RE: CURRENT USA INVOLVEMENT IN THE PHILIPPINES—GCH/d

* * *

EXTRA DUTY NECESSARY

I apologize for making extra work as in having to type the last article requested paper presentation from Erick San Juan. It is requested because so many of our readers are in the U.S. and others are totally interested in the integration of the U.S. into international affairs. This article, as short as it presents, is self-explanatory and notes involvement by parties in tow by the U.S. for a very long time into the past, specifically at the overthrow of Ferdinand Marcos. That, however, is not our focus so please just realize that the USA is involved in every niche of Philippine activities.

Since the article has not yet been added to TRIBUNE's web and since ESJ only has given us “hard copy” we will just have to re-type it. It is not long but I consider it very important. Thank you.

[QUOTING from The Daily TRIBUNE, Tuesday, July 19, 2002: Erick San Juan:]

ONLY A MATTER OF TIME

Doomsayers are one in saying President Gloria Arroyo's days are numbered, but is the crisis we are experiencing today a crisis by design? The perception is that everything is out of control. Our church leaders are now branded as spiritual entrepreneurs. Even GMA's ouster is now a subject for bettors, with the bets being made on when she leaves, what month is she going to be ousted, what day and so on, but not on how she is to be ousted and not on whether or not the problem of Gloria can be neutralized.

Saddening it is that even popular columnists and friends are now said to be envelopmental journalists or AC-DC concessionaires. Even known media personalities are today, under the Gloria administration, either heads of government-sequestered corporations or future diplomats, among whom are Emil Jurado of the Manila Standard, Amando Doronila of the Philippine Daily Inquirer, and Alex Magno of the Philippine Star. These media practitioners add to the confusion of the situation.

Doronila was wrong in saying interventions by the Supreme Court, the Armed Forces of the Philippines, the Catholic Bishops Conference of the Philippines and Fidel Ramos were unplanned and uncoordinated. The truth of the matter is that these institutions merely wanted to preempt a bloody civil war that could ignite due to Mrs. Arroyo's think tank's mishandling of the situation. This intervention is just like an antibiotic or tranquilizer that merely provides temporal relief to the disease.

It has always been my position that Mrs. Arroyo's main problem comes from within rather than from without.

Gloria Arroyo didn't know what hit her when her favorite Cabinet secretaries went public to talk about their resignation and call for her resignation on grounds of her loss of credibility and moral authority to effectively govern, as she is now focused on her political survival rather than resolving the economic problems.

Despite GMA's preemptive pronouncement for all her Cabinet secretaries to resign the night before, she even couldn't believe that a white-collar coup from within could happen—until another Cabinet member, known as the “ecclesiastical one” blew the whistle on the Hyatt 10’s mass resignation plan. [D: Hyatt 10 references the 10 Cabinet members who resigned in masse and then met for press conferences in the Hyatt.]

The situation deteriorated when the head of the Liberal Party of former President Dadong Macapagal, Senate President Frank Drilon, called for her resignation. Only a week before, in Iloilo, during the inauguration of a bridge, Drilon even proclaimed that “if nobody wants you (GMA) in Manila, we in Iloilo will protect you at all costs.”

Mrs. Arroyo should have read the handwriting on the wall when acting US Ambassador Joseph Mussomelli, on the same day that the Hyatt 10 resigned, made a stunning pronouncement that these Malacañang executives are the most credible among the government functionaries, most of them are my friends, very decent, good people and they are patriots who are concerned with welfare of the Filipino people.

What was not told, was that this same Mussomelli who was a political attaché (translation: a second-grade CIA) during the time that the late President Ferdinand Marcos was ousted, was the nerve center of the White House, CIA, DIA of Pentagon, NSA and other coordinating agencies during Edsa I.

What’s worrisome is his X-men (translation: demolition team) composed of former CIA chief Norbert Garrett (whose cover is his Kroll and Associates—a security consulting agency), and others are all here again watching and monitoring the end game.

Arroyo’s presidency is really at stake. As the Hyatt 10 said, GMA is not after the welfare of the people but for her survival. All their clustered meetings in Malacañang were to counter the so-called destabilizers and make her look good before the public.

But she has reached a point of no return. Even her trusted youth leaders have told me it would be difficult to keep on supporting her. Another foreign diplomat confided that the President’s “government is on auto-pilot mode.” Another predicted that her downfall is at hand.

Our leaders never learn from history: Never mess with the Americans. Despite their denial that they are involved in any dirty tricks this time, the Gloriagate tape is a clear indication of a game plan. Why it was released only now when FPJ needed that expose most last year during the elections?

She divided everything, including the military, the church and even the Makati Business Club.

The truth hurts but it is still the truth. GMA is fighting so many fronts. Her biggest mistake was to follow the style of Marcos and Ramos by playing big with global powers. The China card was the coup de grace. Strategic analysts confirmed that US is preparing for a bigger war against China, justify their so called war on terrorism and also blame China for the world’s oil problem.

America is a jealous god. I repeat never mess with them. Look what they did to other world leaders who used to be their partners like Marcos?

If the program is on, you can only delay it, but you cannot stop it. The bottom-line is that the rapid combustion in ousting GMA by these hidden hands is on.

The bitter pill is a slow and agonizing “death” for GMA.

[END QUOTING]

And so the balls continue to bounce and the greased pigs continue to run with being slick and hard to catch and, much the more, hold.

And no, to inquiring minds, we do not “mess with anyone”. We play within the rules and laws and most certainly we are NOT going to mess with the USA.

‘Sovereign Will of the People’

“President” Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo, described by Stuart Grudgings of the Reuters news service as “a past master in playing the graft-ridden political system” (“Philippines’ Arroyo may regret impeachment call”, 7/17/05), continues to stubbornly hold onto the reins of power in the Philippines despite substantial evidence of her involvement in “culpable violation of the Constitution, graft and corruption, bribery and betrayal of public trust”—the charges being prepared for an impeachment case the opposition plans to file in the next few days, prior to Congress reconvening.

Curiously, Arroyo actually challenged the opposition to file an impeachment complaint, confident that she has the numbers in the Senate to ride it out. The complaint must be endorsed by just one-third of the House to advance to the Senate but then requires the support of two-thirds of the 23-member Senate to succeed—and Arroyo appears to believe her bought-and-paid-for allies in the Senate will be able to put an end to the process at that point.

However, as Mr. Grudgings notes, “Some key senators in Arroyo’s coalition, including Manuel Roxas II, Ralph Recto, Joker Arroyo and Pia Cayetano, have been notably quiet on the allegations against the president.”

The Reuters article cites Ramon Casiple, executive director of the Institute for Political and Electoral Reforms: “Legislators would rather not accept the money if their political careers are on the line. They can get that money later, from the successors.”

With the foregoing as background, we turn to an article which documents the conversion of a pro-GMA columnist to the understanding that Arroyo has “forfeited her right to her present position”.

[QUOTING:]

THE SOVEREIGN WILL OF THE PEOPLE

By Isagani Cruz, Philippine Daily Inquirer, 7/17/05

As a columnist of a responsible newspaper, I cannot be a fence-sitter on the serious issues confronting our country. I must state my position on the dispute now gripping the nation, for the information at least of my readers who may or may not agree with me as they choose. For whatever it may be worth, therefore, here is my categorical stand on the question of Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo’s fitness to continue as the President of the Philippines.

I will stress that this separate opinion is independent of the official stand of the Inquirer and may concur or conflict with it. I will not compromise it in any way because, by its own policy, its columnists have full freedom to articulate their views as long as they are not libelous, factually incorrect, tastelessly worded, or ungrammatical. I may also contradict my fellow writers in these opinion pages but they will not mind, I am sure. They know they can also contradict me, consistent with our “liberty to utter and to argue freely, according to conscience, above all liberties”.

After carefully considering the pros and cons of the current conflict, I now believe that President Arroyo has forfeited her right to her present position, assuming she was entitled to it in the first place. I do not base this view on the allegation that she manipulated the 2004 presidential election that she stole from Fernando Poe Jr. with the help of the missing “Garci”. That is a legal question for the proper authorities to decide. Neither do I fault her for the accusation that she and her family were financial beneficiaries of the jueteng lords, for that is a factual question that has yet to be resolved by the Senate investigating committees. She has denied both charges and enjoys the constitutional presumption of innocence against all accusations, valid or not.

But whether these charges are real or only imagined, the fact is that they have irremediably impaired Ms Arroyo’s credibility, which is a trait imperatively required of the highest official in the land. The evidence so far submitted against her is not trivial or superficial. Although some of it may be legally inadmissible, it is nevertheless of such persuasive character as to lead the ordinary citizens to believe, applying their own layman’s sense of justice, that she is accountable for the offenses imputed to her. Back of their minds is the memory of her sworn promise in 2003 that she would not run in the next presidential election, but did. That perfidy, among her other inconsistent avowals, casts doubt on her present denials of the serious accusations against her.

This doubt is shared by many people and not only by those in the political opposition, whose motives are hardly acceptable because of their previous record of insolent self-motivation. It is easy to see that they only seek to regain their abused power and to use Susan Roces for this purpose. The embittered widow of the late Fernando Poe Jr. represents the mass of Filipinos from all walks of life who are disappointed, disenchanted, and feel deceived by the leadership of Ms Arroyo. They are the conscientious citizens desirous only of honest and competent government who want her to discontinue what they call her inefficient and fraudulent regime.

Included in this movement are respectable figures in our country led by former President Corazon Aquino. Civic society and business groups have joined hands with institutions of learning and their militant students in urging Ms Arroyo to step down. It is true that communists and other rabble-rousers out to destabilize the government for their own illicit purposes are among those demanding Ms Arroyo’s resignation. But they have not detracted from the genuine and overwhelming urgency voiced by the civic-minded masses unswayed by political and other suspect influences for a change in the leadership they no longer trust.

I admit that there are a substantial number who want Ms Arroyo to finish her constitutional term, but most of them support her so they too can remain in office. Foremost among these are the Cabinet members who will automatically lose their jobs if the President resigns and foils their own instinct for self-preservation. Their arguments are self-serving and self-defeating.

The other constitutional alternative is Ms Arroyo’s impeachment, which is at the moment a toothless tiger. Unless public opinion drastically changes the political alliances in Congress, it will be difficult to enlist one-third of the House of Representatives to impeach and two-thirds of the Senate to convict her. That is why she herself is defiantly suggesting this process as a convenient if stealthy method for vindicating her tattered reputation.

These are the reasons for my joining the call for the resignation of Ms Arroyo. I hope she will heed it. Her voluntary and selfless renunciation of the Presidency of the Philippines in humble obedience to the will of the sovereign people could be her redeeming grace and virtue. It may create new problems, conceivably, but we should solve them as they arise and not in one fell swoop.

RE: CHAOS IS PASIG RIVER. WHAT THE HECK!—DJE

TURNING AND TURNING THE WORLD GOES 'ROUND...

Laughter being the most recent “get healthy” kick is really easy to come by here—right after crying for some time—AND THEN YOU TRY TO DEAL WITH BUSINESS BACK STATE-SIDE AND BETWEEN THE TWO IT BECOMES A FIVE-RING CIRCUS, ALTHOUGH NON-PERFORMING.

We will get there, we will get there, we will get there, we will....

And this is just when you thought it was safe to go back into the water, as the shark story goes.

Personal humor first: After all this time in this place we had to renew the lease and did so after some amount of haggling over waverly bed and interesting other things. So, Saturday came to our door two sets of single beds to somehow be hooked together so that we would have a similar size as furnished before and would hold our priceless mattress and pad that has saved our lives, literally. Oh well, good idea and wonderful sets that are the blessings of the day—BUT, no platform (frame).

The nice guys said something about tomorrow, which was truly unlikely being Sunday, and the laughter was on. Beds, no bottom and so it went. Two days (nights) later we are still sleeping on the floor, which we should have been doing all along anyway.

When the men turned the old bed up side to slide it out even they went into fits of laughter as all the legs were broken and none in the same place to equalize the load. So Philippine “drama” again ruled the days and nights. We will get there, we will get...

Then came the vacuum on which we got a really GOOD DEAL. ELECTROLUX yet and does wet or dry. We have to have something to suck up the dry bird poop to keep from dying of bird frenzy, etc. Little story, no point! But, that was equally as interesting to handle. It is an Electrolux, indeed, but from South Africa. It has a plug-in which is unlike anything we have ever seen before. So, we spent an entire day trying, trying, trying (notice the word “trying”) to find anything to make it work, including the people at the store where we got it. Today it simply goes BACK.

It also takes bags mandatory for dry pick-up. Oh fine—nobody here has even heard of a vacuum cleaner BAG! This is much less considering that this one is more unique than the plug.

We also got a couple of fans and now we have enough to blow on us from every direction at the same time thus allowing for that infamous and sought-after ability to ascend. Step into the vortex and the hair goes first then the whole “self”. Ah but, not to be cool, just the illusion of same as you experience the wind tunnel in action.

In searching for cleaner bags we did come across one of the biggest fans we have ever seen—for warehouses or something which would have blown out the entire apartment in one big blow, along with finishing off the “deaf” circumstance.

No complaints as it was nice to simply deal with SIMPLE THINGS. Of course we haven’t yet actually “dealt with them” so I may be truly jumping this gun. We get a rematch today, however, as the meeting for today, we are now informed, got moved to tomorrow without telling us. Oh well, it is only the nation at stake so why sweat and if you do—get in front of one of those fans and cool off in a minute or so.

Silliness now over and serious humor begins:

LITTLE THINGS IN WONDERLAND

For several weeks we have been gathering data and documents with several trips “to the provinces” [EJ: by Prof and Cenon] to gather both, either, neither and at the least the person who has them (MAYBE). These are the so-called gold documents showing lease payments and thus prove the gold in the Central Bank.

Now this one is truly a typical Filipino experience in exasperation. But it holds more probable realization than anything yet. The man’s name is “Billy” and that works well. He “hid-out” Prince Tallano for a while and secured documents among which were, we assume, these of which we speak and they just got dumped on him.

Ah but, in the meantime back at the “digs”, Billy seems to also have a “gold treasure” dig under way and the story gets more interesting by the minute depending on who is telling it and to whom it is being told. [EJ: Billy’s wife is “indigenous native” and owns the land upon which is the cave in which is the Treasure placed by the Japanese during WWII.]

Funny is as funny comes in that Billy was due here at 9:00 this a.m. along with our Judge to evaluate things a bit more closely. Can’t quite remember just who couldn’t make it when but it is now set for Tuesday a.m. This is fine for in the Judge’s courtroom Tallano had the documents and actually waved them at the Judge to prove he had them which proves up on the secured holdings.

It seems that the “Prince T.” must be trying to make a “deal” of some kind and the cycle is coming all the way around the clock and back home. It is actually very exciting but knowing how things work here, we will not cry, laugh, or even snicker YET.

At some point along this path even Prince T. has got to honor his own agreement made with us long ago and far away at upstart of this adventure into La-La-Land.

Mostly we find that these manipulators, here and there, outdo themselves in their grabbing and stupid games and with patience and a lot of hard recovery work it works out far better every time. Perhaps that is what “patience” is all about in the game of life.

It is, however, the same everywhere so no offense to anyone or place.

The most interesting and largest projects these days in negotiation with us come from India and Sudan. In Sudan there is a plan in the works to dam, irrigate and reclaim the Sudan. Those people plan to come see us soon and lay out their program along side the ones for the Philippines and see about a joint thrust and venture. The Indian projects are far larger but political matters are being settled first. CAN WE EVEN IMAGINE A WORLD WORKING TO FEED ITS PEOPLE AND ALLOW THRIVING?

We are, after all, seeing why patience for these years of accrued values will make it feasible to move forward and never mind the kibitzing and foolish accusations abounding. The very reflection will work its way right back around to home, U.S.A.

SAD AND GROTESQUE PHILIPPINES

Boy, do we ever have “rallies” and “mine is bigger than yours” mentality, along with “show me yours and I’ll show you mine—even if I have to fabricate it from scratch.”

For two days Makati was filled up curb to curb against PGMA. Then Sat. the whole of one of the parks was filled up curb to curb with Pro-GMA while the clowns thought nobody would notice that the PGMA group paid off participants and also fed them a couple of meals while also demanding that all government employees either go to the “Peace” rally or there goes your job. And surely enough it is wondered why nobody wants to do business in this place.

The interesting thing about it all is that it is so like VKD in that no matter how ridiculous a story can be or how many different versions, it seems to make no difference. We note at least 10 methods of “murder” of Russell Herman and at least a dozen different stories about how VK came by the Bonus “thing”, NONE of which could fit any time schedule at all—according to her just prior, under oath, statement regarding the very same thing.

If we continue, as we expect, to get the flak and the people waggle their internet trappings in our face we will surely have to re-run the facts and add the new tales as to acquisitions, marriages and yea, even deaths, to current datelines. We have even noted that while VK shouts her CSEML adventures it turns out that she was in Belleville, Ill. while Russell was still in California not noticing what she was doing in her spare time. And that, after she said he was never away from her AT ALL after 1987.

We also have new death of Russell claims that she just published on her site along with that which she claims was his “last signature” (which is NOT a signature) which accompanied an undated message to Senator Grassley that Russell was given the wrong TYPE of blood than his own type of blood.

She has made a very big deal about these “somethings” happening in conjunction with these messages in March (14th) of 1994 only to find that very clearly all the references are clearly marked “4/14/94” which I continue to believe is APRIL. However, what could I know?

She has also added to my various doings as now inclusive of the London explosions to go with the Madrid thingies and of course, that infamous 9/11/91 [91, VK?]. I also seem to finance everyone including ripping off China and the Muslims of 400 trillion dollars to finance “All Kada” and “Abo Sayeef”.

She also quite emphatically has stated that we did-in the Muslims by dealing with some $25T whereby we somehow demanded and got half in GOLD up-front. Thus, we beat them out of “$15 Trillion” in one swoop. Not to concern, though as 2 and ½ Trillion dollars [EJ: the difference] is hardly worthy of note I suppose.

She has also now connected us to a bunch more people we have never heard of but did her wrong! Good luck to them all and may they rest in peace—which is not likely. She has also announced globally that Col. Al Martin is a “disinformation information” scoundrel and supposedly there is someone else we never heard of but with whom we also do “something” dastardly against her person. So be it and please don’t tell her I can’t even get a vacuum cleaner with a plugin that fits so I can keep from getting bird-flu.

Hey, things are looking up already as we just toddled across the street (not to be confused with Chicago, that toddlin' town), hauled our sucker machine back to its seller and looked pathetic. They got us one with a proper plug which makes it appear that we were NOT THE FIRST to notice the problem [EJ: after we got it home and unpacked it] and since there is no such thing as an Electrolux vacuum cleaner BAG in this place, even ordered us some. No wonder we got such a wonderful purchase on the machine but my goodness, does it ever suck and blow and I expect all the birds to end up INSIDE IT if they fly by at the wrong time. The first of my lizards that gets sucked up is going to end this scientific experiment. Lizards are the insect controllers and we treasure them dearly.

We also got word while out that there is something which has taken place in court about our intervention case. We hear it is a handed down resolution but we don't hold our breath THAT LONG—yet. Cenon and attorney have gone to check it out. My goodness that would be progress as it has been dangling for MONTHS.

By the way, the major criminals in high-level positions here are now nicely situated in the U.S. Nobody seems to know how they manage to slip out of the country—first class yet. This must be the greatest exodus since Moses left Egypt. It will be wondrously nice when they are ALL gone. Well, to we who continue to look back to the “good old days”—these are them. This is a place where a step forward and ten backwards is considered progress of amazing speed and accomplishment. Come to think of it, that holds true for everywhere I have ever been.

Now this next is NOTHING to do with anything except pure joy for our narrow little expectations so don't go with VK's “encrypted” codes or anything.

A bit of our spelt got bugs and we sifted the bugs out (although I'm not exactly sure why we did that being birds eat bugs), but we being too tight to just foist off good food we put it into a “grinder” and broke it up into little bits. Then we got some cheap unpolished rice and mixed it. The birds go ape-play over it. The little guys have to have “cracked” grain (everyone knows). EJ claims I am “making fun” of him—oh well. It was over a year after coming to Manila that we even saw a bird so God has blessed us with His treasures.

I have a little card that Ellen Richey sent some time back which pictures a little baby bird on a branch begging mom for food. I also have the little guys now sitting on our ledge fluffed and fluttered while mom makes them go to the bread tray first then as they get a bit older on to the ground grain and yes, indeed, we wonder why we have bird poop on our ledge!

The flour that comes out too fine we save up and make bread with it and run it through the blender a bit and don't waste anything. Now don't laugh; this is our whole entertainment program. Perhaps these are likewise the miracles we neglect to notice along with rose smelling. Or perhaps it is the result of a night's sleep on a non-waverly bed. Life looks totally good today.

It seems like this has digressed sufficiently to “hang up”. We enjoy the anticipation of possible good things and for a little while we live in that “positive” dream world of expectation.

Thank you for your prayers and always let us petition that HIS will be done in HIS perfect way—and that we recognize it. That, after all, is always our greatest concern; that we might overlook something we should have done. It is the way of human.

RE: BULL DURHAM RIDES AGAIN; PHILIPPINES ON THE EDGE—DJE

[GCH: I ask that we make room for some more VKD postings with our response via EJ-DJ so as to be able to use as “legal” documentation in circumstances now global in scope. It is time to close “question time” and move on. However, this is not feasible until we have addressed more of the pertinent circumstances along with notations of the outrageous efforts from her to continue her fraud and outright lies as too many other parties also pay the price of losing credibility in reprinting or using her materials. We have little interest but many others certainly do.

As to the Philippines picture I ask that we not spend much time at the issue as there will be more to discuss next week. Senator Lacson will be giving an “opposition” State of the Nation Address (SONA) today which must be watched please and next Monday the poor little President has to give her new set of lies and promises without any ability to follow through under any circumstances. What the Philippines does is primarily important but clearing out debris becomes as important as having an opportunity to clean up the governance. Thank you for your patience and thank you John for attending the paper in order that we might continue with our own impacting needs of the moment while allowing you to put the paper “to bed”.]

CAUTION: BULL DURHAM STRIKES AGAIN

This time the “lady” has really tattled on herself and offered as some public notice filed with the Ida County Clerk's claimed office, information both fraudulent and criminal.

She has given information as to how to gain her so-called registered fabrications as:

“V.K. Durham, Trustor
Durham (Intl. Ltd;) Holding Trust (TIAS 12087)
Filed June 1997 of Public Record, State of Illinois, County of Washington, City of Nashville.
Additionally filed Ida Grove, Iowa County Court House [D: no closing (“”)]
JULY 17, 2005

In another posting on the same date, 7/17/05, on <TheAntechamber.net>, she writes:

“Mr. AT Alishdari. Please inform interested parties they can contact
Mr. Jim Clausen, Ida County Recorder
401 Moorehead St., Ida Grove, Iowa (U.S.A.) 51445, Tel: 712-364-2220 and for a fee obtain the DURHAM (INTL.
LTD;) HOLDING TRUST (TIAS 12087)
Records filed of Public Record to assist those interested.”

V.K. Durham's address is 611 Moorhead St., just two blocks away from the Recorder's office. Mr. Clausen probably knows VK quite well by now.

July 30, 2002 she formed a corporation called “Durham International, Ltd.” which was an obvious attempt to get at least a part of her spurious information documented. I would ask R.K. to please check out the status of that corporation in Iowa because my own thought is that it will now be defunct as that is VK's modus operandi. It is listed as “perpetual” which VK likely interpreted in her usual manner as meaning without fees or meeting other regulations. [RK reports this corporation is active, in good standing with the Iowa Secretary of State. Perhaps it was sustained by some sort of fees collected from VK's “186,000 trustees” of the non-existent “Durham Trust”?]

There is no Durham Trust of any kind and if there were it would have no impact on anything we hold or do. This is a caution, again, to you who follow this “challenged” woman and her claims and antics. VK Durham has no holding or standing with bonus 3392-181 and never did. It began as a bearer bond held by Russell Herman who turned it into an identifiably owned holding of Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing Ltd (CSEML) in 1988 as witnessed by Cecelia Xalis; Ms. Durham had nothing whatsoever to do with it. The entire holding became the property of CSEML thereby nullifying all the foolish fabrications offered after that date as to “her” signature or desires.

I use the term “caution” because people do not anticipate that such a warm and cuddly elderly lady, with her cigarettes and wine, could be a criminal, or that some of her “law” utterances could come from such a warped mind. Unfortunately for her, even in the relatively unregulated world of the Internet, her spewings flow like cement ready to harden around her own feet.

We have just experienced ANOTHER inquiry from parties working on two of the largest global projects on the planet: one in India and one in Sudan. We can smile, however, because her latest postings very adequately display her insanity; we are hardly required to respond, other than to direct them to <TheAntechamber.net>.

It has been important for us to have a scatter on her antics so that we can move forward and begin to lay to rest any question of the holdings; ultimately they need to be carved in stone for the ages to come.

We will post here some of the correspondence regarding the V.K. Durham accusations on the <TheAntechamber.net> website and “authorization” documents. We should not discuss the projects themselves.

We consider these as “opportunities” that might be otherwise missed so do not consider us as being other than weary of the time “wasted”. TRUTH is easy to come by but lengthy in responding when being fair to both parties involved.

I am sure we would all appreciate it if RK would sort a few of VK's most revealing tirades to print so that those who cannot get to the Internet can get the flavor of her current level of insanity. Perhaps one day soon we can be done with the waste of time and space. It IS, however, that our future lives DO REVOLVE around what we do here and INFORMATION is the only true weapon we have with which to continue so we have to document and reveal the counterfeit claims of manipulators.

Even Mr. H.S. commented in his phone call following his note of inquiry that it was about the most ridiculous presentation he had ever seen while it was his “wife”, yet, who stumbled onto the web-site in doing their own due-diligence.

VK gives all sorts of interesting numbers to her claimed documents replacing one with another—and NONE of which are pertinent in any way as presented.

We note that other parties are now being blamed, assaulted and made the brunt of libelous attacks from VK, inclusive of her own “trustees”. She claims some “local” trustees but also claims “186,000 Trustees Nation wide”. You really need to see the extent of the subterfuge in her Public Notice 1 of 7/17/2005. In fact, I believe that is the most important document to copy to the paper. Please note that all of her backup documents for reference are HER OWN as posted on her web-site provided by "Large Steve" (LA S) who seems to go right along with the criminal presentations.

We also note that the material now reaching publication on the Rumor Mill site is inserted under various names used for getting past the editorial screen. Most of the more dastardly and criminally indicting ones are now being "pulled" per VK's rantings. She has now accused one of her "Trustees" of actually "beating her up".

"This particular Trustee is the son of the elderly Trustee who I suspicion was 'abused'..after I, myself was accosted both verbally and physically yesterday by the Trustee which has given me cause to be concerned about my own safety and welfare."

THIS IS VK's "MO", little Trustee, in an attempt to set up some cause of action against you for damages and always, blackmail. Maybe you should KEEP all the records you gleaned from that hard drive while working on that computer in point for your own protection and shield.

She blathers about "control over the Trust". So be it for there IS NO TRUST in the first place so there is no "control" to be had. She continues: "Assurances can be made that DRASTIC changes will be made in the Trustee's and in Trust(s) Banking Accounts first of the week."

LA S (LArge Steve) has repeated in this writing that "there are apx. 186,000 Trustees nationwide". There are usually FEES extracted for such memberships and VK is noted for her artfulness in setting up and escaping from such scams. The Antechamber contains many references to one of her "students", Gary Stroud, and there have been many others go to jail shortly after she bailed out. Makes one wonder how one gets to be a "trustee" and what are the tax ramifications of 186,000 of them.

That first big "deception" is the one that eventually "getsya". And since LA S provides this outlet for dear Ms. Durham, I suggest he might just want to take a hard look at HIS position—we learned that VKD will bury anyone who confronts her in any way whatsoever. Hold it in your heart, LArge.

On 7/12/05 VK did an even worse hit on us as posted on her site as "Alarming Article".

This one is a true diamond of evidence as she goes on ad nauseam repeating her drivel. However, she blows loudly on such as "Then, you were made aware of AL MARTIN being one of the participants DOING DISINFORMATION FOR THESE GAIA-EKKERS ...." What an interesting concept! That along with the "$400 Trillion dollars in Counterfeit U.S. Debt Instruments in China and the Far East, and the Euro being approx. 80% underwritten by Greenspan using our commercial Banking & Commodity Contract without 'authorization'..."

It appears that the woman has truly "lost her marbles" and scattered them too greatly to re-collect them. By the way, Russell Herman had a name and it was "Herman". It was not Herrmann, Herrman or Hermann and he was NEVER married to VK Durham—EVER! If he had undercover names they are not known to us nor are any of the claimed OTHER holdings or accounts claimed by VKD.

Al Martin (Col. Ret.), would have no real information regarding Global Alliance Investment Association for it was not involved at the time of our interchange of personal nature with Col. Martin. The writings in his book are simply the way he chose to write the information regarding the "Bonus" and so be it. I'm sure he would have no interest whatsoever in some "nut-case".

I don't know "how" VKD can ever extricate herself from this hole she has personally dug for herself and that, in itself, is quite sad. She might have "had it all" except aren't the rest of us glad it didn't work out THAT way? One tyrant followed by a worse greedy tyrant is terrible to fathom in the case of such a large asset set forth for mankind. Cross the woman and it is instantly "off with the head". Others will learn this as they are beheaded along her road to perdition.

I will leave this now in the hands of Editorial staff to fit in as much as can be used for there truly is nothing more important to our task than this presentation of "Truth or Consequences".

Please pay close attention to the paragraph on page 3 of 4 of our "Affidavits re VK Durham" of 7/21/05 to Mr. H.S. which begins: "As a result of all of this research and analysis that we were forced to do by her scurrilous attacks, we came to realize that she had no claim at all to any part of 3392, and never had such. ..."

Thank you, DJE

VKD, In Her Own Words

Per DJE's request and in order to document VKD's mental instability, we hereby present in its entirety (minus bizarre captioning referenced on the opposing page) the following NON-Public Notice of the NON-EXISTENT 'Durham (Intl. Ltd;) Holding Trust'. Note up front that sufficient Public Notice requirements are NOT met merely by posting something on the Internet.

[QUOTING:]

DURHAM (INTL. LTD;) HOLDING TRUST

PUBLIC NOTICE 1

By V.K. Durham, 7/17/05

At this time Durham (Intl. Ltd;) Holding Trust [Please, readers, gulp now, plug your nose and hold your breath before it gets deeper.] TIAS 12087, Treaties international agreements sections 12087, Public Law 89-497, U.S. Code, Title 1 Sec. 113 (Brown & Little Bills of Lading), Sec. 111. Rights Retained Under Repealed Statutes As Though They Had Never Been Repealed (1947), Sec. 112. Congress and President "Noticed of Outstanding Debt" and John N. Perry vs The United States supported by Constitution-Law, is of the opinion it is time to re-state that which is already of Public Record, to wit;

DURHAM INTERNATIONAL LTD. "TRUST" (1982) was the original holder of the Peruvian Bonus Commodity Contract 3392 and Certificate of Debt No. 181 of May 1, 1875 in it's entirety.

31st December 1988. V.K. Durham-CEO-Signatory of Durham International Ltd. Trust assigned 24.4 Percent was assigned as an Assignment of Interest to Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing for a period of time existing from 31st of December, 1988 up to December 31st, 1992. The Assignment of Interest can be viewed at http://www.theantechamber.net/VkDocuments/MediaDocumentGroup/GROUP\_%20J\_1.gif. [Look this up, if you can: The purported documentation is just another bad VKD production, not at all what she says it is.] Other documents are contained in the Documents Group also posted for your viewing at <http://www.theantechamber.net/index.htm#VKD>. [More BS.]

August 29, 1994 the CEO of Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing, Ltd; Nevada ID # 1707-85 was "terminated".. This brought into full force and effect the Last Will and Testament of Russell Herman which contained the 24.4 percent of the accrued value of the before-mentioned Bonus Commodity Contract 3392 and Certificate of Debt No. 181 of May 1, 1875, which was filed in Gallatin and Washington Counties, State of Illinois. The Peruvian Document being; Certified Instrument Order No. 7309 held by Deed of Record, Instrument No. 189934 was received and acknowledged as received by John Ellis, Gallatin County Treasurer Sept 6, 1994 at 12:05 pm. The Original was returned to 'owner-holder' VINA DURHAM the wife of the decedant. [Sorry, they were NEVER married.]

This particular set of CERTIFIED [? If someone is "certifiable", it still doesn't make such documentation "certified".] DOCUMENTS represented a total of 48% (fourty eight per-cent) of the accrued value accrued from May 1, 1875 to May 1, 1990 which was calculated by the CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY ACUTARIAL'S, and Notarized, per the terms of the CERTIFIED ONE TIME ONLY BONUS COMMODITY

CONTRACT 3392.

What has been relatively unknown and un-disclosed was and is; There was CERTIFIED INSTRUMENT, ORDER 7310 also issued on the same BONUS COMMODITY CONTRACT 3392-181 which represents the FIFTY TWO PERCENT (52%). The instrument is also held in Trust.

The 48% was obstructed from being probated in the State of Illinois. The term for probate expired, and the 48 % (fourty eight percent) was put into TWO [non-existent] TRUSTS. One Trust holding 24.4 percent (24.4%) for WE, THE PEOPLE of the united states in Union, and the Latin American People receive the benefits of the balance which is held in TRUST also.

Each of these TRUST'S must follow the guidelines as set forth in the Original Parent Trust which follows the Constitution of the united States, supporting same as a glove protects the 'hand'.

A site will soon be set up at <http://www.theantechamber.net/UsHistDoc/dhc/dhcindex.htm> which contains the Original Purpose and Intent of the Constitution of the united States, and by this method of posting the ORIGINAL there can no longer be 'interperation'..because; "The Constitution is as it is written. It is not to be interpreted (Ch. Justice. U.S. S. Ct. W. Rehmquist. 1985(?)).

Forgery and Fraud, along with some very greedy individuals known as Rick Martin, E.J. and Doris J. Ekker etals attempted to forge and steal and otherwise falsely obtain and cause harm by filing of Public Record, State of Nevada, County of Clark, Official Records 980810 Instrument: 00323, August 10, 1998; COPIES of the previously Filed of Record and Signed and Received by John Ellis, Treasurer of Gallatin County, the Instrument Order No. 7309 and a copy of Deed of Record owned and so stated as owned by V.K. Durham (held inTrust), then enlisted the help of the President of the United States brother, Jeb Bush to assist them in a counterfeit operation operating out of the Philippines using the forged and fraudulent prime bank instruments (a violation of 18 U.S.C. Stat. 471. Counterfeiting of Prime Bank Instruments) which is supported by <http://www.theantechamber.net/Contact/Contact11205/ContactIndex.htm> and additional supportive documented evidence which can be found at <http://www.theantechamber.net/VkDocuments/DocGroupG/Gpage4.html>. [GAIA's legitimate DEEDs are NOT "counterfeit", nor are they regulated as "bills of exchange".]

The TRUST'S are set up..complete with EXECUTIVE BOARD OF TRUSTEES and approximately 186,000 Trustees Nation wide. [At how much $ per head?] (Those that selfishly filed in for themselves were discounted and not acknowledged) These are the ones who originally filed in on the Herman Estate, filing for their respective states..and can produce their Certified Receipts. They may find it necessary to check with the Okawville, Illinois Post Office.. Considering I have been forced from one residence to another and serious loss of the Certified has occurred.

Copies of the TRUST(S) and all relevants can be obtained for a fee, by contacting the Ida County Recorder's Office, Ida Grove, Iowa 51445.

V.K. Durham, Trustor"

For the record: This is NOT a true Public Notice, just the 'grotesque' product of an unsound mind.

Correspondence Shows Need To Straighten Out VKD Lies

The following correspondence between EJ Ekker and an influential project proponent (whom we shall identify only as "HS" to protect him from VK's scurilous attacks and prevarications) shows how much effort it takes to overcome the lies, while at the same time affording us the opportunity to share some new information with our readers.

INITIAL LETTER FROM EJE TO HS

July 19, 2005

HS:

Thank you for the report from Dubai of your activities. You are doing well and you may use this letter as proof that you have our permission to introduce our Association and its concepts to the appropriate people in other nations.

That is about as far as we go toward giving out "authorities" or appointing "agents". Much to our sorrow and surprise, we found that ALL of those we appointed in Canada, Papua New Guinea, the USA, Crete, the Philippines, and most of those in South Africa, Greece, and other countries have been unable to withstand the temptation to figure out a way to collect fees or "sell", or take "deposits", to have our DEEDs issued to qualified and well-meaning Project Proponents who then were disappointed when the manna did not fall from heaven.

GAIA furnishes supplemental (to a project) collateral in the form of DEEDs OF ASSIGNMENT FOR CONSIDERATION that are based upon US Treasury debt to GAIA and that are designed to be used as banking RESERVES for the purpose of purchasing gold to further strengthen the monetary system of each participating nation. The purchase of gold and its use as the collateral for a line of credit to the Project Proponent, thus "monetizing" it, is the responsibility of the Project Proponent and its bankers. It is a 50/50 joint effort. The Project Proponent comes to the table with a project and zero money; GAIA comes to the table with US Treasury debt to be used as banking RESERVES with which to purchase gold; and the selected Bank comes to the table with no money of its own for this transaction.

The Project Proponent leaves the table with 50% of the gold to use as collateral for a line of credit to fund its project; GAIA leaves the table with 50% of the gold that it leaves on deposit with the Bank for a small line of credit so that the Bank can have the benefit of its "unused loan equity"; and the bank has the use of a minimum of 50% the gold purchased to add to its unrestricted RESERVES. So we all come to the table empty-handed and, by working together, leave the table with what each of us needs.

In all of the countries in which we have had experience, it is illegal to accept a fee, deposit, or any other emolument in the front end of this type of transaction. There are too many "consultants", "financial advisors", "funders", and others who make their living by saying that, for a fee, they can arrange funding for a project when they know from the beginning that they cannot and do not intend to perform. Our program, sad to say, has been used by such nefarious and unscrupulous operators and our reputation has suffered stains from trusting such people.

We realize that very few persons can pay their own costs, and we also realize that it is too early for us to attempt to assist anyone out of our immediate area of supervision so we have determined to concentrate our effort here (where there is already plenty of gold) and so we have not solicited help to expand the program. At the same time, we recognize that others have their own life-missions to fulfill and we have no right to interfere with those. In fact, we are obligated to assist all of our fellow humans as much as we can when it does not interfere or distract from our own mission.

That describes our perception of our relationship with you. We do not know your mission—your contract with God/Aton/Allah—and you have been guided to contact us to gather data so, as we are able without losing our focus, we will attempt to assist you. In doing so we will also effort to maintain our integrity and strengthen our reputation. We hope you will be understanding of our position.

While we are quite sure that this is not the letter you would like, at this time it is what we are in a position to offer. We have no doubt that, when you have important people read it, they will give you the credibility you deserve and will also recognize that GAIA is not a fraud or scam.

Sincerely yours,
EJ Ekker, President

FOLLOWUP LETTER FROM EJE TO HS

July 21, 2005

Dear HS,

I will offer a bit of extra clarification regarding the material posted on the Internet about which you have inquired.

Ms. Durham was a "live-in partner" of Russell Herman when we were contacted by them in 1992. After his death August 29, 1994 she claimed to have been married to him so that she could claim his pension and the widows portion of his Veteran's Benefits plus his estate, which she thought included Bonus 3392. She was denied any support because she could not prove a marriage. She created several poorly done fake documents that were never honored by anyone examining them closely.

More than a year earlier, August 5, 1993 Russell had assigned "my portion" of 3392 to our employee, Rick Martin, who later (after GAIA was incorporated) assigned it to Global Alliance per Russell's instructions. At the time we assumed "my portion" to be 1/2 since he seemed to have some sort of partnership with her. He also advised us to catch up the delinquent fees due on his corporation, Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing, Ltd., which we did, not knowing at that time that he had previously, in 1988, transferred ownership from himself to Cosmos. It was not until about 2000 that we realized that the "assignments" made after 1988 were null and void since they were not made by the corporation, Cosmos.

After Russell's death in 1994 (which VK has accused, at different times, Bush Sr., Clinton, Ekkers, and Russell's own CIA team of his murder) the US government refused to pay her any of his benefits, which left her without income and so we assisted her financially. She was doing research on the US Constitution at that time and produced some good material for our paper. Not nearly enough to cover our costs of some $3000 per month but we did publish some of her material and we were trying to assist her in validating 3392 as we had been asked to do by Russell. In 1996 she offered to assign some $50 billion to a new corporation (Hellenic Express, which we formed for the purpose and which we have since dissolved) to see if we could get something done through our contacts in Greece and South Africa.

We had a contact at the US Treasury, the director of the Legal Department, Russell Munk, who we contacted for advice. After many conversations by telephone we arrived at an understanding, which he would not sign as an agreement since it would be binding upon the Federal Reserve System, so we published it as a Public Notice in 1996 and again in 1999. Your copy is labeled "33National Security".

Significantly, her "assigns" were in her own name and not from her fictitious "trust". They were made for one year with provision for extension and when it came time to either extend or cancel them in 1997 she attempted to blackmail us for $5000 to pay for the "trust" she intended to set up, among other exorbitant demands. By this time we had worked on 3392 for some 3 years and had come to believe in its validity so, after some very acrimonious attacks from her, we determined that we had lived up to our part of our bargain with Russell Herman and were free to pursue doing something with "our half".

We set up GAIA so that Rick Martin could make the assignment of "Russell's portion" to GAIA, which was to become the operating corporation. Because the newspaper, CONTACT, is distributed all over the world, we were able to soon have several people offering DEEDs in many places, the most active being the Philippines. By mid-1998 it had become apparent that we would have to provide some interim support so we brought 5 board members and our corporate attorney to the Philippines. The story is too long to tell here but, to

Tehachapi Revisited: Underground Facilities

While we have been generally aware of the scope of underground bases and surreptitious activities within them, it was more than mildly "interesting" to find specific information relating to the Tehachapi underground complex on the Internet. Steven J. Smith has put this information in the public domain and we are thankful for his original research and sharing.

THE TEHACHAPI COVERT UNDERGROUND COMPLEX AMERICA'S FLYING SAUCER FACTORY

By Steven J. Smith, <geocities.com/electrogravitics/th-intro.html>

Caution!

The Tehachapi covert underground complex is protected by an automated anti-personnel security system. If provoked, this system is capable of taking autonomous and potentially lethal action against intruders. The author recommends in the strongest possible terms that NO physical intrusion of this complex be undertaken.

*** Ignore this warning at your own risk ***

INTRODUCTION

A Google search on the phrase "Tehachapi UFO" yields a total of 1,150 web pages dedicated to this subject, and if you take the time to read some of these pages, you discover several common threads. Among these are:

1. The area east of Tehachapi California is a hot bed of UFO sightings and abduction reports, some of these sightings made by commercial airline pilots.
2. Many of the abducted have reported being taken to a government controlled, covert underground facility near Tehachapi California.
3. The underground facility is powered by a hydroelectric plant located on the Kern River at Lake Isabella, some 40 miles to the north.
4. Most web documents mention the Tejon Ranch, near Little Oak Canyon as the epicenter of this activity, and probable location for the covert underground facility.

1, 2, and 3 are correct. However, number 4 is government disinformation. I am not accusing those who published these web pages of involvement in any government conspiracy or cover-up. They no doubt published information gathered from other sources, believing it to be the truth. And in all fairness there is a very blatant, odd looking facility located at the Tejon Ranch, complete with warning signs listing the dire [consequences], should you trespass onto the site. Nevertheless, the Tejon Ranch facility is a ruse, used to divert attention away from the real Tehachapi underground complex, located approximately 22 miles to the northeast.

How do I support this conclusion?

The power line originating at the Kern River hydroelectric plant does not terminate at the Tejon Ranch. The terminus point is in a patch of desert, northeast of Tehachapi. Furthermore, an area next to the power line terminus is literally teaming with anomalous roads, ventilation shafts, partially buried structures, underground access portals, and other suspicious above ground artifacts. Most of which (unlike the Tejon Ranch installation), are very skillfully camouflaged. When considered as a whole, the conclusion is obvious. The Tejon Ranch facility is being used in a misdirection ploy to conceal the true Tehachapi covert underground complex.

What follows is an in-depth pictorial exposé of the real Tehachapi covert underground complex. A complex that encompasses an incredible 16 square miles!

OVERVIEW

You are about to take a journey into one of the darkest secrets of the American government and it's corporate cronies. If you are an American citizen, this journey will not be a pleasant one, since you will discover how thoroughly you have been deceived. If you are a citizen of another country, you (most likely) already know the utter contempt with which the American government deals with your elected representatives. What you may not understand is why your elected representatives allow such behavior to continue. Simply stated, the American government has developed and deployed a class of weaponry unlike anything previously used by mankind during the [annals] of recorded history. Possessing these super weapons, the American government believes no power on earth can oppose it, and has chosen to behave accordingly. The Tehachapi covert underground complex is the secret factory where this weaponry is being manufactured.

If you are expecting to see flying saucers, bug eyed aliens, bizarre looking buildings or other strange artifacts to give you that "space cadet glow", please go elsewhere because you will be disappointed. This document is a sober in-depth analysis supported by aerial photography, written from the perspective of a scientist.

What you will see is over 90 pages of aerial photographs and analysis, exposing among other things: A saucer landing field, a finished craft rollout ramp, multiple underground access portals, automated anti-personnel security systems, ventilation shafts, a concealed helicopter landing pad, a toxic waste processing and storage facility, even a complete air defense system. Altogether, an estimated 20 billion dollars of underground infrastructure and above ground support facilities. Paid for with misappropriated tax revenue, then quietly hidden in the picturesque desert chaparral northeast of Tehachapi California....

[END QUOTING]

Steven J. Smith's website contains over 90 images of the Tehachapi underground complex, along with extensive analysis of each observable feature.

Please note the strong warning to avoid this area with its Active Denial Systems and Security Interdiction Machines (SIMs), which could definitely be hazardous to your health!

If you have access to the Internet, you are encouraged to visit Mr. Smith's website for a much safer view of the government-funded electro-gravitic (EG) craft production facilities:

summarize, the political situation was too unstable to install our program and so we have stayed in the Philippines to educate as many influential people as we can so that when the globalist-oriented politicians are replaced by those with a nationalist orientation, our program can be successfully installed.

During 1998 through 2001 VK Durham was not on the Internet and did all of her attempts to discredit us via fax. Some of her vitriolic tirade was posted on the Internet by a former friend of ours who used to post things (maybe still does) on Fourwinds10.com. That material was posted on a site in Brunei and picked up by a group with whom we were working in the Southern Philippines, causing us to conclude that we would have to respond publicly and be prepared to respond in the future. We did so then via an Affidavit with the file name of VKD AFF 1-12-2. She responded to the Public Notice and, after several exchanges of faxes, etc., we published the final Public Notice labeled VKD Aff 1-20-3.

In that exchange VK made the error of sending us copies of the documents she had attempted to fool the US government into thinking she and Russell had been married. Even as amateur as we are, we could easily see her fabrications and we published another Public Notice containing scanned copies of such things as her alleged Application for Marriage License. We do not have that particular PN in a format that we can email—it was published in the newspaper CONTACT sometime in 2002.

As a result of all of this research and analysis that we were forced to do by her scurrilous attacks, we came to realize that she had no claim at all to any part of 3392, and never had such. We also came to realize that the original assignment to Rick Martin from Russell Herman was not valid since it was made in person instead of from the Cosmos Seafood Energy Marketing, Ltd., corporation, the owner of the asset since 1988. We (Ekkers) have kept the fees and records of that Corporation up to date since 1993. So as to completely clarify the ownership question, as Officers and Directors of both GAIA and CSEML, in 2003 we held joint Board meetings of both corporations and resolved that each corporation would be the owner of 50% of the 3392 asset. The GAIA half is to be used primarily in the Eastern Hemisphere and the CSEML 50% primarily in the Western Hemisphere. The URL of the State of Nevada corporate registry is: <https://esos.state.nv.us/SOSServices/AnonymousAccess/CorpSearch/CorpSearch.aspx>

When you type in the name of a corporation it will give you the current status, the Agent-for-Service (legal), and the current officers so that you can independently verify ownership for yourself.

In summary, Vina Katherine Durham has never had any ownership interest in the Peruvian Bearer Bond (Gold Certificate) "Bonus" 3392-181. Neither does she have a "trust" into which she has "retired and placed CSEML", 3392, or anything else. We are frequently asked why we don't sue her to shut her up. There are three reasons: 1) It would be a waste of time and money, 2) It would distract from our current and primary mission, and 3) Quite frankly, we are grateful to her for keeping us on our toes—we would not have realized that she had nothing had she not continued her tirades. As time goes by, her tirades are quite sufficient to discredit herself and anyone who will take the time to verify that need only do a search for Antechamber where she posts her material.

We thank you for your inquiry and for the opportunity to clarify the situation.

Sincerely yours,
EJ Ekker

More to Tehachapi Than Meets the Eye

RE: TEHACHAPI, CALIFORNIA, USA—GCH/d

MORE DISTRACTION BUT ALSO MORE INTERESTING DISTRACTIONS FROM "BACK HOME" TEHACHAPI REVISITED

Whoa, stop, listen and THINK before driving those horses across the tracks! Then, listen to me very carefully as you get flooded with "What ifs", "Ands" and "Buts".

Chains are being rattled and fires ignited but the horses are already out and gone, students of historical inter-dimensional conscience/conscious. THINGS ARE DIFFERENT NOW AS EVERYTHING CHANGES AND MOVES FORWARD WHILE ALWAYS SHIFTING AND RETRENCHING.

What I am going to say to you local Tehachapi, California visitors and dwellers while experiencing, especially our communications, will be both shocking and yet totally feasible in all instances. There is NOTHING coming out now that I have not told you PRIOR TO NOW AND NOW, SEEMINGLY, A LONG TIME AGO. I MEAN NOTHING!

Strange things around the little town of Tehachapi? Indeed, indeed! However, the big shift away from the local areas now being "uncovered" and presented on internet research and search sites are old and are now but distractions and mostly INTENTIONAL distractions as we move on into more current interchanges of all kinds and never mind those "flying saucers, pans, lollypops or conjured monsters, insects and dragons"!

Is something strange about Tehachapi? Oh yes, and I told you so, and moreover, why would we be there if not for strange phenomena?

Ah but.... It goes all the way back to "hitch onto our wagon" to "jump off the wagon" and set up your neighbor because you have a bad hair day and you cannot contain reason or there is envy through ego blowouts.

I don't come today to do anything about your persons or your "druthers" any more than I ever did—I come to tell you how it IS and what "is"-IS. You like intrigue and reference BIG INTRIGUE as to hidden bases, hidden weapons, hidden craft and my goodness, invisible visitors that you can conjure into something reptilian or remotely terrifying. I personally am none of the above as you experience me, make your choices about me, and move on into daring me to do something or other to you in protection of the very ones you latched onto and then dumped when it looked like you could gain or, actually, destroy anything worthwhile in the making.

THAT IS WHY WE NOW ARE WHERE WE "ARE" BECAUSE OUR THRUST WAS NEVER INTO QUESTIONABLE GROUPS, THEORIES OR INTRIGUING FLYING POTS AND DISHES.

We always invited open visits while we informed, shared, taught and gained our team for ongoing, HUMAN EXPRESSED, activities. There is ridicule? There are actual criminal accusations? Oh yes, but what comes of it is—mud on the face of the liars and frauds. There is NO MUD OR EGG on our faces, good friends, and time has outgrown the silly, stupid and intentional games of the gremlins at play.

Do I think a lot of people actually heard from "other" unnamed entities around and about? Yes, of course! Moreover, you acted and received EXACTLY as programmed to act and receive. Those idiots have also moved on while wiping out the only claim they actually had going—the presence and the manifested "lies". There is no ANYTHING left to even remind anyone of our living in the community itself and no history of ANYTHING as stated by the adversaries. Yet those same deniers are holding court continually to do WHAT?

A decade "away" is certainly long enough to bury the rumors established and more certainly, to cut the strings that bind, at the least, us. There is NOTHING left in the area that can't be handled far more effectively elsewhere but why move anyone when there is also happiness and ongoing living to be achieved? The bashing and trashing against us has only made it possible to move on and into successful accomplishment of that which we HAVE ALWAYS BEEN "ABOUT".

Also, as you move on into what will be offered about underground facilities for, indeed, manufacturing vehicles in those hidden places IN TEHACHAPI, you will recall, please, that there is a CRYSTAL of large size and the location is incredibly important—but no longer any concern to needs.

LOCATIONS OF INTERESTING PRESENTATIONS

Ok, good friends, let us consider Tehachapi and the, quite specifically, area behind Monolith cement facility. Oh wow, that WAS a doozy of activity and ALL of you missed it because of its location and private land control.

You HAD the largest manufacturing facility, UNDERGROUND, for craft of all kinds and weapons of desired U.S. mass destruction of anywhere outside Montauk, New York.

As times changed, however, ingress and egress became a major factor and to longer roll out or test vehicles became impossible to cover as in "hide". Ah but, all that is now public information and the writers can do ever so much more interesting and intriguing telling than I would wish to exaggerate here on a Monday in Manila where the nation is falling apart, literally.

I am not into flying objects of strange shapes and forms. It is interesting that any of you might consider that I would be.

There ARE, however, residual security measures and open activities at the old sites as will be presented up Monolith "canyon" and even, yes indeed, Sand Canyon in, yes, Tehachapi. The activities or original purposes have shifted to larger and more integrated facilities—also handled totally UNDERGROUND with amazing tunnel complexes with transportation fully capable and available. Most of the working facilities are operational but surface activities are almost all changed out to other places across the mountain "ranges" and into the massive facilities of such as Northrop, Edwards, Palmdale-Lockheed, China Lake and other places you won't even recognize.

Why do people become confused, opinionated and actually act in totally irrational ways? Because it is intentional that it be accomplished. I can name many who simply fell to the bombardment by pulses, waves, particles, implants and various other very tampered and "adjusted" circumstances. Where, by the way is Nory Latona? What is going on with the Spectrum "big-shot" group? I thought you might want to think on that for a while. We didn't "sort"—"THEY" sorted themselves into the clutches of their new MASTERS. Dr. Young, for instance, came to Tehachapi as a planted asset and that was definitely NOT my idea.

How can you discern? He never acted like other than "different". He was highly intelligent but only in a very significantly limited way. He never worked regularly expected hours or in any way other than in "superior" egotistical mode. He slept all day and did whatever he did AT NIGHT, ALL NIGHT. You still have other equally limited and self-egotistically-oriented entities tossing pebbles at us but failing to do more than offer opportunity for response, yea as is this new development and "revelation-discovery" about Tehachapi. It isn't new and it is not, certainly, "revelation".

He had no "normal" relationships with, most especially, women. He captured Nory and turned him into a servant "receiver" and housemate. Nory changed; Ed did not! Same with Rick M. as he was always a "drifter spirit" without the "spirit" except to play at games. When the games were actually REAL TIME; our team found it disappointing but certainly NOT offering immobility.

Even as to old "Hatton, Hatonn, Hatoon" you will find that you had best call on Ed Young, Rick Martin, Nory and indeed, "Duggah" and George Green for your input for we have other things to accomplish and we are now notoriously NOT ASSOCIATED WITH SUCH MUSH AND BS (bat sh—er-ah—crap).

I would remind all of you that we always made presence known and even turned on smoke detectors to announce our vapor trails. Moreover, we were always chased about by military craft and it is always known that we had/have a very good UNDERSTANDING with your more dominant "powers". We have no intention of pulling magical strings or interfering with ANYTHING but a more level playing field is mandatory if total global enslavement of human species-race is to be avoided.

I have spoken AT LENGTH for hours of both oral expression and in writing about the massive underground conduits under the Mojave area. I even told you about the water conduit which allows for vessels of "destroyer" size and submarines to move from Long Beach areas along the Western California coast right directly to and from China Lake in Inyo-Kern.

Now, I want all of you, including "Janet", to reconsider what she was doing in the area on Christmas Day a few years back and remember carefully, her ACCIDENT. Then all of you carefully evaluate and discern PROBABILITIES that "we" were right there and pulled her from a burning vehicle. Dharma saved her life only to later have her and a newly acquired "handler", Ray B., do a real negative and public trashing on us.

I want you to consider who might know the location and activities of one Charles Neil as an example of unexpected turn, run and denounce me and my team. I confronted these people and they backed off and "ran". It is good for it becomes disappointing but manageable in its very realization.

It will NOT be repeated!

So, readers, enjoy your newly available information, reconsider your own position and why you might have become involved as well as consider what you have done or thought since the major onslaught against my team. You have proven that there is little discernment when good people meet the adversary and listen to the "reasonable" tales and expressions which "sell" you a bill of goods. 20 YEARS IS LONG ENOUGH, LITTLE STUDENTS, AND YES INDEED, CONTACT IS THE ONLY PAPER WHERE YOU WILL FIND THE "REAL THING". THAT WILL REMAIN SO AS LONG AS YOU RESPECT AND SUPPORT IT—OTHERWISE—KISS IT GOODBYE AS WELL, AS YOU FALL TO THE SILLY NONSENSE OF "FIRST CONTACT", NESARA

ANNOUNCEMENTS, UNCOMMONLY MUSHY “RECEIVERS” USURPING RECOGNIZED GUARDIANS AND ON AND ON AND ON.

I know that some of you who do not associate with us still grab, share and work diligently with everything we present to better struggle for attention with those around you to more clearly USE them for your purposes. It is not my right to attend it otherwise except as to cutting down on any “extra-paper” presentations. Liars and false friends and colleagues ARE STILL AMONG YOU. So be it but we do not need further frustrations and games. Therefore, I suggest you keep the imposter Durham informed for there certainly ARE other and greater personalities than her bunch of frauds.

If you still consider “contact” with something or other “out there somewhere” I implore you to be of some form of intelligent life where you ARE. The question is not “is there intelligent life out there” but is there any intelligent life among YOU.

Now, authors are going to warn you to STAY AWAY from these questionable sites. I CONCUR! STAY OUT OF THOSE AREAS where you can be bonked, squashed, maimed or deaded—or, live out the rest of your days in underground existence with altered brain function. When you read about, and you will, the things such as Security Interdiction Machines (SIMs) you will be advised, EMPHATICALLY, to avoid the cute little spheres and indeed, they are all over the places of the “games”. They can do anything from make you queasy to kill you without note of any tampering other than “the poor guy had a heart attack”.

When you are confronted, as at areas 51 in Nevada and invited to “get out”—GET OUT! Know that you ARE ON CANDID CAMERA, UNDER SURVEILLANCE, AND A WARNING OR TWO IS ALL YOU GET BEFORE THEY SNATCH YOU AND THAT SNATCH CAN BE “FOREVER MORE” IF YOU PUSH IT.

People who think they will just go on the hill and satisfy curiosity will, before long, get to wish you had not but by then if you have complied with the “get out” it will be sometime later that the actual reactions take hold. Mostly, however, it is immediately noted that you “just don’t feel well”, pass out or become so weak that you have “heat stroke” or something equally as indiscernible to the novices. I would suggest that you who live in Sand Canyon, Tehachapi, take great care for you already KNOW that there are “off limits” places abounding.

I recognize that you local curiosity-ridden residents will certainly go forth and try to “see something”. I can promise you that you will “see” nothing of great interest for it is intentional that it be that way. Get really foolish and you will likely find a one-way ticket in your knapsack. There are so many of these restricted areas around the Palmdale, Inyo-Kern and Tehachapi locations as to stagger your imagination. Don’t push your luck because it is none of “us” that are your problem—it is the manipulators on the very human level who no longer have conscience or goodly consciousness.

I will leave the press presentations to others for we have no more time for the focus. I repeat, however, that you should enjoy and remember when because it is right there that it has come into our attention. There was a REASON for Tehachapi expression and experience and I suggest you dig out some of your old Journals and tapes and refresh your memories.

This is not your problem, Dharma, so allow us to also enjoy but return to our business at hand. Others can give input and “output” about the topic as being presented. I suggest you pay equally as much attention to the other information on particle beams, locations near nuclear plants and what is taking place for it is far more directly applicable to all of you than underground fabrication plants for UFOs. RE: MISCELLANEOUS, INCLUSIVE OF TEHACHAPI “REVELATIONS” BY STEVEN J. SMITH—DJE

* * *

FOCUS ON “REALITY”?

I would suppose that in the overall scheme of living in interesting times that you are not hanging on to learn that a 16-year old “man” from Taiwan won the World Championship in 9-ball pool yesterday? I thought not. I think we are so much more interested in throwing pool balls at one another than ever appreciating fully such a game on which millions of dollars (and every other currency) change hands in the gambling halls. Oh well.

Among our own friends it is, of course, that the information flowing out about Tehachapi, California (home) is working up memories, realities and just “why” we are “about” that which we are, were and ultimately, within God’s GRACE, working to achieve.

People came and people went and it is interesting to note that with things taking place before those very eyes in full manifest presence, the adversarial things of living simply took over and those of us remaining held the line but without much enthusiasm for the task through the hail of slings and arrows from every parasitic usurper coming along the pike. Today it is GOOD, readers, for we are NOT in a position to JUDGE anyone and discernment is often obscured by life, living, and lies of choice.

In our journey through establishing some more secure places for our friends we accomplished much while ultimately losing more. That, however, is now recognized as the very experiential lessons of moving on to the outcome of greater meaning and focus.

Were there spacecraft in our sky back then? Oh yes, but we were about the last to know and only then when surveillance teams came to call because reports had craft and odd things all over our hillside and front stoop.

The surveillance vehicles, those black unmarked helicopters, to take their infamous pictures and check out the electrical flux at our location, actually came so close to our house as to clip the ends of the twigs on our front yard Oak tree.

I have really chuckled over the information provided yesterday when I think back that we were dickering for a piece of railway track where we could place, out of the way, a few rail cars with fuel for interim generation should it be needed.

Now, I can comfortably suggest that the exercise was to get us into a useful location where tunnels connected to outside access. We certainly knew of tunnels and we could experience the constant vibrations and noise levels of totally uncomfortable impact. We did very well but others didn’t even like to live on our street and would come and move on in rapid succession. Ah but, the tunneling stopped before it reached our location itself, as we were located right at the edge of a very large crystal already in use by anyone clandestine, it seems. I did not say, invisible, although there were agreements that no impact would be tolerated on the crystal itself. I won’t go into that story because so many of you will remember it anyway that I don’t need to deal with more questions or interruptions. We all always miss most of what is taking place right in our faces and that is why it is so easy to hide major THINGS right under our eyes and noses.

We couldn’t deal with any such parties or on any land acquisition up “Monolith” “canyon”. We already knew it was “private” but golly-gee, we just wanted a little piece of the place. Moreover, we hoped to put up dairies at the mouth of that canyon and also in the mouth of Sand Canyon where nothing seemed to grow but, with power and shelter, a feedlot or dairy would be exceptional because of its isolation and aesthetic placement. It is totally funny today.

I remind everyone reading this that we were not alone in knowing these things that have come to be proven incidents. There were constant reports of actual beings out on training sessions in the sparsely occupied mountains nearby. The stories were interesting, non-threatening and actually quite humorous as the “persons” were not hostile but totally curious about everything and somehow liked climbing onto rooftops for a better view of “whatever”. These people would then be quite carefully gathered again and very gently taken back to wherever they came from—by military personnel.

Then one Thanksgiving we experienced the most “interesting” thing taking place as we had dozens of people to Thanksgiving dinner and whammo, a full impact blast from right above the foothill behind our house. That one ended up as a “tractor” tow of the plane filled with bodies from a middle East incident to Edwards Airforce base some 30-miles distant. The plane with its cargo was put down on the major runway on which the shuttle lands and left there for the military (U.S.) to explain. Too many people saw it to do other than just deliberately give false information and somewhere out near Edwards there is a mass burial grave holding hundreds of people.

The whole town shook and experienced broken windows and then it was claimed it was a sonic boom of some kind although no known craft was in the air. This is always a good story presented to cover everything curious.

Ah then, it came to be known later that my boss is a very well known and RESPECTED personage that meets with lots of far higher-ranked individuals than I shall ever achieve. This “Hatonn” that is classified by VK as Doris J. Ekker (Princess Rani and 21 aliases) is found fully qualified and the REAL MCCOY in levels of top-secret security above A-6 where information is non-accessed by even the President. We were warned to not even mention the name on the telephone by certain terrified parties in high-ranking positions at the time—like the whole of the Iran Contra Affair bunch—before and after.

Do you continue to think it so totally absurd that Russell Herman turned over the Bonus holdings to us? It should not surprise you in that VK DURHAM, HERSELF, SAID THAT CMDR. HATONN VISITED WITH RUSSELL AT LEAST THREE TIMES A WEEK AND IN SESSIONS WHERE SHE CLAIMED TO HAVE ALSO PARTICIPATED. To deny that now in favor of Doris Ekker is the absurd nonsense. I never met the woman nor participated greatly with her in ANYTHING but did have several conference meetings with Russell Herman, which he instigated and usually without VK's presence—when she was out or he was “out” to other phone facilities. Frankly we thought nothing much of it at the time.

We knew that VK was NOT Russell's wife but we were not privy to everything and actually “cared less”.

It has, yes, been a fantastic journey which we still do not need to understand or comprehend because that keeps us out of trouble. Moreover, the ONLY real trouble we have encountered is with the blowhards and liars of the New Age Cult variety and parties who came and inserted themselves into our very place and took from us in both sharing and in actual MONEY. I have no intention of commenting further on those things but we have been open, totally, about everything and everyone connected. If “they” have not appreciated the TRUTH then it is unfortunate but surely is recognized as being “their assigned and accepted” orders to do whatever they chose to do

We can count every uncomfortable confrontation and loss as to being essential in its very sequence and realization as being necessary to get us to this place at this particular time.

I am having a lot of fun with the fact that near our very own house on Adam Drive there is a “Sipapu” and it just offers so many interesting events as to keep the house tied up in confusion with clouded title as to be interesting all in its own category of “say what?”. You will have to get Sipapu Odyssey, the first story we presented, to know what that means and why we were going to film it and yes indeed, right there in “Strange” Tehachapi. You can get it through the ones who offer Phoenix Journals [Phoenix Source Distributors, (800) 800-5565].

I am totally amazed that there are ongoing flibbertigibbet offerings of every weird kind promising “First Contact” and ongoing NESARA nonsense which on the face of it is totally lacking any credibility. As for “contact” it would appear to me that has been so established for half a century as to be a cause for Mel Brooks to go ape.

Extraterrestrials? Well, take a good hard look at yourself, friend. Your feet or physical body is very “terrestrial”—BUT THAT GOD-PART CALLED SOUL OR SPIRIT IS ROOTED IN SOMETHING SOMEWHERE OUTSIDE TERRESTRIAL TERRA-FIRMA. Go for it with all the silly nonsense offered about God and ascension and immortality. Of course the YOU of “you” is immortal but we each enjoy the very mundane living style of the human “game” in play. Moreover, the game in play on a planet provided for experiencing humans of FREE WILL and CHOICE is a rather nasty game of CONTROL of another or others inclusive.

Ah indeed, Tehachapi is an interesting bedroom area for those who play over in the side of the mountain toward Palmdale where the real action is ongoing. They will seem to have no roots, nothing particularly notable and always the answer to “what do you do?” will be met with some tale of working over at.... . People working on projects DON'T TALK. Moreover, the families attend schools and activities and those who declare their “job” identification will tell openly that they work only on a “need to know” basis. When the stealth crafts were made only the final assembly was recognized by anyone as every piece and part of the plan was top-secret and from one plant or branch to another—nobody knew the whole of the plan. This is easy to check out for anyone interested. Most of us don't care a whit.

To all in the area it was/is NOTHING to note strange craft, shuttles, lights, spheres up canyons—especially Monolith a few years back, like a decade. These were constantly noted and openly discussed but with little “interest”.

So much tunneling and digging has gone on UNDER Edwards Air Force Base that the major Shuttle landing strip had to be closed because of the ripples and holes in the surface. That was blamed, of course, on farmers and townships using water which left holes underground. No, the tunneling machinery ripples the surface and sometimes a lot worse as it is near the surface digging.

I hope you will recall that George Green was stationed at Edwards and actually saw (and yes he did) a “craft” stashed in one of the major hangars on the base. It was a hotbed of activity and those guys from “out there” met with our U.S. President right at Edwards Air Force Base.

We have been chased as in “high speed” just going about minding our business. We have been hit by every known “living bit of nonsense” and loss. But, something more important becomes a true revelation and realization—Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn said we would be fine, it would all work out well and so it has come to pass that we are here, well and functional while constantly stumbling into the very most absurdly LARGE asset holdings on the globe—one after another. Are we so bright as to suggest that “we planned it” as VK conjures? Of course NOT!

We DO, however, realize every day that had one thing been differently presented and even one capable individual acted properly before now—this would also be NO opportunity so we grasp at that realization and move on effectively and properly.

Can we make it work? No, not by ourselves, but certainly we can make every effort to do what is necessary and work right on through it to the best of our abilities.

MANILA, ET AL., IN RECURRING POLITICAL DISASTER(S)

What is taking place in the Philippines is a comedy of three-ring circus activities. There is every kind of suggestion taking place to literally run the government, overthrow the government, or simply “control” the nation and thus, the government. Tomorrow under our windows is to take place the Mother of all Rallies for causing change in governance.

The Catholic Church has taken its usual fence-sitting position where it comes out well and prosperous no matter what political garbage ends up in the driver's seat.

There is a bunch of hooey about the Senate President Drilon joining the march for the President to step down and there have been ongoing diversions from the present Cabinet members (Secretaries), most of them finance associated. It is presented that Drilon is possibly wanting the Vice President Noli de Castro to take over as GMA did from Erap Estrada and then he could be appointed Vice President. I don't think so! My observation is that if you wipe out GMA through whatever means that the next person in line for that seat is Noli de Castro, VP. Ah BUT, if, as it appears to now present, that Noli was also criminally involved in election fraud—he too shall be out and the NEXT IN LINE TO TAKE THE SEAT (PRESIDENT) IS SENATE PRESIDENT, FRANKLIN DRILON. What webs are woven!

Facts are, former President and American Boy, Fidel Ramos is in full charge of the “palace” and uses it as if he were the sitting President with his chosen “cabinet” as well. He has press conferences right there at the “Capitol-White House” and is in full control.

His push, along with games-playing former President Cory Aquino, is a claim to want GMA to step down, alright, but to also take the government out from under any Constitutional form and go for a Parliament where the big-boys continue the reign of corruption more easily.

Meanwhile back at this ranch it is interesting to note that a rather important man from the Bangko Sentral came to call a couple of days ago. This was a real hoot! He finally suggested that we should work with a U.S. bank and do TRADING PROGRAMS. Then, when asked about gold in the BSP, he said that all of that had been associated with the former Central Bank.

Is the world nuts? Yes, I suspect it is. In this very land of confusion and corruption the Administration just passed (pushed through) a “value added tax” which was to take up on July 1st only to be stopped by the Supreme Court by a Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) which was the talk of the day—only to find that GMA had been totally behind the TRO. And how is your head today?

So, how do we expect outcome? We don't. We hope, like others, that it works out well enough to be able to institute reasonable changes as we have clearly presented.

Would the U.S. allow such a thing? Who knows? HOWEVER, my own observation is that there is NO OTHER WAY TO GO EXCEPT INTO THE CESS-POOL. The fights right now are about getting off shore with body and graft—mostly all to the U.S. with bank accounts hidden and mansions waiting—and then down with everything. The Philippines meanwhile is a hotbed of Wall Street houses buying up NPLs (non-performing loans) by the BUNCHES from the banks here at less than a penny on “any” dollar or Euro for by now the interchange is flexible. This was in this morning's paper so it is fresh off the press, names names and presents as a very GOOD help to the Philippines and banks. So it is. However, the International “ratings” houses have again downgraded the Philippines into NEGATIVE territory as the peso is slipping along with the markets and failure of any way showing to pay debts.

This is all indeed very sad, BUT, again, look around you and consider your own position and perhaps say a bit of a prayer that we actually can stay the course long enough to get this working for I AM CONVINCED BEYOND ANY SHADOW OF DOUBT THAT IT TRULY IS GOD'S PLAN! It cannot be ours for we just are NOT “that smart” as I have been reminded over and over again—by those same ones who actually cut and ran for the “rabbit holes”. “Rabbit holes” will make sense after you read the Tehachapi papers. I would more likely be ungracious and call them “rat holes”. It never stops, though, the gnawing in the heart as very unlikely persons turn out to be the enemy. The nice outcome is that we do not have to be total “fools” to be “fooled”. It keeps us diligent in our discernment and, frankly, keeps us from doing more stupid things from day to day while expecting the lie to come first in every instance. We can always wait for Truth if we are careful and pay attention.

We are continually disappointed in that so many with wonderful credentials and projects turn out to be simply more grafters and takers. However, that discernment seems to present far more quickly than in the past as everyone is running on a track of desperation, it appears. AND MOREOVER, it causes us to do our homework, check those records as to documented registrations and get all the data we can find to stuff into our own notices and references. It is difficult to track down things but our team is getting better and better at that accomplishment. Meanwhile, it is up to the politicians to do what politicians do—which is destroy whatever is substantially good.

We find that it is interesting as things unfold in that the Muslim communities all asked for GMA to resign while the answer to that notation was that the Roman Catholic Bishops voted to not demand her resignation. The outcome of the two groups? Oh, “Well, not to concern—those are ONLY MUSLIMS.”

Well, a second time, those “Muslims” own so much of the Southern Philippine archipelago as to stagger the mind—right through annotated hand-off to the sultans in the area. My suspicion is that they may well AGAIN try to separate away if push comes to big shove and move into some kind of an Islamic-type of governance and if so we can surely enjoy the use of that good old

Part Two: America's 'New Elite'

With gratitude for permission to reprint, we continue with our ongoing serialization of author Michael Collins Piper's latest book, The New Jerusalem: Zionist Power in America. Copies of this book can be obtained through Phoenix Source Distributors (800-800-5565). International orders may also be placed through The Preferred Network (250-248-5591).

[QUOTING:]

AMERICA'S "NEW ELITE" A CANDID & SYMPATHETIC OVERVIEW OF THAT MOST DIFFICULT TOPIC

On August 29, 1897 the First Zionist Congress meeting in Basel, Switzerland approved a resolution which declared simply:

The aim of Zionism is to create for the Jewish people a home in Palestine . . .

Much of the world looked with favor upon the theory behind this resolution, even including (perhaps most especially) anti-Jewish elements in Europe and elsewhere who saw the removal of Jewish people from the confines of their respective national borders as a solution to that age-old problem often gently referred to in literature as "The Jewish Question". It has long been forgotten—even suppressed—that among the most vocal proponents of the founding of a Jewish state were indeed those who had come to be known as "anti-Semites".

Ultimately, in 1948, a new Zionist state known as "Israel" did come into being in Palestine, but—as we today know all too well—the circumstances surrounding the birth of that nation brought generations of tragedy and conflict to the region, problems which today, as this is written, have literally placed the entire world on the brink of nuclear conflagration.

Yet, despite the founding of the Zionist state, American Zionists cling heartily to America, rather than re-locating to the State of Israel and fulfilling the Zionist dream. In fact—as the record shows, and that is the topic of this volume—America has effectively emerged as The New Jerusalem, the center of Zionist wealth and power. The State of Israel is but a distraction, a tiny geographic entity that may or may not survive. As such, we now see a new focus in the Zionist outlook. Zionism, in short, rules America and America under the Zionist thumb (or so it now seems) seeks to rule the world.

Obviously, when addressing a "controversial" thesis such as this, it is appropriate to cite what are deemed "respectable" and "responsible" sources. As such, when tackling the most uncomfortable topic of Zionist power in America and its consequences, it seems most fitting to go right to the source: one of the most respected newspapers in Israel.

On August 20, 2004, Israel's Ha'aretz published a remarkable commentary by Avi Beker entitled "The Golden Age of U.S. Jewry". Beker reflected on the then-forthcoming September celebration—very much noted—of the 350th anniversary of the founding of the Jewish community in America. The Israeli newspaper noted that historian Paul Johnson, described as "being known for his sympathy for Israel", had suggested that "the story of the expansion and strengthening of American Jewry in the 20th century is no less important than the establishment of the State of Israel, and even more so."

Although the establishment of Israel gave the Jewish people a sovereign homeland, Ha'aretz says that Johnson sees America as having a special place in the lore of Jewish history: "American Jewry," says the Israeli newspaper, "has attained an unprecedented status in the power it has acquired for itself to shape the policy of the No. 1 world power."

Ha'aretz writes: "There is no precedent for such profound integration into all areas of life, and to political influence as great as that of American Jews. . . . It is now clear that the 350 years of Jewish exile in America mark a golden age never before experienced in Jewish history."

So there it is . . . from the pages of one of the most influential newspapers of Israel. This is not the "ranting" of a "crazed anti-Semite". This is a Jewish newspaper, published in Israel, hailing the ascendancy of the Jewish community in America.

What then precisely does this extraordinary Jewish influence constitute? How much power does the Jewish community hold in American life? Do—as some say—"the Jews control America"? In this volume we will present a wide variety of material—largely from Jewish sources—which will provide the reader the information to judge for himself.

In 1937, muckraker Ferdinand Lundberg created a stir with a book entitled America's Sixty Families. His book was the first comprehensive look at the rising accumulation of vast wealth and influence by a small group of Americans—many of them intermarried families or otherwise connected through business relationships—who had come to dominate the American republic. Lundberg opened that volume by making an assertion that—while quite true—opened the eyes of the American reading public to a reality that perhaps few had recognized:

The United States is owned and dominated today by a hierarchy of its sixty richest families, buttressed by no more than ninety families of lesser wealth.

Outside this plutocratic circle there are perhaps three hundred and fifty other families, less defined in development and in wealth, but accounting for most of the incomes of $100,000 or more that do not accrue to members of the inner circle.

These families are the living center of the modern industrial oligarchy which dominates the United States, functioning discreetly under a de jure democratic form of government behind which a de facto government, absolutist and plutocratic in its lineaments, has gradually taken form since the Civil War.

This de facto government is actually the government of the United States—informal, invisible, shadowy. It is the government of money in a dollar democracy.

Under their acquisitive fingers, and in their possession, the sixty families hold the richest

Islamic-style banking system.

What we did find out about that Amanah (Islamic) bank here in meeting with the so-called "real owners" is that they don't even know how to do Islamic-style banking and those branches which are functional act just like Federal Reserve banks, interest and all. Now, my head is beginning to hurt. The only thing obviously outrageous is that the Government is truly all entangled in it. So, we are going for the court records and find out the truth about the standings. We hope to get established a window in every bank for that purpose, Islamic-style, interest free, banking. There are plenty of service fees available for the bankers and still fit the needs of the Muslim communities. Of course the concern is that the other people will simply use the Islamic facilities—which they certainly will do ASAP.

I would note in closing that Cmdr. warned everyone to stay out of the areas of reference in and around Tehachapi. I would also remind you local readers that you are very familiar with those little drone probes and Security Interdiction Machines flitting around Tehachapi. They constantly were seen around the area of Dr. Overholt's house as they traveled along the power lines. Stay out of their way! They can, at least, disrupt your power and interfere with computers and power supply. They are for surveillance and are programmed as to "duties". They, unfortunately, emit frequency waves that are quite mind-manipulating and that may well give answer to some of our questions regarding individuals and their actions. I don't need to know but I am quite confident that there have been some very busy little manipulators loose for quite a while and for that reason I am very glad to be away from that location long enough for a good objective look!

There are others than a Steven J. Smith (I fully suspect not his name) who know these things and we have met several of them while back there and allowed along with everyone else that they simply were a bit kooky as they would go stand in the desert waiting for the "pick up" from "out there".

It is interesting, however, to note that NONE OF THEM for one minute disregarded our source but just wanted everything on their schedule in their own perception of how it should be. Don't we all? And, of course, wanted us to pay the cost because we somehow worked for the "man". This remains much the attitude today as the assumption is that we have a corner on the "magic" manna.

I will go now as I need to find out what is, if anything, taking place in Congress as to the hearings which are comedic in every way while at the same time so pathetically sad as to weep. They only sit for some 3 to four hours while 3 to four hours are taken up in arguing over position, rules and disallowing witnesses to actually testify while threatening them, the witnesses, with jail, lawsuits and worse. Gee whiz, just like the U.S.A.! Been there and done that!

Keep cool or warm as your climate dictates and please stay safe. We need to LIVE for this game—not use ourselves as silly martyrs in foolish displays of "macho".

We need things to work out properly—not as we would choose in our ignorance. Our petition to upstairs is that the right-will shall be perfected and that guidance be forthcoming toward that end. In other words, may we all always LISTEN and put aside our pre-planned assumption of our own ego-tripping. We all get tired, impatient and frustrated and the push is often to quit—right at the goal-line of course.

If we are, as it seems, carrying the ball, then we can only depend on you the TEAM to keep the game in play and often that is simply through the energy of a prayer for guidance step after step or as with the inchworm, I am reminded by Russeys, inch by inch.

God blesses us every moment of every day, DJE nation ever fashioned in the workshop of history ...

The outstanding American proprietors of today tower historically over the proud aristocracy that surrounded Louis XIV, Czar Nicholas, Kaiser Wilhelm, and the Emperor Franz Joseph, and wield vastly greater power.

At the time Lundberg was writing, there was a solid core of substantial Jewish wealth among the "Sixty Families" listed. Among the 60 families that Lundberg ranked by wealth, the Guggenheims of smelting and copper fame were listed as 13th, following closely by the following banking families: the Lehmans at 18th, the Warburgs at 26th, Mortimer Schiff at 44th, George Blumenthal of Lazard Freres at 48th. Department store tycoon Michael Friedsam came in at 50th followed by Sears & Roebuck's Julius Rosenwald at 58th. Banker and war profiteer and behind-the-scenes political "fixer" Bernard M. Baruch came in at 59th place, just making a spot in "America's Sixty Families" as dubbed by Lundberg.

Times did change, however, and Jewish wealth and influence was on the ascendancy, but remained largely a topic that was very much unspoken, then as today.

Lundberg's book, today, remains a valuable research work for students of American history. But be warned: Lundberg was quite naturally, and we can understand why, rather inclined to down play the significant role that Jewish interests were playing within the American plutocracy and its domination of the United States political, economic, and social affairs. Yet, his work was a landmark contribution, whatever its demerits.

In 1968 Lundberg came back with a sequel to America's Sixty Families. This new volume, The Rich and the Super-Rich, was an overview of the current state of affairs in the secret world of the super-rich. In The Rich and the Super-Rich, Lundberg made the rather interesting assessment of the situation:

Most Americans—citizens of the wealthiest, most powerful and most ideal-swathed country in the world—by a very wide margin own nothing more than their household goods, a few glittering gadgets such as automobiles and television sets (usually purchased on the installment plan, many at second hand) and the clothes on their backs. A horde if not a majority of Americans live in shacks, cabins, hovels, shanties, hand-me-down Victorian eyesores, rickety tenements and flaky apartment buildings. ... At the same time, a relative handful of Americans are extravagantly endowed, like princes in the Arabian Nights tales.

Although Lundberg was quite right in his overall assessment, he fell down on one key point: Today's elite: Princes they are—but not Arabian.

The American media talks about the wealth of the Arab sheiks and of the oil riches of the Middle East, but the accumulated wealth of the American Jewish community—and the political influence that comes with it in every major city (and certainly in small cities and towns across America) dwarfs that of those Arabian princes.

America's "New Elite" today are unquestionably the wealthy and powerful Jewish families who—unlike the Rockefellers, the Morgans, the Roosevelts, the Kennedys, the Vanderbilts and the other "princes" of previous eras—have a considerably lower public profile than the Gentile elite of the past.

While it is—to a certain extent—freely admitted that there is a powerful "Israeli lobby" in official

Washington, sometimes even referred to by less cautious persons as the "Jewish lobby", the public image of this lobby is one devoted exclusively to the interests of the state of Israel.

Jewish newspapers freely discuss the issue of the influence of the Jewish community and its impact on U.S. foreign policy, but even so-called "mainstream" newspapers and magazines themselves occasionally delve into the subject.

"Yes," they say, "the Israeli lobby is powerful, but it's just another lobby like the gun lobby or the American Association of Retired Persons. American Jews have as much right to lobby on behalf of Israel as Greek Americans and Arab-Americans have the right to lobby for causes around which their own communities rally." Numerous books have been written about the power of the Israeli lobby, and for anyone to deny the clout of that lobby is political correctness run amuck.

What few Americans are aware of, however—something the Jewish community would prefer to be kept under wraps—is the growing financial, cultural and social clout of the American Jewish community. While there are certainly many poor Jews, the truth is that American Jews are emerging—if they haven't won the title already—as contenders for the title of "the American elite", bar none. They are "America's New Elite".

American Jews are indeed the modern-day equivalents of the princes in the tales of the Arabian Nights. And while the Jewish "princes" (and "princesses") may not constitute a majority, per se, of the billionaires or the super-rich on the famous "Forbes 400", their combined wealth certainly rivals (or even, most likely, surpasses) that of the non-Jewish elite.

In fact, if anything, the Jewish elites are bound by their devotion to Jewish interests, as the sources cited in these pages will often confirm.

It is difficult to gauge wealth or "influence" (whatever either constitutes) but the facts assembled in these pages demonstrates, beyond any question, that the American Jewish elite—America's New Elite—have wealth and influence far beyond their numbers in many, many ways.

Recognition of Jewish power—or dare we say "rejection" of Jewish power—is a bipartisan affair. A host of well-known American elected officials and other policy makers have been heard to make candid comments about Jewish power:

... President George Bush's Secretary of State James Baker was reported as saying to a colleague in a confidential discussion, "Fuck the Jews. They don't vote for us anyway." The words were blazoned as a headline in an Israeli newspaper which, not surprisingly, portrayed him as an anti-Semite. But Baker was unwittingly echoing others. During the AWACS debate Gerald Ford was enlisted by the Reagan White House. In a telephone conversation with one Republican senator who had been tracked down (at dinner with Jewish leaders, though Ford did not know this), the former president asked, "Are we going to let the fucking Jews run American foreign policy?" And Ford in turn echoed President Carter, who had told some of his closest colleagues in the spring of 1980, "If I get back in, I'm going to fuck the Jews."

In light of Carter's remark, it is no surprise to learn that William Rubenstein, a right-wing pro-Zionist sociologist, has reported that "a very well-placed source" told him that "75 percent" of "the leaders of America's Zionist organizations ... supported Reagan over Carter."

In that vein, considering the fact that liberal Democrats and conservative Republicans alike have occasionally found common ground in raising questions about Jewish power, we might also recall the comment by the famed writer H. G. Wells, who remarked: "There is room for some very serious research into the question why anti-Semitism emerges in every country the Jews reside in."

In the meantime, the major media in America, which is, as we shall see—according to Jewish sources—largely Jewish dominated, has focused on "Asian money" in American elections. It's become a genuine "scandal" and exciting grist for the media mill. Age-old anti-Asian stereo types of the type that were popular during the U.S. war against Japan are once again freely coming into play.

Despite this, self-styled "anti-hate" groups such as the Anti Defamation League (ADL) have had little to say about it. Perhaps that's precisely because the ADL likes the focus on the "Asian money".

And there's a reason for this: Asian-Americans (both native and naturalized) are quietly saying (but the media isn't reporting it) that the real "foreign money" scandal involves not Asian money, but the heavy-handed influence of money from the Israel-obsessed American Jewish community and American Jews living in Israel (not to mention Israelis themselves) who want to impact U.S. foreign policy toward Israel.

Writing in the January 29, 1996 issue of New York magazine, writer Philip Weiss—who loudly and proudly proclaims his Jewish heritage—pointed out that discussion of the role of Jewish money in politics is perceived to be politically incorrect. Weiss put it bluntly: "When the NRA exercises political power, it's a hot-button issue. When Jewish money plays a part, discussing it is anti-Semitic."

There's no question about it: This is real political clout. Jewish money and Jewish power is a very real influence in American life.

But as we shall see, Jewish influence in America goes far beyond what people generally refer to as "the Israeli lobby" or "the Jewish lobby" (in discussing the impact Jewish money and lobbying has on U.S. foreign policy making). Jewish influence is much, much bigger than that—and it is the most explosive "secret" (or rather, the topic most whispered about) in American political and cultural affairs today.

The possible consequences of this immense Jewish power in America were faced head-on by Jewish historian Benjamin Ginsberg in his remarkable book, The Fatal Embrace: Jews and the State, in which Ginsberg directly addresses the question:

"Why is it that during so many different times and in so many different places, Jews have achieved enormous status, wealth, and power only to be cast down, driven out—or worse?"

Ginsberg says that his own research convinced him that famed Jewish philosopher and writer Hannah Arendt was correct in her assertion that the historic and repeated rise and fall of the Jewish people could best be understood by viewing the traditional relationship between Jews and the nation-states in which they lived. According to Ginsberg:

Jews frequently sought the protection of the state. For their own purposes, rulers often were happy to accommodate the Jews in exchange for the services that the latter could provide.

Much followed from the relationship between Jews and states, and, as an outgrowth, some of the most important states in the modern world were built or strengthened.

As a result of this relationship, moreover, Jews sometimes achieved great power. Their relationship with the state, however, also exposed Jews to new hatred and antagonisms. For the Jews, under some circumstances, the embrace of the state proved to be fatal. These considerations are not simply of historical interest. They are also central to understanding the past—and potential future—of Jews in America.

Thus, the title of Ginsberg's book and that to which it refers: "the fatal embrace" of the state—the nation and its mechanisms of political power—by the Jews in the course of accumulating vast wealth. Ginsberg has summarized the quandary that both American Jews and their non-Jewish fellow Americans find themselves in as a consequence of the rising influence of Jewish power in America. His words are profound indeed. Ginsberg writes:

Though Jews have learned to look, talk and dress like other Americans, they are not fully assimilated either in their own minds or in the eyes of their neighbors. ... To make matters worse, Jews often, secretly or not so secretly, conceive themselves to be morally and intellectually superior to their neighbors.

... Indeed, Jews are extremely successful outsiders who sometimes have the temerity to rub it in.

Considering this, it is appropriate to take a look at the manner in which Ginsberg has summarized, for his own part, the wide-ranging aspects of Jewish power in America. His overview gives us a starting point upon which we can build and examine, in detail, the specific nature of Jewish power in America. Ginsberg writes:

Since the 1960s, Jews have come to wield considerable influence in American economic, cultural, intellectual, and political life. Jews played a central role in American finance during the 1980s, and they were among the chief beneficiaries of that decade's corporate mergers and reorganizations. Today, though barely 2% of the nation's population is Jewish, close to half its billionaires are Jews.

The chief executive officers of the three major television networks and the four largest film studios are Jews, as are the owners of the nation's largest newspaper chain and most influential single newspaper, the New York Times.

In the late 1960s, Jews already constituted 20% of the faculty of elite universities and 40% of the professors of elite law schools; today, these percentages doubtless are higher.

The role and influence of Jews in American politics is equally marked.

Jews are elected to public office in disproportionate numbers. In 1993, ten members of the United States Senate and thirty-two members of the House of Representatives were Jewish, three to four times their percentage of the general population.

Jews are even more prominent in political organizations and in finance. One recent study found that in twenty-seven of thirty-six campaigns for the United States Senate, one or both candidates relied upon a Jewish campaign chairman or finance director.

In the realm of lobbying and litigation, Jews organized what was for many years one of Washington's most successful political action [organizations], the American Israel Public Affairs Committee (AIPAC), and they play leadership roles in such important public interest groups as the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and Common Cause. Several Jews also played very important roles in the 1992 Democratic presidential campaign.

After the Democrats' victory, President Clinton appointed a number of Jews to prominent positions in his administration.

Their role in American economic, social and political institutions has enabled Jews to wield considerable influence in the nation's public life. The most obvious indicator of this influence is the $3 billion in direct military and economic aid provided to Israel by the United States each year and, for that matter, the like amount given to Egypt since it agreed to maintain peaceful relations with Israel.

That fully three-fourths of America's foreign aid budget is devoted to Israel's security interests is a tribute in considerable measure to the lobbying prowess of AIPAC and the importance of the Jewish community in American politics. ...

As a general rule, what can and cannot be said in public reflects the distribution of political power in society. As Jews gained political power, politicians who indulged in anti-Semitic tactics were labeled extremists and exiled to the margins of American politics. Similarly, religious symbols and forms of expression that Jews find threatening have been almost completely eliminated from schools and other public institutions.

Suits brought by the ACLU, an organization whose leadership and membership are predominantly Jewish, secured federal court decisions banning officially sanctioned prayers in the public schools and crèches and other religious displays in parks and public buildings.

At this juncture—considering all that we have learned thus far—it seems appropriate to discuss the uncomfortable question: "Why does it matter how much economic, political, and cultural clout that the Jewish people have accumulated in America?"

The fact is that there will be some—both "Country Club Republicans" who worship at the altar of Mammon, along with self-styled "liberals" who revel in "minority achievement", for example—who will read this slender volume and respond by saying, "Well, this is a free country. It's a tribute to the Jewish people that, through their hard work and intellect, they have achieved this success."

In some respects, that's a hard proposition to argue with. However, it bears pointing out that accumulation of wealth and political power does not mean that such a conglomeration gives any one ethnic group the right to dominate a nation's political system simply because it has the means to do so. And the fact is that the Jewish elite in America now have the means to do so—and they don't hesitate to do it.

A prime (and graphic) example of how that power has been exercised is all too evident in America's ongoing and tragic debacle in Iraq.

We are not here to say that "all of the Jews in America" wanted the United States to invade Iraq in the spring of 2002. Quite the contrary, some of the most outspoken and eloquent critics of U.S. intervention in Iraq were American Jews. But the fact remains that—on the whole—the most influential and critically placed organizations and individuals promoting the war in Iraq, through public relations efforts, media spin and outright political pressure, were American Jews and American Jewish organizations acting specifically on behalf of the interests of Israel.

This is a topic well beyond the scope of this book, but it was addressed in some detail in this author's previous work, The High Priests of War. Suffice it to say that when U.S. Rep. Jim Moran (D-Virginia) stated frankly that, in his opinion, the American Jewish community was influential enough to stop the drift toward war, he was absolutely correct, despite the outraged media frenzy that came on the heels of his remarks.

Beyond question, the subject of Jewish economic power is not a matter limited to examination by what we might loosely term "anti-Semites". The truth is that even the most cursory study of Jewish history focuses extensively on Jewish wealth and influence. For example, the New York based Schocken Books, which publishes books of Jewish interest, featured its 1975 release, Economic History of the Jews.

In that extensive volume, the editor, Nahum Gross, pointed out, quite frankly, that, for example, "colonial trade in the early modern period and brokerage and banking, especially investment banking, in recent times are highly oligopolistic industries, and their history is indeed the story of a rather small number of leading firms. The delineation of family ties and alliances among them is therefore also strictly relevant; and at least the Jewish historian will be curious to know who of these leading entrepreneurs were Jews."

So, therefore, it is not at all inappropriate to examine which Jews and Jewish families and financial interests were (or are) predominant in any given arena, charges of "anti-Semitism" notwithstanding.

And in regard to that accusation of "anti-Semitism", which often surrounds the examination of Jewish wealth, it seems appropriate to refer to Jewish historian Bernard Lazare's classic study of that subject, and particularly his inquiry into "anti-Semitism" stimulated by what he calls "economic causes". Lazare correctly points out that because of a variety of factors influencing anti-Semitism over many centuries, the Jews—precisely because of anti-Semitism—were forced to bond together:

The Jew ... increases his advantage by uniting with his coreligionists possessed of similar virtues, and thus augments his powers by acting in common with his brethren; the inevitable result being that they out-distance their rivals in the pursuit of any common end ... The Jews stand united as one.

This is the secret of their success. Their solidarity is all the stronger in that it goes so far back. Its very existence is denied, and yet it is undeniable. The links in the chain have been forged in the course of ages until the flight of centuries has made man unconscious of their existence.

As such, we perhaps do indeed have a better and more sympathetic understanding of the origin of Jewish clannishness—call it "togetherness"—that has enabled a relatively small group of people, under siege, to develop, working together, a powerful economic class that is bound by its religious and cultural heritage. Perhaps anti-Semitism has indeed been a driving force behind that which has resulted in the emergence in the United States (and worldwide) of a singularly influential group of people.

Undoubtedly, an examination of what might be called "anti-Semitic" literature, does focus on Jewish economic might. American industrialist Henry Ford's now-infamous series The International Jew comes to mind immediately. Ford's work focused on the tentacles of Jewish power in a wide-ranging array of various economic and cultural arenas and caused great consternation within the Jewish community. But while Ford was damned for his efforts, there were few attempts to actually refute the specific facts laid forth in his work.

More recent so-called "anti-Semitic" works, such as Jewish Supremacism, by controversial Louisiana political figure David Duke, have not so much focused on Jewish power, per se, as upon Jewish ideology and religious teachings. Duke's book relied almost exclusively on Jewish sources to outline the role that Jewish interests have played in shaping modern-day world affairs from a geopolitical strategic standpoint. He has pinpointed the preeminent Jewish role in the Bolshevik movement in Russia as well as the fine hand of Jewish influence behind social and cultural revolution in the United States and the West, often to the denigration of traditional values and understandings.

What's more, Duke has gone so far as to expand his study by taking a close look at Jewish religious teachings that have bound the Jewish people more closely and, at the same time, driven wedges between them and others. In the end Duke sees the Jewish people as having sought what he calls "Jewish Supremacism". Although the Jewish people have established a state of their own in Israel, Duke notes, they seem determined to have their influence felt worldwide, feeling themselves—and saying as much in their own writings—that they are supreme.

One cannot read Duke's book—which is carefully documented—without concluding that Duke has indeed defined the ideology of the leadership of the Jewish community in America (and worldwide) today.

For whatever its cause, anti-Semitism has played a major role in shaping the mindset of the Jewish people. They have been effectively forced into the position (or otherwise adopted the status) of "outsider" and have chosen largely to remain the outsider, despite their elite status in American society. As the "outsider", the Jewish people have an overview of the "alien" society in which they function and from this vantage point have been able to see opportunities that are otherwise invisible to those who cannot, in the classic sense, "see the forest for the trees".

All of this, over the centuries, has permitted Jewish individuals—working within a Jewish network—to be in the forefront of economic and political revolution and, as a direct consequence, they have been able to play a major part in influencing the course of society.

Another factor which should be kept in mind is that the Jews have generally been, almost invariably (with few exceptions), an urban people, far removed from the land and agriculture. In contrast, all European societies and peoples are hardly more than one, two or three generations removed from the farm and its rural ethic of construction and creation, of building civilization out of the wilderness.

This contrast in heritage has, inevitably, led to a clash between the Jewish people and others, precisely because, by virtue of their urban tendencies, the Jews have become entrenched in the financial arena—money-lending, usury, banking, call it what you will—and as such have become, not unexpectedly, the arbiters of the rural future.

The historic conflict between agriculture and finance has always been a dynamic that has been an underlying factor in anti-Semitism in whatever country: whether it be Germany or the United States, where the populist movement of the late 19th century featured anti-Semitic rhetoric quite prevalently.

So, again, we see anti-Semitism as a direct consequence of non-Jewish opposition to Jewish influence which has, in itself, risen to new heights precisely because the Jewish people have formed a unique "group dynamic" that can hardly be found in such a thriving fashion in any other ethnic formation on the face of the planet. Anti-Semitism, we might say, has, in its own way, begot Jewish success and power, which, in turn, has begot even more anti-Semitism, precisely because the Jews—as a group—have established themselves in a position to shape (even destroy) non-Jews whose futures literally lie in the hands of Jewish power-brokers.

In this regard, we must address the topic of "the Holocaust", referring to the events of World War II that have been continually and, without ending, been memorialized in thousands of books, films, songs, poems, television shows, and newspaper and magazine articles, in the half century that followed the end of the world conflagration that resulted in the deaths of countless millions—far many more millions [than] the six million Jews we have been told were lost at the hands of a genocidal Nazi regime.

Although a dedicated and growing "Holocaust Revisionist" movement has made great inroads in raising serious questions about specific facts and details of the events of that period known as "the Holocaust"—thanks in large part due to the efforts of Willis A. Carto and the once-vibrant Institute for Historical Review (subsequently destroyed from within by agents working for Jewish interests determined to silence the institute)—most people remain convinced that the Jews were the singular victims of what is virtually hailed as "the greatest tragedy in history—bar none", precisely because it was a tragedy that was said to have targeted "God's Chosen People". As such, there is a great deal of residual sympathy for the Jewish people—but it is beginning to diminish as more and more people, frankly, get "tired of hearing about the Holocaust" and become aware of the current efforts of historical Revisionist journals such as The Barnes Review, which has not feared to address the topic.

The constant repetition—almost cult-like—of Holocaust lore is emerging (and some Jewish leaders have not been afraid to say so) as an almost integral part of the Jewish "group think" and, as a direct result, being incorporated, in many respects, into the Jewish religion itself.

And that, again, is another aspect of the Jewish mind-set that makes the Jewish people unique. Although dozens—perhaps hundreds—of other ethnic groups, sects and peoples have been subjected to their own unique "holocausts" throughout the course of history only the Jewish people have been so devoted to memorializing their own disasters. At the same time, the Jewish people (in organized fashion), have continued to use "the Holocaust" (and other tragedies, real and imagined) as a mechanism to place demands on the world as a whole. After all, isn't that why the state of Israel was established—as a means of atoning for the Jewish losses during World War II?

Certainly, in the end, the cause-and-effect debate over the question of anti-Semitism has many angles that are far beyond the purview of this volume. Some genuine "anti-Semites"—who say it is not "The Jewish Question" that needs addressed, but instead "The Jewish Problem"—may contend we have been far too sympathetic to the Jewish people and not conscious enough of Jewish activities and attitudes that created the phenomenon of anti-Semitism. But that's a debate for another place and time.

So, for our purposes here, suffice it to say, the truth is that whatever the ultimate origin of Jewish supremacy (at least in the economic, cultural and political spheres of influence in the United States), it is a fact that cannot be denied. The truth of Jewish supremacy in America is found in countless volumes and much literature by Jewish writers who can hardly be classed as "anti-Semites".

With this in mind, let us move forward and examine what Jewish academics and authorities say about Jewish power in America. By way of a preface, however, we include the following material relevant to our study:

- An overview of the now-infamous "Enron" scandal. While the media gave great fanfare to this debacle, even the most cursory examination of Enron demonstrates hidden aspects of Zionist power in America, if only because the "Jewish connection" to Enron remains one of the great secrets of our day;
- A study of the remarkable INSLAW affair—a scandal which demonstrated the raw clout of the Zionist lobby in manipulating the U.S. Justice Department and the federal court system;
- A profile of America's "royal family"—the Bronfmans, who are, beyond question, the most powerful and well-established of the elite Jewish families who reign supreme in America today. As early "colonial" satellites of the long-established Rothschild empire of Europe, the Bronfmans constitute the often ugly face of Zionist power in America.
- Next, we will explore equally sordid details surrounding two major American media empires whose wide-ranging influence personifies the vast reach of the Zionist elite who rule the Media Monopoly;
- As an interesting interlude we will take a look at the little-known story of Donald Trump, the flamboyant real estate and casino tycoon. Although not himself Jewish, the record reflects that Trump owes his fame and fortune to the patronage of some powerful Zionist fortunes;
- Following that is a wide-ranging overview of the names, faces and financial interests of the well-known (and not-so-well-known) Jewish families whose accumulation of wealth and power is staggering. This is the first time EVER (outside a small magazine read only in the highest circles) that these names have been published in one place together—and a revealing summary it is indeed.

Wrapping it all up, we at last reach the core of this volume, its very foundation—the cold, hard facts and figures about the reality of Zionist power in America. The details presented speak for themselves. It is not "anti-Semitic" or "anti-Jewish" to bring forth these facts, particularly since the sources of the information are (with perhaps one exception) exclusively Jewish. And—with the possible exception of Lenni Brenner—none of the quite respectable sources cited are what Zionist critics have called "self-hating" Jews, a term which has been recklessly applied to Jewish Americans who have dared to raise questions about the misdeeds of Zionist Israel, as has Brenner.

There will, of course, be many people who will be most uncomfortable reading this volume, but that is only because they have fallen victim to what has been called "political correctness".

The truth is that Jewish newspapers and magazines freely and openly discuss—even brag about—Jewish power in America. Now is the opportunity for non-Jews to see precisely what it is that these Jewish sources have been bragging about.

Are all of these material riches—as Jewish philosophers contend—actually an affirmation of God's blessing upon the Jewish people?

Have the Zionist elite—as the evidence assembled in this volume suggests—emerged as "Those Who Reign Supreme"? Have they finally established America as The New Jerusalem?

Is this good for America? Is it good for the world? May non-Jewish people share in this wealth?

Is there an alternative?

The reader can—and will—make the final judgment.

...The White House line to the media, swallowed whole, is that by making Chinese money (Yuan) more expensive to buy with dollars, Americans will buy fewer computers and toys from China—and US employment will rise.

This will happen when we find Saddam's Weapons of Mass Destruction.

Economics Lesson #1: You can't change the value of goods by changing the value of the currency on the price tag. As my comrade Art Laffer wrote me, "If cheap currency makes your products more competitive, all automobiles would be made in Russia." Driven a Lada lately?

Economics Lesson #2: Don't take economics lessons from George Bush. Or Milton Friedman. Or Thomas Friedman. What that means, class, is don't believe the big, hot pile of hype that China's zooming economy is the result of that Red nation's adopting free market economic policies.

If China is now a capitalist free-market state, then I'm Mariah Carey. China's economy has soared because it stubbornly refused the Free—and Friedman—Market mumbo-jumbo that government should stop controlling, owning and regulating industry.

China's announcement that it would raise the cost of the Yuan covered over a more important notice that China would bar foreign control of its steel sector....

...Chinese markets are as free as my kids: they can do whatever they want unless I say they can't.

WHAT WILL U.S. REPLY TO SCO OFFER OF LEAVING CENTRAL ASIA?

By Pyotr Goncharov, RIA Novosti, 7/22/05

MOSCOW—The decision of the Astana summit of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO) regarding American bases was not a slip of the tongue.

The foreign minister of Tajikistan said the other day there was no sense in keeping the U.S. bases in Central Asia. "The problem of Afghanistan is nearly solved; the Taliban are being dealt with; the political situation is stabilizing; the presidential election has been held and preparations are underway for the parliamentary election" in that country, Talbak Nazarov said at a press conference in Dushanbe. (There are no American bases in Tajikistan.)

Some time before, the Foreign Ministry of Uzbekistan issued a statement saying that the military airfield Khanabad had been provided to the Americans only for the duration of the military operation against the Taliban and its subsequent use was not stipulated in agreements. Uzbekistan asked the Americans to quickly set the deadline to their presence in that Central Asian state.

Soon after that, Apas Dzhumagulov, Kyrgyzstan's

Ambassador to Russia, announced that the U.S. military base at Manas airport would be gradually pulled out, while the Russian base at Kant would remain. President of Kyrgyzstan Kurmanbek Bakiyev confirmed this stand last Sunday.

The six-member Shanghai Cooperation Organization—Russia, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, China, Tajikistan and Uzbekistan—called on the U.S. at their July 5 summit in Astana to set a date for the withdrawal of its military bases that had been deployed in Central Asia for the counter-terrorist operation in Afghanistan.

...Gen. Richard B. Myers, the Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, said, "Central Asia is important to the United States for lots of reasons, not just for operations in Afghanistan."

...Central Asia is important to the U.S. per se, without any relation to Afghanistan. The counter-terrorist operation there was just a suitable pretext for deploying American bases in Central Asia.

...The White House does not like to speak about the obvious fact that the U.S. military presence in Central Asia allows it to influence the foreign policy of the regional states and domestic processes there. Moscow and Beijing can disregard the former, but the latter has become a troublesome issue for Uzbekistan, Kazakhstan, Tajikistan and Kyrgyzstan....

PUTIN WARNS POLITICALLY ACTIVE NGOS

By Anatoly Medetsky, Moscow Times, 7/21/05

President Vladimir Putin said Wednesday that Russia would not tolerate foreign money being used to finance the political activities of nongovernmental organizations.

Putin's remarks made it clear that the Kremlin is worried about upcoming parliamentary and presidential elections and the possibility of a popular uprising such as the ones that toppled the governments of Ukraine, Georgia and Kyrgyzstan over the past two years. Government officials have accused Western countries of helping bankroll the uprisings through NGOs.

"We are against overseas funding for the political activities [AM: of NGOs] in Russia. I categorically object," Putin said at a meeting with human rights activists in the Kremlin.

"Not a single state that respects itself does that, and we won't allow it either," he said.

Putin said he had been briefed that "money is being allocated for concrete political activity" in very sensitive areas. "We understand that he who pays the piper calls the tune," he said.

...A U.S. Senate committee on June 30 advised the Senate to pass a bill that allocates $85 million in assistance to Russia next year. Some of the money comes under the Freedom Support Act, which is aimed at nurturing democracy abroad. Izvestia reported on July 7 that $5 million of that money would fund programs to develop political parties.

The United States has been allocating FSA money for Russia and other former Soviet republics since the early 1990s, and the amount earmarked for Russia for 2005 also totaled $85 million. Russian government officials have suggested the money that went to Ukraine, Georgia and Kyrgyzstan was used to facilitate the uprisings, which in each case followed a controversial election.

VENEZUELA AND U.S. ON THE BRINK OF 'ELECTRONIC WAR'

By Yuri Nikolayev, RIA Novosti, 7/22/05

BUENOS AIRES—Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez warned the U.S. that his country would take "appropriate measures" if the White House interfered with the broadcast of the Latin American news channel TELESUR.

"The Venezuelan government will have to take appropriate measures if the U.S. interferes with the work of the TELESUR TV news channel by jamming its broadcast," Chavez said during a live broadcast on VTV, a Venezuelan TV channel.

"Our countries might get involved in an electronic war," the president added.

Chavez said Venezuela might copy Cuba in jamming the broadcast of U.S. radio stations and TV channels.

This new round of deterioration of relations between Venezuela and the U.S. began after the U.S. House of Representatives passed an amendment Wednesday allowing the U.S. government to counter the TELESUR broadcast with clear and objective information.

Earlier, TELESUR Director General and well-known Uruguayan journalist Aram Aronyan told RIA Novosti TELESUR was scheduled to start broadcasting on July 24 to become a "counterweight" to CNN and the BBC in Latin America.

TELESUR's signal is transmitted through a satellite and can be received in South, Central, and North America, Western Europe, and northern Africa.

Venezuela, Argentina, Uruguay, and Cuba jointly founded the new TV network.

TELESUR already has representation in Columbia, Bolivia, Brazil, and Venezuela and plans to open offices in Argentina, Cuba, Washington, and Mexico.

MYSTERIOUS HOT SPOT SPARKS FIRE

Associated Press, 7/11/05

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—Scientists are puzzled by a mysterious Los Padres National Forest hot spot where 400-degree ground ignited a wildfire.

The hot spot was discovered by fire crews putting out a three-acre fire last summer in the forest's Dick Smith Wilderness.

"They saw fissures in the ground where they could feel a lot of heat coming out," Los Padres geologist Allen King said. "It was not characteristic of a normal fire."

Fire investigators went back to the canyon days later and stuck a candy thermometer into the ground. It hit the top of the scale, at 400 degrees.

..."When I heard about the candy thermometer, I was amazed," Mariner said, noting that the temperature of the volcanic vents he studies is typically 200 degrees, around the boiling point of water. "I thought these guys were pulling my leg."

With the help of an air reconnaissance flight and thermal infrared imaging, scientists found that the hot spot covers about three acres. The hottest spot was 11 feet underground, at 584 degrees.

They found no oil and gas deposits or vents nearby and no significant deposits of coal. The Geiger counter readings were normal for radioactivity, and there was no evidence of explosions or volcanic activity.

One possible explanation still under study is that an earthquake fault may be the source of the heat....

Keeping Shields Up In A Foreign Jurisdiction

Budget's "Tip of the Week" #11:

Maintaining a Nevada Corporation's Liability Protection in a Foreign Jurisdiction

When using your Nevada corporation in a foreign jurisdiction, what can you do to maintain the strong liability protection afforded under Nevada's statutes?

So-called "long arm" laws have been used to claim jurisdiction over "foreign" corporations, stripping away the benefits that would otherwise accrue to them based on the statutes prevailing in their home jurisdiction. These "long arm" laws have been used to great effect in California, for example, ostensibly to protect that state's citizens from encroachments and predatory practices by "outsiders". Nevada corporations are not immune from this potentially devastating application of the law that would deny them the liability protection inherent in Nevada's Revised Statutes—BUT IT WOULD APPEAR THAT THEY CAN BE.

Article I, section 10, clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution prohibits the states from passing any "law impairing the obligation of contracts". The test for determining a violation of this "contract clause" in the Constitution was stated in Allied Structural Steel Co. v. Spannaus, 438 U.S. 234 (1978):

"The first inquiry must be whether the state law has, in fact, operated as a substantial impairment of a contractual relationship. The severity of the impairment measures the height of the hurdle the state legislation must clear. Minimal alteration of contractual obligations may end the inquiry at its first stage. Severe impairment, on the other hand, will push the inquiry to a careful examination of the nature and purpose of the state legislation."

The solution to retaining the superior liability protection made inherent to Nevada corporations in the Nevada Revised Statutes thus appears to be fairly simple:

AS A PART OF ANY CONTRACT (and remember that a contract does not have to be in writing) WITH ANY ENTITY OR ENTITIES IN A FOREIGN JURISDICTION, ENSURE A CLEAR UNDERSTANDING THAT THE CONTRACT IS TRANSACTED IN NEVADA, AND THAT ANY DISPUTE SHALL BE RESOLVED IN NEVADA.

You might also want to consider liberal use of the suffix, "a Nevada corporation", which can be appended to your corporation's name to add a measure of protection. In legal terms, there is a "rebuttable presumption" that Nevada law applies to any contract between a Nevada "person" (yes, a corporation IS a "person", by legal definition) and any other entity, so long as the second party is aware of the fact that they are dealing with a Nevada corporation. For this reason alone it can be wise to ensure that the Nevada corporation is identified as such while operating within a foreign jurisdiction.
