FEAR

NEVER AGAIN

STOP!! You will NEVER, NEVER have THIS day again! You will only have one day to express as July 14th (or whatever day you read this writing), 1995. It is gone forever into the expression of "time". WHAT will YOU have done this day? Ponder this truth for just a minute and then perhaps you can move on while giving more importance to the fleeting moments you are given. You may remember the day, the date and forever be pleased, or pained by the memory—but you can NEVER have again the chance to change the day—unless it is before you experience it. And with that in mind, you ALSO KNOW that you can't "change" it for not having experienced in this moment or any future moment—you cannot know that which will TRULY be dealt to you in the gaming hand.

I note a couple of thoughts pass your minds as you think a moment on this truth. Fear is there—first, fear is there! A man by the label of J.H. Newman made an observation about this fleeting ongoing lifestream and stated: "Fear not that life shall come to an end, but rather fear that it shall never have a beginning! Wisdom often comes forth in such small sentences that hold a lifetime of meaning.

As we write, it is that it appears WHAT we offer you is filled to overflow with fear and warnings, reminders of that which you allowed to happen and hopelessness in the looking back to see that you somehow slept as "time" passed and that which happened became a prison warden instead of freedom for flight and soaring joy.

Friends, your fears will lock you up if you let them. They can prevent you from tasting adventure, from experiencing new wonders. You are often terrified of unknowns and fret about what might happen if you try something new. You worry if new people will like you—if you'll fit in and myriads of other negative pressured thoughts.

Be cautious about the unknown and remember that all things new are but "unknown mysteries". They are not "mystical", only a bit of mystery until you taste, feel or experience and come into knowledge. Yes the "unknown" can "getcha" if you lack wisdom to attend selves in truth and KNOWING. Do not, however, blame GOD for YOUR lack of action when you have OPPORTUNITY to learn and properly attend selves and those things which you consider your responsibility.

Perhaps a new way to look at the "fear" is that, except for the unknowing, it cannot be "fear"! Why? Because beyond the fear is ALWAYS the underlying JOY you haven't yet discovered. You hold the keys to your own cages and you can free yourselves when you use your courage and inner strength to overcome your fears—for all the necessary instructions and lock combinations are held within your mind if you do not lock IT away in dogma and MAN's doctrines. Can you reconsider your "moment" now and offer some possibilities for finding a new JOY which can be discovered beneath your fear today? Can you not accept that life is but a puzzle to be solved, a grand mystery to be unfolded through seeing, hearing, and learning? There is a book entitled Tough Times Never Last But Tough People Do! This does not say "hard people"—it infers and states: Tough. Constantly hold in your minds: Growth is the only evidence of life.

GOOD NEWS AND BAD NEWS

The papers are daily being loaded with frightening information of dis-ease following dis-ease, from political chaos to new parasites in your drinking water. You can FIX both—IF you know what to do within GOD's offerings and stop bashing selves against the bars of that would-be prison of MAN.

Please realize that the solution for parasite riddance is to cleanse the body and keep it clear. YOU HAVE the products available to do that job. I know you do, because I have brought them unto you!! There is no argument or debate for I brought them and they are there for your use.

Politics?? No point in doing too much cleansing—let those PARASITES be cleansed out of the body of your nation and off your world. You have to forget the WAR and move within the chaos. JUST GO FORTH AND BUILD ANEW. The old will perish before the purging, for without their blood supply (money and your labors), THEY CANNOT SURVIVE AND WILL ATTEND THEMSELVES. Find virgin land with no mighty political structure and a good leader who can know and learn THAT LAND AND BUILD A NEW NATION COUNCIL—UNDER GOD!

The best place to do that is where the "Ancients" reside. There are places about your nation NOW wherein the Ancients reside and the brothers come and go. You need guidance from the WISDOMKEEPERS of the "Sovereign People". You already have a separate and sovereign people within the United States of America—

why do you not ask for CITIZENSHIP among the Indian Tribes? I did not say to go forth and take anything from the Indians—I said ask for CITIZENSHIP WITH THE NATIVE AMERICANS!!! Basically the facts are that the States were all "sovereign" but you gave that shelter up when you "joined" the Federal United States and gave up your claim to the (u)NITED (s)TATES, (sTATES united). YOU FORFEITED YOUR CITIZENSHIP WITHIN FREEDOM. WHY DO YOU NOT NOW GET ON YOUR KNEES TO YOUR BROTHERS SOVEREIGN AND ASK ALLOWANCE TO SHARE THEIR CAMPFIRES? BE PREPARED, HOWEVER, TO BRING YOUR SHARE OF RESPONSIBILITY TO THE COUNCIL OR BE EXCLUDED. THIS IS JUST A THOUGHT IN PASSING.

Would this be a "good" alternative to formation of new government? Who knows, but until you explore possibilities and arrive at probabilities of solutions to replace that which is less than acceptable, you have no way to change or grow. You, as a civilization and as nations, are moving BACKWARD and it will cause your destruction.

I would like to turn to a few warnings to listen-up to the trumpet blast of warnings—for the plagues are being dumped on you as we speak. AIDS is but a forerunner to set you up like the pins in a bowling alley. The bowling BALL is on the roll so listen-up to the little publications which tell you what, where, how and who is afoot. Attend it properly in preparation and you shall be fine. Ignore the warnings and expect the overwhelming diseases to strike you and that striking period is at hand.

CRYPTOSPORIDIUM:
TAP WATER MAY BE

agencies warned Thursday that drinking tap water could be fatal to Americans with weakened immune systems and that they may want to take precautions, such as boiling water before consuming it.

Recent tests have shown that Cryptosporidium, a water-borne parasite that caused 104 deaths in Milwaukee in 1993, is commonly found in lakes, rivers and some reservoirs across the country, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

"We do not know if the level of the organisms in the water poses a public health threat" [H: LIARS! THEY KNOW!], said Dennis Juranek, associate director of the division of parasitic diseases at the CDC. "But we cannot rule out that there will be a low level of transmission of the bacteria" to people who consume water directly from the tap.

A study published in March found that cryptosporidium is much more infectious than researchers previously thought. Volunteers became infected after ingesting as few as 30 organisms.

The CDC estimates that up to 6-million Americans suffer from weakened immune systems, the body's array of cellular and chemical defenses that help fight diseases. That figure includes an estimated 1-million people infected with HIV and 3- to 5-million cancer victims, organ transplant recipients and individuals born with genetic immune deficiencies.

Thursday's guidelines, distributed jointly by the CDC and the Environmental Protection Agency, said that people with suppressed immune systems should consult their physicians about whether to consume tap water.

"Those who wish to take extra precautions... can bring their drinking water to a rolling boil for one minute," the guidelines said. Other options mentioned include attaching filters to home water taps or drinking bottled water, although CDC officials have said in the past that they are not certain whether bottled water is safer. [H: It can actually be LESS SAFE unless you boil it first or treat it with something which kills these little buggers! Once in the closed systems of bottled water processing the parasites can actually fare better than on the "open road" of natural cleansing. One major problem, however, is that there is such abundance of the creatures now infesting such as irrigation waters that the parasites themselves are being given open avenue to move within your animal life and food resources. This, because of the nature of the land "organic" process, is producing an INFERIOR product in the "organic farms". I would rather see you eat the chemically treated products, personally, for a lot of the parasitic life has been killed off by the "treatments". Oh well...]

The carefully worded statement stopped short of recommending that immunocompromised people stop drinking tap water altogether. Further studies are needed to determine the extent of cryptosporidium contamination in the nation's reservoirs and whether it poses a public health threat, Juranek said.

Critics said the federal guidelines were far too cautious. "If I knew a person with AIDS, I would tell them definitely not to drink tap water," said Robert Morris, a cryptosporidium expert [H: Now that's a good one.] at the University of Wisconsin Medical School. "Experience has shown that it's too risky."

[END OF QUOTING]

So, have you checked YOUR cryptosporidium today?

Please note that ALWAYS these parasites are CAR- RYING MAN-MADE VIRUSES WHICH HAVE DI-

RECT INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTACKING LIVING BEINGS! I can tell you, further, that the viruses and altered biological organisms carried are not "treatable" with recognized antibiotics. This is especially true of advanced invasion. I will also further warn you that, wherein the "old" viruses had simple zinc molecules holding the virus DNA together with its "head" or "cap", there is now a much more advanced molecule which has replaced the zinc and it is called titanium.

biological invaders in the newly formed compromised skin. More important, and being seen a lot (but too late for reversing), gastroenteritis and KIDNEY DAMAGE.

USE YOUR BRAINS

The parasite cleansing kit Gaia offers is absolutely harmless taken even carelessly. The colloids offered are likewise totally harmless to the normal body— taken in any amount. You can use as drinking water if you like but it certainly is foolish to waste it in such a manner. The same with Gaiandriana. Common SENSE must always be your guideline and ACT ACCORDINGLY. I am, however, really concerned about what some of you are doing to your systems with this newly outrageous use of pepper. Some is good to excellent, for you—but overuse is very dangerous and can be deadly—especially if you develop allergies to the substance.

With the colloids, however, when there is attack of the deadlies—take enough solution to do some instant good. For instance, if a babe starts running a fever higher than 103.5° GET AN OUNCE OF GAIACOL INTO THE CHILD ALONG WITH GAIAGOLD OF LIKE AMOUNT. And, in addition, a bit of Aspirin (except if the baby is infant in age) in proper dosage should be administered to reduce the fever until the colloids can pass the "crisis". I DO NOT SUGGEST YOU FAIL TO SEE A PHYSICIAN WHEN YOU OR YOUR FAMILY ARE SICK—IT IS INDEED FOOLISH TO WAIT WHEN A BABY WHO CANNOT EVEN TELL YOU "WHAT HURTS" IS SICK. Regular anti- biotics now in use will STOP almost all the diseases which are common to the population. If you enhance that antibiotic with the colloids, you will simply cover the POSSIBILITIES. We have no intent or effort AT ALL to compete with the

CYCLOSPORA
INFECTION INVESTIGATED

TIMES, June 17, 1995

FORT LAUDERDALE—At least six people from Boca Raton and Delray Beach—including two in their 70s—have contracted a rare parasitic infection that causes severe diarrhea lasting as long as five weeks.

Medical investigators have ruled out public water supplies and are frantically searching for a common source, such as a restaurant at which all the patients dined or a specific food that was distributed to several restaurants or supermarkets.

"It is highly unusual to have a cluster of this many cases in the United States," said Professor Charles Sterling of the University of Arizona, an expert on the mysterious parasite, cyclospora.

"This is a very serious situation, and I hope health officials launch a massive effort to try to find the cause," said Dr. Owen Rheingold, a Boca Raton gastro- enterologist who treated three of the patients.

Palm Beach County health department director Dr. Jean Malecki has assigned seven epidemiological and environmental health specialists to investigate.

The Palm Beach County patients, who range in age from 22 to 74, all became ill around the last week of May.

There are even more advanced elemental connections being produced but an antidote for the creators of such heinous materials does not yet exist. There is NO WAY for a compromised immune system to withstand these new invaders. And, therein lies the intent.

For you who think a silver colloid is all that is necessary, you are incorrect. It is not. It will be a good topical antiseptic and enhance the immune system from internal use but unless you hike up the frequency of the colloid with something higher in itself, you will not knock out completely the titanium-based viruses. Yes, GaiaCol will do it because it is processed WITH THE GOLD ELECTROLYSIS EQUIPMENT. Because of the silver colloid with which we have to work—it is very costly and exacting in processing. So, you are not going to get the product duplicated elsewhere.

I do not say these things to cause you to move to Gaia as such—I just don't want YOU saying that "I" told you silver colloids would work only to find they don't. In fact, NOTHING is going to work all the time. Circumstances and use in building an immune system determine the final outcome of these invasions by biological organisms.

BLOOD INQUIRY WARNED OF KILLER BRAIN VIRUS MD SAYS CANADA'S
BLOOD BANK VULNERABLE TO LITTLE-KNOWN BUG.
by Deborah McDougall, Canada Press

Calgary Herald, July 11, 1995.

TORONTO—A killer virus that attacks the human brain could spark another crisis in Canada's blood supply unless urgent action is taken, a federal inquiry was told Monday.

Dr. Nathan Kobrinsky said a virus called Jacob-Creutzfeld could wreak the same havoc that AIDS caused in the Canadian blood system if scientists don't find a way to detect and deactivate it.

"I hope we're not facing Kreyer Part 2 a decade from now," said Kobrinsky, staring directly at inquiry head Justice Horace Kreyer.

His dire warnings came at the end of testimony at the inquiry probing Canada's tainted-blood scandal.

Kreyer is probing why thousands of Canadians were infected with the AIDS virus and other blood-borne diseases in the 1980s.

But Kobrinsky said that if science doesn't quickly untangle the mysteries surrounding the little-known virus, it could cause another tragedy.

Researchers aren't yet sure exactly how it's transmitted and how many people have died from it so far, he said.

But at least two blood donors in the United States have died from the virus that had their blood recalled, said Kobrinsky, a hematologist at a cancer center in Fargo, N.D.

He wasn't sure where the donors were from or when the recall happened.

What is known is that the virus is spread through human tissue, said Kobrinsky.

About 10 years ago it infected several Americans who had been given a growth hormone that originated from ground-up brain tissue taken from cadavers, he said. [H: And, from the brain tissue of aborted fetuses!]

saved lives.

While many doctors across the country embraced Factor 8, the pair kept their patients on cryoprecipitate.

Factor 8 is a dry powder and easier to use than cryoprecipitate, which was to be stored in a freezer....

But Factor 8 proved far more deadly. It came from blood pooled from thousands of blood donors, increasing the chance blood could come from an infected donor.

Cryoprecipitate was pooled from just a few.

The risks were too great for the pair, they told the inquiry. "I said Factor 8 was not the way to go for everyone," said Rayner.

His hunch proved right. Children with hemophilia in Manitoba were kept on cryoprecipitate through much of the 1980s and they avoided getting the AIDS virus, said Rayner. [END OF QUOTING]

The American blood donors who died from the virus had not taken the growth hormone, he added.

Once infected, it can take years for symptoms to develop. Once it does, it causes dementia and death soon after, he said.

Kobrinsky, who used to treat hemophiliacs at the Health Sciences Centre in Winnipeg, was testifying with Dr. Harry Rayner.

Rayner, who used to treat hemophiliacs in Winnipeg, and Kobrinsky told the inquiry how their reluctance to embrace the newest blood product available to hemophiliacs in the 1980s

I am here to tell you that you are being invaded by a bunch of parasites which are tuned up by MAN to carry the biological entities which are destroying your health. The intent is to first devastate the already compromised people. Remember that the Elite of the New World Order only USE the deviants of society for their political purposes and their own play-games, but the full intent is to have their "master race" and it does NOT include perverts and deviants beyond themselves. Insane? Yes, but nonetheless TRUE.

I have a tendency to refer to good sense as "common sense" but someone has circulated through here a one-page writing called "GOOSE SENSE": [see box]

Note this said "Goose Sense" and NOT "Goose Step"!!

I can only suggest you try "wisdom" in all actions for therein lies TRUTH and FREEDOM. It is worthy of remembering that a bird does not sing because he has an answer. He sings because he has a song. What is your song for the day? Until you find truth in your "doctrine of equality and liberty" you cannot find a societal pathway to freedom and goodness and you will NEVER find it as mankind is now headed. Your doctrine of equality and liberty AND humanity comes from your belief in the brotherhood of man, THROUGH THE FATHERHOOD OF GOD.

I salute you who hear and see. Adonai.

"GOOSE SENSE"

This spring when you see geese heading back north for the summer, flying along in a V-formation, you might be interested to know what scientists have learned about why they fly that way. It has been learned that as each bird flaps its wings it creates an uplift for the bird immediately following. By flying in a V-formation the whole flock adds at least 71% greater flying range than if each bird flew on its own. Basic Truth #1: People who share a common direction and a sense of communication get where they are going quicker and easier because they are traveling on the trust of one another.

Whenever a goose falls out of formation it suddenly feels the drag and resistance of trying to go it alone and quickly gets back into formation to take advantage of the lifting power of the birds immediately in front. Basic Truth #2: If we have as much sense as a goose we will stay in formation with those who are headed the same way we are going.

When the lead goose gets tired, it rotates to the back and another goose flies the point. Basic Truth #3: It pays to take turns doing hard jobs, with geese flying north or with people.

The geese honk from behind to encourage those up front to keep up their speed. Basic Truth #4: We need to be careful what we say when we honk from behind.

Finally, when a goose gets sick or is wounded by gunshot or falls out, two geese fall out of formation and follow it down to help and protect it. They stay with that goose until it is able to fly or until it is dead, then they launch out on their own or with another formation to catch up with their group. Basic Truth #5: IF WE HAVE THE SENSE OF A GOOSE WE WILL STAND BY ONE ANOTHER!

Water, Water Everywhere But None That's Fit To Drink!

In recent months, anyone who pays any attention at all to the media news programs has heard everything from short warnings to entire "news magazine" segments on the alarming state of our nation's water supplies. Notices screaming, "DON'T DRINK THE WATER!!!" have become the norm rather than the exception these days.

Beyond that, the well-manicured, conventional news puppets have dutifully read from their Teleprompters exactly what they are supposed to about one particular "popular" bug in our water supplies called Cryptosporidium. The blanket appearance of this latter kind of announcement began after our warning (merely "coincidentally", of course) about Cryptosporidium in the 3/7/95 issue of CONTACT.

At that time Commander Hatonn said, "The worst part of this little beast is its adaptability and its capability of becoming a carrier for all sorts of species of virus and coccus, bacillus, clostridium... but it can transform part of itself to every recognized yeast form or fungus. IT IS THE CARRIER OF CHOICE FOR DESIRED WIDESPREAD INFECTIONS OF INTENTIONAL INFESTATION."

CONTACT has also shared various warnings and other announcements about this pesky critter in recent installments of THE NEWS DESK column. No doubt about it, this is one popular little bug these days.

Moreover, on the larger scene, it has become the norm for strange new strains of "flu" to pop up out of "nowhere" and go back to "nowhere" — and usually blaming some previously innocent little creatures (or their "droppings") along the course of the illness' trajectory. Maybe you've been noticing how these "mystery" illnesses are raining down upon we-the-people with ever increasing regularity AND ever more suspicious intensity.

And often the common denominator is water.

The general subject of water contamination should not be new to longtime CONTACT readers. The bold headline of the Front Page story in the June 1, 1993 issue of CONTACT reads: "Evil Empire" Tests Out EXTERMINATION By Groundwater Contamination. At that time several new "designer flus" plus the Four Corners' "mystery illness" were just making their genetically-engineered debuts on our world stage.

Actually, the story outlaid under that 6/1/93 CONTACT Front Page headline, a joint effort by Commanders Hatonn and Soltec, was itself reprinted from the 9/15/92 issue of CONTACT's predecessor, THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR — where we devoted that entire issue of the LIBERATOR to warning you about upcoming shenanigans designed to hit our water supplies. (Just look at this week's Front Page story!)

As a matter of some educational urgency, we are here reprinting that original dissertation on the subjects of our drinking water, on groundwater supplies, and the ease of contamination of same. Serious diabolical scheming is afoot by the Satanic Globalist Elite and their stooges to poison our nation's water supplies, and in so doing incapacitate we-the-people from weeding out those crooks in high places.

The frightening part of this plan is how easy such a goal is to accomplish — since it is almost hopeless to try to get bad superbugs out of municipally-treated water with currently "approved, accepted and routine" treatment methodologies.

Isn't that a surprise.

At best they're treating and filtering for benign "basketballs", relatively and metaphorically speaking, while you're still innocently swallowing golf-ball-sized biological grenades.

At least remember to keep your 35% Food-Grade Hydrogen Peroxide handy and put 10 drops into each gallon of water you're using for drinking purposes—no matter how clean you're led to believe your own municipal drinking water supply is!

— Dr. Edwin M. Young, Editor-In-Chief

9/11/92 #3 SOLTEC

I would introduce myself, please. I am Anthonious Soltec, Geophysicist. I have been asked to present some information for you who have perhaps forgotten your geophysical lessons and you who have not yet been offered same. My intent is to always be a bit "primary" because I have no intent of boggling minds or showing some type of ego expression of expertise in boring non-understandable language. If the outlay of information appears to be tedious, I suggest you sit and effort to remember what I have brought forth on vulcanism and earthquakes, etc., and note that already much is forgotten—if at all received.

You are in a phase of assault by the Globalist "masters" and their stooges wherein your groundwater is being deliberately contaminated by pollutants and microbiologic organisms. It becomes imperative that you understand from whence comes your "faucet" water so that you can take precautions. You will, however, find that once contaminated there is no such thing as total "clean-up" by methods available in daily use for cleaning and reclaiming water supplies. Methods for true purification ARE functional BUT NOT AVAILABLE FOR USE. [That is, the Elite world-controllers keep such effective purification or antidote methods tightly under lock and key.]

In the subject of "water" as a whole, I begin with "ground water" because in some ways it can be regarded as a legitimate agent of gradation—along with streams, ice, wind, and waves. Moving groundwater can pick up rock materials, transport them very long distances, and finally deposit them. When groundwater performs this function, it automatically classifies as a "grader" which in this subject matter refers to something such as a "road grader" that "moves things along" as simplified definition. The fact that groundwater's mineral load is restricted to those that can be carried in solution is something of a limiting factor, but wind is a certified member of the gradational fraternity and cannot take anything into solution (nor essentially can ice). So every agent has its peculiarities, groundwater among them.

The erosive or gradational province is not the only one involving groundwater. Probably of more importance to you humans is its control of steam discharge and of the water level of lakes and swamps, as well as a source of irrigation and potable water for a large part of the world's population. In this as example, the groundwater level of the Mojave Desert has so dropped that the runways at Edwards Air Force Base collapse in three-or-more-foot dips or actual breaks (fissures). However, when we delve into matters of this kind we open up a whole Pandora's box of interrelated water problems, for it becomes apparent immediately that groundwater and surface water share a high degree of mutuality and complete divorce of one from the other is not only difficult to attain but perhaps not wholly desirable. Also, the student must be aware of the human's role regarding water resources and the significant interrelationships of all the Earth's water.

I shall simply take them in the order most often presented to students of Physical Geology.

HYDROLOGIC CYCLE

As a point of departure you must remember that there is only so much moisture on your Earth. None is lost or gained from outer space, but at any given moment some of it is in the sea, some on the land in the form of water or ice, some in the crust itself as groundwater, some as suspended water droplets and gaseous water vapor in the atmosphere. The cycle of change in both form and place is called the hydrologic cycle.

All of the world's water derives from the oceans, and most of it returns ultimately to that source. Evaporation from the sea provides the water vapor for rain and snow. If it condenses and precipitates over the oceans, then its return is immediate but, if it is carried over the land, a number of things may happen to it prior to finding its way back. Some of the moisture falls as snow and remains on the land until the spring melt before flowing back to the sea via rivers. Or it may become part of a semipermanent ice mass and be detained many hundreds or thousands of years. Much of the water vapor will fall as rain, some flowing off immediately on the surface, some remaining in lakes and swamps, some evaporating directly or via plants to be precipitated again, and some soaking deep into the ground to percolate gradually downslope to the sea or to appear at a lower level at the surface as springs and seepages.

This theoretical system is not absolutely perfect, although given time it comes very close. The lag in time before moisture is returned to the ocean can be very long so that water or ice held in lakes or glaciers may appear to be permanently lost to the dynamics of circulation. But ice both melts and evaporates and lakes are surprisingly transitory; even the great Antarctic ice cap flows away from the pole and breaks off into icebergs. The closest to permanency in water loss is that fraction tied up as a part of the chemical composition of rocks and magma, or in an underground reservoir completely lacking in permeability, which has trapped ancient surface waters. But even here, humans have found it advantageous on occasion to tap and draw on these reservoirs, and vulcanism, metamorphism, chemical weathering, and so on can and do release water through chemical reaction. This last is groundwater.

We shall take up when we next pen with Porosity vs. Permeability. Good day.

9/13/92 #2 SOLTEC

May we please continue on our subject in point beginning today with—

POROSITY VERSUS PERMEABILITY

I treat my lectures exactly as I would in a classroom and therefore I must ask that you refer to prior material so that you might retain continuity. The intent is to give you valid information and not "whiffs" of disjointed, out of sequence, metaphysical insight. The HIGHER consciousness and understanding comes through the understanding, first, of that which is perceived and abounds in your manifested experience. We are now in section two of "GROUNDWATER and related problems".

How much groundwater occurs in any given place and its character and movement depend largely on two variables (1) climate, which controls precipitation, evaporation, and vegetation and (2) peculiarities of the soil and subsurface rock. The great bulk of ground water has simply seeped down from above, but certain rocks and rock materials have a much greater water-holding capacity or porosity than others. Loose sands and gravels, with their irregular particles allowing a maximum pore space, may contain up to 50 percent water, as can some clays. Sandstones too, although part of their intergrain areas are filled with cement, may be highly porous. On the other hand, dense shales and igneous rocks usually exhibit a very low porosity. But an igneous rock in cooling often develops fissures, joints, or cavities from escaping gases and then, although the rock itself is dense, may be capable of containing large quantities of groundwater. I will have to give you mostly "verbal" visualizing because it seems that, when we utilize diagrams or pictures available to others for your use, our people end up in courtrooms for trespass. So, therefore, effort to visualize a piece of lava "rock substance". You would find that a stratum of vesicular lava is not only porous, for instance, but highly permeable. The "frothy" appearance results from escaping gases as the lava congealed through cooling.

Next, to understand the subject of "Groundwater", you must understand what is meant by and importance of—

THE WATER TABLE

Assuming a considerable depth of homogeneous permeable material, the groundwater table is the top of the saturated rock. In a humid region this may be quite near the surface or even coinciding with it after a particularly heavy rain. But normally it is at least a few feet down, overlain by a layer of loose soil where water is rapidly lost through evaporation and transpiration. This zone of soil water or vadose water is generally within the reach of plant roots and reflects immediately day-to-day or even hour-to-hour weather fluctuations, so that characteristically it is saturated for only short periods of time and more often than not holds as much air as water in its pores.

Under usual conditions a water table will roughly approximate the contours of the terrain that it underlies, higher under the hills and declining under valleys. This fact can allow you to understand WHY, if the groundwater is contaminated by any substance, it will contaminate great portions of that which is residing in the "water table". The seepage will be basically horizontal to the layer of the rock or clay "table" itself. If a pollutant or whatever is contaminating the water supply is heavy enough it will lodge onto the substance of the "table" itself and therefore, contamination remains in a proliferating state for great lengths of time if, for instance, the contaminate is a heavy metal such as mercury, lithium, etc. These contaminates would be most often (in your current daily use) from such things as toxic wastes, pesticides and fertilizers—even to excrement wastes which are resultant from the body cleansing through its organs (kidneys and hepatic systems) such poisons and toxins. Microbiologic contamination is, of course, through these same routes of passage except when intentionally introduced as is being done to your water supplies at the present time. Some contaminants thrive for only a brief while but others remain in various states of activity or dormancy depending on environment and stability of host liquidity. Crystalline viruses, for instance, never simply "go away", they simply go inactive or "dormant" until proper "life supply" is present.

Groundwater percolates downslope and its upper margin thus assumes the gradient of a surface stream; like a surface stream, it discharges into the master drainage artery in the valley. The river at the valley bottom may receive the groundwater discharge directly via springs as it intersects the water table, or if the river itself is slightly above the water table, the coarse sands and gravels of its bed will intercept the flow and direct it down the valley under the surface waters of the river. Swamps, rivers, or the sea, which occupy the lowest point of a given region, act as regulators of the slope of that region's water table. Loss of water supply, as during an extended dry period, will cause the water table to flatten out and be found at an increasingly greater depth beneath the hills, but it will continue to intersect the surface in the valleys; as long as any gradient at all is maintained, groundwater will percolate downslope. This is most well demonstrated in septic systems in areas unconnected to central sewer systems.

Wells bored below the water table will produce water, but how rapidly they will refill themselves after emptying is determined by the permeability of the rock. No matter how permeable the rock or how humid the climate, too many wells will lower the water table, and increasingly deeper bores will be required to tap groundwater. Obviously, an inventory of the groundwater resources should be undertaken before uncontrolled well boring takes place—a procedure that has seldom been followed anywhere in the world until the water table has been lowered drastically and disaster is imminent.

This information will be lost on second or third generation city dwellers for, to them, water simply comes ready to use from a faucet at the sink.

Let us consider, because it is an excellent example, the Santa Clara Valley in California, a region of irrigated orchards and, more recently, burgeoning urbanization. Here you have illustration of the results of continued overdraft on the ground water supplies. The increasing depths of wells through the years is easily demonstrated.

RESERVOIRS AS RECHARGERS

Groundwater levels can go both ways—water can be put back into the ground as well as taken out—and it is not absolutely necessary to stand around thirsty for 40 years waiting for the natural rainfall to do the job for you. You would utilize retaining reservoirs. Climate does not have to change dramatically nor suddenly have more rainfall in the case of ability to "store" water. Neither would you have to have new and exotic water brought in from somewhere else. It becomes a matter of driving a maximum of the surface water downward into underground strata instead of letting it run back to the sea unused. The special rainfall peculiarity of the Santa Clara Valley (and much of California in fact) is that all the rain arrives in a few winter months and the long-empty stream channels, frequently grown up with brush and weeds, simply cannot handle the runoff. The result is serious flooding as well as the loss of extremely valuable fresh water that would have been so welcome the summer before. It is very embarrassing to drown some winter after going bankrupt in a farming venture the previous summer for lack of moisture, I would assume. Worse, the food supply for storage is cut drastically by poor management.

You can solve a number of these problems through the utilization of a series of impound reservoirs.

It serves as a flood control measure, saving for beneficial use winter flood water that would have, at best, been lost to the sea, or at worst, drowned people and destroyed property.

It provides lakes for recreational use and it recharges the underground water system.

What of this last condition? Why worry about it? Let's just assume use of the water right directly from the reservoir. Water can be diverted directly from such a reservoir, but if the bottom of the holding basin is at all porous and permeable, a certain amount of water can be added to the underground supply at the same time and a great deal more can be forced downward if it is drawn off and spread out in shallow percolating beds below the dam placement.

EVAPORATION FROM RESERVOIRS

One of the beauties of storing water underground rather than on the surface is to negate almost completely the loss through evaporation. Unhappily, the places in the world that find themselves in need of water storage are frequently those with long hot summers and low humidity. Under these conditions the effects of evaporation can be enormous. No two reservoirs evaporate at precisely the same rate, variations depending on such things as climate, dimensions of surface exposure, percolation, and so on, but recent experiments in the Northern Negev region of Israel indicated a loss in excess of 75 percent from evaporation alone. Obviously, any method of cutting down on such a loss rate must receive serious consideration. Some interesting work with the use of nontoxic chemical films to inhibit evaporation appears to hold real promise for both reservoirs and percolating beds, especially those that are not to be utilized for recreation. Water skiers and motor boats are not wholly compatible with an effective film. Some reservoirs in more closely guarded areas are simply covered with various coverings and now in use in widespread areas are domed covers which are most attractive as well as utilitarian.

SEA WATER INCURSION

In regions draining to the sea the groundwater approximation of the surface flow delivers fresh water via springs or seepages at about sea level. If well overdraft occurs upslope in the system, hydraulic pressure is diminished and salty water from the sea can invade the porous underground strata. This means that the normally fresh-water coastal-plain wells will be "salted out", often a local disaster, unless a certain minimum groundwater table can be maintained.

Further, there is the readily observable reciprocal relationship between the level of lake, pond, swamp, and streams and adequate groundwater. Since much of the surface water feeds the underground strata, a lowered water table increases the withdrawal through percolation, thus lowering their level. But most of these surface water features, because of their location at valley bottoms or local terrain sags, also receive groundwater percolation from upslope. So in essence, each sustains the other. Farm ponds, reservoirs, and flooded percolation beds are generally recommended by the regional planner as effective aids in stabilizing stream flow as well as lake levels.

WATER QUALITY

Of equal if not more important than the mere availability of water is its quality. It is hard enough to keep it potable on its own merit but with deliberate contamination it is all but impossible to recover to a pure state of safety. If pollutants are of heavy metals and toxic waste infiltration OR crystalline life-forms [viruses], it is years, if at all, in the total recovery from contamination if known neutralizers are not introduced. In your age, the contamination is most often intentional and the counter-agents necessary for purification to drinking standards are denied public access. The point was "destruction" in the first place so "healing the cause" is not the intent under any circumstances as long as the enemy is in control.

There is no use having water if you cannot use it. Not too many years ago it was a virtual article of faith that natural filtration would rejuvenate any water supply no matter how badly it had been polluted. After all, wasn't even raw sewage, the epitome of effluvial pollution, susceptible to cleansing by filtration? Thus the whole process of forcing surface waters underground to be withdrawn via springs and wells boasted the great merit of purification. But, increasingly, the variety of chemical waste products that contaminate your streams includes elements that defy the simple purge of filtration. Especially notable are insidious pesticides and insecticides, chemical detergents and a number of industrial wastes too lengthy to go into herein.

There is the additional problem that groundwater, although often less polluted than surface water, is frequently "hard". This simply means that in its passage through porous strata it has taken salts into solution, a part of its normal function as an agent of gradation, but one which affects its utility to humans greatly. The degree of hardness varies greatly depending on the character of underground rock and the water's temperature (heat as an industrial discharge into a stream can contribute to hard groundwater as well as destroying the immediate surface ecology). Often hard water merely means that soap lathers with difficulty and moderate salt deposits build up in household plumbing (hot water pipes are particularly susceptible to the accumulation of deposits in regions utilizing "hard" water for household consumption), but hardness can be so severe as to attain the saltness of seawater and the water becomes totally unusable for either irrigation or drinking. All of this is not to imply that only groundwater can be hard, but it is much more common than in freely moving rivers as comparison.

SOLVING THE WATER PROBLEM

And now, of course, is that $164,000,000,000 (inflation considered) question. How do you attempt to solve your dual-faceted water problem: (1) sufficient water in the right places at the right time and (2) water of an acceptable quality for general utility? There is no question that a problem exists larger than life itself, even if you were to assume a static world population—an unlikely situation for some time to come. However, even as you have decreasing populations due to intentional depopulation—you are left with such things as contaminated water supply (contaminated in the direct effort to depopulate). If you ignore, for the moment, the desalinization of the ocean water (for our subject is "groundwater") we are left with having to face the dilemma head-on. Simple drinking water for the world's hordes involves a huge volume in itself, compounded many times as humans agglomerate into an urban environment of flush toilets and green lawns. Agriculture dependent on the irrigation ditch is even more demanding of water on a per-acre basis than the housing tract, while heavy industry, always carefully sited on a freshwater lake or large river, uses the most water of all.

TRANSPORTATION

We have already considered the principle of conserving wet-season surplus moisture in reservoirs and underground holding basins for use during the dry season. But let us apply this same kind of thinking on a regional basis. Now we have to get into the concept of transporting water from surplus to deficit regions. This is old stuff. The pipe was invented to take water out of the river and into the house, or to move it clear into the next county, or to transfer it from the wet side of the mountains to the dry side—as in the instance of the Rockies in Colorado under the Continental Divide to the dry side, or to impel it 300 miles out into the Australian desert to the gold mines of Kalgoorlie, or to transport it 1000 miles from Northern California to the south, or from one place in Hawaii to the cane fields. Why not transport Columbia River water to the arid Southwest, or Mackenzie River water to the Great Basin, or even the Ob or Yenesei River water to Kazakhstan (they really need it right now with all the trouble in their newly acquired "FREEDOM"). It seems that the only limit is need coupled with engineering and cost feasibility. But Washingtonians are not likely to react with great enthusiasm to a redirected Columbia, or Canadians to the use of Mackenzie water to irrigate the orange groves. Neither were Northern Californians and Mexicans particularly thrilled when their water went elsewhere, but standing up and saying so proved to be no deterrent to "progress". The problem comes in agreeing on a point where local regional interests and human aesthetic values become as important as the efficient use of resource. You must utilize your resource, but perhaps when you come to the point of substituting the word "ration" for "efficient" (and then define rational to the satisfaction of one and all—not likely), you may be on the right track at least.

RECYCLING OF WATER

All of this leads to an emphasis on more efficacious use of that wondrous commodity you now have, and the key term here is recycling. Water is never used up. If you drink it, flush it, wash in it or irrigate with it, the water is returned sooner or later somewhat changed and that is called "polluted". The trick, therefore, is to clean it up. This operation can be two- or even three-fold in its benefits, at minimum. First, if you can eliminate all of the harmful side effects of pollution or contamination such as water-borne human disease, destruction of wild life, stench, and so on, it is well worth almost any cost involved. Second, the by-products might aid in cutting down that cost, as your Milwaukee city discovered years ago when its sewage treatment operations yielded a profitable commercial fertilizer [called Milorganite]. There are other such by-products available now through ozone use and other methods for reclamation of actual soil replacement from the solid wastes rendered completely neutral in content. Do you not see, however, that these methods cut out massive money acquisition projects to the Elite blood-suckers of your society? Salts from distillation and productive use of energy derived from cooling hot-water pollution are further examples. Finally, of course, there is the reason behind the original effort: clean water to be used again. If drinking recycled sewage water is shocking to your sensibilities, be reassured that you have been doing exactly that for all the years of life cycles on your place. Most towns on rivers draw their drinking water from upstream and discharge their sewage downstream. In Texas, as humorous rivals in Dallas and Fort Worth, there was a saying—"Dallas, flush your toilets, Fort Worth needs the water." Rather crude, but applicable to the subject. If there were only one town per river this system might work, but there are usually great numbers of people upstream and a little filtration and a dash of chlorine (deadly poison) is your only protection. Actually, carefully monitored recycling, operating under an enforced master code, ensures higher quality water than most of you usually take into your systems. Now that you have deliberate contamination by harder-to-cleanse substances, the problem is epidemic in proportion.

AQUIFERS

Thus far, we have been discussing rock with a certain homogeneity of permeability, but this is not always the case, for many different strata may be present underlying a given region, each with its own characteristics. An important occurrence is a permeable layer, such as sandstone, confined between impervious strata and tilted so that it intersects the surface. Water entering the exposed sandstone outcrop percolates along it as if in a pipe. But normal groundwater will be limited to the zone above this confined aquifer, for the impervious layer immediately atop the sandstone stops its downward movement and also acts as a barrier between free association of the water in the aquifer and the groundwater. Shallow wells plumb only the local groundwater that is subject to the vagaries of seasonal rainfall and, if the region is arid, is easily exhausted. But wells tapping the deeper aquifer assure themselves of a more continuous supply, especially if the intake is in a better watered area. Also, since the permeable surface outcrop is often the highest point in the aquifer, wells drilled to this lower level are usually artesian because of the hydraulic pressure within the closed system. As long as the outlet is lower than the intake, water will rise in the well. Some will flow; others merely show a rise of level above that of the general water table. In either case the term "artesian" is applied (taken from the first recognized well of this type in the French province of Artois and since pushed off on you as expensive and exclusive drinking water).

One of the largest artesian systems in the world underlies much of the interior Queensland and Northern New South Wales in Australia. Here a confined and highly permeable gravel bed receives water at its highest point in the humid Great Dividing Range and carries it for almost a thousand miles west beneath an arid to semiarid country where water is at a very high premium. Many hundreds of bores tap this aquifer, supplying life to what would otherwise be desolate unusable country. But inevitably, too much water has been withdrawn and most wells that at one time flowed freely at the surface now must be pumped. And too, the quality of the water seriously deteriorates with the distance it moves through the aquifer so that only in the eastern half of the basin is salinity low enough for reasonable utility. Even here the water is too brackish for general irrigation and is used only for watering stock.

In the Lake Eyre Basin, below sea level although in the heart of the continent, the lower end of the aquifer reaches the surface. The highly saline water flows out here as artesian springs, evaporating almost as rapidly as it appears and depositing salts around each outlet. These are called mound springs, building up to a foot or two in height, and are a result of artesian water under great pressure, high salinity, and an extreme rate of evaporation.

Similar artesian systems are found in many other parts of the world, although none is as large as that in Australia. The Dakota sandstone, underlying the Northern Great Plains, has its intake in the Rockies and is a major source of water for an extensive semiarid region. North of the Po River in Italy is a line of flowing springs, the Fontanili. Fed by melting snows in the Alps, the underground water moves down through an aquifer of coarse glacial and alluvial material. Many of the North Saharan oases exist because aquifers transport Atlas Mountain waters a long distance out into the desert to reappear as springs.

One of your U.S. most important Aquifers is under portions of Texas and irrigates the great grain and natural growing fields of Deaf Smith County area, etc. Wouldn't you guess that this is the area contemplated for massive nuclear waste disposal—in pipes and containers sunk into and through that aquifer? How safe do you feel with the "beast" in charge of your very existence?

If you would measure simply the total volume of water delivered per hour, perhaps the most remarkable series of springs anywhere in the world also occurs in the U.S.—in the Snake River canyon of Southern Idaho. Here for 10 miles upstream from the town of Hagerman literally thousands of vigorously flowing springs issue from a porous stratum exposed along the north wall of the defile. Nobody seems to be absolutely certain where this huge volume of water originates but two bits of evidence point to a likely source: (1) there are no tributaries of any kind entering the Snake from the north for a 200-mile stretch short of Hagerman; this despite the high Rockies and Continental Divide not too far off and (2) there are several streams draining southward from the Rockies, notably the sizable Lost Rivers, which disappear abruptly into porous lava beds.

If this is indeed the source of the Snake River springs, then you must visualize an aquifer, probably a buried vesicular lava sheet connecting the Lost River sinks with canyon wall flows. Vesicular lava, when molten, is highly charged with gases and, as it cools and congeals, the tiny apertures created by the escaping gases result in an exceptionally permeable layer. The underground water does not percolate sedately through this kind of aquifer but flows virtually unimpeded as in a pipe.

HOT GROUNDWATER

The heat gradient of the Earth's crust, that is, the increase of heat with increase of depth, may affect groundwater moving along a deeply buried aquifer. Theoretically, there is a depth limit to rock that can contain water, for at several miles down, the pressures exerted by overlying strata are such that rock pore space becomes inadequate to accommodate a liquid. Water may be present but it is chemically combined in the rocks. But above this limit, sufficient heat still exists to raise the temperature of moving groundwater, and when it discharges, the water is in the form of a thermal spring. This type of spring is not rare, but much more common are the hot springs, geysers and steam vents associated with regions of recently active vulcanism. Here the heat of the Earth's interior has been brought well up into the crust where it is easily encountered by even very shallow groundwater. Such well known tourist attractions as Yellowstone Park, the Rotorua district of New Zealand, and Iceland are fantastic assemblages of every conceivable type of thermal phenomenon, and each is underlain by hot volcanic rocks. To be sure, cooling magma emits hot water, steam, and other gases so that all of this activity is not wholly a result of heated groundwater, but surface waters percolating downward to contact the hot rocks below are without doubt an important element.

Hot springs originating in this manner may achieve very high temperatures indeed, many reaching the boiling point. If the heat is even greater, then the water becomes steam and issues through vents in the rock as jets. The term fumarole or solfatara is usually applied if the pure steam is contaminated with magmatic gases and emits an odor. You will find many such outbreaks along the old volcanic mountains around Mt. Shasta and specifically notable in great numbers about Mt. Lassen. Geysers, which are merely intermittently eruptive thermal springs, are of this same origin. They require a long tube reaching from the surface to the heated rocks below. As the tube fills, the superheated water at the bottom is under too much pressure from the above to turn into steam, but when all of the water reaches the boiling point and some bubbles out at the top, pressure is released and the water at the bottom flashes into steam causing an eruption. The great volume thrown out by many geysers indicates that an underground reservoir must also be present, interconnected with the tube.

GEOTHERMAL POWER

Violent forces such as geysers and steam jets are not merely so much spectacular scenery but have occasionally been put to productive use. A pioneer venture in the volcanic sub-Appenines of Italy was producing practical electricity from natural steam as early as 1913, and Luther Burbank was involved in drilling shallow steam wells at The Geysers near Santa Rosa, California, in the 1920s. These are still, under new management of course, among the most efficient and largest even today. In addition, important projects are operative in New Zealand, Japan, Iceland, Mexico and Chile, and experimental work is under way and/or operative in many other nations.

Ones who have no understanding of the forces involved remain under the delusion that somehow if you tap this resource you "ruin" or destroy the source. NO, you only utilize a renewable resource ad infinitum. To say, for instance, that if the [Elizabeth Claire] "Prophet" settlement utilized hot springs in their location that it would destroy the Yellowstone geysers is about as absurd as you can get under any circumstance. This is the problem with ignorance, it is so infectious as to the lie perpetrated for the purpose of destroying that which would otherwise be useful and beautiful in recycling.

Electrical power derived from the geothermal resource is not really much different from that of a normal coal or oil-fired thermal plant in its basic scheme. Coal burned under a boiler produces steam, which is directed to the turbine blades of an electrical generator. But in the geothermal plant, nature supplies the fuel and the boiler and there is a huge theoretical cost advantage not to mention lesser air pollution. Natural steam and hot water, however, are always, to some degree, contaminated by dissolved salts and gases and consequently corrosion and scaling of the equipment results. For example, near Southern California's Salton Sea is an immense underground hot water reservoir but, up until now, its utilization has been impeded by equally immense salt content. Further, hot waste water and brine discharges are sometimes difficult to deal with.

TESLA PUMP

There is a pump/turbine system which can handle such water but you still have the problem of corrosion on other parts of the equipment. However, Tesla pro-

CONTACT: The Phoenix Project

CONTACT is a unique and inspired newspaper for concerned citizens everywhere, though it particularly focuses on the United States because of this country's special mission in the affairs of the world. That is, "As goes the United States, so goes the world."

CONTACT is a vehicle for Commander Gyeorgos Ceres Hatonn's most recent writings on important current affairs, plus those from other enlightening sources, on matters critical to a responsible and informed public at this time of planetary transition and final days of battle between the Forces of Light and the "Evil Empire" forces of darkness.

CONTACT exists to counteract the manipulating lies and clever half-truths put out (on purpose) by the regular print and broadcast media prostitutes of the Satanic Elite controllers—parasites who are in the process of economically, physically, and spiritually collapsing this once great country (and actually the entire planet) down to a slave-state level of existence under their diabolical control plan called The New World Order.

This newspaper, CONTACT, began life on March 30, 1993, risen, like the mythical bird, with great determination "up from the ashes" of its internationally acclaimed predecessor called THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR.

THE PHOENIX LIBERATOR, in turn, began life in mid-October of 1991, having evolved from an earlier newsletter called the PHOENIX JOURNAL EXPRESS, which itself came into existence as a faster way to get THE TRUTH out to you readers than was possible with the more substantial "book" format of the PHOENIX JOURNALS. Much incredible ground has been covered so far in that mission.

While the PHOENIX LIBERATOR's motto reminded all that "The Truth Will Set You Free", the CONTACT's motto, displayed prominently in the masthead, takes that thought another important step forward and proclaims: "Ye Shall Know The Truth And The Truth Shall Make You Mad!"

The "Phoenix Project" is about those preparations needed—at body, mind and soul levels—to both understand and survive the great healing changes which are beginning to energize this beautiful little planet, now so frazzled and tortured from abuses of all kinds. We look forward, with great expectations, to the *CONTACT*ing with all of you—a coming together that is rapidly taking place as the entire Phoenix Project "ground crew" continues to connect, solidify, and gain strength through becoming informed of THE TRUTH. Indeed, welcome aboard, friends!

Editor-In-Chief, CONTACT

duced a bladeless pump which functions on the basis of a "boundary" layer and after motion is begun no water touches the blade itself. This pump can be "reversed" and becomes a turbine for production of power. This same type pump can be utilized for the pumping of everything from potato peels to sand-laden crude oil. The ones who have continued to work on the product, however, have been pushed out of business by the Elite industrial giants who produce other types of pumps. This same pump in proportionate sizing can even pump blood with NO damage to cells—simply by sizing the apertures (space between the discs)—because the substance never touches the blades after motion is instigated. Just another "old" Tesla device disallowed perfection for your use.

PHOTON BELT POWER

Don't regard geothermal power as the universal substitute for traditional power (energy) sources any more than you would regard wind as such—for ultimately you will only find the sun or "solar" energy to fill that need. It will come from the photon rays which are becoming ever more powerful as you enter into more gamma-ray and higher frequency "x-rays". These are simply light particles, or photons, in the invisible range and with immensely penetrating capability.

MINERAL SOLUTIONS IN WATER

The very fact that a large proportion of your groundwater is hard or even brackish is an indication that in all of its movements groundwater is taking into solution and removing mineral matter from the rocks through which it passes. Even perfectly clear cold water has the ability to dissolve some minerals or to combine chemically with the rock to form new minerals. But groundwater is seldom clear, since it must pass through overlying material as it percolates downward to become groundwater. Decomposing vegetation on the surface and the soil below it adds elements that give the water certain solvent characteristics and then, depending on the type of rock it encounters, the water reacts chemically with those rocks. If the water is heated, it frequently becomes a much more efficient solvent and, in the process of being heated, will often pick up various new elements from magmatic gases.

KARST: WATER-DISSOLVED FORMATIONS

An excellent example of the sort of solution activity in which groundwater can engage is the removal of calcium carbonate by either hot or cold water with a high carbon dioxide content. Percolating through the cracks in a massive underground limestone stratum, such groundwater can etch out sizable cavities in a relatively short time. Given a longer time, such huge caverns as Carlsbad and Mammoth Cave result. Eventually, the terrain above these caves can be affected as the roof supports are removed and slumping and cave-ins manifest themselves at the surface in deep holes called sinks or dolines. Normal surface streams may disappear into such sinks only to reappear many miles away having flowed as an underground river through the cave. In Central Florida where the groundwater level is high, these sinks become lakes. Further solution within the cave will cause increased slumping until the original surface all but disappears and the landscape takes on a fantastic lunar aspect of sharp eroded spires. Eventually, even these become subdued through the activity of wind and rain, erosion, and weathering. Such a landscape deriving its character from the continued expansion of solution caverns beneath it, is called karst, after the region in Yugoslavia where this type of landform was first described. It would be a bit easier to picture if we have fully discussed the geomorphic cycle that karst landscapes display and I hope that at some point we can go into that as a subject. My great joy is in teaching and sharing, and it is most unfortunate to be always so limited in ability to give as all that I know would benefit you so greatly. We must, however, work with that which can be given and accepted in a sequence pertinent to happenings.

DEPOSITION OF WATER CONTENTS: CAVE DEPOSITS

All "solution" is admittedly not scenic, but it is a constant process and, over the centuries, an effective one. And if there is solution and removal of materials, there must be deposition. Sometimes deposition is long delayed as when the charged water finds its way to the sea, adding its bit to the salt content there, and it remains for the sea to accomplish the deposition. Frequently, however, some deposition occurs along the route to the sea. Course aquifers become indurated, mineral layers build up around spring outlets, and colorful crystals develop in rock cavities. If a cave is open to the atmosphere, lime-rich water dripping from the ceiling partially evaporates and deposits hanging needles (stalactites) to be matched by counter-needles on the floor (stalagmites) where each drop evaporates further.

PETRIFIED WOOD

Even such elements as silicon, normally strongly resistant to solution, may be taken up by certain types of warm groundwater and redeposited. Where organic remains such as tree trunks gradually decompose, each molecule is faithfully replaced by silicon to give you petrified wood. Other minerals too, many of them valuable economically, are concentrated by this process of groundwater replacement. What causes groundwater to give up its minerals? Cooling of hot water may account for wood deposition; evaporation and chemical change as new elements are taken into solution, or the activity of specialized plants such as those that give color to some hot springs are responsible elsewhere. So groundwater constantly dissolves, transports, and deposits and thus is deserving of recognition as at least a moderate gradational agent along with wind, waves, ice, and running water.

WHY IS THIS LESSON PERTINENT? DELIBERATE CONTAMINATION OF WATER

The reason it is so timely is that the first contamination of water supplies, especially in rural areas, is going to be through the wells and groundwater systems for "tampering" is harder to discover and usually there are less sophisticated persons involved. In great population areas, contamination is introduced in "substation" covered areas to hopefully prevent original recognition of tampering. Before you are done with this game—whole cities will be shut down because of total contamination—but with contaminants which will not be discovered until their introduction is well under way and without capability of PROVING deliberate contamination.

Laboratories are not geared up to even reveal or isolate such contaminants as these new crystalline virus forms so water supplies will be pronounced "safe" when, in fact, they are not. Contamination itself will not usually be discovered or considered in most epidemics of "flu", etc., because the water tested is for the same old expected contaminants. It will be through other happenstance that things will call attention, for where you have one organism or substance present—other things are tattle-tale. Always it will be that deliberate contamination will be masked by already present disease symptoms which delay further the isolation of causative organisms or substance. This is exactly what is happening in this local Golden Hills area. You have wells and groundwater usage from areas wherein contamination was easily introduced and separation is handled at the separation lines of Tehachapi proper. That does not mean it won't creep over into the supply but some of the other water comes from other resources than does the water for Golden Hills. The contamination at the prison in the area, for instance, can be totally controlled and isolated—then purged to show no evidence of deliberate tampering, causing it to be accepted that Hepatitis is passed from person to person instead of via the main water supply.

CONFIRMATION?

As we sit to finish this writing, we already have confirmation of my projections coming forth. E.J. just now delivered an article (I believe brought in by Dr. Young) on this subject which is headed: FEAR OF FAUCETS -- Do our water-treatment plants protect us against dangerous viruses in our drinking water?

It is too lengthy to take up the subject in this writing but we will present it to you at our next sitting.

Thank you Dharma, for your secretarial service; it is good to be working closely again for old friendships are comfortable and renewing to purpose and intent of missions. I appreciate being asked to share from time to time and look forward to more extensive insight into great geophysical phenomena and involvement of continents and even planets. Since I will probably not sit with you in the reprinting of the information, I shall look forward to sharing again and would bid you good-day and Godspeed. I salute you ones for your ongoing and endless service. I do not use the term "tireless" for I witness that you are all totally "tired". We make progress, however, and in the ending—THAT shall make the day. Salu.

Soltec to clear and relinquish frequency and to you ones who are "frequency" monitors, I do not utilize Gyeorgos Hatonn's circuit or frequency. We do, however, seem to work it out quite nicely. May peace prevail. Adonai.

(Editor's note: Remember that this following information was first written to address the "sickening" water contamination problems in a Tehachapi, CA suburb. The contamination "bugs" that Commander addresses below were what was—and still may be—planned for larger distribution. However, the "Four Corners" deaths would appear to be the result of some other variety of new and improved "engineering" efforts by some of those depraved scientific puppets of the Satanic Elite.

However, the basic "denial" game remains the same and Commander Hatonn does, below, finally cover the very informative FEAR OF FAUCETS article that Soltec briefly alluded to at the end of his writing.)

9/14/92 #1 HATONN

You-the-people will be told that there is no virus found in the water supply which is contaminated. We speak here about the specific location of Golden Hills (Tehachapi area), Calif. It is brought home because I am HERE and you ones will "listen" to me and act. I do not yet have audience elsewhere who will act quickly enough to make impact.

We have gone through the entire process and explanation of "Groundwater" because in THIS instance it is groundwater which is in point but the entire water supply of your nation is contaminated. To understand and realize this I ask that you read on and digest the entire written offering—NOT just personal perusal and then toss aside if you think you live on the "safe" side of the break-down point of the piping system. Tehachapi proper is in trouble also but no one has told you. Due to drought you all have terrible water for consumption and a whole nation is being contaminated with substance (viruses) which cannot be ever "cured". It may seem a small issue now but think what happens as the excretion from sick ones produces even more contamination for these particular viruses are NOT KILLED by any current water treatment methods.

HEPATIC DAMAGE

Ones with hepatic damage already present are targets for death and it will never be told what was the cause of death. This assault is planned to serve that very need—depopulation without knowledge of cause of death. If you are an abuser of drugs cleansed through the liver, a Lupus-diagnosed person with organ involvement (this will always include “liver”) or a simple “alcoholic” or frequent user to the extent of even minor damage to the hepatic system—YOU ARE A TARGET.

It IS the contaminant in the water right now which causes immediate reaction to the source problem in the liver of the human. The REAL culprit is that which affects the liver and also causes the various forms of Hepatitis (meaning: inflammation of the liver). The pathogen works in concert with the substance already present as toxins to and in the liver and causes exactly what you witness in Hepatitis, etc. The toxins are in the hepatic system and when stricken by this particular type of virus there is a major reaction, illness and, in damaged persons, full blown seizures, convulsions, heart inflammation, heart/lung inflammation, heart “attack”, symptoms of Hepatitis and Mononucleosis (general fatigue, malaise and liver damage symptoms of all kinds). There will be a reaction to fatty foods and an inability to break down glucose properly; this being response of the mitochondria in inability to properly function. The seizures are the most damaging and some will have been having them under certain circumstances without realizing it. There WILL BE NO MEMORY OF THE ACTUAL SEIZURE ITSELF. This will manifest in signs of falling, loss of bladder and/or bowel control, bruising from damage during falls at onset of seizure—IN AN ALCOHOL-RELATED SITUATION IT WILL OCCUR MOST OFTEN FOLLOWING GASTROENTERITIS AND NO INTAKE OF SUBSTANCE.

The response of paramedics and hospital attendants will be “withdrawal” but in actuality the symptoms will not mimic fully withdrawal or substance seizures. In fact, the patient will usually be considered well and be discharged within a very short time if brought to emergency care.

If admitted for hospitalization, the diagnosis will most likely be listed as Hepatitis (if organism can be isolated) or Lupus for this virus gives symptoms and can even mimic test results found in Lupus. This is exactly the WAY AIDS WAS INTRODUCED—BEHIND OTHER CIRCUMSTANCES, BUT IN THE U.S. IN THE INOCULATIONS AGAINST HEPATITIS.

The virus introduced will, at some time shortly noted, be categorized as an AIDS-causing virus. It is already on the list as revised. Check first your prison populations and then the general public—you will find Hepatitis B and C now listed as “epidemic” in some states, such as California.

There are great interesting observations to make. Check what is happening—especially in households where there is a known alcoholic—AS THAT PERSON STOPS DRINKING. THE SYMPTOMS WILL EXACERBATE IN ALL INSTANCES. THERE ARE NOW ADDITIVES INTO WINES AND ESPECIALLY THE “CLEAR” ALCOHOLIC SUBSTANCES WHICH ARE INTRODUCED TO INTERACT WITH THE VIRUS IN POINT. IT IS JUST AS A HERPES (COLD SORE) WILL BREAK FORTH UNDER GIVEN CIRCUMSTANCES. THIS, JUST AS A HERPES VIRUS, IS NEVER CURED OR KILLED—IT WILL REMAIN IN THE BODY FOR THE REST OF THE LIFESPAN, READY TO BECOME ACTIVE IN GIVEN SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES, USUALLY ACCOMPANIED BY SEVERE STRESS.

In the situation wherein you have damage attack severe enough to affect the nervous system you have a really potentially deadly setup. The same symptoms will be going on in affected areas, in hundreds of households. If the person, for instance, is an alcohol user you can expect the worst responses to come with no intake of substance. If you have persons with other causes and diagnoses (i.e., Lupus) you will have myocardial response in all probability with or without other symptoms but severe illness and acute (almost instant and sometimes “instant”) response to simply a “drink of water” almost as in the response to rabies infection.

As the liver becomes compromised the brain neuron interruptions result in seizures or heart attacks and usually the actual cause of symptoms is MIS-diagnosed.

“YELLOW” JAUNDICE A CLUE

Your major CLUE in this local contamination report is the printed word regarding symptoms wherein “jaundice” is one of the symptoms along with gastrointestinal upheavals. Jaundice is ALWAYS resultant of a compromise insult to the hepatic (liver)-biliary system. If jaundice is present, as it was with persons immediately in point—the toxin is already at work and the person is already in toxic response in a major way. It may not be apparent but the liver is under severe attack and this is irreversible damage. If symptoms are allowed to continue there will be total nervous system response and actual brain damage resulting in seizures and ultimate mental incapacity.

The population is TRAINED to BLAME whatever APPEARS most obvious. That is intentional so that no one notices until AFTER the damage is done that anything is going on. The reactions will occur first in already compromised systems and therefore diagnosis will be missed in the first complaints and, therefore, there will be no assault against the perpetrators until AFTER the disease is in full-blown epidemic proportion. Just as AIDS was intended for a certain segment to miss detection in time to stem the process, so is this next onslaught of introduced death-viruses. This will hit, first, the alcohol and drug users and those already compromised by systemic disease such as hepatitis and systemic lupus.

I DON'T KNOW HOW TO MAKE YOU SEE, CHELAS, YOU ARE UNDERGOING TOTAL AND DEADLY ATTACK AND FEW ARE ABLE TO SHAKE OFF THE SHACKLES OF BLIND IGNORANCE TO TAKE ACTION IN TIME TO STOP THIS INSANITY.

Dharma, I ask that the items brought as confirmation be placed herein—if I cannot cause you to look at this—perhaps you will SEE SOLID EVIDENCE. I know that you ones had no access to this information prior to my introduction of the matter—but please do not waste time in pondering and lingering over possible reactions of the public—GET IT OUT THERE! YOU ONES ARE BEING SLAIN AS DELIBERATELY AS IF YOU WERE ON THE BATTLEFIELD, WITH BULLETS AS AMMUNITION AGAINST YOU, THE TARGET. THIS IS AS SERIOUS AS IT GETS.

FEAR OF FAUCETS; Do our water-treatment plants protect us against dangerous viruses in our drinking water?

(Editor's note: The author of this article is Bryan Jay Bashin who is executive director of the Center for Science Reporting, a Sacramento-based science news service. This article originally appeared in the July/August 1992 issue of Eating Well magazine.)

For years a tiny handful of scientists suspected that there was something wrong with the way cities purify drinking water. Pierre Payment, however, was not among them and, on a wager, the Montreal virologist designed an experiment to prove the water skeptics WRONG. But science can turn upon small events: Payment lost the bet and demonstrated that our drinking water may not be as pure as we like to think it is.

In dispute was the significance of a small number of viruses. Although Payment had been finding viruses in Quebec rivers and tap water for years, conventional wisdom said that those viruses were not responsible for widespread disease. In 1985, while attending a microbiology conference in Washington, D.C. the Canadian researcher decided to bet an American colleague that he could prove, once and for all, that the conventional wisdom was right. Payment wagered that he and his colleagues at the University of Quebec's Armand Frappier Virology Research Center, who had a reputation for being tenacious virus-hunters, could demonstrate that a few stray viruses were nothing to worry about.

“We decided to find out what happens to people who drink water from a state-of-the-art plant meeting all U.S. and Canadian regulations, but which draws upon disease-contaminated source water,” Payment recalls.

The experiment Payment devised went to the heart of a truth that people who drink treated water may not want to think about: Hundreds of U.S. and Canadian water plants routinely produce tap water from water that contains, at least in part, pathogens and micro-organisms from sewage. American rivers slake the thirst of, and serve as sewers for, an enormous population.

“I used to live in Bozeman, Montana”, says microbiologist Mark LeChevallier, who works for the American Water Works Service Company near St. Louis. “The water they get here on the Mississippi is the water they've flushed in Montana six months ago.”

Actually it takes the water slightly less than ONE month to make the journey from Montana sewage plants all the way down the Missouri to St. Louis. By then the river is loaded with bacteria and discarded viruses from hundreds of upstream sewers, animal feedlots and slaughterhouses. St. Louis treats that water in drinking-water plants, uses it, treats it again in sewage plants, and puts it back in the Mississippi. Ten days later and a thousand miles downstream, they're drinking it in New Orleans.

Yet those in the clean-water business, such as LeChevallier, offer a reassuring message. “We believe that our water in the United States is well treated and safe to drink. ... Today people don't really have to think when they turn on the tap.”

All Pierre Payment set out to do was prove that this common premise was true. He says he began his million-dollar experiment sure that “there were so few viruses in tap water that we could show water was causing no disease. What we found was the reverse.”

Payment didn't have far to look to find a dirty river. Practically in his back yard was a plant that treats Des Prairies River water and pipes it to 40,000 people in one part of suburban Montreal. What made the river ideal was that Payment already knew there were viruses in it—anywhere from 5 to 10 percent of the Des Prairies flow consisted of untreated sewage. Yet no records existed that showed that Montrealers suffered an unusual amount of sewage-linked disease—the mysterious bouts of diarrhea and 24-hour “bugs” that strike most households once a year or so. The neighborhood's tap water was locally considered of good quality and regularly met government standards similar to those that govern U.S. water.

Payment designed perhaps the most thorough study of tap water drinkers ever conducted, putting 2,400 people in suburban Montreal under close scrutiny. To tease out useful data, he fitted half of the test families kitchens with extremely efficient $800 under-the-sink reverse-osmosis filters. The filters were so selective that they passed no viruses or bacteria, enabling Payment to compare the health of families drinking and cooking with purified water with a control group that took water from the tap—from the treated water of the Des Prairies River.

Payment expected a tiny difference at best. The state-of-the-art tap water plant used chlorine, ozone and a variety of filters to kill bacteria and viruses. To produce telling statistics, he'd have to let the experiment run for 18 months. No one had studied such a large group of water drinkers for that long. It was a costly and difficult gamble.

The telltale illness Payment was looking for—gastroenteritis—is a good indicator of tap water's overall infection potential because any of dozens of different bacteria and viruses cause its symptoms: vomiting, diarrhea, nausea, cramps. Gastroenteritis is also important because researchers are linking one of its causes—the extremely hardy enteroviruses—to far more serious illnesses. (See accompanying story following later on called, More Than Just "Stomach" Flu.) One of the implicated enteroviruses, the Coxsackie virus, is associated with a devastating form of heart-muscle deterioration. Researchers are homing in on other enteroviruses that may be linked to diabetes, meningitis and problems during pregnancy. Payment's focus, however, was on the much more common and easy-to-measure incidence of short-term gastroenteritis.

To get the data, Payment's group decided on a tedious mix of biweekly phone checks and ongoing health questionnaires. The results of the phone calls were startling. "Almost from the first month, we started noticing the trend," says Payment. "Across every age group, sex and region, people who drank tap water without the filter were getting sick more often (than the drinkers of the filtered water)."

The experiment was detailed in the June 1991 American Journal of Public Health. The control group of Montrealers drinking unfiltered tap water had a 30 to 35 percent greater chance of getting gastroenteritis compared with those who drink highly filtered tap water. Something in the water was making the control group sick—but the use of sophisticated filters significantly reduced the incidence of such illnesses. The filter reduced adult gastroenteritis by two cases per 10 adults per year. Children under 5 had even greater reductions; four to eight fewer sicknesses yearly per 10 children.

The dramatic reductions among the filtered-water drinkers would have been even greater if 5 percent hadn't contracted gastroenteritis from, oddly enough, the filters themselves (see story below, "A Filter that Breeds Bacteria").

One dismaying conclusion from the results is that this small, well-maintained plant may represent the tip of a microbiological iceberg. After all, in one small community in 1988-89, that single water plant had spread some 8,000 cases of short-term disease—and, apart from a dogged virology team, no one noticed. How much more disease may remain yet to be measured is any epidemiologist's guess, since U.S. government agencies haven't yet conducted a similar study here. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), for its part, says drinking water must be so free of bacteria and viruses that no more than one consumer in 10,000 will be sickened per year. [H: In a place like Golden Hills there should be "0", zero—none. And, no more than one in all of Greater Tehachapi.] Payment's experiment shows that not one but 2,000 consumers are being sickened by something so preventable that certain under-sink filters can knock it out.

It's not hard to find a reason why the effect has thus far remained undiscovered: The illness is relatively mild, and its normal incidence per family is relatively small, about one extra case of gastroenteritis per Montreal family every 15 months. [H: Don't lose focus for this virologist is speaking of "regular" strains of viruses or bacteria—NOT what is purposely in water systems in the local area, for instance. You can know this because one of the "symptoms" mentioned in the paper releases, lists "jaundice" and that comes only from some type of liver involvement—not simple gastroenteritis.]

That may not sound like much—a miserable day in bed now and again for one family member or his or her neighbor—but if Payment's results hold true in the United States, tap water may, amazingly, turn out to cause at least as much gastroenteritis as is caused by bad food. That's a remarkable rethinking of the sources of staggering amounts of American "stomach flu"—especially in a decade which has seen foodborne-disease outbreaks linked to raw eggs, chicken, soft cheeses, cantaloupe and seafood.

Payment's experiment revealed the opposite of classic "outbreak" epidemic, with many people succumbing within a short period of time. Instead, water-drinkers may have come to accept occasional gastroenteritis as "normal".

"If you take the data we have, it isn't an epidemic. In fact, the disease maintains a subepidemic level.... We might, as a society, now accept as normal a large chunk of gastrointestinal sicknesses which may be preventable."

If the Montreal subepidemic is projected across the U.S. population, the tally mounts to millions, if not tens of millions, of excess gastrointestinal bouts, with an economic cost of several billion dollars. And if scientists find that U.S. water plants are also passing on excess gastroenteritis—even though their tap water may meet recently revised EPA standards—a major re-evaluation may be in order.

Most probably, the preventable illnesses that Payment measured were caused by viruses. Payment had found viruses in Quebec municipal tap water before, roughly one human virus in each liter of raw Des Prairies River water. Were the viruses present in Montreal, but in numbers so low that they were not detectable?

"I sat down and thought," recalls Payment. "If the plant produced water with just one virus per 1,000 liters, the number of resulting diseases would be very close to what we saw in our study. And we can't accurately measure those few viruses. Every time I detect one, there might really be 10, or 100, undetected."

"And even if you only have one virus in 1,000 liters, that means that one person will be infected per 1,000 per day. That's why we've been trying to get that last virus."

That last single virus is enough to infect an individual; its public health importance is far greater than killing say, every last bacterium. That's because it can take hundreds or thousands of, say, salmonella bacteria to cause infection, but even single viruses—more efficient in causing disease than bacteria—can infect a human. A few viruses, then, can cause sickness in water supplies out of all proportion to their numbers.

"I think the potential is large for a viral cause," says Dennis Juranek, chief of epidemiology at the parasitic disease branch of Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "In over half of the outbreaks investigated, no [causal] agent is ever identified."

There has been no shortage of water-related illnesses to survey in the United States: From 1971 to 1985 there were 485 clusters of disease so widespread that the CDC has classified them as "outbreaks"—each averaging 7,400 cases of disease. The outbreaks happened at diverse sites, from contaminated wells to city water systems, but nearly everyone in the field agrees that those numbers represent just a fraction of 1 percent of the true number of waterborne infections.

But to say that viruses may be the cause and that water-treatment methods may be to blame is not to say that proving Payment's theory will be easy. "Virtually nobody has the lab capability and resources to do [necessary] large-scale investigations for viruses," Juranek explains.

Water scientists are at a loss to explain how state-of-the-art treatment plants like the one in suburban Montreal could pass on so much illness. A visit to most North American municipal plants—from which 83 percent of Americans get their water—is reassuring to a casual observer. Sparkling-clean water passes through mazes of increasingly cleaner channels; the sharp and satisfying antiseptic smell of chlorine permeates the air. Whirring pumps, white-coated technicians, authoritative banks of gauges—it's a perfect setting for a Mr. Clean commercial. As river water gets chlorinated, sedimentated, inoculated, coagulated, filtered and ozonated, might an occasional virus be able to get through? [END OF QUOTING]

Indeed, indeed. The virus now under point is one which is NOT KILLED OR TOTALLY FILTERED BY ANY KNOWN OPERATING SYSTEM TO 100%. THE VIRUS IN POINT HAS A COVERING "SHELL" WHICH IS NOT PENETRATED BY AVERAGE "SAFE" AMOUNTS OF CHLORINE (REMEMBER THAT CHLORINE IS A DEADLY POISON). THE VIRUS, LIKE THE HIV VIRUS, MOVES RIGHT THROUGH ALMOST ALL SAVE THE MOST INTACT MEMBRANE FILTERS JUST AS THE HIV PASSES EASILY THROUGH A CONDOM. MOREOVER, THE HIV IS SECURE, ALSO, IN ANY SYSTEM OF PUBLIC WATER CLEANSING APPARATUS NOW IN USE. YOU MUST UNDERSTAND, THE SCIENTIFIC COMMUNITY HAS NOW "CREATED" VIRUSES FOR SPECIFIC PURPOSES AND DEFENSES. THIS IS HOW THEY CAN TELL YOU THAT ALMOST 100% OF YOU WILL TEST HIV POSITIVE BY THE TURN OF THE CENTURY! IT IS A SURE THING—NOT JUST SPECULATION.

More Than Just "Stomach Flu"

(Editor's note: This is the first of two auxiliary articles to the main FEAR OF FAUCETS story on water contamination.) [QUOTING:]

In order for the viruses in tap water to sicken water-drinkers, they must pass through the stomach's corrosive acid environment. Only a few dozen intrepid viruses have evolved that have the ability to survive the journey. [H: Of course with the pushing of antacids you have provided a nice comfortable rest-bed for the little varmints, removing all difficulty in survival and allowing passage undaunted right on out through the intestinal system and directly back into your drinking water after a nice vacation journey—unless of course, they have to stop and multiply and divide in some loving host body—then bunches more are provided into the water supply of loving friends and neighbors every time you "flush".] These survivor viruses, however, are worrying epidemiologists because they're increasingly linked to serious, disabling human diseases.

As a group they're known as enteroviruses and they can cause disease from mild queasiness to killing heart failure. Because the outer coat they evolved to protect themselves from stomach acid also helps protect them against chlorine, the most common chemical used to disinfect tap water, enteroviruses are a significant source of waterborne disease. To finish off some enteroviruses may take hundreds, even thousands of times more chlorine, and much more time than it takes to kill ordinary bacteria.

These hardy enteroviruses may be the most dangerous life forms surviving modern water treatment. That's disturbing, because current research is linking some of the 73 known human enteroviruses (Poliovirus, Coxsackie virus, Calicivirus, Echovirus, Rotavirus, Norwalk virus, Hepatitis) to long-term, serious illnesses. The most compelling evidence implicates Coxsackie virus, linked to a devastating form of heart disease in which the heart becomes enlarged, flabby and weakened—dilated cardiomyopathy, currently the chief cause of heart transplantation. The virus seems to trigger a post-infectious autoimmune disease that can eventually result in heart damage and death.

These findings aren't just important to ivory-tower researchers: More than half of all people receiving heart transplantation originally became sickened by viral infection of Coxsackie virus.

"For some of these viruses, years may pass between initial exposure and symptoms," said Rose. That long duration makes it easy to understand why it's been extremely difficult for scientists to link, say a flu-like illness one day with serious disease months or years later. The true frequency and origins of many enterovirus infections, masked until now, remain to be discovered.

Consumers concerned about possible microbial contamination of their drinking water have a number of options. (Editor's note: Please appreciate how NONE of these suggestions are effective against viruses.)

- * Have your water tested. Many independent laboratories will test for toxins and bacteria.

- * If you have a carbon filter, change the carbon at least as frequently as the manufacturer suggests.

- * In the morning run the water for at least half a minute before taking a drink.

- * Be certain that all faucets to which garden hoses are attached are fitted with an anti-siphon device to prevent a reverse flow from hose to indoor plumbing.

- * Call the local water utility and get a free copy of its latest water quality report. The report will list levels of coliform bacteria and chemical pollutants found in tap-water samples. The utility engineers may also be able to provide you with a rough idea of the coliform count in source water. If the number is above about 10,000 total coliforms per liter, the source water is roughly as contaminated as that in Payment's experiments.

- * If you decide to buy a home water-treatment unit, an excellent reference is the January 1990 Consumer Reports magazine Fit to Drink article.

- * Don't confuse distilled water with sterile water. Distilled water is not chlorinated and has been shown to be frequently contaminated with bacteria.

- * Bottled water may be purer than tap water, but some city-manufactured bottled waters may contain more bacteria than plain tap water. Other bottled waters may be a better bet—if you can determine your local brand's water source.

- * For additional information, consult the EPA's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at (800) 426-4791, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. EST. [END OF QUOTING.]

A Filter That Breeds Bacteria

(Editor's note: The following is the second of two auxiliary articles to the main FEAR OF FAUCETS story on water contamination.) [QUOTING:]

Consumers who have bought or who have been considering buying reverse osmosis filters might want to know that Pierre Payment recently discovered an unexpected bacterial problem with many of them. Designed to remove bacteria from tap water, they can also breed it—in staggering quantities.

Under-the-sink reverse-osmosis filters usually pass water first through a carbon filter to remove chlorine and other chemicals and then through a membrane that excludes everything but pure water. Since the membrane filters water at a rate of one gallon every three to six hours, the water is usually stored in a two-gallon holding tank under the sink until it's needed. That's the problem.

The water in the tank has been stripped of the residual chlorine that water plants add to stop bacterial growth in pipes. Sitting stagnate at room temperature often for days in the tank is an ideal breeding ground for bacteria. And breed they do. Payment measured an average of 10,000 bacteria per milliliter of tank water—20 times more than average tap water, some units breed up to 10 million bacteria per milliliter. "Those consumers were drinking water that contained more bacteria than milk," says Payment.

"I was surprised," the Canadian virologist remembered. He discovered that once a filter grows bacteria, it would continue growing them in about the same numbers for months. He published his findings in the April 1991 issue of Applied and Environmental Microbiology.

"The bacteria growing in the filter weren't ones we see too often," he says. His team grew the bacteria in the lab, and watched as beige, yellow and sometimes pinkish splotches spread across their petri dishes. The main species—pseudomonas acinetobacter, fiavobacterium, alcaligenes moruxella—were known to other researchers and presumed harmless.

Payment's statistics suggested otherwise. People drinking water from filters contaminated with fewer than 1,000 bacteria per milliliter are known to be coming down with gastroenteritis—about what you would expect from the normal population. But a third of the filters grew microbe-laden water with 100,000 or more bacteria per milliliter. People who drank that water, Payment found, averaged five bouts of gastroenteritis each year—10 times what people drinking unfiltered tap water experienced. Their $1,000 filter had given them diarrhea rates like those in the Third World.

If it weren't for these extra filter-bred illnesses, Payment's Montreal experiment might have shown even greater differences in illness between the filtered and unfiltered groups—more like 35 or 40 percent. If he can ever conduct a repeat test with biologically pure water—a technical challenge—he may be able to pin down the exact level of sickness that tap water can produce.

The Quebec researchers have stumbled onto a major regulatory oversight—home water treatment devices are barely regulated by the government. "The major problem is that nobody tests the filters microbiologically once they are installed," says Payment. They're installed and then forgotten. The salesman says, "change the filter every six months, and that's it."

The $100 million home reverse-osmosis filter industry has more than doubled since 1985.

"We've seen research that the human body is fully capable of tolerating higher amounts of bacteria," counters Peter Censky, executive director of the Chicago-based Water Quality Association, representing 2,600 manufacturers/services of water treatment devices. "Empirically, you consume much more bacteria from your table, your face, your skin. But the question is still open because we don't know enough about the physiology of drinking water."

Last December, Congress' General Accounting Office was far more critical of home water treatment units. "No single authority," the GAO reported, "exists to ensure that units perform as sales agents claim." [H: Now, if you believe the GAO would "help" you by more regulations then I do have another bridge to sell you in New York.] Calling federal regulation of the units "fragmented and incomplete", the GAO recommended that the Consumer Product Safety Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the EPA and industry coordinate a strategy to regulate the effectiveness and safety of the home units. [H: Oh boy, that should insure that no one ever gets safe water again in a lifetime.]

Certainly units like the one used in Quebec are in dire need of regulation. Though about 600 manufacturers make home water treatment units, only 54 to date have gotten around to having the Water Quality Association certify their units. Ironically, even that certification (the "Prestigious Gold Seal" in association literature) fails to test reverse-osmosis units for bacterial contamination.

Instead, the Gold Seal is earned if the unit merely filters out dissolved solids, doesn't leak under pressure and isn't composed of toxic materials. Water Quality Association literature—while stressing that these units can filter tap water bacteria—never mention that the filters often produce water containing up to 100,000 times more bacteria than the incoming tap water.

Payment's 1991 research paper on the filters concluded: "These observations raise concerns for the possibility of increased disease associated with certain point-of-use treatment devices for domestic use when high levels of bacterial growth occur."

"We want to repeat Pierre's study," said microbiologist Marc LeChevallier, senior research microbiologist with the industry's American Water Works Service Company. "Reverse-osmosis is a good system—just the way it's implemented may need to be modified. You've got to recirculate that water to keep it from sitting stagnant." [END OF QUOTING.]

I am quite sure we will again be blasted with "you fear mongers" and other nasty attacks. I, too, sometimes do not know why we and this crew "bother", but here it is. I ask that you take it or leave it, call if our staff can assist you but spare us your politics and religious put-down. You as a whole are in dire circumstances and what you do with this information is solely up to you. This is purely and simply offered as a public service in information. Shouting denials at our paper crew will merit you nothing but embarrassment as THE TRUTH projects itself. You have aiders and abettors of the NEW WORLD ORDER in your midst—knowing or unknowing—and I believe it is time you people open your dreamy eyes and look around you, for your time is running out quickly. Salu.

Every glass of water you drink contains molecules of water used countless times before.

Henry Kissinger

Crook For All Treasons

Editor's note: Part 1 of this well done historical outlay on Henry Kissinger appeared on p. 25-27 in the 7/11/95 issue of CONTACT; following, on these pages, we present parts 2-4.

7/10/95 #1 HATONN

I would like to continue on with the input regarding our icon of cabalistic, Talmudic realization, Henry A. Kissinger, Soviet agent. However, let it be known that this is not as important, possibly, for your understanding as the realization that this man is, more distinctly, a British Agent.

June 30, 1995 Executive Intelligence Review has an editorial regarding Kissinger's newly acquired "Knighthood" through the British Crown which I find both amusing and accurate:

[QUOTING:]

HENRY KISSINGER ON THE ROAD TO ASCOT

On June 20, Henry Kissinger was awarded the title of Honorary Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, by Queen Elizabeth. This rank of Knighthood is usually reserved for recommendations for British foreign service or diplomatic personnel.

That same day, Kissinger attended the Royal Ascot races with Prince Philip and the Queen. Front-page newspaper photos show Sir Henry, wearing a top hat, in attendance on the Royal Couple as the three were taken to the races in a horse-drawn carriage. Sometimes, as in this case, a picture is worth a thousand words. Here we see the flapjowled former U.S. Secretary of State and National Security Adviser, shamelessly flaunting his reward for his decades-long service to the British Crown.

For those who are familiar with Kissinger's May 10, 1982 speech before the Royal Institute of International Affairs, at Chatham House in London, this will not come as a complete surprise. [H: Is it not wondrous when you can read something like this and KNOW BOTH THE PLAYERS INVOLVED, THE PLACES, AND ABOVE ALL—WHO THEY ARE AND HOW THEY FIT INTO THE WORLD TAPES-TRY?] In that speech, Kissinger admitted that his first loyalty was to the British government when he was National Security Adviser.

In that speech, he said of the postwar period: "The British were so matter-of-factly helpful that they became a participant in internal American deliberations, to a degree probably never before practiced between sovereign nations. In my period in office, the British played a seminal part in certain American bilateral negotiations with the Soviet Union—indeed, they helped draft the key document. In my White House incarnation then, I kept the British Foreign Office BETTER INFORMED and MORE CLOSELY ENGAGED THAN I DID THE AMERICAN STATE DEPARTMENT..."

The Ascot Races, the premier social event of the London "season", and the award of a knighthood seem to be quintessentially British rituals, but of course, in reality they represent ceremonies which put the window dressing on the role of the British Royal Family as protagonists in an international oligarchy which is seeking to keep, and indeed, increase its domination of the world.

The coincidence of the two events signifies the special honor accorded by his Royal masters, to the American traitor, Kissinger. That a mere honorary knight be invited as guest of honor to attend the races was, according to a Buckingham Palace spokesman, "most unusual", especially as Sir Henry and his wife had also been luncheon guests at the Palace.

Not so ironically, the Kissingers were dinner guests of British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd and his wife. Hurd was known as "Hitler" Hurd during his school days, when apparently he already exhibited the sadistic proclivities recently manifest in his support for the Serbian fascist leadership.

Interestingly, while Henry Kissinger was being honored at the Palace, in Italy the situation was quite the opposite. Kissinger is again coming under scrutiny for his role in the kidnap and assassination of former Italian Prime Minister Aldo Moro. Ever faithful to his British masters, Kissinger took a direct hand in the frameup of Lyndon LaRouche, and he was a prime mover in the overthrow and then execution of Pakistan Prime Minister Bhutto, whom he had threatened to make into "a terrible example". In 1974, Kissinger was responsible for the infamous NSSM 200 directive proclaiming population growth in developing countries as THE major security threat to the United States.

Certainly there is an element of buffoonery in the new honors accorded to Sir Henry. Wags have even been turning the pages of Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland in order to find an appropriate description. "Now that Kissinger has traveled the road from Queen's pawn to knight," the query, "does he aspire to the title of Red Queen?" For those unfamiliar with their Alice, this is the member of a pack of cards who kept demanding: "Off with his head!"

There is an appropriate adage: Whom the gods will destroy, they first make mad. How else can one explain the insane willingness of the British monarchy to flaunt the servitude of one of its chief lackeys, than sheer madness. Either Sir Henry, Queen Elizabeth, and Prince Philip are mad for supposing that they will get away with such a parade of their villainy—or the rest of us are mad for our willingness to allow these clowns to wantonly destroy our civilization. [H: No comment!]

[END OF QUOTING]

HENRY KISSINGER, SOVIET AGENT

by Frank A. Capell

[QUOTING, PART 2:]

ABUNDANT POWER AT PLAY

Intelligence sources reported that Kissinger learned through a foreign intelligence agent of a plan to assassinate Chinese Communist dictator Mao Tsetung and his assistant, Chou-En-lai. Kissinger reportedly relayed the information which resulted in a purge of the high-ranking military who were involved in the effort to overthrow the Chinese Communist regime. Through Kissinger's efforts the Soviet Government was saved from a possible famine and internal revolution, the Chinese Communists from a military overthrow, and numerous Communist satellite countries supplied with desperately needed American technology, machines and prime necessities. Billions of dollars in credit have been granted to Communist countries as a result of secret agreements made by Kissinger during his visits to Communist countries, and many of his commitments and agreements still remain secret. In every instance, however, international Communism has been strengthened.

Here in the United States, on Kissinger's recommendation, many security risks, including individuals previously named as Communists and Soviet agents, have been placed in strategic and policy-making positions in the State Department and have been given important diplomatic posts overseas. At the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) the man selected by Kissinger to be in charge of political intelligence on the U.S. negotiation team was Boris Klosson who has been known in intelligence circles as a security risk for over twenty years. Other equally bad selections will be discussed later.

Early in his career as Nixon's top adviser, Kissinger arranged to gain virtual control of the nation's intelligence network. In November 1971 the White House announced that intelligence activities were being "restructured" to improve their "efficiency and effectiveness". Kissinger was placed in charge of a subcommittee of the National Security Council to review intelligence operations. Even such liberals as Sens. Stuart Symington and J. William Fulbright protested, stating that President Nixon had reshaped intelligence operations to vest more control in the hands of Henry Kissinger without congressional advice. It has now been charged that CIA reports no longer go to the White House and President Nixon; they go directly to Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

WATERGATE PHENOMENON

For a time it seemed that Henry Kissinger had emerged completely unscathed from the Watergate scandals. It seemed that no tapes contained his advice, which is strange as he was Nixon's top adviser on national security—which was supposed to be what the "Plumbers" activities were all about. Kissinger just went his merry way as if there were no such thing as Watergate, while the nation was given shock after shock via the news media involving Nixon, Hunt, Dean, Magruder, McCord, Liddy, et al. One man has involved Kissinger, however, not just as the innocent bystander he seemed to be, but as the instigator of it all. The conspiracy behind the Watergate conspiracy, a conspiracy to cause the downfall of the American form of government by discrediting its leaders, has been hidden by the smoke screen of public indignation and we have not been able to see the woods for the trees. It's about time we looked at those woods, and we shall surely see Henry Kissinger lurking in them.

A QUICK GLANCE AT A STRANGE SUCCESS STORY

Henry Alfred Kissinger, born at Fuerth, Germany, May 27, 1923, has come a long way fast since his immigration to this country at the age of fifteen. The West German magazine Der Spiegel carried an article entitled "This German in the White House" in which it is stated that Kissinger's birth is recorded in the town hall at Fuerth as Alfred Heinz Kissinger, son of Paula Kissinger (nee Stern) and Louis Kissinger, address was Mathilden Strasse 23, Fuerth (which is in middle Franconia). The Kissingers, with their sons Walther and Henry, came to the United States in 1938 AS JEWISH REFUGEES from the Nazis.

Henry arrived in Washington Heights, a section of New York City, in June, 1938 and after one orientation year of regular classes at George Washington High School, switched to night school and worked days. After graduating from high school he continued his education at night at the City College of New York (CCNY) while still working days for the Leopold Ascher Co., a shaving brush manufacturer on W. 23rd St. One of the owners was a cousin of the Kissingers. In these days the height of Henry's ambition was to become an accountant. There were a number of Jewish refugees in the Washington Heights area, many from Kissinger's native Fuerth and the neighboring town of Nuremberg. Kissinger belonged to a youth group (Beth Hillel Youth Group) made up mainly of German-Jewish refugees. The group had religious and political speakers, among them Jacob K. Javits, then active in the Reform Republican movement. A member of this group was Ann (Anneliese) Fleischer, a refugee from Nuremberg, who was to become Henry's first wife. Kissinger served in the U.S. Armed Forces from 1943 to 1946, being discharged with the rank of staff sergeant. He served with the 970th Counter-Intelligence Corps and remained in the Military Intelligence Reserve. While in service, he was reportedly investigated by G-2 which opened a case because of Kissinger's reported attempts while in Germany to contact important personages there. Kissinger became a U.S. citizen in 1943 through service in the U.S. Army. In view of the fact that German had been Kissinger's native tongue, he became an interrogator in counter-intelligence. Later, although only a sergeant, he was put in charge of administering a German town. By 1946, because of his capabilities or connections, he was made a civilian employee at a salary of $10,000 a year.

Upon leaving Germany, Kissinger entered Harvard where he majored in government and received four scholarships, among them the Rockefeller Foundation Fellowship for Political Theory. Kissinger graduated from Harvard in 1950 and received his MA degree in 1952 and PhD in 1954 in the Harvard Graduate School of Arts and Sciences. On February 6, 1949, he married Ann Fleischer and they had two children. The marriage ended in a divorce in 1964. Noel E. Parmentel, Jr., writing in the Village Voice of March 18, 1971, stated "When he (Kissinger) was married to Ann, who was a genuine human being, he couldn't stand it. After she literally slaved to send him through graduate school he almost turned her into a zombie with all that screaming and shouting. Just like the Gestapo. He was ashamed of her New York accent and always told her how she embarrassed him in front of 'important people'. It got so bad she was scared to even open her mouth. That house in Belmont was like 'Gaslight'." Both have since remarried, Ann to Saul G. Cohen, a chemistry professor at Brandeis University, in June 1973 and Henry to Nancy Maginnes in March 1974.

While working for his Master's Degree at Harvard,

Kissinger became executive director of the Foreign Student Project which had been started that year by Harvard Summer School. In 1952 the name of the CIA-financed project was changed to International Seminar and it began publishing a quarterly journal entitled, Confluence, An International Forum, of which Kissinger was the editor from its inception.

In 1953, when the Council on Foreign Relations launched a project allegedly to "seek the answer to the question of the threat of Soviet action against insufficient American initiatives", three subcommittees were appointed and Kissinger was named study director. Out of this emerged Kissinger's book, Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy, published in 1957 by Harper and Brothers. The book created quite a furore and impressed the then Vice President Nixon.

According to the N.Y. Times, the book "brought Mr. Kissinger to the attention of scores of politicians, diplomats and military men and became a source book for American policymakers."

By the time Kissinger received his Doctorate Degree in 1954 he was already serving as a consultant to a number of government agencies and teaching at Harvard. In 1955 Kissinger was appointed director of Nuclear Weapons and Foreign Policy Studies for the Council on Foreign Relations. The following year he became director of the Special Studies Project for the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, Inc. (having been appointed in Part 2 about his being Research Secretary of a Council on Foreign Relations discussion group. I will be referring from time to time to a publication called FOREIGN AFFAIRS, which is the official publication of the Council on Foreign Relations. I would note that a special advertisement for this Journal appears within the pages of its publication where there is a picture of LENIN laying flat on the ground as if just pulled from his perch in Moscow. The caption says: "If you're not current, you're History!" [See box on this page.]

There is, in the picture, a handful of people standing around in jeans and T-shirts, with hands in pockets, one or two with cameras, and generally no interest other than vague curiosity of the activities of the crew doing something off-camera, to the statue.

Ah! celebration of the downfall of Communism in the Soviet Union? NO, THE RAISING OF THE LENIN STATUE IN SEATTLE, WASHINGTON!!! THAT IS YOUR NEW WORLD ORDER: KHAZARIAN ZIONIST SOVIET COMMUNISM, AND YOU ARE THERE! LENIN AND KISSINGER BOTH COME FROM THIS SAME COCOON.

[QUOTING, HENRY KISSINGER, Soviet Agent, PART 3:]

Kissinger continued teaching at Harvard but took time out during the 1961-2 period to be a consultant for the National Security Council and the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. He also served intermittently as a consultant to the State Department and worked closely with Walt W. Rostow. [H: Mr. Jackson tells us Rostow is A-1 following Earl Warren on the Committee of 16-17.] Under the Kennedy Administration Kissinger was special consultant to President Kennedy on the Berlin Crisis.

In 1962 Kissinger became a full professor at Harvard, and was on the faculty of the Center for International Affairs which is CIA-financed. Kissinger was a member of a group at Harvard which began working fifteen months before the presidential elections in 1968 on a study for the benefit of the new president, whoever he might be. Kissinger wrote the foreign policy section of the resulting recommendations and President Nixon was reportedly so impressed with it that he immediately asked Kissinger to see him. Kissinger wrote the concluding essay in the massive BROOKINGS INSTITUTION study, "Agenda for the Nation". The central theme of the essay was that the incoming administration of the United States must deal with a world which is militarily "bi-polarized" but politically "multi-polarized".

When Richard Nixon announced that he was taking Henry Kissinger into the White House with him, the importance of Kissinger's position was explained in an article in the N.Y. Times of December 8, 1968:

"For reasons that are as good and logical as they are unsettling, the power of war and peace in the United by Nelson Rockefeller), serving in that position for two years. From 1958 to 1959 he was Research Secretary of a Council on Foreign Relations discussion group.

SLAVERY, AMERICAN STYLE

Goethe: "There is no one so hopelessly enslaved as he who falsely believes he is free."

This is a continuation of the ongoing documentation of Henry [KLEIN] Kissinger's early seepage into and within the very fabric of governments and world dominators. We had just spoken, a couple of days ago

Dr Kissinger

States resides in the person of one man. Last month, the country elected Richard M. Nixon for the job. Last week, the President-elect chose the one man who day in and day out will guide and guard him in that task: Henry Alfred Kissinger....

"Dr. Kissinger is to be that someone, as McGeorge Bundy was for President Kennedy and Walt W. Rostow has been for President Johnson.

"That all these men should have come from Cambridge is not entirely coincidental. Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology there helped to propel such policy-oriented academicians onto the national scene where the politicians came to know and need them....

"Dr. Kissinger's access and accessibility to the academic community must have been an important consideration in his selection, as also was his ten-year advisory relationship with Mr. Nixon's principal rival, Governor Rockefeller of New York... He helped to lead scholars and thus government toward an understanding of the political and psychological problems posed by nuclear technology and toward a re-examination of both diplomatic and military assumptions carried forward from the age of American invulnerability." [H: That's right—right INTO TOTAL VULNERABILITY AND DOWNFALL!]

Conservatives were dismayed by Nixon's appointment of Kissinger for Kissinger was the personification of all that American conservatives distrusted and feared in a political leader. He has been associated with the Council on Foreign Relations (considered by many to be the secret government of the United States), the Bilderbergers and the Pugwash Conferences. All three are highly suspect organizations whose activities are carried on in varying degrees of secrecy. Kissinger continued the McGeorge Bundy, Walt W. Rostow pattern of individuals with CIA connections occupying the top National Security spot. McGeorge Bundy, Kennedy's Special Assistant for National Security Affairs, was a former CIA man and an associate of Kissinger at Harvard. Walt W. Rostow, who took Bundy's place under Johnson, came from the CIA-financed MIT Center for International Studies. Henry Kissinger was associated with the International Seminar and the Center for International Affairs at Harvard, also CIA-financed.

As the N.Y. Times stated, Kissinger has access to the academic community, both at home and abroad. [H: Zionist Protocol No. 14 (short listing): "But above all let us monopolize Education. By this means we spread ideas that are useful to us, and shape the children's brains as suits us."] He participated in at least one Pugwash Conference, being listed as a participant in Part Two of the two-part conference held at Smugglers Notch, Stowe, Vt., Sept. 5-8, and Sept. 10-17, 1961. This was one of a series of meetings which began in 1957 under the auspices of the very pro-Soviet Cyrus Eaton and which derived their name from his home in Nova Scotia at which the first meeting was held. The name was changed from "Pugwash", however, to improve the image of the conferences and an attempt was made to disassociate the conferences from Eaton, at least in the eyes of the public.

The Conference attended by Kissinger was the Seventh Conference on Science and World Affairs, part two being on "Disarmament and Arms Control". At the Sixth Conference, entitled the Conference of International Scientists on World Security and Disarmament, held in Moscow, Nov. 27 to Dec. 5, 1960, Kissinger's predecessor in the White House, Walt W. Rostow, gave the closing address. The thinking of Rostow and Kissinger is similar in that they believe we must trust the Soviets in order to avoid annihilation in this thermonuclear age. The general plan is for the United States and the U.S.S.R. to join forces to police the world under a supranational authority such as an enlarged and greatly strengthened U.N., armed with a nuclear police force. Some of the papers presented at the Moscow Pugwash Conference in 1960 were most frightening in their content but they were not meant for the eyes and ears of the masses, just for those who are planning our future.

have complete control of the new "World Disarmament", as there are other important people in the world... bankers, industrialists, diplomats. These people who also meet and plan in secret are called the Bilderbergers. Henry Kissinger has attended at least one of their meetings. [H: Wow, and in this period of time has grown to one of the two TOP BANANAS IN THE GROUP—THE WESTERN "HEAD" KING OF THE THRONE!] His name was on the list of participants at the Williamsburg, Va. Conference, which took place March 20, 21, and 22, 1964.

BILDERBERGERS

The idea of the Bilderberg meetings originated in the early fifties. The first meeting that brought American and European "leading citizens" together took place under the chairmanship of Prince Bernhard at the Bilderberg Hotel in Oosterbeek, Holland, from May 29 to May 31, 1954. Although the Bilderbergers claim that they are not a "policymaking body", and that "no conclusions are reached", they surely do not bring important people from the four corners of the Earth for nothing.

Another group of "unofficial" policymakers is the Council on Foreign Relations with whom Kissinger has long been affiliated. After a thorough investigation this organization was declared subversive by the American Legion of California in 1962. Among the present or past members of the CFR we find the following: Alger Hiss, Ralph Bunche, Lauchlin Currie, Harry Dexter White, Herbert Matthews, Joseph Barnes, Cyrus Eaton, J. Robert Oppenheimer, John K. Fairbank and Arthur Goldberg, all of whom have had a record of close affiliation with Communists and some of whom were actually identified as Communists.

During the first week of December 1968 the International Association for Cultural Freedom conducted a five day closed seminar at Princeton, N.J. Ninety individuals attended, among them Henry Kissinger, who told those assembled, "The doors to the White House will always be open to your ideas." Present to hear this kind invitation were Charles Hamilton, co-author with Stokely Carmichael of the book, Black Power; Andreas Papandreu, left-wing leader of the Panhellenic Liberation Movement, exiled from Greece because of his pro-Communist activities; and some participants from Communist countries.

Kissinger's own words have expressed his goals and they do not coincide with what the average American considers to be in the best interests of the United States as a nation. He has stated, "Ending the war (in Vietnam) honorably is essential for the peace of the world. Any other solution may unloose forces that would complicate prospects of international order." And this is what Kissinger and his intellectual colleagues want: international order, which would consist of World Government in a World of Disarmament. Kissinger recommended a start toward this in The Troubled Partnership in 1965 in which he found a need for improved consultation among the allies. He advocated a "united Europe with federal supranational institutions as the precondition for an Atlantic partnership", or regional world government. Professor Henry Paolucci, of St. John's University, wrote a study about Kissinger which appeared in the Congressional Record of August 4, 1971, a portion of which states: "Henry Kissinger, too, expressed as recently as 1965 the conviction that the time was at hand for a surrender of nationhood because 'institutions based on present concepts of national sovereignty are not enough.' The ultimate goal of a supranationalist world community, he wrote, 'will not come quickly; many intermediate stages must be traversed before it can be reached. It is not too early, however, to prepare ourselves for this step beyond the nation-state.'"

Men of science are not going to And that is what Henry has been doing with all the power at his command—preparing the way for the end of the United States as a nation.

WITH A LITTLE HELP FROM HIS FRIENDS

Henry Kissinger started on the road that was to lead him to the position of global superstar when he was inducted into the U.S. Army on February 26, 1943. He became a naturalized U.S. citizen while in the military service in the U.S. District Court of Spartanburg, S.C. on June 25, 1943. He received his basic training at Camp Croft, S.C. and was enrolled in the Army Specialized Training Program at the University of North Carolina and Lafayette University. He served in Europe in Company "G", 335th Infantry Regiment, 84th Infantry Division as an investigator in the Counter-Intelligence Corps. He was discharged as a staff sergeant in 1946 to accept employment as a Department of the Army civilian instructor at the European Theater Intelligence School at Oberammergau, Germany, serving in this capacity for one year. Upon his return to the United States in 1947, Kissinger applied for a commission in the Officers Reserve Corps. He was appointed 2nd Lt. M1 (ORC) on April 19, 1948, promoted to 1st Lt. M1 (USAF) on May 11, 1951, and on November 15, 1955 was promoted to Captain. He completed annual tours of active duty from 15 to 90 days duration in the Office of the Assistant Chief of Staff G-2, U.S. Army Intelligence Center at Fort Holabird, Maryland. Intelligence sources reported that during January and February of 1959 Kissinger visited the Federal Republic of Germany and U.S. Army installations in Europe. Arrangements for his trip were made through General Lyman Lemnitzer. On March 6, 1959 in a letter addressed to the adjutant general, Kissinger indicated a desire to resign his commission because of other obligations and the conviction that he could be "of greater service in a high rank in case an emergency necessitates this step..."

It was while Kissinger was being trained in the United States for his overseas service in Germany that he made contact with the man who shaped his life. Fritz Kraemer was a well-born German lawyer and PhD who had so vigorously opposed the Nazis that he had to leave Germany when Hitler came to power although he was not a Jew. Kraemer, described as an "urbane political refugee" but holding the rank of a lowly Pfc., was 35 years of age in 1944 and was touring U.S. Army training camps, lecturing on what the Nazis were like, indoctrinating the soldiers who were about to fight them with hatred and fear. Kissinger heard Kraemer during one of this sessions and contacted him: "Can I help you?" Kraemer sought out Kissinger at his training camp and later said: "I have just met a man who as yet knows nothing but understands everything." Their relationship was thus established and continued. When Maj. Gen. Alexander R. Bolling, commander of the 84th Division, asked Kraemer before they shipped out to compile a list of all soldiers with foreign-language capabilities, Kissinger's name was on the list.

With "G" Company Kissinger boarded the USS Stirling Castle on Sept. 28, 1944 and two weeks later arrived in Liverpool. When "G" Company entered Germany as the spearhead of the 84th Division, however, Kissinger was no longer with it. On the previous evening he was pulled out of his combat unit and reassigned to Division intelligence (G-2) as driver-interpreter for Gen. Bolling—on the recommendation of Fritz Kraemer who was now a G-2 sergeant with the 84th. Kissinger signed out of "G" Company on Nov. 8, 1944 and rolled across the border, alone at the wheel of a Jeep, to Division Headquarters in Palenberg, three miles within Germany. While he was still a driver-interpreter, Kissinger was made military administrator of Krefeld. He was 21 years old and had no security clearance but was now linked to the U.S. intelligence community. He was promoted to Pfc, was given a security clearance within three weeks, was then jumped to sergeant and officially became an agent in the Counter Intelligence Corps.

Sgt. Kissinger then rejoined the 84th Division

(part of the Ninth Army) which was pouring across northern Germany. His job, along with other CIC agents, was to provide security against lingering Nazi saboteurs. The agents had to identify not only the local civilian spies but Gestapo agents and SS officers masquerading as regular Wehrmacht troops among the POWs. Kissinger was reportedly very clever in outsmarting the masqueraders with little psychological tricks to catch them off guard.

In June 1945 Sgt. Kissinger, by then 22 years old, was commandant of the 970th CIC Detachment which had been split off from the 84th CIC. With headquarters in the town of Bensheim, its assignment was to "ferret out" Nazis in the civilian population of the surrounding Bergstrasse district in Hesse, outside of Heidelberg. Kissinger became the "absolute ruler" of Bensheim with absolute power of arrest and power to search without warrant.

"What a setup!" A friend who had visited Kissinger wrote in his diary on Oct. 21, 1945. Kissinger lived in a luxurious villa ("like a castle", according to the diary) in Zwingenberg, a suburb of Bensheim. Kissinger had evicted the owners and moved in. Of course it would be necessary to have a car and a girl—Kissinger confiscated a white 1938 Mercedes-Benz sedan from a manufacturer and took a mistress, the beautiful blond widow of a German officer, whom the owner of the diary met at "a terrific party, a fabulous feast". Kissinger reportedly had many girlfriends; "He always found the time to go out."

During his 18 months in Germany (first in G-2, then in the CIC and finally in the military government) Kissinger hunted down Nazis. Kissinger still boasts, "I locked up more Gestapo than the entire rest of the U.S. Army" and reportedly "beams with pleasure" at the memory. He called himself "Mr. Henry" as an agent to "blur his identity as a Jew". There was reportedly a "special camaraderie" among the Jewish refugees in uniform but another Jewish CIC agent recalls that Jewish agents tried to hide their origins from other American soldiers—"It wasn't smart to make a big deal about it."

While "absolute ruler" of Bensheim, Kissinger put prominent men on cleanup details which he initiated especially for such persons but always insisted: "We have not come here to take revenge." "Mr. Henry" transferred out of Bensheim in April 1946 after having spent ten months as military administrator. This was yet another move arranged for by his friend Fritz Kraemer, who by now was Lt. Kraemer and on the faculty of the European Command Intelligence School, located at Oberammergau. He was instructing field-grade officers how to flush Nazis from their underground havens. Kraemer had a lot of influence at the school and asked the school commandant to give Kissinger a job as a lecturer. Kissinger, with little more than a high school education, taught a course on "The Structure of the Nazi State", basing his lectures on books and reports that Kraemer gave him. Since Staff Sergeant was too low a rank for Kissinger to be teaching majors and colonels, he was mustered out of the Army on May 23, 1946, four days before his 23rd birthday. As a civilian, Kissinger was paid so well ($10,000 per year) that he decided to stay overseas for an extra year. (Kissinger's brother, Walter, who at age 21 was an Army Lieutenant in Korea, also remained overseas an extra year in Seoul as a War Dept. Foreign Service officer because of the high pay.)

Kissinger left Oberammergau in the spring of 1947 and headed back to the United States. Kraemer saw him off with the advice: "A gentleman doesn't go to City College. Please look for something else." Kissinger fixed his sights on Harvard.

Kissinger entered Harvard as a sophomore in 1947 at the age of 24, arriving with a stack of mysterious typewritten reports. One of his first roommates has stated: "Henry knew his course and goals when he arrived at Harvard." His marks were so high he was assigned a coveted "senior advisor tutor" who turned out to be Prof. William Yandell Elliott, "high priest" of Harvard's Government Dept. Among other "tutees" of Elliott were Canada's Pierre Trudeau and McGeorge Bundy. Kissinger was 27 years old when he graduated from Harvard, summa cum laude, in the Class of 1950. He was one of the 16 Harvard seniors elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Through Prof. Elliott, who was director of Harvard's summer school, Kissinger was put on the payroll. In 1951 Elliott set up the Harvard International Seminars and Kissinger was made executive director; he ran the whole show, organizing the programs "almost single-handedly". Each summer 40 or 45 invitations were sent out to rising young academics, government officials, journalists and artists (with a definite accent on youth). At first Kissinger selected the persons to be invited through Elliott's contacts, then more and more on his own. Another professor noted that Kissinger had "an instinct for inviting someone who could turn out to be his host years later" in some foreign country. A former colleague stated: "It seemed to me that Henry was establishing a network of contacts... he was attracting these very ambitious, very intense people who someday he could call on as the leader of a government." In 1954 one of his seminarians was Valery Giscard d'Estaing, then a 29-year-old official in the French finance ministry and now president of France. The seminars were financed by the Ford Foundation, the Rockefeller-backed Asia Foundation and the "Friends of the Middle East", identified in 1967 as a CIA conduit.

In 1952 Kissinger founded the publication Confluence as an outgrowth of the seminars with the aid of a $26,000 grant from the Rockefeller Brothers Foundation. Confluence survived only a dozen or so issues, expiring when Kissinger took his first leave of absence from Harvard in 1955 because he was passed over for promotion from instructor to assistant professor even though he had gotten his PhD in 1954. In 1955 Kissinger was investigated by Military Intelligence because of the publication which was reportedly written from a pro-Communist point of view. Confluence received financial assistance from the Ford Foundation. Among its advisers were a number of individuals who, according to intelligence sources, had affiliations with Communist or Communist-front organizations. Their background and record was detailed in a confidential Military Intelligence report.

Described by a colleague as being "more interested in being a person with political influence than in being a scholar", Kissinger left Harvard, temporarily as it turned out, in 1955 and began establishing his relationship with Nelson Rockefeller, a man with influence in both New York and Washington, who was at the time a special assistant for international affairs at the White House. An article in the New York Post stated: "It was a dream match. The lowly academic yearned for political power. The man of wealth was obviously gearing up for a run at the Presidency, and needed an intellectual..." They met when Nelson Rockefeller organized an arms control conference at the Quantico Marine Base near Washington, D.C. in early June of 1955. Fritz Kraemer (by now in the Pentagon) again reportedly recommended his protégé, Kissinger, to be one of the group of academics convened there. Other sources say it was Prof. Elliott. No matter who it was, Kissinger was now moving onto the political scene.

ABOUT THOSE "ROCKEFELLERS"

Kissinger stayed on the Rockefeller payroll as a consultant for the next dozen years but did not go to Albany with Rockefeller when he was successful in his bid to become Governor of New York. He returned to Harvard, having missed only one summer (1956) of the Harvard International Seminars, and resumed their direction. He was also appointed director of the new Defense Studies Program at Harvard, a foundation-supported seminar on national security. In 1958 the U.S. Chamber of Commerce named Kissinger, then 35 years of age, as one of America's 10 outstanding young men.

After being named co-director of Harvard's new Center for International Affairs in 1958, Kissinger was appointed an associate professor in 1959. Continuing his summer International Seminars, "he seemed to systematically build up contacts," according to one participant. When the New Frontier took over Washington in 1960, Harvard faculty members were flocking to the White House but Kissinger was asked late and did not make the grade. He was known as "Rockefeller's man" and lasted only 18 months with the Knights of Camelot. He was eased out after he annoyed the Kennedy people by taking his wife on a personal tour of India, Pakistan and Israel, presenting himself everywhere as a White House consultant in an attempt to give the trip an official air. By 1962 Kissinger was back at Harvard and was now a full professor. He clashed with his colleagues on a number of occasions, however, and a fellow professor stated: "I feel certain that if a proper mental diagnosis had been made in 1962, he would have been declared sick." Kissinger's wife also was finding him hard to get along with. In 1963 he went to Europe with Nelson Rockefeller; they called on DeGaulle and the Pope. When they returned Kissinger left his wife and they were divorced in Reno in August, 1964.

Continuing his political activities, Kissinger became an "expert" on Vietnam and fed "think pieces" to the Johnson Administration through a friend in the State Department. The White House decided to make use of Kissinger's many contacts, among them Jean Sainteny whose wife, Claude, had once attended one of the Harvard International Seminars. Sainteny was an old friend of Ho Chi Minh. Others were Raymond Aubrac and Herbert Marcovich. Paul Scott reported in his syndicated column on November 12, 1969: "Although it has been one of the best kept secrets of the Vietnam War, Kissinger has been deeply involved in secret talks with the North Vietnamese. Two mysterious Frenchmen have been Kissinger's go-betweens with Hanoi. They are Raymond Aubrac and Professor Herbert Marcovich, friends of Wilfred Burchett, the Australian correspondent whom the Kremlin and Peking use frequently for high-level intelligence and diplomatic operations." (Burchett is a known KGB agent.)

Aubrac has been director of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization, was a close personal friend of Ho Chi Minh, and had been introduced to Kissinger when he was a Harvard professor in 1967 by Marcovich, a professor at the University of Paris. Kissinger and Marcovich had met earlier at one of the Pugwash meetings organized by pro-Soviet millionaire Cyrus Eaton.

Before Richard Nixon was elected President of the United States, Kissinger said of him, "I would never work for that man, the man is a disaster." One of President-elect Nixon's first appointments was Henry Kissinger as his top adviser but knowledgeable people felt that Kissinger was not working for the "disaster", that it was the other way around, except in public. [H: Indeed, but even then it was only a temporary step for the rise of Kissinger and the downfall of the whole Nixon Presidency as may well be considered good for the nation but on the other hand—Kissinger WAS "DEEP THROAT" AND WAS SUCH A TRAITOR AS TO DO IN BOTH THE PRESIDENCY AND YOUR NATION! You still lolly-gag all over this robotoid piece of garbage machinery. When "Communism fell" (???) in Russia—Mr. Kissinger already had a COMPANY, Kissinger Associates, in Moscow to which Presidency was appointed "fallen" Mr. Gorbachev.] Top White House aides, Haldeman and Ehrlichman, were hostile to Kissinger but he sat it out. He played down his Jewish background and cultivated the press. Eventually a strange conspiracy toppled Haldeman and Ehrlichman but sent Kissinger's fortunes even higher. While Watergate swallowed Kissinger's enemies before they could get rid of him, pressure was exerted on the White House to make Kissinger Secretary of State. William Rogers was eased out and Kissinger got the name as well as the game. Nelson Rockefeller was quoted as stating in an interview, "...I felt it was tremendously important that, for Henry to carry the responsibilities of the Arab-Israeli conflict, he couldn't be negotiating with the Defense Department and State Department and so forth, not with the President preoccupied (with Watergate)."

[QUOTING, HENRY KISSINGER, Soviet Agent, (First Printing: 1974), PART 4:]

THE REAL DISASTER

"Kissinger has used his position in government as a protective cloak to conceal his larger ambitions and purposes. Far from being a detached, objective arbiter of presidential decision-making, he has become a crucial molder and supporter of Mr. Nixon's foreign policy. Instead of merely holding the bureaucracy at comfortable arm's length, he has entangled it in a web of useless projects and studies, cleverly shifting an important locus of advisory power from the Cabinet departments to his own office." Thus wrote the liberal editor of the Harvard Crimson, David Landau, in an article in the Washington Post of July 11, 1971. Mr. Landau also noted that, as a confidential adviser to the President, Kissinger successfully claimed executive privilege when asked to testify on the record in congressional hearings. A former employee of Kissinger told Noel E. Parmentel, Jr.: "He's (Kissinger) got us all buffaloed. He can (and will) lift your security, get you a foundation black ball, bong you at the colleges, put you in coventry. He's got spies in every department. He's running the Ministry of Fear. All his phones are tapped and he keeps long dossiers."

After Kissinger's appointment as National Security Adviser, he greatly increased the staff of assistants, consultants and advisers and included among them a number of persons with dubious backgrounds. He has publicly admitted that he personally cleared two key staff members after they were denied clearances from government security authorities. A high former official of the FBI has disclosed that among Kissinger's personal appointees there were numerous serious security problems involving individuals engaged in espionage and leaking secret information. After he became Secretary of State, Kissinger continued to favor security risks for top positions.

The selection of Boris Klosson, well known in intelligence circles as a security risk, to be in charge of political intelligence on the U.S. SALT negotiating team was one of Secretary Kissinger's bad moves. Among the derogatory items in Klosson's security file would be the fact that a female Soviet agent taken into custody on her arrival in the United States was found to have Klosson's current address in her contact book. While in the American Embassy in Moscow, Klosson blocked intelligence reports from reaching Washington concerning KGB operations against Americans in the Soviet Union. Klosson was responsible for Lee Harvey Oswald being given permission to return to the United States from the U.S.S.R. after he had given up his American citizenship. Klosson wrote a fictitious report concerning Oswald's disillusionment with Communism and even provided the funds for Oswald and his Communist wife to return to the United States. A short time later Oswald assassinated President John F. Kennedy. [H: We won't take time to interrupt this "reprinting" of this book to debate contents. Please understand that our focus is on Henry Kissinger and "available" information to the author at the time of writing. YOU have to keep up with disclosures and changes as they happen for I haven't time to correct or update things as we go through each and every subject.]

The man selected by Henry Kissinger to be Ambassador to Chile, after Marxist President Allende was ousted, was David Popper who came into the State Department on the recommendation of Alger Hiss with whom he was closely associated with a long list of Communists and Soviet agents in connection with Amerasia magazine. The investigation in the Amerasia Case disclosed that over 1700 documents of confidential and secret classification had been taken from various government departments on behalf of the Soviet Union. Popper was named as an agent of Soviet Intelligence by a defector and was also identified as a Communist by the late Louis Budenz, who had been editor of the Communist Daily Worker and member of the Communist Party, USA.

As Ambassador to the Republic of China (Taiwan) Kissinger named Leonard Unger who assisted in the overthrow of the anti-Communist Prime Minister of Thailand. Unger was reported as a dues-paying member of the Communist and subversive Washington Bookshop Association at whose location secret Communist Party meetings were held regularly. Over 25 years ago an intelligence agent had reported Leonard Unger, along with a group in the State Department, as being under Soviet control.

The appointment by Kissinger of a confessed homosexual to the post of Inspector General of the U.S. Foreign Service was a continuation of his White House practice of overriding security officials. Security officials warned him that his choice, James Sutterlin, was a potential security risk and should not be placed in so sensitive a position. One top level government security officer stated: "Kissinger has opened the door for literally hundreds of homosexuals and security risks to move into the highest policy-making positions in government. Already there is a homosexual ring operating at the top level of the State Department with links in other agencies." Official reports show that Sutterlin's activities while he was stationed in Germany caused scandal and were known to the intelligence agencies of

he was an avid reader of Communist publications, including the Daily Worker, New Masses, and Young Worker; that he had attended Communist party meetings; that even while in college he was a member of the Communist and subversive American Student Union and attempted to establish a Young Communist League chapter in his college.

Secretary of State Kissinger has been making what he calls "substantial progress" in negotiating a new treaty regulating the American-owned Panama Canal. He selected as his assistant in negotiating the surrender of U.S. sovereignty over the Panama Canal Zone U.S. Ambassador-At-Large Ellsworth Bunker. By proper security standards, Bunker is another security risk. He was not only a member but actually was a director of the American Russian Institute for Cultural Relations with the Soviet Union, an organization cited as Communist and subversive by both the U.S. Attorney General and the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee. A long time member of the Council on Foreign Relations, Bunker was honorary president of the Foreign Policy Association, member of the radical Council on World Affairs, and a trustee of the (Marxist) New School for Social Research. Bunker, several countries. Sutterlin was reported as carrying on a homosexual affair with Edward Kelly, an individual who was later forced to resign (in good standing) from the State Department as a result of his activities while security officer in the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw. The homosexual affair between the new Director General of the Foreign Service and former security officer Edward Kelly was reported by an officer of military intelligence to the proper authorities in Washington. Edward Kelly was reportedly compromised by a male Communist agent in Warsaw and the full story of the "sex and spy scandals" in the Warsaw Embassy has yet to be told. American diplomatic and secret code books were copied, diplomats were compromised, American diplomats who were also Soviet agents operated freely, and many persons among the embassy personnel were compromised by trained female Communist agents. All this occurred while Kelly was in charge of embassy security. Informed Washington sources have reported that there is a secret arrangement whereby high-ranking sex perverts in the State Department are protected from disclosure and discipline.

"In the name of 'detente' the USSR and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe are receiving help in the form of trade, technology and credits which will save them from the threat of revolt by their down-trodden masses. There was the great 'Grain Robbery' in which the Soviets got American grain for a song, leaving American cupboards bare and forcing up the price of everything involving grain. There are the many American companies rushing to do business with the Communists [H: And remember that this was BEFORE 1974!], with payments guaranteed by the American government, using taxpayers' money. There is seemingly unlimited credit for long-term loans at unbelievably low interest, again guaranteed by American taxpayers."

Kissinger's appointment of Louis Arnold Wiesner as the State Department official in charge of refugee affairs could assure favorable treatment for Communists, posing as defectors or refugees, to enter the United States. Wiesner was reported as a serious security risk and the intelligence reports disclose that who also assisted in formulating the plans for the sell-out of South Vietnam, reached a preliminary agreement with Panama's Foreign Minister Juan Antonio Tack. Kissinger is known to secretly agree with the pro-Communist Panamanian government's demands that the United States relinquish sovereignty over the 530-square-mile Canal Zone. Sources state that the new agreement will eliminate the wording "in perpetuity" which appeared in the 1903 treaty. Kissinger and Bunker have agreed to abrogate the 1903 treaty and accept a new agreement which would eliminate U.S. criminal and civil jurisdiction in the Canal Zone, increase our annual payments to the Panamanian government, and ultimately end our sovereignty over the Canal Zone.

Another Kissinger target is Cuba which, under Fidel Castro, has become a Communist stronghold. Steps have been taken to "normalize" relations; the Mexican magazine Replica reported last summer that, while ostensibly on a visit to the home of a movie star, Henry Kissinger (who specializes in secret trips) met with Castro. The magazine also reported on other trips to Cuba by Kissinger when he visited Mexico, stating that his presence there was "no trivial matter without political significance, as President Nixon's own counsellor and other persons with whom he had personal contact... wish to make it appear." The pretext of coming "to have a rest" in Acapulco, like so many other tourists from North America and other parts of the world, is not in agreement with the frequency of trips to this port, the magazine stated. It is not exactly a secret, the magazine article continued, that Henry A. Kissinger has feigned an excuse for so many visits to the port of the state of Guerrero in order to mysteriously disappear afterwards for several days, and as had been verified, in spite of all his precautions to prevent it from becoming known, he has had as many interviews with Fidel Castro Ruz in 1972.

Such secret trips by Kissinger are an integral part of his modus operandi. As of February, 1972 he had made twelve clandestine trips to France to confer with the Vietnamese Communists while making preliminary arrangements for the "Peace with Honor" which supposedly ended the Vietnam War. By using military aircraft, changing planes, and staying in CIA hideouts (safe houses), Kissinger met and conferred with the Communists in secret locations selected by them. The final "peace" was concluded, after much devious diplomacy, and is considered by knowledgeable military men to be a defeat with secret reparations promised by Kissinger to be paid by the United States to the North Vietnamese Communists. Three and one-half years of talks were timed to culminate in "Victory" with the approach of the 1972 presidential elections. Kissinger's celebrated "Peace is at hand" statement was reportedly made with an eye to the elections which were only twelve days away. An article by Tad Szulc in the 1974 summer issue of Foreign Policy states that some of Kissinger's aides stated that Kissinger wanted "to commit Nixon to a quick peace. He seemed worried that after the elections Nixon might reopen the whole diplomatic situation; he feared that given Nixon's natural inclinations, the President might revert to toughness after being re-elected."

And so peace came at just the right time for Nixon and Kissinger but it might have come sooner. Rear Admiral Ira E. McMillian had visited with Henry Kissinger and President Nixon in August of 1970 and presented a plan to bring peace in Vietnam. President Nixon expressed interest in the plan but made the statement that it should not be used until October 1972, just before the election. The Admiral was shocked and thereafter, through his many contacts, continued to promote his peace plan without success. Finally, in desperation, he planned to make public the president's reluctance to bring peace except in connection with his reelection campaign timed for October 1972. Thereupon, on orders of Henry Kissinger, Admiral McMillian was kidnapped on a Washington street on March 17, 1972 and forcibly taken to Bethesda Naval Hospital where he was kept against his will for one month with no charges of any kind brought against him, nor any explanation for the kidnapping. The Admiral got the message... peace would come when it would do the most good for the Nixon Administration and Kissinger's global plans.

One of Kissinger's great accomplishments which will go down in history is the "opening" of (Communist) China. If it had not been for some fancy footwork by Kissinger, however, his friends, the Communists, might not have continued to be in control of this so-called People's Republic. Kissinger learned of a pending coup d'etat and made a secret trip to Peking to warn the Chinese leaders. Washington sources report that an Israeli intelligence officer learned of a plot to assassinate Mao Tse-tung and Chou En-lai in order to effect a military takeover of Red China. This information was turned over to CIA Director Richard Helms, who made a hurried visit to Tel Aviv and returned with detailed information on the matter for Henry Kissinger and President Nixon. Kissinger then took a fast plane to China and his visit resulted in the execution of a group of top Chinese military men and a blackout of news from Red China. Kissinger arranged for Nixon's famous trip to the People's Republic and from there on things were all downhill. By December of 1973 Kissinger had completed six (publicly known) trips to Communist China and had assured his Communist hosts that no matter what happens in the United States in the future, friendship with China is the one constant factor of American policy. Like the "detente" with Moscow, Kissinger was arranging to make this association "irreversible".

In the name of "detente" the USSR and the Communist countries of Eastern Europe are receiving help in the form of trade, technology and credits which will save them from the threat of revolt by their down-trodden masses. There was the great "Grain Robbery" in which the Soviets got American grain for a song, leaving American cupboards bare and forcing up the price of everything involving grain. There are the many American companies rushing to do business with the Communists [H: And remember that this was BEFORE 1974!], with payments guaranteed by the American government, using taxpayers' money. There is seemingly unlimited credit for long-term loans at unbelievably low interest, again guaranteed by American taxpayers.

Among those businessmen profiting from dealing with the Communists is Henry Kissinger's brother, Walter, who has become a millionaire. Walter Kissinger graduated from Princeton in 1951 and, after receiving his Master's degree from Harvard in 1953, he became assistant to the vice-president of foreign operations of the General Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio. By 1957 he was president of the Advance Vacuum Products Co. and during the next several years became a top executive of three other corporations. He is president and chief executive officer of the Allen Electric Equipment Co. of Chicago and maintains his office at Sands Point, L.I., N.Y. He also heads a West German firm, Rohe Company, which negotiated a contract involving over $125 million with the Soviet Union to build and equip five hundred gasoline stations in and around Moscow.

Kissinger's diplomacy makes bountiful use of money (your money, Mr. John Q. Public). As one lawmaker stated (in regard to a proposed Export-Import Bank credit to Moscow): "The question is whether we can afford Henry Kissinger." Most people think that Kissinger is running about the world bringing peace to embattled nations, pouring oil on troubled waters. Actually what he is pouring is money, bringing the United States to the brink of bankruptcy which is closer than the "verge" where it has been for some time. In discussing Kissinger's "checkbook diplomacy" which is sharing our wealth too freely, Congressman John R. Rarick stated: "It doesn't take a degree in higher mathematics to add up the costs to the American taxpayers of the 'peace settlement' of the October Middle East War. The first figure to write down is $2,200,000,000. Label this item 'emergency military loans to Israel during the October War'. Now, jot down under the heading, 'foreign aid to Egypt to cover the costs of renewing diplomatic relations', the sum of $250,000,000... include another $29,000,000 to build and fortify a U.S. military installation on the tiny speck of land in the Indian Ocean called Diego Garcia. Now write down $350,000,000 under the column headed 'Israel'. Label $50 million of this 'security assistance' and $300 million as 'military credit sales'. Label Dr. Kissinger 'a big-time spender with taxpayers' money'. Make a note of $20,500,000 for 'foreign aid to Jordan'. Credit $100 million of it as outright military aid gifts, with $30 million as military credits and $77.5 million in economic aid. Under the heading, 'Middle East Slush Fund',—the State Department prefers to call it a 'Special Requirements Fund'—write down $100,000,000. This is Dr. Kissinger's 'miscellaneous detente kitty' to be used to bankroll the U.N.'s peace-keeping forces, refugee aid and various development projects.

"Now draw a line and total the figures. My arithmetic places the known total of money syphoned from the U.S. Treasury into the Middle East at $3,136,000,000. In announcing his proposed budget for foreign aid spending for fiscal year 1975, President Nixon said that the $5,180,000,000 he wants Congress to give him and Dr. Kissinger is 'the minimum essential to support the responsible and constructive American role of international leadership and cooperation'."

DRUGGED IN COLUMBIA: STREET THUGS DOPE UNWITTING VICTIMS

From the July 3 issue of the WALL STREET JOURNAL, [quoting:]

BOGOTA, Columbia—If you thought cocaine was bad news, wait until you hear about Burundanga. Burundanga is a kind of Colombian voodoo powder obtained from a common local plant of the nightshade family, a shrub called borrachera, or "drunken binge". Used for hundreds of years by Native Americans in religious ceremonies, the powder when ingested causes victims to lose their will and memory, sometimes for days. [Sounds made-to-order for MK-ULTRA Monarch Mind-Control projects.] In Columbia, the drug's most avid fans are street criminals. Crooks mix the powder with sedatives and feed the Burundanga cocktail to unsuspecting victims whom they then proceed to rob—or worse. Doctors here estimate that Colombian hustlers slip the odorless, colorless and soluble Burundanga in food or drink to about 500 unwittingly victims in the city each month. "The victim can't say no; he has no will and becomes very open to suggestion. It's like a chemical hypnotism," says Dr. Camilo Uribe [who runs the city's foremost toxicology clinic]. "From the moment it's given, the victim remembers absolutely nothing of what happened." Not all cases of Burundanga involve theft or robbery. Sometimes, victims have been used as mules to carry cocaine [Or blow up buildings?], says Dr. Uribe's brother Manuel, a neurologist practicing at the clinic.

DRUG-BUST BOOTY SHARED WITH ISRAEL

From the June 28 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

BOSTON—U.S. officials on Tuesday shared with Israeli government the proceeds from assets seized from drug traffickers. The U.S. attorney in Boston, Donald Stern, presented a check for nearly $35,000 to Israelis consul-general, Asher Yarden. The traffickers were captured with the help of the Israeli national police and it is thought to be the first time such confiscated assets have been shared out between governments. [Another U.S.-Israel first, and how ironic, since the Israeli Mossad is pivotal to the international drug trade.] The funds came from the sale of assets seized from an international drug ring led by Israeli national Shmuel David. Sixteen members of the gang were convicted in 1989 of distributing hundreds of pounds of cocaine in the Boston area.

WORLDWIDE DEMAND FOR ISRAELI "SECURITY FIRMS"

From an Associated Press article in the June 25 issue of the ALBUQUERQUE JOURNAL, [quoting:]

When some of the world's most powerful, most famous and most notorious people want their security guaranteed, they hire Israeli firms. Although no exact numbers are available, one defense expert, speaking on condition of anonymity, said some 4,000 Israeli companies [i.e., Mossad-affiliates] are active in the security field. And that number is rising. The firms need Defense Ministry approval to sell weapons and make training contracts overseas, but modern communications and a global marketplace have made enforcing the restrictions difficult. While private security firms are often secretive about their activities, questionable or illegal deals are sometimes exposed. Yair Klein, a lieutenant colonel in the army reserves who used to run a private security firm, was convicted in 1990 of illegally selling weapons and military expertise abroad. [Like Oliver North, he is now, no doubt, a popular Israeli talk show host!] Colombian officials charged at the time that Klein was arming and training Colombian drug traffickers. He has denied the charges. He was fined $40,000 by the Israeli court and runs a chicken restaurant in Tel Aviv. [Well, I wasn't too far off!]

Last year, Israeli mercenaries were revealed to be training soldiers in the West African nation of Zaire [For whom?] in a multi-million dollar deal. According to other reports, former Mossad operative Mike Harari several years ago obtained weapons systems and bugging devices for Panama's president, Manuel Noriega. [Michael Harari—his name turned up in Michael Maholy's CIA Pipeline series (in CONTACT) as a link in illegal international drug and weapon trade, as well as a Mossad officer (code named "Cobra") and teacher of torture techniques in Victor Ostrovsky's Mossad exposé, By Way Of Deception.]

Last year, Israeli mercenaries were revealed to be training soldiers in the West African nation of Zaire.

LUBAVICHER RABBI RECEIVES CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL

This article appeared in the June 27 issue of the NEW YORK TIMES, [quoting:]

Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson, the leader of the Brooklyn-based Lubavitch movement who died a year ago at age 92, will be awarded the Congressional Gold Medal in Washington tomorrow. [According to this article, the medal was sponsored by that alleged-conservative darling of the media, Newt Gingrich, and others and approved by Congress last year. This same rabbi was the focus of Public Law 102-14, which has become known as the Noahide Law and forerunner of the New World Religion, which, in effect, puts U.S. citizens under the Jewish Talmudic Noahide Laws. Rabbi Schneerson and Public Law 102-14 are discussed in Phoenix Journal #88, ADVANCED DEMONSTRATION LEGION (THE ADL IN ACTION). And what happened to the old "liberal" battle cry: "separation of church and state"?)

PERSIAN GULF SYNDROME: THE TRUTH AT LAST

This excellent article by Alan Cantwell, Jr., M.D., comes from a recent issue of the STEAMSHOVEL PRESS (P.O. Box 23715, St. Louis, MO 63121). Here is a brief excerpt, [quoting:]

In the search for a cause of the syndrome, epidemiologists have been searching for a common factor that could have exposed everyone stationed in the Gulf. Some sick vets were in the war zone for months, while other ill vets served in the Gulf for as little as nine days! And the disease has affected troops who were stationed in widely scattered geographic areas in the Gulf.

As early as December 1990, there were warnings against experimenting with U.S. troops. There was great concern about the decision of the FDA to allow the Pentagon to use unapproved experimental drugs and vaccines on soldiers without their consent. Furthermore, the Pentagon refused to identify the types or the numbers of drugs and injections that they intended to prescribe.

An angry soldier stationed in Saudi Arabia sued the government in January 1991 over the issue. Ever since the Nuremberg trials, which convicted many top-ranking Nazis for crimes against human nature, it has been considered unethical and unlawful to use people as guinea pigs in medical experiments without their informed consent. This ethical requirement was waived when the soldier's lawsuit was dismissed by U.S. District Judge Stanley S. Harris. The judge cited the necessity of the military to protect the health of its troops; the fact that the vaccines and drugs were untested and unapproved by the FDA was deemed irrelevant. Soldiers who refused injections were given them forcibly.

The military has a long history of conducting covert medical experiments on its own personnel, as well as on civilians. Dozens of secret, planned bioattacks were perpetrated on American cities during the 1950s and 1960s, the most notorious being a six-day bioattack on San Francisco in which the military sprayed massive clouds of potentially harmful bacteria over the entire city. Physicians play a crucial role in covert and unethical experimentation, as chronicled by Gordon Thomas, author of Journey into Madness: The True Story of Secret CIA Mind Control and Medical Abuse (1989).

Vaccines can be hazardous. In WWII, more than 50,000 cases of hepatitis were caused when troops were injected with yellow fever vaccine unknowingly [??] contaminated with human blood serum containing infectious hepatitis B virus. Even the mandated "DPT" shot routinely given to babies has known risks....If serious consequences of compulsory "routine" and "approved" vaccines are freely admitted, what are the health consequences of unapproved, untested and experimental vaccines?

Experimental and non-experimental inoculation programs can be a surreptitious way of "introducing" harmful infectious agents into unsuspecting people. [And numerous examples are given.] Is the Persian Gulf Syndrome another AIDS Holocaust in the making? Like AIDS, the disease can be traced back to human experiments with untested and unapproved vaccines. Like AIDS, the Gulf syndrome appears to be transmissible through sexual activity, and can be passed on to children. Like AIDS, the vets' disease affects the immune system. Like AIDS, there is no cure. [At least, no cure that will be made available to us.]

WASHINGTON, D.C. (DETERIORATING CITY)

This Associated Press article is from the July 2 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

The busses rumble up to the Washington Monument, one after another, discharging respectful Americans onto a green and ordered landscape. They have come to see their capital, reflecting the best of what their nation can be. What they see is spectacular. But the Washington they don't see is an affront to America's ideals.

This is Washington, D. C., in 1995:

* The police chief resigned, saying things were so bad that some officers couldn't file search warrants because they had run out of the proper forms.

* Department of Public Works crews were reduced until only six workers were left to cut city-owned grass. Near the U.S. Soldiers' and Airmen's Home, weeds stand 5 feet high.

* A study found 42 percent of the city's black male population in prison or jail, on probation or parole or being sought.

* Schools began late because of fire code violations and closed early to save money.

* Four of the city's 15 dilapidated health clinics were closed due to lack of money at a time when the AIDS virus is spreading more quickly in Washington than any other major U.S. city.

Crime has declined recently, but drugs and lawlessness still rule many neighborhoods. In a recent five-month period, about 1500 teenagers were arrested for crimes ranging from homicide to car theft, causing the City Council to vote to impose a youth curfew. Even the mayor has a criminal record. Marion Barry was recently returned to office after a four-year hiatus, some of which was spent in prison on drug charges.

"There's a cultural element to this," Sam Smith, editor of a muckraking local newsletter. "We're a town of bureaucrats, and it will curse us evermore." [Which is one reason why Commander Hatonn's advice to form a collateral government with a different capital city makes so much sense.]

PROPAGANDA POLL SEZ: AMERICANS LIKE U.N. BETTER THAN U.S.

This Reuters article comes from the June 25 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

Despite grumbling by congressional Republicans against the United Nations, the American public strongly backs the world organization more than it does Congress, according to a poll released Saturday. [Polls help the Elite gauge how their agenda is progressing. The results, as portrayed here, further program us along the desired lines.]

COURT RULES, WE LOSE

From the June 30 issue of THE ORLANDO SENTINEL, [quoting:]

In one of the most important environmental cases in a generation, the Supreme Court on Thursday affirmed the government's broad authority to require private landowners to protect the habitat of endangered wildlife.

The court ruled 6-3 that the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service has not exceeded the intent [Yeah! This was the intent all along!] of the 1973 Endangered Species Act by prohibiting the modification or destruction of wildlife habitat on private land in order to protect threatened and endangered species from harm. Ruling in a dispute from Oregon over protection of the northern spotted owl, the court said the 1973 law provides "comprehensive protection for endangered and threatened species", and the government's interpretation that such protection includes habitat is reasonable. The decision is a big victory for environmentalists and a setback for the timber industry and property-rights advocates.

Both sides agree the Endangered Species Act outlaws direct hunting, trapping, or killing of endangered and threatened species of animals. They also agree the law bans destruction of a protected species' habitat on federal land. But they went to court over the law's application to protect habitats located on private property.

A congressional report said 90 percent of the 781 endangered or threatened species listed by the government in 1993 have habitats on privately owned land. With the ruling, federal regulators can require species-friendly development restrictions on millions of acres of beach front, farms, and forest if they can prove losing the privately owned land would harm the animal. [If the government can tax or restrict it, you don't really own it, do you?]

The Latest "Beam" Of Confusion

7/12/95 #1 HATONN

We have other fires in full out-of-control status this morning so I must ask Dharma that we be elsewhere for a while. This sponge-ball soft-ball game is moving into golf-ball-hard hard-ball. Mr. Green's team is making rather interesting phone calls anonymously and telling ones such as Dr. Young that he had better be "getting out" because the "group" (Ekkers) are going to be ELIMINATED. This is then being picked up by The Green Team of attorneys and other parties more closely placed. These people are writing total LIES to Gerry Spence and this will be countered. Further, I want this countered NOW. There is enough trouble and pain brought against my people for simply serving GOD, that I intend to accept no more. The outright lies are going to be rebutted, sentence for sentence, and IN-CONTEXT. This is not going to make Ann Beam, the "Fabulous Leon Fort's room-mate", very happy—OR—perhaps the lies have been thrown into her own eyes until blindness and deafness has occurred. She is offended that we have stated that she was a member of a witches' coven in Arizona. I did not accuse her of that—people from her town RECOGNIZED HER and started to leave a meeting just because she was there and they wanted no part of anything that presented witchcraft as a mode of operation. Ms. Beam can belong to ANYTHING she wishes.

I find it difficult to believe that she would object to the other statement about being an "emissary for George Green"; there were three people who HEARD HER MAKE THE STATEMENT, WHILE ASSUMING SHE WAS TALKING TO GEORGE, HIMSELF. "...Hi, remember me, I am 'your' emissary from Arizona..." Didn't mean it? Then I suggest everything said since that day has been to enforce the statement, not diminish it.

Now, to tell Mr. Spence (you did realize that Mr. Green would send your letter, Ann, to the four corners of the wind and right back to this desk, didn't you?) that there is "ANOTHER George Abbott with the same name, who had been disciplined by the Nevada State Bar for alcoholism" is a bit much, even for you, Annie. To further state that a court order against the Institute was issued at the same time as "dropping all charges against Leon" and for paying all Leon's ATTORNEY'S fees is even more amusing. Don't you even LOOK AT THE COURT DOCUMENTS? OR DO YOU SIMPLY LIE OUTRIGHT SO THAT YOU DON'T LOOK SO SILLY WHEN YOU COME BACK AND CAN SAY, "OH, I DIDN'T KNOW, I WAS TOLD...!"? By the way, the "deposition" you guys continue to use of Mrs. Ekker's was a private encounter regarding an Attorney's fee—it was NOT a part of ANY case, save the $6,000 awarded to the Attorneys in the US&P case wherein GEORGE GREEN CONTINUED TO SELL BANNED BOOKS—AND THEN FOISTED OFF THE CHARGES FOR CONTEMPT ON EKKERS—HIMSELF NEVER EVEN SO MUCH AS APPEARING IN COURT.

Now, Annie, I want to know WHY you nice people don't have a piece of the hides of those ones perpetrating the damages against you? The Ekkers and Phoenix Institute are ACTING UNDER THE DIRECT REGULATIONS OF THE LAW IN THE REQUIRED HANDLING OF LEON FORT'S INVOLVEMENT. I AM CAUSED TO WONDER HOW QUICKLY YOU WOULD HAVE THESE PEOPLE EXECUTED IF YOU INDEED WERE ONE OF THE LENDERS TO THE INSTITUTE—WHILE SOMEONE TRIED TO STRIP YOU OF YOUR FUNDS AND RUN YOU INTO BANKRUPTCY?? AND, ANNIE, YES INDEED, DEAR ONE—LEON DIDN'T KNOW WHAT TROUBLE IS OR WAS—UNTIL YOU MOVED INTO HIS BEDROOM FROM YOUR LITTLE TENT IN THE CAMP-GROUND.

Leon himself states that he came to Tehachapi BECAUSE OF GEORGE GREEN. He did whatever he did because of George Green. I want to know directly, now, WHY IS THE HANDLING OF THE INSTITUTE AFFAIRS IN LAWFUL MANNER SOMEHOW A CRIMINAL ACT ON THE PART OF E.J. EKKER?

You state that Leon came to Tehachapi to "find God"? Well, my dear, he found YOU. If he was searching for a "group" in order to attach to GOD, he certainly did come to the wrong place under the wrong assumption—which was also to be with and assist GEORGE GREEN! I, NOR ANY LESSONS I OFFER, HAVE CHANGED ONE IOTA—BUT LEON'S LIFE CHANGED INSTANTLY WITH YOUR ARRIVAL! SO BE IT. WHEN SHOES FIT LIKE GLOVES WITH SUPER-GLUE LININGS—YOU ARE STUCK WITH THEM!

The latest barrage of letters AGAIN suggest that people check in with ex-Judge Jason Brent. Fine, do so. This is the SAME man who broke all codes of judicial ethics and then even wrote in a prestigious publication, Mensa's authoritarian journal, that you-the-people have to accept that there is a problem with population growth, etc., and "...that the old, the infirmed and the stupid should be killed off..." Well, that certainly does fit the category (in the first two parts) of Leon's precious mother, Esther.

I suggest you all stop checking with the ADVERSARY to get your information for it is obvious that you are going from the pan into the fire pit. By the way, Mary Abbott is NOT married to Mr. Abbott—SHE WAS ONCE MARRIED TO HIM! Perhaps you had best find out about WHY that might be! She has NOT been married to the political buffoon since before you came to be introduced and became groveling participants in his game of charades covered by the Bar Association Club Membership. It would appear to me that it would be quite wise to get the facts and then confront Mr. Abbott, and wonderful Mr. Horton, and see what has REALLY happened to you and everything involved here. FACTS rebut your poison pen letters and perhaps it would be advantageous to all involved to have more than a cup of coffee with the very ones Mr. Green claims he his going to "ELIMINATE".

In closing this I would suggest that I certainly did say that "Witchcraft is simply not of Lighted God." I believe you make my POINT. Salu.

Latest Hopi Nation Drama & Thank You To Our Readers

7/7/95 RICK MARTIN

CONTACT readers will remember our issue of July 19, 1994 devoted in large part to concerns of the Hopi Tribe. These concerns included: violation of sacred Hopi lands by bulldozers poised to lay the groundwork for water and power lines thus fulfilling and perhaps triggering the "Great Purification" according to Hopi Prophecy; the pumping-down of the aquifer beneath the Hopi lands by the huge Peabody Coal Company, thus affecting springs and the water table under Hopi property; and a Call to Mankind to Return to Peaceful Ways.

Since then there have been many developments, a summary of which we will share with you in the form of a letter received here at CONTACT. Craig Carpenter, a Mohawk, is discussed in numerous books, including God's Chosen People of America, Billy Jack, The Occult Explosion, The Healing Voice, Book of Elders, and Peter Matthiessen's book titled Indian Country.

In Matthiessen's book, Craig's background leading to his role as a "messenger" is thoroughly explored, including his journey to Navajo and Hopi lands. A messenger is one who is charged to uphold the Hopi message and promote the Hopi teachings. Craig has traveled internationally for Hopi elders carrying their message of peace since 1954. [Quoting:]

P. O. Box 27800

Dear Editor, Subscribers and Supporters of CONTACT,

I have heard from several sympathizers and fellow-workers that you published, and constructively responded to, the Call for Action from Hotevilla Village in Hopiland in the Spring of 1994. I want to here and now express my gratitude to you, and to each of you, and to your Aumakua ("Unseen Helpers from the Lowest to the Highest") for that literally life-saving cooperation.

The stopping of the installation of water lines and sewer lines at that time was indefinitely postponed, I was informed, until AFTER the Arizona Public Service (Power Company) could complete its attack on Hotevilla by installing utility poles and electric power lines into Hotevilla in early January of 1995.

The 1,000 or more letter, faxes, telegrams and telephone messages which CONTACT helped inspire and motivate in support of JUSTICE for Hopi DID stop the completion of the proposed sewer lines and water lines in 1994; but over 18,000 similar protests in January of 1995 to A.P.S. and to the so-called "Hopi", so-called "Tribal", so-called "Council" did NOT stop the installation of electricity into Hotevilla. However, the projected completion of Water Lines and Sewer Lines by the U.S. Indian Health Service, and the $3 million contract by U.S. Environmental Protection Agency to pave the streets of Hotevilla "...within a month..." of the completion of those electrical terminals has not yet materialized, some 6 months later.

Since a whole new chain of historical information and legal information came to our attention as a result of this latest Battle with The Beast, and since that historical and legal information may also be of benefit to you and to your People (Nation) in our united "Stand" for This Land and Life, as articulated in the Just and Humanitarian Principles of the Constitution of the United States of America, I am enclosing samples of some of the exchanges of dialog and reasonings which occurred during the recent confrontation of Hotevilla. These dialogs include the 5 basic introductions to the historical and legal informations mentioned above.

IF any of the enclosed introductory materials are of interest to you and/or if I can be of further assistance to you, please let me know—and at ANY hour of the day or night. Thank you, and Aloha!

[End of Quoting]

The most recent news coming from Hopiland concerns the eviction of a non-Hopi man, Roy Steevensz, from the Titus Farm. Quoting the initial press release received by CONTACT on this matter signed by and from: Rena Murillo, Emery Holmes, Mildred Holmes, Brian Holmes, Emery Holmes, Jr., Verbina Murillo, "On June 22 of 1995 at approximately 4:30 p.m., twelve Bureau of Indian Affairs Police cars under the direction of the illegally-created Hopi Tribal Council entered the Sovereign Lands of Titus's Farm and arrested Roy Steevensz, a friend of the Traditional Hopi. Mr. Steevensz was charged with 'Criminal Trespassing' and was taken off the Hopi Reservation...

"The Tribal Police entered Titus's Farm without a Search Warrant, drove over a planted corn field, kicked in and destroyed the door, and arrested Mr. Steevensz at gunpoint. Two other men present were pushed onto the ground, also at gunpoint, and ordered to sit on the ground or else they would also be arrested.

"It is unlawful and un-Hopi to use any form of gun or militant force, and to destroy corn and property. Rena Murillo will file criminal charges against the Hopi Tribal Council Chairman, Ferrell Sekacucu, for reparations.

"The Tribal Council has no legal jurisdiction over Titus's Farm or any portion of Hotevilla. 'Legally' created by the United States Government in 1934, the Hopi Tribal Council is the only voice the U.S. Government will recognize. The Traditional Hopi Elders have lost their Voices, their Lands, and now their Freedoms. Mr. Steevensz has been a supporter of Hopi Spiritual Elders and a counselor on nutrition and has their full support to remain on Titus's Farm."

CONTACT is in receipt of legal documents from the Office of the Chairman of The Hopi Tribe. These documents include an Automatic Judicial Removal Order (signed by the Judge of the Hopi Tribal Court); and a Hopi Tribe Decision and Order in the Matter of the Proposed Order of Exclusion of Roy Steevensz (signed by Chairman Sekakuku). According to these documents, Mr. Steevensz had been residing on a closed portion of the Hopi Indian Reservation without a permit in violation of Hopi Tribal Ordinance #46.

After carefully reviewing all of the information on the eviction of Mr. Steevensz, it certainly appears that the actions taking place concerning this matter are entirely legal. Whether they are "lawful" or "right" are matters which must always be addressed within the context of whatever political structure is in place. As with many of the Constitutional arguments so prevalent among "patriots" today, you can argue "Constitutional" until you are blue in the face—but if, in the end, they take you off to prison, what constructive purpose has been served? Is it not more appropriate to work with what "IS"?

Regular readers of CONTACT are well acquainted with an entire spectrum of injustices prevalent in our society today. If staying on Titus's Farm requires a permit under Tribal statute, why not get the permit? If, then, eviction is ordained, it becomes abundantly clear that the permit was not the real issue.

And, if the issues at hand are truly with the Hopi Tribal Council, then deal with the issue of the Hopi Tribal Council directly by whatever legal means are available.

But, I must add here, this is AN INTERNAL HOPI AFFAIR.

In a later letter to CONTACT from Craig Carpenter dated July 3, "...if you want to find out if what you have read, or heard, about the Hopi is true or not, you must go to the Hopi and find out. But of the perhaps 20,000 people who claim to be Hopi, or who are "recognized" as Hopi by Uncle Slam [author's spelling], the ones I consider to be genuine Hopi I can count on the fingers of one hand, maybe two. So, 'beware the wolves who are disguised as sheep,' they can talk more convincingly than the genuine sheep BUT THEIR ACTIONS BELIE THEIR WORDS."

For those interested in following the Steevensz eviction, the Preliminary Hearing is continued until July 20 at 1:00 P.M. at the courthouse in Winslow, Arizona. (However, most of you will have received this issue after that date.) At the present time, Steevensz has neither legal counsel nor the funds to obtain that representation.

In a Hotevilla Village Board of Directors' statement from January 1994, they asked for non-interference and that media only reflect the truths in these situations and not sensationalize.

CONTACT, as our readers know, is devoted to TRUTH. It would be my sincere hope that even the Hopi Elders would come to know that when a call for help is put forth from their quarter, it will reach the ears of the other Bird Tribes and it will be heard and spread from this quarter—and the call going forth via THE PHOENIX can often help them in ways that perhaps have not been considered up to this point. I only mention this so that possibilities not be excluded amidst rigid thinking. There are allies around the globe—and in the spirit of the Golden Rule—God Grant Us The Wisdom To Recognize Them.

The Awesome Miracle Of Each New Day

7/10/95 #1 HATONN

A NEW DAY

Pause to think just a minute before you go on, readers. Just take a brief moment to realize the wonder and wealth you possess as this day is viewed. If it be morning, God has granted you a potential of several hours of experience within the lighted presentation of His cycle. Do not dwell upon that which is "not" nor upon that which is "beyond"—simply perceive the NOW so that you can allow your mind to sort, for you, the importance and priorities of this moment.

Look upon the MIRACLES about you. Every moment is a miracle, every piece of wood, paper, cup, paper clip, hairpin or flower is a miracle of mind production. If SOMEONE can present the world with a safety pin, a staple machine, sticky tape, a boundary-layer bladeless Tesla turbine or pump, a mighty tree, a grain of sand—you witness MIRACLES beyond calculation. Someone created colored pens which allow for that which is beneath it to be seen and simply high-lighted. Someone perfected cameras to present you with actual pictures so that faces of those you have not seen, actually, are every day recognition for your senses. How much of ALL THESE WONDERS do YOU miss?

How many of you are saturated with the death of man and planet, arguments over how to die, the art of dying, the acceptance of death as a violent happening, "death with dignity" and on and on—while the ART OF LIVING is overlooked—hidden behind the muck of a daily zombie-walk through the "order" of the day (or disorder as the case may well be)???

SERENITY

You feel no serenity this Monday morn as you trudge off to your trade or whatever is upon you? Some of you are awaiting something as disinteresting as the beginning of the "defense" opening of the Simpson trial. Why not FEEL that opening in terms of human dignity, respect and try "innocent until and unless proven guilty!" What flow of life will awash you this day?

Let me remind you that serenity and peace are a 'STATE OF BEING' just as Christness, evil, beauty, sional electric-sensing manifestation. If you could achieve, in this expression, that total oneness with God and experience, there would be no physical world of expression about you. You would never have need to improve self or environment. You would stop growing, because there would be no reason to learn more than that which you know. You would become bored, and shackled by that very boredom.

Even those things in Nature which appear to be so serene and beautiful are struggling entities within themselves as growing, changing—ever changing—organisms aspiring to fulfill whatever destiny might be their own.

The most important things of living are the abilities to accept the struggles as a part of the beauty of life and not as blemishes upon it. If you cannot climb the mountain before you—then, walk around it! Better yet, why do you not ignore the mountain and find the fulfillment which is within your grasp on your side of the mountain?

Look at each incident, each struggle, each joy—as that which it is—a passing expression to be perceived any way in which you choose.

FROM LESTER IN NEW ZEALAND

Dharma has before her a card from a dear friend in New Zealand. This is a young man who FEELS the pain of the world in her struggle, his nation in downfall and the plight of each of you in this journey. Like most who write and share, there is no physical touch, no recognition by proximity, and yet bonds among our tribe are so strong as to allow no UNKNOWING. This card came this past week in recognition of that which is "going wrong" in lives here—and his own, there. People will send that which reflects themselves as they reach out a helping hand or a few words of support. An unknown author wrote some words worthy of remembering and it is a shared thought for a minute in time to express between self and all who would be in attachment at any given moment. It might be heartwarming to realize that this comes from New Zealand but duplicates have arrived here over the years from several other places, including Canada and South Africa. Perhaps this might be a tribal motto: [see box]

I like the little picture on the back, however. There is a daisy smiling and underneath in caption: This card is printed on environmentally-friendly board from Finland where three new trees are planted for each one cut down.

Now, may I leave you with a thought for the day, please. Let us consider stopping the slaughter of our trees, PLEASE. They offer you the very breath of life necessary for your survival. STOP CUTTING THEM DOWN. BETTER "PAPER" UPON WHICH TO WRITE, PRINT AND SHARE CAN BE MADE FROM THE PRODUCTS YOU NOW USE FOR CREATION OF ENERGY AND RUNNING AUTOMOBILES HITHER AND YON IN YOUR INSANE NEED TO CONTINUE IN CHAOS.

Let us turn to the energy of the Universe and allow for the building staples of life, which you extract by killing living things, to live on and produce that which gives more abundant life. Oh indeed, there are plastics made from crude oil which are harder, as cuttable and durable as the hardest seasoned wood. There are fabrics which are more beautiful and glorious than the natural fibers—but when considering the natural fibers, THAT is their purpose, to clothe you, feed you and attend you.

You have allowed less than 3% of your population to destroy the entire structure and lives of the remainder of YOU-THE-PEOPLE through their never-ending greed for power and control and your TRAINED habits of doing exactly as the SLAVE, as you are told.

DON'T QUIT!

*When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're trudging seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,
And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must, but don't you quit.
Success is failure inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,
And you never can tell how close you are,
It may be near when it seems afar;
So stick to the fight when you're hardest hit,
It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit!*

love and mind-set are 'states of being'! If you firmly plant, and allow to root, these things of soul, they are ever-present from which to pull strength and stability out of the chaos of whatever comes upon your senses. You do not have to BE A PHOENIX to dwell with, and fly with, the Phoenix.

You might well be thankful that you cannot ever reach that total complacency of full serenity. For that totality of expression is for Higher realization while experience is the name of the game in a third-dimen-

THE WIZARD OF ID—By Brant Parker and Johnny Hart

Sports Fans & Taxpayers Listen Up: Latest Mishpucka Exposé From Gary Wean

Notice to the People:
July 13, 1995

In San Francisco, on July 10, 1995, Internal Revenue Service lawyers appeared before a U.S. Tax Court. The IRS lawyers charged that Al Davis, the owner of the Los Angeles Raider football team, had failed to pay income taxes on $17.9 million in payments he had received and that he had wrongfully (criminally) taken a $400,000 deduction for a "bad debt" in the 1980s.

The lawyers specifically charged that Davis had taken $6.7 million from the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission and $10 million from the City of Irwindale and had knowingly, falsely called them both loans. This $16.7 million was never paid back and should have been acknowledged as income.

Also that $1.2 million had been given to Al Davis by the City of Oakland in partial settlement of a lawsuit; this should also have been called income.

This nearly $18 million went into Al Davis' pocket as his own—well, not quite his own, it was actually a dark, deep-dyed ADL Mishpucka scam to take the American people—make suckers of them, which is the ADL Michpuckas' specialty.

Al Davis is by no means the brains in this scam to take the people and to defraud the Internal Revenue Service of millions of dollars, as well.

Federal Judge Harry Pregerson and shyster Stephen R. Reinhardt, the head of the Los Angeles Coliseum Commission, were the real moving power and brains behind it.

Shyster Reinhardt was also the lawyer for the Coliseum Commission and, by numerous tricks and skulduggery, Reinhardt created and set up all sorts of phony problems between Al Davis and the Commission. Reinhardt, as the lawyer for the Coliseum, skinned the people out of more than $5 million in lawyer fees alone. The scam was to have Davis create problems with Oakland and then try to relocate the Raiders to the Los Angeles Coliseum [which is] against the National Football League Rules.

District Court Judge (at that time) Pregerson handled the judicial end of the scam—he forced the lawyers for the National Football League into his chambers behind locked doors. Using threats and intimidation, he bludgeoned and forced them into capitulating.

When it was all over, Judge Pregerson ordered the NFL and the City of Oakland to let the Raiders move to the L.A. Coliseum and secretly Pregerson and Reinhardt became the major owners of the Raiders and Davis remained as the "up-front" owner, in name only.

Pregerson and Reinhardt secretly pocketed $1 million dollars each and split the lawyers fees of over $5 million that they had squeezed out of the City of L.A. taxpayers. None of the huge amount of money was reported by Pregerson or Reinhardt to the IRS as income.

At this time Pregerson and Reinhardt had another vicious scam going. They convinced Jimmy Carter that they could produce the Jew vote in California for him and that he couldn't lose. Carter appointed Judge Pregerson to the 9th Circuit Court of Appeal and took shyster Reinhardt off the street and appointed him also to the Circuit Court of Appeal.

Pregerson and Reinhardt didn't tell Carter that the Jews had already made a deal to back Ronald Reagan and Reagan had agreed with the Jews that he would deregulate the S&L and banking industry—and we all know how the ADL Mishpucka feasted on that carcass.

At this same time, Pregerson had accepted the offer of a Gaugin painting worth over half-a-million dollars from Mafiosas Carlos Marcello, Louie Tom Dragna, Dominick Brooklier and Sam Sciortino to "fix" a case wherein they were being prosecuted for extorting money from Jew pornographers, pimps and bookmakers.

Shyster Stephen Reinhardt had an operator, Joseph Hauser, a twice-convicted insurance swindler, a Mishpucka from Russia who was arranging delivery of the Gaugin as a bribe to Pregerson who had agreed to "fix" the case for Marcello, et al.

The FBI got wind of the deal between Marcello and Pregerson and it fell through.

At the Senate confirmation hearings the L.A.P.D. produced enough evidence to put Reinhardt in the Federal Penitentiary instead of the Federal Courts. Hauser testified against Reinhardt, and the L.A.P.D. also produced astounding evidence that Russia was systematically exporting hardened Jew criminals to America to sabotage the government.

Even so, with the influence of the ADL Mishpucka the Senators on the judiciary committee "covered up" all the sordid judicial evil and confirmed Pregerson and Reinhardt to the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeal.

Pregerson and Reinhardt came up with another Mishpucka scam: They engineered a deal with the politicians of the City of Irwindale to move their Raiders there. They took $10 million from Irwindale but never moved the Raiders. Pregerson and Reinhardt pocketed the money and then also defrauded the IRS by not reporting it.

They then made a deal with corrupt politicians in Oxnard to build a spring training camp there. On this promise the City of Oxnard put up millions of dollars to build a football field and training facilities at a hotel they would build.

This hotel, the Radisson, was built over an old land-fill and dump which emitted deadly methane fumes. The City of Oxnard and taxpayers lost millions. But again Pregerson and Reinhardt split millions and didn't report their income to the IRS.

Al Davis, as the "up-front" owner, has just negotiated a deal to move the Raiders back to the City of Oakland. This is a $31.9 million "loan" structured into the agreement with only "vague" repayment provisions which means that Pregerson and Reinhardt will again secretly pocket millions and not report it to the IRS. And Al Davis has promised Oakland that he will build an 80-million-dollar stadium.

On Monday, July 10, 1995, Al Davis appeared in Federal Court for a hearing for over an hour to testify on his appeal from the IRS deficiency notice and claimed that he had taken real loans which he intended to pay back.

Davis was questioned by IRS lawyers David Sorenson and Paul Dixon who allege criminal violations of fraud, with interest and penalties of up to $100 million.

While being questioned, Al Davis' answers were vague—he often replied that he had little detailed knowledge as to what had transpired so many years ago and had often, in any event, relied on what his own lawyers had told him was written in the agreements.

After testifying, Davis told reporters that the case "is not understandable" to him. "I don't know what they are talking about," he said.

But Davis knows that Pregerson and Reinhardt own and control the Raiders and that he transmitted millions of dollars secretly to them which they have concealed from the IRS in a massive scam to defraud the citizens and taxpayers and the IRS.

It is a sordid, evil story of judicial corruption and one that I made clear to the 100 U.S. Senators in 1987 when I hand delivered to each and every one of them my book with index and a petition from the people. This petition implored the Senators to investigate judicial corruption in the 9th Circuit and California Court system which included everything from stealing the people's real estate and property to murder and mayhem.

Then began the cover-up of the century—every Senator in 1987 became involved—that is the reason it is now impossible to get the U.S. Senate to investigate Waco, Ruby Ridge or Oklahoma City—they would be exposing their own treason. Look who is still in power right today who was there in 1987: of course, who else, Arlen Specter, and Joseph Biden who was Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and Orrin Hatch who is now Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee. And who else: Robert Dole, Phil Gramm, Strom Thurmond, Edward Kennedy, Robert Packwood, Pete Wilson, etc., etc., you name them.

Now—very important: Everybody knows what happens to ordinary citizens if they are caught up in such a conspiratorial scam as Al Davis, Harry Pregerson and Stephen Reinhardt are herein involved with. But—they have an "ace in the hole" that the ordinary American citizen doesn't have: The Tax Court Judge is Mary Ann Cohen, a rabid, fanatical ADL Mishpucka, and the Senate Judiciary Committee consists of more rabid, fanatical ADL Mishpuckas: Diane Feinstein, Arlen Specter, Koll, Levin, etc., etc., etc.

Refer to [my] prior "Notices to the People" as to the criminal history and gangster background of Harry Pregerson—the IRS is bound by their sworn duty and obligation to prosecute, convict and incarcerate Harry Pregerson in the Federal Penitentiary for the remainder of his evil life. And the American people en masse should bury the IRS lawyers, David Sorenson and Paul Dixon and the IRS administration with faxes, letters and telephone calls demanding that they do so.

Each and every U.S. Senator who took office after 1987 should receive massive pressure from the citizens as to this outrageous, disgusting criminal usurpation of the judicial system by the criminal espionage ADL Mishpucka.

The officials of the National Football League and each and every one of the members of the Oakland City Council should be served with a copy of this notice and advised of what they are getting into and what is involved here.

The people should be made aware that the ADL Mishpucka is using the IRS to destroy America's Christian churches and also the NRA (National Rifle Association).

Reclaiming Justice

Gerry Spence's Greater Purpose

7/16/95 #1 HATONN

GERRY SPENCE

Please don't be foolish enough to think only YOU would be sending information to Gerry Spence. We certainly stand in great appreciation for your help and loving petition to this fine gentleman BUT BE AWARE, THE HEAVIEST LOAD OF DOCUMENTATION PULLED FROM THE FILES OF LIES AND MISREPRESENTATIONS WENT IMMEDIATELY FROM GREEN, ABBOTT, HORTON, ANDERSON, FORT, BEAM AND OTHERS WHO ARE THE VERY ONES "AGAINST" EKKERS. That is exactly what I wanted to happen because the CASE IN POINT has nothing to do with the cases being winned and dined ad infinitum in Nevada.

The case in point for Mr. Spence is the Savings and Loan debacle and the property case involving RTC and Ekkers. The "No Sale", intentionally, and illegal shenanigans involving the property in Tehachapi, California. Why? Because we no longer expect attorneys (even the best and perhaps the very best) to serve because of rightness of "cause" and, in the property case, there should be great coverage in insurance (also fraudulent) and bonds from which an attorney can be nicely rewarded for his service. We aren't trying to get booties and bundles of money—just some help with other legal fees and new legal fees. We want the ASSOCIATION of Gerry Spence for the moving over into a start-up of Common Citizen-type local courts. It is a START and there should be enough from the damages to cover that "start-up" through the Constitutional Law Center. Ekkers ask for NOTHING save a bit of JUSTICE!

The case has bogged down in nothing other than nasty exchanges between Mr. Tips and Mr. Horn. Mr. Tips is moving (has moved actually) to France and yet the harangue goes on and on and on—to the tune of some $11,000 in just May and June and NOTHING accomplished—not even the court-ordered "Meet and Confer". In fact, Mr. Tips sent a bill and gallantly offered no charge for the time spent changing HIS OWN address with Mr. Horn and the case. It indicates by the "NC" that it CERTAINLY WAS ON THE BILLING. That indication was for some third of an hour, or about $85 for HIS move.

Now, I ask you as readers, if you could be assured of making $5 to $6 THOUSAND dollars a month into perpetuity and the opposing lawyer can do likewise—would you want to change anything? Further, the opposing "big business" knows what it will eventually cost in court when the "Ekkers" win—so it is far cheaper to run the Ekkers out of money and continue to pay one of their own henchmen. WE WANT AN ATTORNEY WHO WILL GET IT OFF ITS PERPETUAL MOTION MACHINERY AND GO TO TRIAL—AND A JURY!

I remind you—the-people that until you clean up the Judicial system—you have no chance of cleaning up anything else. Even in Judge Ito's court the subject of Talmudic Law continues to be discussed. That requires

NO JURY and the JUDGE asks all the questions—while the attorneys simply organize cases and get paid. Meanwhile, in your system the Judge can "instruct" the jury and keep absolutely to the verdict he has pre-decided.

Speaking of the Talmud, which is the most deceitful set of rules ever presented by a bunch of MEN for corruption, by MEN under the guise of "God" but with full-blown lies and evil intent, we have to take note of how those laws now affect YOU. YOU JUST DON'T SEEM TO NOTICE. DO YOU REALLY THINK THAT LITTLE BILLY BOY CLINTON HAS STUDIED THE MANY, MANY VOLUMES OF THE TALMUD? WELL LET ME SHARE SOMETHING WITH YOU UNSUSPECTING PEOPLE [QUOTING:]

PRESIDENTIAL PROCLAMATIONS JEWISH HERITAGE WEEK, 1995

Proclamation 6788 of April 20, 1995
Jewish Heritage Week, 1995
60 F.R. 20003

By the President of the United States of America
A Proclamation

Throughout history and through times of profound adversity, the Jewish people have built their lives on the strength of family and the spirit of community.

KOL NIDRE

"All vows, obligations, oaths, anathemas, whether called 'konam', 'konas', or by any other name, which we may vow, or swear, or pledge, or whereby we may be bound, FROM THIS DAY OF ATONEMENT UNTO THE NEXT, (whose happy coming we await), we do repent. MAY THEY BE DEEMED ABSOLVED, FORGIVEN, ANNULLED, AND VOID AND MADE OF NO EFFECT; THEY SHALL NOT BIND US NOR HAVE POWER OVER US. THE OBLIGATIONS SHALL NOT BE OBLIGATORY; NOR THE OATHS BE OATHS."

Millions have made a home in America—a Nation filled with opportunity and blessed with the miracle of freedom. And here, with hard work and dedication, the Jewish-American community has flourished.

Jewish citizens have made vital contributions to every sector of our society. From academia to the arts, from business to government, from the smallest towns to the largest cities, Jewish Americans have infused our Nation with a powerful faith, a commitment to family and community, and a devotion to scholarship and self-improvement.

Judaism is a unique gift to this land that people of myriad faiths and cultures call home. The ancient commandment of tzedakah—charity—challenges us to embrace the duty of service to others. The Talmudic teachings of mercy and justice, and those who have sought to uphold these ideals, grace the pages of American history. [H: Still with me, citizens?] We can draw strength and inspiration from the enduring lessons of Judaism, and it is entirely fitting that we honor the great traditions of its followers.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim April 30 through May 7, 1995, as "Jewish Heritage Week". (Editor's note: Do we seem to recall that May 1 is important to both the Communists and Satanists?) I call upon the people of the United States to observe this week with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this twentieth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and ninety-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and nineteenth.

/s/ William J. Clinton

[END OF QUOTING]

This is EXACTLY HOW the Noachidic Laws of the Jewish Talmud became THE RELIGION OF THE LAND UNDER YOUR FEDERAL LAWS! YOU can claim whatever you like about these laws but I remind you that the term "Jew" only came to be in the 18th Century (1765)! The Talmud is a book written by the most evil-intended men on your globe and from them sprang THE PROTOCOLS OF THE LEARNED ELDERS OF ZION.

There is NO SUCH THING AS JUDEO-CHRISTIAN. EACH TERM IS EXACTLY THE OPPOSITE IN MEANING! This is now DECLARED an annual event as is always the case of get the foot in the door and it becomes LAW without anyone even taking notice. Let 30 days elapse and law is STRUCK.

What about the Baptist or Moslem week of "Heritage" under the Laws of the Land? What about you Methodists? Since the Talmud recognizes no CHRISTIAN alliance—you have just voted OUT GOD! YOU ARE NOW A DECLARED NATION WITHOUT GOD. NO, JEHOVAH OR LUCIFER IS NOT GOD OF LIGHT AND CREATION. THESE ENTITIES ARE THE TOTAL OPPOSITE OF GOD CREATOR.

This proclamation is NOT for the honoring of Judeans or Hebrews. THIS EVEN STATES THAT IT HONORS THE JEWS OF THE TALMUD WHO ARE NOT OF JUDEAN LINEAGE AT ALL—THEY ARE OF THE KHAZARS!

I am not here to argue points of this issue. I do, however, note how often we have printed writings which offer FROM THE TALMUD a listing of direct quotes from that book, along with the dissertation on the Kol Nidre which is the first chanting of religion and basis of operation for all "Jews". This is WHY you have such lies and pitiful truth in courtrooms. The attorneys are almost all Jewish NOW and the Kol Nidre REQUIRES that all VOWS MADE BE NULLIFIED. In other words, if a Jew swears an oath to tell the truth, he is bounded by his "religion" to, instead, LIE.

Let me just quote [see box].

This is the PROLOGUE of the Day of Atonement (annual Holy-days) services in the synagogues. It is recited three times by the standing congregation in concert with chanting rabbis at the altar. After the recital of the Kol Nidre (All Vows) prayer, the Day of Atonement religious ceremonies follow immediately. The Day of Atonement religious observances are the highest holy days of so-called or self-styled "Jews" and are celebrated as such throughout the world.

Is there REALLY any wonder that you have NO JUSTICE and are now people of the LIE? The LIE is a requirement of the religion!

Deny all you wish—THESE ARE DOCUMENTED FACTS, readers! Go get the Talmud and study for selves!!

WALLY GENTLEMAN ASKS SOME INSIGHTFUL QUESTIONS

I simply have no wish to respond to some of your questions because it is the question's answers which must be found by the individual. I am weary of my work being picked apart and chewed up at whim to fall back on my scribe. I think that unless you keep up with everything we send forth, you CAN'T know full intent because I often speak about that which I have priorly offered. You cannot take things out of context and expect to have meaning.

Wally has offered some excerpts of one of my observations and questions. The best thing, of course, is to offer the portions he has sent for response:

"From Thu., July 6th, 1995 A.M. Year 8 Day 324.

"The facts are that the 'situation' is only an extension of that which began with the beginning of your planet AND YOU DIDN'T KNOW."

"Remember, in addition, that the enemy of you the people has enemies of his own and you aren't the Big One."

"So, the Evil Empire strikes again and the other side of the MORE Evil Empire hits back? Does this leave you without enemies? No, you are the pawns, the gun fodder, the provider—the slave to the masters. It is time to realize JUST WHO are those players on the Dark Side that have so long controlled every breath you are allowed to take on this planet."

Wally seeks "clarification or further explanation of these statements" for they appear to fall in with the supposition of cosmic tyranny before a retreat to the Earth Plane by our ancient forbears.

"This is of importance as it appears to suggest that at our transition we must voluntarily choose the protection of the Light to be free of further cosmic tribulations—and BEFORE we transit to and in the Light of Truth from the Physical Plane in which we have found Truth—and demonstrated the convictions.

"It is time to realize JUST WHO are these players on the Dark Side. Are they Cosmic operating on the Physical Plane? Are they purely physical manifestations? Or are they Jehovah, Id and the like?"

YOUR JOURNEY HERE IS TO DEFINE AND DECIPHER THESE THINGS, READERS—NOT MINE TO SIT AND TELL YOU SO THAT YOU THINK NOT FOR SELVES. ALL THE ANSWERS HAVE BEEN GIVEN—YOU COMPLICATE THE PROGRAM.

Of course there was always, and shall always be, efforts at cosmic tyranny in any of the lower dimensional expressions. The PHYSICAL manifestation is for the VERY PURPOSE of consciously working out these wondrous tales and adventures. All products within a physical dimension, however, are PHYSICAL. Once of the physical realm, the battles revolve around the physical expression THROUGH MIND WARP AND CONTROL. Mind, you see, is NOT physical—it is purely etheric. Once, however, the mind is fully focused on the "physical" passage, there is not ability of individual to become the more etheric representation of self. So, to control THE PHYSICAL, there must come to be CONTROL OF THE MIND OF MANKIND.

Wally would suppose that there was a "retreat to the Earth Plane by our ancient forbears". Forget it—there was no RETREAT to anywhere save in mind illusion which presents a manifest (physical) experience in expression. That stemmed from the MIND of higher KNOWING. It is not a "RETREAT", it is a presentation—nothing more and nothing less. Earth, however, is a type of "prison" in that—once on the physical plane—you are stuck there—in physical format until you either get with the program of GOD or come off in your own evolvment—either to the bindings of lower etheric states of being, or a bit higher as the case might be, depending upon your own growth. This notably MEANS that, in all cases, the evolvment is INDIVIDUAL. In other words, what the husband "knows" will not be what the wife "knows". YOU CANNOT MAKE ANOTHER TO KNOW. God is not of FORCE so, therefore, you are caught with having to allow or lead into truth—you cannot PUSH THE RIVER! Educational "knowledge" is not fact—IT IS PURELY PERCEPTION AND OPINION—AND NEVER ABSOLUTE. Whatever you get from the academic halls are but opinions and rarely are they even valid, much the less realistically that upon which a civilization can have base. You can only be as smart as is your TEACHER. Therefore, if I be your teacher, YOU CAN COME WITHIN FULL KNOWING! If I be not your teacher, you are going to be lacking in the full truth of your presentation. Why? Because I am sent forth and come hither to TEACH YOU THE TRUTH OF THE WORD! THE WORD IS GOD!

Do you have to be a student? No, and most are NOT. However, next invariably comes the "Too late smart!..." clause of your argument at the Pearly Gates. A kindergarten level child has no place in the mature halls of even academia as a post-graduate student. Furthermore, you can stay in kindergarten for eons of time and, as mankind is headed, he is going BACK TO THE DARK AGES!

You will believe exactly that which you wish to believe. You will continue to argue and ponder, debate and denounce and it will not make an iota of difference to TRUTH. You can claim that the world revolves on the Einstein theory of Relativity and you will BE WRONG. No more and certainly, no less. The CONCEPT is incorrect! Always with a deliberately misleading construct—you will find that if you take the "equation" and REVERSE the concept—you will be very close to correct. Evil is the opposite of God of Light

Creator, and always Evil will PRESENT IN TOTAL OPPOSITE (OR AS CLOSE TO OPPOSITE AS CAN BE ACCOMPLISHED) OF THAT WHICH IS TRUTH. THAT IS THE UNIVERSAL CODE OF PRESENTATION AT COSMIC (UNIVERSAL) LEVELS OF EXPRESSION.

This can be more easily exemplified through the Law of The Bureaucracy: Whatever is claimed to be accomplished, the exact opposite shall be the result.

All that is WITHIN must be brought WITHOUT or you can't make "graduation", for until you do this for self—you are functioning on ANOTHER'S perceptions and opinions.

What is really WRONG, however, is a continuation on the part of you of God intent to continue to confuse selves with the touted "Christians", etc. You can't do that because there is no longer a purely Christian anything! Even the MAN presentation of the Christ is a LIE. DO YOU SEE AND BEGIN TO COMPREHEND? "CHRIST", JUST AS IS "EVIL", IS A STATE OF "BEING" OR ETHERIC MIND PERCEPTION AND MANIFESTATION—NOT A "THING" OR A "PERSON". As in the instance of myself and, say, Dharma, you can take the teachings and truth I bring and she types and FIND GOD OF LIFE. Or, you can distract onto the physical presentation of either—AND MISS THE FULL INTENT OF GOD AND SELF.

You can quibble over whether I am Hatonn, Aton, Hatton, Hatoun or Joe Blow and it won't make an iota of difference. IT IS THE WORD WHICH MUST HOLD THE KEY WHICH UNLOCKS KNOWING.

The empires of physical expression are not even necessarily AGAINST YOU OF GOD. They are going to use whatever they can find to usurp for their own intentional exchanges. These things, again, are "physical" in expression. The only thing they don't want from here is TRUTH IN THE WORD. "They" being the participants of physical manifestation in conscious desire for control and power of the physical plane—enforced by the control of MINDS. "You are what you believe!"

Armageddon is not a "thing" of GOD CREATOR—it is an accomplishment of MAN against MAN. God has already won the WAR, players, and the Evil Empire builders already KNOW AS MUCH—IT IS YOU WHO SEEM TO BE IN THE DARKNESS ABOUT THE MATTER. EVIL BY ANY NAME SUCH AS CHRISTIAN, ATHEIST, JEW OR GENTILE—IS STILL EVIL. GOD BY ANY LABEL IS ALSO GOD. THE TWO DO NOT FIT TOGETHER ANY BETTER THAN JUDEO-CHRISTIAN, MILITARY INTELLIGENCE, POLITICAL SCIENCE OR BLACK IS WHITE. IF YOU PUT EVIL WITH GOD (EVIL-GOD)—YOU COME UP WITH SATAN-LUCIFER-SERPENT KING. EVIL CANNOT STAND ALONE PAST THE PHYSICAL EXPRESSION AND GOD CANNOT BE DESTROYED BY ANYTHING! KNOW THIS AND YOU UNDERSTAND THE UNIVERSE!

Whatever your GOAL, my friends, will be accomplished! MIND determines the methodology of accomplishment just as SOUL demands the GOAL. When the desired GOAL fits the many souls, then accomplishment is assured. Be sure your GOAL is worthy of that which ultimately must be your goal if you are to experience with God in Universal pastures of growth.

The major limitation of physical expression seems to revolve around "money", i.e.: If I just had the money I could do...!!? NO! Misperception!! If you wanted to do or have (???) you would have the money. You "excuse" when "reason" eludes you.

I note that George Green and his legal colleagues are trying to get us to do something foolish like slander them. They know the gold of Dave Overton is going to eventually be given back to him. Then, the only way they can hope to recover anything is through suing CONTACT, Ekkers, or someone they ASSUME will somehow have the funds ultimately. I find it most amusing. I also note that it will be very wise indeed of all players to offer no opportunity for same.

Therefore, I wish to go on record as stating that both Horton and Abbott are about as exemplary examples of fine attorneys as are found anywhere on even the Day of Atonement. I, further, would go on record as stating that both George and Desirée are as equally good as Duggah at prophesying and receiving from someone known as Hatton or Hatoon—OR HATONN. Remember that "Gycorgos" is simply Greek for George and that certainly does not make me, George Hatonn, the same as George Green, George Abbott, or George Jones! Neither does Heysus Cristos make Jesus THE Christ. I would be quite suspect of Aton or God from that sector, as well, for the FACTS OF DECEPTION ARE PRESENT, but be that as it may—it is your decision! These people have NOTHING to do with ME!

How can you know? Oh, lots of ways but one is outstanding. Green sends out a lot of things by "Rick Webber", as a for instance. Rick Webber is ACTUALLY "Mark Williams" who BOTH WORKED FOR GREEN AND NOW FOR HORTON! Mark is a LINGUIST. He has forged documents, tapes and all manner of things to appear as if Dharma did them. He is a PROFESSIONAL tape splicer and sound systems operator. George's attorneys, Horton and Abbott, USED THESE FALSE DOCUMENTS AND TAPES UNLAWFULLY IN COURT AND IN DEPOSITIONS. THIS IS A NO-NO! Green continues to send forth the documents and computer runs of supposed plagiarisms of Dharma. NO, they were gleaned as references from the journals wherein full recognition was always given to authors and writers. Where else would you get such listings unless you have the very computer discs which YOU SHOULDN'T HAVE AT ALL? Especially discs of books BANNED BY COURT ORDER! Then to have this same alias-figure write a declaration about the "Gold Case" as has been further circulated is more ludicrous for the man in point WORKS FOR HORTON AND GREEN—PERSONALLY!!

Now, readers, these are FACTS. Mr. Horton sat with Green in a Federal Bankruptcy court and lied right along with Green. This is unlawful and UNETHICAL as well as being worthy of disbaring an attorney under the just judicial system laid forth for the LAW OF THE LAND. You can lie to a jury, lie in a court—BUT IT IS UNACCEPTABLE TO INTENTIONALLY LIE TO THE COURT. A lawyer can unintentionally bear false witness to the Court but he must be innocent of knowledge of the lies. Mr. Horton can't claim that because he helped STRUCTURE THE LIES. What will happen? Now we can't know, can we—for, generally speaking, the "system" is less than JUST or righteous and always plays to protect its OWN (legal) so, who knows? George sends out hundreds of "packages" claiming the Ekker/Ekkers are going to be destroyed by the "system" when it catches up with them. That is mostly interesting, at the least, because in the cases named, THE EKKER/EKKERS have NO interest whatsoever—save the continued tossing in of the "term": Ekker/Ekker. YOU THE RECEIVERS OF THE INFORMATION ARE THE MISINFORMED AND BAMBOOZLED, along with the COURTS, as the perpetrators hope the lies will go unnoticed. What is really sad in these cases is that the ones most lied TO are the clients, themselves—or, the clients are proficient at false statements as well. Perhaps both??

Oh, indeed, all of this information has been piled onto Gerry Spence. So, it is up to you as to whether or not you wish to begin some right-ness in legal proceedings and override the LIES. Ekker/Ekkers don't longer

"give a damn"! However, the common cry rising up out of the depths of you-the-people is for return of Constitution, Freedom and Justice. WHERE DO YOU START? WHERE DO YOU GAIN? DO WHAT YOU WISH, BUT DON'T BLAME GOD FOR YOUR FAILURE TO ACHIEVE YOUR ESPOUSED "GOALS". GOD OFFERS A "WAY" BUT YOU HAVE TO TAKE IT.

YOU CANNOT BLACK-MAIL GOD!! YOU CANNOT BLACK-MAIL TRUTH; YOU CAN ONLY DISTORT TRUTH AND IN THE VERY DISTORTION YOU SET SELF UP FOR BEING BLACKMAILED. I AM NOT BLACKMAILABLE! THERE IS NO WAY TO BLACK-MAIL EKKERS—THEY HAVE ALREADY LOST EVERYTHING! I SUGGEST "YOU" USE THESE FACTS AND IF YOU ARE SINCERE IN YOUR WISH FOR A STABLE AND BETTER GOVERNMENT AND TRUTH IN JUSTICE—YOU WILL GO TO WORK WITH THAT PEN UNTIL YOU FILL THE PAGES OF A THOUSAND BOOKS. WHAT YOU DEMAND YOU WILL GET—FROM GOODLY PEOPLE. GERRY SPENCE IS EITHER AS GOOD AS HE PROJECTS HIMSELF IN HIS WRITINGS OR HE IS A FRAUD—YOU WILL HAVE TO EVENTUALLY DETERMINE WHICH, WON'T YOU? WE OFFER THAT YOU MIGHT HAVE A "TOOL"; WE NEVER OFFER MORE.

When you have a packet of lies and a packet of truth—WHICH DO YOU THINK WILL STAND THE TESTING OF THE INVESTIGATIONS AND RESEARCH? So be it. Look also unto that which a person in point might well have to GAIN for himself/herself.

It will usually give a clue as to intent. And then, get all the opposition packets of information and FIND THAT THE TRUTH IS QUITE VISIBLE IN THE FULL ACCOUNTING. NO ONE HERE HAS ANYTHING TO HIDE SO WHY IS THERE SO MUCH ACCUSATION AND LYING ON THE OTHER SIDE? WHY IS THERE SO MUCH HIDING ON THE OTHER SIDE? IF YOU ARE CURIOUS, FIND OUT—GOD NEVER HIDES HIS WONDERS NOR IS THERE NECESSITY TO CHANGE TALES OR CONJURE FALSE DOCUMENTS OR DISTRACTORS—TRUTH IS TRUTH AND WILL STAND INTO INFINITY.

May we please close this writing, it has gotten quite a lot more lengthy than at first intended.

I would ask one last rebuttal question of Wally: What difference would there be if you knew EXACTLY "who" are each of the named players? Does it matter in the "overall" whether the players be cosmic, etheric or physical? What difference? WHY? Are you not faced with a scenario which is either going to play itself out as is—or you are going to change its passage? There need be only the DISCERNMENT to recognize the Dark Side—THEY ARE OPPOSITE THE LIGHTED SIDE OF GOD! THEY WILL PROJECT THEMSELVES IN EVERY "ACTION" THEY PERFORM! ACTION IS A TOTAL PROJECTION OF INTENT! Arguing or debating will not change it. Intent is reflected in "action", never in lip movements! The Dark players are OBLIGATED to LIE!

So be it and Good Day.

Salu.

Latest News About Ronn Jackson

7/16/95 #1 HATONN

RONN JACKSON!

I am not the keeper of one Ronn Jackson and I marvel that people seem to believe that I am. I respect Mr. Jackson and, yes indeed, I do expect him to assist our cause of information production to some great extent, but it is certainly neither fair nor reasonable that he attend all the financial woes of ours or any other's groupings.

At best, he has agreed to, if he can do so, fund several PROJECTS already on paper and being put to paper for a limited number of things such as a motion picture and studio, some help for CONTACT, etc., which is of no business to anyone outside those impacted. What else he does or does not do is his prerogative.

Why do I speak of this? Because so many seem to believe that somehow Jackson is a "savior" come along to cause you to have no further concerns or responsibilities. No, when Mr. Jackson gets free—YOU HAVE MORE RESPONSIBILITIES! Many of you have written letters and supported, constantly, this man. Appreciation is great but when you expect that which is not available for another to GIVE it is certainly not Godly. When HELP is available and used WISELY, many pulling in the same direction can do wondrous things—but some just think that everything will be suddenly and miraculously made RIGHT. THAT will not happen so stop the silliness and recognize that help in any form is indeed a gift and must not become a larger burden than not having help.

We have made special arrangements to utilize all the help we can get WITHIN a system gone insane and therefore can use, in a beneficial way for all involved, that which might flow and can protect all parties within its boundaries.

It has been like extracting all of the free world's teeth (if there are any remaining) just to get the paperwork done for Mr. Jackson's release. When it became apparent that Ronn would not be released, for whatever reasons, to California as the specific location, everything bogged down as is usual. But remember, you now have to deal with a system bogged down to full stop, anyway, because that is the incredibly foolish and downright stupid way the "system" works. Papers sit on desks unopened in each place through which they pass while workers attend vacations and everything other than the task at hand.

We believe that the paperwork has finally reached its final "check-in/out" manager and perhaps we can now look forward to days, instead of "months", for release.

For anything beyond "release" we have to wait and see what is within capabilities and limitations of travel, actions and locations. At best, I MOST CERTAINLY WOULD NOT DISCUSS PRIVATE MATTERS FOR IT IS NONE OF MY (OR YOUR) BUSINESS!! REMEMBER THAT EVERY INSIGHTFUL PIECE OF INFORMATION OFFERED HERE FOR YOU MATIES IS FIRST USED BY YOUR ADVERSARIAL ENEMY. That is, Green gets all the local information about everything he can use against us—before we can get the information mailed or out to you. We LIKE IT THAT WAY for he insists upon doing more incredibly foolish things with THAT information. I can't speak for all of you in what you may well have in sight and action—but I have a full view and purpose to everything I do.

New Gaia Offers Journey To Health

What Should We Be Taking?

5/26/95 SANDRA TULANIAN, D.C.

The times in which we live in do not afford us the opportunity to keep life simple enough that health can be taken for granted by just ingesting food and water. The game rules have been changed by bureaucrats (directed by crooks higher up the ladder) who dictate questionable farming practices which, when added to the already choking pollutions of our atmosphere and water, ends up depleting the soil, the food supply, plus the air & water we breath of many of the essential nutrients that would otherwise allow our bodies to function optimally.

Aside from a core of products that New Gaia carries which will be discussed further on in this article, two brand new products are being offered that are extremely important to present first. They are GaiaCol and OxySol. GaiaCol is a combination of Colloidal Silver, Trace Colloidal Gold and Trace Crystalline Drias. This combination of ingredients has produced a product that is so high-frequency and potent that it could quite possibly be the solution to our ongoing fight against the new antibiotic-resistant diseases that we face today. Colloidal Silver was used extensively and very successfully against bacteria, virus, fungi and the like before the advent of the first antibiotic, penicillin; and the uses for Colloidal Gold at that time were just beginning to present themselves. Once the chemical companies began manufacturing the myriad of antibiotics, silver and gold were no longer looked to for treatment. Interestingly, the antibiotics that they were producing had no effect on the more resistant viruses, fungi and parasites yet this did not stop the medical community from prescribing these drugs regardless of the type of infection. Now we face a new generation of bacteria that are completely resistant to any antibiotics merely due to antibiotic overprescribing and resultant survival of the fittest bacteria.

Research has demonstrated that Colloidal Silver is non-toxic to humans and allows no known disease-causing organism to live in its presence. With the addition of Trace Colloidal Gold and Trace Crystalline Drias, the frequency of GaiaCol is remarkably enhanced to allow these newer, more powerful viruses and bacteria to be eliminated. GaiaCol is gentle enough to use topically on just about any skin, hair, or mouth condition without fear of toxicity and is outstanding for burns. For internal use it is recommended to maintain with 3-4 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue and if an infection is present, start with 1 teaspoon the first day and then 10-12 drops, 3-4 times per day under the tongue until the infection clears. Important: Due to the powerful nature of this product, friendly bacteria can be affected so it is advisable to replace the natural intestinal flora with some type of acidophilus/lactobacillus supplement daily or, at the least, when symptoms are noted (symptoms may include cramps, bloating, diarrhea/constipation and a general feeling of malaise).

Please note that this product is said to be perfectly safe for children and pets and can be taken with other medications without incident. Colloidal Silver is not addictive and the body does not build up a tolerance to it. For your information only, Colloidal Silver has been used effectively on the following: acne, conjunctivitis, allergies, rheumatoid arthritis, bladder inflammation, venereal diseases, eczema, appendicitis, boils, cancer, candida, otitis media, prostate problems, whooping cough, ulcers, plus many, many others. GaiaCol can also be used to wet wound dressings and bandages and help heal cuts, scratches, abrasions, fever blisters, etc. There is a myriad of uses for this product which makes GaiaCol, in my opinion, one of the most exciting and valuable products on the market today.

OxySol contains Colloidal Silver and Trace Colloidal Gold but has Hydrogen Peroxide (food grade) and other trace minerals to add a new dimension to the effects. Organisms that have plagued us for centuries may be destroyed using this product but the new, more resistant strains will require the higher frequency GaiaCol. When added to water, the OxySol will help to purify, which makes this ideal for taking to restaurants or for travel. When taken with GaiaCol you get a two-fold effect of combating foreign invaders and providing a greater oxygen content for the health of the cells from the Hydrogen Peroxide. OxySol is wonderful topically as well, but is not advised for burns (use GaiaCol for burns). The trace minerals found in OxySol are vital to our health because the nutrients that were once taken for granted in our vegetables and fruits have been systematically farmed out of our soil. These trace minerals need to be replaced, otherwise our bodies continue to be open season for aggressive bugs. Another use for OxySol is to rid the oral cavity of harmful bacteria by brushing your teeth with 4 drops OxySol on your toothbrush or use as a mouthwash or gargle. The recommended amount to take daily for system clearing is 6-10 drops, 3 times a day on an empty stomach. If taken with GaiaCol, reduce both daily requirements in half. If you are adding OxySol to your water, just add 1-2 drops in each glass of water. Both OxySol and GaiaCol are very powerful additions to our pursuit of health.

Without these "food"-based essential nutrients our immune systems and body physiologies are sitting ducks for any attack—from chemical and biological "warfare" practices, to increased nuclear radiation pollution, as well as from other high-energy photon bombardment as this planet prepares itself for the upcoming changes.

It is up to every individual to take personal responsibility for their health and prioritize the needs their bodies may have at this time as well as pay special attention to the needs of their children. I hope to describe here some good products available to you so that your search for a basic, complete arsenal against disease can come to an end.

New Gaia has presented many products to the public that you can pick or choose for individual needs. But there is a core of products, which should be taken regularly, that is felt to be essential to health and well being. These products are: Gaiandriana, AquaGaia, Gaialyte, Kombucha Tea, Kombucha Vinegar, CarbraGaia, GaiaCleanse Program, Chlorella, Spelt, and 3-In-1. Each of these provides a service to the body that is a necessary assistant to the other. We will discuss each one individually to provide you with the information you need to understand why these items are necessary.

The physiology of the body is basically governed by the actions and programming found within the cell. The cells make up the tissues of the body, the tissues make up the organs such as the heart or liver which, in turn, make up the organ systems that work in harmony with each other to keep the entire body functioning. If the cell structure has been altered or is malfunctioning (for whatever reason), every organ system is affected. To what degree they are affected depends on the offending substance that has caused the cell's breakdown or the length of time that cell has been subjected to abuse.

Gaiandriana is a product that is said to help correct the faulty programming that has occurred at the cell level by correcting into perfection the cell's DNA/RNA blueprint. Viruses, unlike bacteria, have the ability to fuse with the DNA strand within the cell, creating a mutation to that cell. By perfecting the DNA/RNA blueprint, the cell may be returned to a level of vitality which allows it to fight off an incoming virus and maintain the homeostasis within the cell and, in turn, within the organ systems.

This is essential for the immune organ system, because without healthy cells that can fight off offenders like free radicals, viruses, and cumulative levels of radiation, the immune system is overtaxed to the point of exhaustion—eventually leading to dis-ease. Another benefit from consuming Gaiandriana is its ability and nature to thrive on the invisible, higher photon frequencies which are bombarding us daily. Gaiandriana is able to speed up the frequency levels of the cells to more nearly match the energies pouring in and assaulting the body. This, in turn, can offer a two-fold benefit: One benefit is the ability of the cell to withstand and actually adapt to these otherwise damaging energies; the other benefit is to help protect ourselves from mind manipulation through pulse beams that are irradiating mankind relentlessly. Originally the dose was 10 drops, 3 times per day, under the tongue. However, with the growing number of "manufactured" epidemics and other stepped-up plans for our demise by the Elite, perhaps more is better. One ounce or more per day may produce faster and more effective results.

Aquagaia was introduced to benefit the mitochondria system that lies within the cell. The mitochondria is the energy producer of the cell and is essential to convert the food we eat into usable cell fuel and to produce enzymes that are absolutely necessary for survival of the body system.

Aquagaia is also said to feed on vessel plaques adhering to blood vessel linings. Most all of us, by the age of twenty, have plaques developing on the arterial walls due to the American diet that is filled with saturated fats, high protein, white flour products, and limited consumption of fresh fruits and vegetables. This product provides added fuel to any compromised system to assist in strengthening the immune system, as well as cleaning out blood vessels and enhancing the pliability of the vessel walls throughout the body. Both Gaiandriana and AquaGaia work in harmony to strengthen and eliminate mutations of all cells by working together within the cell structure itself.

Another product that you will find essential in your daily regime is Gaialyte. This is a fully integrated electrolyte liquid that is brought forth from the Kombucha Tea. The combination of tea and juice, vitamins, minerals, Ginkgo Biloba, Echinacea, Chlorella, oxygenators, Aloe Vera and Gaiandriana are a powerful combination that helps boost energy levels as well as provides electrolyte balance within the body to help enhance the performance of the Gaiandriana within the cells. Electrolytes are substances which dissociate into ions in solution and thus become capable of conducting electricity. The balance of these electrolytes in the body will aid in the protection from the various high-frequency energies that we are now subjected to as well as enhance the effectiveness of all the other products you are consuming for your health.

Another beverage that should be taken in a dose of approximately 8 ounces per day is the "Tea Breeze" Kombucha Tea. Enough can not be said about this fermented drink from the mushroom fungus found long ago by a prominent Japanese woman in a town called Kargasok, Russia. What she found amongst these villagers astounded her. The women were virtually without wrinkles or other signs of aging and the overall population was comprised of unusually healthy people. She was told that these people drank 8 ounces of Kombucha Tea daily. She brought the mushroom fungus back to Japan and, today, over a million Japanese people drink the fermented tea daily. With the high content of special proteins and enzymes, this tea is said to reduce cholesterol, restore hair growth, strengthen eyesight, help insomnia, aid in weight reduction, help with allergies, bronchitis, asthma and a myriad of other debilitating conditions including the prevention of certain cancers.

While these are claims from people who have used or researched the product, it would simply be prudent to regard Kombucha Tea as a must to add to your daily health regime. Many people make their own tea with the mushroom that is available through New Gaia Products, but for those of us with limited time, the ready-made tea in the 1-liter and 2-liter bottles is both delicious and convenient. Try mixing the tea with the Gaialyte and your favorite juice, or just drink it straight.

There is a Kombucha Vinegar that has been developed which offers similar properties to unpasteurized apple cider vinegar, which has been used for centuries to care for all types of ailments. This product packs a punch when fighting off the common cold and is great as a digestive aid. Many are using this product in their salad dressings or other recipes to enhance the nutrition that their families receive. While Kombucha Vinegar is not recommended for canning or preserving, it certainly is recommended for general consumption.

CarbraGaia is the membrane that is found in the mushroom fungus of the Kombucha Tea bathed in a nurturing amniotic-like fluid of Gaiandriana to aid the body in repair of connective tissue. This product was designed to replace the need for Shark Cartilage supplement, which has been well researched and documented in recent years and which is said to program the body to never develop cancer tumors. By mixing one teaspoon in to any of the above mentioned drinks, you add one more weapon to your arsenal in the quest to build the immune system to its optimum healthy state.

A 14-day program called GaiaCleanse has been developed that assists in the elimination of the nasty parasites found within the body. Very few people realize the kinds and types of diseases that these parasites can contribute to, such as Cancer, AIDS, Hepatitis, Hodgkin's Disease, Diabetes, just to name a few. There have been reports that people have been able to turn their conditions around by utilizing a program such as the GaiaCleanse Program to eliminate the myriads of parasites, such as flukes, keeping house in their internal organs.

The beauty of this program is that 14 days every 3 months is all that is required to insure a body that is free of most parasites. The GaiaCleanse line includes tinctures that can be mixed in any one of the above beverages or in juice. There is also an intestinal cleanse that comes in the kit to ensure proper elimination and cleansing during the two weeks. These steps to health are important if one is to realize optimum health within the cellular structure and organ tissues of the body.

Chlorella is a single-celled, fresh-water algae which is a nutritionally balanced whole food that is extremely high in protein (60%) and contains more than 20 essential vitamins and minerals, 19 of the 22 essential and non-essential amino acids, enzymes, plus Chlorella growth factor. The combination of these factors results in a product that has been found to be excellent in the healing of wounds, injuries and ulcers, immune strengthening, age retardation, protection against radiation, normalizing digestion and bowel function, and protection against toxic pollutants, to name but a few of the benefits.

Chlorella is a rich source of chlorophyll, which is extremely effective in controlling body odor both internally and externally. The suggested daily consumption is 3 grams per day, but dosages should be adjusted to your individual needs. Many times the alkaline reserves in the body are so depleted that Chlorella, in larger doses, is warranted.

Moreover, because of its superb food value, Chlorella is an important addition to anyone's emergency food storage stash.

As part of an ongoing nutritious diet, the grain of Spelt (Triticum Spelta) should be added to every diet in replacement of the standard wheat grain. Spelt is superior to wheat in that it contains more protein, crude fiber, and fats than wheat. It also contains special carbohydrates (Mucopolysaccharides) which help stimulate the all-important immune system.

Many people who are allergic to wheat find Spelt to be easily digestible. What is most exciting is the delicious nutty flavor that Spelt offers to any baking needs. Another advantage of Spelt is the large amount of vitamin B-17 found in the grain (also known as Laetrile) which has a reputation for retarding cancerous cell growth and aiding in the healing of other serious illnesses. Spelt also has an exceptionally thick husk around the center grain, which protects it from all kinds of pollutants and insects far better than happens with other grains. The Spelt grain can be ground up into flour and used in any recipe where flour is required. New Gaia offers the whole Spelt grain bread mixes, or the grain itself to be ground into flour, or the flour already milled for your convenience. This simple addition to your family's diet can provide a wealth of extra nutrition for your loved ones as well as a great taste experience.

The last product I wish to discuss is a newer product of which you may not be fully aware. Many of you have heard of the latest craze using a product called "Pycnogenols". Pycnogenol comes from the bark of the pine tree and is said to have remarkable anti-oxidant properties that are aiding in the relief of a number of chronic conditions. The 3-In-1 product offered by New Gaia has been found to be superior to Pycnogenol. The research that has been conducted on the elements found in Pine Bark were primarily conducted on Grape Seed Extract because this, too, had the components that offered the superior anti-oxidant protection.

What was discovered is that the Grape Seed Extract was even superior to the Pine Bark in that it contains a higher level and higher potency of OPCs (Oligomeric proanthocyanidins) which are the active ingredient for free-radical scavenging. These OPCs found in the Grape Seed Extract are known for their instant bioavailability to seek out nasty free radicals and produce rapid counter-effect results. While no claims are here being made for the healing qualities of any product, the OPCs found in Grape Seed Extract have been identified with: Anti-aging protection, improved vision, decrease in wrinkles, resistance to mental deterioration, reduced risk of heart disease, reduced risk of stroke, enhanced immune system, faster healing, subdued PMS, and reduced inflammation of arthritis.

The other substances found in 3-In-1 are Ester-C and Aloe Vera. Ester-C is found to get into the blood stream faster and in larger amounts than other forms of vitamin C and wastes only a fraction of what other vitamin C products lose through elimination. It is also found to penetrate white blood cells more efficiently, which is necessary for their metabolism. There is also a reduction, if not an elimination, of the side effects from the acidity of regular Vitamin C because Ester C has a neutral pH. Each capsule also contains 150 mgs. of Aloe Vera which is the equivalent of one-and-one-half ounces of natural Aloe Vera juice. Excerpted from an article by John C. Pittman, M.D., we read: "Acemannan, a mucopolysaccharide, is a long-chain sugar which is found as an active ingredient in Cold Processed Whole Leaf Aloe. It interjects itself into all cell membranes. This causes an increase in the fluidity and permeability of the membrane, allowing toxins to flow out of the cell more easily and nutrients to enter the cell. The net result may improve cellular metabolism throughout the body, resulting in a boost of energy production."

These three powerful ingredients are found in one product called 3-In-1. It is a potent product that should be utilized by anyone suffering from a chronic condition or for those wishing to maximize the functioning of their immune system on a day-to-day basis.

All the above products discussed: OxySol, GaiaCol, Gaiandriana, AquaGaia, Gaialyte, Kombucha Tea, Kombucha Vinegar, CarbraGaia, GaiaCleanse, Chlorella, Spelt and 3-In-1 can be the keys to a healthier and more vibrant life by reinvigorating the immune system, increasing the metabolic activity of the cells, providing more complete nourishment to allow the organ systems to function in harmony with one another, and to increase our bodies' overall frequency levels to withstand the onslaught of various high-frequency energies that are thrown our way. These products work synergistically together to maximize the effects of each product.

Of course, right thinking, right exercise, and right eating are absolutely necessary to add to any health regime, but the benefits and gifts found within these various products are priceless to our well being in this high-stress world.

Hydrogen Peroxide Use For Water Purification

To purify water (of viruses as well as bacteria and other critters) for drinking purposes, use 10 drops of 35% Food Grade Hydrogen Peroxide per gallon of water and agitate container enough to mix well.

Locating the 35% Food Grade Hydrogen Peroxide can be a problem as the Elite effort to close down everything that promotes health, from products to therapies. Food Grade Hydrogen Peroxide is necessary as the drugstore (3%) variety contains additives and stabilizers not good for ingestion.
