name, billed for $18 million, but $6 million to $9 million of that apparently resulted from "wasteful and abusive spending practices," Mead said.

The TSA discovered the situation last fall and is continuing to examine both contracts, officials said. TSA spokesman Robert Johnson also said Pearson "achieved a seemingly impossible task", reviewing 1.6 million applicants over nine months and placing screeners at the nation's 429 commercial airports.

As for the subcontractor, "it could end up in court," Johnson said. "It has the potential for that."

Mead also said the private screening businesses that remained at airports last year inflated their costs when they began contracting with the TSA instead of the airlines, which had traditionally paid for airport security.

"Many costs appeared excessive," Mead said.

When the security companies started working for the TSA, they increased employee wages and other costs by about $305 million. ...

Lawmakers were hoping to recoup most security costs from a new $2.50-per-flight passenger fee and a lump payment from airlines equal to what they had paid for security. Both those two sources amount to just $2 billion a year, leaving a shortfall of nearly $3 billion “at a time when the general fund is already strained to pay for vastly increased fiscal needs throughout the federal government,” Mead said.

[JR: Anytime the government takes control of a project there are huge foul-ups with major cost overruns so that we the sheeple are going to be paying dearly for these so-called protections. Washington’s ploy is always to deceive us into believing they are our protectors so that we don’t object to their setting up these surveillance systems to spy on us. It would be far more reasonable for the government to impose a temporary tax on the flying public to pay for increased airport security but the excuse (lie) is that the airlines are in a survival mode so we taxpayers have to provide for their welfare as well. The companies selling these security systems to the government are the real winners because they can expect to enjoy sustained profits for many years to come. After all there is a whole world out there ready to be plugged into Big Brother’s network.]

SOFT DRINKS CARRYING HARD MESSAGES
ANTI-AMERICAN TASTE OF MECCA
GOES DOWN EASILY IN SOME PLACES

By Tom Hundley, Tribune, 02/05/03

LONDON—Think of the cola wars and you think of Coke and Pepsi slugging it out for domination of the global soft drink market.

Think again. A new wave of entrepreneurs is taking advantage of the anti-American climate in Europe and the Middle East to market products that taste like the real thing, but with a decidedly anti-American political flavor.

These days it’s Mecca Cola versus Qibla Cola in the battle for the hearts and minds of the post-Pepsi generation.

Mecca Cola, the brainchild of French-Tunisian businessman Tawfiq Mathlouthi, appeared on grocery store shelves across France late last year. Originally targeted at French Muslims who wanted to boycott American products and protest U.S. policies in the Middle East, the new cola quickly caught on with a much broader market. ...

According to a company spokesman, sales are brisk, and orders for Mecca Cola have been received from distributors in Britain, Belgium, Germany, Australia and Canada.

So Tuesday’s launch of Qibla Cola throughout Britain’s largest cities comes as no great surprise. Qibla refers to the direction of Mecca, which Muslims face when they pray. ...

“The Qibla brand offers a real alternative for people concerned by the practices of some major Western multinationals who support causes that oppress Muslims,” said company founder Zahida Parveen, a businesswoman from the English city of Derby.

“By choosing to boycott major brands, consumers are sending a powerful signal that the exploitation of Muslims cannot continue unchecked,” said Parveen, who pledged that she, too, would donate 10 percent of the profits to an Islamic charity.

Qibla has started with an initial production run of 250,000 bottles and hopes to increase to a million bottles by next month. There also are plans to introduce a lemon-flavored soft drink called Qibla Seven and an orange-flavored drink called Qibla Fantasy. ...

Kelly Brooks, a spokesman for Coca-Cola Co., said the company was aware of Mecca and Qibla Colas, but had no comment on possible trademark infringement issues.

“As a matter of policy, the Coca-Cola Co. does not comment on the competitive products and affairs of other companies,” he said. ...

Although Qibla Cola’s initial target market is the 2.5 million-strong Muslim community in Britain, Abdul Hamid Ebrahim, a spokesman for the company, said the real prize would be places such as Indonesia, which has 200 million Muslims. Pakistan, with more than 140 million Muslims, and Bangladesh, with more than 126 million, also are desirable markets.

“The market is massive,” he said. “There are 1.5 billion Muslims in the world and many other people of conscience who understand how some American companies oppress the Third World, especially the Muslim world.”

Ebrahim acknowledged that the early success of Mecca Cola in France was “in our thought process” but said the company’s real model was Zam Zam Cola, an Iranian company that saw sales blossom a few years ago after a prominent cleric ruled that Coke and Pepsi were “un-Islamic.”

Since the start of the latest Palestinian intifada two years ago, calls to boycott some of the products most closely associated with America—Coke, McDonald’s, KFC—have been increasing, and several companies are starting to feel the pinch.

Coca-Cola executives recently acknowledged that the boycott had hurt sales in North Africa, especially in Egypt and Morocco.

[JR: One sure way to get your adversaries’ attention is to create competition in the world marketplace. With the success of the new soft drinks, Muslim businessmen now plan to push further into the Muslim markets by opening their own fried chicken places. This will ante up the stakes and create stiffer competition for the Muslim dinars and dollars. Appealing to the Elite for fairness and equity hasn’t gotten their attention so maybe a competitive war in the world markets will. There just might be an Ali Baba fried chicken store serving Mecca cola near a Mobil or BP gas station near you in the very near future. Look at your neighborhoods and schools now... they are global!]

EX-CYBERSECURITY CHIEF RAISES ALARMS
AS HE RESIGNS;
VETERAN WARNS U.S. VULNERABLE

By Judith Miller, New York Times, 02/02/03

Richard Clarke, the blunt and sometimes abrasive White House adviser who raised the alarm about unconventional national security threats from failed states to biological and computer terrorism for more than a decade, quietly resigned as President Bush’s cybersecurity czar on Friday.

In an interview after his last day in office, Clarke warned that although the government had made considerable progress in defending its electronic infrastructure from computer attacks, the United States faced ever greater peril, given its increasing dependence on the Internet.

“A sophisticated cyberattack may not result in massive deaths,” he said. “But it could really hurt our economy and diminish our ability to respond to a crisis, especially if it is combined with a war or a terrorist attack.”

Clarke said the attack last weekend by a computer bug known as the sapphire worm showed the vulnerability of America’s increasingly Internet-based economy. Though it was a relatively simple bug, he said, sapphire worm, which also has been called slammer, ravaged systems throughout the United States and overseas in just a few hours.

The bug shut down some of the Bank of America’s automated teller machines and Continental Airlines’ online ticketing system, and denied access to the Internet to millions of personal computer owners.

“Don’t assume that the damage done by hackers in the past is predictive of the future,” Clarke said. “As Sept. 11 showed, as long as our vulnerabilities are large, some enemy will exploit them in a new and hugely damaging way.”

Before tackling the country’s computer vulnerabilities, Clarke was in charge of the White House’s counterterrorism office for Bush and President Bill Clinton. He sometimes antagonizes officials in federal agencies and even some White House colleagues by demanding more aggressive action against Islamic extremists such as Osama bin Laden. ...

After the Sept. 11 attacks, colleagues said, he played a critical role in the White House situation room, helping ground the nation’s airliners and boosting security at other vulnerable targets.

Clarke said the nation was safer today than before Sept. 11 because al-Qaida’s sanctuary in Afghanistan was gone and because Americans had rounded up hundreds of al-Qaida operatives abroad and tightened aviation security overseas and domestically.

“But we still don’t have control of our borders or sufficient control of terrorist money transfers,” he said. “And we still don’t know where all the potential sleeper cells are in the U.S.”

At the same time, he said, he feared that civil rights might be eroding in the struggle against terrorism.

“When we sacrifice our civil liberties and privacy rights, the terrorists win because they have gotten us to change the nature of our country,” he said.

Despite having fought terrorism for more than 11 years, he said, “I have never seen one reason to infringe on privacy or civil liberties.”

Clarke said he was leaving his post now because “11 years in the White House and a total of 30 in government is more than enough,” and because Bush would soon unveil a new national strategy to protect the nation’s information infrastructure, which Clarke and his team had drafted.

Associates said Clarke was becoming increasingly weary of battling a federal bureaucracy that was resistant to considering new issues like cyberterrorism as real threats.

Clarke dismissed reports that his bureaucratic opponents had blocked him from being offered a senior post in the new Homeland Security Department. ...

Clarke said, “This was not a popularity contest. When you are working on life-and-death issues, you sometimes have to bring out the bulldozer.”

[JR: We can only imagine what this “new national strategy to protect the nation’s information infrastructure” will be, soon to be unveiled by Bush. Clark may not have wanted to infringe on privacy or civil liberties of Americans, which may have made him decide that enough is enough, but I would doubt if others in this administration would think twice before doing it. Dubya demands full control and his actions never questioned, so where does that leave us peons out in the trenches, except to be buried by the bulldozers before having any chance of climbing out, as those in Gulf War I. We are in a runaway war train with irrational lunatics at the throttle.]

U.S. DRAFTING ATTACK RULES FOR CYBER-WAR

By Bradley Graham, Washington Post, 02/07/03

WASHINGTON—President Bush has signed a secret directive ordering the government to develop, for the first time, guidelines for determining when and how the United States would launch cyber-attacks against enemy computer networks, according to administration officials.

Similar to the strategic doctrine on the use of nuclear weapons since World War II, the cyber-warfare effort would establish the rules under which the U.S. would penetrate and disrupt foreign computer systems.

The United States has never conducted a large-scale, strategic cyber-attack, several senior officials said.

But the Pentagon has stepped up development of cyber-weapons, envisioning a day when electrons might substitute for bombs and allow for more rapid and less bloody attacks on enemy targets. Military planners imagine soldiers at computer terminals silently invading foreign networks to shut down radars, disable electrical facilities and disrupt telephone services.

Many specialists say this new form of weaponry has great potential, but until now it has lacked presidential rules for deciding when to launch such attacks, who would authorize and conduct them, and what targets would be considered legitimate.

"We have capabilities, we have organizations, we do not yet have an elaborated strategy, doctrine, procedures," said Richard Clarke, who last week quit as Bush's top cyber-security adviser.

Bush signed the order, known as National Security Presidential Directive 16, in July. The rules are being prepared amid speculation that the Pentagon is considering offensive computer operations against Iraq if war breaks out over Baghdad's chemical, biological and nuclear weapons development programs.

"Whatever might happen in Iraq, you can be assured that all the appropriate approval mechanisms for cyber-operations would be followed," said an administration official who declined elaboration on the plans.

The current state of planning for cyber-warfare has frequently been likened to the early years following the invention of the atomic bomb more than 50 years ago, when thinking about how to wage nuclear war trailed the ability to launch one.

In a first move last month to consult with experts from outside government, White House officials helped arrange a meeting at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology that attracted about 50 participants from academia, industry as well as government. The purpose was to consider formation of a cyber-warfare studies association that could help develop a theoretical framework.

But a number of participants expressed reservations about the United States engaging in cyber-attacks, arguing that the nation's enormous dependence on computer networks makes it highly vulnerable to counterattack.

"There's a lot of inhibition over doing it," said Harvey Sapolsky, an MIT professor who was host at the Jan. 22 session. "A lot of institutions and people are worried about becoming subject to the same kinds of attack in reverse."

[JR: It is very easy to say we "can be assured that all the appropriate approval mechanisms for cyber-operations would be followed" when all those "mechanisms" are of course Top Secret. If no one knows what the rules are, how is anyone to know if they have been violated? The U.S. could be much more vulnerable than any Third World country to a cyber-war since the greater part of our infrastructure (communications, utilities, transportation, commerce, finance, et al.) are totally dependent on cyber-operated computer systems. Not only could a well targeted "virus" penetration into our systems affect our style of living, but it could be the equivalent to an atmospheric detonated nuclear bomb that would produce an "electromagnetic pulse" (EMP) and knock out all electrical grids in any given area. It's one thing for a Third World country to possess a nuclear weapon but a cyber-war fought, even by an individual, could prove be just as devastating to our way of life and yet more humane than THE bomb. The U.S. may be the SUPERPOWER in armaments but in a cyber-war both sides are equally vulnerable to attack, and the devastation would be greater to the one most dependent on computers. I wonder who that would be?]

SOUTH AFRICA HEEDS CALLS FOR FREE ANTI-AIDS DRUGS

By Liz McGregor in Cape Town, The Observer—UK, 02/02/03

CAPE TOWN, SA—In a dramatic turnaround, the South African government is to announce next month a programme that will eventually provide anti-Aids drugs free to all those who need them.

South Africa's Finance Minister, Trevor Manuel, is expected to make the commitment in his budget speech. It will give, on average, an extra eight years of life to the country's five million people living with Aids and HIV—the highest infection rate in the world.

At first, the anti-retroviral drugs will be given in pilot schemes to new mothers. These will be expanded over the next few years and the government is still considering how they will be financed and the drugs distributed.

This is the culmination of a long, bitter war in which much of civil society, including activists, unions and churches, was pitted against the government. Although President Thabo Mbeki, who infamously declared that HIV does not cause Aids, has withdrawn from the debate, Health Minister Manto Tshabalala-Msimang dismayed doctors last month by inviting a notorious Aids dissident, Dr. Roberto Giraldo, to a government-sponsored meeting where he reiterated his view that HIV is not infectious and is not spread through sex.

The health department tried to block a $70 million grant from the Global Aids Fund to the rebel province KwaZulu Natal, on the grounds that the correct administrative procedures had not been followed.

Now the government has given the grant the go-ahead on condition that the programme does not begin until March, ensuring the government's announcement of its own initiative is not upstaged.

The other powerful interest group to take a hammering in the Aids war is the pharmaceutical industry. Its attempt to take the government to court to protect its patents—and prices—ended in capitulation, in the face of worldwide revulsion.

British-American giant GlaxoSmithKline has given a licence to a KwaZulu drugs manufacturer, Aspen, to make Combivir, the pill that combines AZT and 3TC, two-thirds of the most common anti-Aids regimen. Stephen Saad, head of Aspen, is waiting for the Medical Control Council's approval before he can release the boxes piling up in his warehouse.

What GlaxoSmithKline calls its "preferential pricing at cost price" for state and non-governmental organisations will cost £33 per person per month. Saad will sell it for £19 per person for month—but he is restricted to supplying the NGO/state sector. Aids and HIV are primarily the affliction of the poor, so by far the largest market will be the state.

In KwaZulu, Dr. Patrick McNeil, of the Port Shepstone hospital, said the health system was overwhelmed by the epidemic: "Every second patient has HIV. Some days you walk through the wards and all you see is telltale gaunt faces."

Patients are resented by staff, he said, because "they have constant diarrhoea, they won't eat, they have sores and hate being moved. We can only make them comfortable and give them analgesics for the pain."

McNeil is sceptical about success for a universal anti-retroviral drugs campaign; once a patient starts on a programme of anti-retrovirals, he or she has to take them every day at the same time throughout life, otherwise new, drug-resistant strains will emerge.

"If you stop taking anti-retroviral drugs, it's only weeks till resistance develops and then there is no treatment," he said.

The hospital's paediatrician, Dr. Irina Andre, says her dreams are haunted by dying babies. Some 100,000 are born with HIV every year, many because their mothers refuse to be tested for HIV while pregnant because a positive diagnosis can lead to family rejection. Seventy per cent die before the age of two.

"This means the mothers don't get the nevirapine which could have protected their babies," she said. "They come from families affected by malnutrition. If you feed them properly, they can fight off the virus for longer."

"The other 30 per cent are "slow progressors". At six or seven, they develop continuous diarrhoea and their bodies begin to waste away. One child born with HIV lived to 13, but he was adopted by a White family who could give him good food," said Andre.

And that is the other difficulty with anti-retroviral drugs: They must be taken with food. ...

[JR: It has taken several years for the South African government to stop their haggling and admit that there is an aids pandemic raging through the countries of Southern Africa. The states' recognition comes after millions have died and millions more have become infected. More will die but at least the greedy drug cartels have been urged/forced to sell their drugs at lower costs so that those infected will have a better quality of life in the remaining years left to them. All this says so little or so much about our lack of humanity and concern towards the problems of poorer countries such as South Africa and Haiti.]

ENTIRELY NEW KIND OF GENERATOR INVENTED

RENSE.COM, 1/26/03

TASHKENT, Uzbekistan (UPI)—An Uzbek inventor said he has created a type of electrical generator that does not rely on the principle of electromagnetic induction—on which all existing generators are based.

The new generator employs a concept called magnetic conductivity modulation and it has potential applications in industry, communications, households and even the military, explained Vladimir Matveev, the inventor, a specialist in electronics.

Matveev said he is convinced he has created a fundamentally different machine.

"All electrical machines I know are based on the principle of interaction between the magnetic fluxes (lines of force) of their rotor (rotating member) and stator (portion that remains fixed)," he explained.

Such machines, Matveev said, are based on electromagnetic induction, a property of energy discovered by Michael Faraday, an English physicist and chemist, in the 19th Century. The machines produce electrical current either by moving a conductor across a magnetic field or by regulating the flux of that field.

"My machine has a principal difference," Matveev told United Press International. "The magnetic field of its stator does not interact with the magnetic field of the rotor (because) its rotor is not a magnet—the rotor only changes the magnetic resistance of the stator," he said.

The stator in Matveev's generator contains a magnetic core with a permanent magnet and a detachable winding. A rotor with changeable magnetic resistance is placed at a cutoff point in the core's magnetic field. It is composed of alternating magnetic and air parts and can operate in either linear or rotary form.

When the rotor is set in motion, its alternating components pass through the magnetic core's cutoff point. When the magnetic part passes through the cutoff point its magnetic resistance decreases. When the air part passes through, its resistance increases.

This pulsing of resistance results in changing the magnetic conductivity of the magnetic core, which in turn produces an alternating electrical current in the core's winding. The frequency of the winding's current can be controlled by regulating the rotor's speed or by changing certain qualities of its magnetic or air parts. Also, the generator's electrical output—its voltage—can be controlled by changing the configuration of the rotor's components, Matveev explained.

Matveev said his generator is different from an invention by Howard Johnson of the United States. Johnson discovered how to build motors that can run without input of electricity or any other kind of external energy. He obtained a patent in 1973 for describing electrical generation using only the energy contained in the atoms of permanent magnets.

Matveev also said some Russian inventors have experimented with a generator similar to his. Their generator changes its magnetic conductivity by changing temperature. However, the machine requires a lot of time to be heated and cooled alternately and results in a current frequency much lower than what generally is used in industry. Moreover, the Russian generator requires high steel density and greater mass.

Matveev's machine generates electric energy of industrial frequency. Furthermore, he said his machine is simple, reliable and requires less steel and mass than conventional generators. It also can be adapted to flows of low speeds, such as weak water or wind streams. Matveev tested the generator in his former household in Kazakhstan before he patented it in Uzbekistan.

"I want to pass the invention on to all mankind," he said.

Boris Abdurakhmanov, director of the Uzbek Koinot (Cosmos) [!!!!] design office and head of the laboratory of semiconductors and photoelectricity of the Institute of Electronics of the Uzbek Academy of Sciences, told UPI: "Matveev has offered a fundamentally new approach to a problem of the creation of electric power generators."

IRAQ NETS HANDSOME PROFIT BY DUMPING DOLLAR FOR EURO

By Faisal Islam, Economics Correspondent,
The Observer—UK, 2/16/03

A bizarre political statement by Saddam Hussein has earned Iraq a windfall of hundreds of million of euros. In October 2000 Iraq insisted on dumping the U.S. dollar—"the currency of the enemy"—for the more multilateral euro.

The changeover was announced on almost exactly the same day that the euro reached its lowest ebb, buying just $0.82, and the G7 Finance Ministers were forced to bail out the currency. On Friday the euro had reached $1.08, up 30 percent from that time.

Almost all of Iraq's oil exports under the United Nations oil-for-food programme have been paid in euros since 2001. Around 26 billion euros (£17.4 billion) has been paid for 3.3 billion barrels of oil into an escrow account in New York.

The Iraqi account, held at BNP Paribas, has also been earning a higher rate of interest in euros than it would have in dollars.

At the time of the change the UN issued a report saying that the move could cost Iraq up to £270 million. Independent experts questioned the value of buying into a plummeting currency.

"It was seen as economically bad because the entire global oil trade is conducted in dollars," says Fadhil Chalabi, executive director of the Centre for Global Energy Studies. The marked appreciation of the euro—higher interest rates and the ability to pay mainly European suppliers in euros—is believed to have made hundreds of millions for the Iraqi oil-for-food programme.

UN officials insist that this benefit helps to pay for humanitarian aid, war reparations and the cost of weapons inspectors.

More Good Reasons To Incorporate In Nevada

Budget's "Tip of the Week" #12:

Additional Reasons to Incorporate in Nevada

Over the past 11 weeks we have looked at a number of excellent reasons as to why Nevada is the best state in which to incorporate—and we still haven't covered them all! In addition to all of the reasons previously discussed—and without exhausting the list by any means—here are a few more for your consideration:

1. Nevada has minimal reporting and disclosure requirements. The only public records of a Nevada corporation mandated by statute are its articles of incorporation and its annual lists of officers and directors. It is not necessary in either of those cases for a corporation's real operator(s) to be disclosed.
2. Nevada is the only state that maintains a policy of no reciprocity with the IRS. In all other states, information is shared freely and without question. It's simply built-in to the system, elsewhere.
3. In Nevada, ONE PERSON may be ALL of a corporation's officers and its sole director. You do not need to work together with a group of friends in order to establish this shelter for yourself.
4. Stockholders, directors and officers need not live or hold meetings in Nevada, or even be U.S. citizens. Such meetings may be held anywhere in the world. And of course any such meetings are a tax-deductible expense to the corporation, at the IRS-approved per diem rate or as actual expenses, whichever is greater.
5. Directors need not be stockholders. It is possible to act with the full power and authority of the position of director without having to disclose ownership, if any, in the corporation for which the director acts.
6. A Nevada corporation may purchase, hold, sell or transfer shares of its own stock. Stock that has been issued and repurchased may be held within the corporation as "treasury shares".
7. Nevada corporations may issue stock for capital, services, personal property (presumably not excluding "intellectual property") or real estate, including leases and options. The directors may determine the value of any of these transactions and their decision is final.
8. Nevada law allows Bylaws to be changed by the directors. If at any time the corporation's best interests would be served by slightly different Bylaws—just change them to suit the purpose.
9. Initial or minimum capitalization is not required. A Nevada corporation can be capitalized with "sweat equity". Keep in mind that stock may be issued "for services rendered".
